Now isn't that interesting? The I.R.C. says you aren't considered an employee as far as payroll deductions unless you are an elected or appointed political officer of the United States in direct receipt of government privileges! And yet, the IRS will vociferously deny that the income tax is an excise tax, which is synonymous with "privilege" tax. This section means the U.S. Government has no authority whatsoever to be telling private employers to withhold pay or hold them liable for not withholding! Even more interesting is the definition of "employee" found in 5 U.S.C. §2105:

TITLE 5 > PART III > Subpart A > CHAPTER 21 > § 2105
2105. Employee

- (a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is -
- (1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity -
- (A) the President;
  - (B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
  - (C) a member of a uniformed service;
  - (D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
  - (E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
  - (F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709(c) of title 32;
- (2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
- (3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

[...skipped a few entries since irrelevant...]

(d) A Reserve of the armed forces who is not on active duty or who is on active duty for training is deemed not an employee or an individual holding an office of trust or profit or discharging an official function under or in connection with the United States because of his appointment, oath, or status, or any duties or functions performed or pay or allowances received in that capacity.

Another very interesting insight comes from 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1, which states:

(c) Generally, physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, contractors, subcontractors, public stenographers, auctioneers, and others who follow an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are not employees.

Basically then, you aren't a "federal employee" unless you work in the District of Columbia (the proper United States) or were appointed by the delegated authority of an elected official. Any other situation implies that you are practicing a business trade or profession that does not depend on the privileges incident to political office. (Rather twisted logic, isn't all of this!.. that's the way lawyers like it because that's where they get their job security from....COMPLEX LAWS!) Once again, the key to understanding this situation is to recognize that the jurisdiction of the government to tax results from the acceptance of government privileges in exchange for consent to waive one's rights to not pay taxes.

3.9.1.5 "Employer" (in 26 U.S.C. §3401 (d))

Employer

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employer" means the person for whom an individual performs or performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person, except that -

(1) if the person for whom the individual performs or performed the services does not have control of the payment of the wages for such services, the term "employer" (except for purposes of subsection (a)) means the person having control of the payment of such wages, and

(2) in the case of a person paying wages on behalf of a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, the term "employer" (except for purposes of subsection (a)) means such person.

You will note that because of the definition of "employee" listed in the previous section and in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), which indicated that an employee is actually "an officer, elected official, or employee of the United States" (e.g. an elected or appointed federal official), then an employer by definition is a federal government agency. Of course the government has jurisdiction over itself to require such "employers" to withhold income on "nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS" (public officers) with U.S.** (government) source income under 26 U.S.C. §1441(a), but they don't have such jurisdiction over private employers in the 50 Union states who are not resident inside the federal zone.

3.9.1.6 "Foreign corporation" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(5))

The term "foreign" when applied to a corporation or partnership means a corporation or partnership which is not domestic.

Did you notice they didn't define the term "foreign" or "domestic" from the perspective of "income" or from the perspective of persons or individuals? The reason is because as far as the federal law is concerned, we are all statutory "non-resident non-persons" and nationals but not statutory citizens of a legislative foreign political jurisdictions, which are the states of the Union. This is very important when you consider the "source" rules in section 861 of the code and when they use the term "foreign" or "domestic" in the context of those rule.

Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state. In conflicts of law, the legal principles of jurisprudence which are part of the law of a sister state or nation. Foreign laws are additions to our own laws, and in that respect are called 'jus receptum'."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]

Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."

3.9.1.7 "Gross Income" (26 U.S.C. §61)

) "Gross income" is specifically defined in 26 U.S.C. §61 as follows:

Sec. 61. Gross income defined

(a) General definition

Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

(1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;

(2) Gross income derived from business;

(3) Gains derived from dealings in property;

(4) Interest;

(5) Rents;

(6) Royalties;

(7) Dividends;

(8) Alimony and separate maintenance payments;

(9) Annuities;

(10) Income from life insurance and endowment contracts;

(11) Pensions;

(12) Income from discharge of indebtedness;

(13) Distributive share of partnership gross income;

(14) Income in respect of a decedent; and

(15) Income from an interest in an estate or trust.

The items above are referred to as “items of gross income”. The above list would appear to be all inclusive, and because it is, this is usually the first place the IRS will start during an audit as a way to try to deceive you and the jury into believing that everything you make is taxable. However, keep in mind that:

1. The U.S. Supreme Court has said that Subtitle A of the I.R.C. is not a tax on everything you make

Southern Pacific Co., v. Lowe, [247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

2. The U.S. Supreme Court has said that Subtitle A of the I.R.C. is a tax upon “income” as constitutionally defined, which the U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly said is corporate profit connected with excise taxable activities.

“The Sixteenth Amendment declares that Congress shall have power to levy and collect taxes on income, ‘from [271 U.S. 174] whatever source derived,’ without apportionment among the several states and without regard to any census or enumeration. It was not the purpose or effect of that amendment to bring any new subject within the taxing power. Congress already had power to tax all incomes. But taxes on incomes from some sources had been held to be ‘direct taxes’ within the meaning of the constitutional requirement as to apportionment. Art. I, §2, cl. 3, §9, cl. 4; Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601. The Amendment relieved from that requirement, and obliterated the distinction in that respect between taxes on income that are direct taxes and those that are not, and so put on the same basis all incomes ‘from whatever source derived.’ Brushaber v. Union P. R. Co., 240 U.S. 1, 17. ‘Income’ has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909, in the Sixteenth Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed. Southern Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335; Merchants’ L. & T. Co. v. Smietanka, 255 U.S. 509, 219. After full consideration, this Court declared that income may be defined as gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined, including profit gained through sale or conversion of capital. Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415; Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185; Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207. And that definition has been adhered to and applied repeatedly. See, e.g., Merchants’ L. & T. Co. v. Smietanka, supra; 518; Goodrich v. Edwards, 255 U.S. 527, 535; United States v. Phellis, 257 U.S. 156, 169; Miles v. Safe Deposit Co., 259 U.S. 247, 252-253; United States v. Supplee-Biddle Co., 265 U.S. 189, 194; Irwin v. Gavit, 268 U.S. 161, 167; Edwards v. Cuba Railroad, 268 U.S. 628, 633. In determining what constitutes income, substance rather than form is to be given controlling weight. Eisner v. Macomber, supra, 206. [271 U.S. 175]”
Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., [271 U.S. 170, 174 (1926)]

3. The U.S. Supreme Court has said that Congress cannot legislatively define the term “income” in the context of states of the Union. Only the Constitution can define it. They can only define “income” by legislation inside the federal zone.

“In order, therefore, that the [apportionment] clauses cited from article I [§2, cl. 3 and §9, cl. 4] of the Constitution may have proper force and effect ...[I]t becomes essential to distinguish between what is and what is not 'income,'...according to truth and substance, without regard to form. Congress cannot by any definition it may adopt conclude the matter, since it cannot by legislation alter the Constitution, from which alone, it derives its power to legislate, and within those limitations alone that power can be lawfully exercised... [pg. 207]...After examining dictionaries in common use we find little to add to the succinct definition adopted in two cases arising under the Corporation Tax Act of 1909, Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415, 34 S. Sup. Ct. 136, 140 [58 L. Ed. 285] and Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S. Sup. Ct. 467, 469, 62 L. Ed. 1054..."

4. Congress has in fact legislatively defined "income" within 26 U.S.C. §643, and therefore that definition cannot apply within a state of the Union and only applies within the federal zone and possibly to statutory U.S. citizens abroad pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 and 26 U.S.C. §911.
5. Subtitle A of the I.R.C. taxes two classes of income, which are defined in 26 U.S.C. §871:
  - 5.1. Income connected with a "trade or business" in 26 U.S.C. §871(b). A "trade or business" is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office" and not expanded elsewhere to include any other thing. This is the excise tax upon the privileged taxable activity called a "public office". Only federal instrumentalities, such as employees, public officers, and contractors, can engage in this activity and most Americans do not engage in this activity.
  - 5.2. Income not connected with a "trade or business" in 26 U.S.C. §871(a). This is a tax upon passive income and Social Security from the District of Columbia. It is the equivalent of a state income tax upon earnings from sources within the District of Columbia.
6. The only thing the IRS can lawfully collect tax upon is payments for which an Information Return was filed pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041. These information returns include W-2, 1098, 1099, 1042-S, etc.
7. 26 U.S.C. §6041 only authorizes the filing of information returns in the case of payments connected to an excise taxable activity called a "trade or business", which is a "public office". Anyone not connected with "public office" who is the "victim" of these reports has a duty to:
  - 7.1. Remind the submitter that he is violating the law.
  - 7.2. Prosecute the submitter pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7434 for civil damages in connection with the false information return.
  - 7.3. Send in corrected information returns to the IRS. See: <http://sedm.org/LibertyU/WithngAndRptng.pdf>
8. All information returns are not signed under penalty of perjury. Consequently, they are hearsay reports inadmissible as evidence of a legal obligation. That is why:
  - 8.1. You have to attach them to your tax return and sign the tax return under penalty of perjury: so that they are verified and admissible as evidence.
  - 8.2. The IRS cannot lawfully execute a Substitute For Return based upon them, since they are not evidence.
  - 8.3. You can rebut them if they are false by submitting corrected information returns and thereby remove the presumption that you have a tax liability.

Items that the law includes in "income" are described in code sections listed under the title of "Items Specifically Included in Gross Income", which covers I.R.C. Sections 71 through 86. Nowhere in these sections and nowhere else in the Code is there any mention of wages, salaries, commissions, or tips as being "income". As a matter of fact, "wages" used to be explicitly listed in section 22(a) of the 1939 version of the Internal Revenue Code and was deliberately removed in the 1954 code! Here is what that section said:

"Gross income" includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal services (including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing), of whatever kind..."

Why would Congress eliminate "wages" if they wanted wages to continue to be taxable?

Likewise, to deceive and intimidate waitresses into declaring their tips to be income is a double fraud. First, tips are gifts when earned outside of federal jurisdiction by those humans who do not file a W-4 with the employer. They are also not truthfully classified as STATUTORY "wages" without the W-4 on file. According to the IRC, gifts are not subject to income tax. In fact, even if tips were considered to be wages, they would still not be "income" and would not be subject to an income

3.9.1.8 "Includes" and "Including" (26 U.S.C. §7701 (c))

The word "include" and "includes" are important words in the Internal Revenue Code, since they are used in the definitions of the following important words:

Table 3-6: Words depending on the definition of "includes"

| Term         | Where defined                                                                                                  |

| "United States"     | 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)                                                                                 |

The Internal Revenue Service wants you to believe that the Tax Code covers everything that is listed in the Code, and can be expanded to involve anything else they may decide upon at any later date without the need to rewrite the law! Look at the "definition" written in the Internal Revenue Code:

"Sec. 7701(c) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING. - The terms 'include' and 'including' when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined."

This would, at first glance, seem to say that these words are used in the Code in an expansive way, not a limiting way. (However, if you carefully analyze this "definition," you discover that it is a classic example of "double-talk." It really doesn't say ANYTHING!) But, going along with their game, if you are supposed to believe that these words are expansive in nature, how can you explain the definition for "GROSS INCOME" as stated in the Code?

"SEC. 61(a) GENERAL DEFINITION. - Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items..." [Emphasis added]

Why did they feel compelled to add "(but not limited to)?" The answer is self-evident: they knew that "including" is a LIMITING term! The reason they included this phrase also has to do with a rule of statutory construction documented in a book entitled Federal Tax Research: Guide to Materials and Techniques, Fifth Edition, Gail Levin Richmond, 1997, ISBN 1-56662-457-6 on page 40:

*"expressio unius, exclusio alterius"—if one or more items is specifically listed, omitted items are purposely excluded. Becker v. United States, 451 U.S. 1306 (1981)
[Federal Tax Research: Guide to Materials and Techniques, Fifth Edition, Gail Levin Richmond, 1997, ISBN 1-56662-457-6, p. 40]*

If our deceitful lawmakers wanted to have the flexibility to contend that items other than those itemized in the Code could be added to the definition of Gross Income, they had to specifically reserve the right to add other things - hence the addition of "(but not limited to)."

You need to understand that the words "include" and "includes," when used in the Tax Code, DO NOT mean that other things can be included or added arbitrarily, but rather the definition is limited to the items specifically listed in the law. The Treasury definition of includes published in the Federal Register confirms this:

"(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace... (2) To enclose within; contain; confine... But granting that the word 'including' is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language... The word 'including' is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising; comprehending; embracing."

1           "Includes is a word of limitation. Where a general term in Statute is followed by the word, 'including' the primary
 2 import of the specific words following the quoted words is to indicate restriction rather than enlargement. Powers
 3 ex re. Covon v. Charron R.I., 135 A. 2nd 829, 832 Definitions-Words and Phrases pages 156-156, Words and 4 Phrases under 'limitations'."

5           [Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65]

6 Treasury Decision No. 3980, Vol. 29, January-December 1927, and some 80 court cases have also adopted the restrictive
 7 meaning of these terms.

8 As you probably know, Black's Law Dictionary is the Bible of legal definitions. See what it says:

9           "Include. (Lat. Includere, to shut in. keep within.) To confine within, hold as an inclosure. Take in, attain, shut
 10 up, contain, inclose, comprise, comprehend, embrace, involve. Term may, according to context, express an 11 enlargement and have the meaning of and or in addition to, or merely specify a particular thing already included
 12 within general words theretofore used. "Including" within statute is interpreted as a word of enlargement or of 13 illustrative application as well as a word of limitation. Premier Products Co. v. Cameron, 240 Or. 123, 400 P.2d.
 14 227, 228."

15           [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 763]

16 In other words, according to Black, when INCLUDE is used it expands to take in all of the items stipulated or listed, but is 17 then limited to them!

18 Further, Bouvier's Law Dictionary (written by the U.S. Supreme Court Justice with the same name) has the following
 19 definitions:

20           "INCLUDE (Lat. in claudere to shut in, keep within). In a legacy of 'one hundred dollars including money trusted'
 21 at a bank, it was held that the word 'including' extended only to a gift of one hundred dollars; 132 Mass. 218..."

22           "INCLUDING. The words 'and including' following a description do not necessarily mean 'in addition to,' but 23 may refer to a part of the thing described. 221 U.S. 425."

24           [Bouvier's Law Dictionary, Justice John Bouvier, 1856; SOURCE:
 25 <https://famguardian.org/Publications/Bowiers/bowier.htm>]

26 And, in everyday life, the meaning of these words is a RESTRICTIVE one, not an EXPANSIVE one.

27 Read the American College Dictionary:

28           "include, v.f.;-cluded, -cluding. 1. to contain, embrace, or comprise, as a whole does parts or any part or 29 element."

30           "included, adj. 1. enclosed; embraced; comprised. 2. But. not projecting beyond the mouth of the corolla, as 31 stamens or a style."

32 Note that here, even the Botanical meaning is a confining use! Now, Roget's Thesaurus:

33           "include, v.f. comprise, comprehend, contain, admit, embrace, receive; enclose, circumscribe, compose,
 34 incorporate, encompass; recon or number among, count in; refer to, place under, take into account."
 35           [Roget's Thesaurus]

36 So, when you see "including" or "includes," whether in normal usage or in the Internal Revenue Code, understand that it is 37 limited to the items listed and spelled out in the Law and nothing more. This must be so because the expansive use of the 38 word "includes" and "including" violates our Fifth Amendment due process protections as shown below in the U.S. Supreme 39 Court case of Connally v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926) :

40           "A statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of common 41 intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application, violates the first essential of 42 due process of law."

43           [Connally v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926) ]

1 If the act doesn't specifically identify what is forbidden or "included" and we have to rely not on the law, but some judge or
 2 lawyer or politician or a guess to describe what is "included", then our due process has been violated and our government
 3 has thereby instantly been transformed from a government of laws to a government of men.

4 The concept of "due process of law" as it is embodied in Fifth Amendment demands that a law shall not be
 5 unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious and that the means selected shall have a reasonable and substantial
 6 relation to the object being sought.
 7 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500, under the definition of "due process of law"]

8 If the word "includes" is used in its expansive sense, we have, in effect, subjected ourselves to the arbitrary whims of however
 9 the currently elected politician or judge wants to describe what is "included". That leads to massive chaos, injustice, and 10 unconstitutional behavior by our courts and our elected representatives. It also promotes unnecessary litigation over the 11 meaning of the tax code, to the benefit of lawyers, lawmakers, and the American Bar Association, which is a clear conflict 12 of interest.

13 Why did the Congress define "include" the way they did? Because that way they can define and interpret the Internal Revenue
 14 Code however they want! They needed to leave wiggle room for the IRS and the Treasury in the writing of the interpreting 15 regulations. In particular, the interpreting regulations in 26 C.F.R. have a much broader definition of "employer" and 16 "employee" that is not consistent with the U.S. Code section 7701 and 3401, so they had to leave room for the IRS to defend 17 their interpretation of the code by saying:

18 "The code does not define or limit everything that is taxable because the word 'include' is not restrictive, and so
 19 we can write our regulations however we want to and disregard the codes entirely."

20 This is obviously tyranny in action, and it must be stopped! The purpose of law is, in fact, to limit government power. The 21 U.S. Supreme Court case of Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901) in fact, pointed this fact out. That limitation BEGINS
 22 with definitions that are limiting. See section 3.12.12 entitled "26 C.F.R. §31: Employment Taxes and Collection of Income
 23 Taxes at the Source" for an expose on how the IRS and Treasury distorted its regulations because of this tyrannical trick with 24 the word "includes".

25 According to tax paralegal Eddie Kahn, because the term "includes" is defined expansively in 26 U.S.C. §7701, any 26 "definition" that uses this word is a NON definition and cannot be relied upon to clearly and unambiguously define the 27 meaning of a word. We disagree, and think that the term "includes" is and always has been a word of limitation. Mr. Kahn
 28 argues that any definition that uses "means" instead of "includes", however, is a legitimate definition that does properly bound
 29 the meaning of a word, and we agree with this. You will note that 26 U.S.C. §7701 has a mixture of definitions, some of 30 which use the word "means" and others use the word "includes". Be cautious with the definitions that use the word "includes"
 31 because they are designed to deliberately confuse you if you use the expansive, or non-limiting version of "includes" that we
 32 don't endorse. This kind of double speak is evident, for instance, in the definition of the term "United States" found in 26
 33 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9), and represents a violation of due process

34 Finally, the U.S. Supreme Court put a nail in the coffin of the expansive use of the word "includes" when it said the following:

35 In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is THE ESTABLISHED RULE NOT TO EXTEND their provisions,
 36 by implication, BEYOND THE CLEAR IMPORT OF THE LANGUAGE USED, OR TO ENLARGE their 37 operations SO AS TO EMBRACE MATTERS NOT SPECIFICALLY POINTED OUT".
 38 [Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151]

39 For a more thorough and passionate treatment of the subject of the word "includes", refer to section 5.10.6 later in this book.
 40 We have also written a whole 70 page book that addresses the meaning of the word "includes" below:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014

41 3.9.1.9 "Income" (not defined)

42 Most people mistakenly believe all monies they receive are "income". However, the U.S. Supreme Court has acknowledged 43 that this is simply not the case:

1 "We must reject in this case, as we have rejected in cases arising under the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909
 2 (Doyle, Collector, v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 38 Sup.Ct. 467, 62 L.Ed.--), the broad contention
 3 submitted on behalf of the government that all receipts—everything that comes in—are income within the proper
 4 definition of the term 'gross income,' and that the entire proceeds of a conversion of capital assets, in whatever
 5 form and under whatever circumstances accomplished, should be treated as gross income. Certainly the term
 6 "income' has no broader meaning in the 1913 act than in that of 1909 (see Stratton's Independence v. Howbert,
 7 231 U.S. 399, 416, 417 S., 34 Sup.Ct. 136), and for the present purpose we assume there is not difference in its 8 meaning as used in the two acts."
 9 [Southern Pacific Co., v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

10 When a natural person signs the tax form under penalty of perjury, he has made a voluntary affidavit that his wages, salary,
 11 commissions, and tips listed on the return are "income" subject to I.R.C., Subtitle A tax. In the still standing decision of 12 Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Company, 240 U.S. 1, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the federal income
 13 tax is an excise tax under the Sixteenth Amendment (the income tax amendment). The Court explained that the income tax
 14 cannot be imposed as a direct tax (a tax on individuals or on property) because the United States Constitution still requires
 15 that all direct taxes must be apportioned among the States. "Apportioned" means that a direct tax is laid upon the State
 16 governments in proportion to each State's population. The Court ruled that income tax can be constitutional only as an indirect
 17 (excise) tax -- that is, a tax on profits earned by corporations or privileges granted by federal government. In other words,
 18 said the Supreme Court, in order for there to be "income", there must be profits or gains received in the exercise of a privilege
 19 granted by government. As an example, a lawyer is granted the government privilege of being an officer of the government
 20 court when he represents clients in litigation.

21 As you will learn later, in section 5.6.5, "income" can only mean "corporate profit", according to the U.S. Supreme Court in 22 Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918).

23 "The Sixteenth Amendment declares that Congress shall have power to levy and collect taxes on income, "from 24 [271 U.S. 174] whatever source derived," without apportionment among the several states and without regard to 25 any census or enumeration. It was not the purpose or effect of that amendment to bring any new subject within 26 the taxing power. Congress already had power to tax all incomes. But taxes on incomes from some sources had 27 been held to be "direct taxes" within the meaning of the constitutional requirement as to apportionment. Art. 1, 28 §2, cl. 3, §9, cl. 4; Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601. The Amendment relieved from that 29 requirement, and obliterated the distinction in that respect between taxes on income that are direct taxes and 30 those that are not, and so put on the same basis all incomes "from whatever source derived." Brushaber v. Union
 31 P. R. Co., 240 U.S. 1, 17. "Income" has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise
 32 Tax Act of 1909, in the Sixteenth Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed. Southern 33 Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335; Merchants' L. & T. Co. v. Smietanka, 255 U.S. 509, 219. After full 34 consideration, this Court declared that income may be defined as gain derived from capital, from labor, or 35 from both combined, including profit gained through sale or conversion of capital. Stratton's Independence v.
 36 Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415; Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185; Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S.
 37 189, 207. And that definition has been adhered to and applied repeatedly. See, e.g., Merchants' L. & T. Co. v.
 38 Smietanka, supra; 518; Goodrich v. Edwards, 255 U.S. 527, 535; United States v. Phellis, 257 U.S. 156, 169;
 39 Miles v. Safe Deposit Co., 259 U.S. 247, 252-253; United States v. Supplee-Biddle Co., 265 U.S. 189, 194; Irwin
 40 v. Gavit, 268 U.S. 161, 167; Edwards v. Cuba Railroad, 268 U.S. 628, 633. In determining what constitutes 41 income, substance rather than form is to be given controlling weight. Eisner v. Macomber, supra, 206. [271 U.S.
 43 [Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., 271 U.S. 170, 174 (1926)]

44 By "corporate profit", we mean profits of either state or federal corporations involved in foreign commerce, within the 45 meaning of the U.S. Constitution, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. The Supreme Court also determined in Eisner v.
 46 Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920) that Congress, cannot by legislation or the Internal 47 Revenue Code, define "income". You can't have "gross income" until you have "income". Therefore, how can Congress
 48 even define "gross income", since it depends on the definition of "income"?

49 3.9.1.10 "Individual" (26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3))

50 The term "individual" is used in 26 U.S.C. §1 and is also used in 26 U.S.C. §6012\(a\) but it is never defined anywhere in the 51 Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C). The reason it is not defined is that doing so would expose the government's secret weapon,
 52 which is the abuse of words to expand the jurisdiction of the federal government beyond its Constitutional limitations. The 53 U.S. Code elsewhere defines the term "person" as follows, but this definition is superseded by that found in 26 U.S.C.
 54 §7701\(a\)\(1\) shown later:

55 TITLE 1 > CHAPTER 1 > §8
 56 §8. "Person", "human being", "child", and "individual" as including born-alive infant

(a) In determining the meaning of any Act of Congress, or of any ruling, regulation, or interpretation of the various administrative bureaus and agencies of the United States, the words "person", "human being", "child", and "individual", shall include every infant member of the species homo sapiens who is born alive at any stage of development.

(b) As used in this section, the term "born alive", with respect to a member of the species homo sapiens, means the complete expulsion or extraction from his or her mother of that member, at any stage of development, who after such expulsion or extraction breathes or has a beating heart, pulsation of the umbilical cord, or definite movement of voluntary muscles, regardless of whether the umbilical cord has been cut, and regardless of whether the expulsion or extraction occurs as a result of natural or induced labor, cesarean section, or induced abortion.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affirm, deny, expand, or contract any legal status or legal right applicable to any member of the species homo sapiens at any point prior to being "born alive" as defined in this section.

Therefore, we have to look in the legal dictionary for the definition. Below is the definition found in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, on p. 907:

Individual. As a noun, this term denotes a single person as distinguished from a group or class, and also, very commonly, a private or natural person as distinguished from a partnership, corporation, or association; but it is said that this restrictive signification is not necessarily inherent in the word, and that it may, in proper cases, include [be limited to] artificial persons.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 907]

Note that this definition above does not necessarily imply a natural (biological) person. Therefore, the Internal Revenue Code cannot yet be said to necessarily apply to natural persons. Here is the proper definition of "individual" in the context of the IRS form 1040 and within the meaning of the code, as we understand it:

Individual

An artificial federally-chartered entity, meaning a federal (but not state) chartered corporation or partnership or trust engaged in a privileged activity called a "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office". Everything that goes on an IRS form 1040 and an information return, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099 is "trade or business" income pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041. Also, an alien or nonresident alien acting in a public office of the United States government with income originating from the federal United States government. This STATUTORY "individual" is NOT a private human being with earnings from outside the district (federal/STATUTORY) United States** who is living and working for a private employer in the 50 united States of America. This is because of the restrictions on direct taxes imposed by Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.<sup>55</sup>

The term "individual" is referenced in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) under the definition of "person" as follows:

Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(1) Person

The term "person" shall be construed to mean and include an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation.

Note the very important phrase "an individual" rather than "all individuals". This is a VERY important clue that the Internal Revenue Code applies only to a very specific type of "individual" who is involved in a taxable activity, and not to all individuals generally. A law that only applies to a special subset of "individuals" is called a "special law". Your mission, should you choose to accept it, is to figure out exactly what kind of "individual" fits the above description. We only need to look in three places in the code to determine who this individual is:

1. 26 U.S.C. §6331\(a\) says the only proper person against whom distraint may be exercised are instrumentalities of the federal government who by implication are involved in a “public office”, such as “employees”, contractors, and agents of the government.
2. 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) defines and limits the term “trade or business” to “the functions of a public office”.
3. 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\) says that all those who are not involved in a “trade or business” are not the proper subject of the Internal Revenue Code.

Simple, isn't it? A tax researcher named Frank Kowalik, who wrote the book IRS Humbug (see section 5.6.13 later), also concludes that the term “individual” means only an elected or appointed officer of the United States government and he presents mountains of evidence to back that up in his book. Here's the way he describes it in his book on pages 122 through 123:

I emphasized that section 6012(a) applies to “every individual” who received “gross income.” The word “individual” is not directly defined in the I.R. Code. Still, Congress indirectly, but distinctly, limited the meaning of the term “individual” by use of the word “an” rather than “any” in the general definition of the word “person” [see definition above in 7701(a)(1)] for the I.R. Code. When a section of law applies to all persons living under the laws of the United States of America, the words “any person” are used. When limited to specific classes of persons, the phrase “a person” or “an individual” is used. Hence, Congress distinctly made only those “individuals” who perform personal services for the U.S. Government fall within the class of individuals (natural persons) subject to the I.R. Code laws by the definition of “person” in section 7701(a)(1). All other individuals are, by implication, excluded.

Even though section 6012(a) contains the word “every” (usually meaning without exception) in conjunction with the term “individual,” Congress limited this statute to Federal Government employees. The restriction was accompanied by adding “having... gross income.” Only federal government employees receive “gross income” subject to I.R. Code laws because of their “wages.” Private sector employees do not.

Congressmen must have intended the term “every individual” to be misunderstood and interpreted broadly rather than restrictively. Yet it would be manifestly incompatible with the intent of the law of the United States of America for Congress to expand the word “individual” to all persons considering the fact that compelling anyone to make private information public in a document would be a violation of their First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendment rights. This is why there can be no I.R. Code law mandating the making of a “U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.”<sup>56</sup>

We believe he is not completely correct on this point and that an “individual” includes any agency, instrumentality, or public office within the United States Government, including elected or appointed officers of the government. 26 U.S.C. §6331\(a\) and 26 U.S.C. §3401\(c\) confirm this conclusion. You will note that 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) identifies the persons against whom the code may be enforced, and all of them are agencies, instrumentalities, and officers of the United States government, including elected or appointed officers of the government. Frank points out that the above definition uses the word “an” in front of “individual” so as to emphasize that “person” does not include all “individuals”, but only certain individuals defined elsewhere in the code. If Congress had intended the code to apply to all individuals, they would have used the term “all individuals” or “all persons”, but they didn't. They didn't because doing so would violate the intent and spirit of the Constitutional prohibition against direct taxes found in 1:2:3 and 1:9:4 of the U.S. Constitution.

We will now examine the definition of “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3):

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions(3) Individual.(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701(b)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S. tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701(b)-1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

The above definition ought to raise some BIG red flags! First of all, if you live in the [federal] United States** as a natural person, you aren't an "individual" because the definition of "individual" doesn't include statutory citizens of the United States** defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401! Note also that the above definition doesn't constrain itself to a specific section of the code by saying something like "for the purposes of chapter 3 of the I.R.C....". In fact, this is the ONLY definition of the term "individual" found ANYWHERE in either the Internal Revenue Code or the Regulations. Therefore, the tax code can't apply to you even if you claim to be a statutory U.S.** citizen defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401! There is one exception to this, which is found in 26 U.S.C. §911, whereby statutory "U.S. citizens" when they are abroad, are subject to subtitle A of the I.R.C. on "trade or business" earnings. The reason is that when they are abroad, they are "aliens" in relation to the country they are staying and they interface to the tax code as aliens coming under a tax treaty with a foreign country. This is consistent with the definition of "unmarried individual" and "married individual" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) as an alien with "trade or business income". This is also consistent with our findings earlier. It also explains why a statutory U.S. citizen is defined as someone who lives in the Virgin Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico, or American Samoa, as follows:

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

The definition for "individual" that the government wants you to incorrectly assume, however, is that found in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2):

(2) the term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

But the above definition of "individual" is superseded by the only definition of "individual" found in the Treasury Regulations in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 above. You therefore can't be a "individual" who can be the "person" against whom the income tax is imposed under 26 U.S.C. § 1 unless you either reside OUTSIDE the "United States**" under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) or you reside INSIDE the United States** and are an "alien". That's why they created a definition of "U.S. citizen" that means you are living outside the United States (in the Virgin Islands) so they can "pretend" that you are taxable! That way, even when you tell them you live in the "United States" by giving them an address in the 50 Union states on your tax return, they can still claim that you live in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands because of your status as a "U.S. citizen"! This whole scheme can be confirmed by ordering a copy of your Individual Master File (IMF) from the IRS and looking at the transaction codes on the IMF. If you look at your IMF and you have been filing 1040 forms for a while, chances are your record reflects that you reside in the Virgin Islands, even if you really live in one of the 50 Union states outside the federal zone! That's why the IRS made the Publication 6209, which is used for decoding the IMF file, "For Official Use Only", which is short for "Don't let Citizens get their hands on this at all costs!". They know they are committing fraud and they don't want you, the Citizen, to know the horrible truth and expose that fraud, because then they lose their ability to claim "plausible deniability".

I bet this all sounds pretty crazy to you, right(?), but I swear to God it's the truth! These are the kinds of sneaky tricks that IRS lawyers make their living dreaming up in order to make the illegal fraud and extortion called the income tax look more "civilized" and believable and well hidden from public view. They have consumed more than 90 years and thousands of revisions of the code in the process of concocting the deliberately vague and unconstitutional mess we have now. If they wanted the truth in public view, they would have put the definitions of "U.S. citizen" and "individual" in the Internal Revenue

Code, right? But they instead buried it deep inside regulations that few Citizens ever view and only the agency itself usually looks at because they wanted to hide it!

The above definitions of “Alien individual” and “Nonresident alien individual” in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c)(3) can also seem a little confusing initially. You will find out that we suggest to people in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 that they should correct government records describing their citizenship to properly describe themselves as “nationals” who are not STATUTORY “citizens of the United States**” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21). However, looking at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) above leads one to believe that they cannot be a nonresident alien if they are a “national”. However, 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) reveals that they can:

(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a [STATUTORY] citizen of the United States[**] nor a resident of the United States[**] (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

A person can therefore be a “national” and not a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 and live outside the federal zone in a state of the Union and be a nonresident alien individual if they lawfully occupy a public office. If they don’t lawfully occupy a public office, they are statutory “non-resident non-persons”. Our guidance is sound and based on the law.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you don’t believe an “individual” can only be defined as an “alien” or “nonresident alien” as above or that the above definition is the only definition of “individual” anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code” or 26 C.F.R., then we challenge you to find a definition in either of these two sources of law (not IRS Publications, which we will find out later are a fraud, but the law) that defines the word “individual” as also including “U.S. citizens” or “citizens of the United States”. We searched the entire I.R.C. and 26 C.F.R. (20,000 pages) electronically and found NO other definitions! Furthermore, we challenge you to explain why the 1040 income tax form doesn’t say “U.S. Citizen or Resident” instead of “U.S. Individual” at the top of the form!

3.9.1.11 “Levy” (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(21))

26 U.S.C. §7701 Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(21) Levy

The term “levy” includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means.

Note that this definition of “levy” does not necessarily mandate a court order and therefore conflicts with the legal definition of “levy” found below:

Levy, n. A seizure. The obtaining of money by legal process through seizure and sale of property; the raising of the money for which an execution has been issued.

The process whereby a sheriff or other state official empowered by writ or other judicial directive actually seizes, or otherwise brings within her control, a judgment debtor’s property which is taken to secure or satisfy the judgment.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 907]

It is because of the difference between the legal definition of “levy” and the “levy” described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(21) that the federal courts can claim that levies without due process or which are not empowered by a writ or other judicial directive are Constitutional and legal. See 9.9 for further details on this subject. Remember, however, that the “Notice of Levy” (IRS Form 668A-c\(DO\)) and the “Levy” (Form 668-B) cannot be lawfully issued outside of the federal United States against persons who are not “U.S. citizens” because they would be unconstitutional and a violation of the Fourth and Fifth Amendment. The key is that you must be a “U.S. citizen” to be the subject of a levy that does not involve a judicial proceeding or a judgment. “Nationals”, which is what most of us are, are not the proper subject of the IRS “Notice of Levy” (IRS Form 668A-c\(DO\)) or “Levy” (Form 668-B). IRS agents, and especially those with Administrative Pocket Commissions, who issue a Notice of Levy against persons who are “nationals” or who live outside of the federal zone are violating the law by operating outside their jurisdiction and in violation of the Constitution, and can be tried for any number of violations of the law, including:

1. Conspiracy against rights under 18 U.S.C. §241
2. Extortion under 18 U.S.C. §872 .
3. Wrongful actions of Revenue Officers under 26 U.S.C. §7214
4. Engaging in monetary transactions derived from unlawful activity under 18 U.S.C. §1957
5. Mailing threatening communications under 18 U.S.C. §876
6. False writings and fraud under 18 U.S.C. §1018
7. Taking of property without due process of law under 26 C.F.R. §601.106\(f\)\(1\)
8. Retaliating against or harassing a taxpayer under IRS Restructuring and Reform Act, section 1203
9. Unauthorized collection activity under 26 U.S.C. §7433
10. Fraud under 18 U.S.C. §1341
11. Continuing financial crimes enterprise (RICO) under 18 U.S.C. §225

3.9.1.12 “Liable” (undefined)

| Comment:                | In my opinion, the word “liable” means “responsible” and “bound by law.” This sentence points out that if a person is “liable,” and the I.R.C. section designates said person as “liable” (bound by law), then he must do those things, i.e., keep such records, make such returns, etc., as set forth in Sec. 6001.Without careful scrutiny, an individual could believe that the word “liable” means “to owe (something)” and that he must “pay (something)” —the payment of taxes; rather it serves to give the reader a clue as to what he must do if he determines he is the “person liable.” |

| Black’s Law Dictionary: | This word, like the word “shall” is primarily of mandatory effect (cite omitted)..and in that sense is used in antithesis to “may.” But this meaning of the word is not the only one, and it is often used in a merely directory sense, and consequently is a synonym for the word “may” not only in the permissive sense of that word, but also in the mandatory sense which it sometimes has. |
| Webster’s:              | An auxiliary used with the infinitive of various verbs to express: (a) compulsion, obligation, requirement, or necessity; as I must pay her; (b) probability; as, then you must be my cousin; (c) certainty or inevitability; as, it must have rained while we were in.                                                                                                                         |

Most people have never studied the IRC and their understanding of the law is generally based on hearsay, newspaper articles and IRS instructional materials. These instructions make frequent use of the deceptive word “must” in describing the things that the IRS wants you to do, because “must” is a forceful word that people mistakenly believe to mean “are required”. Very few people realize that “must” is a directory word similar to “shall” and that, in IRS instructions to the public, it means “may”, the same as the word “shall”.

Because of the constitutional conflicts explained earlier in this document, the word "must", similar to the word "shall", cannot have a mandatory meaning for natural persons. It therefore means "may" when used in IRS instruction publications.

The IRS instructions for Form 1040 state that you "must" file a return if you have certain amounts of income. IRS withholding instructions state that employers "must" withhold money from paychecks for income tax, "must" withhold social security tax (an income tax also), and "must" send to the IRS any W-4 withholding statement claiming exemption from withholding, if the wages are expected to usually exceed $200 per week. An understanding of the legal meaning of the word "must" exposes the deception by the IRS and makes it clear that the actions called for are voluntary actions for individuals that are not required by law. If these actions were required by law, the instructions would not use the word "must", but would say that the actions were "required".

3.9.1.14 "Nonresident alien" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (b)(1)(B))

The term "nonresident alien" is a combination of two words:

1. "nonresident": Means that the entity has not nominated the specific government in question as their protector by choosing a domicile or residence within the territory protected by that government. Therefore, the entity is not protected by the civil laws of that place or government. For details on "domicile" and "residence", see :

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002

2. "alien": Means legislatively "foreign" in relation to the jurisdiction in question.
  - 2.1. Constitutional context: The term "alien" in the context of a human being can mean that the human being was not born within the country that encompasses the jurisdiction in question.
  - 2.2. Statutory context: The term "alien" in relation to an artificial entity such as a corporation or trust could mean that the entity was not created or registered under the statutory laws of the specific jurisdiction in question.

The term "nonresident alien" is statutorily defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B), which says:

26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

The first thing we notice about the above definition is that the term "nonresident alien" is defined in the context of ONLY an "individual" as legally defined. Upon investigating this matter further, we find that:

1. Nowhere other than in the above definition does the term "nonresident alien" appear without the term "individual", and it appears only in the title of 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) above.
2. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) defines all "individuals" as aliens. Based on comparing the definition of "individual" in that section and the term "nonresident alien" in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B), we find that:
  - 2.1. You can be a "nonresident alien" without ALSO being a "nonresident alien individual".
  - 2.2. The only difference between a "nonresident alien" and a "nonresident alien individual" is that the entity:
    - 2.2.1. Is a not a "national or citizen of the United States", where:
      - 2.2.1.1. "citizen of the United States" means 8 U.S.C. §1401 or 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(A) who is domiciled on federal territory. It DOES NOT mean a Constitutional citizen.
      - 2.2.1.2. "national of the United States**" means that described in 8 U.S.C. §1408 and 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B). It includes people domiciled in American Samoa and Swain's Island but excludes those domiciled in Constitutional states of the Union.
    - 2.2.2. Meets one or more of the following two criteria:
      - 2.2.2.1. Residence/domicile in a foreign country under the residence article of an income tax treaty and 26 C.F.R. §301.7701(b)-7(a)(1).
      - 2.2.2.2. Residence/domicile as an alien in Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under 26 C.F.R. §301.7701(b)-1(d).

Therefore, a human being who is a non-resident such as those born within and domiciled within Constitutional states of the Union cannot be a "nonresident alien individual" regardless of their domicile. Compare 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).

3. The definition of "nonresident alien" in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) describes what a "nonresident alien" IS NOT, but not what it IS. They are hiding something, aren't they? They obviously don't want you to know what it is because then they would have to admit that nearly everyone in states of the Union are non-resident NON-persons for which there are NO tax forms they can sign unmodified without committing perjury under penalty of perjury.

4. The above definition tries to create the presumption that only human beings can be "individuals", but this is in fact false. An artificial entity that is not a human being, for instance, can also satisfy the following criteria for being a "nonresident alien":

"neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States"

The reason they do this is that they don't want you to know that businesses can ALSO be "nonresident aliens". If every business out there declared itself to be a "nonresident alien", the government wouldn't have a way to regulate or tax them or accomplish its main goal of regulating commerce! Block 3 of the IRS Form W-8BEN confirms that entities other than "individuals" listed in the definition of "nonresident alien" can also be "nonresident aliens". The form in Block 3 lists grantor trusts, complex corporations, estates, etc. as being also "nonresident aliens", but all the entities listed are statutory "public" and not "private" entities domiciled on federal territory or doing business there, and engaged in a "public office" in the U.S. government. The government has no jurisdiction to regulate the affairs of entities neither domiciled nor resident outside its jurisdiction nor engaged in private and not public activities.

"Although the conduct of private parties lies beyond the Constitution's scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an activity to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government and, as a result, be subject to constitutional constraints."

5. Nearly every place that the term "nonresident alien" is described in the Internal Revenue Code and the Treasury Regulations and in which a duty is prescribed, the phrase "individual" is added to the end so that it reads "nonresident alien individual". See Section 5.6.13 later for details.
6. Nowhere do the I.R.C. or the Treasury Regulations impose a duty or obligation upon "nonresident aliens" who are NOT "individuals". For instance, the obligation to file income tax returns is described in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(b) in the context of "nonresident alien individuals", but nowhere in the context of those who are "nonresident aliens" but NOT "individuals".
7. IRS Form 1040 is entitled "U.S. Individual Income Tax Return". Those who are not "individuals" cannot have an obligation to file this form.

Based on the above, if you want to avoid being subject to the I.R.C. or having any sort of obligation under it, you must therefore describe yourself as a "non-resident non-person" who has NO status under the Internal Revenue Code, including "individual". Note that "individuals" are a subset of "persons" within the I.R.C. This, in fact, is what the AMENDED version of the IRS Form W-8BEN that we provide does at the link below: It adds two new statuses to the IRS Form W-8BEN, which are "transient foreigner" and "Union State Citizen" as an alternative to the word "individual".

Note that you can be a "nonresident alien" and a "national" without being an "alien", so long as you live and were born on nonfederal land in the sovereign 50 states of the union.

| Black’s Law Dictionary: | In general usage, a human being (i.e., natural person), though by statute term may include a firm, labor organizations, partnerships, associations, corporations, legal representatives, trustees, trustees in bankruptcy, or receivers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Webster’s:              | 1) an individual human being, especially as distinguished from a thing or lower animal; an individual man, woman or child. ..6) in law, any individual or incorporated group having certain legal rights and responsibilities.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

1 Interestingly, the above word “individual” used in the definition of “person” is never defined anywhere in the Internal
2 Revenue Code, so we have to use the definition from the legal dictionary. Don’t use the definition from the conventional
3 dictionary or you’ll really confuse yourself! Here is the definition of “individual” in Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition,
4 p. 907, we find:

5 Individual. As a noun, this term denotes a single person as distinguished from a group or class, and also, very
6 *commonly, a private or natural person as distinguished from a partnership, corporation, or association; but it is
7 said that this restrictive signification is not necessarily inherent in the word, and that it may, in proper cases,
8 include [be limited to] artificial persons.
9 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 907]

10 So naming “individuals” as “persons” liable for tax in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) still doesn’t necessarily imply natural persons
11 like you and me, and according to the above legal definition, “individual” most commonly refers to artificial persons, which 12 in this case are corporations and partnerships as pointed out in chapter 5 extensively. The only thing Congress has done by 13 using the word “individual” in the definition of “person” is create a circular definition. Such a circular definition is also 14 called a “tautology”: a word which is defined using itself, which we would argue doesn’t define anything! If Congress wants
15 to include natural persons as those liable for the income tax, then they must explicitly say so or the Internal Revenue Code is 16 void for vagueness. Therefore, we must conclude that “persons” may only mean artificial entities unless and until Congress
17 explicitly and clearly specifies otherwise.

18 “In view of other settled rules of statutory construction, which teach that a law is “Keeping in mind the well-
19 *settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by clear and unequivocal
20 language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be resolved in favor of those 21 upon whom the tax is sought to be laid.”
22 [Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

23 People generally consider the term "person" to mean a natural person. But, IRC Section 7701(a)(1), entitled "Definitions",
24 includes an individual, corporation, a trust, an estate, a partnership, an association, or company as being a "person". All of 25 these legal entities are "persons" at law, so it is legally correct but very misleading when the federal income (excise) tax on 26 corporations is described by the deceptive title of "Personal Income Tax". This misleading description leads most people to 27 incorrectly believe that it means a tax on natural persons.

28 "Persons" are actually divided into two main groups:

- 29 1. A Natural Born person (what most people think of as a "person").
30 2. A "legal fiction" that exists because of a privilege granted by government, including corporations, associations,
31 partnerships, companies, etc.

1 There is a big difference between the legal rights of a natural person and an artificial person and the distinction is never
 2 explained or clarified anywhere in the U.S. Code or Internal Revenue Code. The latter are subject to the Uniform Commercial
 3 Code (U.C.C.) and have no constitutional rights under the Bill of Rights. Instead, their rights are defined and circumscribed
 4 by the privileges granted to them solely by the government within the laws written and enforced by that government. Natural
 5 born persons, on the other hand, have fundamental constitutional rights that "legal fictions" don't. For instance, a natural
 6 born person cannot, under the 5th Amendment, be compelled to testify against himself in a court of law, but a "legal fiction",
 7 such as a corporation can be compelled because it depends on privileges and recognition granted by the government for its
 8 existence and therefore falls under the jurisdiction of that government. That is why the constitution permits income taxes as 9 indirect, excises placed upon "legal fictions", such as corporations, businesses, partnerships, trusts, etc., while it does not
 10 permit direct taxes on "natural born persons", which are not "legal fictions" but instead creations of God with inalienable
 11 rights, and whose creation and existence precedes and supersedes that of government. You could say that the obligation to 12 pay taxes on the part of a "legal fiction" like a corporation is part of the price paid for the right to exist and have the entity
 13 recognized and protected by the government and the courts. For instance, one benefit that corporations have that natural born
 14 persons don't have is limited liability, where individuals within the corporation aren't personally liable for the financial 15 obligations of the company. This privilege or right of a corporation, which is recognized in the law and by the courts, comes 16 with a price. That price is the obligation of the corporation to pay income taxes as excises to the government.

17 The legal term "person" has an even more restricted definition when used in IRC Chapter 75, which contains all the criminal 18 penalties in the Code. In Section 7343 of that Chapter, a "person" subject to criminal penalties is defined as: ...

19 [A]n officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who, as such officer,
 20 employee or member, is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

21 An individual who is not in such a fiduciary capacity is not defined as a "person" subject to criminal penalties. Unprivileged
 22 natural persons, who do not impose the income (excise) tax upon themselves by volunteering to file returns and be liable, are
 23 not subject by law to the tax and they are not "persons" who can lawfully be subjected to criminal charges for not filing a
 24 return or not paying income tax. Sections of the Code relating to the requirements for filing returns, keeping records, and
 25 disclosing information state that those sections apply to "every person liable" or "any person made liable". These descriptions
 26 mean "any person who is liable for the tax". They do not state or mean that all persons are liable. The only persons liable
 27 are those "persons" (legal entities such as corporations or employees or corporations) who owe an income (excise) tax, and
 28 are therefore subject to the requirements of the IRC. If you substitute the word "corporation" for the term "person" (a 29 corporation is a person at law) when reading the Code or other articles and publications relating to income tax, the true
 30 meaning of the Code becomes more apparent.

31 For further information about what the court's think about this section, read some of the cites in section 5.7 of the Tax Fraud
 32 Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, which talks about "not a person" and read the court cases that are cited. Note that all the 33 cases cited by Mr. Becraft in that section are at the circuit court level and none are at the U.S. Supreme Court level. The only
 34 authoritative cites, according to the Internal Revenue Manual, are those that come from the Supreme Court.

35 3.9.1.16 "Personal services" (not defined)

36 The term "personal services" is nowhere defined in the Internal Revenue Code and is defined only once in the entire 26 C.F.R.
 37 That definition is indicated below:

38 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

39 (b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

40 Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However,
 41 personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor
 42 as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

43 Note that the term "personal services" is used in conjunction with "trade or business", which we will learn later in section
 44 3.9.1.23 means an activity connected with the holding of public office. Why a public office? Because Subtitle A income
 45 taxes are excise taxes on federal corporate privileges. The U.S. government is a federal corporation and the officers of the 46 corporation are in receipt of excise taxable privileges. We clarify this further in section 5.6.5, where we prove that "income"
 47 means profit from a corporation involved in foreign (overseas) commerce.

United States Code
 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
 Sec. 3002. Definitions
 (15) "United States" means -
 (A) a Federal corporation;
 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

Why must "personal services" always be connected with a "trade or business"? Because Subtitle A income taxes are actually salary taxes on elected or appointed officials of the United States Government as enacted into law in the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939, 76th Congress, 1st Session, Chap. 59, pgs 574-579! The "public" in the title of that act means public office:

Public Salary Act of 1939, TITLE I—"Section 1. §22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code relating to the definition of 'gross income', is amended after the words 'compensation for personal service' the following: 'including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.'"

| Comment:                | In my opinion, "required" means when one is compelled to do something by written authority; in this case, file a tax return. Further, when something is "required" by law, there is usually a corresponding penalty attached for not doing the "required" act. |

The word "required" does not necessarily mean "liable". To give you an example of how tricky the use of the above section 6012 of the Internal Revenue Code is, consider the following:

- The title of 26 U.S.C. §6012 says "Persons required to make returns of income" BUT, the title of a code section cannot be interpreted as law by the following statute:

United States Code
 TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
 Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
 CHAPTER 80 - GENERAL RULES

Subchapter A - Application of Internal Revenue Laws Sec. 7806. Construction of title

b) Arrangement and classification

No inference, implication, or presumption of legislative construction shall be drawn or made by reason of the location or grouping of any particular section or provision or portion of this title, nor shall any table of contents, table of cross references, or similar outline, analysis, or descriptive matter relating to the contents of this title be given any legal effect. The preceding sentence also applies to the sidenotes and ancillary tables contained in the various prints of this Act before its enactment into law

- If you look inside the section, the section does not state who is "required" or "liable" to file returns, only who is not "required" to file. It instead uses the term "shall be made" in 6012(a), which we will learn in the following section can mean "may be made".

3.9.1.18 "resident" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A))

In all tax laws throughout the world that we have seen, "resident" universally means an alien. This is consistent with the definition of "resident" found in The Law of Nations, Vattel which was used by the Founding Fathers to write the Constitution.

"Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizens. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizens of a less privileged character, and are subject of the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children."

[The Law of Nations, Vattel, p. 87;

The above definition is also consistent with that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A), which is the only definition of "resident" in the Internal Revenue Code:

26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\) Resident alien

(b) Definition of resident alien and nonresident alien

(1) In general

For purposes of this title (other than subtitle B) -

(A) Resident alien

An alien individual shall be treated as a resident of the United States with respect to any calendar year if (and only if) such individual meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii):

(i) Lawfully admitted for permanent residence

Such individual is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at any time during such calendar year.

(ii) Substantial presence test

1 Such individual meets the substantial presence test of paragraph (3).

2 (iii) First year election

3 Such individual makes the election provided in paragraph (4).

4 To put it even more succinctly, a resident is an alien with a domicile or “residence” in the “United States”, which is defined
5 in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) as the District of Columbia ONLY. If you don’t maintain a domicile there, then you
6 aren’t a “resident” even if you are an alien and live there. This is more carefully thoroughly explained later in section 5.4.7
7 through 5.4.7.14. An alien who is present somewhere but does not have a domicile there is called a “transient foreigner”.

8 “Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining.”
9 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

10 A “transient foreigner” is someone who chooses not to obtain his protection from the government in the place where he lives.
11 If he has no domicile in any country on earth, such as in heaven, then he is a nontaxpayer everywhere on earth. Taxes pay
12 for protection and those who provide their own protection and choose no earthly domicile essentially have fired all
13 governments on earth and taken responsibility to provide their own protection. It is their natural right to do so pursuant to 14 the First Amendment, which guarantees us a right of freedom from compelled association.

15 3.9.1.19 "Shall" actually means "May"

| Black’s Law Dictionary: | As used in statutes, contracts or the like, this word is generally imperative or mandatory in common ordinary parlance, and in its ordinary signification, the term “shall” is a word of command, and one which has always or which must be given a compulsory meaning; as denoting obligation. It has a peremptory meaning, and it is generally imperative or mandatory. It has the invariable significance of excluding the ideas of discretion, and has the significance of operating to impose a duty which may be enforced, particularly if public policy is in favor of this meaning, or when addressed to public officials, or when a public interest is involved, or where the public person have rights which ought to be exercised or enforced, unless a contrary intent appears. People v. O’Rourke , 124 Cal. App. 752, 13P.2d 989, 992. But it may be construed as merely permissive or directory (as equivalent to “may,”) to carry out the legislative intention and in cases where no right or benefit to anyone depends on its being taken in the imperative sense, and where no public or private right is impaired by its interpretation in the other sense. Wisdom v. Board of Supp’rs of Polk County , 236 Iowa 669, 19 N.W.2d. 602, 607, 608. |

16 In general use, the word "shall" is a word of command with a mandatory meaning. In the IRC, "shall" is a directory word that 17 has a mandatory meaning when applied to corporations. The IRC contains a series of directory statutes using the word "shall"
18 in describing the actions called for in those sections of the law. The provisions of these directory statutes are requirements
19 for corporations, because corporations are created by government and, consequently, are subject to government direction and
20 control. Since corporations are granted the privilege to exist and operate by government-issued charters, they do not have the 21 constitutionally guaranteed rights of individuals. This government-granted privilege legally obligates corporations to make a
22 "return" of profits and gains earned in the exercise of their privileged operations when directed to do so by law. This is why 23 the tax form is called a "return".

24 However, directory words in the Code merely imply that individuals are required to perform certain acts, but directory words
25 are not requirements for individuals when a mandatory interpretation of the directory words would conflict with the 26 constitutionally guaranteed rights of natural persons/individuals. Courts have repeatedly ruled that in statutes, when a
27 mandatory meaning of the word "shall" would create a constitutional conflict, "shall" must be defined as meaning "may".

1 The following are quotes from a few of these decisions. In the decision of Cairo & Fulton R.R. Co. v. Hecht, 95 U.S. 170,
2 the U.S. Supreme Court stated:

3 As against the government the word "shall" when used in statutes, is to be construed as "may," unless a contrary
4 intention is manifest.

5 In the decision of George Williams College v. Village of Williams Bay, 7 N.W.2d. 891, the Supreme Court of Wisconsin
6 stated:

7 "Shall" in a statute may be construed to mean "may" in order to avoid constitutional doubt.

8 In the decision of Gow v. Consolidated Coppermines Corp., 165 Atlantic 136, the court stated:

9 If necessary to avoid unconstitutionality of a statute, "shall" will be deemed equivalent to "may" ....

10 Sections 6001 and 6011 of the IRC are cited in the Privacy Act notice in the IRS 1040 instruction booklet in order to lead
11 individuals to believe they are required to perform services for tax collectors. Note the use of the word "shall" in the following
12 sections of the Code:

13 Section 6001 states:

14 Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render
15 such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and requirements as the Secretary may from time 16 to time prescribe.

17 Section 6011 states:

18 When required by regulations prescribed by the Secretary any person made liable for any tax imposed by this
19 title, or for the collection thereof, shall make a return or statement according to the forms and regulations
20 prescribed by the Secretary.

21 Note that Sections 6001 and 6011 apply to "every person liable" and "any person made liable", but not to natural persons
22 (people like you and me). However, THERE IS NO SECTION IN SUBTITLE A OF THE IRC THAT MAKES
23 INDIVIDUALS LIABLE FOR PAYMENT OF INCOME TAX because any law imposing a federal tax on individuals would 24 be unconstitutional, for it would violate the taxing limitations in the U.S. Constitution which prohibit direct taxation of 25 individuals by the federal government. People are often confused when reading the Code because, under Subtitle A, Chapter
26 1, which covers income taxes, Part 1 of Subchapter A has the misleading title of "Tax on Individuals". The title is misleading
27 because Part 1 imposes the tax on "income", but contains no requirement for individuals to pay it. But an individual becomes 28 a "person liable" for the tax when he files an income tax form, thereby swearing that he is liable for (owes) the tax, even if 29 he technically didn't owe anything!

30 The Privacy Act notice in the instruction booklet for IRS Form 1040 also shows that disclosure of information by individuals
31 is not required. The notice states:

32 Our legal right to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001 and 6011 and their regulations.

33 The IRS does not say that those sections require individuals to submit the information; those sections only give the IRS the 34 authority to ask for it.

35 Section 6012 states:

36 Returns with respect to income taxes under Subtitle A shall be made by the following: (1)(A) Every individual 37 having for the taxable year gross income which equals or exceeds the exemption amount ...."

38 Subsections (2) through (6) list corporations, estates, trusts, partnerships, and certain political organizations as also being 39 subject to this section.

40 Any requirements compelling unprivileged individuals to keep records, make returns and statements, or to involuntarily
41 perform any other services for tax collectors, would be violations of constitutionally guaranteed rights.

1 The Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution forbids compelling individuals to perform services
2 involuntarily. The Amendment states:

3 Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted,
4 shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

5 The Fourth Amendment in the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution states that the people's right to privacy of their
6 papers shall not be violated by government. To compel individuals to disclose information taken from their papers would 7 violate this right.

8 The Fifth Amendment in the Bill of Rights protects the right of individuals not to be required to be witnesses against 9 themselves. To compel individuals to disclose information by submitting statements or information on a tax return form, all
10 of which could be used against them in criminal prosecutions, would violate their Fifth Amendment right.

11 These examples show some constitutional conflicts that would result from defining the word "shall" as meaning "is required
12 to". Thus, "shall" in the above mentioned statutes must be interpreted as meaning "may". Consequently, for individuals, 13 keeping records, making statements, and making returns are clearly voluntary actions that are not required by law.

14 3.9.1.20 "State" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(10))

15 State

16 The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to 17 carry out provisions of this title.

18 After reading this, do you live in a "State". I don't! Can Congress write clear laws? Some people look at this and say: "This 19 must be a mistake. Why would they write this?" Below is a Supreme Court Cite that might help explain why:

20 "The law of Congress in respect to those matters do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have
21 force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national
22 government."
23 [Caha v. United States, 152 U.S. 211 (March 5, 1894)]

24 Another confirmation of the meaning of "State" can be found in the Buck Act of 1940, which is contained in 4 U.S.C. Sections
25 105-113. Section 110(d) defines "State" as follows:

26 TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
27 CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES

28 (d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

29 While we can't use this definition within the context of the IRC, it does help explain why Congress didn't define the meaning
30 of "State" better in the IRC...because they would have to admit that they have no jurisdiction to impose income taxes! You
31 will find out in detail in later sections that the definition of "State" in the IRC above actually means federal possessions and 32 territories, to include the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, etc. We refer to this area as "the federal zone". The 33 federal zone DOES NOT include the 50 Union states. We refer you to section 5.6.12.2 entitled "The definition of the word
34 'state', key to understanding Congress' limited jurisdiction to tax personal income" for a fascinating and complete discussion
35 of why we reach this startling conclusion.

36 Finally, the District of Columbia qualifies as a "State", which is part of the federal zone or federal United States**:

37 4 U.S.C.S. §113

38 "(2) the term 'State' includes the District of Columbia."

39 However, the District of Columbia does not qualify as a "state", all of which are outside the federal United States**:

40 "1. The District of Columbia and the territories are not states within the judicial clause of the Constitution giving 41 jurisdiction in cases between citizens of different states." O'Donoghue v. United States, 289 U.S. 516, 53 S.Ct.

3.9.1.21 "Tax" (not defined)

After reading all the laws referenced in this section, it is quite reasonable for one to ask why what is described in the Internal Revenue Code is called a "tax" at all insofar as most Americans living in the states with only earnings from within the 50 Union states are concerned. Aren't taxes something we have to pay? In the case of federal income taxes on citizens living and working in the 50 Union states, they aren't! In reality, the contributions to the federal government described by the Internal Revenue Code amount to a "charitable donation" to the U.S. Government for American nationals living and working in the 50 Union states who do not have foreign income!

In the case of all other types of gifts that we give to friends and loved ones, people thank you for your donation. But in the case of the U.S. Government, they wrongfully prosecute, intimidate, harass, and even imprison you for "failure to file", or in this case "failure to volunteer to gift your income" to the government. Now isn't that nice of them? In every other walk of life, this kind of treatment is called extortion and people are sent to prison for it. In the case of the U.S. Government, a judicial conspiracy founded on the complete disregard for the petition clause of the constitution (see section 5.12 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 on How the Federal Judiciary Stole the Right to Petition), stealth, complex legalese in the tax code, and intimidation tactics by the IRS in ignoring our legal questions, and violation of our 5th and 14th Amendment due process rights by taking of property without a trial by jury, is what continues to feed the socialist U.S. Government beast that oppresses us with this kind of tyranny. If we "stole" property from people the way the government does to us, however, we would go to jail. That is clearly a pernicious evil that we must surely rid ourself of as a country.

3.9.1.22 "Taxpayer" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(14))

Taxpayer

The term "taxpayer" means any person subject to any internal revenue tax.

This same definition is repeated in 26 U.S.C. §1313(b):

26 U.S.C. §1313(b)

Notwithstanding section 7701(a)(14), the term "taxpayer" means any person subject to a tax under the applicable revenue law.

The deceptive term "taxpayer" is a legal term created by combining the words "tax" and "payer". The general understanding of the term's meaning is different from its legal definition in the I.R.C. Section 7701(a)(14) gives the legal definition of the term "taxpayer" in relation to income tax. It states: "The term 'taxpayer' means any person subject to any internal revenue tax." (All internal revenue taxes are excise taxes.) Note that the section does not say that all persons are "taxpayers" subject to internal revenue tax. Corporations are "taxpayers", for they are "persons" subject to an internal revenue (excise) tax.

The term "taxpayer" is used extensively throughout the IRC, in IRS publications, news articles, and instructional literature as a verbal trap to make uninformed Citizens believe that all individuals are subject to federal income tax and to the requirements of the IRC. These materials state that "taxpayers" are required to file returns, keep records, supply information, etc. Such statements are technically correct, because "taxpayers" are those legal "persons" previously described that are subject to an excise tax, but unprivileged individuals are not "taxpayers" within the meaning of the IRC. The confusion about the meaning of the term leads most people to mistakenly assume that they are "taxpayers" because they pay other taxes such as sales taxes and real estate taxes. Those people are tax payers, not "taxpayers" as defined in the IRC. When they read articles and publications related to income tax, describing the legal requirements for "taxpayers", they erroneously believe that the term applies to them as individuals. It is very important to understand that the IRC requirements apply to IRC-defined "taxpayers" only, and not to unprivileged individuals. Corporations and other government-privileged legal entities are "taxpayers under the Internal Revenue Code"; unprivileged individuals are not, unless they voluntarily file income tax returns showing they owe taxes, thus legally placing themselves in the classification of "taxpayers". Because of its legal definition, the term "taxpayer" should never be used in relation to income tax, except to describe those legal entities subject to a federal excise tax.

Why does Congress and the IRS want to refer to us as "taxpayers" instead of "Citizens" in the Internal Revenue Code, the Code of Federal Regulations, and the IRS Publications? Because then you as a Citizen would start looking in the index for

1 the U.S. Codes and find out that there are no references to liability for taxes as Citizens! They would also have to
 2 start talking about your constitutional rights as an American, and the fact is that you have no constitutional rights as a statutory
 3 "U.S. Citizen" (see Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)), but you do as a Citizen of the United States of America, or the
 4 [u]nited States! The words you use in describing yourself make all the difference in the world! So instead of calling you a
 5 Citizen and then having to justify what makes you a taxpayer, they try to fool you by calling everyone taxpayers and then
 6 never defining anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code who specifically is and is not personally liable for paying income
 7 taxes, and by arrogantly and petulantly refusing to discuss such issues with you when you call the IRS 800 help number so
 8 they can claim "plausible deniability" of the fraud that is going on! They leave the risk entirely up to you in deciding if you
 9 are a taxpayer and give you no help whatsoever in deciding what to believe. In effect, they make it so complicated,
 10 expensive (hiring lawyers), and so bothersome to keep your money and have your constitutional rights
 11 to privacy and property respected, that you just give up in laziness, apathy, disorganization, disgust,
 12 and ignorance and surrender 50% of your income to the various taxes that we all pay! That, in a
 13 nutshell, describes how the personal income tax game works. Leave it up to the devious lawyers in 14 Washington to devise such a game and shame on us for electing people like that to public office! We 15 owe it as a patriotic duty to our children and our fellow Americans to ensure that this kind of 16 racketeering, chicanery, and extortion be stopped immediately! We must take out this kind of trash 17 from office immediately!

18 3.9.1.23 "Trade or business" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(26))

19 The term "trade or business" includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

20 All income that derives from sources "within" the United States** (the District of Columbia and other federal territories but 21 not the nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states) requires receipt of privileges and respects the fact that the income tax is an
 22 excise tax on "privileges" as ruled many different times by the u.S. supreme Court. Holding public office is a government
 23 "privilege", just as existing as a corporation is a privilege, and therefore both are subject to the income tax because both occur
 24 in federal territories over which the U.S. has exclusive legislative jurisdiction.

25 Even if we aren't an elected U.S.** public official, millions, if not most people, ignorantly claim they are involved in a "trade
 26 or business" and thereby make themselves liable for the income tax. For instance, when we file an IRS Form 1040, this is 27 exactly what we do. We in effect make an "Election to treat our income and property as effectively connected with a trade
 28 or business in the U.S.**" as described in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10 and IRS Publication 54 (called a "Choice" in that publication).
 29 That makes us liable for the graduated income tax found in 26 U.S.C. §871. The reason people don't realize what they are
 30 doing when they commit this error is because they haven't read the law for themselves and have relied exclusively on IRS
 31 publications that are a fraud (see Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)) and on hearsay from 32 friends and family members, as well as ignorant IRS employees and employers who have never read the law for themselves.

33 Those who file as a "nonresident alien" under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) makes our income derived from a "trade or business in the 34 United States**" taxable, which as shown above is a code word for saying that we have income derived from holding elected
 35 or appointed federal public office. Most of us don't have this type of income, but the IRS publications never define the 36 meaning of "trade or business" and that is how we are deceived into volunteering into the income tax system by the IRS.
 37 Juries in federal courts are deceived about this because judges don't allow the law to be discussed in the courtroom, thus 38 perpetuating the fraud and abuse of citizens' rights. After we make our initial "election" by filing our first 1040 form, we 39 have a year to revoke the election and thereafter, according to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-10, we must ask the IRS for permission to 40 revoke the election, or we must file an IRS form 1040NR and include certain information with our return, as indicated in IRS
 41 publication 54 under "Ending your choice". If we never bother to revoke our election, then we will continue to be subject to 42 the jurisdiction of the federal courts to force us to pay graduated income taxes as a public official. Isn't that sneaky?

43 3.9.1.24 "United States" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(9))

44 United States

45 The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

1 The above phrase “the States” ought to look familiar because it is a federal State. Remember the title of the Buck Act found
2 in 4 U.S.C. §110(d)?

3 TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES

4 *CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES

5 (d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

6 You will also note that "States" is the plural for State, which was defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701 as the District of Columbia.
7 Under this definition, California, for instance, is NOT a State because it is not a territory or possession of the United States.
8 It is, instead, a sovereign entity of its own. See section 5.2.8 later for further details on this important subject. Rewriting the 9 above definition with the definition for State found in section 3.9.1.20 above (26 U.S.C. §7701), we have the following
10 definition for “United States”:

11 United States

12 The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the District of Columbia and the 13 District of Columbia.

14 The tricky IRS lawyers who wrote the tax code knew they couldn’t explicitly define “States” as all of the geographical 50
15 states in the union, because these states are sovereign, which is why Britain had to sign 13 separate treaties after the War of 16 Independence instead of just one. The sovereign 50 Union states are also outside the territorial jurisdiction of the United
17 States Government. Therefore, they tried to fool readers of the tax code above into thinking that United States refers
18 geographically to the 50 Union states, but they would have stated this directly if that is indeed what they meant. See sections
19 4.5 and especially 5.2.4 for further details on the meaning of the term “United States” found in the Internal Revenue Code.

20 3.9.1.25 "U.S. Citizen" (26 U.S.C. §3121(e))

21 Are you a “citizen of the United States” under federal statutes and “acts of Congress”? YES or NO? Here’s the definition
22 of “citizen of the United States” directly from the Treasury Regulations:

24 (b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin
25 Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

26 The answer to the question asked above, "Are you a United States citizen?" (in most cases), is emphatically:

27 NO!

28 Incidentally, you can be a “citizen of the United States” under Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment without being a
29 “citizen of the United States” under federal statutes such as 8 U.S.C. §1401. Why? Because the term “United States” has a
30 completely different meaning in the U.S. Constitution than it has in most federal statutes. In federal statutes, the term “United 31 States” means the federal zone or federal “United States” while in the Constitution, it means the collective states of the Union.
32 The federal government exploits this confusion over definitions to their advantage in order to illegally expand their 33 jurisdiction. In fact, the only people who are “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are those persons who are 34 born in the District of Columbia, Guam, Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico, according to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(36), 8 U.S.C.
35 §1101(a)(38), and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f). Watch out!

36 Now if you are stupid enough and gullible enough to file a form 1040 and assess yourself with an unrealistic and mistaken
37 income tax liability, amazingly, the only way the IRS agent can then process your form is to identify you in most cases as a
38 resident of the Virgin Islands! No kidding! People like Dan Meador (<http://www.lawresearch-registry.org>) have studied the 39 Individual Master File (IMF) of hundreds of individuals and determined that this indeed is exactly what the IRS agents do to 40 process your 1040 form! Agents in fact have to lie to the AIMS computer and tell it you live in the Virgin Islands to get it to 41 accept your 1040 return and your tax liability!

42 Barron's Law Dictionary indicates that in the United States, there are TWO types of citizenship:

"Citizenship is the status of being a citizen. In the United States there is usually a double citizenship, that is, citizenship in the nation and citizenship in the state in which one resides."

Generally in the United States one may acquire citizenship by birth in the United States or by naturalization therein. 59 S.Ct. 884...<sup>57</sup>

Here again, you have been tricked! The "United States" is the legal, proper, formal name, created by our founding fathers, for the home or seat of the "federal government" and its "territory!" In nearly all "acts of Congress" and federal statutes, it is the Proper Name for Federal Land (the District of Columbia and federal territories, including Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, etc.). Refer again to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) above for a definition of "United States".

The individual States, which joined forces and formed the "united States of America," should not be confused with the title of "United States," or "States", which is reserved for the District of Columbia and the territories controlled by the federal government. Obviously, in the light of what we have always thought we knew, this sounds a little bizarre.

However, the United States Supreme Court (Editor's Note: This is the CORRECT capitalization of this name) addressed the question of the meaning of the term "United States" in the case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt (1945).

The court ruled that the term "United States" has three uses:

1. "...either as the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations, or
2. "...as designating the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States (Federal government) extends, or
3. "...as the collective name for the states which are united by and under the Constitution."

In other words, the term "United States" means:

1. "'These united States', or
2. "the District of Columbia and all other federal lands such as Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Guam, Marianas Islands, American Samoa, etc. or,
3. "The union of states which is the 'united States of America'."

So, assuming you were born in one of the 50 freely associated sovereign states of the Union, you are a Citizen (note Capitalization) and a national of the state in which you were born, and as a result are a Citizen of the Union of states known as the "united States of America," but you are not now, and never have been, a "citizen of the United States" under any federal statute or "act of Congress". If you have an American Passport, look at it. Notice that it is from the "United States of America" (NOT the "United States"), and that it does not contain a Social Security Number!

You will note that people who are "citizens of the United States" instead of the united States, who are living in the District of Columbia and federal territories, are not citizens of individual states and therefore they have no constitutionally-protected rights. This is what makes it legal to assess income taxes on them and to deprive them of their property without due process of law in violation of the constitutional rights that the rest of us enjoy. Please refer to section 4.7 for details on this important subject.

Another way to verify this is to read that marvelous founding document, the Constitution. Remember that the writers of this remarkable document were extremely well educated and articulate men. They knew the meaning of the words they used.

Please turn to Article 10, which is the Tenth Amendment:

Article [X]
The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Obviously, the "United States" and the "States" used here CAN NOT be the same thing, or the sentence is redundant. The framers of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights knew exactly what they were writing -- that the powers not designated to the "federal" government were reserved to the several freely associated States and the people!

Remember that, under the Constitution, ALL power originated with the PEOPLE -- who delegated some of it to the States, which in turn delegated some of their power to the "federal" government to do those things for the Union that the individual states could not do well for themselves (foreign embassies, etc.).

The Constitution is designed to LIMIT the power of the "central" government, not expand it. The founding fathers had, after all, just fought the Revolutionary War to make sure that the new "central" government did not have the power, such as King George III exercised, to usurp the "unalienable rights" they had proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence ten years earlier.

Probably all your life, you've been told that you are a citizen of the United States. You were even intentionally taught this falsehood in school (which, no doubt was federally funded -- and had its curriculum in large measure dictated by Washington).

Well, Congratulations! NOW you know who you really are. And you know just a little bit of the freedom and power bequeathed to you by the architects of this incredible land.

What you have just learned about is an unprecedented GRAB for power by the "federal" government! (We do not have a "national" government.) In fact, Agents of the "federal" government have NO jurisdiction within the borders of these separate and sovereign united States -- unless you give it to them!

That includes agents of ANY federal government agency: EPA, IRS, any agency! They are foreign to the sovereign States!

3.9.1.27 "Wages" (in 26 U.S.C. §3401 (a))

For the purposes of collection of income taxes at the source by employers, the following definition of wages applies, as derived from 26 U.S.C. §3401(a):

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid -

(1) for active service performed in a month for which such employee is entitled to the benefits of section 112 (relating to certain combat zone compensation of members of the Armed Forces of the United States) to the extent remuneration for such service is excludable from gross income under such section; or

(2) for agricultural labor (as defined in section 3121(g)) unless the remuneration paid for such labor is wages (as defined in section 3121(a)); or

- 1 (3) for domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a 2 college fraternity or sorority; or
 3 (4) for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed in any
 4 calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service
 5 is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly
 6 employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph,
 7 an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a
 8 calendar quarter only if -
 9 (A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such 10 employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's 11 trade or business; or 12 (B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) 13 by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar 14 quarter; or
 15 (5) for services by a citizen or resident of the United States for a foreign government or 16 an international organization; or
 17 (6) for such services, performed by a nonresident alien individual, as may be designated 18 by regulations prescribed by the Secretary; or 19 (7) Repealed. Pub. L. 89-809, title I, Sec. 103(k), Nov. 13, 1966, 80 Stat. 1554)
 20 (8)
 21 (A) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) -
 22 (i) performed by a citizen of the United States if, at the time of the payment of such 23 remuneration, it is reasonable to believe that such remuneration will be excluded 24 from gross income under section 911; or 25 (ii) performed in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by such a 26 citizen if, at the time of the payment of such remuneration, the employer is 27 required by the law of any foreign country or possession of the United States to 28 withhold income tax upon such remuneration; or 29 (B) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof)
 30 performed by a citizen of the United States within a possession of the United States
 31 (other than Puerto Rico), if it is reasonable to believe that at least 80 percent of the 32 remuneration to be paid to the employee by such employer during the calendar 33 year will be for such services; or
 34 (C) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof)
 35 performed by a citizen of the United States within Puerto Rico, if it is reasonable to 36 believe that during the entire calendar year the employee will be a bona fide
 37 resident of Puerto Rico; or 38 (D) for services for the United States (or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of 39 the United States within a possession of the United States to the extent the United 40 States (or such agency) withholds taxes on such remuneration pursuant to an 41 agreement with such possession; or
 42 (9) for services performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a 43 church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the 44 exercise of duties required by such order; or 45 (10)
 46 (A) for services performed by an individual under the age of 18 in the delivery or 47 distribution of newspapers or shopping news, not including delivery or distribution 48 to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution; or
 49 (B) for services performed by an individual in, and at the time of, the sale of newspapers 50 or magazines to ultimate consumers, under an arrangement under which the 51 newspapers or magazines are to be sold by him at a fixed price, his compensation 52 being based on the retention of the excess of such price over the amount at which the 53 newspapers or magazines are charged to him, whether or not he is guaranteed a 54 minimum amount of compensation for such services, or is entitled to be credited with 55 the unsold newspapers or magazines turned back; or 56 (11) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, to the extent paid 57 in any medium other than cash; or
 58 (12) to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary -
 59 (A) from or to a trust described in section 401(a) which is exempt from tax under 60 section 501(a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an 61 employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and 62 not as a beneficiary of the trust; or
 63 (B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, is a plan described 64 in section 403(a); or
 65 (C) for a payment described in section 402(h)(1) and (2) if, at the time of such payment, 66 it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be entitled to an exclusion under 67 such section for payment; or 68 (D) under an arrangement to which section 408(p) applies; or 69 (13) pursuant to any provision of law other than section 5(c) or 6(1) of the Peace Corps
 70 Act, for service performed as a volunteer or volunteer leader within the meaning of 71 such Act; or
 72 (14) in the form of group-term life insurance on the life of an employee; or

- (15) to or on behalf of an employee if (and to the extent that) at the time of the payment of such remuneration it is reasonable to believe that a corresponding deduction is allowable under section 217 (determined without regard to section 274(n)); or
- (16)
- (A) as tips in any medium other than cash;
- (B) as cash tips to an employee in any calendar month in the course of his employment by an employer unless the amount of such cash tips is $20 or more; [1]
- (17) for service described in section 3121(b)(20); [1]
- (18) for any payment made, or benefit furnished, to or for the benefit of an employee if at the time of such payment or such furnishing it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such payment or benefit from income under section 127 or 129; [1]
- (19) for any benefit provided to or on behalf of an employee if at the time such benefit is provided it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such benefit from income under section 74(c), 117, or 132; [1]
- (20) for any medical care reimbursement made to or for the benefit of an employee under a self-insured medical reimbursement plan (within the meaning of section 105(h)(6)); or
- (21) for any payment made to or for the benefit of an employee if at the time of such payment it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be able to exclude such payment from income under section 106(b).

Notice that the above legal definition of “wages” excludes “public officials”, and that Subtitle A of the I.R.C. describes a tax primarily upon “public offices”, which is what a “trade or business” is. Therefore, without looking elsewhere, we must conclude no one so far can earn “wages” as legally defined. So how do our corrupt feds turn compensation for labor into something that fits the legal definition “wages” above so it can be taxed? Once again, you have to dig deep into the regulations to find the secret:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) IN GENERAL.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (Section 31.3401(a)-3).

(b) REMUNERATION FOR SERVICES.

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a)(2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See Sections 31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

So the bottom line is, if you fill out a W-4 and request voluntary withholding:

1. Even though you aren't a STATUTORY “taxpayer” or “public official” engaged in a STATUTORY “trade or business”, then you begin earning “wages” as legally defined pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a) above. The same scam is again repeated in 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1, which also creates a “presumption” that all amounts withheld constitute “gross income” that is therefore taxable pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §61.

(a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includable in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

2. The receipt of “wages” is reported on the IRS Form W-2. 26 U.S.C. §6041 says this is an information return that connects you with a “trade or business”, which is legally defined as “the functions of a public office” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Therefore, your earnings, after submitting an IRS Form W-4, become “trade or business” earnings that are excise taxable and prima facie “gross income” within the meaning of the I.R.C.
3. You have essentially been recruited into working for the Federal Government and your private employer is now hiring you as the equivalent of a Kelly Girl for the government.
4. If you started as a “nontaxpayer”, you have transformed your status into that of a “taxpayer”, unless and until you rebut the false IRS Form W-2 that will surely result from submitting the IRS Form W-4 to your private employer.

The above ruse is why we don’t recommend filling out W-4 Exempts and instead prefer to use the W-8 form. Note that we do not intend to convey the mistaken belief that “wages” are not taxable or are not “income”. They absolutely are. The issue is not whether they are taxable, but under what circumstances a person can earn them. A person who doesn’t submit a W-4 voluntary withholding form does not earn “wages” as legally defined in this section and no one can do any of the following without violating the law:

1. Force you to sign or submit this form as a condition of being hired or not fired.
2. Report anything but ZERO for “Wages, tips, and other compensation” on an IRS Form W-2 if you do not voluntarily sign and submit an IRS Form W-4. Even if the IRS commands the private employer to withhold at single zero, that withholding STILL can only be on the amount of “wages” earned, which are ZERO for a person who does not voluntarily sign a W-4 withholding agreement.
3. Put an SSN or TIN on any government form or report and send it in to the government without your voluntary consent. This is a violation of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. §552a.

3.9.1.28 "Withholding agent" (in 26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(16))

Withholding agent

The term "withholding agent" means any person required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions of section 1441, 1442, 1443, or 1461.

Section 1441 is entitled "Withholding of tax on nonresident aliens". Section 1442 is entitled "Withholding tax on foreign corporations". Section 1443 is entitled "Foreign tax-exempt organizations". Section 1461 is entitled "Liability for withheld tax" and provides that:

"Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter."

3.9.2 26 U.S.C. §1: Tax Imposed

This section of law is rather long and not worth repeating here. However, you download it from:

<https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/26/1>

To summarize what this section specifies:

A tax is imposed on the following:

1. Married individuals filing joint returns and surviving spouses.
2. Heads of households.
3. Unmarried individuals (other than surviving spouses and heads of households)
4. Married individuals filing separate returns.
5. Estates and trusts.
6. Adjustments in tax tables so that inflation will not result in tax increases.
7. Unearned income of minor children taxes as if parent's income.

It sets the maximum capital gains rate and defines how taxes on each of the above are to be computed. You will note, however, that the section does NOT indicate that such individuals are “liable” for paying the tax, and you have to be liable before you are obligated to file a return.

3.9.3 26 U.S.C. §61: Gross Income

This section of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) defines “gross income”. Gross income is the income that is listed on your W-2 form in block 10, called “Wages, tips, and other compensation”. This definition is used by all tax professionals.

(a) General definition - ... gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

- (1) Compensation for services...;*
- (2) Gross income derived from business;*
- (3) Gains derived from dealings in property;*
- (4) Interest;*
- (5) Rents;*
- (6) Royalties;*
- (7) Dividends;... [more items listed]” [26 U.S.C. §61]*

Good, we know about these 'items'... we grew up hearing these 'items' repeated through the years as they are components of gross income, right? These above items have been indicated by amateurs and tax professionals alike to be 'sources'... yet it is argued by many that they are NOT 'sources'. That there is a difference between 'items' and 'sources'. It gets easier...

Take NOTICE: The IRS has claimed in a case in South Carolina that § 861 has nothing to do with gross income in § 61. This did not last long as the Department of Justice was quickly reaching for things within § 861, without regarding the full effect of the attached regulations, to try to support their frail position. This seems to open up the application of the statute and regulations into the argument of gross income before the court and the public. If that were not enough, they also have to try to defeat this:

3.9.4 26 U.S.C. §63: Taxable income defined

26 U.S.C. §63 Taxable income defined

Except as provided in subsection (b), for purposes of this subtitle, the term “taxable income” means gross income minus the deductions allowed by this chapter (other than the standard deduction).

In the case of an individual who does not elect to itemize his deductions for the taxable year, for purposes of this subtitle, the term “taxable income” means adjusted gross income, minus -

- (1) the standard deduction, and*
- (2) the deduction for personal exemptions provided in section 151.*

For purposes of this section, marital status shall be determined under section 7703.

This section defines how to compute taxable income. The above quote does not include the entire section, but shows the important part of the section. This section clearly shows that taxable income is gross income minus deductions. Implicit in this statement is the idea that the gross income must derive from a taxable “source”, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §861, as we will see in the next section.

3.9.5 26 U.S.C. §861: Source Rules and Other Rules Relating to FOREIGN INCOME

A taxable “source” ties a tax to a geographical boundary and/or some commercial activity or event within that boundary, in the case of excise taxes. 26 U.S.C. §61 defines that the federal tax is on “income from whatever source derived”. This section defines the meaning of the word “source” used in section 61 and it is the only section in Title 26 and the primary section that ties the U.S. federal income tax to any kind of geographical boundary. If it weren’t for this section, then the Internal Revenue Code would be so general and non-specific (in talking only about taxes on types of income and not relating these taxes to geographical boundaries) that it would apply to everyone in the world! The authority for what is stated in this section derives mainly from the Constitution of the United States, in article I, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3, which we discussed in section 3.8.7 and will repeat here:

Article I, Section 8, Clause 1: “The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States; “

Article I, Section 8, Clause 3: “To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;”

The meaning of “among”, as defined by the U.S. Supreme Court, dictates that Congress can tax only “interstate” or “foreign” commerce, but NOT “intrastate” commerce. Hence, the only thing that can legitimately be taxed within the geographical boundaries of the 50 Union states, per the U.S. Constitution, is foreign income, as this code section shows. Note that income from the 50 Union states (which is not foreign) going to STATUTORY “U.S. citizens” (8 U.S.C. §1401, who are not nonresident aliens or citizens living overseas, which would then define the income as foreign) is never listed as a taxable “source”, and therefore this income is not subject to tax. This also helps explain why citizens have to fill out a W-4 to have taxes deducted from their income.. because they have to volunteer since taxes can’t legally be imposed on them against their will.

Many people, when or if they look at this very important section of the Internal Revenue Code, just skim by it or don’t read it at all, because it falls 800 sections after the discussion of taxable types of “income” appearing in I.R.C. Section 61. Upon first glance, they look at this section and think it doesn’t apply to them, which is exactly what the I.R.S. wants them to do! One would think that sections 61 and 861 are so closely related that they deserve to be together, but the clever lawyers in the I.R.S. didn’t want citizens paying attention to this section, so they have obfuscated the tax code over the years deliberately by separating these two sections so as not to draw attention to this section, because they know that it represents the biggest tax loophole ever!

Another method the IRS and the Congress have exploited used over the years to obfuscate the tax code is to confuse or deceive us about the meaning and significance of the term “source”. In I.R.C. Section 861, they use the term “from whatever source derived”, which is the very language used in the 16th Amendment:

“The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration. “

Some naïve readers perceive the term “whatever source derived” to mean that the source doesn’t matter at all! This, by the way, is precisely what the IRS and Congress wants you to believe! It takes a person with more legal background and education than the common man has from our deficient public education system to understand that this is simply not the case. In point of fact, there is no way to define a tax without associating it to a geographical boundary, because otherwise, it would be unenforceable in court. Not defining the geographical boundaries also would completely remove any constitutional constraints on the power of the federal government and completely invalidate the constitution! This was made clear in the case of Bailey v. Drexel Furniture Co. (259 U.S. 20). See section 5.6.11.4 for more details on this. If the federal government could tax any kind of income it wanted, within and between any of the states, it could completely usurp the taxing authority of the states. That is why we will say once again, that a tax is not valid unless it identifies the object of the tax, which in this case is “income”, and the geographical boundaries and limitation that apply to it, which is the “source”. If Congress and the IRS had any decency, they would write the U.S. Codes to make this point very clear, but of course if they did this, then people would immediately quit paying income taxes, so they deliberately look the other way to create an opportunity to tax your ignorance of the law. That is why we say that federal income taxes are “stupidity taxes”.

For more background on the subject of taxable sources, refer to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-1.863, which we talk about later in sections 3.12.6-3.12.10. These sections are the implementing regulations of the commissioner of the IRS’. They define the IRS’ own interpretation of the meaning of the U.S. Codes on the “source” issue. 26 C.F.R. §§1.861-1.863 deal with income from “specific sources”, which simply reinforces the idea presented above that “from whatever source derived” doesn’t mean that “source” is irrelevant.

With this background behind us, we will now reveal the content of this code section so you can read it for yourself.

TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE

Subtitle A - Income Taxes

CHAPTER 1 - NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES

Subchapter N - Tax Based on Income From Sources Within or Without the United States

PART I - SOURCE RULES AND OTHER GENERAL RULES RELATING TO

FOREIGN INCOME

-HEAD-

Section 61(a) Gross income from sources within United States

The following items of gross income shall be treated as income from sources within the United States:

(1) Interest

Interest from the United States or the District of Columbia, and interest on bonds, notes, or other interest-bearing obligations of noncorporate residents or domestic corporations not including –

(A) interest from a resident alien individual or domestic corporation, if such individual or corporation meets the 80-percent foreign business requirements of subsection (c)(1), and

(B) interest –

(i) on deposits with a foreign branch of a domestic corporation or a domestic partnership if such branch is engaged in the commercial banking business, and

(ii) on amounts satisfying the requirements of subparagraph (B) of section 871(i)(3) which are paid by a foreign branch of a domestic corporation or a domestic partnership.

(2) Dividends

The amount received as dividends –

(A) from a domestic corporation other than a corporation which has an election in effect under section 936, or

(B) from a foreign corporation unless less than 25 percent of the gross income from all sources of such foreign corporation for the 3-year period ending with the close of its taxable year preceding the declaration of such dividends (or for such part of such period as the corporation has been in existence) was effectively connected (or treated as effectively connected other than income described in section 884(d)(2)) with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States; but only in an amount which bears the same ratio to such dividends as the gross income of the corporation for such period which was effectively connected (or treated as effectively connected other than income described in section 884(d)(2)) with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States bears to its gross income from all sources; but dividends (other than dividends for which a deduction is allowable under section 245(b)) from a foreign corporation shall, for purposes of subpart A of part III (relating to foreign tax credit), be treated as income from sources without the United States to the extent (and only to the extent) exceeding the amount which is 100/70th of the amount of the deduction allowable under section 245 in respect of such dividends, or

(C) from a foreign corporation to the extent that such amount is required by section 243(e) (relating to certain dividends from foreign corporations) to be treated as dividends from a domestic corporation which is subject to taxation under this chapter, and to such extent subparagraph (B) shall not apply to such amount, or

(D) from a DISC or former DISC (as defined in section 992(a)) except to the extent attributable (as determined under regulations prescribed by the Secretary) to qualified export receipts described in section 993(a)(1) (other than interest and gains described in section 995(b)(1)). In the case of any dividend from a 20-percent owned corporation (as defined in section 243(c)(2)), subparagraph (B) shall be applied by substituting “100/80th” for “100/70th”.

(3) Personal services

Compensation for labor or personal services performed in the United States; except that compensation for labor or services performed in the United States shall not be deemed to be income from sources within the United States if –

- (A) the labor or services are performed by a nonresident alien individual temporarily present in the United States for a period or periods not exceeding a total of 90 days during the taxable year,
- (B) such compensation does not exceed $3,000 in the aggregate, and
- (C) the compensation is for labor or services performed as an employee of or under a contract with –
- (i) a nonresident alien, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, or
  - (ii) an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States, a domestic partnership, or a domestic corporation, if such labor or services are performed for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by such individual, partnership, or corporation. In addition, except for purposes of sections 79 and 105 and subchapter D, compensation for labor or services performed in the United States shall not be deemed to be income from sources within the United States if the labor or services are performed by a nonresident alien individual in connection with the individual's temporary presence in the United States as a regular member of the crew of a foreign vessel engaged in transportation between the United States and a foreign country or a possession of the United States.
- (4) Rentals and royalties
Rentals or royalties from property located in the United States or from any interest in such property, including rentals or royalties for the use of or for the privilege of using in the United States patents, copyrights, secret processes and formulas, good will, trade-marks, trade brands, franchises, and other like property.
- (5) Disposition of United States real property interest Gains, profits, and income from the disposition of a United States real property interest (as defined in section 897(c)).
- (6) Sale or exchange of inventory property
Gains, profits, and income derived from the purchase of inventory property (within the meaning of section 865(i)(1)) without the United States (other than within a possession of the United States) and its sale or exchange within the United States.
- (7) Amounts received as underwriting income (as defined in section 832(b)(3)) derived from the issuing (or reinsuring) of any insurance or annuity contract –
- (A) in connection with property in, liability arising out of an activity in, or in connection with the lives or health of residents of, the United States, or
  - (B) in connection with risks not described in subparagraph (A) as a result of any arrangement whereby another corporation receives a substantially equal amount of premiums or other consideration in respect to issuing (or reinsuring) any insurance or annuity contract in connection with property in, liability arising out of activity in, or in connection with the lives or health of residents of, the United States.
- (8) Social security benefits
Any social security benefit (as defined in section 86(d)).
- (b) Taxable income from sources within United States
From the items of gross income specified in subsection (a) as being income from sources within the United States there shall be deducted the expenses, losses, and other deductions properly apportioned or allocated thereto and a ratable part of any expenses, losses, or other deductions which cannot definitely be allocated to some item or class of gross income. The remainder, if any, shall be included in full as taxable income from sources within the United States. In the case of an individual who does not itemize deductions, an amount equal to the standard deduction shall be considered a deduction which cannot definitely be allocated to some item or class of gross income.
- (c) Foreign business requirements
- (1) Foreign business requirements
    - (A) In general
An individual or corporation meets the 80-percent foreign business requirements of this paragraph if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary that at least 80 percent of the gross income from all sources of such individual or corporation for the testing period is active foreign business income.
    - (B) Active foreign business income
For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term "active foreign business income" means gross income which –
      - (i) is derived from sources outside the United States (as determined under this subchapter) or, in the case of a corporation, is attributable to income so derived by a subsidiary of such corporation, and
      - (ii) is attributable to the active conduct of a trade or business in a foreign country or possession of the United States by the individual or corporation (or by a subsidiary.) For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "subsidiary" means any corporation in which the corporation referred to in this subparagraph owns (directly or indirectly) stock meeting the requirements of section 1504(a)(2) (determined by substituting "50 percent" for "80 percent" each place it appears).
  - (C) Testing period
For purposes of this subsection, the term "testing period" means the 3-year period ending with the close of the taxable year of the individual or corporation preceding the payment (or such part of such period as may be applicable). If the individual or corporation has no gross income for such 3-year period (or part thereof), the testing period shall be the taxable year in which the payment is made.
  - (2) Look-thru where related person receives interest
    - (A) In general

- In the case of interest received by a related person from a resident alien individual or domestic corporation meeting the 80-percent foreign business requirements of paragraph (1), subsection (a)(1)(A) shall apply only to a percentage of such interest equal to the percentage which –
- (i) the gross income of such individual or corporation for the testing period from sources outside the United States (as determined under this subchapter), is of
  - (ii) the total gross income of such individual or corporation for the testing period.
- (B) Related person
- For purposes of this paragraph, the term "related person" has the meaning given such term by section 954(d)(3), except that –
- (i) such section shall be applied by substituting "the individual or corporation making the payment" for "controlled foreign corporation" each place it appears, and (ii) such section shall be applied by substituting "10 percent or more" for "more than 50 percent" each place it appears.
- (d) Special rule for application of subsection (a)(2)(B)
- For purposes of subsection (a)(2)(B), if the foreign corporation has no gross income from any source for the 3-year period (or part thereof) specified, the requirements of such subsection shall be applied with respect to the taxable year of such corporation in which the payment of the dividend is made.
- (e) Income from certain railroad rolling stock treated as income from sources within the United States
- (1) General rule
    - For purposes of subsection (a) and section 862(a), if –
    - (A) a taxpayer leases railroad rolling stock which is section 1245 property (as defined in section 1245(a)(3)) to a domestic common carrier by railroad or a corporation which is controlled, directly or indirectly, by one or more such common carriers, and
    - (B) the use under such lease is expected to be use within the United States, all amounts includible in gross income by the taxpayer with respect to such railroad rolling stock (including gain from sale or other disposition of such railroad rolling stock) shall be treated as income from sources within the United States. The requirements of subparagraph (B) of the preceding sentence shall be treated as satisfied if the only expected use outside the United States is use by a person (whether or not a United States person) in Canada or Mexico on a temporary basis which is not expected to exceed a total of 90 days in any taxable year.
  - (2) Paragraph (1) not to apply where lessor is a member of controlled group which includes a railroad
    - Paragraph (1) shall not apply to a lease between two members of the same controlled group of corporations (as defined in section 1563) if any member of such group is a domestic common carrier by railroad or a switching or terminal company all of whose stock is owned by one or more domestic common carriers by railroad.
  - (3) Denial of foreign tax credit
    - No credit shall be allowed under section 901 for any payments to foreign countries with respect to any amount received by the taxpayer with respect to railroad rolling stock which is subject to paragraph (1).
- (f) Cross reference
- For treatment of interest paid by the branch of a foreign corporation, see section 884(f).

3.9.6 26 U.S.C. §871: Tax on nonresident alien individuals

This section is too long to list in its entirety, but you can read it yourself at the address below:

§871(a) imposes a tax of 30% on nonresident aliens for amounts received only from sources within the United States**/federal zone. §871(b) imposes a "graduated" tax only on income which is effectively connected with trade or business [as privileged federal government employees who are elected or appointed to political office] within the U.S.**/federal zone.

You will note the definition of "trade or business" in the IRC:

26 U.S.C. §7701(26)

(26) TRADE OR BUSINESS—The term "trade or business" includes [only] the performance of functions of public [government] office.

26 U.S.C. §864 DEFINITIONS AND SPECIAL RULES...(c) EFFECTIVELY CONNECTED INCOME.

(4) INCOME FROM SOURCES WITHOUT* the United States.

(A) "Except as provided in subparagraphs (B) or (C)*...no income, gain or loss from sources without the United States [in the 50 Union states] shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States."

Subparagraph B and C defines the income liabilities of nonresident aliens and foreign corporations who have offices WITHIN the United States**/Federal zone s[for example in the District of Columbia]. Certain income received from "without" the United States** is taxable if received "within" the United States.

26 C.F.R. § 1.871-7(4) "...a nonresident alien individual not engaged in trade or business in the [federal zone] United States during the taxable year has no income gain or loss.. which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States."

Taxable income on nonresident aliens is determined as follows:

26 U.S.C. §871(b)(2) Determination of Taxable Income

In determining taxable income...gross income includes only gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

3.9.7 26 U.S.C. §872: Gross income

<https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/26/872>

The only definition of gross income for the nonresident alien is found in 26 U.S.C. §872:

26 U.S.C. §872 Gross income

(a) General rule

In the case of a nonresident alien individual, except where the context clearly indicates otherwise, gross income includes only -

(1) *gross income which is derived from sources within the United States [** the federal zone] and which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States [** federal zone], and*

(2) *gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States [** federal zone].*

Note that a nonresident alien who has no income from sources within the federal zone/U.S.** has no tax liability under IRC section A, §871(a)!

3.9.8 26 U.S.C. §3405: Employer withholding

Discusses employer withholding and exempt W-4's. See the following to look up this section of code:

3.9.9 26 U.S.C. §6702: Frivolous Income Tax Return

Below is the text of this statute:

26 U.S.C. §6702 Frivolous Income Tax Return

(a) Civil penalty

If -

(1) any individual files what purports to be a return of the tax imposed by subtitle A but which -

(A) does not contain information on which the substantial correctness of the self-assessment may be judged, or

(B) contains information that on its face indicates that the self-assessment is substantially incorrect; and

- (2) the conduct referred to in paragraph (1) is due to -
- (A) a position which is frivolous, or
- (B) a desire (which appears on the purported return) to delay or impede the administration of Federal income tax laws, then such individual shall pay a penalty of $500.
- (b) Penalty in addition to other penalties
- The penalty imposed by subsection (a) shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

Based on the above statute, some courts have imposed sanctions against citizens who file such returns. Below is an excerpt from the case of Lovell v. United States, 755 F.2d. 517:

This court recently warned taxpayers who put forth frivolous arguments in bad faith that we would not hesitate to impose sanctions pursuant to Fed. R. App. P. 38. Granzow v. Commissioner, 739 F.2d. 265, 269-70 (7th Cir. 1984). See also Edgar v. Inland Steel Co., 744 F.2d. 1276, 1278 (7th Cir. 1984); United States v. Ekblad, 732 F.2d. 562 (7th Cir. 1984). Other circuits have imposed sanctions in § 6702 cases, see Martinez v. IRS, 744 F.2d. 71 (10th Cir. 1984) (per curiam); Davis, 742 F.2d. at 173; Baskin v. United States, 738 F.2d. 975, 977 (8th Cir. 1984) (per curiam); Crain v. Commissioner, 737 F.2d. 1417, 1418 (5th Cir. 1984), and we believe sanctions are appropriate in this case. Accordingly, the United States shall recover, from plaintiffs, reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred in defending this appeal. The government shall file with this court, within 15 days of the date of this order, a submission as to the fees and costs it has incurred on appeal. The judgment of the district court is AFFIRMED.

3.9.10 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax

26 U.S.C. §7201 Attempt to Evade or Defeat Tax

Any person who willfully attempts in any manner to evade or defeat any tax imposed by this title or the payment thereof shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $100,000 ($500,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 5 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

When a case of tax evasion is prosecuted by the IRS, the elements required to be proved are:

- 1) willfulness.
- 2) existence of a tax deficiency.
- 3) an affirmative act constituting an evasion or attempted evasion of the tax.

See the following cases for more information: Sansone v. United States, 380 U.S. 343, 351, 13 L.Ed.2d. 882, 85 S.Ct. 1004 (1965); United States v. Samara, 643, F.2d. 701, 703 (10th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 829, 102 S.Ct. 122, 70 L.Ed.2d. 104 (1981).

Interestingly, this section of code dealing with tax evasion directly contradicts the Supreme Court case of Gregory v. Helvering, 293 U.S. 465 \(1935\), which said in plain words:

"The legal right of the taxpayer to decrease the amount of what otherwise would be his taxes or altogether avoid them by means which the law permits, cannot be doubted."

Do you think this code section is really just a catch-all to scare people? Sure looks that way to us, especially when you consider the 861/source. Could this be the reason why citizens who aren't liable for tax continue to "volunteer" to pay it anyway--FEAR?

3.9.11 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful failure to file return, supply information, or pay tax

Any person required under this title to pay any estimated tax or tax, or required by this title or by regulations made under authority thereof to make a return, keep any records, or supply any information, who willfully fails to pay such estimated tax or tax, make [not file, but make] such return, keep such records, or supply such information [to whom?.. to oneself?], at the time or times required by law or regulations, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $25,000 ($100,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 1 year, or both, together with the costs of prosecution. In the case of any person with respect to whom there is a failure to pay any estimated

1 tax, this section shall not apply to such person with respect to such failure if there is no addition to tax under
 2 section 6654 or 6655 with respect to such failure. In the case of a willful violation of any provision of section
 3 6050I, the first sentence of this section shall be applied by substituting "felony" for "misdemeanor" and "5 years"
 4 for "1 year".

5 Interestingly, the statute doesn't define the meaning of "making a return". Why didn't they say "submit" a return and tell us
 6 to where? Because under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, parties have a right not to incriminate themselves, which
 7 means they have the right not to submit a return! The 1040 instruction booklet contains a Privacy Act statement which
 8 confirms this. Don't let the title above fool you! It says "file" but the title is editorially supplied and does not have the "force
 9 of law". Only the content of the section is law, and it DOES NOT impose a requirement to file, but only to make the return,
 10 because if it did, it would violate the Fifth Amendment for natural persons. Here is the basis for that belief:

11 26 U.S.C. §7806 Construction of title

12 (b) Arrangement and classification

13 No inference, implication, or presumption of legislative construction shall be drawn or made by reason of the 14 location or grouping of any particular section or provision or portion of this title, nor shall any table of contents,
 15 table of cross references, or similar outline, analysis, or descriptive matter relating to the contents of this title
 16 be given any legal effect. The preceding sentence also applies to the sidenotes and ancillary tables contained in 17 the various prints of this Act before its enactment into law.

18 Now let's look at the definition of "make"

19 make: 1. b: to seem to begin (an action) 2 a: to cause to happen to or be experienced by someone b: to cause to 20 exist, occur, or appear c: to favor the growth or occurrence of 5: to put together from components: CONSTITUTE
 21 6 a: to compute or estimate to be b: to form and hold in the mind.<sup>58</sup>

22 So according to common usage, and because there is not definition of the term "make", we have to use the above definition.
 23 The tax form is called a "return" but nowhere does it say that it must be "returned" to anyone, nor could returning such a
 24 form ever be made mandatory because of the privilege by natural persons under the Fifth Amendment to not be compelled to
 25 incriminate themselves. As long as you "make" (create) a return, which process is never defined, you can always claim that
 26 you made it and that you filed it, but that you just didn't file it with the Internal Revenue Service because they never 27 specifically required you to do so ANYWHERE, nor could the IRS require you to do so under the Fifth Amendment, or 28 punish you for failure to do so! Because "taxpayer" includes fictions like corporations who can be made liable for income
 29 taxes, the statement below is accurate, but is misleading for natural persons, to whom the section does not apply. The passage
 30 below confirms this. If they wanted to REQUIRE natural persons to file the return, they would have put it in part (a) below:

31 26 C.F.R. 1.6011-1 General requirements of return, statement, or list

32 (a) General rule. Every person subject to any tax, or required to collect any tax, under Subtitle A of the Code, 33 shall make [but not necessarily file] such returns or statements as are required by the regulations in this chapter.
 34 The return or statement shall include therein the information required by the applicable regulations or forms."

35 b) Use of prescribed forms. Copies of the prescribed return forms will so far as possible be furnished taxpayers
 36 by district directors. A taxpayer will not be excused from making a return, however, by the fact that no return
 37 form has been furnished to him. Taxpayers not supplied with the proper forms should [not must] make application
 38 therefore to the district director in ample time to have their returns prepared, verified, and filed on or before the 39 due date with the internal revenue office where such returns are required to be filed [by whom?... the REVENUE
 40 AGENTS who receive them? or "persons"? ONLY by corporations or elected or appointed officers of the U.S.
 41 government liable for the tax, but not other "natural persons" in the 50 Union states not occupying federal 42 territories]. Each taxpayer should carefully prepare his return and set forth fully and clearly the information
 43 required to be included therein. Returns which have not been so prepared will not be accepted as meeting the 44 requirements of the Code. In the absence of a prescribed form, a statement made by a taxpayer disclosing his 45 gross income and the deductions therefrom may be accepted as a tentative return, and, if filed within the
 46 prescribed time, the statement so made will relieve the taxpayer from liability for the addition to tax imposed for 47 the delinquent filing of the return, provided that without unnecessary delay such a tentative return is supplemented 48 by a return made on the proper form.

1 Do you see any definition above of WHO can be required to file a return? All they are saying above is that the revenue agents
 2 are required to file the returns upon receipt, but no liability on the part of persons is established from the above. There can
 3 be no liability to file because the IRS doesn't want you to know that as a natural person who isn't an elected or appointed
 4 political officer of the United States or an officer of a U.S.** corporation and who lives in nonfederal areas of the 50 Union
 5 states, you aren't liable for filing returns or paying tax. This tactic of making but not filing a return was very successfully
 6 used by Gaylon Harrell, who was acquitted of state charges of Willful Failure to File under 26 U.S.C. §7203, and who we
 7 talk about later in section 9.2.2 and who appears in our movie. There are also NO implementing regulations for I.R.C. §7203,
 8 which means that you cannot be criminally punished or civilly fined for violating it according to the following cites:

9 " ...we think it important to note that the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of regulations
 10 promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on 11 anyone."

12 [California Bankers Assn. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 21 (1974)]

13 "An individual cannot be prosecuted for violating the act unless he violates the implementing regulations."

14 [United States v. Reinis, 794 F. 2d 506 (9th Cir. 1986), United States v. Murphy, 809 F.2d. 1427 (9th Cir. 1987)]

15 "Criminal penalties ...can attach only upon violation of regulations promulgated by the Secretary."

16 [U.S. v. Reinis, 794 F.2d. 506]

17 "Individual cannot be prosecuted for violating Currency Reporting Act unless he violates the implementing 18 regulations."

19 [31 U.S.C.A. §5311 et. seq.]

20 We know that there are no "Willful Failure to File" implementing regulations so there can't be a crime of "Willful Failure to 21 File" resulting from Subtitle A income taxes. So how does the government legally charge people with "Willful Failure to 22 File"? Here is how one of our readers describes it:

23 You may know that a "willful failure to file" case is NEVER about a 1040 Form. As bizarre as it may seem,
 24 fraudulent narcotics smuggling charges, along with the Title 26 charges, are added to the Form 9131, which is 25 used to convene a grand jury for indictment.

26 However, nothing about smuggling is ever told to the jury. Most people savvy enough to obtain the Form 9131
 27 used in their case, have received it with the charges BLACKED OUT. a few unredacted copies were leaked,
 28 however. That's how we know about this particular fraud on the court. This Form is signed, by the way, by 5
 29 different agents at the IRS, including CID Special agents and the district director.

30 Without seeing an unredacted Form 9131, defendants make a "leap of presumptions" that the charges must relate
 31 to the 1040 Form we didn't file. Wrong. But people can't wait to argue the wrong issues. The question is not 32 "am I liable" or anything else, really.

33 The ONLY issue is, "what evidence does the government have that I smuggled drugs, and how does that act give 34 rise to a tax, anyway?" Should you care, there is a flip side of this. Real drug smugglers are also charged with 35 Title 21, and ALSO a Title 26 violation- but THAT charge (Title 26) is never brought before the grand jury. This 36 government is so sneaky.

37 If you are in contact with Wayne Bentson (not Bill BENSON- different guy), and/or Richard Standring, they can 38 explain this to you. So can Dan Meador. I can send you their contact numbers, if you want to know about their 39 excellent research.

40 3.9.12 26 U.S.C. §7206: Fraud and false statements

41 This section establishes that one should never lie or commit fraud on their tax return or aid in committing fraud against the 42 United States:

43 Sec. 7206. Fraud and false statements

44 Any person who -

45 (1) Declaration under penalties of perjury Willfully makes and subscribes any return, statement, or other
 46 document, which contains or is verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury,
 47 and which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter; or

(2) Aid or assistance

Willfully aids or assists in, or procures, counsels, or advises the preparation or presentation under, or in connection with any matter arising under, the internal revenue laws, of a return, affidavit, claim, or other document, which is fraudulent or is false as to any material matter, whether or not such falsity or fraud is with the knowledge or consent of the person authorized or required to present such return, affidavit, claim, or document; or

(3) Fraudulent bonds, permits, and entries

Simulates or falsely or fraudulently executes or signs any bond, permit, entry, or other document required by the provisions of the internal revenue laws, or by any regulation made in pursuance thereof, or procures the same to be falsely or fraudulently executed, or advises, aids in, or connives at such execution thereof; or

(4) Removal or concealment with intent to defraud

Removes, deposits, or conceals, or is concerned in removing, depositing, or concealing, any goods or commodities for or in respect whereof any tax is or shall be imposed, or any property upon which levy is authorized by section 6331, with intent to evade or defeat the assessment or collection of any tax imposed by this title; or

In connection with any compromise under section 7122, or offer of such compromise, or in connection with any closing agreement under section 7121, or offer to enter into any such agreement, willfully -

(A) Concealment of property

Conceals from any officer or employee of the United States any property belonging to the estate of a taxpayer or other person liable in respect of the tax, or

Receives, withholds, destroys, mutilates, or falsifies any book, document, or record, or makes any false statement, relating to the estate or financial condition of the taxpayer or other person liable in respect of the tax; shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $100,000 ($500,000 in the case of a corporation), or imprisoned not more than 3 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution.

The implications of this section are far-reaching. Below is a list of some of the things that might be punishable under this statute:

1. Employers encouraging their employees to misrepresent their tax status on their W-4. For instance, they could be prosecuted for coercing or intimidating an employee who wants to claim exempt status on his W-4 into claiming one exemption instead.
2. Citizens with domestic (not foreign) income filing tax returns who transcribe “wages, tips, and other compensation” from block 10 of their W-2 onto the income portion of their tax return are committing fraud that could be prosecuted because their income is not indeed taxable.
3. Citizens who have income that is taxable who do not declare it on their tax returns are committing fraud against the United States.

3.10 U.S. Code Title 18: Crimes and Criminal Procedure

3.10.1 18 U.S.C. 6002-6003

18 U.S.C. Sec. 6002. Immunity generally

Whenever a witness refuses, on the basis of his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or provide other information in a proceeding before or ancillary to -

(1) a court or grand jury of the United States,

1 (2) an agency of the United States, or

2 (3) either House of Congress, a joint committee of the two Houses, or a committee or a subcommittee of either
3 House, and the person presiding over the proceeding communicates to the witness an order issued under this
4 title, the witness may not refuse to comply with the order on the basis of his privilege against self-
5 incrimination; but no testimony or other information compelled under the order (or any information directly 6 or indirectly derived from such testimony or other information) may be used against the witness in any 7 criminal case, except a prosecution for perjury, giving a false statement, or otherwise failing to comply with 8 the order.

9 Sec. 6003. Court and grand jury proceedings

10 (a) In the case of any individual who has been or may be called to testify or provide other information at any 11 proceeding before or ancillary to a court of the United States or a grand jury of the United States, the United
12 States district court for the judicial district in which the proceeding is or may be held shall issue, in 13 accordance with subsection (b) of this section, upon the request of the United States attorney for such district,
14 an order requiring such individual to give testimony or provide other information which he refuses to give or 15 provide on the basis of his privilege against self-incrimination, such order to become effective as provided in 16 section 6002 of this title.

17 (b) A United States attorney may, with the approval of the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, the 18 Associate Attorney General, or any designated Assistant Attorney General or Deputy Assistant Attorney
19 General, request an order under subsection (a) of this section when in his judgment -

20 (1) the testimony or other information from such individual may be necessary to the public interest; and

21 (2) such individual has refused or is likely to refuse to testify or provide other information on the basis of 22 his privilege against self-incrimination.

23 This statute is frequently used by “natural persons” or people other than corporations, partnerships, and trusts, to gain
24 immunity from prosecution for any information they provide to the court or congress that might be incriminating against
25 themselves. It also applies to tax records! If the IRS asks you to produce business records and you are a “natural person”,
26 you can ask them for immunity from criminal prosecution related to all information that you might provide to them or 27 anything that might derive from that information.

28 3.11 U.S. Code Title 5, Sections 551 through 559: Administrative Procedures Act

29 This section of the U.S. Codes is called the Administrative Procedures Act and it governs all the administrative dealings you
30 might have with the IRS. It talks about the forms, procedures, and rules they must use to determine your tax liability and 31 collect taxes, and the burden of proof they must use to reach conclusions about your status. This section is VERY
32 IMPORTANT because it establishes the authority they have to conduct tax examinations with you. It’s too long to repeat
33 here, but we encourage you to read it for yourself on the web:

34 <https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/5/part-I/chapter-5/subchapter-II>

35 3.12 Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.) Title 26

37 [Dodd v. United States, 223 F.Supp. 785; Lyeth v. Hoey, 305 U.S. 186., 59 S.Ct. 155]

38 The Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.) is a codification of the general and permanent rules published in the Federal 39 Register by the Executive departments and agencies of the Federal Government. The C.F.R. online is a joint project
40 authorized by the publisher, the National Archives and Records Administration's Office of the Federal Register, and the 41 Government Printing Office (GPO) to provide the public with enhanced access to Government information. GPO will 42 continue to make the paper editions of the C.F.R. and Federal Register available through its Superintendent of Documents
43 Sales service.

44 The C.F.R. is divided into 50 titles which represent broad areas subject to Federal regulation. The titles correspond to the 50
45 titles of the U.S. Codes, since the titles are intended to administratively implement the 50 titles of the U.S. Code. If you want
46 to look up regulations for taxes, for instance, which are covered in Title 26 of the U.S. Codes, then you would refer to Title
47 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Each title is divided into chapters which usually bear the name of the issuing agency.

(See: Alphabetical List of Agencies Appearing in the C.F.R. )-- extracted from the January 1, 1998, revision of the C.F.R. Index and Finding Aids -- pp. 1001-1009.) Each chapter is further subdivided into parts covering specific regulatory areas. Large parts may be subdivided into subparts. All parts are organized in sections, and most citations to the C.F.R. will be provided at the section level.

Regulations under Title 26 of the United States Code are written primarily by the Secretary of the Treasury under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §7805(a). This section says the following:

Sec. 7805. - Rules and regulations

(a) Authorization

Except where such authority is expressly given by this title to any person other than an officer or employee of the Treasury Department, the Secretary shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title, including all rules and regulations as may be necessary by reason of any alteration of law in relation to internal revenue.

The most important thing to understand is the requirement for regulations in the enforcement of income taxes under Subtitle A. 44 U.S.C. §1505(a) requires that every law written by Congress that will have “general applicability and legal effect” must have an implementing regulation published in the Federal Register. Below is a definition of “general applicability and legal effect” from 1 C.F.R. §1.1:

Regulations relating only to officers, employees or agents of the government need not be published in the Federal Register, according to 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\).

Sec. 1505. - Documents to be published in Federal Register

(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

There shall be published in the Federal Register -

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect.

Note that only a handful of groups are specifically exempted from the requirement for publication in the Federal Register of all enforcement provisions within all laws, which are:

1. “A military and foreign affairs function of the United States”. 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(1).
2. “A matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts.” 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2).
3. “Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof”. 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1).

There is a very good reason why implementing regulations that only affect federal employees, contracts, and benefits need not be published in the Federal Register to be enforceable in court. The reason relates to the nature of the Separation of

1 Powers within our Republican government. The Legislature writes all laws, and most of these laws direct the activities of
 2 the Executive Branch. Laws passed by Congress in the Legislative Branch essentially amount to a direct and immediate
 3 command to its “employees” in the Executive Branch to do certain things. If these commands had to be interpreted by the
 4 Executive Branch itself and published as Implementing Regulations in the Federal Register before they would be enforceable
 5 against federal workers, then the servant, which is the Executive Branch, could simply go on strike by refusing to write
 6 implementing regulations. This would allow the servant, which is the Executive Branch, to routinely disobey its Master, the 7 Legislative Branch, with impunity, resulting in chaos and a dysfunctional government.

8 Typically, agents will cite you a statute for liability or penalties but cannot give you the implementing regulation, because
 9 there aren’t any, and this definitely does not satisfy the burden of proof on the agent! The reason there aren’t any implementing
 10 regulations is because as we say throughout this book, Subtitle A income taxes ONLY apply to elected or appointed officers
 11 of the United States government, and 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\) says that implementing regulations aren’t required for these people.

12 In fact, the only people who can be prosecuted for “failure to file” under 26 U.S.C. §7201 are officers and employees of the 13 United States when acting in their official capacity as an agent of the government. The federal courts have indirectly
 14 confirmed this fact. For instance, here is what one of them said about the fact that there are no implementing regulations for 15 federal tax crimes:

16 “Federal income tax regulations governing filing of income tax returns do not require Office of Management and 17 Budget control numbers because requirement to file tax return is mandated by statute, not by regulation.”
 18 [U.S. v. Bartrug, E.D.Va.1991, 777 F.Supp. 1290, affirmed 976 F.2d. 727, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1659, 507
 19 U.S. 1010, 123 L.Ed.2d. 278]

20 What the above court just admitted is that only federal employees, officers, contractors, and benefits recipients, for whom 21 implementing regulations are not required, can be the proper subject of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. You see 22 how sneaky this is?

23 All enforcement actions under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code must be authorized by an implementing regulation
 24 written by the Secretary and published in the Federal Register. Enforcement actions include: 1. Requirement to keep records;
 25 2. Authority to make an assessment of liability; 3. Authority to institute collection actions; 4. Authority to assess penalties.
 26 If the IRS attempts an enforcement action that is not specifically authorized by an implementing regulation, then they are
 27 acting illegally, and if that unlawful act results in an injury to a private citizen, the IRS agent who did the act can be held
 28 personally liable for his tort, is not protected for his wrongdoing by any law, and may not assert sovereign or official immunity
 29 as a defense. The act by the Secretary of writing an implementing regulation accomplishes the following:

- 30 1. Makes a specific agency in the Executive Branch of the government responsible for enforcing and/or executing a
- 31 specific statute.
- 32 2. Makes a specific person or role within an agency responsible for a specific function in the execution of the statute.
- 33 3. Provides detailed instructions that implement the intent of the statute and which ensure that the statute is carried out
- 34 in a manner that is consistent with the law and prevailing agency directives and rulings.
- 35 4. Gives all persons in the general public who could be adversely affected by the proposed regulation due notice and
- 36 opportunity to intervene or influence its passage.

37 The effect of failure to publish implementing regulations authorizing specific enforcement actions is identified in 26 C.F.R.
 38 §601.702(a)(2)(ii), and it indicates that the rights of no member of the public at large may be adversely affected by the actions
 39 of an agency:

40 26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication and public inspection

41 (a)(2)(ii) Effect of failure to publish. Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms
 42 of any matter referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is required to be published in the Federal
 43 Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it
 44 is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.
 45 Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated
 46 by reference will not adversely change or affect a person’s rights.

47 To identify whether a specific regulation has been published in the federal register, a citation is required at the bottom of the 48 regulation in accordance with 1 C.F.R. §21.43. Such a citation might look like the following, which is from 26 C.F.R.
 49 §601.702. We have bold-faced the Federal Register citation:

1 [32 FR 15990, Nov. 22, 1967]

2 The bold-faced text above means volume 32 of the Federal Register, page 15990.

3 All regulations written by the Secretary of the Treasury may not exceed the scope or authority of the statute, because the 4 Secretary is not authorized to write law or legislate:

5 “When enacting §7206(1) Congress undoubtedly knew that the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to
6 prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, so long as they carry
7 into effect the will of Congress as expressed by the statutes. Such regulations have the force of law. The 8 Secretary, however, does not have the power to make law. Dixon v. United States, supra.”
9 [United States v. Levy, 533 F.2d. 969 (1976)]

10 The Secretary is only authorized under 26 U.S.C. §7805\(a\) to interpret and apply the law as written by Congress in the statutes
11 because that is the limit of his delegated authority. The Federal Register Act, 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15, requires that all
12 regulations that will affect the public at large must be published in the Federal Register. If the Secretary has written a
13 regulation but not bothered to publish it in the Federal register, then it may not be applied against the public at large. Every 14 statute or regulation that has been published in the Federal Register will have an authority citation at the end stating so, as 15 required by 1 C.F.R. §21.40 of a form like the following:

16 [50 FR 12469, Mar. 28, 1985, as amended at 54 FR 9682, Mar. 7, 1989]

17 The citation above refers to volume 50 of the Federal Register, page 12469. Most of the definitions for income taxes come
18 from 26 U.S.C Sections 3401 and 7701, to be precise, but guess what, you won't find pointers in the C.F.R.'s or IRS
19 publications back to these original and "foundational" definitions in the U.S. Code. The terms "employer" and "employee"
20 have a much more restrictive meaning in 26 U.S.C. Secs. 3401 and 7701 than they do in the C.F.R.'s or the IRS publications.
21 Some definitions, like that for "withholding agent" only appear in the 26 U.S. Code and not in the 26 C.F.R. We assume this
22 is the case in order to make the C.F.R.'s more confusing for IRS personnel as a way to encourage them to misinterpret the 23 tax code in a manner that advantages the government financially. Also, if the IRS doesn't define their terms, then the concept
24 of "willfulness" as it relates to violating Citizen's rights by wrongfully taking more taxes than is owed becomes less
25 threatening for IRS agents. They can just "claim ignorance" when prosecuted for malfeasance, which is something we citizens
26 could never do as it relates to paying our taxes! This devious tactic is called "plausible deniability".

27 The Code of Federal Regulations is derived from the Federal Register and began its existence in 1938. The Federal Register
28 began existence in the year 1935 with the passage of the Federal Register Act, now codified at 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15. There
29 were no C.F.R.'s before that: only intra-agency procedures that were not made public in many cases. All regulations which 30 will affect the general public must be published in the Federal Register at least 30 days before they become effective. Those 31 regulations which do not affect the general public need not be published in the Federal Register. An example of such a
32 regulation might be regulations that only impact federal employees. These need not be published in the Federal Register to 33 be legitimate. This is important because most of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code in the context of natural persons
34 only applies to elected or appointed officers of the United States government and there are no enforcement regulations for 35 these statutes in the C.F.R.'s.

37 3.12.1 How to Read the Income Tax Regulations

38 Title 26 contains 799 Parts, or particular subject matters of taxes. Obviously every Section in the Internal Revenue Code
39 and every Regulation cannot be applicable to every particular type of tax. Therefore, the Code of Federal Regulations
40 (C.F.R.) is essential for defining, specifically, which Sections of the Code are applicable to which particular type of taxes. 1
41 C.F.R. §1.21.9(a) states:

43 matter under the control of the agency.”

The subject matter or Part applicable to the “Individual Income Taxes” is Part 1. Following are examples of a few different types of taxes in the Internal Revenue Code and its implementing Regulations. All Regulations having general applicability to Income taxes must begin with (1.) followed by the corresponding IRC Section number.

Table 3-7: List of C.F.R. Titles, Chapters, Subchapters, and Parts; Title 26-Internal Revenue

| Part | Subject Matter of Tax                           |
|-------------|--------------------------------------------------------|
| 1           | Income Tax                                             |
| 20          | Estate Tax                                             |
| 25          | Gift Tax                                               |
| 31          | Employment Tax-[Withholding]                           |
| 44          | Taxes on Wagering                                      |
| 48          | Manufacturers and Retailers Excise Tax, etc.           |
| 301         | Treasury Secretary Directives                          |
| 601         | Procedural regulations written by the IRS Commissioner |

Title 26, the Internal Revenue Code, is divided into Sections. For example, §6001 is “Returns and Records”. Now we need to find out “specifically” what particular type of taxes this Section is applicable to, so we go to the Code of Federal Regulations, 26 C.F.R. Volume 5. Here we find the Code Sections in numerical order after a number and a period. For example, §1.6001 should be read as follows:

- (1) The (1) before the period refers to the Particular type of tax that regulation is applicable to.
- (2) The number after the period is the Section of the Code that regulation is referring to.

The following Regulations should be read as follows:

Table 3-8: Regulation examples

| Regulation number | Interpretation                                                          |
|--------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| §1.6001                  | Record keeping and statement rendering requirements for Part 1 Income Tax      |
| §20.6001                 | Record keeping and statement rendering requirements for Part 20 Estate Tax     |
| §25.6001                 | Record keeping and statement rendering requirements for Part 25 Gift Taxes     |
| §31.6001                 | Record keeping and statement rendering requirements for Part 31 Employment Tax |
| §44.6001                 | Record keeping and statement rendering requirements for Part 41 Wagering Tax   |

Note that if there is no ‘1.’ In front of the Code Section of the Regulation, that Regulation has NO applicability to any type of Individual Income Taxes! However, just because there is a Part 1 Income Tax Regulation does not necessarily mean the particular regulation is applicable to you. Remember, just as there are many particular types of taxes, there are also many types of “Income Taxes,” ie. For the U.S.** (federal zone) citizen (under 8 U.S.C. §1401), the “nonresident alien” American (occupying a public office and not a private human), and the Corporate Officer under a duty to withhold. Each type of Income Tax has different tax, record keeping, and recording requirements.

3.12.2 Types of Federal Tax Regulations<sup>59</sup>

3.12.2.1 Treasury Regulations

There are three types or classes of regulations governing federal tax matters: legislative, interpretive, and procedural. The first two types are promulgated by the Treasury Department, and are binding on the Treasury and the IRS, while procedural regulations are issued by the IRS and are not always binding on the agency. The source of authority for a regulation determines its precedential value and the formality with which it must be adopted.

1 Section 553 of the Administrative Procedures Act (codified 5 U.S.C. §553) requires that all "substantive" or legislative
2 regulations be published in final form in the Federal Register at least 30 days prior to their effective date. The purpose of
3 this requirement is to give the public notice of the proposed rule and an opportunity to comment on it. Although neither
4 interpretive regulations nor procedural regulations are subject to these notice provisions, the Treasury Department follows
5 the section 553 requirements when it promulgates interpretive regulations. Regulations that have been proposed by the 6 Treasury Department but not yet adopted as final are known as "proposed regulations." For reasons such as substantial
7 adverse public comment or internal disagreement within the Treasury about the wisdom of a particular proposed regulation,
8 proposed regulations can languish for years in the status of merely proposed and not final rules.

9 An exception to the notice and comment procedures of 5 U.S.C. §553 exists for cases in which the agency believes the 10 procedures are "impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest." Particularly in the recent past, the Treasury
11 Department has frequently invoked this exception in promulgating temporary regulations for prompt guidance following
12 significant tax legislation. Temporary regulations are often issued in "question-and-answer" form, reflecting the Treasury
13 Department's positions on the most obvious and frequently noted issues generated by the legislation. Temporary regulations 14 must also be issued as proposed regulations, but they expire if not finally adopted within three years of the date they are 15 issued.

16 3.12.2.2 "Legislative" and "Interpretive" Regulations<sup>60</sup>

17 Section 7805(a) [of the Internal Revenue Code] directs the Treasury Secretary "or his delegate" to "prescribe all needful rules
18 and regulations for the enforcement" of the Code. Regulations promulgated under this grant of authority are known as 19 "interpretive" (or "interpretative") regulations. Regulations are formulated by the IRS and approved by Treasury Department
20 personnel. See Procedural Rules of the IRS, 26 C.F.R. §601.601(a)(1).

21 In addition to the blanket authority of I.R.C. Section 7805(a), authority to issue regulations is often contained in specific 22 sections of the Code. When regulations are issued pursuant to such specific authorization or direction, they are "legislative"
23 or "substantive" regulations that have the force and effect of law, unless they exceed the scope of the legislation or are 24 unreasonable or were not issued according to prescribed procedures. "Legislative" or "substantive" regulations are issued by 25 IRS experts to write rules for highly technical areas.

26 As an example of a "legislative" regulation, 26 U.S.C. §7872(h)(1) says:

27 "In General—the Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out the 28 purposes of this section, including –(A) regulations providing that where, by reason of varying rates of interest,
29 conditional interest payments, waivers of interest, disposition of the lender's or borrower's interest in the loan,
30 or other circumstances, the provisions of this section do not carry out the purposes of this section, adjustments to
31 the provisions of this section will be made to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of this section..."

32 How can you legally tell the difference between "interpretive" and "legislative" regulations? When a regulation is issued or 33 proposed, the transmittal includes a paragraph indicating the Treasury's authority for issuing the regulation, either a specific 34 Code section (legislative) or Code section 7805 (interpretive). Courts generally uphold interpretive regulations unless they 35 clearly contravene congressional intent; legislative regulations are virtually unassailable.<sup>61</sup>

36 3.12.2.3 Procedural Regulations

37 Regulations describing the organization of the IRS and its "housekeeping" rules are set forth in the IRS Statement of 38 Procedural Rules, which is contained in 26 C.F.R. Part 601. These regulations are preceded by "601" and are cited, for 39 example, as "26 C.F.R. § 601.509," to distinguish them from regulations issued by the Treasury Department. Legislative and 40 interpretive regulations, issued by the Treasury Department, are cited differently, and the number immediately following the 41 § symbol identifies the type of tax provision they implement. Income tax regulations, for example, are preceded by a "1," 42 and are cited as follows: "Reg. §1.61" (which indicates a regulation under section 61 of the Code). Procedural regulations
43 are promulgated by the IRS, not the Treasury Department, and are not subject to the notice-and-comment requirements of the 44 APA [Administrative Procedures Act]. Unlike legislative and interpretive regulations, procedural regulations may have retroactive effect. I.R.C. §7805(b)(6). Procedural regulations are written by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for administrative purposes and do not have the force and effect of law. You may not therefore cite them as a basis for a claim in court because they confer no rights upon you, even if you claim to be a “taxpayer”. See:

- Einhorn v. Dewitt, 618 F.2d. 347 \(5th Cir. 06/04/1980\)
- Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 \(4th Cir. 05/28/1962\)

Some regulations address matters of procedure, but are not "procedural regulations," as that term is defined above. For example, rules establishing “taxpayer” obligations to file certain forms or furnish certain information are often included in interpretive regulations. When such procedural matters are included in an interpretive or legislative regulation, the Treasury Department follows the APA notice-and-comment rules and the regulations are not "procedural," although they cover matters of procedure. Similarly, regulations interpreting the administrative and procedural sections of the Code, which are cited as "Reg. §§ 301.6001" et seq., are treated as interpretive regulations.

While legislative and interpretive regulations are binding authority for both the Service and taxpayers, the Service will not always be bound by its procedural rules. The Internal Revenue Manual is a lengthy volume of procedures prescribed by the IRS as procedural regulations to be followed by IRS personnel. Generally, procedural rules that affect individuals' rights will be binding on an agency, even if the rules are stricter than the law otherwise requires. Morton v. Ruiz (S.Ct.1974). However, where the procedural regulation was not relied on by the individual, and it had no effect on his conduct, failure by the IRS to comply with the procedural rule does not require that the evidence obtained in violation of the rule be suppressed. United States v. Caceres (S.Ct.1979) (failure to follow procedures in Internal Revenue Manual). Generally, it appears that if the right granted under the procedure is relatively unimportant, and if the relief necessary to correct the failure by the IRS to comply is relatively harsh, there is little likelihood that the taxpayer's challenge to the IRS action will be sustained.

3.12.3 You Cannot Be Prosecuted for Violating an Act Unless You Violate It’s Implementing Regulations

“...we think it important to note that the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of regulations promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone.”
[California Bankers Ass'n v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 21 (1974)]

[United States v. Reinis, 794 F. 2d 506 (9th Cir. 1986), United States v. Murphy, 809 F.2d. 1427 (9th Cir. 1987)]

“Individual cannot be prosecuted for violating Currency Reporting Act unless he violates the implementing regulations.” [31 U.S.C.A. §5311 et. seq.]

CONSPIRACY: “Where regulations...did not impose duty to disclose information, failure to disclose was not conspiracy to defraud government.” 18 USCA, 31 U.S.C.A. §5311

“Because Congress has delegated to the Commissioner the power to promulgate ‘all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of (the Internal Revenue Code) 26 U.S.C. §7805(a), we must defer to his regulatory interpretations of the Code so long as they are reasonable.”
[National Muffler Dealers Assn., Inc. v. United States, 440 U.S. 472, 476-477, 99 S.Ct. 1304, 1306-1307, 59 L.Ed.2d. 519.]

“Due process requires that penal statutes define criminal offense with sufficient clarity that the ordinary person can understand what conduct is prohibited.” U.S.C.A Const. Amend 5

Without the statute there is no authority for implementing a regulation and without the regulation, no civil or criminal penalties can be imposed. Further regulations cannot change or enlarge the operation of the statute but only clarify it.

“To the extent that the regulations implement the statute, they have the force and effect of law.. The regulation implements the statute and cannot vitiate or change the statute...”
[Spreckles v. C.I.R., 119 F.2d, 667]

Under Curley v. U.S., 791 F.Supp. 52 (E.D.N.Y. 1992), at 55, we read:

1 (6) "Plaintiff relies heavily on the Internal Revenue Manual ("IRM") in her argument that the assessment is
2 procedurally valid. However, the IRM does not have the force and effect of law" United States v. New York
3 Telephone Co., 644 F.2d. 953, 959 n. 10 (2nd Cir. 1981). Since the IRM is not law, any alleged failure to adhere
4 to its provisions will not necessarily result in an invalid assessment. See Foxman v. Renison, 449 U.S. 993, 101
6 of Internal Revenue, 528 F.Supp. 134, 137 (1981).

7 (7) However, failure to adhere to agency regulations may amount to a denial of due process if the regulations
8 are required by the constitution or statute." Arzanipour v. Immigration and Naturalization Service, 866 F.2d.
9 743, 746 (5th Cir. 1989).

10 The type of regulation that must be violated to incur civil or criminal penalties must be either a legislative or interpretive
11 regulation written by the Department of the Treasury. That means it must either be a Part 1 (26 C.F.R. § 1.XXXX) or a Part
12 301 (26 C.F.R. §301.XXXX) regulation. Part 601 regulations, which apply to Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code, do
13 NOT qualify as legislative or interpretive regulations for law enforcement because they are procedural in nature and don't 14 necessarily even apply to the agency (IRS in this case) they are written for in all cases!

15 The table below provides a list of the ONLY enforcing regulations for Title 26, mostly under Subtitle F, which is Procedures
17

| §7601                  | Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects                              | 27 C.F.R. Part 70                                    |
| §7602                  | Examination of books and witnesses                                                | 27 C.F.R. Parts 70, 170, 296                         |
| §7603                  | Service of summons                                                                | 27 C.F.R. Part 70                                    |
| §7604                  | Enforcement of summons                                                            | 27 C.F.R. Part 70                                    |

Most noteworthy of the above is that ALL of the implementing and enforcement regulations identified in Subtitle F are associated with Title 27, Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, and NOT Subtitle A Income taxes! There simply are no implementing regulations under the tax imposed in I.R.C. Section 1 that authorize the use of distraint by the Internal Revenue Service. Distraint, also called enforcement, includes the use of levy, assessment, penalties, summons, or collection to enforce a tax. Why? Because there is no statute making anyone liable for the tax! Since the income tax is a voluntary donation program for the municipal government of the District of Columbia created mainly for elected or appointed government employees, then most Americans aren't the proper subject of the tax and the IRS can't force them to without enforcement authority! This point is key to your success in all your dealings with the Internal Revenue Service. If there were enforcement provisions for the income tax imposed in Section 1 of the I.R.C., they would be written in the right-hand column above as "26 C.F.R. Part 1," but you can see that they don't exist. You can check this for yourself at the following web address:

The statute and the enforcement regulations must together form a pair that constitutes the law. If either of the two don't exist, then the law cannot be enforced!

Here the statute is not complete by itself, since it merely declares the range of its operation and leaves to its progeny the means to be utilized in the effectuation of its command. But it is the statute which creates the offense of the willful removal of the labels of origin and provides the punishment for violations. The regulations, on the other hand, prescribe the identifying language of the label itself, and assign the resulting tags to their respective geographical areas. Once promulgated, [361 U.S. 431, 438] these regulations, called for by the statute itself, have the force of law, and violations thereof incur criminal prosecutions, just as if all the details had been incorporated into the congressional language. The result is that neither the statute nor the regulations are complete without the other, and only together do they have any force. In effect, therefore, the construction of one necessarily involves the construction of the other."
[U.S. v. Mersky, 361 U.S. 431 (1960)]

"...the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of the regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...The Government urges that since only those who violate these regulations [not the Code] may incur civil or criminal penalties, it is the actual regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which are to be tested against the standards of the Fourth Amendment; and that when so tested they are valid."
[Calif. Bankers Assoc. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 21, 44, 39 L.Ed.2d. 812, 94 S.Ct. 1494]

"Failure to adhere to agency regulations [by the IRS or other agency] may amount to denial of due process if regulations are required by constitution or statute..."
[Curley v. United States, 791 F.Supp. 52]

"Although the relevant statute authorized the Secretary to impose such a duty, his implementing regulations did not do so. Therefore we held that there was no duty to disclose..."
[United States v. Murphy, 809 F.2d. 142, 1431]

Based on the foregoing, a government official attempting an enforcement action against those domiciled in states of the Union who are protected by the Constitution has the burden of providing one of the following two forms of legal evidence or the government employee loses its authority to enforce against him and is engaging in a constitutional tort which results in a surrender of official and sovereign immunity on the part of the employee:

1. The government employee produces an implementing regulation published in the Federal Register which authorizes the enforcement action.
2. The government produces legally admissible evidence conforming with the Federal Rules of Evidence which proves that the person who is the subject of the enforcement action is a member of one of the three groups that are specifically exempted from the requirement for publication in the Federal Register, which are:
  - 2.1. "A military and foreign affairs function of the United States". 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(1).
  - 2.2. "A matter relating to agency management or personnel or to public property, loans, grants, benefits, or contracts." 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2).
  - 2.3. "Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof". 5 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1).

Usually, the only evidence in the possession of the government which might link a person to membership in any one of the above exempted groups is

1. Information Returns such as IRS Forms W-2, W-4, 1042, 1098, and 1099
2. A tax return filled out by the subject and signed under penalty of perjury. This is legally admissible evidence that you are a "public official", because EVERYTHING that goes on an IRS form 1040 is "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office". See the following for proof:

The Trade or Business Scam, Form #05.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 1 3. An SSA Form SS-5. This proves that the party is a federal benefit recipient who is an “individual” as defined in 5 U.S.C.
2 §552a(a)(2) and “federal personnel” entitled to receive federal retirement benefits as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13).
3 Both of these entitled “federal personnel” and “individuals” are government employees or agents, as exhaustively proven
4 in the memorandum of law below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

5 3.12.4 Regulations cannot exceed the scope of the statute they are based on

6 It is very important to realize that a regulation which implements a section of the Internal Revenue Code found in 26 U.S.C.
7 may NOT enlarge or expand the operation of that code section. Executive departments within the federal government only
8 have the authority delegated to them to implement the laws passed by Congress in the I.R.C., but not to expand or enlarge
9 them. In practice, however, this unlawful tactic is commonly done, most notably in the use of definitions found in 26 U.S.C.
10 §7701 and the distraint provisions found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6331. Be on the lookout for illegal regulations, because it almost 11 certainly will be your downfall in any litigation! Being aware of this scam is the key to challenging jurisdiction of the IRS to 12 enforce income taxes. An example of where this trick is used is in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1, where the Secretary of the Treasury used
13 the word “liable to tax” even though the corresponding section of the Internal Revenue Code in 26 U.S.C. §1 doesn’t make 14 anyone “liable”.

15 3.12.5 Part 1, Subchapter N of the 26 Code of Federal Regulations

Part I of Subchapter N, and the regulations thereunder:

| STATUTES 3.12.6 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(a): Taxable Income

"...The rules contained in this section apply in determining taxable income of the taxpayer from specific sources and activities under other sections of the Code referred to in this section as operative sections. See paragraph (f)(1) of this section for a list and description of operative sections." (Emphasis added)

26 C.F.R. Sections 1.861 through 1.863 are the implementing regulations that derive from 26 U.S.C. Section 861 discussed earlier in section 3.9.5. You should read 26 U.S.C. §861 and section 3.12.6 before you attempt to understand 26 C.F.R. §1.861, which is the implementing regulation for 26 U.S.C. §861. 26 C.F.R. §1.861 defines the meaning of "source" within 26 U.S.C. §61 and 861. The regulation under discussion, 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(a), makes reference to 'sources' within, as well as without, the United States. Below are the only sources that we could find listed, from which income must derive, in order for income to be taxable for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax.

Code of Federal Regulations 1.861-8(f)(1)

(i) Overall limitation to the foreign tax credit.

(ii) [Reserved]

(iii) DISC and FSC taxable income. (note: DISC is Direct International Sales Corp, and FSC is a Foreign Sales Corp)

(iv) Effectively connected taxable income. Nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in trade or business within the United States,...

(v) Foreign base company income.

(vi) Other operative sections.

(A) "...foreign source items of tax..."

(B) "...foreign mineral income..."

(C) [Reserved]

(D) "...foreign oil and gas extraction income..."

(E) "...citizens entitled to the benefits of section 931 and the section 936 tax credit..."

(F) "...residents of Puerto Rico..."

(G) "...income tax liability incurred to the Virgin Islands..."

(H) "...income derived from Guam..."

(I) "...China Trade Act corporations..."

(J) "...income of a controlled foreign corporation..."

(K) "...income from the insurance of U.S. risks..."

(L) "...international boycott factor...attributable taxes and income under section 999..."

(M) "...income attributable to the operation of an agreement vessel under section 607 of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936..."

Which of the above 'sources' does your employees' (and/or your) 'income', 'items' or 'wages' derive from?... Interesting... isn't it? This section shows quite clearly that the average U.S. Citizen with income from the 50 Union states doesn't owe tax because the income does not come from a taxable source.

Take NOTICE: The IRS has claimed in a case in South Carolina that § 861 has nothing to do with gross income in § 61. This did not last long as the Department of Justice was quickly reaching for things within § 861, without regarding the full effect of the attached regulations, to try to support their frail position. This seems to open up the application of the statute and regulations into the argument of gross income before the court and the public. If that were not enough, they also have to try to defeat this:

3.12.7 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(ii)(A): Exempt income

26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(ii)(A)

"In general. For purposes of this section, the term "exempt income" means any income that is in whole or in part, exempt, excluded, or eliminated for federal income tax purposes." (Emphasis added)

3.12.8 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8T(d)(2)(iii): Income Not Exempt from Taxation

This section shows quite clearly that the only income that is not exempt from federal taxes (income for which citizens are liable for tax) is foreign income. Notice that they don't explicitly mention that income of citizens from domestic sources is NOT taxable? The reason they don't make this clear is because they don't want you to know! Below is the regulation:

The following items are not considered to be exempt, eliminated, or excluded income and, thus, may have expenses, losses, or other deductions allocated and apportioned to them:

(A) In the case of a foreign taxpayer (including a foreign sales corporation (FSC)) computing its effectively connected income, gross income (whether domestic or foreign source) which is not effectively connected to the conduct of a United States trade or business;

(B) In computing the combined taxable income of a DISC or FSC and its related supplier, the gross income of a DISC or a FSC;

(C) For all purposes under subchapter N of the Code, including the computation of combined taxable income of a possessions corporation and its affiliates under section 936(h), the gross income of a possessions corporation for which a credit is allowed under section 936(a); and

(D) Foreign earned income as defined in section 911 and the regulations thereunder (however, the rules of section 1.911-6 do not require the allocation and apportionment of certain deductions, including home mortgage interest, to foreign earned income for purposes of determining the deductions disallowed under section 911(d)(6)).

NOTE: The only income above related to U.S. Citizens is (D)

This is of further importance as the definition of "wages" in §3401(a) to be withheld from in accordance with §3402, excludes all remuneration paid to U.S. Citizens by employers, except income which is deemed to be gross income under § 911, or other income related to foreign and U.S. possession sources.

This law confirms our viewpoint, in simple terms according to Black's Law Dictionary, that if the income in question comes from a source 'excluded' from the law, and thus not mentioned within the law as being taxable, it cannot then meet the source requirements of § 861, its regulations, and thus section 61(a) to be "Gross income", and is by definition EXEMPT.

3.12.9 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)1 Taxable sources

This extremely important section of code identifies taxable sources for ALL other subsections, including:

- Income from sources "within the U.S.***" under 26 U.S.C. §861
- Income from sources without the U.S.** under 26 U.S.C. §862.
- Income "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States***" under 26 U.S.C. §871(b)(1) and 882(a)(1).

This section is the lynchpin of all arguments about taxable sources no matter where you live, and is the mother of all tax loopholes. The section provides examples of how to compute taxable income as well.

(i) Overall limitation to the foreign tax credit. Under the overall limitation to the foreign tax credit, as provided in section 904(a)(2) (as in effect before enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1976, or section 904(a) after such enactment) the amount of the foreign tax credit may not exceed the tentative U.S. tax (i.e., the U.S. tax before application of the foreign tax credit) multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the taxable income from sources without the United States and the denominator of which is the entire taxable income. Accordingly, in this case, the statutory grouping is foreign source income (including, for example, interest received from a domestic corporation which meets the tests of section 861(a)(1)(B), dividends received from a domestic corporation which has an election in effect under section 936, and other types of income specified in section 862). Pursuant to sections 862(b) and 863(a) and Secs. 1.862-1 and 1.863-1, this section provides rules for identifying the deductions to be taken into account in determining taxable income from sources without the United States. See section 904(d) (as in effect after enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1976) and the regulations thereunder which require separate treatment of certain types of income. See example 3 of paragraph (g) of this section for one example of the application of this section to the overall limitation.

(ii) [Reserved]

(iii) DISC and FSC taxable income. Sections 925 and 994 provide rules for determining the taxable income of a FSC and DISC, respectively, with respect to qualified sales and leases of export property and qualified services. The combined taxable income method available for determining a DISC's taxable income provides, without consideration of export promotion expenses, that the taxable income of the DISC shall be 50 percent of the combined taxable income of the DISC and the related supplier derived from sales and leases of export property and from services. In the FSC context, the taxable income of the FSC equals 23 percent of the combined taxable income of the FSC and the related supplier. Pursuant to regulations under section 925 and 994, this section provides rules for determining the deductions to be taken into account in determining combined taxable income, except to the extent modified by the marginal costing rules set forth in the regulations under sections 925(b)(2) and 994(b)(2) if used by the taxpayer. See Examples (22) and (23) of paragraph (g) of this section. In addition, the computation of combined taxable income is necessary to determine the applicability of the section 925(d) limitation and the "no loss" rules of the regulations under sections 925 and 994.

(iv) Effectively connected taxable income. Nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in trade or business within the United States, under sections 871(b)(1) and 882(a)(1), on taxable income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States. Such taxable income is determined in most instances by initially determining, under section 864(c), the amount of gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States. Pursuant to sections 873 and 882(c), this section is applicable for purposes of determining the deductions from such gross income (other than the deduction for interest expense allowed to foreign corporations (see Sec. 1.882-5)) which are to be taken into account in determining taxable income. See example 21 of paragraph (g) of this section.

(vi) Other operative sections. The rules provided in this section also apply in determining--

(A) The amount of foreign source items of tax preference under section 58(g) determined for purposes of the minimum tax;

(B) The amount of foreign mineral income under section 901(e);

(C) [Reserved]

(D) The amount of foreign oil and gas extraction income and the amount of foreign oil related income under section 907;

(E) The tax base for citizens entitled to the benefits of section 931 and the section 936 tax credit of a domestic corporation which has an election in effect under section 936;

(F) The exclusion for income from Puerto Rico for residents of Puerto Rico under section 933;

(G) The limitation under section 934 on the maximum reduction in income tax liability incurred to the Virgin Islands;

(H) The income derived from Guam by an individual who is subject to section 935;

(I) The special deduction granted to China Trade Act corporations under section 941;

(J) The amount of certain U.S. source income excluded from the subpart F income of a controlled foreign corporation under section 952(b);

(K) The amount of income from the insurance of U.S. risks under section 953(b)(5);

(L) The international boycott factor and the specifically attributable taxes and income under section 999; and

(M) The taxable income attributable to the operation of an agreement vessel under section 607 of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, as amended, and the Capital Construction Fund Regulations thereunder (26 C.F.R., part 3). See 26 C.F.R. 3.2(b)(3).

(2) Application to more than one operative section. (i) Where more than one operative section applies, it may be necessary for the taxpayer to apply this section separately for each applicable operative section. In such a case, the taxpayer is required to use the same method of allocation and the same principles of apportionment for all operative sections.

(ii) When expenses, losses, and other deductions that have been properly allocated and apportioned between combined gross income of a related supplier and a DISC or former DISC and residual gross income, regardless of which of the administrative pricing methods of section 994 has been applied, such deductions are not also allocated and apportioned to gross income consisting of distributions from the DISC or former DISC attributable to income of the DISC or former DISC as determined under the administrative pricing methods with respect to DISC or former DISC taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. Accordingly, Example (22) of paragraph (g) of this section does not apply to distributions from a DISC or former DISC with respect to DISC or former DISC taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. This rule does not apply to the extent that the taxable income of the DISC or former DISC is determined under the section 994(a)(3) transfer pricing method. In addition, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986, in the case of expenses, losses, and other deductions that have been properly allocated and apportioned between combined gross income of a related supplier and a FSC and residual gross income, regardless of which of the administrative pricing methods of section 925 has been applied, such deductions are not also allocated and apportioned to gross income consisting of distributions from the FSC or former FSC which are attributable to the foreign trade income of the FSC or former FSC as determined under the administrative pricing methods. This rule does not apply to the extent that the foreign trade income of the FSC or former FSC is determined under the section 925(a)(3) transfer pricing method. See Example (23) of paragraph (g) of this section.

(3) Special rules of section 863(b)--(i) In general. Special rules under section 863(b) provide for the application of rules of general apportionment provided in Secs. 1.863-3 to 1.863-5, to worldwide taxable income in order to attribute part of such worldwide taxable income to U.S. sources and the remainder of such worldwide taxable income to foreign sources. The activities specified in section 863(b) are--

(A) Transportation or other services rendered partly within and partly without the United States,

(B) Sales of personal property produced by the taxpayer within and sold without the United States, or produced by the taxpayer without and sold within the United States, and

(C) Sales within the United States of personal property purchased within a possession of the United States. In the instances provided in Secs. 1.863-3 and 1.863-4 with respect to the activities described in (A), (B), and (C) of this subdivision, this section is applicable only in determining worldwide taxable income attributable to these activities.

(ii) Relationship of sections 861, 862, 863(a), and 863(b). Sections 861, 862, 863(a), and 863(b) are the four provisions applicable in determining taxable income from specific sources. Each of these four provisions applies independently. Where a deduction has been allocated and apportioned to income under one of these four provisions, the deduction shall not again be allocated and apportioned to gross income under any of the other three provisions. However, two or more of these provisions may have to be applied at the same time to determine the proper allocation and apportionment of a deduction. The special rules under section 863(b) take precedence over the general rules of Code sections 861, 862 and 863(a). For example, where a deduction is allocable in whole or in part to gross income to which section 863(b) applies, such deduction or part thereof shall not otherwise be allocated under section 861, 862, or 863(a). However, where the gross income to which the deduction is allocable includes both gross income to which section 863(b) applies and gross income to which section 861, 862, or 863(a) applies, more than one section must be applied at the same time in order to determine the proper allocation and apportionment of the deduction.

(4) Adjustments made under other provisions of the Code--(i) In general. If an adjustment which affects the taxpayer is made under section 482 or any other provision of the Code, it may be necessary to recompute the allocations and apportionments required by this section in order to reflect changes resulting from the adjustment. The recomputation made by the District Director shall be made using the same method of allocation and apportionment as was originally used by the taxpayer, provided such method as originally used conformed with paragraph (a)(5) of this section and, in light of the adjustment, such method does not result in a material distortion. In addition to adjustments which would be made aside from this section, adjustments to the taxpayer's income and deductions which would not otherwise be made may be required before applying this section in order to prevent a distortion in determining taxable income from a particular source of activity. For example, if an item included as a part of the cost of goods sold has been improperly attributed to specific sales, and, as a result, gross income under one of the operative sections referred to in paragraph (f)(1) of this section is improperly determined, it may be necessary for the District Director to make an adjustment to the cost of goods sold, consistent with the principles of this section, before applying this section. Similarly, if a domestic corporation transfers the stock in its foreign subsidiaries to a domestic subsidiary and the parent continues to incur expenses in connection with the supervision of the foreign subsidiaries (see paragraph (e)(4) of this section), it may be necessary for the District Director to make an allocation under section 482 with respect to such expenses before making allocations and apportionments required by this section, even though the section 482 allocation might not otherwise be made.

(5) Verification of allocations and apportionments. Since, under this section, allocations and apportionments are made on the basis of the factual relationship between deductions and gross income, the taxpayer is required to furnish, at the request of the District Director, information from which such factual relationships can be determined. In reviewing the overall limitation to the foreign tax credit of a domestic corporation, for example, the District Director should consider information which would enable him to determine the extent to which deductions attributable to functions performed in the United States are related to earning foreign source income, United States source income, or income from both sources. In addition to functions with a specific international purpose, consideration should be given to the functions of management, the direction and results of an acquisition program, the functions of operating units and personnel located at the head office, the functions of support units (including but not limited to engineering, legal, budget, accounting, and industrial relations), the functions of selling and advertising units and personnel, the direction and uses of research and development and the direction and uses of services furnished by independent contractors.

1 Thus, for example when requested by the District Director, the taxpayer shall make available any of its
 2 organization charts, manuals, and other writings which relate to the manner in which its gross income arises and
 3 to the functions of organizational units, employees, and assets of the taxpayer and arrange for the interview of 4 such of its employees as the District Director deems desirable in order to determine the gross income to which
 5 deductions relate. See section 7602 and the regulations thereunder which generally provide for the examination
 6 of books and witnesses. See also section 905(b) and the regulations thereunder which require proof of foreign tax
 7 credits to the satisfaction of the Secretary or his delegate.

9 3.12.10 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1: Determination of Taxable Income

10 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1

11 (c) Determination of taxable income. The taxpayer's taxable income from sources within or without the United
 12 States will be determined under the rules of Secs. 1.861-8 through 1.861-14T for determining taxable income
 13 from sources within the United States. (Emphasis added)

14 Any argument that 861 has nothing to do with section 61 appears to be quite ridiculous, as §1.861-8(a)(3) displays the same
 15 list of items as § 61(a), and § 861 uses the same word "source" as used in both the 16th Amendment and section 61. In review
 16 of 1.863-1(c) we can ask the question to the search engine, is there another provision of law that is used for determining 17 taxable or gross income from sources within the U.S.?

18 3.12.11 26 C.F.R. § 1.6661-6 (b): Waiver of Penalty

19 26 C.F.R. §1.6661-6(b)

20 (a) In general.

21 The Commissioner may waive all or part of the penalty imposed by section 6661 on a showing by the taxpayer
 22 that there was reasonable cause for the understatement (or part thereof) and that the taxpayer acted in good faith.
 23 The circumstances taken into account in determining whether to waive the penalty are described in paragraph
 24 (b) of this section. In addition, paragraph (c) of this section describes circumstances in which the penalty will 25 always be waived.

26 (b) Reasonable cause and good faith.

27 In making a determination regarding waiver of the penalty under section 6661, the most important factor in all
 28 cases not described in paragraph (c) of this section will be the extent of the taxpayer's effort to assess the 29 taxpayer's proper tax liability under the law. For example, reliance on a position contained in a proposed 30 regulation would ordinarily constitute reasonable cause and good faith. In addition, circumstances that may 31 indicate reasonable cause and good faith include an honest misunderstanding of fact or law that is reasonable
 32 in light of the experience, knowledge, and education of the taxpayer. Moreover, a computational or transcriptional
 33 error would, in general, indicate reasonable cause and good faith. Reliance on an information return or on the 34 advice of a professional (such as an appraiser, an attorney, or an accountant) would not necessarily constitute 35 a showing of reasonable cause and good faith. Similarly, reliance on facts that, unknown to the taxpayer, are 36 incorrect would not necessarily constitute a showing of reasonable cause and good faith. Reliance on an 37 information return, professional advice, or other facts, however, would constitute a showing of reasonable cause
 38 and good faith if, under all the circumstances, such reliance was reasonable and the taxpayer acted in good faith.
 39 For example, reliance on erroneous information, (such as an error relating to the cost of property, the date 40 property was placed in service, or the amount of opening or closing inventory) inadvertently included in data 41 compiled by the various divisions of a multidivisional corporation or in financial books and records prepared by 42 those divisions would, in general, indicate reasonable cause and good faith, provided the corporation had 43 internal controls and procedures, reasonable under the circumstances, that were designed to identify factual
 44 errors. Accordingly, waiver of the section 6661 penalty attributable to an understatement caused by such an error
 45 would be appropriate. Similarly, a taxpayer's reliance on erroneous information reported on a Form 1099 would 46 indicate reasonable cause and good faith, and waiver would be appropriate, if the taxpayer did not know or have 47 reason to know that the information was incorrect. Generally, a taxpayer would know or have reason to know
 48 that the information on a Form 1099 is incorrect only if such information is inconsistent with other information
 49 reported to the taxpayer or is inconsistent with the taxpayer's knowledge concerning the amount and rate of
 50 return of the payor's obligation. In the case of an understatement that is related to an item on the return of a pass-
 51 through entity (as defined in section 1.6661-4(e)), the good faith or lack of good faith of the entity generally will 52 be imputed to the taxpayer that has the understatement. Any good faith imputed to the taxpayer under the 53 preceding sentence, however, may be refuted by other factors indicating lack of good faith on the part of the 54 taxpayer.

1 3.12.12 26 C.F.R. §31: Employment Taxes and Collection of Income Taxes at the Source

2 This section of the Treasury Regulations defines the methods, forms, and terms used for implementing employment taxes. It
 3 is based on 26 U.S.C. §3405. What the code doesn't emphasize anywhere is that this section ONLY APPLIES to the following
 4 defined entities. Note the definitions from the code sections are in italics, and my comments are in regular font:

|             | IRS Website( http://www.irs.gov/ )Publication 15 | Employee status under common law. Generally, a worker who performs services for you is your employee if you can control what will be done and how it will be done. This is so even when you give the employee freedom of action. What matters is that you have the right to control the details of how the services are per-formed. See Pub. 5-A, Employer's Supplemental Tax Guide, for more information on how to determine whether an individual providing services is an independent contractor or an employee. Generally, people in business for themselves are not employees. For example, doctors, lawyers, veterinarians, construction contractors, and others in an independent trade in which they offer their services to the public are usually not employees. However, if the business is incorporated, corporate officers who work in the business are employees. If an employer-employee relationship exists, it does not matter what it is called. The employee may be called an agent or independent contractor. It also does not matter how payments are measured or paid, what they are called, or if the employee works full or part time.                                                             |
|             | 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(d)-1                                                                    | The code below is restricted by the fact that it requires that a person be acting as an "employee" for the employer as defined narrowly by 26CFR31.3401(c)-1 below. This implies that in most cases, the employer is a government entity, which may in some cases be a receivership for an otherwise private entity. Therefore, if I am working for a private concern that has fallen into receivership or control of the government under bankruptcy laws, then I become and "employee" because I am working for a government agency. Otherwise, I am not an employee. You will also note that the definition of Employer below would also appear to be much broader than that found in 26 U.S.C. §3401, which is the regulation from which it derives. a) The term employer means any person for whom an individual performs or performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person. (b) It is not necessary that the services be continuing at the time the wages are paid in order that the status of employer exist. Thus, for purposes of withholding, a person for whom an individual has performed past services for which he is still receiving wages from such person is an employer. |

|          |                         | (c) An employer may be an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust, an estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, group or entity. A trust or estate, rather than the fiduciary acting for or on behalf of the trust or estate, is generally the employer. (d) The term employer embraces not only individuals and organizations engaged in trade or business, but organizations exempt from income tax, such as religious and charitable organizations, educational institutions, clubs, social organizations and societies, as well as the governments of the United States, the States, Territories, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia, including their agencies, instrumentalities, and political subdivisions. (e) The term employer also means (except for the purpose of the definition of wages) any person paying wages on behalf of a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States (including Puerto Rico as if a part of the United States). (f) If the person for whom the services are or were performed does not have legal control of the payment of the wages for such services, the term employer means (except for the purpose of the definition of wages) the person having such control. For example, where wages, such as certain types of pensions or retired pay, are paid by a trust and the person for whom the services were performed has no legal control over the payment of such wages, the trust is the employer. (g) The term employer also means a person making a payment of a supplemental unemployment compensation benefit which is treated under paragraph (b)(14) of Sec. 31.3401(a)-1 as if it were wages. For example, if supplemental unemployment compensation benefits are paid from a trust which was created under the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, the trust shall generally be deemed to be the employer. However, if the person making such payment is acting solely as an agent for another person, the term employer shall mean such other person and not the person actually making the payment. (h) It is a basic purpose to centralize in the employer the responsibility for withholding, returning, and paying the tax, and for furnishing the statements required under section 6051 and Sec. 31.6051- 1. The special definitions of the term employer in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section are designed solely to meet special or unusual situations. They are not intended as a departure from the basic purpose. |

| Wages             | IRS Website:http://www.irs.gov/Pub 15 | Wages subject to Federal employment taxes include all pay you give an employee for services performed. The pay may be in cash or in other forms. It includes salaries, vacation allowances, bonuses, commissions, and fringe benefits. It does not matter how you measure or make the payments. Also, compensation paid to a former employee for services performed while still employed is wages subject to employment taxes. See section 6 for a discussion of tips and section 7 for a discussion of supplemental wages. | Withholding authority by "agents" | 26 C.F.R. §31.3504-1 | (a) In general. In the event wages as defined in chapter 21 or 24 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, or compensation as defined in chapter 22 of such Code, of an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, is paid by a fiduciary, agent, or other person, or if such fiduciary, agent, or other person has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of such wages, or compensation, the district director, or director of a service center, may, subject to such terms and conditions as he deems proper, authorize such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are required of such employer or employers under those provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and the regulations thereunder which have application, for purposes of the taxes imposed by such chapter or chapters, in respect of such wages or compensation. If the fiduciary, agent, or other person is authorized by the district director, or director of a service center, to perform such acts, all provisions of law (including penalties) and of the regulations prescribed in pursuance of law applicable to employers in respect of such acts shall be applicable to such fiduciary, agent, or other person. However, each employer for whom such fiduciary, agent, or other person performs such acts shall remain subject to all provisions of law (including penalties) and of the regulations prescribed in pursuance of law applicable to an employer in respect of such acts. Any application for authorization to perform such acts, signed by such fiduciary, agent, or other person, shall be filed with the district director, or director of a service center, with whom the fiduciary, agent, or other person will, upon approval of such application, file returns in accordance with such authorization. (b) Prior authorizations continued. An authorization in effect under section 1632 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 on December 31, 1954, continues in effect under section 3504 and is subject to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section. Did you notice that this code does NOT say that the district director may "order" the agent to withhold? He can only "authorize such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are required of such employer or employers under those provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 and the regulations thereunder which have application, for purposes of the taxes imposed by such chapter or chapters, in respect of such wages or compensation". The question arises then: "What if he doesn't want to withhold or the employees don't want him withholding?" The answer is that the agent can't be forced under color of law to withhold according to this. |

1 If they put these unambiguous definitions from the U.S. Code at the beginning of the section, do you think most people would
2 read and heed it? Instead, they put the definitions of "withholding agent" NOT in the C.F.R.'s but deep at the end of the U.S.C, where people aren't likely to look at it. Most other titles of the U.S. Code put the definitions at the beginning of the title. In implementing the U.S. Code through the C.F.R., you will note that the Treasury department left the definition of employee intact but considerably broadened the definition of employer. By what legal authority did the Law Revision Counsel of the House of Representatives, who writes and updates the Internal Revenue Code, expand the applicability of the Internal Revenue Code by redefining these terms? There is none! The Treasury and the IRS have no constitutional or statutory authority to broaden the definition of any term used in the U.S. Code when applying it in the C.F.R.'s. Instead, they had to rely on a trick with the definition of the word "include" documented in section 3.9.1.8 as their justification. Basically, they had to say: "The U.S. Codes don't define everything that is taxable and are not restrictive, and we can add whatever we want."

It's obvious that the Treasury and the IRS want you to believe that their authority is unlimited and unquestionable, starting with how they choose to define the word "includes" in the I.R.C. We believe they simply wanted to have more leverage in the use of scare and F.U.D. tactics against employers so they could prevent a Citizen revolt in the process of refusing to sign W-4's that authorize the collection of taxes. After all, why would an employee want to argue with their employer (look a gift horse in the mouth) and risk their job by dragging their employer into court to litigate the improper application of the tax code by their employer and the wrongful taking of taxes. An old Chinese proverb sums this situation up very wisely:

"The mouth that eats does not talk."

Note, however, that the term "employer" at 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(d)-1 in the C.F.R. still depends on and is derived from the definition of employee in the U.S. Code, and therefore it can be no more expansive than the original definition of employer found in the U.S.C. This kind of devious legal chicanery is the reason why even to this day employers still incorrectly report "gross income" in their tax withholdings reported to the IRS, and the IRS wants to keep it that way!.

3.12.13 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1: Employee

(c) Generally, physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, contractors, subcontractors, public stenographers, auctioneers, and others who follow an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are not employees.

Now isn't that interesting? You're not an employee after all! So why does your "employer" withhold taxes on you? They don't have the legal authority to do it, if you aren't an employee as defined by the Internal Revenue Code!

3.13 Treasury Decisions and Orders

3.13.1 Treasury Delegation of Authority Order 150-37: Always Question Authority!

What is a Treasury Department Delegation of Authority Order (also called a TDO)? In America, we have a system of law and order. The People delegate powers to the appropriate branch of government, through the Constitution of the United States, and that power is then delegated down to the officer or employee actually exercising the power. Otherwise, there is no authority. Without a valid, properly executed, Delegation of Authority Order, applicable to you, anyone with a badge from a security guard supply house could steal your property and violate your rights.

Billie Murdock of Salt Lake City, a brave female Patriot, has learned to always question authority. She has done a tremendous amount of valuable research on Delegation of Authority.

Billie received a Summons from the IRS. She went to the interview but before she would provide any information she asked, "Before I give you these books and records I would like to see a copy of the Delegation of Authority Order from the Secretary of the Treasury that authorized you to summons me with my books and records.

The meeting was over almost immediately. The IRS stated that they needed to contact their District Counsel. Their Counsel advised the IRS to re-issue the summons, without acknowledging the existence of a Delegation of Authority Order.

1 Although there is a legal requirement to maintain all Delegation of Authority Order at the local District IRS office the agents
2 would not provide Billie with a copy of one. The Commerce Clearinghouse Internal Revenue Manuel, Volume 1, states as
3 follows:

4 "Each regional and district office and service center should maintain at least one complete and annotated file of 5 all Delegations of Authority(s) [DOA] made to such office and by such office."

6 "Billie Murdock would not be ignored. After not obtaining a copy of the Delegation of Authority Order from her local office,
7 she decided to fly directly to the Department of the Treasury in Washington D.C.. Billie knew the number of the alleged
8 Delegation Order for Summons, which the local IRS would not provide for her, was Treasury Delegation Order No. 150-37
9 When Billie landed in Washington D.C., she went directly to the Department of the Treasury who sent her to the National 10 IRS office. She told the clerk, "Hi, I'm here to get a copy of Treasury Delegation Order 150-37." The clerk responded by 11 saying, "No problem, I'll have it for you in a minute." Twenty five minutes later the same clerk returned with no Delegation
12 Order and stated, "Mrs. Murdock, I'm authorized to tell you that the Order does exist but I can't give you a copy or tell you 13 why." Unbelievable but true!

14 Further, this order has never been published in the Federal Register, pursuant to 44 U.S.C. Sec, 1501. While there is no lawful
15 requirement to publish DOAs for inhabitants of U.S. Territories, all Laws and delegation orders, which are binding upon the 16 Citizens of the 50 Republic states, must be published in the Federal Register and no such Citizen can be adversely affected
17 or bound by an unpublished order. The IRS doesn't want Citizens of the 50 Republic states to see the collection of Delegation
18 Orders because they are only applicable in U.S. Territories and tax treaty countries. They provide absolutely zero authority
19 in the 50 Republic states!

20 Treasury Department Order 150-42, dated 7/27/56, 21 Fed. Reg. 5852 delegated the following limited authority to the 21 Commissioner:

22 "The Commissioner shall, to the extent of the authority vested in him, provide for the administration of United
23 States internal revenue laws in the Panama Canal Zone Puerto Rico the Virgin Islands.~

24 On Feb. 27, 1986 the Federal Register (51 Fed. Reg. 9571) published the following Treasury Department Order No. 150-01:

25 "The commissioner shall, to the extent of authority otherwise vested in him, provide for the administration of the 26 United States internal revenue laws in the US. Territories and insular possessions and other authorized areas of 29 Billie Murdock then returned home and wrote up an Affidavit about her meeting with the Clerk at the National IRS Office.

30 With this ammunition, Billie began to smell fraud and returned to her local IRS office to meet with the same Revenue Agent
31 and his Group Manager. This time she brought a Court Reporter. Again she asked the loaded question, "Do you have the 32 authority to summon me here?" The Revenue agent aggressively responded in a threatening manner, "We sure do!" The 33 Group Manager, however, was cowering and reached over and touched the agent on the shoulder and said, "No we don't."
34 The agent lost his composure and stuttered, "What do you mean, we don't?" "She's right," the manager interrupted, "We don't 35 have the authority to summon her...pardon us for interrupting you Mrs. Murdock, this meeting is over."
36

37 The IRS was still not ready to completely give up and the U.S. Attorney tried his luck at intimidating Mrs. Murdock by filing
38 a Petition in District Court in Salt Lake City. Billie filed a Response Brief with supporting evidence that no Delegation of 39 Authority Order, applicable to her, existed. In less than 36 hours the Government withdrew their Petition and closed the case.
40 Billie had the education and courage to call the bluff of the IRS! :

41 Following is the source for Paul Harvey's nation-wide announcement that filing a 1040 Form was voluntary.

42 Conklin v. U.S.A.
43 FILING A 1040 IS VOLUNTARY
44 by William T. Conklin, Denver, Colorado

45 The tenth Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled in Conklin v. U.S.A. (94-1213) that the filing of tax returns is not 46 compelled or required. Their decision is unpublished.

I discovered about fifteen years ago that a mandatory requirement to file a 1040 Return would be unconstitutional to the extent that it would require a Citizen to waive their Fifth Amendment rights

About ten years ago I started offering a $50,000 reward to anyone who could show me: (1) What statute in the Internal Revenue Code makes me liable to pay the income tax? (2) How I can file a 1040 Return without waiving my Fifth Amendment Rights?

Although many people have applied for the reward; no one has answered the question. The famous Attorney Melvin Belli applied for the reward and backed down when I explained the law to him. Another man sued me in Federal Court for the reward and I won and got costs against him!

About eight years ago I raised this issued and filed suit in Federal Court. The judge sat on the case for five years before ruling against me. He told me in open court that if he ruled in my favor he would overturn the income tax system.

He ruled that the Fifth Amendment does not apply because filing 1040 returns is not required or compelled! (The opposite of compelled is voluntary.) The Tenth Circuit upheld his decision. I have won four published cases against the IRS. The cites are:

U.S. v. Church of World Peace, 878 F.2d. 1281
Tavery v. United States, 897 F.2d. 1032.
Church of World Peace, Inc. v. IRS, 715 F.2d. 492

3.13.2 Treasury Decision Number 2313: March 21, 1916

This document was published following the Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad and was meant to clarify the basis for assessing income taxes on all individuals. Here are a few excerpted quotes from T.D. 2313 in reference to the Brushaber decision:

"..it is hereby held that income accruing to nonresident aliens in the form of interest...and dividends ..is subject to the income tax imposed by the act of October 3, 1913. The responsible heads, agents, or representatives of nonresident aliens...shall make a full and complete return of the income therefrom on...Form 1040..."
 [Treasury Decision 2313]

So there you have it. The Treasury Department stated that you are to file Form 1040 on behalf of your "nonresident alien principal". So don't forget to do that next April 15th! Of course, since you'll be signing Form 1040 under penalties of perjury and stating that every material fact is 100% correct to the best of your knowledge, and since the commission of perjury is a felony that attaches criminal fines and penalties, be sure you really are filling Form 1040 on behalf of your "nonresident alien principal"!

By reading Internal Revenue Code section 871(a) [also called 26 U.S.C. §871(a) ], we see that it imposes a tax of 30% on the amount received by non-resident aliens from sources within the United States.

Code section 871(b) states that the nonresident alien shall be taxable under code section 1, thus authorizing the use of the charts in section 1 to compute and reduce his tax, so he can get a tax refund from the 30% which is withheld under the provisions of section 1441.

Also, under I.R.C. Section 874(a), the nonresident alien is entitled to the benefit of deductions and credits by filing or having his agent file, a 1040, as stated in T.D. 2313. Of course, this has nothing to do with a Citizen!

| Two United States Jurisdictions                                  | The United States of America is comprised of two separate jurisdictions: 1. The 50 Union states; 2. The federal zone encompassing the District of Columbia, federal possessions and territories that aren't yet states, and lands within the states.         | 1818        | U.S. v. Bevans , 16 U.S. 336 (1818)                             |
| Labor as property                                                | Labor is property and it is the most sacred and inviolable of property, because through it, every other type of property is acquired. People (not the government) have a right to determine how then expend their labor in the pursuit of the own happiness. | 1883        | Butcher's Union Co. v. Crescent City Co. , 111 U.S. 746 (1883)  |
| Jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code and the federal courts | The law of Congress in respect to those matters do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government.            | 1895        | Caha v. United States , 152 U.S. 211 (1895)                     |
| Corporate and individual income taxes                            | Corporate and individual income taxes are illegal and beyond the power of Congress to assess.                                                                                                                                                                | 1895        | Pollock v. Farmers Loan and Trust Company , 157 U.S. 429 (1895) |
| Direct taxes                                                     | Direct taxes bear immediately upon persons, upon the possession and enjoyment of rights; indirect taxes are levied upon the happening of an event as an exchange.                                                                                            | 1900        | Knowlton v. Moore , 178 U.S. 41 (1900)                          |
| Constitutional rights in federal territories                     | People living in federal territories, such as the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam do not have constitutional protections of their rights the way citizens of the United States of America have.                              | 1901        | Downes v. Bidwell , 182 U.S. 244 (1901)                         |
| Fifth Amendment                                                  | Individuals have an absolute right to not incriminate themselves under the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Corporations do not.                                                                                                                    | 1906        | Hale v. Henkel , 201 U.S. 43 (1906)                             |

| Subject                                                                                 | Conclusion                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Date | Matter                                                                |

| Privacy of records and right to not submit a tax return                                        | Information appearing on a tax return may NOT be used as evidence in a court to prosecute a citizen if the tax return was submitted under compulsion or in violation of Fifth Amendment constitutional protections                                               | 1914        | Weeks v. U.S. , 232 U.S. 383 (1914)                                   |
| Individual income taxes on nonresident alien earnings                                          | Income taxes are excise (indirect) taxes. They are constitutional when imposed on nonresident aliens, who are not citizens. No ruling was made on taxes paid by citizens.                                                                                        | 1916        | Brushaber v. The amendment did not take income taxes out of the category of excise (indirect) taxes to which they belonged, in which case they continued to apply only to corporate income but not individuals. | 1916        | Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co. , 240 U.S. 103 (1916)                    |
| Corporate income taxes on revenues from exportation                                            | Ruled that corporate excise taxes based on income and without apportionment were permitted as per the 16th Amendment.                                                                                                                                            | 1918        | William E. Peck &amp; Co. v. Lowe , 247 U.S. 165 (1918)               |
| Income taxes on federal employees                                                              | Direct taxes on the salaries of federal employees, in this case judges, are not supported by the 16 th Amendment and are unconstitutional.                                                                                                            | 1920        | Evens v. ### 3.14.1 1818: U.S. v. Bevens, 16 U.S. 336

This case involved a federal prosecution for a murder committed on board the Warship, Independence, anchored in the harbor of Boston, Massachusetts. The defense complained that only the state had jurisdiction to prosecute and argued that the federal Circuit Courts had no jurisdiction of this crime supposedly committed within the federal government's admiralty jurisdiction. In argument before the Supreme Court, counsel for the United States admitted as follows:

"The exclusive jurisdiction which the United States have in forts and dock-yards ceded to them, is derived from the express assent of the states by whom the cessions are made. It could be derived in no other manner; because without it, the authority of the state would be supreme and exclusive therein,"
[3 Wheat., at 350, 351]

In holding that the State of Massachusetts had jurisdiction over the crime, the Court held:

"What, then, is the extent of jurisdiction which a state possesses?"

"We answer, without hesitation, the jurisdiction of a state is co-extensive with its territory; co-extensive with its legislative power," 3 Wheat., at 386, 387.

"The article which describes the judicial power of the United States is not intended for the cession of territory or of general jurisdiction. ... Congress has power to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over this district, and over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings."

"It is observable that the power of exclusive legislation (which is jurisdiction) is united with cession of territory, which is to be the free act of the states. It is difficult to compare the two sections together, without feeling a conviction, not to be strengthened by any commentary on them, that, in describing the judicial power, the framers of our constitution had not in view any cession of territory; or, which is essentially the same, of general jurisdiction," 3 Wheat., at 388.

Thus in Bevens, the Court established a principle that federal jurisdiction extends only over the areas wherein it possesses the power of exclusive legislation under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution, and this is a principle incorporated into all subsequent decisions regarding the extent of federal jurisdiction. To hold otherwise would destroy the purpose, intent and meaning of the entire U.S. Constitution. This ruling was also significant, because it divides the United States into what we call the "federal zone", which includes the District of Columbia, U.S. Possessions, and Territories on the one hand, and the 50 Union states on the other hand. This issue is very important and explains the definitions of "State" and "United States" found in sections 3.9.1.20-3.9.1.24.

1 When Congress is operating in its exclusive jurisdiction over the District of Columbia, the territories, and enclaves, it is
 2 important to remember that it has full authority to enact legislation as private acts pertaining to its boundaries, and it is not a
 3 state of the union of states because it exists solely by virtue of the compact/constitution that created it. The constitution does
 4 not say that the District of Columbia must guarantee a Republican form of Government to its own subject citizens within its
 5 territories. (See Hepburn & Dundas v. Ellzey, 6 U.S. 445(1805); Glaeser v. Acacia Mut. Life Ass'n., 55 F.Supp., 925 (1944);

 12 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901), supra.]

13 The Constitution provides limited powers to federal government over the state Citizens. The federal government has unlimited
 14 powers over federal citizens because it is acting outside of the Constitution. Administrative laws are private acts and are not 15 applicable to state Citizens. The Internal Revenue Code is administrative law.

 23 [Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

24 Authors notes: A privilege is taxable, a RIGHT is not, that's why they had to take off the POLL TAX. A tax on property is 25 DIRECT TAX, and constitutionally MUST BE APPORTIONED. The Corporate Excise Tax of 1909 was a 2% tax on 26 PROFITS OF CORPORATIONS. The Supreme Court had, in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan and Trust, in 1894, ruled as
 27 UNCONSTITUTIONAL the EXACT SAME KIND OF TAX MOST AMERICANS ARE NOW PAYING! [A direct tax without 28 apportionment.] This decision has NEVER been overturned!

29 Both BEFORE and AFTER the sixteenth amendment passed?, THE COURTS SAID INCOME WAS CORPORATE PROFIT!
 30 The Separation of powers doctrine says only CONGRESS can collect a tax! This is part of the message that the PATRIOTS
 31 of this country have been trying to tell you for the last 30 years!! The predicted income tax rate of 80-90% early next century
 32 is SLAVERY!! and IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL!!!! No one believes us, they think we're a bunch of gun toting, beer drinking 33 rednecks!!

34 3.14.3 1894: Caha v. United States, 152 U.S. 211

35 "The laws of Congress in respect to those matters do not extend into the territorial limits of the states, but have 36 force only in the District of Columbia, and other places that are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the national
 37 government."
 38 [Caha v. United States, 152 U.S. 211 (1894)]

39 This case established that the Congress has a right to make laws only to those places within its jurisdiction. The only places 40 it has exclusive jurisdiction over are:

- 41 1. U.S. territories, such as Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands.
- 42 2. The District of Columbia.

43 This means that they can't write laws that extend into the territorial limits of the states. This issue is very significant when 44 we talk about the need to identify "sources" for taxation. A "source" applies a tax to a geographical location. This case also 45 explains why there must be a section in the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C. Section 861) that identifies taxable "sources".

46 3.14.4 1895: Pollock v. Farmer's Loan and Trust Company, 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601

1 This case was about a man named Charles Pollock, a Citizen of Massachusetts, who owned stock in Farmer's Loan and Trust
 2 Company. He was upset with the fiduciaries of the company because they were paying DIRECT a tax of 2 percent levied on
 3 them by the U.S. government, and that reduced his dividends. He thought it was unconstitutional that the U.S. Government
 4 could assess a direct tax on the corporation, and took the case to court in prevent the U.S. Government from assessing income
 5 taxes on the corporation. The attorney who challenged the Income Tax Act of 1894 in this lawsuit, Joseph H. Choate, told
 6 the supreme Court about the income tax in question:

7 *"The act of Congress which we are impugning [challenging as false] before you is Communistic* in its purposes
 8 and tendencies."*

9 **NOTE: A progressive "graduated" tax system is one of the planks of the Communist Manifesto. The American 10 direct taxing system is based upon "equal apportionment."*

11 Below are excerpts from the judge's findings relative to the law that imposed the tax:

12 *"Nothing can be clearer than that what the constitution intended to guard against was the exercise by the general
 13 government of the power of directly taxing persons and property within any state through a majority made up
 14 from the other states. It is true that the effect of requiring direct taxes to be apportioned among the states in 15 proportion to their population is necessarily that the amount of taxes on the individual [157 U.S. 429, 583]
 16 taxpayer in a state having the taxable subject-matter to a larger extent in proportion to its population than another
 17 state has, would be less than in such other state; but this inequality must be held to have been contemplated, and 18 was manifestly designed to operate to restrain the exercise of the power of direct taxation to extraordinary 19 emergencies, and to prevent an attack upon accumulated property by mere force of numbers.*

20 ...

21 *It is the duty of the court in this case simply to determine whether the income tax now before it does or does not
 22 belong to the class of direct taxes, and if it does, to decide the constitutional question which follows . . .*

23 *First. That the law in question, in imposing a tax on the income or rents of real estate, imposes a tax upon the 24 real estate itself; and in imposing a tax on the interest or other income of bonds or other personal property, held
 25 for the purposes of income or ordinarily yielding income, imposes a tax upon the personal estate itself; that such 26 tax is a direct tax, and void because imposed without regard to the rule of apportionment; and that by reason 27 thereof the whole law is invalidated.*

28 *Second. That the law is invalid, because imposing indirect taxes in violation of the constitutional requirement of 29 uniformity, and therein also in violation of the implied limitation upon taxation that all tax laws must apply
 30 equally, impartially, and uniformly to all similarly situated. Under the second head, it is contended that the rule
 31 of uniformity is violated, in that the law taxes the income of certain corporations, companies, and associations,
 32 no matter how created or organized, at a higher rate than the incomes of individuals or partnerships derived
 33 from precisely similar property or business; in that it exempts from the operation of the act and from the burden
 34 of taxation numerous corporations, companies, and associations having similar property and carrying on similar 35 business to those expressly taxed; in that it denies to individuals deriving their income from shares in certain 36 corporations, companies, and associations the benefit of the exemption of $ 4,000 granted to other persons
 37 interested in similar property and business; in the exemption of $4,000; in the exemption of building and loan 38 associations, savings banks, mutual life, fire, marine, and accident insurance companies, existing solely for the 39 pecuniary profit of their members,-these and other exemptions being alleged to be purely arbitrary and 40 capricious, justified by no public purpose, and of such magnitude as to invalidate the entire enactment; and in 41 other particulars. "*

42 [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895)]

43 The supreme Court opinion written by Justice Field, for this historic decision, concluded with the following extremely 44 prophetic words:

45 *"Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very
 46 foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress, 47 where is the course of usurpation to end?"*

48 *The present assault upon capital is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more
 49 sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing intensity and 50 bitterness."*

51 This case was significant because it eliminated the U.S. Government's right to assess DIRECT corporate and individual taxes
 52 based on rents, real estate, or incomes. In the Brushaber v. Union Pacific R.R., 240 U.S. 1 (1916), the Supreme Court analyzed
 53 the findings in this case, and stated:

Moreover in addition the Conclusion reached in the Pollock Case did not in any degree involve holding that income taxes generically and necessarily came within the class of direct taxes on property, but on the contrary recognized the fact that taxation on income was in its nature an excise entitled to be enforced as such unless and until it was concluded that to enforce it would amount to accomplishing the result which the requirement as to apportionment of direct taxation was adopted to prevent, in which case the duty would arise to disregard form and consider substance alone and hence subject the tax to the regulation as to apportionment which otherwise as an excise would not apply to it.

3.14.5 1900: Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41

The U.S. Supreme Court in Knowlton v. Moore ruled that:

“Direct taxes bear immediately upon persons, upon the possession and enjoyment of rights; indirect taxes are levied upon the happening of an event as an exchange.”

3.14.6 1901: Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244

In 1901 there was a case that came up in front of the Supreme Court. It is called Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244. It was a case about exports from Puerto Rico, which was a territory, and part of the area congress had exclusive legislative authority over. The Court said:

Note that they are not talking here about Constitutional protections for the land. The Constitution protects PEOPLE! This was confirmed by another case called Hooven v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 674.

SO, IF YOU LIVE IN THE "UNITED STATES", OR ARE A "citizen" OF THE "UNITED STATES" AND a “resident” (by election/choice or by actual presence), THE CONSTITUTION AND BILL OF RIGHTS DO NOT APPLY TO YOU! The outcome of this case is precisely the reason why the federal government has no jurisdiction over employers to force them to tax people they are paying wages to in the United States of America (more specifically, the District of Columbia or Puerto Rico, but not the 50 Union states). That is where the requirements listed in 26 U.S.C. §861 come from, which specify that the only thing that qualifies as "gross income" from a taxable source is foreign income from a taxable “source” indicated in Part I of 26 C.F.R. or income from the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and other parts of the “federal zone”. Keep in mind that the 50 Union states are also considered “foreign” with respect to the U.S. Government, because they are not part of the same political unit as the federal unit.

You might be tempted to think at this point:

Some of that may be true, but there may actually also be legitimate and good reasons for not applying constitutional protections to territories and possessions of the United States and other parts of the “federal zone”. Let’s list a few of these reasons here:

1. The United States is responsible for military action against other countries and our military. If they win a war and take over some territory, then that area stays a territory until they elect to be a new “State”, just like Hawaii and Alaska did.
2. Before an area becomes a U.S. territory or possession, it was a foreign country. Chances are good that when it was a foreign country, the citizens used to have their own laws and culture, and that culture may neither respect nor be used to the constitutional protections we have in the United States. The citizens may revolt if we try to impose our full legal system upon them. Therefore, territories and possessions can be and often are under martial or military rule. Martial law cannot be maintained unless constitutional protections are suspended, because there is anarchy and a state of emergency that needs to be eliminated and prevented.
3. Most federal possessions and territories are actually military reservations and bases. The Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) applies on these military reservations and bases. If you read it, you will find out that the members of our military who are subject to it have to surrender some of their constitutional rights. Therefore, it would be impossible to impose constitutional protections on such areas because it would undermine good order and discipline in our military!
4. The great irony of our military is that our servicemen take a pledge or oath to “support and defend the Constitution from all enemies, foreign and domestic”, and yet these very same people don’t have constitutional protections for themselves while they are in the military! One of the most important constitutional protections they lose the right to not pay direct income taxes, which are not allowed under Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the Constitution!

3.14.7 1906: Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43

This case addressed the distinction between individuals and corporations as it pertains to the Fifth Amendment. It said that corporations and other legal fictions do not have Fifth Amendment rights to not incriminate themselves but individuals do:

“...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.

Upon the other hand, the corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges. “

3.14.8 1911: Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107

The U.S. Supreme Court in Flint vs. Stone Tracy Co., defined excises as:

“Excises are taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale or consumption of commodities within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations and upon corporate privileges...the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of [220 U.S. 107, 152] privileges, and the element of absolute and unavoidable demand is lacking...Conceding the power of Congress to tax the business activities of private corporations... the tax must be measured by some standard...It is therefore well settled by the decisions of this court that when the sovereign authority has exercised the right to tax a legitimate subject of taxation as an exercise of a franchise or privilege,

1 it is no objection that the measure of taxation is found in the income produced in part from property which of
 2 itself considered is nontaxable."
 3 [Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911)]

4 Individuals can be subject to an income (excise) tax on their activities if they depend upon a government granted privilege.
 5 So where are the privileges you are in receipt of?

8 3.14.9 1914: Weeks v. U.S., 232 U.S. 383

9 This case is very significant because the supreme Court ruled that illegally obtained evidence may not be used or admitted in
 10 a public trial, as it would violate Fourth Amendment privacy protections. Defendant Weeks was selling lottery tickets by 11 mail. Police arrested him at his workplace and simultaneously illegally entered his home without a warrant to search for and 12 seize evidence, which was then used to convict him. He appealed and reversed his conviction. Here is what the court said:

13 The effect of the 4th Amendment is to put the courts [232 U.S. 383, 392] of the United States and Federal 14 officials, in the exercise of their power and authority, under limitations and restraints as to the exercise of such 15 power and authority, and to forever secure the people, their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against all
 16 unreasonable searches and seizures under the guise of law. This protection reaches all alike, whether accused of 17 crime or not, and the duty of giving to it force and effect is obligatory upon all intrusted under our Federal system
 18 with the enforcement of the laws. The tendency of those who execute the criminal laws of the country to obtain
 19 conviction by means of unlawful seizures and enforced confessions, the latter often obtained after subjecting
 20 accused persons to unwarranted practices destructive of rights secured by the Federal Constitution, should find
 21 no sanction in the judgments of the courts, which are charged at all times with the support of the Constitution,
 22 and to which people of all conditions have a right to appeal for the maintenance of such fundamental rights.

23 [...]

24 The case in the aspect in which we are dealing with it involves the right of the court in a criminal prosecution to
 25 retain for the purposes of evidence the letters and correspondence of the accused, seized in his house in his
 26 absence and without his authority, by a United States marshal holding no warrant for his arrest and none for the 27 search of his premises. The accused, without awaiting his trial, made timely application to the court for an order
 28 for the return of these letters, as well for other property. This application was denied, the letters retained and put 29 in evidence, after a further application at the beginning of the trial, both applications asserting the rights of the 30 *accused under the 4th and 5th Amendments to the Constitution. If letters and private documents
 31 can thus be seized and held and used in evidence against a citizen accused 32 of an offense, the protection of the 4th Amendment, declaring his right to 33 be secure against such searches and seizures, is of no value, and, so far 34 as those thus placed are concerned, might as well be stricken from the 35 Constitution. The efforts of the courts and their officials to bring the guilty to punishment, praiseworthy
 36 as they are, are not to be aided by the sacrifice of those great principles established by years of endeavor and 37 suffering which have resulted in their embodiment in the fundamental law of the land. The United States marshal
 38 could only have invaded the house of the accused when armed with a warrant issued as required by the 39 Constitution, upon sworn information, and describing with reasonable particularity the thing for which the search
 40 *was to be made. Instead, he acted without sanction of law, doubtless prompted 41 by the desire to bring further proof to the aid of the government, and 42 under color of his office undertook to make a seizure of private papers in 43 direct violation of the constitutional prohibition against such action.
 44 Under such circumstances, without sworn information and particular 45 description, not even an order of court would [232 U.S. 383, 394] have 46 justified such procedure; much less was it within the authority of the 47 United States marshal to thus invade the house and privacy of the 48 accused. In Adams v. New York, 192 U.S. 585, 48 L.Ed. 575, 24 Sup.Ct.Rep. 372, this court said that the 4th*
 49 Amendment was intended to secure the citizen in person and property against unlawful invasion of the sanctity of
 50 his home by officers of the law, acting under legislative or judicial sanction. This protection is equally extended
 51 *to the action of the government and officers of the law acting under it. Boyd Case, 116 U.S. 616, 29 L.Ed. 746, 6

1 Sup.Ct.Rep. 524. To sanction such proceedings would be to affirm by judicial decision a manifest neglect, if not
 2 an open defiance, of the prohibitions of the Constitution, intended for the protection of the people against such
 3 unauthorized action.

4 [Emphasis added]

5 [Weeks v. U.S., 232 U.S. 383 (1914)]

6 This case is significant because coercing Americans to submit self-incriminating tax returns is a violation of their rights, and
 7 using these returns as evidence in court to prosecute individuals is a further violation of their rights. Therefore, the IRS and
 8 the Department of Justice are not authorized by the precedent established in the above case, to use tax returns or any of the 9 information on them to prosecute tax payers who have provided 1040 forms involuntarily. That means, that provided that
 10 you put the phrase somewhere on your tax return “Submitted involuntarily and under coercion”, then you are protecting
 11 yourself from anything on the tax return being used against you, even if you sign it as required. Section 2.4.9 of the 12 Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 discusses how to use this case to create, in effect, a Mexican 13 standoff with the IRS in the submission of income tax returns. This technique is also used in section 4.5.4.15 of the 14 Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 entitled “Submit IRS Form 4868 Annually by 15AUG If You 15 Aren’t Filing”. It’s a very effective weapon against the IRS.

18 3.14.10 1916: Brushaber vs. Union Pacific Railroad, 240 U.S. 1

19 This case is one of the most frequently cited cases by the U.S. government in supporting its position that Subtitle A income
 20 taxes are constitutional. It occurred just after the passage of the Sixteenth Amendment in 1916 and became a popular case
 21 for the government to cite because it is written in such a confusing way. There is also a large amount of misinformation
 22 about this case promoted by the patriot community that we would like to eliminate. Because of this fact, we will spend an 23 unusual degree of attention analyzing the case to remove all doubt about its true significance.

24 The Brushaber case was about a French Immigrant, Frank Brushaber, who lived in New York in the Borough of Brooklyn
 25 and who claimed to be a citizen of the State of New York but never claimed to be a STATUTORY “U.S.** citizen” under 8
 26 U.S.C. §1401, which made him a “nonresident alien” for all intents and purposes. Mr. Brushaber owned stock in the Union
 27 Pacific Railroad, a corporation chartered in the federal Territory of Utah before it became a State. As a territory, Utah was 28 part of the federal United States, and as such, was a “domestic corporation” or “federal corporation” at the time it was formed.
 29 Mr. Brushaber filed suit in federal District Court in New York to enjoin the Union Pacific Railroad from volunteering to pay
 30 federal income tax on its profits because he didn’t want his stock dividends correspondingly reduced as a result of the tax.
 31 Note that the issue was not him personally paying income taxes on the stock, but the reduction of his dividends by the amount
 32 of taxes the corporation insisted on volunteering to pay prior to distributing the remaining profits to its shareholders.

33 Justice Edward D. White was the author of the opinion of the court in this case. This was the same justice who wrote the 34 dissenting opinion in the Pollock Decision back in 1895, which incidentally declared the income tax unconstitutional. It was 35 clear then, that he had an axe to grind and wanted to reverse the damage done by the Pollock decision. You might want to 36 go back and review Pollock v. Farmer's Loan and Trust Company, 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895) again to refresh your 37 memory on this monumental case. In the Brushaber case, it would appear that Justice White’s method for reversing the 38 damage done by the Pollock decision was to obfuscate the issues by writing a very confusing opinion. The Brushaber decision
 39 is, without a doubt, one of the most confusing and difficult Supreme Court decisions of all to read and understand, and this 40 is no accident, we believe.

41 The Brushaber decision ruled that the 16th Amendment did not amend or change the U.S. Constitution. It decided that the 42 federal corporation could not be stopped from volunteering to pay the federal income tax, even though this damaged the 43 interests of its stockholders by reducing their dividends. But don’t take our word for it. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court,
 44 in Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad, said in the majority opinion:

45 “...the proposition and the contentions under [the 16th Amendment]...would cause one provision of the 46 Constitution to destroy another;

47 That is, they would result in bringing the provisions of the Amendment exempting a direct tax from apportionment
 48 into irreconcilable conflict with the general requirement that all direct taxes be apportioned;

1 This result, instead of simplifying the situation and making clear the limitations of the taxing power, which
 2 obviously the Amendment must have intended to accomplish, would create radical and destructive changes in our
 3 constitutional system and multiply confusion...

4 ...Moreover in addition the Conclusion reached in the Pollock Case did not in any degree involve holding that
 5 income taxes generically and necessarily came within the class of direct taxes on property, but on the contrary
 6 recognized the fact that taxation on income was in its nature an excise entitled to be enforced as such unless and
 7 until it was concluded that to enforce it would amount to accomplishing the result which the requirement as to
 8 apportionment of direct taxation was adopted to prevent, in which case the duty would arise to disregard form
 9 and consider substance alone and hence subject the tax to the regulation as to apportionment which otherwise as 10 an excise would not apply to it.

11 ...the Amendment demonstrates that no such purpose was intended and on the contrary shows that it was drawn
 12 with the object of maintaining the limitations of the Constitution and harmonizing their operation."

13 ...the [16th] Amendment contains nothing repudiating or challenging the ruling in the Pollock Case that the word
 14 direct had a broader significance since it embraced also taxes levied directly on personal property because of its 15 ownership, and therefore the Amendment at least impliedly makes such wider significance a part of the 16 Constitution -- a condition which clearly demonstrates that the purpose was not to change the existing 17 interpretation except to the extent necessary to accomplish the result intended, that is, the prevention of the 18 resort to the sources from which a taxed income was derived in order to cause a direct tax on the income to be
 19 a direct tax on the source itself and thereby to take an income tax out of the class of excises, duties and imposts
 20 and place it in the class of direct taxes...

21 Indeed in the light of the history which we have given and of the decision in the Pollock Case and the ground
 22 upon which the ruling in that case was based, there is no escape from the Conclusion that the Amendment was 23 drawn for the purpose of doing away for the future with the principle upon which the Pollock Case was decided,
 24 that is, of determining whether a tax on income was direct not by a consideration of the burden placed on the 25 taxed income upon which it directly operated, but by taking into view the burden which resulted on the property
 26 from which the income was derived, since in express terms the Amendment provides that income taxes, from 27 whatever source the income may be derived, shall not be subject to the regulation of apportionment...
 28 [Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1 (1916)]

29 And it further stated that taxes on income had been "sustained as excises in the past." The ruling established that income tax
 30 is constitutional as an excise tax on federal corporations, but not as a direct tax. The measure of whether it is a direct or an 31 indirect/excise tax is determined by the burden the tax on income places on the property that is its object. Who or what then
 32 is subject to an excise tax? In most cases it is usually corporations involved in foreign (outside the country) commerce. You
 33 can see that by rereading section 3.8.11.1, which talks about the legislative intent of the Sixteenth Amendment as described 34 by President Taft in his speech to Congress on June 16, 1909.

35 The IRS relies on the Brushaber decision to prove the constitutionality of the income tax on natural persons, but ignores the 36 Court's ruling in that case that the income tax is an excise tax and that the "person" paying the tax in this case was a federal 37 corporation rather than a natural person. The government and the IRS like to cite this case because the case was written in 38 an especially confusing way.

39 In the Brushaber decision the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a federal corporation may volunteer to pay the income tax on 40 its profits, even though its stock dividends paid to nonresident alien stockholders living outside the federal zone were
 41 correspondingly reduced by the amount of income tax. Shortly after the ruling in this case, the U.S. department of the 42 Treasury issued Treasury Decision 2313 interpreting this case. For those of you who have trouble interpreting the impact of 43 this case, you can read the clear language of this decision below:

44 Treasury Decision Under Internal Revenue Laws of the United States
 45 Vol. 18 January-December 1916
 46 W. G. McAdoe
 47 Secretary of the Treasury
 48 Washington Government Printing Office 1917
 49 T.D. 2313 Income Tax

50 Taxability of interest from bonds and dividends on stock of domestic corporations owned by nonresident aliens,
 51 and the liabilities of nonresident aliens under section 2 of the act of October 3, 1913.

52 Treasury Department
 53 Office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue
 54 Washington, D.C., March 21, 1916

55 To collectors of internal revenue:
 56

Under the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railway [sic] Co., decided January 24, 1916, it is hereby held that income accruing to nonresident aliens in the form of interest from the bonds and dividends on the stock of domestic corporations is subject to the income tax imposed by the act of October 3, 1913.

Nonresident aliens are not entitled to the specific exemption designated in paragraph C of the income-tax law, but are liable for the normal and additional tax upon the entire net income "from all property owned, and of every business, trade, or profession carried on in the [federal] United States," computed upon the basis prescribed in the law.

The responsible heads, agents, or representatives of nonresident aliens, who are in charge of the property owned or business carried on within the [federal] United States, shall make a full and complete return of the income therefrom on Form 1040, revised, and shall pay any and all tax, normal and additional, assessed upon the income received by them in behalf of their nonresident alien principals.

The person, firm, company, copartnership, corporation, joint-stock company, or association, and insurance company in the [federal] United States, citizen or resident alien, in whatever capacity acting, having the control, receipt, disposal, or payment of fixed or determinable annual or periodic gains, profits, and income of whatever kind, to a nonresident alien, under any contract or otherwise, which payment shall represent income of a nonresident alien from the exercise of any trade or profession<sup>62</sup> within the [federal] United States, shall deduct and withhold from such annual or periodic gains, profits, and income, regardless of amount, and pay to the officer of the United States Government authorized to receive the same such sum as will be sufficient to pay the normal tax of 1 per cent imposed by law, and shall make an annual return on Form 1042.

The normal tax shall be withheld at the source from income accrued to nonresident aliens from corporate obligations and shall be returned and paid to the Government by debtor corporations and withholding agents as in the case of citizens and resident aliens, but without benefit of the specific exemption designated in paragraph C of the law.

Form 1008, revised, claiming the benefit of such deductions as may be applicable to income arising within the [federal] United States and for refund of excess tax withheld, as provided by paragraphs B and P of the income-tax law, may be filed by nonresident aliens, their agents or representatives, with the debtor corporation, withholding agent, or collector of internal revenue for the district in which the withholding return is required to be made.

That part of paragraph E of the law which provides that "if such person...is absent from the United States...the return and application may be made for him or her by the person required to withhold and pay the tax..." is held to be applicable to the return and application on Form 1008, revised, of nonresident aliens.

A fiduciary acting in the capacity of trustee, executor, or administrator, when there is only one beneficiary and that beneficiary a nonresident alien, shall render a return on Form 1040, revised; but when there are two or more beneficiaries, one or all of whom are nonresident aliens, the fiduciary shall render a return on Form 1041, revised, and a personal return on Form 1040, revised, for each nonresident alien beneficiary.

The liability, under the provisions of the law, to render personal returns, on or before March 1 next succeeding the tax year, of annual net income accrued to them from sources within the United States during the preceding calendar year, attaches to nonresident aliens as in the case of returns required from citizens and resident aliens. Therefore, a return on Form 1040, revised, is required except in cases where the total tax liability has been or is to be satisfied at the source by withholding or has been or is to be satisfied by personal return on Form 1040, revised, rendered in their behalf. Returns shall be rendered to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which a nonresident alien carries on his principal business within the United States or, in the absence of a principal business within the United States and in all cases of doubt, the collector of internal revenue at Baltimore, Md., in whose district Washington is situated.

Nonresident aliens are held to be subject to the liabilities and requirements of all administrative, special, and general provisions of law in relation to the assessment, remission, collection, and refund of the income tax imposed by the act of October 3, 1913, and collectors of internal revenue will make collection of the tax by distraint, garnishment, execution, or other appropriate process provided by law.

So much of T.D. 1976 as relates to ownership certificate 1004, T.D. 1977 (certificate Form 1060), 1988 (certificate Form 1060), T.D. 2017 (nontaxability of interest from bonds and dividends on stock), T.D. 2030 (certificate Form 1071), T.D. 2162 (nontaxability of interest from bonds and dividends on stock) and all rulings heretofore made which are in conflict herewith are hereby superseded and repealed. This decision will be held effective as of January 1, 1916.

W. H. Osborn
Commissioner of Internal Revenue

<sup>62</sup> See the definition of "trade or business" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) found in section 3.9.1.23, which indicates that "trade of business" are synonymous with holding of a political office in the federal United States.

1 Approved, March 30, 1916:
 2 Byron R. Newton,
 3 Acting Secretary of the Treasury

4 Notice that Treasury Decision 2313 explained that the Brushaber decision ruled the tax to be constitutional on receipts of
 5 nonresident aliens only who were involved in a “trade or profession” in the United States and that the taxes must be declared
 6 on a 1040 form? It is crucial to understand the meaning of “trade or profession”, which we describe in section 3.9.1.23 to 7 mean the holding of a public office in the federal United States. In effect what the Treasury was saying above is that the only
 8 persons who complete the 1040 form are those who have elected to have their income treated as effectively connected with
 9 a “trade or business” in the federal United States, which means these people elected to be treated as elected or appointed U.S.
 10 officials for U.S. tax purposes. This means at some point that these persons filed a 1040 form and made an election under 26
 11 U.S.C. §6013(g) and never bothered to revoke that election. It is extremely important that they revoke the election under 12 that section to eliminate the taxability of this income.

13 Another important historical note about the Brushaber case was that the tax Act of 1913 contained a section creating a duty
 14 or liability to pay the income tax which was later removed starting with the 1954 code. Therefore the above TD 2313 could 15 talk about the liability to withhold taxes on income “effectively connected with a trade or business” in the [federal] United 16 States, which was equivalent to saying that those who had volunteered to pay the tax by making the election under 26 U.S.C.
 17 §6013(g) must include income from federal corporations. Notice that the court never bothered to explain whether or not
 18 Frank Brushaber had made such an election, and if they had they would have given away the government’s biggest secret.
 19 Based on the outcome of the case, however, we assume that Brushaber must have made the election..

20 We must remember that because of later Supreme Court Rulings, most notably Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916), 21 the Sixteenth Amendment was ruled to be irrelevant and gave no new taxing powers to the U.S. government.

22 “..by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power
 23 of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by 24 Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently
 25 belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a consideration of the 26 sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a tax on income, but 27 by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. ”
 28 [Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916)]

29 For the average American the Brushaber case should be, beyond contention, the most momentous, and consequential Supreme 30 Court case ever tried...together, of course, with the beautifully lucid TD 2313, which implements it. For, they nail down two 31 major points: the unambiguous and unarguable definition of the ‘United States,’ and the income tax obligations of most 32 Americans—due to their relationship to this particular ‘United States’—namely, NONE.

33 It seems almost beyond belief that these two precious documents were ignored by the American taxpayer, at the time. Reading
 34 them today, it is indeed unfathomable that they did not become a watershed event, completely precluding the events that have
 35 ensued. As it happened, however, not much happened until over half a century later. But, since then, many thousands of 36 previous taxpayers have elected out of the system. We mention in section 5.3.4 that the Internal Revenue Code permits this,
 37 at 26 U.S.C. §6013 (g) Election to treat nonresident alien individual as resident of the United States (4) Termination of 38 election (A) Revocation by taxpayers, which allows a nonresident alien to re-establish his/her previous status (one time
 39 only—see subsection 5), after having knowingly or unknowingly elected to "be treated as a resident of the United States."
 40 (6013(g)(1).) In other words, this is an escape hatch to get out of the system that one almost always inadvertently entered,
 41 when filing his/her first Form 1040 in order to get a refund, at the age of 14. One thereby declared oneself a resident of the 42 District United States, as well as a U.S. citizen, for tax purposes. But, Section 6013 allows one to revoke this uninformed
 43 choice. I won’t go into why such relief must be written into statutory law, but believe me, they wouldn’t do it if they didn’t 44 need to.

47 Subsequent Supreme Court decisions that referenced this case interpreted it as follows, quoting from William E. Peck v. Lowe,
 48 247 U.S. 165 (1918):

The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects, but merely removes all occasion, which otherwise might exist, for an apportionment among the States of taxes laid on income, whether it be derived from one source or another. Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 17-19; Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103, 112-113. William E. Peck v. Lowe, [247 U.S. 165 (1918)]

3.14.11 1916: Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103

The Supreme Court stated, in referring to the previous case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific R.R. (240 U.S. 1):

"..by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a consideration of the sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a tax on income, but by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. ### 3.14.12 1918: Peck v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165

This was an action to recover a tax paid under protest and alleged to have been imposed contrary to the constitutional [247 U.S. 165, 172] provision (article 1, 9, cl. 5) that 'no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.' The judgment below was for the defendant. 234 Fed. 125.

The plaintiff is a domestic corporation chiefly engaged in buying goods in the several states, shipping them to foreign countries and there selling them. In 1914 its net income from this business was $30,173.66, and from other sources $12,436.24. An income tax for that year, computed on the aggregate of these sums, was assessed against it and paid under compulsion. It is conceded that so much of the tax as was based on the income from other sources was valid, and the controversy is over so much of it as was attributable to the income from shipping goods to foreign countries and there selling them.

The tax was levied under the Act of October 3, 1913, c. 16, 11, 38 Stat. 166, 172, which provided for annually subjecting every domestic corporation to the payment of a tax of a specified per centum of its 'entire net income arising or accruing from all sources during the preceding calendar year.' Certain fraternal and other corporations, as also income from certain enumerated sources, were specifically excepted, but none of the exceptions included the plaintiff or any part of its income. So, tested merely by the terms of the act, the tax collected from the plaintiff was rightly computed on its total net income. But as the act obviously could not impose a tax forbidden by the Constitution, we proceed to consider whether the tax, or rather the part in question, was forbidden by the constitutional provision on which the plaintiff relies.

The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects, but merely removes all occasion, which otherwise might exist, for an apportionment among the states of taxes [247 U.S. 165, 173] laid on income, whether it be derived from one source or another. Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co., 240 U.S. 1, 17-19, 36 Sup.Ct. 236, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 713, L.R.A. 1917D, 414; Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103, 112-113, 36 Sup.Ct. 278. William E. Peck & Co. v. Lowe, [247 U.S. 165 (1918)]

The judgment reaffirmed in effect that taxes on corporate income were OK, but didn't rule on the issue of income taxes on individuals.

3.14.13 1920: Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245

In this case, the Supreme Court addressed the issue of whether a tax on salary was authorized:

"After further consideration, we adhere to that view and accordingly hold that the Sixteenth Amendment does not authorize or support the tax in question. " [A direct tax on salary income of a federal judge] [Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245 (1920)]

This case has a very thorough treatment of the 16th Amendment taxing issues, and discusses nearly all of the issues critical to the income tax, and by the way, fully supports the entire position advocated in this document with regards to the 26 U.S.C. §861 issues and taxable source issues.

This case was overturned in O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277 (1939). However, the supreme court in that case declined to address whether the tax on income of federal judges was a "direct" or an "indirect" tax, and therefore skirted the issue of whether it could or should be included in "gross income". Instead, by fiat, they simply said without any real legal analysis of facts, that the tax was constitutional. This, of course was a cop-out and there was a long dissenting opinion that advocated a more rational view that is more consistent with this document.

3.14.14 1920: Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189

The court stated in the case Eisner v. Macomber that:

The Sixteenth Amendment must be construed in connection with the taxing clauses of the original Constitution and the effect attributed to them before the amendment was adopted. In Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601, 15 Sup.Ct. 912, under the Act of August 27, 1894 (28 Stat. 509, 553, c. 349, 27), it was held that taxes upon rents and profits of real estate and upon returns from investments of personal property were in effect direct taxes upon the property from which such income arose, imposed by reason of ownership; and that Congress could not impose such taxes without apportioning them among the states according to population, as required by article 1, 2, cl. 3, and section 9, cl. 4, of the original Constitution.

Afterwards, and evidently in recognition of the limitation upon the taxing power of Congress thus determined, the Sixteenth Amendment was adopted, in words lucidly expressing the object to be accomplished:

'The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among [252 U.S. 189, 206] the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration.'

As repeatedly held, this did not extend the taxing power to new subjects, but merely removed the necessity which otherwise might exist for an apportionment among the states of taxes laid on income. Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. R. Co., 240 U.S. 1, 17-19, 36 Sup.Ct. 236, Ann. Cas. 1917B, 713, L.R.A. 1917D, 414; Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103, 112 et seq., 36 Sup.Ct. 278; Peck & Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165, 172, 173 S., 38 Sup.Ct. 432.

A proper regard for its genesis, as well as its very clear language, requires also that this amendment shall not be extended by loose construction, so as to repeal or modify, except as applied to income, those provisions of the Constitution that require an apportionment according to population for direct taxes upon property, real and personal. This limitation still has an appropriate and important function, and is not to be overridden by Congress or disregarded by the courts.

After examining dictionaries in common use (Bouv. L. D.; Standard Dict.; Webster's Internat. Dict.; Century Dict.), we find little to add to the succinct definition adopted in two cases arising under the Corporation Tax Act of 1909 (Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415, 34 S.Sup.Ct. 136, 140 [58 L.Ed. 285]; Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Sup.Ct. 467, 469 [62 L.Ed. 1054]), 'Income may be defined as the gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined,' provided it be understood to include profit gained through a sale or conversion of capital assets, to which it was applied in the Doyle Case, 247 U.S. 183, 185, 38 S.Sup.Ct. 467, 469 (62 L.Ed. 1054).

Brief as it is, it indicates the characteristic and distinguishing attribute of income essential for a correct solution of the present controversy. The government, although basing its argument upon the definition as quoted, placed chief emphasis upon the word 'gain,' which was extended to include a variety of meanings; while the significance of the next three words was either overlooked or misconceived. 'Derived-from- capital'; 'the gain-derived-from-capital,' etc. Here we have the essential matter: not a gain accruing to capital; not a growth or increment of value in the investment; but a gain, a profit, something of exchangeable value, proceeding from the property, severed from the capital, however invested or employed, and coming in, being 'derived'-that is, received or drawn by the recipient (the taxpayer) for his separate use, benefit and disposal- that is income derived from property. Nothing else answers the description.

Thus, from every point of view we are brought irresistibly to the conclusion that neither under the Sixteenth Amendment nor otherwise has Congress power to tax without apportionment a true stock dividend made lawfully and in good faith, or the accumulated profits behind it, as income of the stockholder. The Revenue Act of 1916, in so far as it imposes a tax upon the stockholder because of such dividend, contravenes the provisions of article

1 1, 2, cl. 3, and article 1, 9, cl. 4, of the Constitution, and to this extent is invalid, notwithstanding the Sixteenth
 2 Amendment.

6 3.14.15 1922: Bailey v. Drexel Furniture Co., 259 U.S. 20

7 This case was about the validity of Child Labor Tax law imposed by Congress. The Drexel Furniture Company filed suit
 8 because it didn't want to be forced to pay the Child Labor Tax to the IRS. The Supreme Court ruled that the Child Labor
 9 Tax Law was unconstitutional because it amounted to social engineering and exceeded the powers conferred by the 10 Constitution on the federal government. In effect, they called it socialism and an unconstitutional abuse of the taxing power
 11 of Congress and amounted to legislating socialism by compelling (plundering) employers to provide a specified level of 12 benefits to their employees. The findings in this case are similar to the case of Railroad Retirement Board v. Alton Railroad
 13 Co., 295 U.S. 330 (1935). The arguments used here apply equally well to the federal income tax, as we pointed out in the 14 preface to this document.

15 "Out of a proper respect for the acts of a co-ordinate branch of the government, this court has gone far to sustain
 16 taxing acts as such, even though there has been ground for suspecting, from the weight of the tax, it was intended
 17 to destroy its subject. But in the act before [259 U.S. 20, 38] us the presumption of validity cannot prevail,
 18 because the proof of the contrary is found on the very face of its provisions. Grant the validity of this law, and
 19 all that Congress would need to do, hereafter, in seeking to take over to its control any one of the great number
 20 of subjects of public interest, jurisdiction of which the states have never parted with, and which are reserved
 21 to them by the Tenth Amendment, would be to enact a detailed measure of complete regulation of the subject
 22 and enforce it by a so-called tax upon departures from it. To give such magic to the word 'tax' would be to break
 23 down all constitutional limitation of the powers of Congress and completely wipe out the sovereignty of the 24 states."

26 3.14.16 1924: Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47

27 The Supreme Court ruled that Congress has the power to tax the income received by a native Citizen of the United States
 28 domiciled abroad from property situated abroad and that the constitutional prohibition of unapportioned direct taxes within 29 the states of the union does not apply in foreign countries.

32 3.14.17 1930: Lucas v. Earl, 281 U.S. 111

33 In this case, the supreme Court ruled that income derived from wages and labor are not taxable, and that taxable "income"
 34 only includes profit:

35 "The claim that salaries, wages and compensation for personal services are to be taxed as an entirety and
 36 therefore must be returned by the individual who has performed the services which produced the gain is without
 37 support either in the language of the Act or in the decisions of the courts construing it. Not only this, but it is 38 directly opposed to provisions of the Act and to regulations of the U.S. Treasury Dept. which either prescribe or 39 permit that compensation for personal services be not taxed as an entirety and be not returned by the individual
 40 performing the services. It is to be noted that by the language of the Act it is not salaries, wages or compensation
 41 for personal services that are to be included in gross income. That which is to be included is gains, profits and 42 income DERIVED from salaries, wages or compensation for personal service."
 43 [Lucas v. Earl, 281 U.S. 111 (1930) [Emphasis added]]

44 The above cite was argued by the counsel and did not appear in the court's ruling, but does underscore the nature of the 45 income tax. Be cautious when you are looking up this case, because the Findlaw website doesn't include the whole verdict.
 46 You have to go to Versus Law (<http://www.versuslaw.com>) to view the whole case. We suggest that the reason for this is 47 clear: there is a conspiracy within the legal profession and the courts to protect the income tax.

3.14.18 1935: Railroad Retirement Board v. Alton Railroad Company, 295 U.S. 330

After the Great Wall Street Crash in 1929, daily newspaper photographs of mile-long soup and bread lines persuaded a frightened public to eagerly embrace the introduction of the European style socialism in the form of Social Security, written and contrived in smoke-filled rooms by the same politician-puppets of the bankers who had engineered both the crash and the depression.

A public eager to exchange liberty for benefits would vote for those politicians who would promise to provide them with the greatest "fair share" of the public trough. Congress made its first attempt at socialist wealth redistribution when it passed legislation in 1934 to provide for the retirement of railroad workers. Here's what the Supreme Court had to say when they shot this act down as unconstitutional in their decision in Railroad Retirement Board v. Alton Railroad Company decided May 6, 1935:

The catalog of means and actions which might be imposed upon an employer in any business, tending to the comfort and satisfaction of his employees, seems endless.

Provisions for free medical attendance and nursing, for clothing, for food, for housing, for the education of children, and a hundred other matters might with equal propriety be proposed as tending to relieve the employee of mental strain and worry.

Can it fairly be said that the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce extends to the prescription of any or all of these things?

Is it not apparent that they are really and essentially related solely to social welfare of the worker, and therefore remote from any regulation of commerce as such? We think the answer is plain. These matters obviously lie outside the orbit of Congressional power."

[Railroad Retirement Board v. Alton Railroad Co., 295 U.S. 330 (1935)]

There you have it--the high court informing Congress that it has no constitutional authority whatsoever to legislate for the social welfare of the worker. The result was that when Social Security was instituted, it had to be treated as strictly voluntary.

3.14.19 1938: Hassett v. Welch, 303 U.S. 303

"In view of other settled rules of statutory construction, which teach that... if doubt exists as to the construction of a taxing statute, the doubt should be resolved in favor of the taxpayer..."

The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States ex- [324 U.S. 652, 672] tends, or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.

[Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)]

This case is very important, since it establishes THREE separate definitions for the term "United States". It also establishes the areas over which the U.S. is sovereign. Of the three definitions, the only areas where federal income taxes apply are in the areas over which the U.S. is sovereign, which is the District of Columbia, federal territories and possessions.

"Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint."

[Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

The principle that our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment, has been emphasized and relied upon in subsequent appellate court cases as well. The reason the courts and the IRS advise that it is voluntary is that if it were mandatory, there would be a violation of your rights under the Bill of Rights—i.e., under the First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendments.

The First Amendment involves your freedom to speak to your government. It also includes your right not to speak to your government (on a Form 1040). Forcing you to speak on a 1040 would violate your First Amendment rights.

The Fourth Amendment is your right to privacy—your right to be secure in your person and papers. Compelling you to produce your personal financial information and records, etc., without a lawful court order would violate your Fourth Amendment rights.

The Fifth Amendment states that “No person...shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself.” This simply means that you cannot be compelled to give information (on a Form 1040) because that act is equivalent to being a witness against yourself. The IRS can take any information you provide and turn around and use it against you under any circumstances, both civilly and criminally. In an instant, the IRS can have you under criminal investigation and potential indictment. Therefore, compelling you to give information (evidence) against yourself would violate your Fifth Amendment rights.

This case is very important, because it reveals that a statute has no force and effect unless there is an implementing and enforcing regulation behind it. Statutes without implementing regulations are unenforceable and create no obligation on the part of the Citizen. All of the enforcement provisions of the Internal Revenue Code found In Subtitle F, Procedures and Administration, therefore, must have implementing regulations applying the enforcement provision to the particular tax in question. In all cases for the Income tax in Subtitle A, they simply do not have such regulations, making the income tax entirely voluntary.

"An administrative regulation, of course, is not a "statute." While in practical effect regulations may be called "little laws," they are at most but offspring of statutes. Congress alone may pass a statute, and the Criminal Appeals Act calls for direct appeals if the District Court's dismissal is based upon the invalidity or construction of a statute. See United States v. Jones, 345 U.S. 377 (1953). This Court has always construed the Criminal Appeals Act narrowly, limiting it strictly "to the instances specified." United States v. Borden Co., 308 U.S. 188, 192 (1939). See also United States v. Swift & Co., 318 U.S. 442 (1943). Here the statute is not complete by itself, since it merely declares the range of its operation and leaves to its progeny the means to be utilized in the effectuation of its command. But it is the statute which creates the offense of the willful removal of the labels of origin and provides the punishment for violations. The regulations, on the other hand, prescribe the identifying language of the label itself, and assign the resulting tags to their respective geographical areas. Once promulgated, [361 U.S. 431, 438] these regulations, called for by the statute itself, have the force of law, and violations thereof incur criminal prosecutions, just as if all the details had been incorporated into the congressional language. The result is that neither the statute nor the regulations are complete without the other, and only together do they have any force. In effect, therefore, the construction of one necessarily involves the construction of the other."
[U.S. v. Mersky, 361 U.S. 431 (1960)]

The companion to this case is Calif. Bankers Assoc. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 25, found later in section 3.14.25. This case focuses on the same issues and reaches the same conclusions, but states them differently.

3.14.23 1961: James v. United States, 366 U.S. 213, p. 213, 6 L.Ed.2d. 246

This U.S. Supreme Court case reveals that the income which is taxed under federal law must come from a "source" as defined under the law, as the law means exactly what is said,

"...the Sixteenth Amendment, which grants Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived..." Helvering v. Clifford, 309 U.S. 331, 334; Douglas v. Willcuts, 296 U.S. 1,9. It has long been settled that Congress' broad statutory definitions of taxable income were intended "to use the full measure of taxing power." The Sixteenth Amendment is to be taken as written and is not to be extended beyond the meaning clearly indicated by the language used." Edwards v. Cuba R. Co. 268 U.S. 628, 631 [From separate opinion by Whittaker, Black, and Douglas, JJ.] (Emphasis added)

3.14.24 1970: Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. 742 at 748

"Waivers of Constitutional Rights not only must be voluntary, they must be knowingly intelligent acts, done with sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and consequences."
[Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. 742 (1970)]

This case has far reaching implications. It says basically that a person must be aware of the agreement he is making to surrender his constitutional rights. It is relevant to the idea that if a person claims they are a U.S. citizen (that is, a resident of the District of Columbia who surrenders their Constitutional rights as indicated by Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)), then they must be made fully aware of that they are waiving their rights in order for the waiver to be valid.

3.14.25 1974: California Bankers Association v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 25

This case is significant because it reveals that without implementing regulations that enforce penalties for a particular tax, no civil or criminal penalties for noncompliance can be imposed.

"...the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of the regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...The Government urges that since only those who violate these regulations [not the Code] may incur civil or criminal penalties, it is the actual regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which are to be tested against the standards of the Fourth Amendment; and that when so tested they are valid."

The implication of this is that absent an implementing regulation imposing a penalty for nonpayment or noncompliance with a particular tax in question, the tax cannot be enforced! The income tax found in Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code is the best example of this. The tax is imposed in 26 U.S.C. §1 but:

1. Unlike all other taxes, there is no statute making anyone liable to pay it.
2. There are general enforcement statutes found in Subtitle F, but unlike other types of taxes, there are no implementing regulations permitting enforcement. For instance, there is no 26 C.F.R. §1.6201 authorizing assessment by other than the taxpayer (because the system is based on voluntary assessment), no 26CFR §1.6331 authorizing levy, no 26 C.F.R. §1.6672 authorizing imposition of penalties for nonpayment. Therefore, the tax is truly voluntary! All other types of taxes have enforcement regulations.
3. The regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §601 are procedural and general in nature and do NOT apply enforcement provisions to income taxes in Subtitle A (personal income taxes are in Section 1 of Subtitle A). These regulations are directory in nature and are not binding on Citizens, because they are never published in the federal register.

For more information on this subject of the importance of implementing regulations, refer to the following sections:

1. Section 4.5.4.17 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, which contains a table showing the lack of implementing regulations for enforcement of personal income taxes.
2. Section 5.4.10: IRS Has NO Legal Authority to Assess Penalties on Subtitles A and C Income Taxes on Natural Persons
3. Section 5.4.11: No Implementing Regulations Authorizing Collection of Subtitles A and C Income Taxes
4. Section 5.4.12: No Implementing Regulations for "Tax Evasion" or "Willful Failure to File" Under 26 U.S.C. §7201 or 7203

3.14.26 1976: Garner v. U.S., 424 U.S. 648

"The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for the purposes of Fifth Amendment analysis, the testimony of a witness."

"Government compels the filing of a return much as it compels, for example, the appearance of a 'witness' before a grand jury."
[Garner v. United States, 424 U.S. 648 (1976)]

This ruling was significant as it in effect defined federal tax returns as testimony of a witness, because they are a written declaration signed under penalty of perjury. In effect, they are a written record of oral testimony. As it pertains to 5th Amendment protections, this ruling has been repeatedly ignored by the federal circuit courts, who, like the IRS, have historically relied on a trick of language to coax citizens into incriminating themselves in violation of their 5th Amendment rights. We talk about the trick in section 3.8.8.3.4 "Non Self Incrimination Right", where we say that some of the circuit courts and the IRS have said that:

1. The 5th Amendment only protects "testimony" and not writings signed under penalty of perjury, such as tax returns.
2. The 5th Amendment only protects one from criminal prosecution and not civil prosecution.

3. Since tax returns are completed and submitted “voluntarily”, then their preparation is not compelled, and therefore, they can be used to incriminate the person submitting them.

What does it mean to be compelled? Below is a definition from the Random House Dictionary:

1. To force, drive, esp. to a course of action. 2. To secure or bring about by force. 3. To force to submit; subdue. 5. To overpower.

The “trick” above of compelling a Citizen to testify against themselves in violation of their Fifth Amendment right was used, for instance, by the Tenth Circuit in the case of William T. Conklin v. IRS, No. 89N 1514.<sup>63</sup> It was clear from that case that the circuit court knew they were going against the Supreme Court, which is why they made that case “unpublished”, which is to say that they didn’t permit it to go into the record and sealed the record so other people couldn’t look at it unless they contact the court directly. That means it supposedly won’t be entered into any of the national case databases to be used by others for research. Is this also a violation of the First Amendment prohibition against censorship? We think so! William Conklin, by way of background, is a famous tax honesty and 5th Amendment advocate. This kind of hypocrisy on the part of the U.S. Government is scandalous, and needs to be remedied immediately. As we said at the beginning of this document, “the love of money [your money, by the federal government] is the root of all evil”.

Instead, we all know that no one likes completing income tax returns and wouldn’t do it if they weren’t compelled. How are they compelled?:

1. The threat of a 26 U.S.C. §7203 “Willful Failure to File” criminal prosecution and jail time for not submitting a tax return.
2. The threat of a 26 U.S.C. §6702 “F frivolous Income Tax Return” penalty of $500 if the tax return is not complete and accurate.
3. The threat of a 26 U.S.C. §7201 “Attempt to evade or defeat tax” criminal prosecution if the tax return is not completed and submitted to the IRS.

These statutes clearly compel us to prepare the return and sign it under penalty of perjury, and without these statutes, most people wouldn’t prepare or submit returns, or “volunteer” as the IRS likes to say. However, this approach is clearly at odds with Garner, which has never been overruled, and our Fifth Amendment rights, because the return is identified as the testimony of a witness.

3.14.27 1976: Fisher v. United States, 425 U.S. 391

*“A subpoena served on a taxpayer requiring him to produce an accountant’s workpapers in his possession without doubt involves substantial compulsion. But it does not compel oral testimony; nor would it ordinarily compel the taxpayer to restate, repeat, or affirm the truth of the contents of the documents sought. Therefore, the Fifth Amendment would not be violated by the fact alone that the papers on their face might incriminate the taxpayer, for the privilege protects a person only against being incriminated by his own compelled testimonial communications. Schmerber v. California, supra; United States v. Wade, supra; and Gilbert v. California, supra”*
[Fisher v. United States, 425 U.S. 391 (1976)]

This case ruled that the documents in the possession of a taxpayer that are subpoena’d by the government are not privileged or protected under the Fifth Amendment. The Fifth Amendment only applies to “compelled testimonial communications”. This case forms the basis for why we say that you are not obligated to admit to the existence of any records if the IRS asks, such that if they subpoena you for nondescript records you have not admitted to having, then you aren’t obligated to provide anything at all.

We’d also like to emphasize that there are two aspects of one’s Fifth Amendment rights; 1. The act of producing the documents in response to a subpoena, which cannot be compelled and is privileged if it is (protected under 18 U.S.C. 6002-6003). 2. The contents of the documents themselves, the production of which, if compelled is privileged, and if not compelled is not privileged. The documents themselves might not be privileged, but if the production of the documents in response to a subpoena is compelled, then the person who is the object of the subpoena, if the information would incriminate him and he is a “natural person”, then his disclosure must protect him from incrimination as per 18 U.S.C. 6002-6003 before he can be compelled to provide the information.

This case was about an employee who was receiving reimbursement for lunch expenses from his employer. The government claimed that this reimbursement counted as “wages” that should have been subject to withholding within the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Here is the Supreme Court’s Ruling:

*Decided cases have made the distinction between wages and income and have refused to equate the two in withholding or similar controversies. Peoples Life Ins. Co. v. United States, 179 Ct.Cl. 318, 332, 373 F.2d. 924, 932 (1967); Humble Pipe Line Co. v. United States, 194 Ct.Cl. 944, 950, 442 F.2d. 1353, 1356 (1971); Humble Oil & Refining Co. v. United States, 194 Ct.Cl. 920, 442 F.2d. 1362 (1971); Stubbs, Overbeck & Associates v. United States, 445 F.2d. 1142 (CA5 1971); Royster Co. v. United States, 479 F.2d, at 390; Acacia Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. United States, 272 F.Supp. 188 (Md. 1967).

This case reaffirmed that wages are not necessarily considered income for the purposes of income taxation.

3.14.29 1985: U.S. v. Doe, 465 U.S. 605

[U.S. v. Doe, 465 U.S. 605 (1984)]*

This was a case of a man who had several sole proprietorship businesses, and who had been subpoena’d by the government four separate times for records regarding his business. The District and Appellate court both ruled that he did not have to turn over the records because they were privileged and subject to the 5th Amendment protections of the sole proprietor. The Supreme court ruled that the act of producing subpoenaed documents would involve testimonial self-incrimination. Therefore “testimonial” does not exclude everything except oral testimony. The holding in this case supports the statement in Garner v. United States (424 U.S. 648) that the privilege against self-incrimination guaranteed by the 5th Amendment to the constitution applies to both written as well as oral compelled testimony that may have testimonial aspects and an incriminating effect.

Did you know that several landmark "Not Guilty!" verdicts in cast of "Willful Failure to File" income tax returns are due in large part to the 1991 U.S. Supreme Court decision, Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192 (1991) which involved an American Airlines pilot named John L. Cheek? Believe it or not, until the Cheek decision, a defendant in a criminal tax trial could not even take the Internal Revenue Code into the courtroom in his own defense!

Cheek changed all that by holding that if the defendant has a subjective good faith belief no matter how unreasonable, that he or she was not required to file a tax return, the government cannot establish that the defendant acted willfully in not filing an income tax return. In other words, that the defendant shirked a known legal duty.

Now, the trial judge cannot prevent the jury from being shown any material evidence--books, videos, or otherwise--that guided one's thoughts and actions.

In writing the Cheek decision, the New York Times stated:

“The Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that taxpayers who sincerely believe the federal income tax laws do not apply to them cannot be convicted of criminal tax violations even if there is no rational basis for their belief.”

Justice Byron White in writing the majority opinion of the high court, stated that the jury, and not the judge, should decide the sincerity of the defendant's belief. Since the statutes and regulations involving the income tax so obviously pertain to foreign activity only, it is our position to stay with the written Law since it can be clearly shown to be the truth to even the most unsympathetic jury.

The bottom line is that the Cheek decision has made it almost impossible for the IRS to convict a well-prepared individual for "Willful Failure to File" on an income tax return. The Cheek case is also important because, among other things, it stands for the proposition that individuals who rely on attorneys and other professionals in making their decisions about the complex tax system are entitled to inform the jury as to the extent of their reliance. It also stands for the proposition that the jury must be instructed to view the defendant's actions subjectively, not objectively. In other words, the juror has to put his own pre-conceived notions aside of whether or not the juror believes everyone must file, and instead get inside the defendant's head and try to determine if he really believed, based on the defendant's own research and advice of the attorneys he consulted, that he acted in good faith, and truly believed that his research in toto indicated that he was not required to file. When it can be shown that one's actions were based on a good faith reliance on professional advice, the element of "a willful violation of the law," essential for a conviction, is conclusively eliminated.

3.14.31 1992: United States v. Burke, 504 U.S. 229, 119 L.Ed.2d. 34, 112 S Ct. 1867

This U.S. Supreme Court case reveals that the income which is taxed under federal law must come from a "source" as defined under the law, as the law means exactly what is said,

Congress's intent through § 61 of the Internal Revenue Code (26 USCS § 61(a))--which provides that gross income means all income from whatever source derived, subject to only the exclusions specifically enumerated elsewhere in the Code...and § 61(a)'s statutory precursors..."

3.14.32 1995: U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549

This is a landmark case that firmly establishes the limits on Congressional power and the balance of power between the States and the Federal Government. Interestingly, it was not published like and numbered like the rest of the court cases, probably because the Supreme Court didn't want people to find out about it. We include a copy of it on our website. You can also read the case at the website below:

<https://caselaw.findlaw.com/us-supreme-court/514/549.html>

Below are some of the important findings of the court as they related to income taxes:

*We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S. Const., Art. I, 8. As James Madison wrote, "[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v. Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid.

The Constitution delegates to Congress the power "[t]o regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes." U.S. Const., Art. I, 8, cl. 3. The Court, through Chief Justice Marshall, first defined the nature of Congress' commerce power in Gibbons v. Ogden, 9 Wheat. 1, 189-190 (1824):

"Commerce, undoubtedly, is traffic, but it is something more: it is intercourse. It describes the commercial intercourse between nations, and parts of nations, in all its branches, and is regulated by prescribing rules for carrying on that intercourse."

The commerce power "is the power to regulate; that is, to prescribe the rule by which commerce is to be governed. This power, like all others vested in Congress, is complete in itself, may be exercised to its utmost extent, and acknowledges no limitations, other than are prescribed in the constitution." Id., at 196. The Gibbons Court, however, acknowledged that limitations on the commerce power are inherent in the very language of the Commerce Clause.

"It is not intended to say that these words comprehend that commerce, which is completely internal, which is carried on between man and man in a State, or between different parts of the same State, and which does not extend to or affect other States. Such a power would be inconvenient, and is certainly unnecessary.

"Comprehensive as the word 'among' is, it may very properly be restricted to that commerce which concerns more States than one. . . . The enumeration presupposes something not enumerated; and that something, if we regard the language or the subject of the sentence, must be the exclusively internal commerce of a State." Id., at 194-195.

For nearly a century thereafter, the Court's Commerce Clause decisions dealt but rarely with the extent of Congress' power, and almost entirely with the Commerce Clause as a limit on state legislation that discriminated against interstate commerce. See, e.g., Veazie v. Moor, 14 How. 568, 573-575 (1853) (upholding a state-created steamboat monopoly because it involved regulation of wholly internal commerce); Kidd v. Pearson, 128 U.S. 1, 17, 20-22 (1888) (upholding a state prohibition on the manufacture of intoxicating liquor because the commerce power "does not comprehend the purely domestic commerce of a State which is carried on between man and man within a State or between different parts of the same State"); see also L. Tribe, American Constitutional Law 306 (2d ed. 1988). Under this line of precedent, the Court held that certain categories of activity such as "production," "manufacturing," and "mining" were within the province of state governments, and thus were beyond the power of Congress under the Commerce Clause. See Wickard v. Filburn, 317 U.S. 111, 121 (1942) (describing development of Commerce Clause jurisprudence).

Consistent with this structure, we have identified three broad categories of activity that Congress may regulate under its commerce power. Perez v. United States, supra, at 150; see also Hodel v. Virginia Surface Mining & Reclamation Assn., supra, at 276-277. First, Congress may regulate the use of the channels of interstate commerce. See, e.g., Darby, 312 U.S., at 114; Heart of Atlanta Motel, supra, at 256 ("[T]he authority of Congress to keep the channels of interstate commerce free from immoral and injurious uses has been frequently sustained, and is no longer open to question." (quoting Caminetti v. United States, 242 U.S. 470, 491 (1917))). Second, Congress is empowered to regulate and protect the instrumentalities of interstate commerce, or persons or things in interstate commerce, even though the threat may come only from intrastate activities. See, e.g., Shreveport Rate Cases, 234 U.S. 342 (1914); Southern R. Co. v. United States, 222 U.S. 20 (1911) (upholding amendments to Safety Appliance Act as applied to vehicles used in intrastate commerce); Perez, supra, at 150 ("[F]or example, the destruction of an aircraft (18 U.S.C. 32), or . . . thefts from interstate shipments (18 U.S.C. 659)"). Finally, Congress' commerce authority includes the power to regulate those activities having a substantial relation to interstate commerce, Jones & Laughlin Steel, 301 U.S., at 37, i.e., those activities that substantially affect interstate commerce. Wirtz, supra, at 196, n. 27. [U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]

The significant aspect of this case is that it defines and constrains the jurisdiction and the power of the federal/U.S. government over the 50 State governments. In particular, it establishes that the only legitimate reason for the federal government to reach inside of the boundary of a state and regulate anything is in pursuit of the regulation of commerce between states or with foreign countries. This authority is granted as part of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution. Note that this authority does not extend to regulating commerce within the 50 Union states, but rather between the states and with other nations. It also clearly establishes the three types of commerce activity that may be regulated within the states based on the Commerce Clause.

Other areas of the Constitution are also consistent with this clear division of jurisdiction and powers between the federal government and the States, most notably Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, which prohibits direct taxation of Citizens within the 50 Union states without apportionment. The sovereignty of the States must be respected by the federal government under the Constitution or the balance of powers would be broken down and tyranny would be the result, as explained above by the Supreme Court. It should be clear that direct taxes on income of individuals derived from commerce within a state and not either crossing state boundaries or connected with trade with foreign countries would clearly violate the authority of the federal government under the Commerce Clause (1:8:3). Therefore, the income tax as currently enforced by the IRS as a

1 direct tax on the income of individuals within a state and derived from intra (not inter) state commerce should have been
2 declared unconstitutional and illegal by all the federal courts long ago.

21 right."

23 This case established that wage income from occupations that are a common right cannot be taxed as by the state.

24 3.15.5 1937: Stapler v. U.S., 21 F.Supp. AT 737

25 *"Income within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment and the Revenue Act, means 'gain'... and in such

32 3.15.7 1939: Graves v. People of State of New York, 306 S.Ct. 466

33 *The theory, which once won a qualified approval, that a tax on income is legally or economically a tax on its
34 source, is no longer tenable, New York ex rel. Cohn v. Graves, 300 U.S. 308, 313, 314 S., 57 S.Ct. 466, 467, 108
35 A.L.R. 721; Hale v. State Board, 302 U.S. 95, 108, 58 S.Ct. 102, 106; Helvering v. Gerhardt, supra; cf. Metcalf
38 376, 58 S.Ct. 623, and the only possible basis for implying a constitutional immunity from state income tax of the 39 salary of an employee of the national government or of a governmental agency is that the economic burden of the 40 tax is in some way passed on so as to impose a burden on the national government tantamount to an interference
41 by one government with the other in the performance of its functions.
42 [Graves v. People of State of New York, 306 U.S. 466 (1939)]*

43 This case ruled that a tax on income is not a tax on the "source" and that, in effect, income and source are not the same. This 44 reinforces the notion presented in this document that, to be taxable "gross income", the income must come from a taxable 45 "source".

3.15.8 1943: Helvering v. Edison Brothers' Stores, 8 Cir. 133 F.2d. 575

"The Treasury cannot by interpretive regulations, make income of that which is not income within the meaning of the revenue acts of Congress, nor can Congress, without apportionment, tax as income that which is not income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment."

3.15.9 1946: Lauderdale Cemetery Assoc. v. Mathews, 345 PA 239, 47 A. 2d 277, 280

"... reasonable compensation for labor or services rendered is not profit."

3.15.10 1947: McCutchin v. Commissioner of IRS, 159 F.2d. 472 5th Cir. 02/07/1947

"The 16th Amendment does not authorize laying of an income tax upon one person for the income derived solely from another." [wages]

[McCutchin v. Commissioner of IRS, 159 F.2d. 472 (1947)]

This case, along with the following additional cases, establishes that income from employment does not constitute taxable income as per the 16th Amendment.

3.15.11 1952: Anderson Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Hofferbert, 102 F.Supp. 902

"Constitutionally the only thing that can be taxed by Congress is "income." And the tax actually imposed by Congress has been on net income as distinct from gross income. THE TAX IS NOT, NEVER HAS BEEN, AND COULD NOT CONSTITUTIONALLY BE UPON "GROSS RECEIPTS" ..."

[Anderson Oldsmobile, Inc. v. Hofferbert, 102 F.Supp. 902 (1952)]

This case established that income taxes were never intended to be imposed on gross receipts or net income, but on "gross income".

3.15.12 1955: Oliver v. Halstead, 196 Va. 992, 86 S.E.2d. 858

"There is a clear distinction between profit and wages, or compensation for labor. Compensation for labor cannot be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law."

3.15.13 1958: Lyddon Co. vs. U.S. , 158 Fed. Supp 951

"When one files a return [voluntarily] showing a tax due, he has presumably assessed himself and is content to become liable for the tax and to pay it."

3.15.14 1960: Commissioner of IRS v. Duberstein, 80 S.Ct. 1190

"Property acquired by gift is excluded from gross income."

[Commissioner of IRS v. Duberstein, 80 S.Ct. 1190 (1960)]

Once again, this case severely restricts the meaning of "gross income" and "taxable income" within the meaning of the 16th amendment.

3.15.15 1962: Simmons v. United States, 303 F.2d. 160

This case is about a man named William Simmons, who caught a $25,000 prize fish in a river, and did not want to include the prize money in his "gross income", over the objections of the IRS. This is an important case, since it helps establish the nature of "direct taxes."

1. A direct tax is a tax on real or personal property, imposed solely by reason of its being owned by the taxpayer. A tax on the income from such property, such as a tax on rents or the interest on bonds, is also considered a direct tax, being basically a tax upon the ownership of property.<sup>65</sup> Yet, from the early days of the Republic, a tax upon the exercise of only some of the rights adhering to ownership, such as upon the use of property<sup>66</sup> or upon its transfer,<sup>67</sup> has been considered an indirect tax, not subject to the requirement of apportionment. The present tax falls into this latter category, being a tax upon the receipt of money and not upon its ownership.

This tax is similar to others held to be indirect. In the case which on its facts most nearly resembles the present one, Scholey v. Rew, 90 U.S. (23 Wall.) 331, 346-348, 23 L.Ed. 99 (1875), the Supreme Court upheld a federal death tax, placed upon persons receiving real property from a deceased under a will or by intestate succession, against the claim that the tax was an unapportioned direct tax on property. In that case, as in the present, the tax was borne directly by the recipient, but was held to be merely upon the transfer of property. The Scholey case was by name reaffirmed in Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41, 78-83, 20 S.Ct. 742, 44 L.Ed. 969 (1900), and by implication in New York Trust Co. v. Eisner, 256 U.S. 345, 349, 41 S.Ct. 506, 75 L.Ed. 963 (1921), both cases upholding federal estate taxes imposed, not upon the beneficiary but upon the decedent's estate. A tax upon the donor of an inter vivos gift was held to be an indirect tax in Bromley v. McCaughn, 280 U.S. 124, 135-138, 50 S.Ct. 46, 74 L.Ed. 226 (1929). If a tax on giving property is indirect, so would be a tax on receiving it, regardless of its source. That no distinction may be drawn between giving and receiving was pointed out in Fernandez v. Wiener, 326 U.S. 340, 352-355, 361-362, 66 S.Ct. 178, 90 L.Ed. 116 (1945), where the Supreme Court upheld as an indirect tax the federal estate tax on community property at the death of one spouse: "If the gift of property may be taxed, we cannot say that there is any want of constitutional power to tax the receipt of it, whether as a result of inheritance [citation omitted] or otherwise, whatever name may be given to the tax * * *. Receipt in possession and enjoyment is as much a taxable occasion within the reach of the federal taxing power as the enjoyment of any other incident of property."<sup>68</sup>

While the distinctions drawn in these cases may seem artificial, the necessity for making them stems from the structure of the Constitution itself, which distinguishes between direct and indirect taxes. The Supreme Court has restricted the definition of direct taxes to the above-enumerated well-defined categories, and we have no warrant to expand them to others.

2. Even if we were to assume that the tax upon Simmons is direct, it comes within the Sixteenth Amendment, which relieved direct taxes upon income from the apportionment requirement. We need look no further than the two most recent Supreme Court cases in this area. In Commissioner of Internal Revenue v. Glenshaw Glass Co., 348 U.S. 426, 75 S.Ct. 473, 99 L.Ed. 483 (1955), the Court upheld the inclusion in gross income of money received by the taxpayers as punitive damages, stating that "[here] we have instances of undeniable accessions to wealth, clearly realized, and over which the taxpayers have complete dominion." 348 U.S. at 431, 75 S.Ct. at 477. This test was specifically reaffirmed in James v. United States, 366 U.S. 213, 81 S.Ct. 1052, 6 L.Ed.2d. 246 (1961), where the Court considered the taxability of embezzled money. The plunder was held to be income solely because it came into the taxpayer's possession and control and despite the fact that he had no right to it and indeed was under a legal obligation to return it to its rightful owner. This obligation to repay was deemed irrelevant, for a gain "constitutes taxable income when its recipient has such control over it that, as a practical matter, he derives readily realizable economic value from it."<sup>69</sup> As is apparent from the quoted statements, and as illustrated by the diverse factual situations in these cases, it is the status in the recipient's hands of the money being taxed which is the crucial factor, while the source of the money is not relevant.

You will note here that the circuit court defines a "direct tax" as a tax on the ownership of property, not on "receipt" of income! They treat the transfer of income as an occasion for an "excise" tax. You will note that it completely ignores the concept that one's own labor is property, and that taxes on labor are in effect "direct taxes" because they are incident on the ownership of one's labor. This is consistent with the findings of the Supreme Court in Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746, which stated:

"...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IN HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVIOABLE..."

This cite also ignores the other very important aspect of this case, which is that Congress only has the right to tax foreign, international, and interstate commerce, but not intrastate commerce (see section 5.2.6 “Cites that Define Federal Taxing Jurisdiction”) under the following sections of the U.S. Constitution:

1. Article I, Section 8, Clause 1.
2. Article I, Section 8, Clause 3.

This case didn’t even discuss whether the income received related to interstate or foreign commerce and came within the jurisdiction of the U.S., and therefore did not properly apply the law to scope the federal power to tax this event as an “excise”. Instead, they just “assumed” that everything was derived from a taxable “source”, which was not the case. For instance, it ignored all of the issues discussed in chapter 5, as far as 26 U.S.C. Section 861 and the corresponding C.F.R.’s (26 C.F.R. §1.861-8) which limit “sources” the IRS can tax to these situations only. The case was rigged from the beginning because they assumed all of Mr. Simmons income was taxable and that he was a “taxpayer” without even attempting to establish his liability for tax under the above constraints.

3.15.16 1969: Conner v. U.S., 303 F.Supp. 1187

“... whatever may constitute income, therefore, must have the essential feature of gain to the recipient. This was true when the 16th Amendment became effective, it was true at the time of Eisner v. Macomber Supra, it was true under Section 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1938, and it is likewise true under Section 61(a) of the I.R.S. Code of 1954. If there is not gain, there is not income ... Congress has taxed income not compensation.”

3.15.17 1986: U.S. v. Stahl, 792 F.2d. 1438

“[Defendant] Stahl's claim that ratification of the 16th Amendment was fraudulently certified constitutes a political question because we could not undertake independent resolution of this issue without expressing lack of respect due coordinate branches of government....”
 [U.S. v. Stahl, 792 F.2d. 1438 (1986)]

3.16 IRS Publications and Internal Revenue Manual (IRM)

This section appears at the end of the chapter on the legal authority of income taxes because IRS publications have the lowest precedence or authority and do not supersede any law.

WARNING!!!: May people are deceived by their own legal ignorance into thinking that the IRS publications that can be readily downloaded from the IRS website at <http://www.irs.gov/> have the force of law. But guess what? These publications are simply hearsay guidelines for Americans that have NO LEGAL AUTHORITY OR RELEVANCY WHATSOEVER! They cannot be used as evidence in a court of law or be read or used by a judge in a tax trial. The only thing that can be legitimately used in a court of law is the actual Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S.C.) and Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations (26 CFR)!

Also, don't allow yourself to be distracted by what is in these publications (or other commercial tax publications for that matter) by IRS agents or representatives, tax attorneys, or tax preparers during the tax litigation or administrative enforcement process, because these publications are simply irrelevant from a legal perspective. You need to vociferously remind everyone you interact with during the tax compliance/enforcement process of this fact. Instead, you should redirect ALL of their comments and advice about taxes back to refer ONLY to the specific law from 26 U.S.C. and 26 C.F.R. that establishes the claim they are trying to make against you during the enforcement process!

For further research on this matter, refer to the following court cases, which reveal that at least five federal courts have ruled that the provisions of the Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) are only directory in nature and are not mandatory nor do they therefore have the force of law.

1. Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 1962).
2. Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980).
3. United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972).
4. Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987).
5. United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982).

The IRS' own procedures appearing in their very own Internal Revenue Manual (IRM), reflect the findings above, as follows:

"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."

[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

Remember that there is a precedence and order to the laws, regulations, and guidelines that govern IRS employees. The U.S. Constitution is supreme, followed by the Statutes at Large, then the codified positive law version of these statutes found in the U.S. Code, then the Code of Federal Regulations (C.F.R.) that implement the positive law statute, and finally the IRS Publications and the Internal Revenue Manual. Only the Constitution and the Statutes at Large can directly impact anyone with the force of law. Titles of the U.S. Codes that are not enacted into positive law, including the Internal Revenue Code and Title 50, which is where the Selective Service System was created, are simply prima facie evidence of law that have not been enacted into positive law. You can verify for yourself which titles the U.S. Code are positive law by referring to the legislative notes under 1 U.S.C. §204. Whenever there is a dispute over the meaning of a section of the Internal Revenue Code, the first thing you should do is refer back to the appropriate sections of the Statutes at Large from which a particular code was derived to determine the explicit intent of Congress in enacting that section.

26 C.F.R.'s Part 601 and the IRS publications are not binding on either the IRS or individuals, according to the federal courts (Luhring v. Glotzbach, 304 F.2d. 560 (4th Cir. 05/28/1962), Einhorn v. Dewitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 06/04/1980)). 26 C.F.R. Part 301, on the other hand, has the force and effect of law and is binding both on the IRS and individuals because it is written by the Secretary of the Treasury under the authority of law found in 26 U.S.C. §7805. Also remember that where there are conflicts in terms and definitions or the application of the law, laws with a higher precedence always overrule those of the lower precedence. For instance, if the IRS publications have a much broader definition of "employer" than the U.S. Code, then the U.S. Code takes precedence. Federal agencies have no constitutional authority to broaden the application of the original law in the U.S. Code from which they derive the regulations they publish in the Federal Register that end up in the Code of Federal Regulations.

We refer you again for a definition of the words found in the U.S. Code as documented in section 3.9.1 of this publication for information about the deceptive/fraudulent word games that the congress and IRS play in the tax code. We also repeat and compare some of these definitions below for your benefit, as evidence of the deliberate deception that is part of the Great IRS Hoax

Table 3-12: Comparison of Definitions Used in Various U.S. Statutes and Regulations

See Pub . 5-A, Employer's Supplemental Tax Guide, for more information on how to determine whether an individual providing services is an independent contractor or an employee. Generally, people in business for themselves are not employees. For example, doctors, lawyers, veterinarians, construction contractors, and others in an independent trade in which they offer their services to the public are usually not employees. However, if the business is incorporated, corporate officers who work in the business are employees. If an employer-employee relationship exists, it does not matter what it is called. The employee may be called an agent or independent contractor. It also does not matter how payments are measured or paid, what they are called, or if the employee works full or part time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|      | 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(d)-1 | The code below is restricted by the fact that it requires that a person be acting as an "employee" for the employer as defined narrowly by 26CFR31.3401(c)-1 below. This implies that in most cases, the employer is a government entity, which may in some cases be a receivership for an otherwise private entity. Therefore, if I am working for a private concern that has fallen into receivership or control of the government under bankruptcy laws, then I become an "employee" because I am working for a government agency. Otherwise, I am not an employee. You will also note that the definition of Employer below would also appear to be much broader than that found in 26 U.S.C. §3401, which is the regulation from which it derives. a) The term employer means any person for whom an individual performs or performed any service, of whatever nature, as the employee of such person. (b) It is not necessary that the services be continuing at the time the wages are paid in order that the status of employer exist. Thus, for purposes of withholding, a person for whom an individual has performed past services for which he is still receiving wages from such person is an employer. (c) An employer may be an individual, a corporation, a partnership, a trust, an estate, a joint-stock company, an association, or a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, group or entity. A trust or estate, rather than the fiduciary acting for or on behalf of the trust or estate, is generally the employer. (d) The term employer embraces not only individuals and organizations engaged in trade or business, but organizations exempt from income tax, such as religious and charitable organizations, educational institutions, clubs, social organizations and societies, as well as the governments of the United States, the States, Territories, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia, including their agencies, instrumentalities, and political subdivisions. (e) The term employer also means (except for the purpose of the definition of wages) any person paying wages on behalf of a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States (including Puerto Rico as if a part of the United States). (f) If the person for whom the services are or were performed does not have legal control of the payment of the wages for such services, the term employer means (except for the purpose of the definition of wages) the person having such control. For example, where wages, such as certain types of pensions or retired pay, are paid by a trust and the person for |

|          |                         | whom the services were performed has no legal control over the payment of such wages, the trust is the employer. (g) The term employer also means a person making a payment of a supplemental unemployment compensation benefit which is treated under paragraph (b)(14) of Sec. 31.3401(a)-1 as if it were wages. For example, if supplemental unemployment compensation benefits are paid from a trust which was created under the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, the trust shall generally be deemed to be the employer. However, if the person making such payment is acting solely as an agent for another person, the term employer shall mean such other person and not the person actually making the payment. (h) It is a basic purpose to centralize in the employer the responsibility for withholding, returning, and paying the tax, and for furnishing the statements required under section 6051 and Sec. 31.6051- 1. The special definitions of the term employer in paragraphs (e), (f), and (g) of this section are designed solely to meet special or unusual situations. They are not intended as a departure from the basic purpose. |

The question arises then: "What if he doesn't want to withhold or the employees don't want him withholding?" The answer is that the agent can't be forced under color of law to withhold according to this. |

1 If the IRS put these unambiguous definitions from the U.S. Code at the beginning of the IRS publications, do you think most
2 people would pay anything to the IRS? NOT! Instead, they put the definitions of "withholding agent", "employee", "trade
3 or business", and "United States" NOT in the C.F.R.'s but deep at the end of the U.S.C, where people aren't likely to look at 4 it. Most other titles of the U.S. Code put the definitions at the beginning of the title. In implementing the U.S. Code through
5 the C.F.R., you will note that the Treasury department left the definition of "employee" intact but considerably broadened
6 the definition of "employer" to deceive people. By what authority did the Treasury and IRS do this? There is none! They
7 have no constitutional or statutory authority to broaden the definition of any term used in the U.S. Code when applying it in
8 the C.F.R.'s. Instead, we believe they simply wanted to have more leverage in the use of scare tactics against private 9 companies so they could prevent a Citizen revolt in the process of refusing to sign W-4's that illegally authorize the 10 enforcement of what are actually federal donations to the municipal government of the District of Columbia. We believe 11 they were "testing the waters" to see how much the courts and citizens would let them get away with by asking for far more
12 from Americans than they have legal authority to get based on the U.S. Codes that they derive their regulations and authority 13 from.

14 After all, why would an employee want to argue with their employer (look a gift horse in the mouth) and risk their job by 15 dragging their employer into court to litigate the improper application of the tax code by their employer and the wrongful
16 taking of taxes caused by the misreporting of "taxable income" on their W-2 forms? An old Chinese proverb sums this 17 situation up very wisely:

18 "The mouth that eats does not talk."

19 Note, however, that the term "employer" in the C.F.R. still depends on and is derived from the definition of employee in the 20 U.S. Code, and therefore it can be no more expansive than the original definition of employer found in the U.S.C This kind

1 of devious legal chicanery is the reason why even to this day employers still incorrectly report "gross income" in their tax
 2 withholdings reported to the IRS, and the IRS wants to keep it that way!

3 To make matters worse, if you call up the IRS and ask them for advice, they will not claim ANY responsibility for it, nor
 4 do they have a legal obligation to assume responsibility! This is true even when the IRS agents are dead wrong! President
 5 Reagan attested to this when he said in a 1984 Associated Press (AP) release:

6 "The government has the nerve to tell the people of the country, 'You figure out how much you owe us—and we
 7 can't help you because our people don't understand it either (the Code)—and if you make a mistake, we'll make
 8 you pay a penalty for making the mistake."
 9 [Ronald Reagan, 1984 Associated Press]

10 And to further ensconce itself in the "ivory tower", the IRS came up with Publication 17, which states:

11 "The publication covers some subjects on which certain courts have taken positions more favorable to the 12 taxpayers than the official position of the Service. Until these interpretations are resolved by higher court
 13 decisions, or otherwise, the publication will continue to present the viewpoint of the Service."
 14 [IRS Publication 17]

15 The above is a disclaimer and it is also a tacit admission that IRS publications do not necessarily present the law, but only 16 the law as the IRS wants you to understand it.

17 Of course, this game-playing by the Department of Plunder directly violates other supreme Court cases, including Spreckels
 18 Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397(1904), which stated:

19 "Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by 20 clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be 21 resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid."
 22 [Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

23 The final twist in the IRS maze comes in IRS Publication 21, where the IRS essentially tells you that you must decide whether 24 you are required to file or not. Ultimately, the decision of whether to file tax returns is truly your responsibility.

25 Here is what the federal courts say about the admissibility or reliance on the contents of the Internal Revenue Manual:

26 "Rules contained in Internal Revenue Manual, even if they were codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, did
 27 not have force and effect of law, and therefore, district court, in Government's action to collect assessment,
 28 correctly precluded defendant from introducing evidence concerning these provisions."
 29 [United States v. Horne, 714 F.2d. 206 (1983)]

30 "Internal revenue manual was not promulgated pursuant to any mandate or delegation of authority by Congress
 31 so that procedures set forth in manual did not have effect of rule of law and therefore were not binding on Internal 32 Revenue Service so that manual conveyed no rights to taxpayers and taxpayers could not allege noncompliance
 33 with those procedures to invalidate tax levies."
 34 [First Federal Sav. And Loan Ass'n v. Goldman, 644 F.Supp. 101 (W.D.Pa. 1986)]

3.17 Topical Legal Discussions

3.17.1 Uncertainty of the Federal Tax Codes

37 As we mentioned earlier, our very own favorite President, Ronald Reagan, attested to the complexity of the tax code when 38 he said to the Associated Press in 1984:

39 "The government has the nerve to tell the people of the country, 'You figure out how much you owe us-and we
 40 can't help you because our people don't understand it either (the Code)—and if you make a mistake, we'll make
 41 you pay a penalty for making the mistake."

42 For several years now, a variety of high public officials have openly declared that the federal income tax code is incredibly 43 complex and needs to be either substantially revised or scrapped. But after making such statements, these officials invariably 44 fail to identify what specific parts of the tax code suffer from this condition, choosing instead to conceal them. Are the 45 objectionable parts of the federal tax code secretly and quietly discussed behind closed Congressional committee doors? If

1 they are, why doesn't someone inform the American public of these deficiencies so that they may likewise participate in this
 2 debate? Is it possible that it is the major and not various minor features of the tax code which are complex, even uncertain?
 3 Is it possible that these major features are so fundamentally flawed that they simply cannot be repaired? If so, what is the 4 legal consequence of this complexity?

5 It is alleged that the legal duties arising from the tax code are clearly known to all, but there are a few exceptions to this rule.
 6 For example, in United States v. Critzer, 498 F.2d. 1160 (4th Cir. 1974), at issue was the validity of the conviction of an
 7 Indian for tax evasion. Here, the Bureau of Indian Affairs had informed Mrs. Critzer that the money she derived from real
 8 property located within a reservation was not taxable; Mrs. Critzer relied upon this advice and failed to report such income.
 9 But, the IRS maintained a contrary position and indicted and secured her conviction for tax evasion. This conviction was 10 reversed on the grounds that the unsettled nature of this field of law precluded any conviction:

11 "While the record amply supports the conclusion that the underreporting was intentional, the record also reflects
 12 that, concededly, whether defendant's unreported income was taxable is problematical and the government is in 13 dispute with itself as to whether the omitted income was taxable," Id., at 1160.

14 "We hold that defendant must be exonerated from the charges lodged against her. As a matter of law, defendant
 15 cannot be guilty of willfully evading and defeating income taxes on income, the taxability of which is so
 16 uncertain that even co-ordinate branches of the United States Government plausibly reach directly opposing
 17 conclusions. As a matter of law, the requisite intent to evade and defeat income taxes is missing. The obligation
 18 to pay is so problematical that defendant's actual intent is irrelevant. Even if she had consulted the law and sought
 19 to guide herself accordingly, she could have had no certainty as to what the law required.

20 "It is settled that when the law is vague or highly debatable, a defendant- actually or imputedly- lacks the 21 requisite intent to violate it," Id., at 1162.

22 This single case is an adequate demonstration that there is at least one part of the tax code which is unclear and that lack of 23 clarity caused the reversal of Mrs. Critzer's criminal conviction. But there are others; see United States v. Mallas, 762 F.2d.
 24 361 (4th Cir. 1985)(a prosecution for violating an unclear legal duty abridges principles of due process); United States v.
 25 Garber, 607 F.2d. 92, 97-98 (5th Cir. 1979); United States v. Dahlstrom, 713 F.2d. 1423, 1429 (9th Cir. 1983); United States
 26 v. Heller, 830 F.2d. 150 (11th Cir. 1987); and United States v. Harris, 942 F.2d. 1125 (7th Cir. 1991). Unclear legal duties in 27 other fields of law besides tax likewise prevent criminal convictions on due process grounds; see United States v. Insko, 496
 28 F.2d. 204 (5th Cir. 1974); People v. Dempster, 396 Mich. 700, 242 N.W.2d. 381 (1976); United States v. Anzalone, 766 F.2d.
 29 676, 681-82 (1st Cir. 1985); United States v. Denmark, 779 F.2d. 1559 (11th Cir. 1986); United States v. Varbel, 780 F.2d.
 30 758, 762 (9th Cir. 1986); United States v. Dela Espriella, 781 F.2d. 1432 (9th Cir. 1986); and United States v. Larson, 796
 31 F.2d. 244 (8th Cir. 1986).

32 Under the U.S. Constitution, the Congress is authorized to impose two different types of taxes, direct and indirect. Via Art.
 33 1, §8, cl. 1, of the Constitution, indirect taxes (excises, duties and imposts) must be uniformly imposed throughout the country.
 34 Direct taxes are required via Art. 1, §2, cl. 3, and Art. 1, §9, cl. 4, to be imposed pursuant to the regulation of apportionment.
 35 These tax categories are mutually exclusive and any given tax must squarely fit within one category or the other. To which 36 constitutional category does the federal income tax belong? Is it a direct tax, or is it an indirect tax? Do American courts
 37 speak with unanimity about this simple question of what is the nature of this tax?

38 To determine whether and to what extent there is any uncertainty or conflict of authority regarding the nature of the federal
 39 income tax requires at least a short review of the fundamental decisions concerning it. In 1894, Congress adopted an income
 40 tax act which was declared unconstitutional in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 15 S.Ct. 673, aff. reh.,
 41 158 U.S. 601, 15 S.Ct. 912 (1895). The Pollock Court found that the income tax was a direct tax which could only be imposed
 42 if the tax was apportioned; since this tax was not apportioned, it was found unconstitutional. In an effort to circumvent this 43 decision, the 16th Amendment was proposed by Congress in 1909 and allegedly ratified by the states in 1913. As a result,
 44 various opinions arose regarding the legal effect of the amendment. Some factions contended that the 16th Amendment simply 45 eliminated the apportionment requirement for one specific direct tax known as the income tax, while others asserted that the 46 amendment simply withdrew it from the direct tax category and placed the income tax in the indirect, excise tax class. These 47 competing contentions and interpretations were apparently resolved in Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1,
 48 36 S.Ct. 236 (1916).[1] Rather than attempt a determination of what the Court held in this case, it is more important to learn
 49 what various courts have subsequently declared Brushaber to mean.

50 A little more than a week after the opinion in Brushaber, similar issues were present for decision in Stanton v. Baltic Mining
 51 Co., 240 U.S. 103, 112-13, 36 S.Ct. 278 (1916), which involved the question of whether an inadequate depletion allowance

1 for a mining company constituted a direct tax on the company's property. As to Baltic's contention that "the 16th Amendment
2 authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment," the Court rejected it by stating that this contention:

3 "... manifestly disregards the fact that by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the 16th
4 Amendment conferred no new power of taxation, but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power
5 of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect
6 taxation to which it inherently belonged, and being placed in the category of direct taxation."

7 The Court clearly held that income taxes inherently belonged to the indirect/excise tax class, but had been converted by 8 Pollock to direct taxes by considering the source of the income; the 16th Amendment merely banished the rule in Pollock.
9 See also Tyee Realty Co. v. Anderson, 240 U.S. 115, 36 S.Ct. 281 (1916), decided the same day.

10 However, the victory of defining what the 16th Amendment meant was short lived and later decisions commenced a course
11 which appears to have changed the meaning of Brushaber, or at least provided fertile grounds for an entirely different and 12 opposite construction of it. In William E. Peck & Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165, 172-73, 38 S.Ct. 432, 433 (1918), which involved
13 a tax imposed on export earnings, the Court seemed to indicate that what was accomplished by the amendment was the 14 elimination of the apportionment requirement for the direct tax known as the income tax, an argument rejected in Baltic:

15 "The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As 16 pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects, but merely 17 removed all occasion, which otherwise might exist, for an apportionment among the states of taxes laid on income,
18 whether it be derived from one source or another."

19 The drift away from the position of the Court that the income tax via the 16th Amendment fell within the excise tax category
20 became more pronounced with the decision in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 206, 40 S.Ct. 189 (1920), which involved
21 the application of this tax to a stock dividend. Here, the Court plainly stated what many lawyers and some judges today think 22 was accomplished by means of this amendment: the elimination of the apportionment requirement for the direct tax known
23 as the income tax. In deciding this case, the Court quoted the amendment and then redeclared its meaning:

24 "As repeatedly held, this did not extend the taxing power to new subjects, but merely removed the necessity which 25 otherwise might exist for an apportionment among the states of taxes laid on income. Brushaber....," 252 U.S., at 26 206.

27 "A proper regard for its genesis, as well as its very clear language, requires also that this amendment shall not
28 be extended by loose construction, so as to repeal or modify, except as applied to income, those provisions of the 29 Constitution that require an apportionment according to population for direct taxes upon property, real and 30 personal."

31 Is this the resurfacing of the argument that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without 32 apportionment" condemned in Baltic?

33 From a study of Brushaber, it is thus possible for someone to rely upon those portions of the two phrases at the beginning
34 and ending of 240 U.S. 19 to believe that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without 35 apportionment." If one fell into that error, this belief would be magnified by the above highlighted portions of Eisner.
36 Confusion abounds as to the correct interpretation of Brushaber, and this is obvious because various courts of this country
37 have relied upon this line of authority to reach diametrically opposing results.

38 The state courts have been particularly split over the nature of an income tax and whether it constitutes a direct property tax
39 or an indirect/excise, which is not imposed on property. A small number of them hold that an income tax is a direct property
40 tax; see Eliasberg Bros. Mercantile Co. v. Grimes, 204 Ala. 492, 86 So. 56, 58 (1920); State v. Pinder, 108 A. 43, 45 (Del.
41 1919); Bachrach v. Nelson, 349 Ill. 579, 182 N.E. 909 (1932); Opinion of the Justices, 220 Mass. 613, 108 N.E. 570 (1915);

49 (1917). A far larger number of state courts disagree with the cases noted above and have held that an income tax is not a
50 property tax but an excise; see Purnell v. Page, 133 N.C. 125, 45 S.E. 534, 535 (1903); State v. Frear, 148 Wis. 456, 134

12 This split of authority evident within the state cases also manifests itself in the federal appellate courts. For example, in the 13 First Circuit it is difficult to determine the meaning of the 16th Amendment because in United States v. Turano, 802 F.2d.
 14 10, 12 (1st Cir. 1986), that court held that the "16th Amendment eliminated the indirect/direct distinction as applied to taxes
 15 on income." Next door in the Second Circuit, there is uncertainty revealed by three completely inconsistent cases. In Jandorf's
 16 Estate v. Commissioner, 171 F.2d. 464, 465 (2nd Cir. 1948), that court declared, "It should be noted that estate or inheritance
 17 taxes are excises ... while surtaxes, excess profits and war-profits taxes are direct property taxes." Surtaxes are the graduated
 18 taxes of the income tax, so this court holds that the personal income tax is a direct tax. But in Ficalora v. Commissioner, 751
 19 F.2d. 85, 87 (2nd Cir. 1984), that court stated that the personal income tax was an indirect tax: "[T]he Supreme Court explicitly 20 stated that taxes on income from one's employment are not direct taxes and are not subject to the necessity of apportionment."
 21 But compare United States v. Sitka, 845 F.2d. 43, 46 (2nd Cir. 1988)(citing Parker, infra, for the proposition that the tax is 22 direct). In the Third Circuit, it has been held in one case that all income taxes are direct, but in another that only some are 23 direct; see Keasbey & Mattison Co. v. Rothensies, 133 F.2d. 894, 897 (3rd Cir. 1943)("[A]n income tax is a direct tax upon
 24 income therein defined"); and Penn Mutual Indemnity Co. v. Commissioner, 277 F.2d. 16, 19 (3rd Cir. 1960)("Pollock ...
 25 only held that a tax on the income derived from real or personal property was so close to a tax on that property that it could 26 not be imposed without apportionment. The Sixteenth Amendment removed that barrier").

27 In the remainder of the Circuits, the difference of opinion as to whether the federal income tax is a direct or indirect tax is 28 likewise as profound and confusing. In the Fourth and Sixth Circuits, the income tax has been held to be an excise tax; see 29 White Packing Co. v. Robertson, 89 F.2d. 775, 779 (4th Cir. 1937)("The tax is, of course, an excise tax, as are all taxes on 30 income..."); and United States v. Gaumer, 972 F.2d. 723, 725 (6th Cir. 1992)("Brushaber and the Congressional Record
 31 excerpt do indeed state that for constitutional purposes, the income tax is an excise tax"). However, in the Fifth, Seventh,
 32 Eighth and Tenth Circuits, arguments that this tax is an excise have been squarely rejected and determined to be frivolous.
 33 For example, in Parker v. Commissioner, 724 F.2d. 469, 471 (5th Cir. 1984), the court clearly rejected the contention that 34 this tax is an excise:

35 "The Supreme Court promptly determined in Brushaber... that the sixteenth amendment provided the needed
 36 constitutional basis for the imposition of a direct non-apportioned income tax.

37 "The sixteenth amendment merely eliminates the requirement that the direct income tax be apportioned among 38 the states.

39 "The sixteenth amendment was enacted for the express purpose of providing for a direct income tax."

40 In Coleman v. Commissioner, 791 F.2d. 68, 70 (7th Cir. 1986), the court held that an argument that this tax was an excise
 41 was frivolous on its face ("The power thus long predates the Sixteenth Amendment, which did no more than remove the 42 apportionment requirement..."). A similar conclusion was reached in United States v. Francisco, 614 F.2d. 617, 619 (8th Cir.
 43 1980), that court declaring that Brushaber held this tax to be a direct one:

44 "The cases cited by Francisco clearly establish that the income tax is a direct tax, thus refuting the argument
 45 based upon his first theory. See Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 19, 36 S.Ct. 236, 242, 60
 46 L.Ed. 493 (1916) (the purpose of the Sixteenth Amendment was to take the income tax 'out of the class of excises, 47 duties and imposts and place it in the class of direct taxes').[3]

48 Finally, in United States v. Lawson, 670 F.2d. 923, 927 (10th Cir. 1982), that court expressed in the following fashion its 49 contempt for the contention that the federal income tax was an excise:

"Lawson's 'jurisdictional' claim, more accurately a constitutional claim, is based on an argument that the Sixteenth Amendment only authorizes excise-type taxes on income derived from activities that are government-licensed or otherwise specially protected... The contention is totally without merit... The Sixteenth Amendment removed any need to apportion income taxes among the states that otherwise would have been required by Article I, Section 9, clause 4."

Therefore, while the Supreme Court rejected in Baltic the argument that "the 16th Amendment authorized only an exceptional direct income tax without apportionment," this position now prevails in the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Tenth Circuits. In the Second Circuit, the existing authority illogically claims that the tax is both.

A direct tax applies to and taxes property while an indirect, excise tax is never imposed on property but usually an event such as sales; see Bromley v. McCaughn, 280 U.S. 124, 50 S.Ct. 46, 47 (1929).[4] Those courts which hold that an income tax is a direct property tax believe that income is property, yet those which hold that this tax is an excise declare that income is not property. If the courts of this country cannot identify what is the nature of this ephemeral item known as income,[5] then how can the American people? While in Critzer the difference of opinion existed between two government agencies, here the difference of opinion is among many different courts, a situation far more serious than that presented in Heller. Aren't we being subjected to a monumental due process problem far bigger than that to which Mrs. Critzer was subjected?

The question of what constitutes property is an issue governed by state law; see Acquilino v. United States, 363 U.S. 509, 512-13, 80 S.Ct. 1277, 1280 (1960), and United States v. Baldwin, 575 F.2d. 1097, 1098 (4th Cir. 1978). The definition of the term "property" is very broad; see Samet v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank, 247 F. 669, 671 (4th Cir. 1917)("Property is .... everything that has exchangeable value or goes to make up a man's wealth"). It includes money, credits, evidences of debt, and choices in action; see State v. Ward, 222 N.C. 316, 22 S.E.2d. 922, 925 (1942). Income is property according to St. Louis Union Trust Co. v. United States, 617 F.2d. 1293, 1301 (8th Cir. 1980). Accrued wages and salaries are likewise property; see Sims v. United States, 252 F.2d. 434, 437 (4th Cir. 1958), aff'd., 359 U.S. 108, 79 S.Ct. 641 (1959); and Kolb v. Berlin, 356 F.2d. 269, 271 (5th Cir. 1966). Accounts receivable are property; see In re Ralar Distributors, Inc., 4 F.3d. 62, 67 (1st Cir. 1993). Even private employment and a profession are considered property; see United States v. Briggs, 514 F.2d. 794, 798 (5th Cir. 1975).

There appears to be no dispute about the plain requirements of the Constitution that direct taxes must be apportioned and that indirect taxes must be uniform. Likewise as shown above, there is a line of decisional authority regarding the generally accepted proposition that income is property, although there are courts which deny this. In James v. United States, 970 F.2d. 750, 755, 756 n. 11 (10th Cir. 1992), the 10th Circuit made it clear that income is property. Pursuant to United States v. Lawson, supra, the Tenth Circuit declares that the property known as income is subject to tax under the view that the 16th Amendment eliminated the apportionment requirement for a specific class of property known as income. However, there is ample contrary judicial authority which demonstrates that this construction of the 16th Amendment is erroneous and that the purpose, intent and meaning of the amendment was the opposite construction and that the amendment did not free this one type of property tax from the regulation of apportionment. An error in a logical argument involving a single premise affects the ultimate conclusion. If the Tenth Circuit accepted the proposition that the meaning of the 16th Amendment was contrary to that asserted in Lawson, but adhered to its decision in James, a valid legal argument would logically follow that property known as income could not be taxed because the current income tax is not apportioned.

This same problem, but from an opposite perspective, is evident within the Fourth Circuit where the existing authority of Sims v. United States, supra, declares that income is property. Since that Circuit holds that the federal income tax is an excise via White Packing Co. v. Robertson, supra, and since the definition of an excise tax appearing in that Court's opinion in New Neighborhoods, Inc. v. West Virginia Workers' Comp. Fund, 886 F.2d. 714, 719 (4th Cir. 1989), excludes a tax on property, does it not logically follow that there is a tremendous gap in the decisional authority within the Fourth Circuit which presents a view of the law that the property known as income might not be taxed? Based on these cases, is this tax clearly imposed?

Review of the above noted authority in other circuits and states only demonstrates how profound this problem is. In the Sixth Circuit, United States v. Gaumer, supra, declares the income tax to be an excise; via Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d. 453, 455-56 (Tenn. 1960), the Tennessee Supreme Court has held that an excise tax cannot be used to tax the right to earn a living. Which authority do the people living in Tennessee follow? If they follow the word of their own state court, they might be charged with a tax crime, yet they have a right to rely upon the word of the courts, even when erroneous; see United States v. Albertini, 830 F.2d. 985, 989 (9th Cir. 1987). A different problem emerges in the Eighth Circuit where United States v. Francisco, supra, holds that an income tax is a direct property tax. Missouri is within the Eighth Circuit, but the Missouri Supreme Court held in Ludlow-Saylor Wire Co. v. Wollbrinck, supra, that an income tax is an excise; if income is not property under Missouri state law,[6] then how does this federal property tax operate as to this "non-property"? Iowa is

1 also in the Eighth Circuit, but in Hale v. Iowa State Board of Assessment and Review, 223 Iowa 321, 271 N.W. 168, 172
 2 (1937), that court held that "income is not property within the law of taxation." If state law holds that income is not property
 3 yet the federal appellate court for the same state holds the exact opposite, is not a serious uncertainty of the law, due process
 4 problem clearly evident?

5 The decisional authority within the Fifth Circuit, Parker v. Commissioner, supra, holds that this tax is a direct property tax,
 6 but a contrary view prevails in Mississippi where its citizens are told that an income tax is an excise; see Hattiesburg Grocery
 7 Co. v. Robertson, supra. The courts in Wisconsin and Indiana, via State v. Frear, supra, and Miles v. Dept. of Treasury, supra,
 8 have found this tax to be an excise, yet the federal appellate court which encompasses these two states has an entirely different
 9 view of the object of the tax; see Coleman v. Commissioner, supra. The Tenth Circuit, which sits in Denver, held in Lawson,
 10 supra, that the income tax is a property tax, yet a state court in the same city has declared that such a tax is an excise; see 11 California Co. v. State, supra.

12 In Alabama, income is property via Eliasberg Bros. Mercantile Co. v. Grimes, supra; but next door in Georgia via 13 Featherstone v. Norman,<sup>[7]</sup> it is not. While the Eleventh Circuit appears not as yet to have passed upon the question of what
 14 type of tax the federal income tax is, consultation of Supreme Court decisions still doesn't resolve the question. By following
 15 the rationale of Brushaber and Bromley, supra, which declare the federal income tax to be an excise tax which is not imposed
 16 on property, are the people of Alabama exempt from this tax while those in Georgia are not? But by reversing the choice of 17 Supreme Court decisions to follow in an effort to resolve this controversy merely changes the results but not the problem. By 18 following Eisner which seems to hold that the tax is imposed on property, do the people of Alabama owe the tax while those 19 in Georgia do not? These differing conclusions plainly reveal a serious uncertainty about what is taxed, and no attempt is 20 made herein to offer any explanation for all of this inconsistency; but it is clear that this uncertainty of the law creates a
 21 serious due process problem.

22 The problems created by the failure of American courts to determine what is the nature of an income tax are very broad. Any 23 particular federal tax must fit within one of the two constitutional tax categories and once the category is known, it may be
 24 determined whether the tax in question complies with the constitutional regulation for imposition of that type of tax. A direct
 25 tax which is uniformly imposed would still be unconstitutional as one imposed in the absence of apportionment. An indirect
 26 tax imposed via apportionment would likewise be unconstitutional since it would not be uniform. But if it is impossible to 27 determine which class any given tax falls within, then it is likewise impossible to determine which constitutional regulation,
 28 if any, applies to that tax. If the courts of this country hold that an income tax is both an excise tax and a direct one, it cannot
 29 with any degree of certainty be determined what constitutional restrictions might or might not apply to this tax or what is 30 even the meaning of the 16th Amendment. What's more, it cannot be determine what is income, whether property or non-31 property.

32 But this is not the only fundamental problem for the federal income tax. Additionally, the question of which statute controls
 33 the duty to file income tax returns is subject to judicial dispute. In Commissioner v. Lane-Wells Co., 321 U.S. 219, 222, 64
 34 S.Ct. 511, 513 (1944), the Court noted that §54 of the 1939 Internal Revenue Code, the predecessor for Internal Revenue
 35 Code §6001, related to the filing requirement; see also Updike v. United States, 8 F.2d. 913, 915 (8th Cir. 1925). In True v.
 36 United States, 354 F.2d. 323, 324 (Ct.Cl. 1965), United States v. Carlson, 260 F.Supp. 423, 425 (E.D.N.Y. 1966), White v.
 37 Commissioner, 72 U.S.T.C. 1126, 1129 (1979), McCaskill v. Commissioner, 77 U.S.T.C. 689, 698 (1981), Counts v.
 38 Commissioner, 774 F.2d. 426, 427 (11th Cir. 1985), Blount v. Commissioner, 86 U.S.T.C. 383, 386 (1986), and Beard v.
 39 Commissioner, 793 F.2d. 139 (6th Cir. 1986), these courts held that Internal Revenue Code §6011 related to the filing
 40 requirement. In United States v. Moore, 627 F.2d. 830, 834 (7th Cir. 1980), United States v. Dawes, 951 F.2d. 1189, 1192, n.
 41 3 (10th Cir. 1991), and United States v. Hicks, 947 F.2d. 1356, 1360 (9th Cir. 1991), those courts held that Internal Revenue
 42 Code §§ 6011 and 6012 governed this duty. In contrast, the cases of Steinbrecher v. Commissioner, 712 F.2d. 195, 198 (5th
 43 Cir. 1983), United States v. Bowers, 920 F.2d. 220, 222 (4th Cir. 1990), and United States v. Neff, 954 F.2d. 698, 699 (11th
 44 Cir. 1992), held that only §6012 governed this duty. But in United States v. Pilcher, 672 F.2d. 875, 877 (11th Cir. 1982),
 45 none of the above sections were mentioned and it was held that §7203 required returns to be filed. It is very apparent that 46 there is even a diversity of opinion among judges regarding which sections of the Internal Revenue Code govern the 47 requirement to file income tax returns.

48 The observation of the dissenting judge in Culliton v. Chase, 25 P.2d. at 89-90, that this "disagreement of the courts and 49 judges on identical problems seems to afford the highest proof that 'reasonable doubt' does exist," is particularly appropriate
 50 here. If American courts cannot decide such fundamental questions as what is the nature of the income tax and which section
 51 of the Internal Revenue Code requires the filing of an income tax return, then it is obvious that a serious due process problem
 52 exists within the federal income tax code.

1 If American courts cannot decide such fundamental questions as what is the nature of the income tax and which section of
 2 the Internal Revenue Code requires the filing of an income tax return, then it is obvious that the problem with this tax involves
 3 these basic questions. Since even the courts are split over these questions, shouldn't we just scrap the whole thing since the 4 condition which exists is incapable of repair?

5 Based on the foregoing discussion, congress apparently must like this kind of legal anarchy over the tax codes, because it has
 6 existed ever since income taxes were introduced with the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and it has never been
 7 resolved since the amendment was ratified in 1916. It is clear that amendment introduced a lot of ambiguity in the tax system,
 8 which Congress has exploited to their advantage, as evidenced by the fact that the IRS forms and publications still largely
 9 ignore the 26 U.S.C. §861 "source" issue as well as the "gross income" issue. In addition, the congress has made the tax code
 10 MORE, not LESS ambiguous over the years by trying to downplay the "source" issue, making the wording confusing and
 11 unnecessarily complex, as well as removing definitions from the code needed to interpret it, such as "Employee", for instance
 12 (see section 3.9.1.4 for further details on this subject) . So long as the congress can continue to advantage the government
 13 financially by exploiting that deliberate ambiguity and confusion and preserve the illusion of "freedom and liberty" within 14 our country thereby, then there are good reasons for not resolving the conflict by modifying the legislation to read more
 15 clearly and eliminate the need to litigate the issues further.

16 In 1913 during the debate on the first income tax act under the 16th Amendment, Senator Elihu Root commented about the 17 complexity of that first law:

18 "I guess you will have to go to jail. If that is the result of not understanding the Income Tax Law I shall meet you
 19 there. We shall have a merry, merry time, for all of our friends will be there. It will be an intellectual center, for 20 no one understands the Income Tax Law except persons who have not sufficient intelligence to understand the 21 questions that arise under it."[8]

22 Apparently, nothing has changed.

23 END NOTES:

24 [1] In this decision, there is a very lengthy sentence which contains the following phrase: "... by which alone such taxes were
 25 removed from the great class of excises, duties and imposts subject to the rule of uniformity, and were placed under the other
 26 or direct class," 240 U.S., at 19. This phrase and the one at the very end of this paragraph are almost identical. This language
 27 was used to describe the contention the Court was rejecting, not approving.

28 [2] The dissent in this case noted the wide divergence of the authority as to whether the tax is a direct property tax or an 29 excise. It commented: "The disagreement of the courts and judges on identical problems seems to afford the highest proof
 30 that 'reasonable doubt' does exist," 25 P.2d, at 89-90.

31 [3] It is interesting to note that this court relied upon those portions of the Brushaber decision quoted previously where the 32 Court noted the argument is was precisely rejecting. If the judges who are legal scholars are capable of completely
 33 misunderstanding this opinion, is it not also probable that the American people and even lawyers can make the same mistake?

34 [4] The Court defined these two types of taxes in the following manner: "While taxes levied upon or collected from persons
 35 because of their general ownership of property may be taken to be direct.... a tax imposed upon a particular use of property
 36 or the exercise of a single power over property incidental to ownership, is an excise which need not be apportioned..."

37 [5] At least one court has declared that the term "income" is not defined in the Internal Revenue Code; see United States v.
 38 Ballard, 535 F.2d. 400, 404 (8th Cir. 1976).

39 [6] The Court in Ludlow, 205 S.W. at 198, declared that income is not property: "It is apparent therefore, that when the
 40 Constitution of 1875 was adopted, the word 'property' as the basis for taxation, proportioned to value, had acquired a fixed
 41 and definite meaning preclusive of personal incomes, occupations, privileges and similar sources of revenue."

42 [7] See 153 S.E. at 65: "Hence a man's income is not 'property' within the meaning of a constitutional requirement that taxes
 43 shall be laid equally and uniformly upon all property within the State."

3.17.2 Reasonable Cause

The concept of "reasonable cause" is a vitally important one... and is applicable to the information in many of the subjects discussed in this document. The best place to begin the explanation of "reasonable cause" is in a generally accepted standard of legal construction and meaning, Black's law Dictionary, which sees this as a term relating to Criminal law. Yet the term contains the following relevant attributes:

"...(the) state of facts as would lead (a) man of ordinary care and prudence to believe and entertain a strong and honest suspicion."

Prudence is a very important word in this statement...

There are many mentions of "reasonable cause" in the statutes, such as a reason for not withholding the income tax from the source under § 3402, and not sending in a return the IRS expects under 6724, but none really identifies what reasonable cause means under other laws lacking such definitions.

The truth is discovered, in 26 C.F.R. § 1.6661-6(b) where the regulation plainly states that: "reliance on a position" contained in a proposed regulation would ordinarily constitute reasonable cause and good faith. The word "ordinarily" makes it plainly clear when this definition of the term is in effect.

Also see 26 C.F.R. § 1.6661-6, the mere advice of CPA's and tax professionals cannot be relied upon for 'reasonable cause' and good faith as the Secretary has this to say about the subject:

Reliance on an information return or on the advice of a professional (such as an appraiser, an attorney, or an accountant) would not necessarily constitute a showing of reasonable cause and good faith. Similarly, reliance on facts that, unknown to the taxpayer, are incorrect, would not necessarily constitute a showing of reasonable cause and good faith.

It is plainly apparent by this, the only clear and expansive definition of "reasonable cause" in the entire tax code, stating that any action taken must be well grounded in fact and in law to constitute 'reasonable cause' and 'good faith', after prudent examination of both the facts and the law, not merely advice..

From our understanding, without this criteria being fulfilled, there is nowhere for a payor or employer to claim "reasonable cause and good faith" for their actions, such as ignoring a claim made pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.6041A(a)(ii), or any other law which plainly means what the words in it say... if someone has acted without reasonable cause, what then can be their excuse and protection?

3.17.3 The Collective Entity Rule

3.17.3.1 Origins of the Collective Entity Rule

The U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly held that the mandate of the Fifth Amendment, which protects "persons" from compulsory self-incrimination, applies only to "natural people" and not to "fictitious" ones, such as limited and general partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations.<sup>2</sup> Therefore, corporations, partnerships, limited partnerships, limited liability companies, and other kinds of business organizations are treated differently from individuals for Fifth Amendment purposes. This concept is known as the "Collective Entity Rule."<sup>3</sup>

The Collective Entity Rule was first articulated in Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 26 S.Ct. 370, 50 L.Ed. 652 (1906). In that case, a corporate officer, who had been served with a subpoena duces tecum commanding the production of corporate books and records, claimed a Fifth Amendment privilege against production of the corporate books and records. The Hale Court denied the claim of a privilege, opining that:

"[W]e are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction . . . between an individual and a corporation, and . . . the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for examination at the suit of the State. 5

Hale made it clear that a corporation has no Fifth Amendment privilege that insulates the collective entity from producing corporate books and records. The Court's rationale was that because the corporation:

1 is a creature of the state[.] . . . [i]t receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to
 2 the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It would be a strange anomaly
 3 to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise
 4 of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and
 5 demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. However, the Hale Court did not
 6 decide whether a corporate officer or custodian of records could refuse to produce corporate documents by
 7 invoking his or her personal Fifth Amendment privilege.<sup>6</sup>

8 In Wilson v. United States, 221 U.S. 361 (1911), the Supreme Court held that the corporate officer or custodian cannot use
 9 his or her personal Fifth Amendment privilege to shield the corporation from producing corporate records. The Court
 10 reasoned that:

11 [W]ilson held the corporate books subject to the corporate duty. If the corporation were guilty of misconduct, he 12 could not withhold its books to save it; and if he were implicated in the violation of law, he could not withhold
 13 the books to protect himself from the effect of their disclosures. The [State's] reserved powers of visitation would 14 seriously be embarrassed, if not wholly defeated in its effective exercise, if guilty officers could refuse inspection
 15 of the records and papers of the corporation. No personal privilege to which they are entitled requires such a
 16 conclusion.... [T]he visitatorial power which exists with respect to the corporation of necessity reaches the 17 corporate books without regard to the conduct of the custodian.<sup>70</sup>

18 3.17.3.2 Extensions to the Collective Entity Rule

19 Very recently the Supreme Court held in United States v. Hubbell, 120 S.Ct. 2037 (2000) That interrogatories and depositions
 20 of natural persons, are protected under the Collective Entity Rule. Clearly distinguishing between you and I as natural persons 21 and a person who is subject to an internal revenue tax.

22 This principle of the Collective Entity Rule was recently applied in Tax Court by Larry Becraft in stopping the government
 23 from compelling the production of documents protected by the Fifth Amendment. You might also cite the following two 24 cases regarding the Collective Entity Rule:

- 25 1. Baltimore City DSS v. Bouknight, 493 U.S. 549 (1990)
- 26 2. Brasswell v. United States, 487 U.S. 99, 104, 107 - 109, 119, 121 - 125, Footnote 5 (1988). Also, on your Loop 6, the 27 filing in court, in the Remedy portion. I think "MRF-1" should be "MFR-1".

28 Who or what are you? Are you a piece of paper, a legal fiction called a person, or are you a Natural Person or Human?

29 Black's Law Dictionary defines a corporation as:

30 "An artificial person or legal entity created by or under the authority of the laws of a state. An association of 31 persons created by statute as a legal entity. The law treats the corporation as a person which can sue and be 32 sued."

33 Therefore, under the laws of the state, as a "person" rather than a "natural person" you are a legal fiction a corporate/person
 34 property of the state and federal government! Natural persons such as yourself are living Souls in human form who cannot 35 be taxed for the mere privilege of earning a living.

36 3.17.3.3 Legal Fiction

37 Two things are required if you are to be taxed. First, the government must have jurisdiction over you as a corporation/person
 38 (rather than a "natural person")... property of the state. And you must be engaged in some activity, which is taxable and 39 requires the exercise of a government-granted privilege.

40 In Section 3.8.9 where we talked about the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which outlawed slavery we pointed 41 out that the reason there was no law requiring you to file or pay income tax is because such a law would create the prohibited
 42 condition of slavery and involuntary servitude. Later I pointed out that if there were no law requiring you to file or pay, the 43 authority of the government to tax you must come from a somewhere else. That somewhere else is a contract.

<sup>70</sup> Id. at 384-385. See Dreier v. United States, 221 US 394, 31 S.Ct. 550, 55 L.Ed. 784 (1911) (it makes no difference that the document request was directed to the custodian of records rather than to the corporation itself; so long as the documents are property of the corporation, they must be produced).

1 THERE IS A CONTRACT BETWEEN YOU AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WHERE IN YOU GIVE 2 THEM AUTHORITY OVER YOU AND THE POWER TO TAX YOU.

3 3.17.3.4 Your Fall

4 According to the Constitution, you are one of the "We the People" who created the Federal Government. It is self-evident
5 that the government is paper and you are a natural person. But from the government's point of view, you are their 6 corporate/person, property, or slave.

7 The journey from freedom to slavery began when you applied for your Social Security number and checked the box that said,
8 "Check here if you are a U.S. citizen." By checking the box you were born again, a citizen, a paper creation of the government.

9 According to 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)

10 "Every person born or naturalized in the United States and subject to its jurisdiction is a citizen."

11 Do you get it? Remember that there are three definitions for the words United States or united States (see section 4.7 for 12 further details). When United States is written with a capital U and S it is referring to the Washington, DC, district of 13 Columbia, United States, created by and under the authority of the Constitution. The use of the words "subject to its 14 jurisdiction" should tell you that a "citizen" is under the authority, and corporate/person property, of the United States.

15 For most natural persons this is their first contact with the Federal Government. Pretty stupid on our part not to know this,
16 but very slick on the part of the lawyers and politicians who would bind you into slavery. Relax, this is the nexus point, the 17 loophole that will save your butt. Now things will get worse before they get better.

18 Probably your second contact with the Federal Government was when you voluntarily turned over your Social Security
19 number, when asked by your Employer to fill out a W-4. Filling out the form, you entered your number of dependents and 20 skipped past item 7:

21 "I claim exemption from withholding for (year) and I certify that I meet BOTH of the following conditions for 22 exemption.

- 23 • Last year I had a right to a refund of All Federal income tax withheld because I had No tax liability AND
- 24 • This year I expect a refund of ALL Federal income tax withheld because I expect to have NO tax liability.
- 25 • If you meet both conditions, write 'EXEMPT' here"

26 Without exception, everywhere you look in the IRS Code and every single Federal Court case dealing with taxation, what is 27 being taxed are corporations/persons and property of the government, engaged in a taxable activity. The activity you and your 28 employer are engaged in, according to your Individual Master File, has something to do with source that is taxable such as 29 alcohol, tobacco, or firearms. These are the only sources that the Federal government can tax within the states, according to 30 the Constitution. And get this; you are engaged in one of these source activities generally in Puerto Rico, Guam, or the Virgin
31 Islands.

32 To verify that you have income from a taxable source and that you are engaged in a taxable activity in Puerto Rico, Guam,
33 or the Virgin Islands, use the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) to get a copy of your Individual Master file from the IRS.

36 3.17.4 The President's Role In Income Taxation

37 Presidents since Abraham Lincoln have been involved in the deception that is the income tax. William Howard Taft played
38 a big part in proposing an income tax amendment. He elevated Justice White to Chief Justice. This was the first time a sitting
39 Justice had been elevated to Chief Justice. Taft would be named Chief Justice upon White's death. The man who figured out
40 the secret of the Sixteenth Amendment, Charles Evans Hughes was made Chief Justice when Taft died in 1930. I can't

1 imagine a tighter lock on the law than what I just described. Are we going to have fun looking at those good old boys? White
2 and Taft died in harness. Hughes retired in 1941 and died in 1948.

3 The President appoints the United States Attorney General and that office has for years falsely claimed in its prosecutions of
4 persons who have refused to file or have allegedly filed false tax returns, that the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution
5 gave Congress the power to tax personal income. The U.S. Attorney General's Office also falsely claims personal income tax
6 is a direct tax that does not have to be apportioned. We know based on Supreme Court case history that the only tax referred
7 to in the Sixteenth Amendment is an excise tax on income that does not have to be apportioned.

8 That claim can be refuted by simply looking at the Sixteenth Amendment and asking yourself, "What kind of tax does not 9 have to be apportioned? Yes, that's right an indirect tax. The United States Supreme Court has said that the purpose of the 10 Sixteenth Amendment was for the courts to forever keep the income tax in the category of an excise tax. It does not add to 11 the power of Congress to tax, it does not amend, change or eliminate any protection in the Constitution. I submit that the 12 Sixteenth Amendment has been used since its purported ratification to frighten us into believing that Congress was given a 13 special power to tax our incomes without having to specifically describe a taxable harmful activity, identify an activity in
14 need of regulation, or set the total amount of direct tax to be apportioned among the states.

15 Big government was created out of this mythical tax. To this day no one has found the subject of an excise called an income
16 tax, that would apply to most individuals.

17 The Internal Revenue Code is full of excise taxes. There are taxes on making airline flights, telephone calls, fishing rods,
18 tires, liquor, fuels, cigars, snuff, outboard motors, bows and arrows, gas guzzler cars etc. What you won't find is a tax on the 19 activities that produce your income. Lawful taxation of harmful activities and regulated industries helps to secure our Rights
20 to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. Taxation of our God given rights reduces us to slavery. Before the income tax,
21 we were free to choose whether or not we would be taxed, and taxation of people was consensual and voluntary. The law
22 was clear. After 1913, big government began its cancerous growth. The "income tax" grew by fraud, intimidation and deceit,
23 and President Taft started this fraud going in 1909 by proposing the Sixteenth Amendment, and its cancerous growth has
24 gone unabated and unchecked since then. Making you believe that you owe a tax and then coercing you to pay it by 25 threatening to put you in prison if you don't is real tax fraud. A free people must consent to their taxation or they are a 26 conquered people.

27 3.17.5 A Historical Perspective on Income Taxes

28 The Declaration of Independence is the first and most important part of our organic law. This great document firmly 29 establishes the source of our individual rights and sovereignty. Our only Duty, as a people, is to throw off Government that,
30 "evinces a Design to reduce them under absolute Despotism." We owe no other duty to government and our Constitution
31 limits government in order to maintain our freedom. Limiting government power is the key to remaining free.

32 National taxation is limited to four taxes: direct, imposts, duties and excises. No national tax is proper that cannot be made
33 to fit in the mold of the four taxes. The Sixteenth Amendment is a further limitation on the power of Congress to tax. After 34 the ratification of the amendment, an "income tax" cannot be a direct tax. If an "income tax" is to be imposed among the 35 several states it must be in the form of the remaining three, indirect taxes, or one of them. The excise is the likely choice, 36 since it regularly produces income of some kind.

37 The King of Great Britain caused the dissolution of the political connection with the United States of America by his many 38 injurious acts including one, "For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent." The Congress created an "income tax" that 39 does not fit within the mold established by the Constitution. Such a tax may only be imposed upon us with our consent. The 40 voluntary yielding to the will of the proposition of another is necessary for valid consent. This is called "informed consent".
41 Such consent is an act of reason, attended by due deliberation and exercised only after full consideration of the values on
42 each side. The blind execution of tax agreements (W-4 and 1040) under penalty of perjury, without sufficient tax knowledge
43 and under duress is an act of negligence and cowardice when committed by a Citizen. It is also an act of duress. Under 44 equitable principles, any such act committed without informed consent while under duress becomes the act of the legal person
45 instituting the duress. Since the duress originates from the unlawful activities of the Internal Revenue Service to illegally
46 enforce the Internal Revenue Code, then if anyone is prosecuted for any act resulting from that duress, it would have to be
47 the IRS or more particularly, the appointed officers working within the IRS who are individually liable for the unlawful acts
48 of the people who work below them. The pronouncements of the U.S. Congress below establish exactly how this conspiracy
49 against the rights of Americans are perpetrated by such "communists" and "tyrants" below:

1 TITLE 50 > CHAPTER 23 > SUBCHAPTER IV > Sec. 841.
2 Sec. 841. - Findings and declarations of fact

3 The Congress finds and declares that the Communist Party of the United States [consisting of the IRS, DOJ,

5 conspiracy to overthrow the [de jure] Government of the United States [and replace it with a de facto
6 government ruled by the judiciary]. It constitutes an authoritarian dictatorship [IRS, DOJ, and corrupted

8 [FRANCHISE] privileges [including immunity from prosecution for their wrongdoing in violation of Article 1,
9 Section 9, Clause 8 of the Constitution] accorded to political parties, but denying to all others the liberties [Bill

15 [the IRS and Federal Reserve]. Its members [the Congress, which was terrorized to do IRS bidding by the 16 framing of Congressman Traficant] have no part in determining its goals, and are not permitted to voice dissent
17 to party objectives. Unlike members of political parties, members of the Communist Party are recruited for 18 indoctrination [in the public FOOL system by homosexuals, liberals, and socialists] with respect to its objectives
19 and methods, and are organized, instructed, and disciplined [by the IRS and a corrupted judiciary] to carry into 20 action slavishly the assignments given them by their hierarchical chieftains. Unlike political parties, the 21 Communist Party [thanks to a corrupted federal judiciary] acknowledges no constitutional or statutory
22 limitations upon its conduct or upon that of its members [ANARCHISTS!, Form #08.020]. The Communist
23 Party is relatively small numerically, and gives scant indication of capacity ever to attain its ends by lawful
24 political means. The peril inherent in its operation arises not from its numbers, but from its failure to 25 acknowledge any limitation as to the nature of its activities, and its dedication to the proposition that the 26 present constitutional Government of the United States ultimately must be brought to ruin by any available
27 means, including resort to;force and violence [or using income taxes]. Holding that doctrine, its role as the 28 agency of a hostile foreign power [the Federal Reserve and the American Bar Association (ABA)] renders
29 its existence a clear present and continuing danger to the security of the United States. It is the means
30 whereby individuals are seduced [illegally KIDNAPPED via identity theft!, Form #05.046] into the service
31 of the world Communist movement [using FALSE information returns and other PERJURIOUS

9 "In the general course of human nature, A POWER OVER A MAN'S SUBSISTENCE AMOUNTS TO A POWER
10 OVER HIS WILL."
11 [Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist, No. 79]

12 "America is much more than a geographical fact. It is a political and moral fact --the first community in which 13 men set out in principle to institutionalize freedom, responsible government, and human equality."
14 [Adlai Stevenson]

15 After reading the previous chapter on the legal authority for income taxes, it ought to be pretty clear after seeing all the game-
16 playing Congress did with the tax code that we should:

17 "Always question authority!"

18 "Always challenge jurisdiction!"

19 Why should we question authority and challenge jurisdiction? Because if we aren't watching the government closely and 20 keeping them accountable, responsible, and constrained in power by the law and the system of checks and balances that our 21 founders gifted us with, then tyranny is virtually guaranteed:

22 "Single acts of tyranny may be ascribed to the accidental opinion of a day. But a series of oppressions, ... pursued
23 unalterably through every change of ministers, too plainly proves a deliberate systematic plan of reducing us to 24 slavery."
25 [Thomas Jefferson]

26 How do we question authority? By looking at where that authority derives and ensuring that politicians and government
27 officials, when they order us to do something, be willing and able to describe to us the laws that give them their legal authority.
28 It is then our duty, as responsible citizens, to read the laws ourselves and ensure that these officials remain strictly within the 29 legal and constitutional bounds of their authority in order to prevent or avoid abuses of their authority. It is also our duty to 30 ensure that government power and authority is restrained by proper oversight and a system of checks and balances to ensure
31 that it does not concentrate into one spot and lead to tyranny. This is because "absolute power corrupts absolutely", as they 32 say. The voting booth, the jury box, our right to own guns and to use those guns to protect ourselves, and the Grand Jury are 33 the only thing that prevents tyranny from spreading and our politicians from becoming complete tyrants.

34 Knowing your constitutional, statutory, and common-law rights and the authority and jurisdiction of each government
35 organization is therefore the first major step in questioning authority, which we should all do throughout our dealings with 36 any government organization.

37 Within the court system, legal authority is summed up in one word: jurisdiction. A court cannot order us to do anything
38 unless and until it can establish that it has "jurisdiction" to order us, or the people or institutions that control our assets, to do
39 something.

40 This chapter therefore discusses the extent of our rights. For the record, we've included a legal definition of "rights":

41 "RIGHTS. Individual liberties either expressly provided for in the state or federal constitutions, such as the right
42 to assemble or free speech, or which have been found to exist as those constitutions have been interpreted, such 43 as the right to an abortion; that which a person is entitled to have, or to do, or to receive from others, within the 44 limits prescribed by the law; an enforceable legal right; or the capacity to enforce that right; "a claim or title to

1 or an interest in anything that is enforceable by law," 263 P. 2d 769, 773. See also civil rights, constitutional
2 rights; inalienable rights; inherent right; preemptive rights"<sup>71</sup>.

3 These rights, in turn, circumscribe the limits of the constitutional and legal authority which any official in our federal and
4 state governments must abide by and respect in administering and executing the laws of the Constitution, the U.S. Code, the 5 Code of Federal Regulations, and your state statutes and regulations.

6 We will also clarify in this chapter that ultimately, your legal and civil rights come not from your citizenship primarily, but
7 from where you live. That's right, you have been laboring under a misapprehension for most of your life. The portion of our
8 Constitution called the Bill of Rights, from which you derive your rights, attaches to you not by virtue of your citizenship,
9 but by virtue of where you live. Here are a few of the many examples of that:

10 "It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure,
11 and not the status of the people who live in it."
12 [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

13 "The very essence of civil liberty certainly consists in the right of every individual [not citizen, but individual] to 14 claim the protection of the laws, whenever he receives an injury. One of the first duties of government is to afford 15 that protection."
16 [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

17 "RIGHT: ...Civil rights are such as belong to every citizen of the state or country, or, in a wider sense, to all 18 its inhabitants [citizens or not], and are not connected with the organization or administration of the
19 government."
20 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, 1968, pp. 1486-1488]

21 "In Truax v. Raich, supra, the people of the state of Arizona adopted an act, entitled 'An act to protect the [271
22 U.S. 500, 528] citizens of the United States in their employment against noncitizens of the United States,' and
23 provided that an employer of more than five workers at any one time in that state should not employ less than 80
24 per cent. qualified electors or native-born citizens, and that any employer who did so should be subject upon
25 conviction to the payment of a fine and imprisonment. It was held that such a law denied aliens an opportunity
26 of earning a livelihood and deprived them of their liberty without due process of law, and denied them the 27 equal protection of the laws. As against the Chinese merchants of the Philippines, we think the present law
28 which deprives them of something indispensable to the carrying on of their business, and is obviously intended
29 chiefly to affect them as distinguished from the rest of the community, is a denial to them of the equal protection
30 of the laws."
31 [Yu Cong Eng v. Trinidad, 271 U.S. 500 (1926)]

32 That's right: you don't have to be a "citizen" to have rights here in America, because God gave you those rights and they
33 attach to the land you live on and were born on, as you will learn in section 4.9. Being an "inhabitant" is good enough to 34 have the government's protection for most laws. This is extremely important and something that few Americans fully 35 understand. It is also something the courts are very reluctant to tell you outright because they want you to become a "citizen"
36 so they can induce you to trade in your rights in exchange for taxable government "privileges".

37 We'll start off this chapter by talking in the next section about a subject called "Natural Order", because that subject is 38 foundational to understanding the rest of the chapter and forming an accurate and enlightened view of the world around us.
39 You will not, in fact, understand most of the content of Chapter 5 unless and until you can grasp this chapter, and especially 40 the next section. Why are this chapter and the next section so important? Because by reading and understanding them, you
41 will understand, for instance:

- 42 1. Why the source of all authority and power is not our government, but God and Nature's Laws, which are both eternal 43 and immutable.
- 44 2. Why whenever we try to deviate from the Natural Order or Natural Law that God gave to us as human beings, our 45 government becomes corrupt and begins abusing our rights and exploiting the very people that it was instituted to help 46 and protect.
- 47 3. How government as it is practiced today has indeed become a religion of its own making in violation of the First 48 Amendment (see section 4.4.13 for further details).
- 49 4. Why the government can only tax the corporations and franchises that it creates.

5. That “police powers” are reserved with the states under the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, and federal jurisdiction within the borders of the states are severely and necessarily limited to the specific powers delegated and enumerated to the federal government by the Constitution. Any other act or jurisdiction pursued by our federal government is “unlawful” and “illegal” and punishable by Treason against the Constitution.
6. Why “income” in a constitutional sense can only be defined as “corporate profit” anywhere and everywhere in our tax code. Any other design for our country’s system of taxation produces tyranny, slavery, and despotism.
7. Why the government can’t tax people directly (direct taxes), because it didn’t create people: God did!
8. How the ignorance that results from our youth, relative inexperience, and naïve views of the law propagated by a corrupted media and our failing public/government education system has clouded our perceptions so that we cannot effectively discern or recognize truth as a civilization and a culture, and how that ignorance and disinformation is hurting us and bringing God’s vengeance upon our country.
9. How our ignorance and inexperience has caused us to make unrealistic “presumptions” about the world and our government that often leads us into sin and subjection and slavery to that government, which is why we condemned ignorance earlier in section 1.8 and presumptions earlier in section 2.8.2.

Most of us have been making uninformed “presumptions” about our citizenship, the law, or our rights for most of our adult life without ever realizing it, as a matter of fact. The author fell in that category for literally decades before researching and writing this book, for instance. As we said earlier in section 1.8, the remedy for these errors is education and more importantly not earthly wisdom, but the pure and perfect wisdom of God as revealed in His word and through His Holy Spirit, or your conscience, whichever you prefer to call it:

[Prov. 9:10, Bible, NKJV]

“He who gets wisdom loves his own soul; he who keeps understanding will find good.”
[Prov. 19:8, Bible, NKJV]

“Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding.”
[Prov. 4:7, Bible, NKJV]

The purpose of education is to train our senses and inform our discretion to recognize and discern truth and to do so free of incorrect presumptions fed to us by the government and a corrupted media. Therefore, before we begin investigating the rights and citizenship subjects addressed in this chapter, we must first use education to calibrate our world view and undo the false presumptions we have been fed with and conditioned by for most of our lives. This will ensure that our world view is realistic and informed and consistent with Natural Law, God’s truth, and the world around us: not as we in our ignorance and inexperience perceive it, but as it really is! Our world view is of utmost importance and governs how we perceive and more importantly act and react to the world around us. From our world view comes our priorities, our goals, and the motives that govern everything we do.

Consequently, the subject of this next section is the single most important and fascinating part of this entire book, we believe, and we think that it will completely change your view of the world after you have read and reread and taken the time to understand it. Pray about it and think hard about it and ask the Holy Spirit or your conscience for confirmation, because it’s a fundamental and profound teaching that exposes the heart and the cause of most of the deception and tyranny that we presently live under in these great United States of America. You may perceive that the ideas expressed in the next section appear completely different from the mainstream media, from government propaganda, and in some cases from many churches, but we assure you that the foundation of everything in the next section comes right out of the Bible and the mouth of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court, and it isn’t likely that you’ll get a more authoritative or enlightened source than these two. So sit back and take your time and look everything up that we cite if you like in order to verify and validate what we are saying and prove to yourself that it isn’t just our opinion, but a fact that you can rely upon and build your whole life around as we have done.

In writing this chapter, we make frequent use of what is referred to as “moral evidence”, which is every bit as admissible and credible in a court of law as any piece of physical evidence or testimony ever might be:

Moral evidence. As opposed to “mathematical” or “demonstrative” evidence, this term denotes that kind of evidence which, without developing an absolute and necessary certainty, generates a high degree of probability or persuasive force. It is founded upon analogy or induction, experience of the ordinary course of nature or the sequence of events, and the testimony of men.
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1008]

We encourage you to use this chapter as evidence in your own litigation to defend your God-given rights. Writing and rewriting the next section certainly has completely and permanently changed our world view for the better. ☺

4.1 Natural Order

"Don't go around saying the world owes you a living. The world owes you nothing. It was here first."
[Mark Twain]

"Men do not make laws. They do but discover them. Laws must be justified by something more than the will of the majority. They must rest on the eternal foundation of righteousness. That state is most fortunate in its form of government which has the aptest instruments for the discovery of law."
[Calvin Coolidge, to the Massachusetts State Senate, January 7, 1914]

"If the jury feels the law is unjust [violates God's law], we recognize the undisputed power of the jury to acquit, even if its verdict is contrary to the law as given by a judge, and contrary to the evidence ... and the courts must abide by that decision."
[U.S. v. Moylan, 417 F.2d. at 1006 (1969)]

"The sole end for which mankind are warranted, individually or collectively, in interfering with the liberty of any of their number is self-protection."
[John Stuart Mill]

"I have lived, Sir, a long time, and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth - that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid?"
[Benjamin Franklin]

We explained Natural Law earlier in section 3.4, and Natural Order is an extension of Natural Law. The foundation of Natural Order is the notion that all creations are subject to and subservient to their Creator, who is always the sovereign relative to the creation. God created man so He is the Sovereign relative to man. Man created the states of the Union, so the people of the state are sovereign relative to their state government. The states of the Union then created the federal government, so the states are the sovereigns relative to the federal government and the federal government is subservient to and subordinate to them. The authority delegated by the states to the federal government is a definition and limitation of the power of the federal (not national) government and under the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people". Here is an example of this concept right from no less than the U.S. Supreme Court:

"A State does not owe its origin to the Government of the United States, in the highest or in any of its branches. It was in existence [was created] before it. It derives its authority from the same pure and sacred source as itself: The voluntary and deliberate choice of the people...A State is altogether exempt from the jurisdiction of the Courts of the United States, or from any other exterior authority, unless in the special instances when the general Government has power derived from the Constitution itself."
[Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419 (Dall.) (1793)]

Natural Order therefore defines the natural hierarchy of sovereignty in all of creation based on the order that all things were created. In the words of former President Calvin Coolidge, Natural Law cannot be created by man: it can only be discovered, and the same is true of Natural Order. Natural law is therefore a product of the following Natural Order and hierarchy of sovereignty. This hierarchy of sovereignty is unchangeable and immutable and cannot be denied, denounced, or legislated away by any court or government because it is a product of who and what we are as human beings. All human beings instinctively understand its meaning and application. Below is a diagram of Natural Order:

In the above diagram everyone at a particular level is a “fiduciary” of the parties above and they are bound to this position by contract or by oath of office.

fiduciary duty: A duty to act for someone else’s benefit, while subordinating one’s personal interests to that of the other person. It is the highest standard of duty implied by law (e.g. trustee, guardian).
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 625]

7 A fiduciary relationship is a “master” and “servant” relationship. The fiduciary is the servant and he is bound to his Master
8 by oath or contract. For instance, we are bound to act as fiduciaries and bondservants who serve the best interests of the

1 sovereign God who created us by the contract or the covenant that God has with us which is documented in the Bible.<sup>72</sup>
 2 Public servants in government, in turn, are contractually bound to us as the sovereigns they serve by written contracts called
 3 the U.S. Constitution and our state Constitution. The founding fathers also agreed that the Constitution was a fiduciary
 4 contract between the people and their government during the development of that instrument as documented in the Federalist
 5 Paper #78:

6 "No legislative act contrary to the Constitution can be valid. To deny this would be to affirm that the deputy
 7 (agent) is greater than his principal; that the servant is above the master; that the representatives of the people
 8 are superior to the people; that men, acting by virtue of powers may do not only what their powers do not
 9 authorize, but what they forbid...[text omitted] It is not otherwise to be supposed that the Constitution could 10 intend to enable the representatives of the people to substitute their will to that of their constituents. It is far
 11 more rational to suppose, that the courts were designed to be an intermediate body between the people and the 12 legislature, in order, among other things, to keep the latter within the limits assigned to their authority. The 13 interpretation of the laws is the proper and peculiar province of the courts. A Constitution is, in fact, and must 14 be regarded by judges, as fundamental law. If there should happen to be an irreconcilable variance between the 15 two, the Constitution is to be preferred to the statute."
 16 [Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper # 78]

17 Both the federal government and the state governments are entirely devoid of any lawful authority to interfere with either of 18 the two contracts we are party to: The Bible or the federal or state Constitutions. Here is the proof of this assertion, direct
 19 from the U.S. Supreme Court:

20 "Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to 21 impair contracts [either the Constitution or the Holy Bible], by direct action to that end, does not exist with the 22 general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its 23 preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was 24 justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the 25 time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was 26 engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of 27 compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the 28 purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty,
 29 upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the 30 just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that
 31 shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud
 32 previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the 33 prohibition upon the States [in Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of 34 contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition
 35 is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and 36 the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear 'that those who framed and those who adopted the 37 Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that
 38 the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with 39 legislation [or judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency.' 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are 40 found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court."
 41 [Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878) ]

42 "A state can no more impair the obligation of a contract by her organic law [constitution] than by legislative 43 enactment; for her constitution is a law within the meaning of the contract clause of the national constitution.
 44 Railroad Co. v. [115 U.S. 650, 673] McClure, 10 Wall. 511; Ohio Life Ins. & T. Co. v. Debolt, 16 How. 429;
 45 Sedg. St. & Const. Law, 637 And the obligation of her contracts is as fully protected by that instrument against 46 impairment by legislation as are contracts between individuals exclusively. State v. Wilson, 7 Cranch, 164;
 47 Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. 514; Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. 1; Woodruff v. Trapnall, 10 How. 190; Wolff
 48 v. New Orleans, 103 U.S. 358."

50 We talked about the terms of the fiduciary duty that exists between the sovereign People and their government when we 51 talked about the Code of Ethics for Government service earlier in section 2.1. This Government Code of Ethics embodies 52 and implements the terms of that fiduciary contract between the sovereign People and their servant government. Incidentally,
 53 Alexander Hamilton's very words from the Federalist Paper #78 echo those of God Himself, who through His son Jesus said
 54 the following:

55 "Remember the word that I said to you: 'A servant is not greater than his master.'"
 56 [John15:20, Bible, NKJV]

Below is what the Bible says about the duties of “servants”, which describe our duties toward God and government’s duties towards us:

“Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh, not with eyeservice, as men-pleasers, but in sincerity of heart, fearing God. And whatever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord and not to men, knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance; for you serve the Lord Christ. But he who does wrong will be repaid for the wrong which he has done, and there is no partiality.”
[Col. 3:22-25, Bible, NKJV]

The Bible covenant between us and our sovereign God also has all the attributes of a valid legal contract:

1. An offer: God’s Love and forgiveness
2. Acceptance: Our acceptance of God’s love and forgiveness and sovereignty over our spiritual lives.
3. Consideration: We commit our time, our life, our families, and our affections to serving and loving and thanking God for his grace and mercy toward us, who are sinners.
4. Mutual assent: God understands us better than we understand ourselves, and we must understand the commitment and the covenant He makes to us by reading the Bible daily.

In many cases, you can confirm the existence of this contract with God by looking in the Bible for the word “yoke” or “covenant”. Here is the definition of “yoke” out of Easton’s Bible Dictionary:

YOKE — (1.) Fitted on the neck of oxen for the purpose of binding to them the traces by which they might draw the plough, etc. (Num. 19:2; Deut. 21:3). It was a curved piece of wood called ‘ol.

(2.) In Jer. 27:2; 28:10, 12 the word in the Authorized Version rendered “yoke” is motah, which properly means a “staff,” or as in the Revised Version, “bar.”

These words in the Hebrew are both used figuratively of severe bondage, or affliction, or subjection (Lev. 26:13; 1 Kings 12:4; Isa. 47:6; Lam. 1:14; 3:27). In the New Testament the word “yoke” is also used to denote servitude (Matt. 11:29, 30; Acts 15:10; Gal. 5:1).

(3.) In 1 Sam. 11:7, 1 Kings 19:21, Job 1:3 the word thus translated is tzemed, which signifies a pair, two oxen yoked or coupled together, and hence in 1 Sam. 14:14 it represents as much land as a yoke of oxen could plough in a day, like the Latin jugum. In Isa. 5:10 this word in the plural is translated “acres.”

To be “yoked” means to be contractually or spiritually bound to God: to be figuratively married to Him as His bride. Here is an example from Jesus’ mouth:

“Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you and learn from Me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For My yoke is easy and My burden is light.”
[Matt. 11:28-30, Bible, NKJV]

This contract or covenant we have with God makes us superior to any government or ruler and makes us the sovereign over everyone in government:

*“You have delivered me from the strivings of the people [democratic mob rule];
You have made me the head of the nations [and the government of the nations];
A people I have not known [in Washington, D.C., the District of Columbia] shall serve me;
The foreigners [Washington, D.C. is foreign to states of the Union] submit to me;
The foreigners fade away,
And come frightened from their hideouts [on every election day].”*
[Psalm 18:43-45, Bible, NKJV]

Incidentally, without this yoke or covenant between us and God, without our unflinching allegiance to Him over and above that of any government or state, and without our adherence to this Sacred contract as evidenced by our steadfast obedience to God’s laws and His commandments (called “fearing God”), we fall from grace, lose our sovereignty, and are then put into subjection and bondage to man’s laws and to government, who they then become our new false god and idol. This is God’s sovereign punishment for our disobedience:

*“The wicked shall be turned into hell,
And all the nations that forget God.”*

[Psalm 9:17, Bible, NKJV]

“Behold, to obey [God and His Law] is better than sacrifice, and to heed than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is an iniquity and idolatry. Because you have rejected the word of the Lord, He also has rejected you from being king [or sovereign over government].”

Then Saul [the king] said to Samuel, “I have sinned, for I have transgressed the commandment of the Lord and your words, because I feared the people [wanted to be politically correct instead of right with God] and obeyed their voice [instead of God’s voice]. Now therefore, please pardon my sin and return with me, that I may worship the Lord.” But Samuel said to Saul [the king], “I will not return with you, for you have rejected the word of the Lord, and the Lord has rejected you from being king over Israel”

And as Samuel turned around to go away, Saul seized the edge of his robe, and it tore. So Samuel said to him, “The Lord has torn the kingdom of Israel from you today and has given it to a neighbor of yours, who is better than you.”
[1 Sam. 15:22-28, Bible, NKJV]

The diagram at the beginning of this section reflects the above reality with an arrow showing our fall from grace and sovereignty as a “man” to become “U.S. citizens/idolaters”, which is the price for disobedience to God’s commandments and laws. When that happens, we become “subjects” of the federal government and our own ignorance and sin has voluntarily transformed a constitutional republic into a totalitarian “monarchy” or “oligarchy”:

“citizen. 1: an inhabitant of a city or town; esp: one entitled to the rights and privileges of a freeman. 2 a: a member of a state b: a native or naturalized person who owes allegiance to a government and is entitled to protection from it 3: a civilian as distinguished from a specialized servant of the state—citizenly

syn CITIZEN, SUBJECT, NATIONAL mean a person owing allegiance to and entitled to the protection of a sovereign state. CITIZEN is preferred for one owing allegiance to a state in which sovereign power is retained by the people and sharing in the political rights of those people; SUBJECT implies allegiance to a personal sovereign such as a monarch; NATIONAL designates one who may claim the protection of a state and applies esp. to one living or traveling outside that state.”
[Webster’s Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 243; Emphasis added]

Another important thing to learn from the above scripture is that Saul fell because he was a man-pleaser. He “feared the people” more than he feared God (see Eccl. 12:13-14). This is a polite way to say that he was more concerned with being “politically correct” than in obeying God and His Laws. The Lord was essentially second on Saul’s priority list and so Saul fell from grace and was dethroned as the king and sovereign over his people. The same fate awaits all who do the same today, including us as Americans. God made us the kings and the sovereigns over our servant government, and this sovereignty is a privilege that results from our faith and obedience to God’s Laws and our worship of Him through our righteous actions. Below is a definition of “worship” from Harper’s Bible Dictionary that confirms these conclusions:

worship, the attitude and acts of reverence to a deity. The term ‘worship’ in the OT translates the Hebrew word meaning ‘to bow down, prostrate oneself,’ a posture indicating reverence and homage given to a lord, whether human or divine. The concept of worship is expressed by the term ‘serve.’ In general, the worship given to God was modeled after the service given to human sovereigns [government rulers]; this was especially prominent in pagan religions. In these the deity’s image inhabited a palace (temple) and had servants (priests) who supplied food (offered sacrifices), washed and anointed and clothed it, scented the air with incenses, lit lamps at night, and guarded the doors to the house. Worshipers brought offerings and tithes to the deity, said prayers and bowed down, as one might bring tribute and present petitions to a king. Indeed the very purpose of human existence, in Mesopotamian thought, was to provide the gods with the necessities of life.

Although Israelite worship shared many of these external forms, even to calling sacrifices ‘the food of God’ (e.g., Lev. 21:6), its essence was quite different. As the prophets pointed out, God could not be worshiped only externally. To truly honor God, it was necessary to obey his laws, the moral and ethical ones as well as ritual laws. To appear before God with sacrifices while flouting his demands for justice was to insult him (cf. Isa. 1:11-17; Amos 5:21-22). God certainly did not need the sacrifices for food (Ps. 50:12-13); rather sacrifice and other forms of worship were offered to honor God as king.

The privilege or rulership over our government servants may be revoked at any time if we cease to trust in the Lord and put Him first, no matter the consequence. The following scripture makes this point abundantly clear:

1 "Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He will lift you up [above your government]."
 2 [James 4:10, Bible, NKJV]

3 The punishment for our disobedience and our failure to humble ourselves towards God as our King, our Ruler, and our 4 Lawgiver is a tyrannical and dictatorial government that we become enslaved to and oppressed by because of our sin and our
 5 consequent inability to govern ourselves because of the sin. We explained why this was the case earlier in section 2.8.1 when 6 we talked about the book of Judges.

7 Since the Bible is a valid legal contract between us and God just as much as the federal constitution is a contract between 8 "We The People" (as individuals) and their government, then one interesting outcome is that the Constitution forbids states
 9 from interfering with such contracts:

10 United States Constitution, Article I, Section 10

11 No State shall...pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or 12 grant any Title of Nobility.

13 So not even the government can remove God from His sovereign role over both us and the government, and the Bible confirms
 14 that we cannot be separated from the love of God, which is the essence of our faith<sup>73</sup>:

15 "For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers [governments or 16 rulers], nor things present nor things to come, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to 17 separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."
 18 [Romans 8:38-39, Bible, NKJV, emphasis added]

19 The Ten Commandments say that our top priority is to love God, and by implication, obeying His commandments, His 20 statutes, His Law, and His Word.

21 "He who has My commandments and keeps them, it is he who loves Me. And he who loves Me will be loved by 22 my Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him."
 23 [John 14:21, Bible, NKJV]

24 We have taken the time to actually catalog on our website many but not all of God's laws at the web address below for your 25 reference:

26 http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/ChurchVState/BibleLawIndex/bl\_index.htm

27 The implications of these revelations are that since God says He and His Law/Word in the Bible are to be first on our priority
 28 list, then when or if the vain government of man or its laws attempt to conflict with or supersede the authority of God, we
 29 must remind the state that it cannot lawfully interfere with our First Amendment religious views by putting itself above God
 30 and in charge of our life or making human laws that conflict with God's laws which are in the Bible. That very calling and 31 moral obligation of reconciling God's laws with man's laws, in fact, is the sole duty of the Trial Jury in the diagram. We 32 even took this argument so far as to PROVE later in section 4.4.13 from a legal perspective using evidence exactly how our 33 government has made itself into a religion and a false god to show just how bad this conflict between God and man has 34 become.

35 God's laws, however, must always supersede man's laws because He is the Creator of Heaven and Earth, which makes Him
 36 Sovereign over all existence, and we are His sovereign delegates and ambassadors on the earth from whom the government
 37 derives ALL of its sovereignty over the finite stewardship which we have entrusted to it through our Constitution. Our 38 obedience to God's laws, which sometimes puts us in conflict with man's laws, is what sanctifies us and sets us apart.

39 "Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble,
 40 and to keep oneself unspotted from the world [and the corrupted governments and laws of the world]."
 41 [James 1:27, Bible, NKJV]

42 "Come out from among them [the unbelievers]
 43 And be separate, says the Lord.
 44 Do not touch what is unclean,

1 And I will receive you.
 2 I will be a Father to you,
 3 And you shall be my sons and daughters,
 4 Says the Lord Almighty."
 5 2 Corinthians [6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

6 This faith and sanctification and obedience and joyful service to God makes us into “ministers of a foreign state” while we
 7 are here on earth from a legal perspective, and the “foreign state” in this case is “heaven” and “God’s kingdom”. Our ministry
 8 is for the glory of God and the love of our fellow man, in satisfaction of the two great commandments of Jesus found in Matt.
 9 22:36-40. No less than the Supreme Court in U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649 (1898) said that the phrase “and subject
 10 to the jurisdiction of the United States” found in Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment excludes “ministers of foreign 11 states” from being “U.S. citizens”. That’s right: we can’t be “U.S. citizens” and thereby make government into our false god
 12 because we are only “pilgrims and strangers”<sup>74</sup> on a foreign mission while we are temporarily here. The only place that
 13 Christians can really intend or realistically expect to return permanently to is heaven because nothing here on earth is 14 permanent for us anyway, and life would be miserable indeed if it were! I’d like to see someone litigate that in a state court.
 15 Wouldn’t it be fun to watch?

16 Here, in fact, is what God thinks about human governments and the nations created by man:

17 “Arise, O Lord,
 18 Do not let man prevail;
 19 Let the nations be judged in Your sight.
 20 Put them in fear, O Lord,
 21 That the nations may know themselves to be but men.”
 22 [Psalm 9:19-20, Bible, NKJV]

23 “Behold, the nations are as a drop in the bucket, and are counted as the small dust on the scales.”
 24 [Isaiah 40:15, Bible, NKJV]

25 “All nations before Him are as nothing, and they are counted by Him less than nothing and worthless.”
 26 [Isaiah 40:17, Bible, NKJV]

27 “He brings the princes to nothing; He makes the judges of the earth useless.”
 28 [Isaiah 40:23, Bible, NKJV]

29 “Indeed they are all worthless; their works are nothing; their molded images are wind and confusion.”
 30 [Isaiah 41:29, Bible, NKJV]

31 Worthless! Now do you understand why the Jews were hated, why Christians are persecuted to this day, and why Jesus
 32 was crucified and Paul was executed by the Roman government? The same thing happened to the early Jews, who refused
 33 to bow to man’s law and held steadfastly to God’s law:

34 “Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, “There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the people in 35 all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from all other people’s, and they do not keep the 36 king’s laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be written
 37 that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to 38 bring it into the king’s treasuries.”
 39 [Esther 3:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

40 Christians who are doing what God commands are basically ungovernable unless you put them in charge as the sovereigns
 41 and give them a servant government. Remember, ours is a government “of the people, by the people, and for the people”, as 42 Abraham Lincoln said in his famous Gettysburg Address. That means that we have a moral duty to God to govern ourselves
 43 and not have a king or any government above us. Government can only serve us and we are to lead and control it through 44 frequent elections that keep our servants in government accountable. This is confirmed in Prov. 6:6-11:

45 “The words ‘people of the United States’ and ‘citizens,’ are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They
 46 both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who
 47 hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 48 ‘sovereign people,’ and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty. ...”

<sup>74</sup> See Phil. 3:20, Hebrews 11:13, 1 Peter 2:1, and James 4:4 for biblical foundation for this fact.

Go to the ant, you sluggard!
Consider her ways and be wise,
Which, having no captain,
Overseer or ruler,
Provides her supplies in the summer,
And gathers her food in the harvest.

How long will you slumber, O sluggard?
 When will you rise from your sleep?
 A little sleep, a little slumber,
 A little folding of the hands to sleep--
 So shall your poverty come on you like a prowler,
 And your need like an armed man.
 [Prov. 6:6-11, Bible, NKJV]

Any attempt to put anyone in government above us as a king or ruler amounts to idolatry and violates the first commandment (see Matt. 22:36-38). A jealous God (see Exodus 20:5) simply won't allow the government to compete with Him for the affections and the worship of His people, who He calls His "bride" in Rev. 21:9 and Rev. 22:17.

"Do not fear, for you will not be ashamed; neither be disgraced, for you will not be put to shame; for you will forget the shame of your youth, and will not remember the reproach of your widowhood anymore. For your Maker is your husband, the Lord of hosts is His name; and your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel; He is called the God of the whole earth, for the Lord has called you like a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, like a youthful wife when you were refused," says your God. "For a mere moment I have forsaken you, but with great mercies I will gather you. With a little wrath I hid My face from you for a moment; but with everlasting kindness I will have mercy on you," says the Lord, your Redeemer."
 [Isaiah 54:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

When we do God's will and obey His commandments and His laws, we become His bride and an important part of His family!:

"For whoever does the will of God is My brother and My sister and mother."
 [Jesus, in Mark 3:35, NKJV]

And when we disobey His commands and His law, he calls us an "adulterer":

"Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you now know that friendship [and "citizenship"] with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend [citizen] of the world makes himself an enemy of God." [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

When we as God's bride (yes, we're already married, you fornicators and idolaters in government looking for an easy lay!) and body of His believers and His children and family commit idolatry by selling ourselves into slavery and subjection to the government in exchange for their protection and privileges and a sense of false security, we are physically and spiritually united with and become "Babylon the Great Harlot" described in Revelation 17:5 of the Bible. The Bible reminds us, as a matter of fact, that it is a SIN to demand an earthly king or ruler and that we instead should by implication be self-governing men and women who are guided by the Holy Spirit to do God's will and who are servants to His personal and spiritual leadership in our daily lives. He communicates His sovereign will to us daily through our prayers and His word, the Bible. Below is one example where seeking an earthly king instead of God's leadership is described as a sin:

"Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and said to him, 'Look, you are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER them]."

"But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, 'Give us a king to judge us.' So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, 'Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]."
 [1 Sam. 8:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

1 "And when you saw that Nahash king of the Ammonites came against you, you said to me, 'No, but a king shall
 2 reign over us,' when the Lord your God was your king.

3 .....

4 And all the people said to Samuel, "Pray for your servants to the Lord your God, that we may not die; for we 5 have added to all our sins the evil of asking a king for ourselves."
 6 [1 Sam. 12:12, 19, Bible, NKJV]

7 The king referred to above was Saul and that king was described in 1 Sam. chapters 12 through 15 as selfish and vain, and
 8 who did not serve God or follow His commandments, but instead served himself, like most of our current politicians as a
 9 matter of fact. The consequence of Saul the king's selfishness and disobedient and sinful leadership was harm to his people
 10 and a violation of his oath and commission of office direct from God at the time he was appointed by Samuel:

11 "Now therefore, here is the king whom you have chosen and whom you have desired. And take note, the Lord
 12 has set a king over you. If you fear the Lord and serve Him and obey His voice, and do not rebel against the 13 commandment of the Lord, then both you and the king who reigns over you will continue following the Lord your 14 God. However, if you do not obey the voice of the Lord, but rebel against the commandment of the Lord, then 15 the hand of the Lord will be against you, as it was against your fathers."
 16 [1 Sam. 12:13-15, Bible, NKJV]

17 No doubt, people working in government don't like being called worthless as the scriptures above indicate nor do they enjoy
 18 being reminded that they are recruiting prostitutes (harlots) and fornicators from the flock of sheep that are God's, even 19 though it's true, and those Christians who reveal this profound truth are likely to be persecuted by their government like Jesus 20 was:

21 "And you will be hated by all for My name's sake."
 22 [Luke 21:17, Bible, NKJV]

 27 and swallow that pride of yours, grovel in the sand, get on your knees and bow, and lick the very Hand, the ONLY Hand that 28 feeds your pitiful mouth because:

29 "As I live, says the Lord, every knee shall bow to Me, and every tongue shall confess to God." So then, each of 30 us shall give account of himself to God."
 31 [Romans 14:11, Bible, NKJV]

32 "For what is highly esteemed among men is an abomination in the sight of God."
 33 [Luke 16:15, Bible, NKJV]

34 "Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and He will lift you up."
 35 [James 4:10, Bible, NKJV]

36 The only reason anyone therefore has to call your profession or your life's work as a politician or public servant "honorable"
 37 is because you are servants of the sovereign people and because you are doing the will of God as their agent and fiduciary in 38 protecting innocent people from harm and exploitation and crime. This very calling, as a matter of fact, is the only authority
 39 justifying the existence of civil government because it is a fulfillment of the second greatest command to love our neighbor
 40 found in Matt. 22:39. Can a "worthless" organization, as God calls a nation or political party, or the people working in that
 41 "worthless" organization write laws that are any more valuable or important than "worthless"? NOT! Here is what God
 42 says He will do when we elect or allow corrupt politicians governing a "worthless" organization called a "nation" to write
 43 vain laws that supersede His law and His Bible:

44 But to the wicked, God says:

45 "What right have you to declare My statutes [write man's vain law], or take My covenant [the Bible] in your
 46 mouth, seeing you hate instruction and cast My words behind you? When you saw a thief, you consented with
 47 him, and have been a partaker with adulterers. You give your mouth to evil, and your tongue frames deceit. You
 48 sit and speak against your brother; you slander your own mother's son. These things you have done, and I kept
 49 silent; you thought that I was altogether like you; but I will reprove you, and set them in order before your eyes.

1 Now consider this, you who forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver: Whoever offers
 2 praise glorifies Me; and to him who orders his conduct aright I will show the salvation of God."

 5 "Shall the throne of iniquity, which devises evil by law, have fellowship with You? They gather
 6 together against the life of the righteous, and condemn innocent blood. But the Lord has been my defense, and 7 my God the rock of my refuge. He has brought on them their own iniquity, and shall cut them off in their own
 8 wickedness; the Lord our God shall cut them off."

9 [Psalm 94:20-23, Bible, NKJV]

10 It is precisely the above words by God Himself that explain why we have a duty to elect Godly and moral people to public
 11 office: so that we don't have corrupt people in there writing our laws as unjust substitutes for God's laws and suffer God's 12 wrath for their misdeeds as our agents and fiduciaries.

13 "The people of this State do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which SERVE them. The people, in 14 delegating authority, do not give their public servants right to decide what is good for the people to know and 15 what is not good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed 16 so that they may retain control over the instruments they have 17 created."

18 [California Government Code, §54950]

19 We must therefore conclude that the vain promise of earthly security that comes from giving a government or a king authority
 20 over us is a downright fraud and a farce as we clearly explain in our coverage of the Social Security program earlier in section
 21 2.9. Our one and only source of security is God, the creator of all things, and substituting anything else in His place is 22 idolatry. The book of Isaiah, Chapters 46 and 47 describe what happens to those who elevate government above God and
 23 it's not pretty, folks. For a Satanic lie and a false promise of man-made security by an idolatrous government, we have in 24 effect sold or exchanged our precious birthright from God, our sovereignty, and our greatest gift, to Satan and a covetous
 25 government for 20 pieces of silver, like Judas did to Jesus and like Esau did to Jacob in the Bible.

26 "As it is written, 'Jacob I have loved, but Esau I have hated'."

27 [Romans 9:13, Bible, NKJV]

28 "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and hid; and for joy over 29 it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field."

30 [Matt. 13:44, Bible, NKJV]

31 Our government has conspired with Satan to hide the treasure spoken of above from our view by taking over our education
 32 in the public schools and removing all mentions of God from the classroom, from the textbooks, and the pledge of allegiance,
 33 and thereby making us ignorant of the value of our birthright and ripe for selling it for pennies on the dollar.

34 "Shake yourself from the dust, arise; sit down, O Jerusalem! Loose yourself from the bonds of your neck
 35 [government slavery!], O captive [slave to your sin] daughter of Zion! For thus says the Lord: 'You have sold 36 yourself for nothing and you shall be redeemed without money.'"

37 [Isaiah 52:2-3, Bible, NKJV]

38 The Apostle Paul warned us of such abuses when he said:

39 "But know this, that in the last days perilous times will come: For men will be lovers of themselves, lovers of 40 money, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, unloving, unforgiving, 41 slanders, without self-control, brutal, despisers of good, traitors, headstrong, haughty, lovers of pleasure rather 42 than lovers of God, having a form of godliness but denying the power [sovereignty of God]. And from such 43 people turn away!"

44 [2 Tim. 3:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

45 The kinds of people described above worship the creation but deny the Sovereignty and existence and the power of the 46 Creator, who is God.

47 "Therefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, in the lusts of their hearts, to dishonor their bodies among 48 themselves, who exchanged the truth of God for the lie, and worshipped and served the creature rather than 49 the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen"

50 [Rom. 1:24-25, Bible, NKJV]

1 By allowing these kinds of idolatrous, godless, and arrogant people to be stewards and leaders over our children in the public
2 schools, we have then become friends of the world and enemies of God.

3 THE NEW SCHOOL PRAYER

4 Your laws ignore our deepest needs
5 Your words are empty air
6 You've stripped away our heritage
7 You've outlawed simple prayer
8 Now gunshots fill our classrooms
9 And precious children die
10 You seek for answers everywhere
11 And ask the question "Why"
12 You regulate restrictive laws
13 Through legislative creed
14 And yet you fail to understand
15 That God is what we need!

16 Our ignorance and disobedience to God then causes us to commit fornication with Satan by joining ourselves to and becoming 17 unequally yoked with an atheistic and in many cases downright evil government.

18 "Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of 19 the world makes himself an enemy of God."
20 [James 4:4]

21 Now do you fully understand why the founding fathers gave us the kind of government that they did? It was the ONLY thing
22 that was compatible with their Christian beliefs! If you belong to God and He is your King (Isaiah 33:22), then man and 23 man's vain laws have no dominion over you, according to the Apostle Paul:

24 "Therefore, if you died with Christ from the basic principles of the world, why, as though living in the world, do 25 you subject yourselves to [government] regulations..."
26 [Colossians 2:20, Bible, NKJV]

27 Not being subject to man's law, in fact, is exactly what it means to be "sovereign"! Likewise, the Apostle Paul removed all
28 doubt that we shouldn't serve anyone but God and His law, when he said:

29 "But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man's law]."
30 [Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

31 "...the law is not made for a righteous person, but for the lawless and insubordinate, for the ungodly and for
32 sinner, for the unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, for 33 fornicators, for sodomites, for kidnappers, for liars, for perjurers, and if there is any other thing that is contrary
34 to sound doctrine, according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God which has committed to my trust."
35 [1 Tim. 1:9-11, Bible, NKJV]

36 "You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and remember that government 37 is made up of men]."
38 [1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

39 And when Christ's Apostles were told by the government not to preach His word in conflict with what God told them, look 40 what one the Apostles said:

41 "We ought to obey God rather than men."
42 [Acts 5:27-29, Bible, NKJV]

43 Interestingly, even our pledge of allegiance validates the Natural Order diagram:

44 *"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic, for which it stands, one
45 nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."*

46 If our whole nation is under God, then so are its rulers! In this case the rulers are under the people and the people are under 47 God just as the diagram shows. The above diagram is also based on the following four U.S. Supreme Court rulings:

1. Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884): “There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States... In this country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld.”
2. Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906): “His [the individual’s] rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”
3. Perry v. U.S., 294 U.S. 330 (1935): “In the United States, sovereignty resides in the people...the Congress cannot invoke sovereign power of the People to override their will as thus declared.”
4. Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886): “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people.”

Our founding fathers had equally enlightening things to say that also validated the above diagram:

“The ultimate authority...resides in the people alone...”
[James Madison, Federalist Paper No. 46]

“It is when a people forget God that tyrants forge their chains ...”
[Patrick Henry ]

“Those people who are not governed by GOD will be ruled by tyrants.”
[William Penn (after which Pennsylvania was named)]

“A free people [claim] their rights as derived from the laws of nature, and not as the gift of their chief magistrate.”
[Thomas Jefferson: Rights of British America, 1774. ME 1:209, Papers 1:134]

“Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that these liberties are of the gift of God? That they are not to be violated but with His wrath?”
[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XVIII, 1782. ME 2:227 ]

“Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God.”
[Benjamin Franklin]

“Propitious smiles of heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and right which heaven itself has ordained.”
[George Washington (1732-1799), First Inaugural Address]

God’s law and His word must therefore always supersede government laws or we will suffer God’s wrath. Jesus made this very clear when he said:

“No one can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.”
[Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV]

In the above scripture, “mammon” refers to wealth or abuse of anything, including law or government, for private gain. Here is the Bible Dictionary definition of this word:

MAMMON. This word occurs in the Bible only in Mt. 6:24 and Lk. 16:9, 11, 13, and is a transliteration of Aramaic māmōnā. It means simply wealth or profit, but Christ sees in it an egocentric covetousness which claims man’s heart and thereby estranges him from God (Mt. 6:19ff.): when a man ‘owns’ anything, in reality it owns him. (Cf. the view that mammon derives from Bab. mimma, ‘anything at all’) ‘Unrighteous mammon’ (Lk. 16:9) is dishonest gain (F. Hauck, TDNT 4, pp. 388–390) or simply gain from self-centered motives (cf. Lk. 12:15ff.). The probable meaning is that such money, used for others, may be transformed thereby into true riches in the coming age (Lk. 16:12).

BIBLIOGRAPHY. C. Brown, NIDNTT 2, pp. 836–840; J. D. M. Derrett, Law in the New Testament, 1970. [Wood, D. R. W., & Marshall, I. H. 1996. New Bible dictionary (3rd ed. /). InterVarsity Press: Leicester, England; Downers Grove, Ill.]

Section 4.4.13 entitled “Government has become idolatry and a False Religion” extensively reveals based on the Bible why it must be that God has to be first, because if He isn’t then we violate the First Commandment in Exodus 20:1-11 and Matt. 22:36-38 to love our God with all our heart, mind, and soul. Failing to observe this maxim is like declaring the law of gravity

1 null and void, which is an insane proposition indeed! The bible in Jeremiah chapters 16 and 17 describes what happens when
 2 a country and a people deny this fundamental principle and make government or any other idol into a counterfeit god in the 3 pursuit of comfort or personal gain or avoidance of responsibility. Here is an excerpt from that part of the Bible:

4 “Cursed is the one who trusts in man [or governments made up of men], who depends on flesh for his strength
 5 and whose heart turns away from the Lord. He will be like a bush in the wastelands; he will not see prosperity
 6 when it comes. He will dwell in the parched places of the desert, in a salt land where no one lives. But blessed
 7 is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. He will be like a tree planted by the water that
 8 sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always green. It has no worries
 9 in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit.”
 10 [Jeremiah 17:5-8, Bible, NIV]

11 The Apostle Paul in the Bible also confirmed that God and His laws always supersede man and their vain laws when he said:

12 “...there is no authority except from God.”
 13 [Romans 13:1, Bible, NKJV]

14 “...you are complete in Him [Christ], who is the head of all principality and power.”
 15 [Colossians 2:10, Bible, NKJV]

16 Why is God the only authority and the source of all authority? The root of the word “authority” is “author”. Because God
 17 created us, he is the “author” of our existence, and therefore the only entity in authority over us. He is our only “Lawgiver”
 18 and anything else is a cheap, man-made substitute:

19 “For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Lawgiver, the Lord is our King; He will save [and protect] us.”
 20 [Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

21 This is similar to how the government handles patents and copyrights. The creator or author of the writing or invention is the 22 person who has “rights” over the thing he or she created.

23 “The heavens are Yours, the earth also is Yours; the world and all its fullness, You have founded them;...”
 24 [Psalm 89:11-12, Bible, NKJV]

25 “And having been perfected, He [Jesus] became the author of eternal salvation to all who obey Him.”
 26 [Hebrews 5:9, Bible, NKJV]

27 Likewise, the creator of legal fictions called “corporations” is the government, which is why they can tax and regulate them.
 28 Because God is the author of our existence, He endowed us with a natural, instinctive understanding of His law and His
 29 sovereignty through the Holy Spirit. Even those who don’t believe in God are endowed with this awareness and sense of 30 morality, in which case it is called “conscience” instead of “Holy Spirit”. This notion of the Holy Spirit is the origin of the 31 whole concept of Natural Law, Natural Order, morality, and Justice. The Bible again confirms this natural gift of the Holy 32 Spirit and the faith that results from it:

33 *“...let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our
 34 faith, who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the same, and has sat down at the 35 right hand of the throne of God.”
 36 [Hebrews 12:2, Bible, NKJV]

37 Some people point to Romans 13:1 cited above and say that we should be subject to or subservient to our government, even 38 if that government is corrupt. Here is the scripture they will cite again:

39 “Let every soul be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and the 40 authorities are appointed by God.”
 41 [Romans 13:1, Bible, NKJV]

42 What we believe the “governing authorities” as used above by Apostle Paul means is “sovereigns”. Paul was saying that we
 43 should be subject to the sovereigns within whatever system of government we are a part. As you will learn later in section
 44 4.7, our system of government is unique in all the world because it is a Republic founded on individual rather than collective 45 rights and all individuals are sovereigns who are individually in charge of the government as a “king” or “governing authority”
 46 as the Apostle Paul says here. The people created the government and they existed before the government so they are the 47 sovereigns. Government and public servants within government are there to serve you and me as the individual sovereigns
 48 and they must be subject to us and subservient to us, according to Paul’s words above. As we say later in section 4.4.15, the

1 people are the sovereigns rather than the government or anyone working in the government, and the U.S. supreme Court and
2 various state courts agree with this concept as shown below:

3 *“Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while
4 sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by
5 whom and for whom all government exists and acts.”
6 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356; 6 S.Ct. 1064 (1886)]

7 “The people of this State, as the successors of its former sovereign, are entitled to all the rights which formerly
8 *belonged to the King by his prerogative. Through the medium of their Legislature they may exercise all the
9 powers which previous to the Revolution could have been exercised either by the King alone, or by him in*
10 conjunction with his Parliament; subject only to those restrictions which have been imposed by the Constitution
11 of this State or of the U.S.”
12 [Lansing v. Smith, 21 D. 89, 4 Wendel 9 (1829) (New York)]

13 The real “king” in our society is not the government or anyone serving the sovereign people as government employees, but 14 the PEOPLE! That’s you! So even if you misinterpret Jesus’ words to mean that we should render to a corrupt government
15 that which it illegally asks for and demands, since your own government calls you the king, then your public servants are the 16 ones who should be “rendering” to you, who your own government calls the sovereign. Render to the king (Caesar, that’s 17 you) his due, which is everything that is his property and his right, including 100% of his earned wage. What our dishonorable
18 “servant” politicians and lawyers in government have been doing to destroy this natural order is to dumb you down using the 19 public education system and steal your sovereign birthright by legal treachery and trickery hidden in the laws they write, but 20 we as the sovereigns shouldn’t allow them to get away with this fraud and extortion.

21 The implications of the Natural Order diagram are profound. First of all, the diagram can be very useful as documentation
22 of our religious belief about the authority of government. We can use our First Amendment Right of freedom of religion to
23 put government inside the box where they belong and keep them there. The biggest implication is that we are not to work
24 for or be slaves of our government. Our government is our slave, we are the masters and it has no business dictating anything
25 to us, stealing our money through direct taxes, forcing us to work for them (slavery), or using government licenses, such as 26 marriage licenses, to impinge on our rights. We are sovereigns relative to it. In the words of Jesus Himself:

27 “Away with you , Satan! For it is written, ‘You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him ONLY [NOT the 28 government!] you shall serve.’”
29 [Matt. 4:10, BIBLE]

30 However, if you want to have rights, then you have to act like you have them and know what they are. If you don’t know
31 what they are and don’t insist on them in all your interactions with government dis-servants, then we can guarantee that the 32 government will pretend like you don’t have any because they want to be in charge.

33 “Ask not and ye shall definitely receive not!”
34 [Family Guardian Fellowship]

35 One of our readers (Clyde Hyde, <mailto:candz@mail.ru>) has extended this concept of sovereignty and natural order so far as 36 to litigate in a federal court to request the court to make a declaratory judgment either pronouncing him a slave, or a sovereign,
37 and the courts and the government hate him for it, because he backs them into a corner where they have no choice but to
38 declare the truth about his sovereignty. His efforts were the inspiration behind making the above diagram, and he provided
39 to us a similar but less complete version of the above diagram that inspired this section. Way to go, Clyde! See section
40 3.13.14 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, which contains a “Declaratory Judgment to 41 Become a Sovereign” for an example of how he traps the court with this argument into admitting the truth about his 42 sovereignty. It’s fascinating and funny!

43 The above system of government based on Natural Law and Natural Order is self-regulating and self-balancing. Each entity
44 has a proper role as follows:

45 Table 4-1: Entities within Natural Order and Their Proper Roles

| 2   | Man/woman            | Created in God's image. Accountable to God for their stewardship over the world. If Christian, have one chance to get it "right", or will suffer eternal damnation on judgment day (see book of Revelation, the Holy Bible).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3   | We the People/family | Voluntary association of persons formed for mutual protection and benefit. Cannot and should not impose force on any member of society, except to prevent injustice or harm from occurring. Every member of the society must have equal rights by Nature's law. Unequal rights are a sign of government tyranny and use of the government for class warfare and oppression by special interest groups.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 4   | Governing entities:  | These entities act as the interface between "We the People" and their servant government. They ensure accountability of the government to the social contract called the Constitution from which the government derives all of its delegated powers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.1 | Grand Jury           | Implement criminal enforcement of the laws of the society within their jurisdiction. Decide who to indict, and on what criminal charges. Interface most often with the Attorney General, the District Attorney, or the Department of Justice within their jurisdiction. Prosecute corrupt public servants for wrongdoing and violation of Constitutional rights. In the case of bad laws, such as those on taxation, refuse to indict persons under such laws, thereby rendering the laws as ineffective as if they were never passed. Also initiate prosecution of citizens who have injured the interests of fellow citizens in violation of criminal laws. The output of the decision-making process for Grand Juries is an indictment, that is filed within the jurisdiction covered by their charter. Proceedings are generally very secretive, and the government often tries to unduly influence grand juries by not allowing accused persons to meet with or submit evidence to the grand jury before indictments are filed. |
| 4.2 | Elections            | Method of expressing the sovereign will of the people to their government servants. Ensure that all persons serving in government are ultimately and continually accountable to the people for their performance or lack thereof. Ensure that laws passed by the legislative branch are consistent with the Constitution and reinforce the sovereignty of the will of We the People.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.3 | Trial jury           | Directed by judge of the court as to their roles and responsibilities and proper court procedure. Ordinarily determine only facts necessary to convict, based on the law as interpreted and explained by the judge. However, can also judge and nullify the law if it is a bad law that is inconsistent with the written Constitution or if the judge misinterprets or refuses to discuss the law. Are seldom informed by anyone in government of their right to judge and nullify the effect of the law because government doesn't want them to know they have that kind of power. Receive as input for their decision: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. Jury instructions from the judge.</li> <li>b. The statute that is being violated.</li> <li>c. The regulation that implements the statute that is being violated.</li> <li>d. Evidence submitted by the injured party and third party witnesses.</li> </ul>                                                                                                 |
| 4.4 | Organized church     | Agents of social and moral responsibility within organized society. Focus on charity, grace, ministry, and spiritual issues, which are not easily or effectively dealt with by governments. Contribute to proper socialization of children and young adults. Provide stability and order to an otherwise chaotic lifestyle. Hold families together by encouraging commitment. Teach and reinforce love, personal responsibility, and respect for authority. Should encourage change if government becomes tyrannical and provide a pulpit and an audience to organize and effect that change. Cannot function effectively with government intervention, taxation, or regulation. The doctrine of separation of church and state demands that governments not tax or interfere with churches in any way.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

| 5   | Constitution            | A written social contract between the people and the government who serves them. Purpose is to limit and define the delegated authority possessed by the persons serving in government. Prevents tyranny by distributing powers evenly among independent branches of government so that too much power doesn't concentrate in any one place, where it would likely be abused.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 6   | Branches of government: | Alexander Hamilton, one of our founding fathers, said the following about the relation of various branches of government to each other:"The Executive not only dispenses the honors, but holds the sword of the community. The legislature not only commands the purse, but prescribes the rules by which the duties and rights of every citizen are to be regulated. The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society; and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither force nor will, but merely judgment...""...This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably, that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power*; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks..."We can say that the legislature represents the heart and emotions of the people. And the executive branch represents strength and muscle of the people, and we would suggest that the judiciary represents the rational mind of the people. |
| 6.1 | Executive Branch        | Role is to execute the day-to-day functions of the government based on the laws passed by the Legislative branch. Carry the "sword" and have the authority to implement and enforce public policy documented in the laws passed by the Legislative branch.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 6.2 | Legislative Branch      | Role is to pass laws, which in most cases take the form of statutes and public law.Responsible for writing laws on taxation and for collecting taxes. These two functions must reside together in order to truthfully say that there is taxation with representation, which was what our country was founded on. | 6.3 | Judicial Branch         | Responsible for interpreting and applying laws written by the Legislative branch in the event of disputes which cannot be resolved cooperatively among citizens. Only enforce laws and statutes passed by the Legislative branch that are consistent with the written Constitution. This ensures that the Legislative branch does not usurp power or exceed the authority delegated to it by the people. Instruct juries as to the law. Implement courtroom protocol based on Court Rules they write. Develop forms of pleading and practice used to ensure an orderly and repeatable process of justice. Judges often appointed for life and a Constitutional requirement that their salary cannot be reduced by the legislature in order to ensure independence from the Legislative Branch. Can be indicted for wrongdoing by the Grand Jury if they become corrupt or tyrannical.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

| 7  | Statutes                | Laws written by the Legislative Branch, usually taking the form of written statutes and Public Laws. These laws express the will of the people and must be consistent with the written Constitution and God's Law. The extent to which the laws created by the Legislative branch are inconsistent with Natural Law/God's Law is the extent to which the Trial Jury and the Grand Jury can and often will nullify or refuse to enforce such a law.                                                        |
| 8  | Regulations             | Regulations are written by the Executive Branch of the government in order to implement or enforce the statutes written by the Legislative branch. They are the agency's official interpretation of the statutes. Since the Executive Branch of the government is not a legislative body, the scope of the regulations may NOT exceed the authority or the scope of the statutes they implement. The absence of an implementing regulation also makes the statute unenforceable in most courts.           |
| 9  | Corporations            | Artificial entities created by operation of laws passed by the Legislative branch. Members of this "corpus" or "body" of persons agree to receive government privileges in the form of limited personal liability in the courts in exchange for an agreement to be bound by the laws of the state and pay taxes to that state. The decision to become a corporation is a voluntary act , and therefore taxes paid by corporations can be mandated and still not violated rights in a free country. |
| 10 | "U.S. citizen"/idolater | Subjects and serfs of the federal government. Rights and privileges are created and enforced via federal statutes rather than being granted by the Bill of Rights or the Constitution. Are not Sovereigns, but subject citizens of a totalitarian socialist democracy. See section 4.12.8 later for details.                                                                                                                                                                                       |

In the above system, the government benefits most and makes its power greatest by having misinformed, ignorant, or passive grand jurists and trial jurists who will be good government puppets and not ask too many probing questions. The ideal candidate for this role as far as the government is concerned is someone who graduated from the "public fool system", I mean public school system, that THEY (the government) were in charge of. Never forget the following:

"Politicians prefer unarmed and illiterate peasants!"

Do you smell a conflict of interest here? This "victim" of the public fool [I mean school] system is legally and socially illiterate and makes a good "sheep" who is easy for the District Attorney (D.A.) to boss around and who will ignorantly mis-enforce the tax code so that he will maximize the government's take from the institutionalized plunder and theft called the income tax. Consequently, it is the goal of this document to provide a "civics lesson" in the hope of atoning for the sins of the public fool, I mean "school" system in encouraging this kind of ignorance about our political process.

Some people, when they read this section, respond to it by saying the following:

"What you are trying to develop and establish is God's kingdom here on earth. You are trying to impose your religious views on the government and the citizens and expecting them to operate under God's laws instead of man's laws. We live in a diverse culture and although a vast majority of Americans do profess a belief in God, you will encounter much resistance to this idea."

We respond to this comment by saying that we are not insisting that the government do anything other than provide equal and complete protection to everyone for their constitutional rights and their liberties and nothing more. We don't want to dictate how individuals run their lives or what they can or cannot say. We only wish to ensure that the government fulfills its only legitimate function, which is to prevent injustice rather than to promote justice as we indicated earlier in section 3.3 and to leave people otherwise fully sovereign over their own person and labor and property. These ingredients are the essence of good, wise, and frugal government. Thomas Jefferson agreed with these conclusions:

"With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities."

[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

We believe that separation between church and state is important. We also think the Constitution gives us freedom OF religion, but not freedom FROM religion, and those persons who are nonreligious, and especially gays, liberals, and homosexuals, ought to learn to be much more tolerant of the views of Christians than they are today. It is the height of hypocrisy for them on the one hand to be telling Christians they are intolerant, and on the other hand being totally intolerant of Christians themselves. Such left wing groups have become the Nazi's of our modern era by trying to pass hate crime laws and government regulations to discriminate against Christians who are exercising their First Amendment right to freedom of religious expression. They have done so in an apparent effort to eliminate what they call discrimination on the part of Christians, even though in most cases the only injury they have suffered came not from the person making the statement or committing an alleged act, but from the conviction of the Holy Spirit acting on their consciousness. We believe that persons of any religion should be free exercise their rights to follow their religion and to talk freely in public settings about what God's law says about the sins of abortion, homosexuality, and fornication.

What does the Bible say that we should do with government servants who are bad stewards who have abused the authority entrusted to them by their masters? The answer is found in the Parable of the Faithful Steward in Luke 12:41-48. We cite from that passage below:

"But if that servant says in his heart 'My master is delaying his coming,' and begins to beat the male and female servants, and to eat and drink and be drunk, the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the unbelievers. And that servant who knew his master's will, and did not prepare himself or do according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes."
 [Luke 12:45-47, Bible, NKJV]

Our government is the "servant" of the sovereign people. This "servant" has:

1. Kicked the master out of his own house and through eminent domain and taken it, our income, and all our property rights over.
2. Is beating not only the male and female servants, but making the master into a servant as well and then beating him too under the color of law but without any lawful authority whatsoever!
3. Has abused his authority and stewardship to punish and control the master by claiming falsely to be acting under the authority of law
4. Has turned the servants on each other and created a police state by appointing some servants in the financial community to "snitch" on all the other servants so that NO ONE has privacy or sovereignty. The motto is: "If you're not going to be a snitch, then you will be my bitch (prostitute)." as one of our readers puts it. This tactic, incidentally, is the same tactic the communists used in creating informants to snitch on anti-communists.
5. Has made it impossible to call himself to account in the courts because the servant has replaced all the judges with his own cronies and threatened those who might convict or persecute him. Every once in a while, they will lynch a sheep like Congressman Traficant or Congressman George Hansen to keep the rest of the sheep in line.

According to the legal dictionary, the type of government we have is therefore described as a "dulocracy":

"Dulocracy. A government where servants and slaves have so much license and privilege that they domineer."
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 501]

According to the Bible, this wicked servant (our public servants in Congress and the IRS in this case) should be cut in two and flogged and beaten with many stripes. By Natural Law, this would be divine justice for them according to the Bible. Why aren't we doing this to the corrupt tyrants who have taken over our government if Natural Law demands it?

Another interesting fact is revealed by examining the natural order diagram: That governments invented corporations as creatures of law so that they could become a god and an object of slavery and idol worship for that corporation. People in government simply love being treated as gods and they will make laws to encourage such idol worship. Consider the following evidence in support of such a conclusion:

1. The Bible and our Christian God hold us individually and personally responsible (liable) for our acts during this lifetime. See Rev. 20:11-15 and Romans 14:10-12, which says that we will be judged and held accountable by God individually for what we did or didn't do during our lifetime.

For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ. For it is written:

1                               "As I live, says the Lord,
 2                               Every knee shall bow to Me,
 3                               And every tongue shall confess to God."

4                               So then each of us shall give account of himself to God.
 5                               [Romans 14:10-12, Bible, NKJV]

- 6   2. The fundamental advantage of forming a corporation is limited personal liability. This means at least during our lifetime,
 7   that we won't be held personally responsible as an individual for our wrongdoing so long as we did it as an agent of a
 8   corporation. The price we pay for this limited liability is to pay taxes on the profits of the corporation to the federal 9   government, on whom we depend entirely for our existence as an artificial legal entity.
- 10 3. The problem with corporations is that when people intend to sin or commit crimes, then corporations provide a 11 convenient legal vehicle to escape personal liability for the crimes. One could therefore quite reasonably say that the 12 government (federal mafia) courts become a protection racket for criminals in exchange for the right to collect revenues
 13 from them! Is it then any wonder we hear so much of late about corporations cooking the books? Does Enron, MCI
 14 Worldcom, Arthur Anderson, Martha Stewart, etc. ring a bell, folks?
- 15 4. Because our God is viewed by atheists and sinners as a harsh God who hates sin and whom they would rather avoid 16 accountability to, then a common approach among these people is to try to replace God with government and then get 17 the government to legalize sinful or formerly criminal activity. This approach only works, however, if God can be 18 removed both from the schools, government, and public life, or Christian morality and God's laws will condemn them 19 anyway for their acts.
- 20 5. When the government wishes to tax natural persons (biological people), its most common approach is to deceive them
 21 using "words of art" and tricky legal definitions into thinking that they are taxable corporations involved in foreign
 22 commerce or the officers of such corporations. Even the U.S. Supreme Court agrees that "income" within the meaning
 23 of the Constitution means "corporate profit" for the purpose of Subtitle A federal income taxes. See the following cases 24 for verification of this fact:
- 25   5.1. Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920).
 26   5.2. Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415, 34 S.Sup.Ct. 136, 140, 58 L.Ed. 285
 27   5.3. Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Sup.Ct. 467, 469, 62 L.Ed. 1054

28 Along the lines of corporations, here's a funny satire one of our readers sent us highlighting the fundamental problems with 29 corporations we just pointed out above and showing just how badly man screws things up when he tries to improve on what
 30 God gave us:

 49                               refer us to investor relations. I've been on the phone all damn morning."

50                               "YOU'LL NEVER AUDIT ME ALIVE!"

The pursuers said they have had some success, however, by preying on a common executive weakness. "Last night we caught about 24 of them by disguising one of our female officers as a CNBC anchor," said U.S. Border Patrol spokesperson Janet Lewis. "It was like moths to a flame."

Also, teams of agents have been using high-powered listening devices to scan the plains or telltale sounds of the CEOistas. "Most of the time we just hear leaves rustling or cattle flicking their tails," said Lewis, "but occasionally we'll pick up someone saying, 'I was totally out of the loop on that.'"

Among former and current CEOs apprehended with this method were Computer Associates' Sanjay Kumar, Adelphia's John Rigas, Enron's Ken Lay, Joseph Nacchio of Qwest, Joseph Berardino of Arthur Andersen, and every Global Crossing CEO since 1997. Since, due to his contacts to Telmex, his knowledge of local geography is claimed to be outstanding, mPhase's Ron Durando was elected to act as the group's pathfinder. ImClone Systems' Sam Waksal and Dennis Kozlowski of Tyco were not allowed to join the CEOistas as they have already been indicted.

So far, about 50 chief executives have been captured, including Martha Stewart, who was detained south of El Paso where she had cut through a barbed-wire fence at the Zaragosa border crossing off Highway 375.

"She would have gotten away, but she was stopping motorists to ask for marzipan and food coloring so she could make edible snowman place settings, using the cut pieces of wire for the arms," said Border Patrol officer Jennette Cushing. "We put her in cell No. 7, because the morning sun really adds texture to the stucco walls."

While some stragglers are believed to have successfully crossed into Mexico, Cushing said the bulk of the CEOistas have holed themselves up at the Alamo.

"No, not the fort, the car rental place at the airport," she said. "They're rotating all the tires on the minivans and accounting for each change as a sales event."

The IRS has sent recruiters to accompany law enforcement and disgruntled shareholders in the chase, and has publicly announced that it is offering the CEOs jobs as IRS collection agents and criminal investigators once captured. Charles Rossotti, the IRS commissioner, has offered them anonymity under the FBI's witness protection program. Apparently, the IRS has been having trouble finding employees, since all the honest ones already resigned to seek more honorable employment.

In conclusion, we have a very good video on our website regarding Jury Nullification that was put together by Red Beckman which unifies the lessons in this section. It thoroughly explains the proper role of each major entity in our Natural Order diagram in detail and is very enlightening to civic minded citizens. You can watch this video at:

4.2 Public v. Private<sup>75</sup>

A very important subject is the division of legal authority between PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. On this subject the U.S. Supreme Court held:

"A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them."
[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

If you can't "execute" them, then you ALSO can't enforce them against ANYONE else. Some people might be tempted to say that we all construe them against the private person daily, but in fact we can't do that WITHOUT being a public officer WITHIN the government.

"The reason why States are "bodies politic and corporate" is simple: just as a corporation is an entity that can act only through its agents, "[t]he State is a political corporate body, can act only through agents, and can command only by laws." Poindexter v. Greenhow, supra, 114 U.S., at 288, 5 S.Ct. at 912-913. See also Black's Law Dictionary 159 (5th ed. 1979) ("Body politic or corporate": "A social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for

1 the common good”). As a “body politic and corporate,” a State falls squarely within the Dictionary Act’s
 2 definition of a “person.”
 3 [Will v. Michigan Dept. of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 109 S.Ct. 2304 (U.S.Mich.,1989)]

4 If we do enforce the law as a private nonresident human, we are criminally impersonating a public officer in violation of 18
 5 U.S.C. §912. Other U.S. Supreme Court cites also confirm why this must be:

6 “All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
 7 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
 8 with [private] individuals.”
 9 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

10
 11 “...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual
 12 and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an
 13 examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is
 14 entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to 15 the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may 16 tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the 17 protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the 18 organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the 19 Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his 20 property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he 21 does not trespass upon their rights.

22 “Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated
 23 for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the 24 laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not
 25 authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long
 26 as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and 27 find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered 28 a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these 29 franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate
 30 books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged
 31 with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its 32 books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating
 33 questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special
 34 privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges. “
 35 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

36 You MUST therefore be an agent of the government and therefore a PUBLIC officer in order to “make constitutions or laws
 37 or administer, execute, or ENFORCE EITHER”. Here is more proof:

38 “A defendant sued as a wrong-doer, who seeks to substitute the state in his place, or to justify by the authority of 39 the state, or to defend on the ground that the state has adopted his act and exonerated him, cannot rest on the 40 bare assertion of his defense. He is bound to establish it. The state is a political corporate body, can act only 41 through agents, and can command only by laws. It is necessary, therefore, for such a defendant, in order to 42 complete his defense, to produce a law of the state which constitutes his commission as its agent, and a warrant 43 for his act.”
 44 [Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270 (1885)]

45 By “act” above, they implicitly also include “enforce”. If you aren’t an agent of the state, they can’t enforce against you.
 46 Examples of “agents” or “public officers” of the government include all the following:

- 47 1. “person” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1)).
- 48 2. “individual” (26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)).
- 49 3. “taxpayer” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)).
- 50 4. “withholding agent” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16)).

51 “The government thus lays a tax, through the [GOVERNMENT] instrumentality [PUBLIC OFFICE] of the 52 company [a FEDERAL and not STATE corporation], upon the income of a non-resident alien over whom it
 53 cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly lay any burden.”
 54 [United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

55 So how do you “OBEY” a law without “EXECUTING” it? We’ll give you a hint: It CAN’T BE DONE!

Likewise, if ONLY public officers can “administer, execute, or enforce” the law, then the following additional requirements of the law are unavoidable and also implied:

1. Congress cannot impose DUTIES against private persons through the civil law. Otherwise the Thirteenth Amendment would be violated and the party executing said duties would be criminally impersonating an agent or officer of the government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
2. Congress can only impose DUTIES upon public officers through the civil statutory law.
3. The civil statutory law is law for GOVERNMENT, and not PRIVATE persons. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
4. Those who enforce any civil statutory duties against you are PRESUMING that you occupy a public office.
5. You cannot unilaterally “elect” yourself into a public office in the government by filling out a government form, even if you consent to volunteer.
6. Even if you ARE a public officer, you can only execute the office in a place EXPRESSLY authorized by Congress per 4 U.S.C. §72, which means ONLY the District of Columbia and “not elsewhere”.

TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
§ 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

7. If you are “construing, administering, or executing” the laws, then you are doing so as a public officer and:
  - 7.1. You are bound and constrained in all your actions by the constitution like every OTHER public officer while on official business interacting with PRIVATE humans.
  - 7.2. The Public Records exception to the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) applies. EVERYTHING you produce in the process of “construing, administering, or executing” the laws is instantly admissible and cannot be excluded from the record by any judge. If a judge interferes with the admission of such evidence, he is:
    - 7.2.1. Interfering with the duties of a coordinate branch of the government in violation of the Separation of Powers.
    - 7.2.2. Criminally obstructing justice.

4.2.1 Introduction

In order to fully understand and comprehend the nature of franchises, it is essential to thoroughly understand the distinctions between PUBLIC and PRIVATE property. The following subsections will deal with this important subject extensively. In the following subsections, we will establish the following facts:

1. There are TWO types of property:
  - 1.1. Public property. This type of property is protected by the CIVIL law.
  - 1.2. Private property. This type of property is protected by the COMMON law.
2. Specific legal rights attach to EACH of the two types of property. These “rights” in turn, are ALSO property as legally defined.

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man's courtesy.*

*The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.*

2 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

- 3 3. Human beings can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO 4 legal "persons": PUBLIC and PRIVATE.
 5 3.1. The CIVIL law attaches to the PUBLIC person.
 6 3.2. The COMMON law and the Constitution attach to and protect the PRIVATE person.
 7 This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

8 Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.

9 *When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate
 10 persons. 4 Co. 118.

11 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

12 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

- 13 4. That the purpose of the Constitution and the establishment of government itself is to protect EXCLUSIVELY
 14 PRIVATE rights.

15 "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
 16 *with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure
 17 these [EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE, God-given] rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their 18 just powers from the consent of the governed. -"*

19 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

20 The VERY FIRST step in protecting PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is to prevent such property from being
 21 converted to PUBLIC property or PUBLIC rights without the consent of the owner. In other words, the VERY FIRST
 22 step in protecting PRIVATE rights is to protect you from the GOVERNMENT'S OWN theft. Obviously, if a
 23 government becomes corrupted and refuses to protect PRIVATE rights or recognize them, there is absolutely no reason
 24 you can or should want to hire them to protect you from ANYONE ELSE.

- 25 5. The main method for protecting PRIVATE rights is to impose the following burden of proof and presumption upon 26 any entity or person claiming to be "government":

27 "All rights and property are PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the control of government
 28 or the CIVIL law unless and until the government meets the burden of proving, WITH EVIDENCE, on the record 29 of the proceeding that:

- 30 1. A SPECIFIC formerly PRIVATE owner consented IN WRITING to convert said property to PUBLIC property.
 31 2. The owner was either abroad, domiciled on, or at least PRESENT on federal territory NOT protected by the 32 Constitution and therefore had the legal capacity to ALIENATE a Constitutional right or relieve a public
 33 servant of the fiduciary obligation to respect and protect the right. Those physically present but not necessarily 34 domiciled in a constitutional but not statutory state protected by the constitution cannot lawfully alienate rights
 35 to a real, de jure government, even WITH their consent.
 36 3. If the government refuses to meet the above burden of proof, it shall be CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be 37 operating in a PRIVATE, corporate capacity on an EQUAL footing with every other private corporation and 38 which is therefore NOT protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity.

- 39 6. That the ability to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the constitution and therefore such 40 conduct cannot lawfully become the subject of any civil statutory law.

41 "Under basic rules of construction, statutory laws enacted by legislative bodies cannot impair rights given under 42 a constitution. 194 B.R. at 925. "

43 [In re Young, 235 B.R. 666 (Bankr.M.D.Fla., 1999)]

- 44 7. That the terms "person", "persons", "individual", "individuals" as used within the civil statutory law by default imply
 45 PUBLIC "persons" and therefore public offices within the government and not PRIVATE human beings. All such 46 offices are creations and franchises of the government and therefore property of the government subject to its exclusive 47 control.
 48 8. That if the government wants to call you a statutory "person" or "individual" under the civil law, then:
 49 8.1. You must volunteer or consent at some point to occupy a public office in the government while situated
 50 physically in a place not protected by the USA Constitution and the Bill of Rights....namely, federal territory. In 51 some cases, that public office is also called a "citizen" or "resident".

- 1 8.2. If you don't volunteer, they are essentially exercising unconstitutional "eminent domain" over your PRIVATE
 2 property. Keep in mind that rights protected by the Constitution are PRIVATE PROPERTY.
 3 9. That there are VERY SPECIFIC and well defined rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC PROPERTY
 4 and OFFICES, and that all such rules require your express consent except when a crime is involved.
 5 10. That if a corrupted judge or public servant imposes upon you any civil statutory status, including that of "person" or
 6 "individual" without PROVING with evidence that you consented to the status AND had the CAPACITY to lawfully 7 consent at the time you consented, they are:
 8 10.1. Violating due process of law.
 9 10.2. Imposing involuntary servitude.
 10 10.3. STEALING property from you. We call this "theft by presumption".
 11 10.4. Kidnapping your identity and moving it to federal territory.
 12 10.5. Instituting eminent domain over EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property.
 13 11. That within the common law, the main mechanism for PREVENTING the conversion of PRIVATE property to 14 PUBLIC property through government franchises are the following maxims of law. These maxims of law MANDATE
 15 that all governments must protect your right NOT to participate in franchises or be held accountable for the 16 consequences of receiving a "benefit" you did not consent to receive and/or regarded as an INJURY rather than a
 17 "benefit":

18 Invito beneficium non datur.

19 No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be 20 considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

21 Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto.

22 Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv.
 23 Inst. n. 83.

24 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856,

25 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm>]

26 For an example of how this phenomenon works in the case of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C "trade or business"
 27 franchise, see:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

28 As an example of why an understanding of this subject is EXTREMELY important, consider the following dialog at an IRS
 29 audit in which the FIRST question out of the mouth of the agent is ALWAYS "What is YOUR Social Security Number?":

30
 31
 32 IRS AGENT: What is YOUR Social Security Number?

 34 YOU: 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) says SSNs belong to the government. The only way it could be MY number is if I am appearing 35 here today as a federal employee or officer on official business. If that is the case, no, I am here as a private human 36 being and not a government statutory "employee" in possession or use of "public property" such as a number.
 37 Therefore, I don't HAVE a Social Security Number. Furthermore, I am not lawfully eligible and never have been 38 eligible to participate in Social Security and any records you have to the contrary are FALSE and FRAUDULENT
 39 and should be DESTROYED.

40
 41 IRS AGENT: That's ridiculous. Everyone HAS a SSN.

 43 YOU: Well then EVERYONE is a STUPID whore for acting as a federal employee or agent without compensation THEY
 44 and not YOU determine. The charge for my services to act as a federal "employee" or officer or trustee in possession
 45 of public property such as an SSN is ALL the tax and penalty liability that might result PLUS $1,000 per hour. Will 46 you agree in writing pay the compensation I demand to act essentially as your federal coworker, because if you
 47 don't, then it's not MY number?

48
 49 IRS AGENT: It's YOUR number, not the government's.

50
 51 YOU: Well why do the regulations at 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) say it belongs to the Social Security Administration (S.S.A.)
 52 instead of me? I am not appearing as a Social Security employee at this meeting and its unreasonable and prejudicial for you to assume that I am. I am also not appearing here as “federal personnel” as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(13\). I don’t even qualify for Social Security and never have, and what you are asking me to do by providing an INVALID and knowingly FALSE number is to VIOLATE THE LAW and commit fraud by providing that which I am not legally entitled to and thereby fraudulently procure the benefits of a federal franchise. Is that your intention?

IRS AGENT: Don’t play word games with me. It’s YOUR number.

YOU: Well good. Then if it’s MY number and MY property, then I have EXCLUSIVE control and use over it. That is what the word “property” implies. That means I, and not you, may penalize people for abusing MY property. The penalty for wrongful use or possession of MY property is all the tax and penalty liability that might result from using said number for tax collection plus $1,000 per hour for educating you about your lawful duties because you obviously don’t know what they are. If it’s MY property, then your job is to protect me from abuses of MY property. If you can penalize me for misusing YOUR procedures and forms, which are YOUR property, then I am EQUALLY entitled to penalize you for misusing MY property. Are you willing to sign an agreement in writing to pay for the ABUSE of what you call MY property, because if you aren’t, you are depriving me of exclusive use and control over MY property and depriving me of the equal right to prevent abuses of my property??

IRS AGENT: OK, well it’s OUR number. Sorry for deceiving you. Can you give us OUR number that WE assigned to you?

YOU: You DIDN’T assign it to ME as a private person, which is what I am appearing here today as. You can’t lawfully issue public property such as an SSN to a private person. That’s criminal embezzlement. The only way it could have been assigned to me is if I’m acting as a “public officer” or federal employee at this moment, and I am NOT. I am here as a private person and not a public employee. Therefore, it couldn’t have been lawfully issued to me. Keep this up, and I’m going to file a criminal complaint with the U.S. Attorney for embezzlement in violation of 18 U.S.C. §641 and impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. I’m not here as a public officer and you are asking me to act like one without compensation and without legal authority. Where is the compensation that I demand to act as a fiduciary and trustee over your STINKING number, which is public property? I remind you that the very purpose why governments are created is to PROTECT and maintain the separation between "public property" and "private property" in order to preserve my inalienable constitutional rights that you took an oath to support and defend. Why do you continue to insist on co-mingling and confusing them in order to STEAL my labor, property, and money without compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause?

Usually, after the above interchange, the IRS agent will realize he is digging a DEEP hole for himself and will abruptly end that sort of inquiry, and many times will also end his collection efforts.

4.2.2 What is “Property”?

Property is legally defined as follows:

*Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.*

*The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.*

*Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership. or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only* ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen's relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.

Goodwill is property, Howell v. Bowden, TexCiv. App., 368 S.W.2d. 842, &18; as is an insurance policy and rights incident thereto, including a right to the proceeds, Harris v. Harris, 83 N.M. 441, 493 P.2d. 407, 408.

Criminal code. "Property" means anything of value. including real estate, tangible and intangible personal property, contract rights, choses-in-action and other interests in or claims to wealth, admission or transportation tickets, captured or domestic animals, food and drink, electric or other power. Model Penal Code. Q 223.0. See also Property of another, infra. Dusts. Under definition in Restatement, Second, Trusts, Q 2(c), it denotes interest in things and not the things themselves.

[Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

Keep in mind the following critical facts about "property" as legally defined:

1. The essence of the "property" right, also called "ownership", is the RIGHT TO EXCLUDE others from using or benefitting from the use of the property.

"We have repeatedly held that, as to property reserved by its owner for private use, 'the right to exclude [others is] one of the most essential sticks in the bundle of rights that are commonly characterized as property.'" Loretto v. Teleprompter Manhattan CATV Corp., 458 U.S. 419, 433 (1982), quoting Kaiser Aetna v. United States, 444 U.S. 164, 176 (1979). "" [Nollan v. California Coastal Comm'n, 483 U.S. 825 (1987)]

"In this case, we hold that the "right to exclude," so universally held to be a fundamental element of the property right,<sup>[11]</sup> falls within this category of interests that the Government cannot take without compensation."

[Kaiser Aetna v. United States, 444 U.S. 164 (1979)]

[11] See, e. g., United States v. Pueblo of San Ildefonso, 206 Ct.Cl. 649, 669-670, 513 F.2d. 1383, 1394 (1975); United States v. Lutz, 295 F.2d. 736, 740 (CA5 1961). As stated by Mr. Justice Brandeis, "[a]n essential element of individual property is the legal right to exclude others from enjoying it." International News Service v. Associated Press, 248 U.S. 215, 250 (1918) (dissenting opinion).

2. It's NOT your property if you can't exclude EVERYONE, including the GOVERNMENT from using, benefitting from the use, or taxing the specific property.
3. All constitutional rights and statutory privileges are property.
4. Anything that conveys a right or privilege is property.
5. Contracts convey rights or privileges and are therefore property.
6. All franchises are contracts between the grantor and the grantee and therefore property.

4.2.3 "Public" v. "Private" property ownership

Next, we would like to compare the two types of property: Public v. Private. There are two types of ownership of "property": Absolute and Qualified. The following definition describes and compares these two types of ownership:

Ownership. Collection of rights to use and enjoy property, including right to transmit it to others. Trustees of Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 92 N.H. 473, 33 A.2d. 665, 673. The complete dominion, title, or proprietary right in a thing or claim. The entirety of the powers of use and disposal allowed by law.

The right of one or more persons to possess and use a thing to the exclusion of others. The right by which a thing belongs to someone in particular, to the exclusion of all other persons. The exclusive right of possession, enjoyment, and disposal; involving as an essential attribute the right to control, handle, and dispose.

Ownership of property is either absolute or qualified. The ownership of property is absolute when a single person has the absolute dominion over it, and may use it or dispose of it according to his pleasure, subject only to general laws. The ownership is qualified when it is shared with one or more persons, when the time of enjoyment is deferred or limited, or when the use is restricted. Calif. Civil Code, §§678-680.

1                    There may be ownership of all inanimate things which are capable of appropriation or of manual delivery; of all
2                    domestic animals; of all obligations; of such products of labor or skill as the composition of an author, the
3                    goodwill of a business, trademarks and signs, and of rights created or granted by statute. Calif. Civil Code, §655.

4                    In connection with burglary, "ownership" means any possession which is rightful as against the burglar.

8                    Participation in franchises causes PRIVATE property to transmute into PUBLIC property. Below is a table comparing these 9                    two great classes of property and the legal aspects of their status.

Private and Public property MUST, at all times, remain completely separate from each other. If in fact rights are UNALIENABLE as declared in the Declaration of Independence, then you aren't allowed legally to consent to donate them to any government. Hence, they must remain private. You can't delegate that authority to anyone else either, because you can't delegate what you don't have:

*"Derativa potestas non potest esse major primitiva.
The power which is derived cannot be greater than that from which it is derived."*

*"Nemo plus juris ad alienum transferre potest, quam ispe habent.
One cannot transfer to another a right which he has not. Dig. 50, 17, 54; 10 Pet. 161, 175."
[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;
SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm>]*

For a fascinating and powerful presentation showing why private and public are separate, how to keep them that way, and how governments illegally try to convert PRIVATE to PUBLIC in order to STEAL from you, see:

4.2.4 The purpose and foundation of de jure government: Protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights

1 The main purpose for which all governments are established is the protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights and
 2 property. This purpose is the foundation of all the just authority of any government as held by the Declaration of
 3 Independence:

4 *"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
 5 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure
 6 these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the 7 governed. -"*
 8 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

9 The fiduciary duty that a public officer who works for the government has is founded upon the requirement to protect
 10 PRIVATE property.

11 *"As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be
 12 exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. <sup>77</sup>
 13 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level
 14 of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under 15 every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain
 16 from a discharge of their trusts. <sup>78</sup> That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political 17 entity on whose behalf he or she serves. <sup>79</sup> and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. <sup>80</sup> It has been said that the 18 fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. <sup>81</sup> Furthermore,
 19 it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence
 20 and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy. <sup>82</sup>"
 21 [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]*

22 The VERY FIRST step that any lawful de jure government must take in protecting PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights
 23 is to protect it from being converted to PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT property. After all: If the people you hire to protect you
 24 won't even do the job of protecting you from THEM, why should you hire them to protect you from ANYONE ELSE?

25 The U.S. Supreme Court has also affirmed that the protection of PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is "the foundation
 26 of the government" when it held the following. The case below was a challenge to the constitutionality of the first national 27 income tax, and the U.S. government rightfully lost that challenge:

28 *"Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very
 29 foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress, where 30 is the course of usurpation to end?"*

31 *The present assault upon capital [THEFT! and WEALTH TRANSFER by unconstitutional CONVERSION of 32 PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property] is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger 33 and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing
 34 intensity and bitterness."
 35 [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895), hearing the case against the first
 36 income tax passed by Congress that included people in states of the Union. They declared that first income tax
 37 UNCONSTITUTIONAL, by the way]*

In the above landmark case, the lawyer for the petitioner, Mr. Choate, even referred to the income tax as COMMUNISM, and he was obviously right! Why? Because communism like socialism operates upon the following political premises:

1. All property is PUBLIC property and there IS no PRIVATE property.
2. The government owns and/or controls all property and said property is LOANED to the people.
3. The government and/or the collective has rights superior to those of the individual. There is and can be NO equality or equal protection under the law without the right of PRIVATE property. In that sense, the government or the “state” is a pagan idol with “supernatural powers” because human beings are “natural” and they are inferior to the collective.
4. Control is synonymous with ownership. If the government CONTROLS the property but the citizen “owns” it, then:
  - 4.1. The REAL owner is the government.
  - 4.2. The ownership of the property is QUALIFIED rather than ABSOLUTE.
  - 4.3. The person holding the property is a mere CUSTODIAN over GOVERNMENT property and has EQUITABLE rather than LEGAL ownership. Hence, their name in combination with the Social Security Number constitutes a PUBLIC office synonymous with the government itself.
5. Everyone in temporary use of said property is an officer and agent of the state. A “public officer”, after all, is someone who is in charge of the PROPERTY of the public. It is otherwise a crime to use public property for a PRIVATE use or benefit. That crime is called theft or conversion:

“Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 79 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56, 58. An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Goff, C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 403, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v. State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Curtin v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v. City of Elkhart, 75 Ind.App. 493, 129 N.E. 878. State ex rel. Colorado River Commission v. Frohmiller, 46 Ariz. 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient authority, but for such time as de- notes duration and continuance, with Independent power to control the property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the service to be compensated by a stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position so created is a public office. State v. Brennan, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593. [Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1235]

Look at some of the planks of the Communist Manifesto, Karl Marx and confirm the above for yourself:

1. Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.
  2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

The legal definition of “property” confirms that one who OWNS a thing has the EXCLUSIVE right to use and dispose of and CONTROL the use of his or her or its property and ALL the fruits and “benefits” associated with the use of such property . The implication is that you as the PRIVATE owner have a right to EXCLUDE ALL OTHERS including all governments from using, benefitting from, or controlling your property. Governments, after all, are simply legal “persons” and the constitution guarantees that ALL “persons” are equal. If your neighbor can’t benefit from your property without your consent, then neither can any so-called “government”.

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen's relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.

[Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

In a lawful de jure government under our constitution:

1. All "persons" are absolutely equal under the law. No government can have any more rights than a single human being, no matter how many people make up that government. If your neighbor can't take your property without your consent, then neither can the government. The only exception to this requirement of equality is that artificial persons do not have constitutional rights, but only such "privileges" as statutory law grants them. See:

Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033

2. All property is CONCLUSIVELY presumed to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE until the GOVERNMENT meets the burden of proof on the record of the legal proceeding that you EXPRESSLY consented IN WRITING to donate the property or use of the property to the PUBLIC:

"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;' and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

Budd v. People of State of New York, [143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

3. You have to knowingly and intentionally DONATE your PRIVATE property to a public use and a PUBLIC purpose before the government can lawfully REGULATE its use. In other words, you have to at least SHARE your ownership of otherwise private property with the government and become an EQUITABLE rather than ABSOLUTE owner of the property before they can acquire the right to regulate its use or impose obligations or duties upon its original owner.
4. That donation ordinarily occurs by applying for and/or using a license in connection with the use of SPECIFIC otherwise PRIVATE property.
5. The process of applying for or using a license and thereby converting PRIVATE into PUBLIC cannot be compelled. If it is, the constitutional violation is called "eminent domain" without compensation or STEALING, in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.
6. You have a PUBLIC persona (office) and a PRIVATE persona (human) at all times.
  - 6.1. That which you VOLUNTARILY attach a government license number to, such as a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number, becomes PRIVATE property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a PUBLIC franchise. That property, in turn, is effectively OWNED by the government grantor of your public persona and the public office it represents.
  - 6.2. If you were compelled to use a government license number, such as an SSN or TIN, then a theft and taking without compensation has occurred, because all property associated with such numbers was unlawfully converted and STOLEN.
7. If the right to contract of the parties conducting any business transaction has any meaning at all, it implies the right to EXCLUDE the government from participation in their relationship.
  - 7.1. You can write the contract such that neither party may use or invoke a license number, or complain to a licensing board, about the transaction, and thus the government is CONTRACTED OUT of the otherwise PRIVATE relationship. Consequently, the transaction becomes EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and government may not tax or regulate or arbitrate the relationship in any way under the terms of the license franchise.

- 7.2. Every consumer of your services has a right to do business with those who are unlicensed. This right is a natural consequence of the right to CONTRACT and NOT CONTRACT. The thing they are NOT contracting with is the GOVERNMENT, and the thing they are not contracting FOR is STATUTORY/FRANCHISE "protection". Therefore, even those who have applied for government license numbers are NOT obligated to use them in connection with any specific transaction and may not have their licenses suspended or revoked for failure or refusal to use them for a specific transaction.
8. If the government invades the commercial relationship between you and those you do business with by forcing either party to use or invoke the license number or pursue remedies or "benefits" under the license, they are:
- 8.1. Interfering with your UNALIENABLE right to contract.
  - 8.2. Compelling you to donate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property to a PUBLIC use.
  - 8.3. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over your otherwise PRIVATE property.
  - 8.4. Compelling you to accept a public "benefit", where the "protection" afforded by the license is the "benefit".

The above requirements of the USA Constitution are circumvented with nothing more than the simple PRESUMPTION, usually on the part of the IRS and corrupted judges who want to STEAL from you, that the GOVERNMENT owns it and that you have to prove that they CONSENTED to let you keep the fruits of it. They can't and never have proven that they have such a right, and all such presumptions are a violation of due process of law.

(1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests:

A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 441, 449, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bd. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 U.S. 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process] [Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

In order to unconstitutionally and TREASONOUSLY circumvent the above limitation on their right to presume, corrupt governments and government actors will play "word games" with citizenship and key definitions in the ENCRYPTED "code" in order to KIDNAP your legal identity and place it OUTSIDE the above protections of the constitution by:

1. PRESUMING that you are a public officer and therefore, that everything held in your name is PUBLIC property of the GOVERNMENT and not YOUR PRIVATE PROPERTY. See:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyThiefOrPubOfficer.pdf>

2. Abusing fraudulent information returns to criminally and unlawfully "elect" you into public offices in the government:

 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/04-Tax/CorrErrInfoRtns/CorrErrInfoRtns.pdf>

3. PRESUMING that because you did not rebut evidence connecting you to a public office, then you CONSENT to occupy the office.
4. PRESUMING that ALL of the four contexts for "United States" are equivalent.
5. PRESUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a "non-resident" under federal civil law and NOT a STATUTORY "national and citizen of the United States** at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. See the document below:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyANational.pdf>

6. PRESUMING that "nationality" and "domicile" are equivalent. They are NOT. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>

7. Using the word "citizenship" in place of "nationality" OR "domicile", and refusing to disclose WHICH of the two they mean in EVERY context.
8. Confusing the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance, asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY PRESUMING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

9. Confusing the words "domicile" and "residence" or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can have only one "domicile" but many "residences" and BOTH require your consent. See:

 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>

10. Adding things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
 DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf>

11. Refusing to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.

12. Publishing deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define "United States" as and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their publications and it is FRAUD. See:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

This kind of arbitrary discretion is PROHIBITED by the Constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

"When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power."
 Yick Wo v. Hopkins, [118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S. Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071]

Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, precisely predicted the above abuses when he astutely said:

"It has long been my opinion, and I have never shrunk from its expression,... that the germ of dissolution of our Federal Government is in the constitution of the Federal Judiciary--an irresponsible body (for impeachment is scarcely a scare-crow), working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow, and advancing its noiseless step like a thief over the field of jurisdiction until all shall be usurped from the States and the government be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed."
 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:331]

"Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before them, to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact the corps of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to consolidate all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate."
 [Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121]

"The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working under ground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. They are construing our Constitution from a co-ordination of a general and special government to a general and supreme one alone. This will lay all things at their feet, and they are too well versed in English law to forget the maxim, 'boni judicis est ampliari jurisdictionem.'"
 [Thomas Jefferson to Thomas Ritchie, 1820. ME 15:297]

"When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."
 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

"What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-building ["trade or business scam] and office-hunting would be produced by an assumption [PRESUMPTION] of all the State powers into the hands of the General Government!"
 [Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

The key to preventing the unconstitutional abuse of presumption by the corrupted judiciary and IRS to STEAL from people is to completely understand the content of the following memorandum of law and consistently apply it in every interaction with the government:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 It ought to be very obvious to the reader that:

- 2 1. The rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property ought to be consistently, completely, clearly, and
- 3 unambiguously defined by every government officer you come in contact with, and ESPECIALLY in court. These
- 4 rules ought to be DEMANDED to be declared EVEN BEFORE you enter a plea in a criminal case.
- 5 2. If the government asserts any right over your PRIVATE property, they are PRESUMING they are the LEGAL owner
- 6 and relegating you to EQUITABLE ownership. This presumption should be forcefully challenged.
- 7 3. If they won't expressly define the rules, or try to cloud the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC
- 8 property, then they are:
  - 9 3.1. Defeating the very purpose for which they were established as a "government". Hence, they are not a true
  - 10 "government" but a de facto private corporation PRETENDING to be a "government", which is a CRIME under
  - 11 18 U.S.C. §912.
  - 12 3.2. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over private property without the consent of the owner and without
  - 13 compensation.
  - 14 3.3. Trying to STEAL from you.
  - 15 3.4. Violating their fiduciary duty to the public.

16 4.2.5 The Right to be left alone

17 The purpose of the Constitution of the United States of America is to confer the "right to be left alone", which is the essence
 18 of being sovereign:

19 "The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They
 20 recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a
 21 part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect
 22 Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the
 23 Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized
 24 men."
 25 [Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper,
 26 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

27 The legal definition of "justice" confirms that its purpose is to protect your right to be "left alone":

28 PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly's translation), chap. 9.

29 "Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the 30 lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue
 31 springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different
 32 spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual
 33 life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or
 34 the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise
 35 to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights,
 36 to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the 37 neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own
 38 life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and 39 permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right."
 40 [Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

41 The Bible also states the foundation of justice by saying:

42 "Do not strive with [or try to regulate or control or enslave] a man without cause, if he has done you no harm."
 43 [Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

44 And finally, Thomas Jefferson agreed with the above by defining "justice" as follows in his First Inaugural Address:

45 "With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing
 46 more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall 47 leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities.

[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

Therefore, the word “injustice” means interference with the equal rights of others absent their consent and which constitutes an injury NOT as any law defines it, but as the PERSON who is injured defines it. Under this conception of “justice”, anything done with your consent cannot be classified as “injustice” or an injury.

Those who are “private persons” fit in the category of people who must be left alone as a matter of law:

“There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”

Hale v. Henkel, [201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

Payroll Deduction Agreements

2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.

The U.S. Supreme Court has also held that the ability to regulate what it calls “private conduct” is repugnant to the constitution. It is the differentiation between PRIVATE rights and PUBLIC rights, in fact, that forms the basis for enforcing your right to be left alone:

*“The power to “legislate generally upon” life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the “power to provide modes of redress” against offensive state action, was “repugnant” to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress’ §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”*

City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, [521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

Only by taking on a “public character” or engaging in “public conduct” rather than a “private” character may our actions become the proper or lawful subject of federal or state legislation or regulation.

“One great object of the Constitution is to permit citizens to structure their private relations as they choose subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law. [500 U.S. 614, 620]

To implement these principles, courts must consider from time to time where the governmental sphere [e.g. “public purpose” and “public office”] ends and the private sphere begins. Although the conduct of private parties lies beyond the Constitution’s scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an activity to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government and, as a result, be subject to constitutional constraints. This is the jurisprudence of state action, which explores the “essential dichotomy” between the private sphere and the public sphere, with all its attendant constitutional obligations. Moose Lodge, supra, at 172. “

*Given that the statutory authorization for the challenges exercised in this case is clear, the remainder of our state action analysis centers around the second part of the Lugar test, whether a private litigant, in all fairness, must be deemed a government actor in the use of peremptory challenges. Although we have recognized that this aspect of the analysis is often a fact-bound inquiry, see Lugar, supra, 457 U.S. at 939, our cases disclose certain principles of general application. Our precedents establish that, in determining whether a particular action or course of conduct is governmental in character, it is relevant to examine the following: the extent to which the actor relies on governmental assistance and benefits, see Tulsa Professional Collection Services, Inc. v. Pope, 485 U.S. 478 (1988); Burton v. Wilmington Parking Authority, 365 U.S. 715 (1961); whether the actor is performing a traditional governmental function, see Terry v. Adams, 345 U.S. 461 (1953); Marsh v. Alabama, 326 U.S. 501 (1946); cf. San Francisco Arts & Athletics, Inc. v. United States Olympic [500 U.S. 614, 622] Committee, 483 U.S. 522, 544-545 (1987); and whether the injury caused is aggravated in a unique way by the incidents of governmental authority, see Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1 (1948). Based on our application of these three principles to the circumstances here, we hold that the exercise of peremptory challenges by the defendant in the District Court was pursuant to a course of state action. [Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Company, 500 U.S. 614 (1991)]

The phrase “subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law” refers ONLY to statutes or court decisions that pertain to licensed or privileged activities or franchises, all of which:

1. Cause the licensee or franchisee to represent a “public office” and work for the government.
2. Cause the licensee or franchisee to act in a representative capacity as an officer of the government, which is a federal corporation and therefore he or she becomes an “officer or employee of a corporation” acting in a representative capacity. See 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7434, which both define a “person” within the I.R.C. criminal and penalty provisions as an officer or employee of a corporation.
3. Change the effective domicile of the “office” or “public office” of the licensee or franchisee to federal territory pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39), and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).

IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

- (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
- (2) for a corporation for the officers or “public officers” of the corporation, by the law under which it was organized; and
- (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
  - (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and
  - (B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.

4. Create a “res” or “office” which is the subject of federal legislation and a “person” or “individual” within federal statutes. For instance, the definition of “individual” within 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2) reveals that it is a government employee with a domicile in the statutory “United States”, which is federal territory. Notice that the statute below is in Title 5, which is “Government Organization and Employees”, and that “citizens and residents of the United States” share in common a legal domicile on federal territory. An “individual” is an officer of the government, and not a natural man or woman. The office is the “individual”, and not the man or woman who fills it:

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(2) the term “individual” means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

If you don’t maintain a domicile on federal territory, which is called the “United States” in the U.S. Code, or you don’t work for the government by participating in its franchises, then the government has NO AUTHORITY to even keep records on you under the authority of the Privacy Act and you would be committing perjury under penalty of perjury to call yourself an “individual” on a government form. Why? Because you are the sovereign and the sovereign is not the subject of the law, but the author of the law!

“Since in common usage, the term person does not include the sovereign, statutes not employing the phrase are ordinarily construed to exclude it.”
[United States v. Cooper Corporation, 312 U.S. 600 (1941)]

1 “There is no such thing as a power of inherent Sovereignty in the government of the United States. In this country
 2 sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution
 3 entrusted to it: All else is withheld.”
 4 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

5 “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;”
 6 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

7 “Under our form of government, the legislature is NOT supreme. It is only one of the organs of that ABSOLUTE
 8 SOVEREIGNTY which resides in the whole body of the PEOPLE; like other bodies of the government, it can only 9 exercise such powers as have been delegated to it, and when it steps beyond that boundary, its acts.. are utterly 10 VOID.”
 11 [Billings v. Hall, 7 CA. 1]

12 “In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired
 13 by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon 14 compact. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people.”
 15 [The Betsy, 3 Dall 6]

16 In summary, the only way the government can control you through civil law is to connect you to public conduct or a “public
 17 office” within the government executed on federal territory. If they are asserting jurisdiction that you believe they don’t 18 have, it is probably because:

- 19 1. You misrepresented your domicile as being on federal territory within the “United States” or the “State of ___” by 20 declaring yourself to be either a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a statutory “resident” (alien)
 21 pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). This made you subject to their laws and put you into a privileged state.
- 22 2. You filled out a government application for a franchise, which includes government benefits, professional licenses, 23 driver’s licenses, marriage licenses, etc.
- 24 3. Someone else filed a document with the government which connected you to a franchise, even though you never 25 consented to participate in the franchise. For instance, IRS information returns such as W-2, 1042S, 1098, and 1099
 26 presumptively connect you to a “trade or business” in the U.S. government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041. A “trade or 27 business” is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. The only way to prevent this 28 evidence from creating a liability under the franchise agreement provisions is to rebut it promptly. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

29 4.2.6 The PUBLIC You (straw man) vs. the PRIVATE You (human)

30 It is extremely important to know the difference between PRIVATE and PUBLIC “persons”, because we all have private and 31 public identities. This division of our identities is recognized in the following maxim of law:

32 Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.
 33 When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate
 34 persons. 4 Co. 118.
 35 [Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;
 36 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

37 The U.S. Supreme Court also recognizes the division of PUBLIC v. PRIVATE:

38 “A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he 39 administer or execute them.”
 40 [United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

41 “All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
 42 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
 43 with [private] individuals.”
 44 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

 46 “...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual
 47 and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an
 48 examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.

“Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges.”
[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

The next time you are in court as a PRIVATE person, here are some questions for the next jury, judge, or government prosecutor trying to enforce a civil obligation upon you as a PRESUMED public officer called a “citizen”, “resident”, “person”, or “taxpayer”:

1. How do you, a PRIVATE human, “OBEY” a law without “EXECUTING” it? We’ll give you a hint: It CAN’T BE DONE!
2. What “public office” or franchise does the government claim to have “created” and therefore have the right to control in the context of my otherwise exclusively PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights under the Constitution?
3. Who is the “customer” in the context of the IRS: The STATUTORY “taxpayer” public office or the PRIVATE human filling the office?
4. Who gets to define what a “benefit” is in the context of “customers”? Isn’t it the human volunteering to be surety for the “taxpayer” office and not the government grantor of the public office franchise?
5. What if I as the human compelled to become surety for the office define that compulsion as an INJURY rather than a BENEFIT? Does that “end the privilege” and the jurisdiction to tax and regulate?
6. Does the national government claim the right to create franchises within a constitutional state in order to tax them? The Constitution says they CANNOT and that this is an “invasion” within the meaning of Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution:

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

7. Isn’t a judge compelling you to violate your religious beliefs by compelling you to serve in a public office or accept the DUTES of the office? Isn’t this a violation of the First Commandment NOT to serve “other gods”, which can and does mean civil rulers or governments?

1 But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, "Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods [Kings, in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore, heed their voice. However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign over them."

8 [1 Sam. 8:6-9, Bible, NKJV]

- 9 8. How can one UNILATERALLY ELECT themselves into public office by filling out a government form? The form 10 isn't even signed by anyone in the government, such as a tax form or social security application, and therefore couldn't
11 POSSIBLY be a valid contract anyway? Isn't this a FRAUD upon the United States and criminal bribery, using illegal
12 "withholdings" to bribe someone to TREAT you as a public officer? See 18 U.S.C. §211.
- 13 9. How can a judge enforce civil statutory law that only applies to public officers without requiring proof on the record
14 that you are CONSENSUALLY and LAWFULLY engaged in a public office? In other words, that you waived
15 sovereign immunity by entering into a contract with the government.

16 "It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to
17 the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would 18 unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one
19 man, by his own act [CONSENT], renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man,
20 who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction
21 in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the 22 United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a
23 source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial
24 authorities of the State and the general government. Anything which can prevent a Federal Officer from the 25 punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt,
26 as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the 27 constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases
28 cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction
29 of the King's Bench universal in all personal actions."

- 32 10. Isn't this involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment to serve in a public office if you DON'T 33 consent and they won't let you TALK about the ABSENCE of your consent?
- 34 11. Isn't it a violation of due process of law to PRESUME that you are public officer WITHOUT EVIDENCE on the 35 record from an unbiased witness who has no financial interest in the outcome?

36 *"A presumption is an assumption of fact that the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts
37 found or otherwise established in the action. A presumption is not evidence."*

47 "A presumption is neither evidence nor a substitute for evidence."<sup>83</sup>*

48 [American Jurisprudence 2d, Evidence, §181 (1999)]

- 49 12. If the judge won't enforce the requirement that the government as moving party has the burden of proving WITH 50 EVIDENCE that you were LAWFULLY "appointed or elected" to a public office, aren't you therefore PRESUMED to 51 be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and therefore beyond the reach of the civil statutory law?

Co., 155 Me 349, 155 A.2d. 721, 85 A.L.R.2d. 703 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Poitras v. R. E. Glidden Body Shop, Inc. (Me) 430 A.2d. 1113); Connizzo v. General American Life Ins. Co. (Mo App), 520 S.W.2d. 661.

13. Isn't the judge criminally obstructing justice to interfere with requiring evidence on the record that you lawfully occupy a public office? See 18 U.S.C. §1503, whereby the judge is criminally "influencing" the PUBLIC you.
14. Isn't an unsupported presumption that prejudices a PRIVATE right a violation of the Constitution and doesn't the rights that UNCONSTITUTIONAL presumption prejudicially conveys to the government constitute a taking of rights without just compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?
15. Don't the rights that UNCONSTITUTIONAL presumptions prejudicially convey to the government constitute a taking of rights without just compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?
16. By what authority does the judge impose federal civil law within a constitutional state of the Union because:
- 16.1. Constitutional states are legislatively but not constitutionally foreign jurisdiction.
- 16.2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) requires that those with a domicile outside of federal territory cannot be sued under federal law.
- 16.3. The Rules of Decision Act, 28 U.S.C. §1652 dictates that state rather than federal law applies.
- 16.4. National franchises and the PRIVATE law that implements them cannot be offered or enforced within constitutional states per License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866).
17. Even if we ARE lawfully serving in a public office, don't we have the right to:
- 17.1. Be off duty?
- 17.2. Choose WHEN we want to be off duty?
- 17.3. Choose WHAT financial transactions we want to connect to the office?
- 17.4. Be protected in NOT volunteering to connect a specific activity to the public office? Governments LIE by calling something "voluntary" and yet refusing to protect those who do NOT consent to "volunteer", don't they?
- 17.5. Not be coerced to sign up for OTHER, unrelated public offices when we sign up for a single office? For instance, do we have a right not become a FEDERAL officer when we sign up for a STATE "driver license" and "public office" that ALSO requires us to have a Social Security Number to get the license, and therefore to ALSO become a FEDERAL officer at the same time.
- If the answer to all the above is NO, then there ARE no PRIVATE rights or PRIVATE property and there IS no "government" because governments only protect PRIVATE rights and private property!

We'd love to hear a jury, judge, or prosecutor address this subject before they haul him away in a straight jacket to the nuthouse because of a completely irrational and maybe even criminal answer.

The next time you end up in front of a judge or government attorney enforcing a civil statute against you, you might want to insist on proof in the record during the process of challenging jurisdiction as a defendant or respondent:

1. WHICH of the two "persons" they are addressing or enforcing against.
2. How the two statuses, PUBLIC v. PRIVATE, became connected.
3. What specific act of EXPRESS consent connected the two. PRESUMPTION alone on the part of government can't. A presumption that the two became connected WITHOUT consent is an unconstitutional eminent domain in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause.

In a criminal trial, such a question would be called a "bill of particulars".

We can handle private and public affairs from the private, but we cannot handle private affairs from the public. The latter is one of the biggest mistakes many people make when trying to handle their commercial and lawful (private) or legal (public) affairs. Those who use PUBLIC property for PRIVATE gain in fact are STEALING and such stealing has always been a crime.

In law, all rights attach to LAND, and all privileges attach to one's STATUS under voluntary civil franchises. An example of privileged statuses include "taxpayer" (under the tax code), "person", "individual", "driver" (under the vehicle code), "spouse" (under the family code). Rights are PRIVATE, PRIVILEGES are PUBLIC.

In our society, the PRIVATE "straw man" was created by the application for the birth certificate. It is a legal person under contract law and under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.), with capacity to sue or be sued under the common law. It is PRIVATE PROPERTY of the human being described in the birth certificate.

The PUBLIC officer "straw man" (e.g. statutory "taxpayer") was created by the Application for the Social Security Card, SSA Form SS-5. It is a privileged STATUS under an unconstitutional national franchise of the de facto government. It is PROPERTY of the national government. The PUBLIC "straw man" is thoroughly described in:

Proof that There Is a "Straw Man", Form #05.042
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 The PRIVATE "John Doe" is a statutory "non-resident non-person" not engaged in the "trade or business"/PUBLIC
 2 OFFICER franchise in relation to the PUBLIC. He exists in the republic and is a free inhabitant under the Articles of 3 Confederation. He has inalienable rights and unlimited liabilities. Those unlimited liabilities are described in

The Unlimited Liability Universe
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/Articles/UnlimitedLiabilityUniverse.htm>

4 The PUBLIC "JOHN DOE" is a public office in the government corporation and statutory "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401,
 5 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c). He exists in the privileged socialist democracy. He has "benefits", franchises,
 6 obligations, immunities, and limited liability.

7 In the PRIVATE, money is an ASSET and always in the form of something that has intrinsic value, i.e. gold or silver. Payment
 8 for anything is in the form of commercial set off.

9 In the PUBLIC, money is a LIABILITY or debt and normally takes the form of a promissory note, i.e. an Federal Reserve
 10 Note (FRN), a check, bond or note. Payment is in the form of discharge in the future.

11 The PRIVATE realm is the basis for all contract and commerce under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.). The PUBLIC
 12 realm was created by the bankruptcy of the PRIVATE entity. Generally, creditors can operate from the PRIVATE. PUBLIC
 13 entities are all debtors (or slaves). The exercise of the right to contract by the PRIVATE straw man makes human beings into 14 SURETY for the PUBLIC straw man.

15 Your judicious exercise of your right to contract and the requirement for consent that protects it is the main thing that keeps
 16 the PUBLIC separate from the PRIVATE. See:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

17 Be careful how you use your right to contract! It is the most DANGEROUS right you have because it can destroy ALL
 18 of your PRIVATE rights by converting them to PUBLIC rights and offices.

19 "These general rules are well settled:

20 (1) That the United States, when it creates rights in individuals against itself [a "public right", which is a

37 All PUBLIC franchises are contracts or agreements and therefore participating in them is an act of contracting.

1                   "It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and
 2 that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present.<sup>84</sup> Conversely, a

 4 franchisee.<sup>85</sup> "
 5 [36 American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §6: As a Contract (1999)]

6 Franchises include Social Security, income taxation ("trade or business"/public office franchise), unemployment insurance,
 7 driver licensing ("driver" franchise), and marriage licensing ("spouse" franchise).

8                   "You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan
 9 government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by
 10 becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me
 11 [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a 12 snare to you."
 13 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

14 Governments become corrupt by:

- 15 1. Refusing to recognize the PRIVATE.
- 16 2. Undermining or interfering with the invocation of the common law in courts of justice.
- 17 3. Allowing false information returns to be abused to convert the PRIVATE into the PUBLIC without the consent of the 18 owner.
- 19 4. Destroying or undermining remedies for the protection of PRIVATE rights.
- 20 5. Replacing CONSTITUTIONAL courts with LEGISLATIVE FRANCHISE courts.
- 21 6. Making judges into statutory franchisees such as "taxpayers", through which they are compelled to have a conflict of 22 interest that ultimately destroys or undermines all private rights. This is a crime and a civil offense in violation of 18
 23 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455.
- 24 7. Offering or enforcing government franchises to people not domiciled on federal territory. This breaks down the 25 separation of powers and enforces franchise law extraterritorially.
- 26 8. Abusing "words of art" to blur or confuse the separation between the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE. (deception)
- 27 9. Removing the domicile prerequisite for participation in government franchises through policy rather than, thus 28 converting them into essentially PRIVATE business ventures that operate entirely through the right to contract.
- 29 10. Abusing sovereign immunity to protect PRIVATE government business ventures, thus destroying competition and 30 implementing a state-sponsored monopoly.
- 31 11. Refusing to criminally prosecute those who compel participation in government franchises.
- 32 12. Turning citizenship into a statutory franchise, and thus causing people who claim citizen status to unwittingly become 33 PUBLIC officers.
- 34 13. Allowing presumption to be used as a substitute for evidence in any proceeding to enforce government franchises
 35 against an otherwise PRIVATE party. This violates due process of law, unfairly advantages the government, and 36 imputes to the government supernatural powers as an object of religious worship.

37 Therefore, it is important to learn how to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and a CREDITOR in all of our affairs. Freedom is 38 possible in the PRIVATE; it is not even a valid fantasy in the realm of the PUBLIC.

4.2.7 All PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT law attaches to government territory, all PRIVATE law attaches to your right to contract

A very important consideration to understand is that:

1. All EXCLUSIVELY PUBLIC LAW attaches to the government’s own territory. By “PUBLIC”, we mean law that runs the government and ONLY the government.
2. All EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE law attaches to one of the following:
  - 2.1. The exercise of your right to contract with others.
  - 2.2. The property you own and lend out to others based on specific conditions.

Item 2.2 needs further attention. Here is how that mechanism works:

“How, then, are purely equitable obligations created? For the most part, either by the acts of third persons or by equity alone. But how can one person impose an obligation upon another? By giving property to the latter on the terms of his assuming an obligation in respect to it. At law there are only two means by which the object of the donor could be at all accomplished, consistently with the entire ownership of the property passing to the donee, namely: first, by imposing a real obligation upon the property; secondly, by subjecting the title of the donee to a condition subsequent. The first of these the law does not permit; the second is entirely inadequate. Equity, however, can secure most of the objects of the doner, and yet avoid the mischiefs of real obligations by imposing upon the donee (and upon all persons to whom the property shall afterwards come without value or with notice) a personal obligation with respect to the property; and accordingly this is what equity does. It is in this way that all trusts are created, and all equitable charges made (i.e., equitable hypothecations or liens created) by testators in their wills. In this way, also, most trusts are created by acts inter vivos, except in those cases in which the trustee incurs a legal as well as an equitable obligation. In short, as property is the subject of every equitable obligation, so the owner of property is the only person whose act or acts can be the means of creating an obligation in respect to that property. Moreover, the owner of property can create an obligation in respect to it in only two ways: first, by incurring the obligation himself, in which case he commonly also incurs a legal obligation; secondly, by imposing the obligation upon some third person; and this he does in the way just explained.”

Next, we must describe exactly what we mean by “territory”, and the three types of “territory” identified by the U.S. Supreme Court in relation to the term “United States”. Below is how the United States Supreme Court addressed the question of the meaning of the term “United States” (see Black’s Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that the term United States has three uses:

“The term ‘United States’ may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”
 [Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 \(1945\)]

We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.

Table 4-4: Meanings assigned to "United States" by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven & Allison v. Evatt

The way our present system functions, all PUBLIC rights are attached to federal territory. They cannot lawfully attach to EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property because the right to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights is repugnant to the constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lastly, when the government enters the realm of commerce and private business activity, it operates in equity and is treated as EQUAL in every respect to everyone else. ONLY in this capacity can it enact law that does NOT attach to its own territory and to those DOMICILED on its territory:

 3 by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing action"). The 4 dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz drew its 5 reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize the need
 6 to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party.
 7 [United States v. Winstar Corp., 518 U.S. 839 (1996)]

8 If a government wants to reach outside its territory and create PRIVATE law for those who have not consented to its 9 jurisdiction by choosing a domicile on its territory, the ONLY method it has for doing this is to exercise its right to contract.

10 Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

11 Locus contractus regit actum.

12 The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

13 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

15 The most important method by which governments exercise their PRIVATE right to contract and disassociate with the 16 territorial limitation upon their lawmaking powers is through the use or abuse of franchises, which are contracts.

17 *As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon
 18 valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit,<sup>86</sup> and thus a franchise
 19 partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is 20 subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be 21 granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in 22 exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But 23 when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental 24 control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.<sup>87</sup>

26 4.2.8 The Ability to Regulate Private Rights and Private Conduct is Repugnant to the Constitution

27 The following cite establishes that private rights and private property are entirely beyond the control of the government:

28 When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an
 29 individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the 30 preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with 31 each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common
 32 good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively
 33 private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring 34 each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is 35 *the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non* 36 laedas. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice Taney in the License
 37 Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty. . .
 38 . that is to say, . . . the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the government regulates the 39 conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use his own property, when such
 40 regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has been customary in England from time
 41 immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate ferries, common carriers, hackmen, bakers,
 42 millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a maximum of charge to be made for services
 43 rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day, statutes are to be found in many of the States
 44 upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been successfully contended that such legislation
 45 came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against interference with private property. With the Fifth
 46 Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power upon the city of Washington "to regulate . . . the rates
 47 of wharfage at private wharves, . . . the sweeping of chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, . . . and the 48 weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and, in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting 49 hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and 50 draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 9 id. 224, sect. 2.

1 Notice that they say that the ONLY basis to regulate private rights is to prevent injury of one man to another by the use of
 2 said property. They say that this authority is the origin of the "police powers" of the state. What they hide, however, is that
 3 these same POLICE POWERS involve the CRIMINAL laws and EXCLUDE the CIVIL laws or even franchises. You can
 4 TELL they are trying to hide something because around this subject they invoke the Latin language that is unknown to most
 5 Americans to conceal the nature of what they are doing. Whenever anyone invokes Latin in a legal setting, a red flag ought
 6 to go up because you KNOW they are trying to hide a KEY fact. Here is the Latin they invoked:

7 "sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas"

8 The other phrase to notice in the Munn case above is the use of the word "social compact". A compact is legally defined as 9 a contract.

10 "Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working
 11 agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties, which
 12 creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties, in their
 13 distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or right
 14 that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause;
 15 Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty."
 16 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

17 Therefore, one cannot exercise their First Amendment right to legally associate with or contract with a SOCIETY and thereby
 18 become a party to the "social compact/contract" without ALSO becoming a STATUTORY "citizen". By statutory citizen,
 19 we really mean a domiciliary of a SPECIFIC municipal jurisdiction, and not someone who was born or naturalized in that 20 place. Hence, by STATUTORY citizen we mean a person who:

- 21 1. Has voluntarily chosen a civil domicile within a specific municipal jurisdiction and thereby become a "citizen" or 22 "resident" of said jurisdiction. "citizens" or "residents" collectively are called "inhabitants".
- 23 2. Has indicated their choice of domicile on government forms in the block called "residence" or "permanent address".
- 24 3. CONSENTS to be protected by the regional civil laws of a SPECIFIC municipal government.

25 A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen, on the other hand, is someone who cannot consent to choose the place of their birth. These
 26 people in federal statutes are called "non-residents". Neither BEING BORN nor being PHYSICALLY PRESENT in a place
 27 is an express exercise of one's discretion or an act of CONSENT, and therefore cannot make one a government contractor
 28 called a statutory "U.S. citizen". That is why birth or naturalization determines nationality but not their status under the 29 CIVIL laws. All civil jurisdiction is based on "consent of the governed", as the Declaration of Independence indicates. Those 30 who do NOT consent to the civil laws that implement the social compact of the municipal government they are 31 PHYSICALLY situated within are called "free inhabitants", "nonresidents", "transient foreigners", or "foreign sovereigns".
 32 These "free inhabitants" are mentioned in the Articles of Confederation, which continue to this day and they are NOT the 33 same and mutually exclusive to a statutory "U.S. citizen". These "free inhabitants" instead are CIVILLY governed by the 34 common law RATHER than the civil law.

35 Policemen are NOT allowed to involve themselves in CIVIL disputes and may ONLY intervene or arrest anyone when a
 36 CRIME has been committed. They CANNOT arrest for an "infraction", which is a word designed to hide the fact that the 37 statute being enforced is a CIVIL or FRANCHISE statute not involving the CRIMINAL "police powers". Hence, civil 38 jurisdiction over PRIVATE rights is NOT authorized among those who HAVE such rights. Only those who know those 39 rights and claim and enforce them, not through attorneys but in their proper person, have such rights. Nor can those PRIVATE 40 rights lawfully be surrendered to a REAL, de jure government, even WITH consent, if they are, in fact UNALIENABLE as 41 the Declaration of Independence indicates.

42 "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
 43 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

44 The only people who can consent to give away a right are those who HAVE no rights because domiciled on federal territory
 45 not protected by the Constitution or the Bill of Rights:

46 "Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform
 47 to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or 48 conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every 49 state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the 50 definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."

 Downes v. Bidwell, [182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

To apply these concepts, the police enforce the "vehicle code", but most of the vehicle code is a civil franchise that they may NOT enforce without ABUSING the police powers of the state. In recognition of these concepts, the civil provisions of the vehicle code are called "infractions" rather than "crimes". AND, before the civil provisions of the vehicle code may lawfully be enforced against those using the public roadways, one must be a "resident" with a domicile not within the state, but on federal territory where rights don't exist. All civil law attaches to SPECIFIC territory. That is why by applying for a driver's license, most state vehicle codes require that the person must be a "resident" of the state, meaning a person with a domicile within the statutory but not Constitutional "United States", meaning federal territory.

So what the vehicle codes in most states do is mix CRIMINAL and CIVIL and even PRIVATE franchise law all into one title of code, call it the "Vehicle code", and make it extremely difficult for even the most law abiding "citizen" to distinguish which provisions are CIVIL/FRANCHISES and which are CRIMINAL, because they want to put the police force to an UNLAWFUL use enforcing CIVIL rather than CRIMINAL law. This has the practical effect of making the "CODE" not only a deception, but void for vagueness on its face, because it fails to give reasonable notice to the public at large, WHICH specific provisions pertain to EACH subset of the population. That in fact, is why they have to call it "the code", rather than simply "law": Because the truth is encrypted and hidden in order to unlawfully expand their otherwise extremely limited civil jurisdiction. The two subsets of the population who they want to confuse and mix together in order to undermine your sovereignty are:

1. Those who consent to the "social compact" by choosing a domicile or residence within a specific municipal jurisdiction. These people are identified by the following statutory terms:
  - 1.1. Individuals.
  - 1.2. Residents.
  - 1.3. Citizens.
  - 1.4. Inhabitants.
  - 1.5. PUBLIC officers serving as an instrumentality of the government.
2. Those who do NOT consent to the "social compact" and who therefore are called:
  - 2.1. Free inhabitants.
  - 2.2. Nonresidents.
  - 2.3. Transient foreigners.
  - 2.4. Sojourners.
  - 2.5. EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings beyond the reach of the civil statutes implementing the social compact.

So how can they reach those in constitutional states with the vehicle code who are neither domiciled on federal territory nor representing a public office that is domiciled there? The way they get around the problem of only being able to enforce the CIVIL provisions of the vehicle code against domiciliaries of the federal zone is to:

1. Force those who apply for driver licenses to misrepresent their status so they appear as either statutory citizens or public officers on official business. This is done using the "permanent address" block and requiring a Social Security Number to get a license.
2. Confuse CONSTITUTIONAL "citizens" with STATUTORY "citizens", to make them appear the same even though they are NOT.
3. Arrest people domiciled in constitutional states for driving WITHOUT a license, even though technically these provisions can only be enforceable against those who are acting as a public officer WHILE driving AND who are STATUTORY but not CONSTITUTIONAL "citizens". This creates the false appearance that EVERYONE must have a license, rather than only those domiciled on federal territory or representing an office domiciled there.

1 The act of "governing" WITHOUT consent therefore implies CRIMINAL governing, not CIVIL governing. To procure
 2 CIVIL jurisdiction over a private right requires the CONSENT of the owner of the right. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court
 3 states in Munn the following:

4 "When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an
 5 individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain."
 6 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),
 7 SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]

8 Therefore, if one DOES NOT consent to join a "society" as a statutory citizen, he RETAINS those SOVEREIGN rights that 9 would otherwise be lost through the enforcement of the civil law. Here is how the U.S. Supreme Court describes this 10 requirement of law:

11 "Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;'
 12 and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property for income] which a 13 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations:

14 [1] First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must 15 use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and 16 every other public "benefit"];

17 [2] second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and

18 [3] third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."
 19 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

20 A PRIVATE right that is unalienable cannot be given away by a citizen, even WITH consent, to a de jure government. Hence,
 21 the only people that any government may CIVILLY govern are those without unalienable rights, all of whom MUST therefore 22 be domiciled on federal territory where CONSTITUTIONAL rights do not exist.

23 Notice that when they are talking about "regulating" conduct using CIVIL law, all of a sudden they mention "citizens" instead
 24 of ALL PEOPLE. These "citizens" are those with a DOMICILE within federal territory not protected by the Constitution:

25 "Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner
 26 in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good."
 27 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),

29 All "citizens" that they can regulate therefore must be WITHIN the government and be acting as public officers. Otherwise,
 30 they would continue to be PRIVATE parties beyond the CIVIL control of any government. Hence, in a Republican Form of 31 Government where the People are sovereign:

- 32 1. The only "subjects" under the civil law are public officers in the government.
- 33 2. The government is counted as a STATUTORY "citizen" but not a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen". All 34 CONSTITUTIONAL citizens are human beings and CANNOT be artificial entities. All STATUTORY citizens, on the 35 other hand, are artificial entities and franchises and NOT CONSTITUTIONAL citizens.

36 "A corporation [the U.S. government, and all those who represent it as public officers, is a federal corporation

- 9 3. The only statutory "citizens" are public officers in the government.
 10 4. By serving in a public office, one becomes the same type of "citizen" as the GOVERNMENT is.

11 These observations are consistent with the very word roots that form the word "republic". The following video says the word
 12 origin comes from "res publica", which means a collection of PUBLIC rights shared by the public. You must therefore JOIN
 13 "the public" and become a public officer before you can partake of said PUBLIC right.

Overview of America, SEDM Liberty University, Section 2.3
<http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm>

14 This gives a WHOLE NEW MEANING to Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, in which he refers to American 15 government as:

16 "A government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

17 You gotta volunteer as an uncompensated public officer for the government to CIVILLY govern you. Hence, the only thing
 18 they can CIVILLY GOVERN, is the GOVERNMENT! Pretty sneaky, huh? Here is a whole memorandum of law on this 19 subject proving such a conclusion:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Form...StatLawGovt.pdf>

20 The other important point we wish to emphasize is that those who are EXCLUSIVELY private and therefore beyond the 21 reach of the civil law are:

- 22 1. Free inhabitants.
 23 2. Not a statutory "person" under the civil law or franchise statute in question.
 24 3. Not "individuals" under the CIVIL law if they are human beings. All statutory "individuals", in fact, are identified as 25 "employees" under 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). This is the ONLY statute that describes HOW one becomes a statutory 26 "individual" that we have been able to find.
 27 4. "foreign", a "transient foreigner", and sovereign in respect to government CIVIL but not CRIMINAL jurisdiction.
 28 5. NOT "subject to" but also not necessarily statutorily "exempt" under the civil or franchise statute in question.

29 For a VERY interesting background on the subject of this section, we recommend reading the following case:

30 4.2.9 "Political (PUBLIC) law" v. "civil (PRIVATE/COMMON) law"

31 Within our republican government, the founding fathers recognized three classes of law:

- 32 1. Criminal law. Protects both PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights.
 33 2. Civil law. Protects exclusively PRIVATE rights. In effect, it implements ONLY the common law and does not 34 regulate the government at all.
 35 3. Political law. Protects exclusively PUBLIC rights of public officers and offices within the government.

The above three types of law were identified in the following document upon which the founding fathers wrote the constitution and based the design of our republican form of government:

The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758
SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol.htm>

The Spirit of Laws book is where the founding fathers got the idea of separation of powers and three branches of government: Executive, Legislative, and Judicial. Montesquieu defines “political law” and “political liberty” as follows:

1. A general Idea.

I make a distinction between the laws that establish political liberty, as it relates to the constitution, and those by which it is established, as it relates to the citizen. The former shall be the subject of this book; the latter I shall examine in the next.

[The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XI, Section 1;
SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol\_11.htm#001]

The Constitution in turn is a POLITICAL document which represents law EXCLUSIVELY for public officers within the government. It does not obligate or abrogate any PRIVATE right. It defines what the courts call “public rights”, meaning rights possessed and owned exclusively by the government ONLY.

“And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law-the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand their import is not rationally possible. ‘We the People of the United States,’ it says, ‘do ordain and establish this Constitution.’ Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided explicitly-‘This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.’ (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat- [298 U.S. 238, 297] ute whenever the two conflict. In the discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great weight, Adkins v. Children’s Hospital, 261 U.S. 525, 544, 43 S.Ct. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the court’s opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry. Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 550 S., 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947. “* [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

The vast majority of laws passed by Congress are what Montesquieu calls “political law” that is intended exclusively for the government and not the private citizen. The authority for implementing such political law is Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. To wit:

*United States Constitution
Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2*

The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to Prejudice any Claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

Tax franchise codes such as the Internal Revenue Code, for instance, are what Montesquieu calls “political law” exclusively for the government or public officer and not the private (CONSTITUTIONAL) citizen. Why? Because:

1. The U.S. Supreme Court identified taxes as a “political matter”. “Political law”, “political questions”, and “political matters” cannot be heard by true constitutional courts and may ONLY be heard in legislative franchise courts officiated by the Executive and not Judicial branch:

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."

Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

2. The U.S. Tax Court:

- 2.1. Is an Article I Court in the EXECUTIVE and not JUDICIAL branch, and hence, can only officiate over matters INTERNAL to the government. See 26 U.S.C. §7441.
  - 2.2. Is a POLITICAL court in the POLITICAL branch of the government. Namely, the Executive branch.
  - 2.3. Is limited to the District of Columbia because all public offices are limited to serve there per 4 U.S.C. §72. It travels all over the country, but this is done ILLEGALLY and in violation of the separation of powers.
3. The activity subject to excise taxation is limited exclusively to "public offices" in the government, which is what a "trade or business" is statutorily defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(a\)\(26\)

"The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

In Book XXVI, Section 15 of the Spirit of Laws, Montesquieu says that POLITICAL laws should not be allowed to regulate CIVIL conduct, meaning that POLITICAL laws limited exclusively to the government should not be enforced upon the PRIVATE citizen or made to "appear" as though they are "civil law" that applies to everyone:

The Spirit of Laws, Book XXVI, Section 15

15. That we should not regulate by the Principles of political Law those Things which depend on the Principles of civil Law.

As men have given up their natural independence to live under political laws, they have given up the natural community of goods to live under civil laws.

By the first, they acquired [PUBLIC] liberty; by the second, [PRIVATE] property. We should not decide by the laws of [PUBLIC] liberty, which, as we have already said, is only the government of the community, what ought to be decided by the laws concerning [PRIVATE] property. It is a paralogism to say that the good of the individual should give way to that of the public; this can never take place, except when the government of the community, or, in other words, the liberty of the subject is concerned; this does not affect such cases as relate to private property, because the public good consists in every one's having his property, which was given him by the civil laws, invariably preserved.

Cicero maintains that the Agrarian laws were unjust; because the community was established with no other view than that every one might be able to preserve his property.

Let us, therefore, lay down a certain maxim, that whenever the public good happens to be the matter in question, it is not for the advantage of the public to deprive an individual of his property, or even to retrench the least part of it by a law, or a political regulation. In this case we should follow the rigour of the civil law, which is the Palladium of [PRIVATE] property.

Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of political law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every individual as the whole community.

If the political magistrate would erect a public edifice, or make a new road, he must indemnify those who are injured by it; the public is in this respect like an individual who treats with an individual. It is fully enough that it can oblige a citizen to sell his inheritance, and that it can strip him of this great privilege which he holds from the civil law, the not being forced to alienate his possessions.

After the nations which subverted the Roman empire had abused their very conquests, the spirit of liberty called them back to that of equity. They exercised the most barbarous laws with moderation: and if any one should doubt the truth of this, he need only read Beaumanoir's admirable work on jurisprudence, written in the twelfth century.

They mended the highways in his time as we do at present. He says, that when a highway could not be repaired, they made a new one as near the old as possible; but indemnified the proprietors at the expense of those who reaped any advantage from the road.<sup>43</sup> They determined at that time by the civil law; in our days, we determine by the law of politics.

[The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XXVI, Section 15;
SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol\_11.htm#001]

What Montesquieu is implying is what we have been saying all along, and he said it in 1758, which was even before the Declaration of Independence was written:

1. The purpose of establishing government is exclusively to protect PRIVATE rights.
2. PRIVATE rights are protected by the CIVIL law. The civil law, in turn is based in EQUITY rather than PRIVILEGE:

“Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of political law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every individual as the whole community.”

3. PUBLIC or government rights are protected by the PUBLIC or POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law and NOT the CIVIL law.
4. The first and most important role of government is to prevent the POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law from being used or especially ABUSED as an excuse to confiscate or jeopardize PRIVATE property.

Unfortunately, it is precisely the above type of corruption that Montesquieu describes that is the foundation of the present de facto government, tax system, and money system. ALL of them treat every human being as a PUBLIC officer against their consent, and impose what he calls the “rigors of the political law” upon them, in what amounts to a THEFT and CONFISCATION of otherwise PRIVATE property by enforcing PUBLIC law against PRIVATE people.

The implications of Montesquieu’s position are that the only areas where POLITICAL law and CIVIL law should therefore overlap is in the exercise of the political rights to vote and serve on jury duty. Why? Because jurists are regarded as public officers in 18 U.S.C. §201(a)(1):

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 11 > § 201
§ 201. Bribery of public officials and witnesses

(a) For the purpose of this section—

(1) the term “public official” means Member of Congress, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, either before or after such official has qualified, or an officer or employee or person acting for or on behalf of the United States, or any department, agency or branch of Government thereof, including the District of Columbia, in any official function, under or by authority of any such department, agency, or branch of Government, or a juror;

However, it has also repeatedly been held by the courts that poll taxes are unconstitutional. Hence, voters technically are NOT to be regarded as public officers or franchisees for any purpose OTHER than their role as a voter. Recall that all statutory “Taxpayers” are public officers in the government.

In the days since Montesquieu, the purpose and definition of what he has called the CIVIL law has since been purposefully and maliciously corrupted so that it no longer protects exclusively PRIVATE rights or implements the COMMON law, but rather protects mainly PUBLIC rights and POLITICAL officers in the government. In other words, society has become corrupted by the following means that he warned would happen:

1. What Montesquieu calls CIVIL law has become the POLITICAL law.
2. There is not CIVIL (common) law anymore as he defines it, because the courts interfere with the enforcement of the common law and the protection of PRIVATE rights.
3. The purpose of government has transformed from protecting mainly PRIVATE rights using the common law to that of protecting PUBLIC rights using the STATUTE law, which in turn has become exclusively POLITICAL law.
4. All those who insist on remaining exclusively private cannot utilize any government service, because the present government forms refuse to recognize such a status or provide services to those with such status.
5. Everyone who wants to call themselves a “citizen” is no longer PRIVATE, but PUBLIC. “citizen” has become a public officer in the government rather than a private human being.
6. All “citizens” are STATUTORY rather than CONSTITUTIONAL in nature.
  - 6.1. There are no longer any CONSTITUTIONAL citizens because the courts refuse to recognize or protect them.
  - 6.2. People are forced to accept the duties of a statutory “citizen” and public officer to get any remedy at all in court or in any government agency.

The above transformations are documented in the following memorandum of law on our site:

4.2.10 Lawful methods for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property

Next, we must carefully consider all the rules by which EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property is lawfully converted into PUBLIC property subject to government control or civil regulation. These rules are important, because the status of a particular type of property as either PRIVATE or PUBLIC determines whether either COMMON LAW or STATUTORY LAW apply respectively.

In general, only by either accepting physical property from the government or voluntarily applying for and claiming a status or right under a government franchise can one procure a PUBLIC status and be subject to STATUTORY civil law. If one wishes to be governed ONLY by the common law, then they must make their status very clear in every interaction with the government and on EVERY government form they fill out so as to avoid connecting them to any statutory franchise. Below is an example from a U.S. Department of Justice guide for prosecuting “sovereign citizens” that proves WHY this is the case:

“What evidence refutes a good faith defense will depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. It is often helpful to focus on evidence that shows the defendant knew the law but disregarded it or was simply defying it. For instance, evidence that the defendant received proper advice from a CPA or tax preparer, or that the defendant failed to consult legitimate sources about his or her understanding of the tax laws can be helpful. To refute claims that wages are not income, that the defendant did not understand the meaning of “wages,” or that the defendant is a state citizen but not a citizen of the United States, look for loan applications during the prosecution period. Tax defiers and sovereign citizens never seem to have a problem understanding the definition of income on a loan application. They also do not hesitate to check the “yes” box to the question “are you a U.S. citizen.” Any evidence that the defendant accepted Government benefits, such as unemployment, Medicare, social security, or the Alaska Permanent Fund Dividend will also be helpful to refute the defendant’s claims that he or she is not a citizen subject to federal laws.”

The bottom line is that if you accept a government benefit, they PRESUME the right to rape and pillage absolutely ANYTHING you own. The Path to Freedom, Form #09.015 process, by the way, makes the use of the above OFFENSE by the government in prosecuting you IMPOSSIBLE. The exhaustive list of attachment forms we provide which define the terms on all government forms they could use as evidence to prove the above also defeat the above tactic by U.S. Attorneys. Also keep in mind that the above tactic is useful against the GOVERNMENT as an offensive weapon. If your property is private, you can loan it to THEM with FRANCHISE conditions found in Form #06.027. If they argue that you can’t do it to them, indirectly they are destroying the main source of THEIR jurisdiction as well. Let them shoot themselves in the foot in front of the jury!

Below is a detailed list of the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property:

1. The purpose for establishing governments is mainly to protect private property. The Declaration of Independence affirms this:

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,

”
[Declaration of Independence, 1776]

2. Government protects private rights by keeping “public [government] property” and “private property” separate and never allowing them to be joined together. This is the heart of the separation of powers doctrine: separation of what is private from what is public with the goal of protecting mainly what is private. See:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. All property BEGINS as private property. The only way to lawfully change it to public property is through the exercise of your unalienable constitutional right to contract. All franchises qualify as a type of contract, and therefore, franchises are one of many methods to lawfully convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property. The exercise of the right to contract, in turn, is an act of consent that eliminates any possibility of a legal remedy of the donor against the donee:

He who consents cannot receive an injury. 2 Bouv. Inst. n. 2279, 2327; 4 T. R. 657; Shelf. on mar. & Div. 449.

Melius est omnia mala pati quam malo consentire.

It is better to suffer every wrong or ill, than to consent to it. 3 Co. Inst. 23.

Nemo videtur fraudare eos qui sciunt, et consentiunt.

One cannot complain of having been deceived when he knew the fact and gave his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 145.”

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;

4. In law, all rights are “property”.

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen’s relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

By protecting your constitutional rights, the government is protecting your PRIVATE property. Your rights are private property because they came from God, not from the government. Only what the government creates can become public property. An example is corporations, which are a public franchise that makes officers of the corporation into public officers.

5. The process of taxation is the process of converting “private property” into a “public use” and a “public purpose”. Below are definitions of these terms for your enlightenment.

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, “public use” is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a “public advantage” or “public benefit” accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but

1 must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which
 2 cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A "public use" for which land may be
 3 taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences,
 4 changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by
 5 an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn.
 6 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

7 See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.
 8 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1232]

 10 "Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., this is a term of classification to distinguish the 11 objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage,
 12 are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax,
 13 police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or 14 welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for 15 instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. "Public purpose" that will justify expenditure of public
 16 money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time
 17 is directly related function of government. Pack v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 503, 387 S.W.2d.
 18 789, 794 .

19 The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be 20 levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow;
 21 the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not
 22 merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public
 23 health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents
 24 within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote 25 such public purpose or public business."
 26 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1231, Emphasis added]

- 27 6. The federal government has no power of eminent domain within states of the Union. This means that they cannot 28 lawfully convert private property to a public use or a public purpose within the exclusive jurisdiction of states of the 29 Union:

30 "The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent
 31 domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the court
 32 denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers by treaty 33 or compact."
 34 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]

- 35 7. The Fifth Amendment prohibits converting private property to a public use or a public purpose without just compensation
 36 if the owner does not consent, and this prohibition applies to the Federal government as well as states of the Union. It
 37 was made applicable to states of the Union by the Fourteenth Amendment in 1868.

38 Fifth Amendment - Rights of Persons

39 No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or 40 indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual 41 service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in 42 jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be
 43 deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public
 44 use, without just compensation.
 45 [United States Constitution, Fifth Amendment]

46 If the conversion of private property to public property is done without the express consent of the party affected by the 47 conversion and without compensation, then the following violations have occurred:

- 48 7.1. Violation of the Fifth Amendment "takings clause" above.
 49 7.2. "Conversion" in violation of 18 U.S.C. §654.
 50 7.3. Theft.

- 51 8. Because taxation involves converting private property to a public use, public purpose, and public office, then it involves 52 eminent domain if the owner of the property did not expressly consent to the taking:

Eminent domain. The power to take private property for public use by the state, municipalities, and private persons or corporations authorized to exercise functions of public character. Housing Authority of Cherokee National of Oklahoma v. Langley, Okl., 555 P.2d. 1025, 1028. Fifth Amendment, U.S. Constitution.

*In the United States, the power of eminent domain is founded in both the federal (Fifth Amend.) and state constitutions. However, the Constitution limits the power to taking for a public purpose and prohibits the exercise of the power of eminent domain without just compensation to the owners of the property which is taken. The process of exercising the power of eminent domain is commonly referred to as "condemnation", or, "expropriation".

The right of eminent domain is the right of the state, through its regular organization, to reassert, either temporarily or permanently, its dominion over any portion of the soil of the state on account of public exigency and for the public good. Thus, in time of war or insurrection, the proper authorities may possess and hold any part of the territory of the state for the common safety; and in time of peace the legislature may authorize the appropriation of the same to public purposes, such as the opening of roads, construction of defenses, or providing channels for trade or travel. Eminent domain is the highest and most exact idea of property remaining in the government, or in the aggregate body of the people in their sovereign capacity. It gives a right to resume the possession of the property in the manner directed by the constitution and the laws of the state, whenever the public interest requires it.

See also Adequate compensation; Condemnation; Constructive taking; Damages; Expropriation; Fair market value; Just compensation; Larger parcel; Public use; Take. [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 470]

9. The Fifth Amendment requires that any taking of private property without the consent of the owner must involve compensation. The Constitution must be consistent with itself. The taxation clauses found in Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 cannot conflict with the Fifth Amendment. The Fifth Amendment contains no exception to the requirement for just compensation upon conversion of private property to a public use, even in the case of taxation. This is why all taxes must be indirect excise taxes against people who provide their consent by applying for a license to engage in the taxed activity: The application for the license constitutes constructive consent to donate the fruits of the activity to a public use, public purpose, and public office.
10. There is only ONE condition in which the conversion of private property to public property does NOT require compensation, which is when the owner donates the private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office. To wit:

"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property for income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

The above rules are summarized below:

Table 4-5: Rules for converting private property to a public use or a public office

| 1 | The owner of property justly acquired enjoys full and exclusive use and control over the property. This right includes the right to exclude government uses or ownership of said property.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Yes                                               |
| 2 | He may not use the property to injure the equal rights of his neighbor. For instance, when you murder someone, the government can take your liberty and labor from you by putting you in jail or your life from you by instituting the death penalty against you. Both your life and your labor are “property”. Therefore, the basis for the “taking” was violation of the equal rights of a fellow sovereign “neighbor”. | No                                                |
| 3 | He cannot be compelled or required to use it to “benefit” his neighbor. That means he cannot be compelled to donate the property to any franchise that would “benefit” his neighbor such as Social Security, Medicare, etc.                                                                                                                                                                                               | Yes                                               |
| 4 | If he donates it to a public use, he gives the public the right to control that use.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Yes                                               |
| 5 | Whenever the public needs require, the public may take it without his consent upon payment of due compensation. E.g. “eminent domain”.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | No                                                |

11. The following two methods are the ONLY methods involving consent of the owner that may be LAWFULLY employed to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property. Anything else is unlawful and THEFT:

11.1. DIRECT CONVERSION: Owner donates the property by conveying title or possession to the government.<sup>88</sup>

11.2. INDIRECT CONVERSION: Owner assumes a PUBLIC status as a PUBLIC officer in the HOLDING of title to the property.<sup>89</sup> All such statuses and the rights that attach to it are creations and property of the government, the use of which is a privilege. The status and all PUBLIC RIGHTS that attach to it conveys a “benefit” for which the status user must pay an excise tax. The tax acts as a rental or use fee for the status, which is government property.

12. You and ONLY you can authorize your private property to be donated to a public use, public purpose, and public office. No third party can lawfully convert or donate your private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office without your knowledge and express consent. If they do, they are guilty of theft and conversion, and especially if they are acting in a quasi-governmental capacity as a “withholding agent” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16).

12.1. A withholding agent cannot file an information return connecting your earnings to a “trade or business” without you actually occupying a “public office” in the government BEFORE you filled out any tax form.

12.2. A withholding agent cannot file IRS Form W-2 against your earnings if you didn’t sign an IRS Form W-4 contract and thereby consent to donate your private property to a public office in the U.S. government and therefore a “public use”.

12.3. That donation process is accomplished by your own voluntary self-assessment and ONLY by that method. Before such a self-assessment, you are a “nontaxpayer” and a private person. After the assessment, you become a “taxpayer” and a public officer in the government engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.

12.4. In order to have an income tax liability, you must complete, sign, and “file” an income tax return and thereby assess yourself:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not distraint.”
[Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

By assessing yourself, you implicitly give your consent to allow the public the right to control that use of the formerly PRIVATE property donated to a public use.

<sup>88</sup> An example of direct conversion would be the process of “registering” a vehicle with the Department of Motor Vehicles in your state. The act of registration constitutes consent by original ABSOLUTE owner to change the ownership of the property from ABSOLUTE to QUALIFIED and to convey legal title to the state and qualified title to himself.

1 A THEFT of property has occurred on behalf of the government if it attempts to do any of the following:

- 2 1. Circumvents any of the above rules.
- 3 2. Blurs, confuses, or obfuscates the distinction between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property.
- 4 3. Refuses to identify EXACTLY which of the mechanisms identified in item 10 above was employed in EACH specific
- 5 case where it:
- 6 3.1. Asserts a right to regulate the use of private property.
- 7 3.2. Asserts a right to convert the character of property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC.
- 8 3.3. Asserts a right to TAX what you THOUGHT was PRIVATE property.

9 The next time someone from the government asserts a tax obligation, you might want to ask them the following very insightful
10 questions based on the content of this section:

- 11 1. Please describe at EXACTLY what point in the taxation process my earnings were LAWFULLY converted from 12 EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE to PUBLIC and thereby became SUBJECT to civil statutory law and government
13 jurisdiction. Check one or more. If none are checked, it shall CONCLUSIVELY be PRESUMED that no tax is owed:
- 14 1.1.  There is no private property. EVERYTHING belongs to us and we just "RENT" it to you through taxes.
15 Hence, we are NOT a "government" because there is not private property to protect. Everything is PUBLIC 16 property by default.
- 17 1.2.  When I was born?
- 18 1.3.  When I became a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen?
- 19 1.4.  When I changed my domicile to a CONSTITUTIONAL and not STATUTORY "State".
- 20 1.5.  When I indicated "U.S. citizen" or "U.S. resident" on a government form, and the agent accepting it
21 FALSELY PRESUMED that meant I was a STATUTORY "national and citizen of the United States" per 8
22 U.S.C. §1401 rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen of the United States".
- 23 1.6.  When I disclosed and used a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number to my otherwise 24 PRIVATE employer?
- 25 1.7.  When I submitted my withholding documents, such as IRS Forms W-4 or W-8?
- 26 1.8.  When the information return was filed against my otherwise PRIVATE earnings that connected my 27 otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 28 1.9.  When I FAILED to rebut the false information return connecting my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a 29 PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 30 1.10.  When I filed a "taxpayer" form, such as IRS Forms 1040 or 1040NR?
- 31 1.11.  When the IRS or state did an assessment under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §6020(b).
- 32 1.12.  When I failed to rebut a collection notice from the IRS?
- 33 1.13.  When the IRS levied monies from my EXCLUSIVELY private account, which must be held by a PUBLIC 34 OFFICER per 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) before it can lawfully be levied?
- 35 1.14.  When the government decided they wanted to STEAL my money and simply TOOK it, and were protected 36 from the THEFT by a complicit Department of Justice, who split the proceeds with them?
- 37 1.15.  When I demonstrated legal ignorance of the law to the government sufficient to overlook or not recognize 38 that it is impossible to convert PRIVATE to PUBLIC without my consent, as the Declaration of Independence 39 requires.
- 40 2. How can the conversion from PRIVATE to PUBLIC occur without my consent and without violating the Fifth 41 Amendment Takings Clause?
- 42 3. If you won't answer the previous questions, how the HELL am I supposed to receive constitutionally mandated 43 "reasonable notice" of the following:
- 44 3.1. EXACTLY what property I exclusively own and therefore what property is NOT subject to government taxation 45 or regulation?
- 46 3.2. EXACTLY what conduct is expected of me by the law?
- 47 4. EXACTLY where in your publications is the first question answered and why should I believe it if even you refuse to 48 take responsibility for the accuracy of said publications?
- 49 5. EXACTLY where in the statutes and regulations is the first question answered?
- 50 6. How can you refuse to answer the above questions if your own mission statement says you are required to help people 51 obey the law and comply with the law?

52 4.2.11 Unlawful methods abused by government to convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property

1 There are a LOT more ways to UNLAWFULLY convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property than there are ways to do
 2 it lawfully. This section will address the most prevalent methods abused by state actors so that you will immediately recognize
 3 them when you are victimized by them. For the purposes of this section CONTROL and OWNERSHIP are synonymous.
 4 Hence, if the TITLE of the property remains in your name but there is any aspect of control over the USE of said property
 5 that does not demonstrably injure others, then the property ceases to be absolutely owned and therefore is owned by the
 6 government.

7 Based on the previous section, there is ONLY one condition in which PRIVATE property can be converted to PUBLIC
 8 property without the consent of the owner, which is when it is used to INJURE the rights of others. Any other type of 9 conversion is THEFT. The U.S. Supreme Court describes that process of illegally CONVERTING property from PRIVATE
 10 to PUBLIC as follows. Notice that they only reference the “citizen” as being the object of regulation, which implies that 11 those who are “nonresidents” and “transient foreigners” are beyond the control of those governments in whose territory they 12 have not chosen a civil domicile:

13 “The doctrine that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non
 14 lædas — is the rule by which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation
 15 essential to secure this common and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases
 16 where property may be destroyed to arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the 17 pressure of an immediate and overwhelming necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over
 18 the property of the citizen [NOT EVERYONE, but only those consent to become citizens by choosing a 19 domicile] does not extend beyond such limits.”
 20 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

21 Below is a list of the more prevalent means abused by corrupt and covetous governments to illegally convert PRIVATE
 22 property to PUBLIC PROPERTY without the express consent of the owner. Many of these techniques are unrecognizable
 23 to the average American and therefore surreptitious, which is why they continue to be abused so regularly and chronically by 24 public dis-servants:

- 25 1. Deceptively label statutory PRIVILEGES as RIGHTS.
- 26 2. Confuse STATUTORY citizenship with CONSTITUTIONAL citizenship.
- 27 3. Refuse to admit that the court you are litigating in is a FRANCHISE court that has no jurisdiction over non-franchisees 28 or people who do not consent to the franchise.
- 29 4. Abuse the words “includes” and “including” to add anything they want to the definition of “person” or “individual”
 30 within the franchise. All such “persons” are public officers and not private human beings. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 31 5. Refuse to impose the burden of proof upon the government to show that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to convert 32 PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property BEFORE they can claim jurisdiction over it.
- 33 6. Silently PRESUME that the property in question is PUBLIC property connected with the “trade or business” (public 34 office per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) franchise and force you to prove that it ISN’T by CHALLENGING false
 35 information returns filed against it, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1098, 1099, and K-1. See:

Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 36 7. Presume that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical words are the same. They are 37 NOT, and in fact are mutually exclusive.
- 38 8. Presume that because you submitted an application for a franchise, that you:
 39 8.1. CONSENTED to the franchise and were not under duress.
 40 8.2. Were requesting a “benefit” and therefore agreed to the obligations associated with the “benefit”.

41 CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
 42 DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
 43 PART 2. CONTRACTS
 44 CHAPTER 3. CONSENT
 45 Section 1589

46
 47 1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations
 48 arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

- 49 8.3. Agree to accept the obligations associated with the status described on the application, such as “taxpayer”, 50 “driver”, “spouse”.

If you want to prevent the above, reserve all your rights on the application, indicate duress, and define all terms on the form as NOT connected with any government or statutory law.

9. PRESUME that the OWNER has a civil statutory status that he or she did not consent to, such as:
  - 9.1. "spouse" under the family code of your state, which is a franchise.
  - 9.2. "driver" under the vehicle code of your state, which is a franchise.
  - 9.3. "taxpayer" under the tax code of your state, which is a franchise.
10. PRESUME in the case of physical PROPERTY that it was situated on federal territory to which the general and exclusive jurisdiction of the national government applies, even though it is not. This is primarily done by playing word games with geographical "words of art" such as "State" and "United States".
11. Refuse to satisfy the burden of proving that the owner of the property expressly consented in a manner that he/she prescribed to change the status of either himself or the property over which they claim a public interest.
12. Judges will interfere with attempts to introduce evidence in the proceeding that challenges any of the above presumptions.
13. Unlawfully compel the use of Social Security Numbers or Taxpayer Identification Numbers in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8) in connection with specific property as a precondition of rendering a usually essential service. It will be illegally compelled because:
  - 13.1. The party against whom it was compelled was not a statutory "Taxpayer" or "person" or "individual" or to whom a duty to furnish said number lawfully applies.
  - 13.2. The property was not located on territory subject to the territorial jurisdiction of that national government.
14. Use one franchise as a way to recruit franchisees under OTHER franchises that are completely unrelated. For instance, they will enact a vehicle code statute that allows for confiscation of REGISTERED vehicles only that are being operated by UNLICENSED drivers. That way, everyone who wants to protect their vehicle also indirectly has to ALSO become a statutory "driver" using the public road ways for commercial activity and thus subject to regulation by the state, even though they in fact ARE NOT intending to do so.
15. Issue a license and then refuse to recognize the authority and ability in court of those possessing said license to act in an EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE capacity. For instance:
  - 15.1. They may have a contractor's license but they are NOT allowed to operate as OTHER than a licensed contractor...OR are NOT allowed to operate in an exclusively PRIVATE capacity.
  - 15.2. They may have a vehicle registration but are NOT allowed to remove it or NOT use it during times when they are NOT using the public roadways for hire, which is most of the time. In other words, the vehicle is the equivalent to "off duty" at some times. They allow police officers, who are PUBLIC officers, to be off duty, but not anyone who DOESN'T work for the government.
16. Issue or demand GOVERNMENT ID and then presume that the applicant is a statutory "resident" for ALL purposes, rather than JUST the specific reason the ID was issued. Since a "resident" is a public officer, in effect they are PRESUMING that you are a public officer 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and that you HAVE to assume this capacity without pay or "benefit" and without the ability to quit. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002, Section 13.6
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

What all of the above government abuses have in common is that they do one or more of the following:

1. Involve PRESUMPTIONS which violate due process of law and are therefore UNCONSTITUTIONAL. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. Refuse to RECOGNIZE the existence of PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights.
3. Violate the very purpose of establishing government to begin with, which is to PROTECT PRIVATE property by LEAVING IT ALONE and not regulating or benefitting from its use or abuse until AFTER it has been used to injure the equal rights of anyone OTHER than the original owner.
4. Violate the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.
5. Needlessly interfere with the ownership or control of otherwise PRIVATE property.
6. Often act upon property BEFORE it is used to institute an injury, instead of AFTER. Whenever the law acts to PREVENT future harm rather than CORRECT past harm, it requires the consent of the owner. The common law itself only provides remedies for PAST harm and cannot act on future conduct, except in the case of injunctions where PAST harm is already demonstrated.
7. Institute involuntary servitude against the owner in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.
8. Represent an eminent domain over PRIVATE property in violation of the state constitution in most states.
9. Violate the takings clauses of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

10. Violate the maxim of law that the government has a duty to protect your right to NOT receive a “benefit” and NOT pay for “benefits” that you don’t want or don’t need.

It ought to be obvious to the reader that the basis for Socialism is public ownership of ALL property.

“socialism n (1839) 1: any of various economic and political theories advocating collective or governmental ownership and administration of the means of production and distribution of goods 2 a: a system of society or group living in which there is no private property b: a system or condition of society in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the state 3: a stage of society in Marxist theory transitional between capitalism and communism and distinguished by unequal distribution of goods and pay according to work done.” [Webster’s Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 1118]

Any system of law that recognizes no absolute and inviolable constitutional boundary between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property, or which regards ALL property as being subject to government taxation and/or regulation is a socialist or collectivist system. That socialist system is exhaustively described in the following:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016

Below is how the U.S. Supreme Court characterizes efforts to violate the rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property listed above and thereby STEAL PRIVATE property. The text below the following line up to the end of the section comes from the case indicated:

Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)

The question presented, therefore, is one of the greatest importance, — whether it is within the competency of a State to fix the compensation which an individual may receive for the use of his own property in his private business, and for his services in connection with it.

139*139 The validity of the legislation was, among other grounds, assailed in the State court as being in conflict with that provision of the State Constitution which declares that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, and with that provision of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution which imposes a similar restriction upon the action of the State. The State court held, in substance, that the constitutional provision was not violated so long as the owner was not deprived of the title and possession of his property; and that it did not deny to the legislature the power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the use and enjoyment of the property, referring, in support of the position, to instances of its action in prescribing the interest on money, in establishing and regulating public ferries and public mills, and fixing the compensation in the shape of tolls, and in delegating power to municipal bodies to regulate the charges of hackmen and draymen, and the weight and price of bread. In this court the legislation was also assailed on the same ground, our jurisdiction arising upon the clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, ordaining that no State shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. But it would seem from its opinion that the court holds that property loses something of its private character when employed in such a way as to be generally useful. The doctrine declared is that property "becomes clothed with a public interest when used in a manner to make it of public consequence, and affect the community at large;" and from such clothing the right of the legislature is deduced to control the use of the property, and to determine the compensation which the owner may receive for it. When Sir Matthew Hale, and the sages of the law in his day, spoke of property as affected by a public interest, and ceasing from that cause to be juris privati solely, that is,

1 ceasing to be held merely in private right, they referred to property dedicated by the owner to public uses, or to
2 property the use of which was granted by the government, or in connection with which special privileges were
3 conferred. Unless the property was thus dedicated, or some right bestowed by the government was held with the
4 property, either by specific grant or by prescription of so long a time as 140*140 to imply a grant originally, the
5 property was not affected by any public interest so as to be taken out of the category of property held in private right.

6 But it is not in any such sense that the terms "clothing property with a public interest" are used in this case. From the nature
7 of the business under consideration — the storage of grain — which, in any sense in which the words can be used, is a private
8 business, in which the public are interested only as they are interested in the storage of other products of the soil, or in articles
9 of manufacture, it is clear that the court intended to declare that, whenever one devotes his property to a business which is
10 useful to the public, — "affects the community at large," — the legislature can regulate the compensation which the owner
11 may receive for its use, and for his own services in connection with it. "When, therefore," says the court, "one devotes his 12 property to a use in which the public has an interest, he, in effect, grants to the public an interest in that use, and must submit
13 to be controlled by the public for the common good, to the extent of the interest he has thus created. He may withdraw his 14 grant by discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The building used by the 15 defendants was for the storage of grain: in such storage, says the court, the public has an interest; therefore the defendants,
16 by devoting the building to that storage, have granted the public an interest in that use, and must submit to have their 17 compensation regulated by the legislature.

18 If this be sound law, if there be no protection, either in the principles upon which our republican government is 19 founded, or in the prohibitions of the Constitution against such invasion of private rights, all property and all business
20 in the State are held at the mercy of a majority of its legislature. The public has no greater interest in the use of buildings
21 for the storage of grain than it has in the use of buildings for the residences of families, nor, indeed, anything like so great an
22 interest; and, according to the doctrine announced, the legislature may fix the rent of all tenements used for residences, without
23 reference to the cost of their erection. If the owner does not like the rates prescribed, he may cease renting his houses. He has 24 granted to the public, says the court, an interest in the use of the 141*141 buildings, and "he may withdraw his grant by 25 discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The public is interested in the 26 manufacture of cotton, woollen, and silken fabrics, in the construction of machinery, in the printing and publication of books
27 and periodicals, and in the making of utensils of every variety, useful and ornamental; indeed, there is hardly an enterprise
28 or business engaging the attention and labor of any considerable portion of the community, in which the public has
29 not an interest in the sense in which that term is used by the court in its opinion; and the doctrine which allows the
30 legislature to interfere with and regulate the charges which the owners of property thus employed shall make for its 31 use, that is, the rates at which all these different kinds of business shall be carried on, has never before been asserted,
32 so far as I am aware, by any judicial tribunal in the United States.

33 The doctrine of the State court, that no one is deprived of his property, within the meaning of the constitutional
34 inhibition, so long as he retains its title and possession, and the doctrine of this court, that, whenever one's property
35 is used in such a manner as to affect the community at large, it becomes by that fact clothed with a public interest,
36 and ceases to be juris privati only, appear to me to destroy, for all useful purposes, the efficacy of the constitutional
37 guaranty. All that is beneficial in property arises from its use, and the fruits of that use; and whatever deprives a
38 person of them deprives him of all that is desirable or valuable in the title and possession. If the constitutional guaranty
39 extends no further than to prevent a deprivation of title and possession, and allows a deprivation of use, and the fruits
40 of that use, it does not merit the encomiums it has received. Unless I have misread the history of the provision now
41 incorporated into all our State constitutions, and by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments into our Federal Constitution, and
42 have misunderstood the interpretation it has received, it is not thus limited in its scope, and thus impotent for good. It has a
43 much more extended operation than either court, State, or Federal has given to it. The provision, it is to be observed,
44 places property under the same protection as life and liberty. Except by due process of law, no State can 142*142
45 deprive any person of either. The provision has been supposed to secure to every individual the essential conditions
46 for the pursuit of happiness; and for that reason has not been heretofore, and should never be, construed in any 47 narrow or restricted sense.

48 No State "shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law," says the Fourteenth Amendment
49 to the Constitution. By the term "life," as here used, something more is meant than mere animal existence. The inhibition
50 against its deprivation extends to all those limbs and faculties by which life is enjoyed. The provision equally prohibits the 51 mutilation of the body by the amputation of an arm or leg, or the putting out of an eye, or the destruction of any other organ
52 of the body through which the soul communicates with the outer world. The deprivation not only of life, but of whatever God
53 has given to everyone with life, for its growth and enjoyment, is prohibited by the provision in question, if its efficacy be not 54 frittered away by judicial decision.

1 By the term "liberty," as used in the provision, something more is meant than mere freedom from physical restraint or the
 2 bounds of a prison. It means freedom to go where one may choose, and to act in such manner, not inconsistent with the equal
 3 rights of others, as his judgment may dictate for the promotion of his happiness; that is, to pursue such callings and avocations
 4 as may be most suitable to develop his capacities, and give to them their highest enjoyment.

5 The same liberal construction which is required for the protection of life and liberty, in all particulars in which life
 6 and liberty are of any value, should be applied to the protection of private property. If the legislature of a State, under
 7 pretence of providing for the public good, or for any other reason, can determine, against the consent of the owner,
 8 the uses to which private property shall be devoted, or the prices which the owner shall receive for its uses, it can
 9 deprive him of the property as completely as by a special act for its confiscation or destruction. If, for instance, the 10 owner is prohibited from using his building for the purposes for which it was designed, it is of little consequence that
 11 he is permitted to retain the 143*143 title and possession; or, if he is compelled to take as compensation for its use less
 12 than the expenses to which he is subjected by its ownership, he is, for all practical purposes, deprived of the property,
 13 as effectually as if the legislature had ordered his forcible dispossession. If it be admitted that the legislature has any 14 control over the compensation, the extent of that compensation becomes a mere matter of legislative discretion. The 15 amount fixed will operate as a partial destruction of the value of the property, if it fall below the amount which the
 16 owner would obtain by contract, and, practically, as a complete destruction, if it be less than the cost of retaining its 17 possession. There is, indeed, no protection of any value under the constitutional provision, which does not extend to 18 the use and income of the property, as well as to its title and possession.

19 This court has heretofore held in many instances that a constitutional provision intended for the protection of rights of private 20 property should be liberally construed. It has so held in the numerous cases where it has been called upon to give effect to 21 the provision prohibiting the States from legislation impairing the obligation of contracts; the provision being construed to 22 secure from direct attack not only the contract itself, but all the essential incidents which give it value and enable its owner
 23 to enforce it. Thus, in Bronson v. Kinzie, reported in the 1st of Howard, it was held that an act of the legislature of Illinois,
 24 giving to a mortgagor twelve months within which to redeem his mortgaged property from a judicial sale, and prohibiting its
 25 sale for less than two-thirds of its appraised value, was void as applied to mortgages executed prior to its passage. It was 26 contended, in support of the act, that it affected only the remedy of the mortgagee, and did not impair the contract; but the
 27 court replied that there was no substantial difference between a retrospective law declaring a particular contract to be
 28 abrogated and void, and one which took away all remedy to enforce it, or encumbered the remedy with conditions that 29 rendered it useless or impracticable to pursue it. And, referring to the constitutional provision, the court said, speaking through 30 Mr. Chief Justice Taney, that

31 "it would be unjust to the memory of the distinguished men who framed it, to suppose that it was designed to 32 *protect a mere barren and 144*144 abstract right, without any practical operation upon the business of life. It*
 33 was undoubtedly adopted as a part of the Constitution for a great and useful purpose. It was to maintain the 34 integrity of contracts, and to secure their faithful execution throughout this Union, by placing them under the 35 protection of the Constitution of the United States. And it would but Ill. become this court, under any 36 circumstances, to depart from the plain meaning of the words used, and to sanction a distinction between the 37 right and the remedy, which would render this provision illusive and nugatory, mere words of form, affording no
 38 protection and producing no practical result."

39 And in Pumpelly v. Green Bay Company, 13 Wall. 177, the language of the court is equally emphatic. That case arose in 40 Wisconsin, the constitution of which declares, like the constitutions of nearly all the States, that private property shall not be
 41 taken for public use without just compensation; and this court held that the flooding of one's land by a dam constructed across
 42 a river under a law of the State was a taking within the prohibition, and required compensation to be made to the owner of 43 the land thus flooded. The court, speaking through Mr. Justice Miller, said: —

44 "It would be a very curious and unsatisfactory result, if, in construing a provision of constitutional law, always 45 understood to have been adopted for protection and security to the rights of the individual as against the 46 government, and which has received the commendation of jurists, statesmen, and commentators, as placing the
 47 just principles of the common law on that subject beyond the power of ordinary legislation to change or control
 48 them, it shall be held that, if the government refrains from the absolute conversion of real property to the uses of
 49 the public, it can destroy its value entirely, can inflict irreparable and permanent injury to any extent, can, in
 50 effect, subject it to total destruction without making any compensation, because, in the narrowest sense of the
 51 word, it is not taken for the public use. Such a construction would pervert the constitutional provision into a
 52 restriction on the rights of the citizen, as those rights stood at the common law, instead of the government, and 53 make it an authority for invasion of private right under the pretext of the public good, which had no warrant 54 in the laws or practices of our ancestors."

The views expressed in these citations, applied to this case, would render the constitutional provision invoked by the defendants effectual to protect them in the uses, income, and revenues of their property, as well as in its title and possession. The construction actually given by the State court and by this court makes the provision, in the language of Taney, a protection to "a mere barren and abstract right, without any practical operation upon the business of life," and renders it "illusive and nugatory, mere words of form, affording no protection and producing no practical result."

The power of the State over the property of the citizen under the constitutional guaranty is well defined. The State may take his property for public uses, upon just compensation being made therefor. It may take a portion of his property by way of taxation for the support of the government. It may control the use and possession of his property, so far as may be necessary for the protection of the rights of others, and to secure to them the equal use and enjoyment of their property. The doctrine that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas — is the rule by which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation essential to secure this common and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases where property may be destroyed to arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the pressure of an immediate and overwhelming necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over the property of the citizen does not extend beyond such limits.

It is true that the legislation which secures to all protection in their rights, and the equal use and enjoyment of their property, embraces an almost infinite variety of subjects. Whatever affects the peace, good order, morals, and health of the community, comes within its scope; and every one must use and enjoy his property subject to the restrictions which such legislation imposes. What is termed the police power of the State, which, from the language often used respecting it, one would suppose to be an undefined and irresponsible element in government, can only interfere with the conduct of individuals in their intercourse with each other, and in the use of their property, so far 146*146 as may be required to secure these objects. The compensation which the owners of property, not having any special rights or privileges from the government in connection with it, may demand for its use, or for their own services in union with it, forms no element of consideration in prescribing regulations for that purpose. If one construct a building in a city, the State, or the municipality exercising a delegated power from the State, may require its walls to be of sufficient thickness for the uses intended; it may forbid the employment of inflammable materials in its construction, so as not to endanger the safety of his neighbors; if designed as a theatre, church, or public hall, it may prescribe ample means of egress, so as to afford facility for escape in case of accident; it may forbid the storage in it of powder, nitro-glycerine, or other explosive material; it may require its occupants daily to remove decayed vegetable and animal matter, which would otherwise accumulate and engender disease; it may exclude from it all occupations and business calculated to disturb the neighborhood or infect the air. Indeed, there is no end of regulations with respect to the use of property which may not be legitimately prescribed, having for their object the peace, good order, safety, and health of the community, thus securing to all the equal enjoyment of their property; but in establishing these regulations it is evident that compensation to the owner for the use of his property, or for his services in union with it, is not a matter of any importance: whether it be one sum or another does not affect the regulation, either in respect to its utility or mode of enforcement. One may go, in like manner, through the whole round of regulations authorized by legislation, State or municipal, under what is termed the police power, and in no instance will he find that the compensation of the owner for the use of his property has any influence in establishing them. It is only where some right or privilege is conferred by the government or municipality upon the owner, which he can use in connection with his property, or by means of which the use of his property is rendered more valuable to him, or he thereby enjoys an advantage over others, that the compensation to be received by him becomes a legitimate matter of regulation. Submission to the regulation of compensation in such cases is an implied condition 147*147 of the grant, and the State, in exercising its power of prescribing the compensation, only determines the conditions upon which its concession shall be enjoyed. When the privilege ends, the power of regulation ceases.

Jurists and writers on public law find authority for the exercise of this police power of the State and the numerous regulations which it prescribes in the doctrine already stated, that everyone must use and enjoy his property consistently with the rights of others, and the equal use and enjoyment by them of their property. "The police power of the State," says the Supreme Court of Vermont, "extends to the protection of the lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property in the State. According to the maxim, sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas, which, being of universal application, it must, of course, be within the range of legislative action to define the mode and manner in which every one may so use his own as not to injure others." Thorpe v. Rutland & Burlington Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 149. "We think it a settled principle growing out of the nature of well-ordered civil society," says the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, "that every holder of property, however absolute and unqualified may be his title, holds it under the implied liability that his use of it shall not be injurious to the equal enjoyment of others having an equal right to the enjoyment of their property, nor injurious to the rights

1 of the community." Commonwealth v. Alger, 7 Cush. 84. In his Commentaries, after speaking of the protection afforded by
2 the Constitution to private property, Chancellor Kent says: —

3 "But though property be thus protected, it is still to be understood that the law-giver has the right to prescribe
4 the mode and manner of using it, so far as may be necessary to prevent the abuse of the right, to the injury or
5 annoyance of others, or of the public. The government may, by general regulations, interdict such uses of property
6 as would create nuisances and become dangerous to the lives, or health, or peace, or comfort of the citizens.
7 Unwholesome trades, slaughter-houses, operations offensive to the senses, the deposit of powder, the application
8 of steam-power to propel cars, the building with combustible materials, and the burial of the dead, may all be
9 *interdicted by law, in the-midst of dense masses of population, 148*148 on the general and rational principle*
10 that every person ought so to use his property as not to injure his neighbors, and that private interests must be
11 made subservient to the general interests of the community. 2 Kent, 340.

12 The Italics in these citations are mine. The citations show what I have already stated to be the case, that the regulations which 13 the State, in the exercise of its police power, authorizes with respect to the use of property are entirely independent of any 14 question of compensation for such use, or for the services of the owner in connection with it.

15 There is nothing in the character of the business of the defendants as warehousemen which called for the interference
16 complained of in this case. Their buildings are not nuisances; their occupation of receiving and storing grain infringes upon 17 no rights of others, disturbs no neighborhood, infects not the air, and in no respect prevents others from using and enjoying
18 their property as to them may seem best. The legislation in question is nothing less than a bold assertion of absolute
19 power by the State to control at its discretion the property and business of the citizen, and fix the compensation he 20 shall receive. The will of the legislature is made the condition upon which the owner shall receive the fruits of his 21 property and the just reward of his labor, industry, and enterprise. "That government," says Story, "can scarcely be
22 deemed to be free where the rights of property are left solely dependent upon the will of a legislative body without any
23 restraint. The fundamental maxims of a free government seem to require that the rights of personal liberty and private 24 property should be held sacred." Wilkeson v. Leland, 2 Pet. 657. The decision of the court in this case gives 25 unrestrained license to legislative will.

26 The several instances mentioned by counsel in the argument and by the court in its opinion, in which legislation has fixed the 27 compensation which parties may receive for the use of their property and services, do not militate against the views I have
28 expressed of the power of the State over the property of the citizen. They were mostly cases of public ferries, bridges, and 29 turnpikes, of wharfingers, hackmen, and draymen, and of interest on money. In all these cases, except that of interest on 30 money, which I shall presently notice there was some special 149*149 privilege granted by the State or municipality; and no
31 one, I suppose, has ever contended that the State had not a right to prescribe the conditions upon which such privilege should 32 be enjoyed. The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own
33 property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being stated or 34 implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement. The recipient of 35 the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited the privilege conferred, its
36 acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for it. The privilege which the hackman
37 and drayman have to the use of stands on the public streets, not allowed to the ordinary coachman or laborer with teams,
38 constitutes a sufficient warrant for the regulation of their fares. In the case of the warehousemen of Chicago, no right or 39 privilege is conferred by the government upon them; and hence no assent of theirs can be alleged to justify any interference
40 with their charges for the use of their property.

41 The quotations from the writings of Sir Matthew Hale, so far from supporting the positions of the court, do not recognize the 42 interference of the government, even to the extent which I have admitted to be legitimate. They state merely that the franchise
43 of a public ferry belongs to the king, and cannot be used by the subject except by license from him, or prescription time out
44 of mind; and that when the subject has a public wharf by license from the king, or from having dedicated his private wharf
45 to the public, as in the case of a street opened by him through his own land, he must allow the use of the wharf for reasonable
46 and moderate charges. Thus, in the first quotation which is taken from his treatise De Jure Maris, Hale says that the king has

47 "a right of franchise or privilege, that no man may set up a common ferry for all passengers without a prescription
48 time out of mind or a charter from the king. He may make a ferry for his own use or the use of his family, but not
49 for the common use of all the king's subjects passing that way; because it doth in consequent tend to a common
50 *charge, and is become a thing of public interest and use, and every man for his passage 150*150 pays a toll,*
51 which is a common charge, and every ferry ought to be under a public regulation, viz., that it give attendance at 52 due times, keep a boat in due order, and take but reasonable toll; for if he fail in these he is finable."

1 Of course, one who obtains a license from the king to establish a public ferry, at which "every man for his passage pays a
2 toll," must take it on condition that he charge only reasonable toll, and, indeed, subject to such regulations as the king may 3 prescribe.

4 In the second quotation, which is taken from his treatise De Portibus Maris, Hale says: —

5 "A man, for his own private advantage, may, in a port or town, set up a wharf or crane, and may take what rates
6 he and his customers can agree for crannage, wharfage, housellage, pesage; for he doth no more than is lawful
7 for any man to do, viz., makes the most of his own. If the king or subject have a public wharf, unto which all
8 persons that come to that port must come and unlade or lade their goods as for the purpose, because they are the
9 wharves only licensed by the king, or because there is no other wharf in that port, as it may fall out where a port
10 is newly erected, in that case there cannot be taken arbitrary and excessive duties for crannage, wharfage, pesage,
11 &c.; neither can they be enhanced to an immoderate rate, but the duties must be reasonable and moderate, though
12 settled by the king's license or charter. For now the wharf and crane and other conveniences are affected with a
13 public interest, and they cease to be juris privati only; as if a man set out a street in new building on his own land,
14 it is now no longer bare private interest, but is affected by the public interest."

15 The purport of which is, that if one have a public wharf, by license from the government or his own dedication, he must exact
16 only reasonable compensation for its use. By its dedication to public use, a wharf is as much brought under the common-law
17 rule of subjection to reasonable charges as it would be if originally established or licensed by the crown. All property
18 dedicated to public use by an individual owner, as in the case of land for a park or street, falls at once, by force of the 19 dedication, under the law governing property appropriated by the government for similar purposes.

20 I do not doubt the justice of the encomiums passed upon Sir 151*151 Matthew Hale as a learned jurist of his day; but I am
21 unable to perceive the pertinency of his observations upon public ferries and public wharves, found in his treatises on "The 22 Rights of the Sea" and on "The Ports of the Sea," to the questions presented by the warehousing law of Illinois, undertaking
23 to regulate the compensation received by the owners of private property, when that property is used for private purposes.

24 The principal authority cited in support of the ruling of the court is that of Alnutt v. Inglis, decided by the King's Bench, and
25 reported in 12 East. But that case, so far from sustaining the ruling, establishes, in my judgment, the doctrine that everyone
26 has a right to charge for his property, or for its use, whatever he pleases, unless he enjoys in connection with it some right or
27 privilege from the government not accorded to others; and even then it only decides what is above stated in the quotations
28 from Sir Matthew Hale, that he must submit, so long as he retains the right or privilege, to reasonable rates. In that case, the 29 London Dock Company, under certain acts of Parliament, possessed the exclusive right of receiving imported goods into 30 their warehouses before the duties were paid; and the question was whether the company was bound to receive them for a
31 reasonable reward, or whether it could arbitrarily fix its compensation. In deciding the case, the Chief Justice, Lord
32 Ellenborough, said: —

33 "There is no doubt that the general principle is favored, both in law and justice, that every man may fix what
34 price he pleases upon his own property, or the use of it; but if, for a particular purpose, the public have a right
35 to resort to his premises and make use of them, and he have a monopoly in them for that purpose, if he will take
36 the benefit of that monopoly, he must, as an equivalent, perform the duty attached to it on reasonable terms."

37 And, coming to the conclusion that the company's warehouses were invested with "the monopoly of a public privilege," he 38 held that by law the company must confine itself to take reasonable rates; and added, that if the crown should thereafter think
39 it advisable to extend the privilege more generally to other persons and places, so that the public would not be restrained from
40 exercising a choice of warehouses for the purpose, the company might be enfranchised from the restriction which 152*152
41 attached to a monopoly; but, so long as its warehouses were the only places which could be resorted to for that purpose, the 42 company was bound to let the trade have the use of them for a reasonable hire and reward. The other judges of the court
43 placed their concurrence in the decision upon the ground that the company possessed a legal monopoly of the business, having 44 the only warehouses where goods imported could be lawfully received without previous payment of the duties. From this 45 case it appears that it is only where some privilege in the bestowal of the government is enjoyed in connection with the 46 property, that it is affected with a public interest in any proper sense of the terms. It is the public privilege conferred with the 47 use of the property which creates the public interest in it.

48 In the case decided by the Supreme Court of Alabama, where a power granted to the city of Mobile to license bakers, and to
49 regulate the weight and price of bread, was sustained so far as regulating the weight of the bread was concerned, no question
50 was made as to the right to regulate the price. 3 Ala. 137. There is no doubt of the competency of the State to prescribe the 51 weight of a loaf of bread, as it may declare what weight shall constitute a pound or a ton. But I deny the power of any 52 legislature under our government to fix the price which one shall receive for his property of any kind. If the power can be exercised as to one article, it may as to all articles, and the prices of everything, from a calico gown to a city mansion, may be the subject of legislative direction.

Other instances of a similar character may, no doubt, be cited of attempted legislative interference with the rights of property. The act of Congress of 1820, mentioned by the court, is one of them. There Congress undertook to confer upon the city of Washington power to regulate the rates of wharfage at private wharves, and the fees for sweeping chimneys. Until some authoritative adjudication is had upon these and similar provisions, I must adhere, notwithstanding the legislation, to my opinion, that those who own property have the right to fix the compensation at which they will allow its use, and that those who control services have a right to fix the compensation at which they will be rendered. The chimney-sweeps may, I think, safely claim all the compensation which 153*153 they can obtain by bargain for their work. In the absence of any contract for property or services, the law allows only a reasonable price or compensation; but what is a reasonable price in any case will depend upon a variety of considerations, and is not a matter for legislative determination.

The practice of regulating by legislation the interest receivable for the use of money, when considered with reference to its origin, is only the assertion of a right of the government to control the extent to which a privilege granted by it may be exercised and enjoyed. By the ancient common law it was unlawful to take any money for the use of money; all who did so were called usurers, a term of great reproach, and were exposed to the censure of the church; and if, after the death of a person, it was discovered that he had been a usurer whilst living, his chattels were forfeited to the king, and his lands escheated to the lord of the fee. No action could be maintained on any promise to pay for the use of money, because of the unlawfulness of the contract. Whilst the common law thus condemned all usury, Parliament interfered, and made it lawful to take a limited amount of interest. It was not upon the theory that the legislature could arbitrarily fix the compensation which one could receive for the use of property, which, by the general law, was the subject of hire for compensation, that Parliament acted, but in order to confer a privilege which the common law denied. The reasons which L.Ed. to this legislation originally have long since ceased to exist; and if the legislation is still persisted in, it is because a long acquiescence in the exercise of a power, especially when it was rightfully assumed in the first instance, is generally received as sufficient evidence of its continued lawfulness. 10 Bac. Abr. 264.]***

There were also recognized in England, by the ancient common law, certain privileges as belonging to the lord of the manor, which grew out of the state of the country, the condition of the people, and the relation existing between him and 154*154 his tenants under the feudal system. Among these was the right of the lord to compel all the tenants within his manor to grind their corn at his mill. No one, therefore, could set up a mill except by his license, or by the license of the crown, unless he claimed the right by prescription, which presupposed a grant from the lord or crown, and, of course, with such license went the right to regulate the tolls to be received. Woolrych on the Law of Waters, c. 6, of Mills. Hence originated the doctrine which at one time obtained generally in this country, that there could be no mill to grind corn for the public, without a grant or license from the public authorities. It is still, I believe, asserted in some States. This doctrine being recognized, all the rest followed. The right to control the toll accompanied the right to control the establishment of the mill.

It requires no comment to point out the radical differences between the cases of public mills and interest on money, and that of the warehouses in Chicago. No prerogative or privilege of the crown to establish warehouses was ever asserted at the common law. The business of a warehouseman was, at common law, a private business and is so in its nature. It has no special privileges connected with it, nor did the law ever extend to it any greater protection than it extended to all other private business. No reason can be assigned to justify legislation interfering with the legitimate profits of that business, that would not equally justify an intermeddling with the business of every man in the community, so soon, at least, as his business became generally useful.

4.2.12 The franchisee is a public officer and a “fiction of law”

The U.S. Supreme Court acknowledged that a frequent source of unconstitutional activity by government actors is to create fictitious offices, when it held:

“An unconstitutional act is not a law; it confers no rights; it imposes no duties; it affords no protection; it creates no office; it is in legal contemplation, as inoperative as though it had never been passed.”
[Norton v. Shelby County, 118 US 425 (1885)]

An unlawfully created public office is sometimes called a “fiction of law”. All those engaged in franchises are public officers in the government. The fictitious public office and/or “trade or business” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) to which all the government’s enforcement rights attach is also called a “fiction of law” by some judges. Here is the definition:

"Fiction of law. An assumption or supposition of law that something which is or may be false is true, or that a state of facts exists which has never really taken place. An assumption [PRESUMPTION], for purposes of justice, of a fact that does not or may not exist. A rule of law which assumes as true, and will not allow to be disproved, something which is false, but not impossible. Ryan v. Motor Credit Co., 30 N.J.Eq. 531, 23 A.2d. 607, 621. These assumptions are of an innocent or even beneficial character, and are made for the advancement of the ends of justice. They secure this end chiefly by the extension of procedure from cases to which it is applicable to other cases to which it is not strictly applicable, the ground of inapplicability being some difference of an immaterial character. See also Legal fiction."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 623]

The key elements of all fictions of law from the above are:

1. A PRESUMPTION of the existence or truth of an otherwise nonexistent thing.
2. The presumptions are of an INNOCENT or BENEFICIAL character.
3. The presumptions are made for the advancement of the ends of justice.
4. All of the above goals are satisfied against BOTH parties to the dispute, not just the government. Otherwise the constitutional requirement for equal protection and equal treatment has been transgressed.

The fictitious public office that forms the heart of the modern SCAM income tax clearly does not satisfy the elements for being a "fiction of law" because:

1. All presumptions that violate due process of law or result in an injury to EITHER party affected by the presumption are unconstitutional. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. The presumption does not benefit BOTH parties to a dispute that involves it. It ONLY benefits the government at the expense of innocent nontaxpayers and EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE parties.
3. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office does NOT advance justice for BOTH parties to any dispute involving it. The legal definition of justice is the RIGHT TO BE LEFT ALONE. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office ensures that those who do not want to volunteer for the office but who are the subject of FALSE information returns are NEVER left alone and are continually harassed illegally by the IRS. Here is the legal definition of "justice" so you can see for yourself:

"PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly's translation), chap. 9.

Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others [INCLUDING us], and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right."
[Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

Therefore it is clearly a CRUEL FRAUD for any judge to justify his PRESUMPTION of the existence of the BOGUS public office that is the subject of the excise tax by calling it a "fiction of law".

If you want to see an example of WHY this fiction of law was created as a way to usurp jurisdiction, read the following U.S. Supreme Court cite:

"It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one man, by his own act, renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man, who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial authorities of the State and the general government. Any thing which can prevent a Federal Officer from the punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt, as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction of the King's Bench universal in all personal actions."

[United States v. Worrall, 2 U.S. 384 (1798)]

SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=3339893669697439168]

The reason for the controversy in the above case was that a bribe occurred on state land by a nonresident domiciled in the state, and therefore that federal law did not apply. In the above case, the court admitted that a "fiction" was resorted to usurp jurisdiction because no legal authority could be found. The fact that the defendant was in custody created the jurisdiction. It didn't exist before they ILLEGALLY KIDNAPPED him. Notice also that they mention an implied "compact" or contract related to the office being exercised, and that THAT compact was the source of their jurisdiction over the officer who was bribed. This is the SAME contract to which all those who engage in a statutory "trade or business" are party to.

4.2.13 "Public" v. "Private" Franchises Compared

Another useful exercise is to compare PUBLIC franchises, meaning government franchise, with PRIVATE franchises that involve private parties exclusively. Understanding these distinctions is very important to those who want to be able to produce legally admissible evidence that governments are illegally implementing or enforcing their franchises. Below is a table summarizing the main differences between PUBLIC and PRIVATE franchises:

Table 4-6: Public v. Private Franchises Compared

| Characteristic                                                 | PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT Franchise                                                                                                                                                  | PRIVATE Franchise                                       |

How can we prove that a so-called "government" is operating a franchise as a PRIVATE company or corporation in EQUITY rather than as a parens patriae protected by sovereign immunity? Below are the conditions that trigger this status as we understand them so far:

- When they are implementing the franchises against parties domiciled outside of their EXCLUSIVE rather than subject matter jurisdiction. For instance, when the federal government implements or enforces a federal franchise within states of the Union, then it is operating outside its territory and implicitly waives sovereign immunity. Hence, they are "purposefully availing themselves" of commercial activity outside of their jurisdiction and waive immunity within the jurisdiction they are operating. See:

Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.018
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- When domicile and one's status as a statutory "citizen", "resident", or "U.S. person" under the civil laws of the grantor:

- 2.1. Is not required in the franchise agreement itself.
- 2.2. Is in the franchise agreement but is ignored or disregarded as a matter of policy rather than law by the government. For instance, the government ignores the legal requirements of the franchise found in 20 C.F.R. §422.104 and insists that EVERYONE is eligible and TO HELL with the law.
3. When any of the above conditions occur, then the government engaging in them:
  - 3.1. Is engaging in PRIVATE business activity beyond its core purpose as a de jure “government”
  - 3.2. Is operating in a de facto capacity and not as a “sovereign”. See:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
  - 3.3. Is abusing its monopolistic authority to compete with private business concerns
  - 3.4. Is “purposefully availing itself” of commerce in the foreign jurisdictions, such as states of the Union, that it operates the franchise
  - 3.5. Implicitly waives sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act \(F.S.I.A.\), 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97 and its equivalent act in the foreign jurisdictions that it operates the franchise
  - 3.6. Implicitly agrees to be sued IN EQUITY in a Constitutional court if it enforces the franchise against NONRESIDENTS
  - 3.7. Cannot truthfully identify the statutory FRANCHISE courts that administer the franchise as “government” courts, but simply PRIVATE arbitration boards.

The following ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court confirms some of the above.

See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) (“The United States does business on business terms”) (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) (“When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent”) (citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) (“The United States, when they contract with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf”); Cooke v. United States, 91 U.S. 389, 398 (1875) (explaining that when the United States “comes down from its position of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals there”).

See Jones, 1 Cl.Ct. at 85 (“Wherever the public and private acts of the government seem to commingle, a citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place, and then the question be determined whether the action will lie against the supposed defendant”); O’Neill v. United States, 231 Ct.Cl. 823, 826 (1982) (sovereign acts doctrine applies where, “[w]here [the] contracts exclusively between private parties, the party hurt by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing action”). The dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz drew its reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize the need to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party.

Only one sentence in the above seems suspicious:

“When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued [IN ITS OWN COURTS] without its consent”

What they are referring to above is that the “United States” federal corporation cannot be sued IN THEIR OWN COURTS without their consent, not that they cannot be sued in EQUITY in a court of a constitutional state. The federal government has no direct control over the courts of a legislatively “foreign state”, such as a state of the Union. Hence, it cannot impede itself being sued directly there when it is operating a private business in competition with other private businesses in a commercial market place. An example is “insurance services”, such as Social Security, which is private insurance. The government deceptively calls the premiums a “tax” on the 800 line of Social Security, but in fact, they are simply PRIVATE insurance premiums. No one can make you buy any commercial product the government offers, including private “Social Insurance”. Otherwise, we are talking about THEFT and involuntary servitude. The definition of “State” found in the Social Security Act is entirely consistent with these conclusions. “State” is nowhere defined to expressly include states of the Union and therefore, they are NOT included under the rules of statutory construction. Hence, they are “foreign” for the subject matter of Social Security, Medicare, and every other federal socialism program.

*“Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another.” Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

A legal term useful in describing the proper operation of government franchises is “publici juris”. Here is a legal definition:

“PUBLICI JURIS. Lat. Of public right. The word “public” in this sense means pertaining to the people, or affecting the community at large [the SOCIALIST collective]; that which concerns a multitude of people; and the word “right,” as so used, means a well-founded claim; an interest; concern; advantage; benefit. State v. Lyon, 63 Okl. 285, 165 P. 419, 420.

This term, as applied to a thing or right [PRIVILEGE], means that it is open to or exercisable by all persons. It designates things which are owned by “the public:” that is, the entire state or community, and not by any private person. When a thing is common property, so that anyone can make use of it who likes, it is said to be publici juris; as in the case of light, air, and public water. Sweet. “
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1397]

We allege that:

1. Associating anything with a government identifying number (SSN or TIN)
  - 1.1. Changes the character of the thing so associated to “publici juris”
  - 1.2. Donates and converts private property to a public use, public purpose, and public office
  - 1.3. Makes you the trustee with equitable title over the thing donated, instead of the LEGAL OWNER of the property
2. The compelled, involuntary use of government identifying numbers therefore constitutes THEFT and CONVERSION, which are CRIMES.

For further details on the compelled use of government identifying numbers, see:

4.3 PUBLIC Privileges v. PRIVATE Rights<sup>90</sup>

“This nation, as experience has proved, cannot always remain at peace, and has no right to expect that it always will have wise and humane rulers, sincerely attached to the principles of the Constitution. Wicked men, ambitious of power, with hatred of liberty and contempt of law, may fill the place once occupied by Washington and Lincoln; and if this right is conceded, and the calamities of war again befall us, the dangers to human liberty are frightful to contemplate. ... For this, and other equally weighty reasons, they secured the inheritance they had fought to maintain, by incorporating in a written Constitution the safeguards which time had proven were essential to its preservation. Not one of these safeguards can the President or Congress or the Judiciary disturb, except the one concerning the writ of habeas corpus.”

This section concerns itself with the origin and nature of rights and privileges. We discuss the subject both from a biblical as well as a legal/civil perspective. The subject of rights and privileges is of utmost importance in understanding our role in society and the relationship that government has to us as the sovereign people that they serve. Failure to fully understand this subject can result in making you into a government slave and signing away all your rights and sovereignty without even realizing it.

The various articles contained within this chapter will demonstrate to you the facts and the proof, not only that these things are true, but just how they are used to infringe upon your Unalienable Rights as Sovereign Americans and “natural persons” of the several Union states. These Sovereign Americans of the several Union states are the only People who have Constitutional (Natural) Rights. No other status of “citizenship” or “residency” has these Natural Rights, yet you claim these other forms of citizenship every day, and as you do so, you are unknowingly waving your Natural Rights for the illusion of benefits and privileges from the federal government. In effect, you have exchanged your own Natural Rights for mere “government privileges” and thereby irreparably compromised your personal liberty and sovereignty [Whoops.]

1 It is all a matter of perspective and choice. The problem is, you probably don't know or understand that there are two sides
2 to this coin - and more importantly, that you have a choice. If you don't know how or when to "Reserve your Rights" then
3 you become prey to oppression and tyranny by anyone, including the various levels of government, who might wish to take
4 advantage of you for their own sake or their notions of what is best for you. It is time to take charge of your own destiny and
5 stop being so casual about your Rights. You do have them, in that they do still exist. The question is do you have access to
6 them, when you need them the most. Not likely, unless you understand and use this valuable information at every turn in your 7 involvement with all levels of government.

8 So, please, take the time to read, study and verify this information thoroughly for yourself. And please, feel free to share it
9 with others. Organize discussion groups with your friends, relatives, and with your various clubs and organizations. The more
10 people who become enlightened, the sooner we can stop the insanity of oppression and tyranny, by any one, especially our 11 own government.

12 Time after time we have all heard the expression, "The People have the power." Probably more times than any one of us can
13 count. We have heard that "We the People..." are the masters and the federal government is the servant of the People. Today,
14 most of us would agree that it is the other way around. Yet few of us can explain how or why this has come to be true. While 15 most of us understand these powers are actually our Rights as they were known, understood and written into the Declarations
16 of Independence, the Constitution of the United States of America and the Bill of Rights, few of us understand how to use
17 and enforce these Rights. The majority of us are unaware of how to protect these rights and ourselves from those who would 18 choose to usurp them, entrapping us into a web of deceit and misleading us to believe we must obey what are obviously laws
19 which function outside our protections under the Constitution.

20 We often hear speakers proclaim "The people must protect (reserve) their Rights or they won't have any." Yet, few actually
21 know how. Of course every elected official is required to take an oath of office, which includes the statement "... to protect 22 and defend the Constitution of the United States of America...". As we all have come to realize, we are gradually losing our 23 Rights with each passing year, as the government continues to erode them away with still more federal regulation being 24 imposed.

25 In paraphrasing Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas (well known for his conservative views), he said:

26 "... I promise to fight federalism at every turn. But, the People must first 'reserve' their 'Rights' or I can do nothing 27 ..."

28 We have all heard other notable people make similar statements in the past, and yet I have found that very few of us actually
29 know and understand what is meant by these words. Most of us assume that the government itself is waging the battle to 30 protect our Rights, or simply believe that these Rights we have are just there and known to all. So, who in their right mind
31 would, or even could, get away with denying them? As you read this section, not only will you come to know exactly what 32 Justice Thomas meant in those few words, but you will also understand precisely how to go about "reserving your Rights."
33 You will learn that there is a lot more going on here than first meets the eye.

34 So, how do we protect and enforce these Unalienable Rights granted to us by our Creator, from those who would steal them
35 away? Who are those that would trick us into being unknowing and unwilling victims of what seems to be unconstitutional
36 laws that violate our natural rights?

37 Most would agree that it is the government and big business which seek to usurp our rights. The government on all levels
38 (local, county, state and federal) operates on a system that is actually outside the protections of the Constitution, which is a
39 little known and even less understood conspiracy perpetrated on the American People to control their lives and their money
40 (property and other assets). Meanwhile, big business lobbies congress to the point that "We the People..." have little if any 41 input or affect in the legislative process. So, it is our elected officials in government who have betrayed both their oaths of 42 office, and our faith that they will do what they promised during the election process.

43 It is our goal, as set forth in this book, to inform you as to precisely how government and big business accomplish these deeds
44 of deception, trickery and fraud. Then, to further instruct you, we will educate you as to how to overcome these obstacles
45 and barriers to the freedoms we were granted by our Creator, and guaranteed by our Constitution, for which so many have 46 fought and died to preserve and protect for ourselves and for our posterity.

1 We have the power - we always have! It is time then to reeducate ourselves, getting away from the leftist rhetoric and back
 2 to the simple facts of the matter in an effort to save our Constitution and our Individual Freedoms. Our tolerance and silence
 3 has too long been mistaken for ignorance, and the faith we have entrusted in our elected officials has certainly been betrayed.

4 *"No legislative act contrary to the Constitution can be valid. To deny this would be to affirm that the deputy
 5 (agent) is greater than his principal; that the servant is above the master; that the representatives of the people
 6 are superior to the people; that men, acting by virtue of powers may do not only what their powers do not
 7 authorize, but what they forbid. It is not to be supposed that the Constitution could intend to enable the 8 representatives of the people to substitute their will to that of their constituents. A Constitution is, in fact, and 9 must be regarded by judges, as fundamental law. If there should happen to be an irreconcilable variance between 10 the two, the Constitution is to be preferred to the statute."
 11 [Alexander Hamilton (Federalist Paper # 78)]*

12 *"Where rights secured by the Federal Constitution are involved, there can be no rule-making or legislation 13 which would abrogate them."
 14 [Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 436 (1966) ]*

15 *"Truth is incontrovertible, ignorance can deride it, panic may resent it, malice may destroy it, but there it is."
 16 [Winston Churchill]*

17 4.3.1 PRIVATE Rights Defined and Explained

18 *"The people...are the only sure reliance for the preservation of our liberty."
 19 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1787. ME 6:392]*

20 *"The people of every country are the only safe guardians of their own rights."
 21 [Thomas Jefferson to John Wyche, 1809]*

22 The Bill of Rights documents PRIVATE rights. We define "private" as follows:

23 SEDM Disclaimer

24 4. Meaning of Words

25 The word "private" when it appears in front of other entity names such as "person", "individual", "business", 26 "employee", "employer", etc. shall imply that the entity is:

- 27 1. In possession of absolute, exclusive ownership and control over their own labor, body, and all their 28 property. In Roman Law this was called "dominium".
- 29 2. *On an EQUAL rather than inferior relationship to government in court. This means that they have no
 30 obligations to any government OTHER than possibly the duty to serve on jury and vote upon voluntary
 31 acceptance of the obligations of that civil status of "citizen". Otherwise, they are entirely free and 32 unregulated.*
- 33 3. A "nonresident" in relation to the state and federal government.
- 34 4. Not a PUBLIC entity defined within any state or federal statutory law. This includes but is not limited to 35 statutory "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any under any civil statute or 36 franchise.
- 37 5. Not engaged in a public office or "trade or business" \(per 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\)\). Such offices include but 38 are not limited to statutory "person", "individual", "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse" under any civil statute or 39 franchise.
- 40 6. Not consenting to contract with or acquire any public status, public privilege, or public right under any 41 state or federal franchise. For instance, the phrase "private employee" means a common law worker that is 42 NOT the statutory "employee" defined within 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) or 26 C.F.R. §301.3401(c)-1 or any other 43 federal or state law or statute.
- 44 7. Not sharing ownership or control of their body or property with anyone, and especially a government. In 45 other words, ownership is not "qualified" but "absolute".
- 46 8. *Not subject to civil enforcement or regulation of any kind, except AFTER an injury to the equal rights of 47 others has occurred. Preventive rather than corrective regulation is an unlawful taking of property
 48 according to the Fifth Amendment takings clause.*

49 *Every attempt by anyone in government to alienate rights that the Declaration of Independence says are
 50 UNALIENABLE shall also be treated as "PRIVATE BUSINESSACTIVITY" that cannot be protected by sovereign,
 51 official, or judicial immunity. So called "government" cannot make a profitable business or franchise out of 52 alienating inalienable rights without ceasing to be a classical/de jure government and instead becoming in effect
 53 an economic terrorist and de facto government in violation of Article 4, Section 4.*

"No servant [or government or biological person] can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government]."
 [Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV]

[SEDM Disclaimer, Section 4: Meaning of Words; SOURCE: <http://sedm.org/disclaimer.htm>]

Black's Law Dictionary (Sixth Edition) defines our Constitutional Rights:

"... Natural rights are those which grow out of the nature of man [the Creator] and depend upon personality, as distinguished from such as are created by law and depend upon civilized society; or those which are plainly assured by natural law..."
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1324]

In other words, Natural Rights or Natural Laws come from nature [the Creator] and are separate and distinct from those laws derived by man. We also call them PRIVATE rights. Our Constitution not only recognizes these Natural Rights (Natural Laws), but guarantees them as individual Rights. The Constitution recognizes that they are superior to all other laws, including the laws made by man (any level of government). That is, unless of course you freely waive your Rights, which is exactly what you do under compulsion every time you file an income tax return. It is likely, however, that you didn't know that is what you were doing. Hence, this section.

Possession of a legal right conveys certain advantages upon us in a court of law as revealed by the U.S. supreme Court, Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803):

The very essence of civil liberty certainly consists in the right of every individual [note that he said individual and not citizen, since you don't have to be a citizen to have the protection of government] to claim the protection of the laws, whenever he receives an injury. One of the first duties of government is to afford that protection. In Great Britain the king himself is sued in the respectful form of a petition, and he never fails to comply with the judgment of his court.

In the 3d vol. of his Commentaries, p. 23, Blackstone states two cases in which a remedy is afforded by mere operation of law.

"In all other cases," he says, "it is a general and indisputable rule, that where there is a legal right, there is also a legal remedy by suit, or action at law, whenever that right is invaded."

And afterwards, p. 109, of the same vol. he says,

"I am next to consider such injuries as are cognizable by the court of the common law. And herein I shall for the present only remark, that all possible injuries whatsoever, that did not fall within the exclusive cognizance of either the ecclesiastical, military, or maritime tribunals, are, for that very reason, within the cognizance of the common law courts of justice; for it is a settled and invariable principle in the laws of England, that every right, when withheld, must have a remedy, and every injury its proper redress.

The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It will certainly cease to deserve this high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested legal right."

The above case is often cited as an authority on the subject of rights, even by the government, and makes mandatory reading for the budding freedom fighter.

The supreme Court has said repeatedly that governments may not tax or regulate the exercise of PRIVATE rights. Here is but one example:

"A state may not impose a charge for the enjoyment of a right granted by the Federal Constitution."
 [Murdock v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 319 U.S. 105, 63 S.Ct. 870 (1943)]

However, governments can regulate the exercise of "privileges":

"The power to tax the exercise of a privilege is the power to control or suppress its enjoyment."
 [Murdock v. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, 319 U.S. 105, 63 S.Ct. 870 (1943)]

4.3.2 PUBLIC Rights/Privileges Defined and Explained

What is a “privilege”? It is a PUBLIC right created by government in civil statutes conveying a right AGAINST the government or an agent of the government ONLY.

PRIVILEGE. A particular and peculiar benefit or advantage enjoyed by a person, company, or class, beyond the common advantages of other citizens. An exceptional or extraordinary power or exemption. A right, power, franchise, or immunity held by a person or class, against or beyond the course of the law. Waterloo Water Co. v. Village of Waterloo, 193 N.Y.S. 360, 362, 200 App.Div. 718; Colonial Motor Coach Corporation v. City of Oswego, 215 N.Y.S. 159,163,126 Misc. 829; Cope v. Flanery, 234 P. 845, 849, 70 Cal.App. 738; Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. v. Senter, 260 S.W. 144, 147, 149 Tenn. 569; State v. Betts, 24 N.J.L. 557.

An exemption from some burden or attendance, with which certain persons are indulged, from a supposition of law that the stations they All, or the offices they are engaged in, are such as require all their time and care, and that, therefore, without this indulgence, it would be impracticable to execute such offices to that advantage which the public good requires. Dike v. State, 38 Min. 366, 38 N.W. 95; International Trust Co. v. American L. & T. Co., 62 Minn. 501, 65 N.W. 78. State v. Gilman, 33 W.Va. 146, 10 S.E. 283, 6 L.R.A. 847. That which releases one from the performance of a duty or obligation, or exempts one from a liability which he would otherwise be required to perform, or sustain in common with all other persons. State v. Grosnickle, 189 Wis. 17, 206 N.W. 895, 896. A peculiar advantage, exemption, or immunity. Sacramento Orphanage & Children's Home v. Chambers, 25 Cal.App. 536, 144 P. 317, 319.

Civil Law

A right which the nature of a debt gives to a creditor, and which entitles him to be preferred before other creditors. Civil Code La. art. 3186. It is merely an accessory of the debt which it secures, and falls with the extinguishment of the debt. A. Baldwin & Co. v. McCain, 159 La. 966, 106 So. 459, 460. The civil-law privilege became, by adoption of the admiralty courts, the admiralty lien. Howe, Stud. Civ. L. 89; The J. E. Rumbell, 148U.S. 1, 13S.Ct. 498, 37 L.Ed. 345.

Privileges and immunities. Within the meaning of the 14th amendment of the United States constitution, such privileges as are fundamental, which belong to the citizens of all free governments and which have at all times been enjoyed by citizens of the United States. La Tourette v. McMaster, 104 S.C. 501, 89 S.E. 398, 399. They are only those which owe their existence to the federal government, its national character, its Constitution, or its laws. Ownbey v. Morgan, 256 U.S. 94, 41 S.Ct. 433, 65 L.Ed. 837, 17 A.L.R. 873; Prudential Ins. Co. of America v. Cheek, 25 U.S. 530, 42 S.Ct. 516, 520, 66 L.Ed. 1044, 27 A.L.R. 27; Rosenthal v. New York, 33 S.Ct. 27, 226 U.S. 260, 57 L.Ed. 212, Ann.Cas.1914B, 71. [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, pp. 1359-1360]

Those who may exercise government privileges must hold an OFFICE within the government to do so. It is interesting that we had to go to the English dictionary rather than the law dictionary to determine that privileges=offices:

priv•i•lege \ 'priv-lij, 'pri-və-\ noun

[Middle English, from Anglo-French, from Latin privilegium law for or against a private person, from privus private + leg-, lex law] 12th century: a right or immunity granted as a peculiar benefit, advantage, or favor: PREROGATIVE especially: such a right or immunity attached specifically to a position or an office. [Mish, F. C. (2003). Preface. Merriam-Webster's collegiate dictionary. (Eleventh ed.). Springfield, MA: Merriam-Webster, Inc.]

The key to having PRIVATE rights is to avoid the government trap of becoming a person in receipt of government privileges, meaning PUBLIC privileges. Even the U.S. Supreme court admitted this, when it said:

"The rights of sovereignty extend to all persons and things not privileged, that are within the territory. They extend to all strangers resident therein; not only to those who are naturalized, and to those who are domiciled therein, having taken up their abode with the intention of permanent residence, but also to those whose residence is transitory. All strangers are under the protection of the sovereign while they are within his territory and owe a temporary allegiance in return for that protection." [Carlisle v. United States, 83 U.S. 147, 154 (1973)]

Keep in mind that being a statutory “U.S. citizen”, in receipt of the “privileges and immunities” of federal citizenship derived from 8 U.S.C. §1401 is the very privilege that in effect, denies you your other Constitutionally guaranteed rights and personal sovereignty. Therefore, the key to having rights is also to not be a privileged statutory “U.S. citizen” or a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, but instead to be a “national” defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\) and the Fourteenth Amendment. You don't need statutory federal citizenship found in 8 U.S.C. §1401 to have rights. As we said at the beginning of this chapter and will say again in section 4.9, your PRIVATE rights come from the land you live on and not your citizenship status. The only thing that being a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 does is take away rights, not endow you with rights. "U.S. citizen" status under 8 U.S.C. §1401 was invented only to regulate and enslave people born in and occupying territories and possessions of the United States and has absolutely no bearing upon persons born in states of the Union. Everyone else who was born in a state of the Union already had the rights of kings!

*"No white person born within the limits of the United States, and subject to their [the states, and not the federal government] jurisdiction, or born without those limits, and subsequently naturalized under their laws, owes the status of citizenship to the recent amendments [Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments] to the Federal Constitution."
[Van Valkenburg v. Brown, 43 Cal. 43 (1872)]*

4.3.3 PUBLIC rights are created legislatively by the State and can be taken away while PRIVATE rights are created by God and cannot be taken away

A PRIVATE right is a behavior or a choice, the exercise of which can't be taken away, fined, taxed, or regulated by anyone, including the government. The rights recognized by the Bill of Rights are "unalienable" according to the Declaration of Independence.

*"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --"
[Declaration of Independence]*

The word "unalienable" is defined as follows:

*"Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]*

So in other words, PRIVATE rights protected by the Constitution or a REAL, de jure government may not lawfully be bargained away, sold, or transferred in relation to that government, including by the commercial mechanism of a franchise. Governments must drop to the level of PRIVATE individuals and surrender their sovereign immunity, in fact, before they can entice you out of a right protected by the Constitution without violating the Constitution and even then, they are violating the purpose of their creation and engaging in a commercial conflict of interest in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §208 to make a business (franchise) out of destroying and enticing you out of your rights.

See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) ("The United States does business on business terms") (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) ("When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent") (citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) ("The United States, when they contract with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf"; Cooke v. United States, 91 U.S. 389, 398 (1875) (explaining that when the United States "comes down from its position of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals there").

*See Jones, 1 Cl.Ct. at 85 ("Wherever the public and private acts of the government seem to commingle, a citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place, and then the question be determined whether the action will lie against the supposed defendant"; O'Neill v. United States, 231 Ct.Cl. 823, 826 (1982) (sovereign acts doctrine applies where, "[w]here [the] contracts exclusively between private parties, the party hurt by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing action"). The dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz drew its reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize the need to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party.
[United States v. Winstar Corp., 518 U.S. 839 (1996)]*

What specifically do PRIVATE rights attach to? They attach irrevocably to LAND protected by the Constitution, and not to the STATUS of the people standing on said land.

"It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it."

[Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922) ]

Notice that the Declaration of Independence also states that all men are EQUAL. The results of the requirement that rights are unalienable and that all men are equal are the following:

1. Kings are impossible.
2. The source of all sovereignty is the People as private individuals and NOT as a collective.

“Sovereignty is the right to govern; a nation or State-sovereign is the person or persons in whom that resides. In Europe the sovereignty is generally ascribed to the Prince; here it rests with the people; there, the sovereign actually administers the Government; here, never in a single instance; our Governors are the agents [fiduciaries] of the people, and at most stand in the same relation to their sovereign, in which regents in Europe stand to their sovereigns. Their Princes have personal powers, dignities, and pre-eminences, our rulers have none but official; nor do they partake in the sovereignty otherwise, or in any other capacity, than as private citizens.” at 472.

3. All governments are established by authority delegated by the people they serve. In that sense, they govern ONLY by our continuing consent and when they fail to do their job properly, it is our right AND duty as the Sovereigns they serve to fire them by changing our domicile and forming a competing government that does a better job.
4. No group or collection of men can have any more authority than a single man.
5. No government, which is simply a collection of men, can have any more authority, rights, or privileges than a single man.
6. The people cannot delegate an authority they do not themselves individually have. For instance, they cannot delegate the authority to injure the equal rights of others by stealing from others. Hence, they cannot delegate an authority to a government to collect a tax that redistributes wealth by taking from one group of private individuals and giving it to another group or class of private individuals.
7. A government that asserts “sovereign immunity” must also give natural persons the same right. When governments assert sovereign immunity in court, their opponent has to produce evidence of consent to be sued in writing. The same concept of sovereign immunity pertains to us as natural persons, where if the government attempts to allege that we consented to something, they too must produce evidence of consent to be sued and surrender rights IN WRITING.
8. The only place where all men are UNEQUAL is on federal territory where Constitutional rights do not exist.

If you would like a wonderful, animated version of the above concepts, then we highly recommend the following:

Philosophy of Liberty

<http://sedm.org/LibertyU/PhilosophyOfLiberty.htm>

Why is all of this relevant and important to the subject of government authority over private persons? Because once you understand this concept of equality, you also understand that:

1. The foundation of the Constitution is equal protection.
2. Any attempt to make us unequal constitutes tyranny, usurpation, and slavery.
3. Any attempt to do any of the following constitutes tyranny, usurpation, and slavery:
  - 3.1. Replace rights with privileges.
  - 3.2. Describe rights as privileges.
  - 3.3. Call a privilege a “right”.
4. Any attempt to do any of the following constitutes tyranny, usurpation, and slavery because it compels us into subjection and subordination to a political ruler as a “public official”:
  - 4.1. Compel us to participate in a government franchise.
  - 4.2. Presume that we consented to participate in said franchise without being required to obtain our consent in writing where all rights surrendered to procure the benefits of the franchise are fully disclosed.
  - 4.3. Replace a de jure government service with a franchise.
  - 4.4. Confer benefits of a franchise against our will and without our consent.
5. Any attempt to make some persons or groups of persons more equal than others is idolatry in violation of the first four commandments of the Ten Commandments. See Exodus 20:3-8. It amounts to the establishment of a religion and a “superior being”. All religions are based on the “worship” of superior beings, and the essence of “worship” is obedience. The fact that obedience to this superior being is a product of the force implemented under the authority of law doesn’t change the nature of the relationship at all. It is STILL a religion.

1                   “You shall have no other gods [or rulers or governments] before Me.

2                   You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or
 3                   *that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them
 4                   nor serve them [rulers or governments]. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the*
 5                   iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me,
 6                   but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.
 7                   [Exodus 20:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

8       A PUBLIC privilege, on the other hand, is something that can be taken away at any moment, usually at the discretion of the 9       entity providing it, subject only to the contractual and legal constraints governing your relationship with that entity. They
 10      attach to your CIVIL STATUS, which you acquire through a domicile in a specific place and thereby becoming subject to 11      the statutory civil laws of that place. For instance, it is unconstitutional for the government to tax or fine you for exercising
 12      your right to free speech guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution. Voting, for instance, is a privilege. It is 13      also called the “elective franchise”. The government can lawfully revoke that privilege if you are convicted of a felony.
 14      Anything that can be revoked legislatively is a privilege rather than a right.

15     You can’t be fined for exercising the right not to incriminate yourself guaranteed by the 5th Amendment, by, for instance,
 16     fining you $500 (under the “Jurat” amendment and 26 U.S.C. §6702) for refusing to sign your 1040 income tax return “under 17     penalty of perjury”. The government also should never be permitted to fine you for your right under the Petition clause of 18     the constitution to correct a government wrongdoing (the First Amendment states that we have a right “to petition the 19     Government for a redress of grievances.”), but in fact the courts routinely do this anyway, in violation of the Constitution.
 20     This tactic is part of the “judicial conspiracy to protect the income tax” defined elsewhere in this document, including in 21     section 6.6. The fact that most Americans allow and tolerate this kind of injustice, abuse, and violation of their God-given
 22     rights confounds us and simply reveals how apathetic and indifferent we have become about our heritage and our treasured
 23     rights under the Constitution of the United States.

24     PUBLIC Privileges attach to a statutory “status” rather than to land protected by the Constitution as in the case of rights.
 25     Such statutory statuses include “taxpayer”, “citizen”, “resident”, “employee”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc. If you don’t have the 26     status, then you can’t exercise the privilege, and usually the only way you can acquire the status is by filling out a government
 27     form that usually calls itself an “application”. For instance, IRS Form W-4 identifies itself as an “Employee Withholding
 28     Allowance Certificate”. If you fill out, sign, and submit that form the regulations controlling its use say that it is an agreement
 29     or contract and that you are to be treated as a statutory “employee” beyond that point but NOT before. If you don’t want the 30     status of statutory “employee” under federal law or don’t want the “benefits” associated with said status such as social
 31     insurance, then you have to use a different form such as IRS Form W-8BEN.

32     Privileges, however, are much different from rights. Privileges we want are how the government, our employer, and others
 33     we know enslave and coerce us into giving up our rights voluntarily. Giving up a right is an injury, and as one shrewd friend
 34     frequently said:

35                   “The more you want, the more the world can hurt you.”

36     The more needy and desperate we allow ourselves to become, the more susceptible we become to being abused by voluntarily
 37     jeopardizing our rights and becoming willing slaves to others. There is nothing unconstitutional or illegal about giving away
 38     our rights to PRIVATE parties and not governments in exchange for benefits in this way, so long as we do it voluntarily and 39     with full knowledge of exactly what we are giving up to procure the benefit. The Constitution doesn’t apply to transactions
 40     involving private parties, in fact. This is called “informed consent”. Situations where we surrender rights in exchange for 41     privileges are commonplace and actually are the foundation of the commercial marketplace. This exchange is referred to as 42     a business transaction and is usually governed by some contractual or legal vehicle in order to protect the property interests
 43     of the parties to the transaction. This legal vehicle is the Uniform Commercial Code, or UCC and the contract that fixes the 44     rights of the two or PRIVATE parties to it. An example of a privilege we give up our property rights to exercise is legalized
 45     gambling. If a person is a compulsive gambler and they lose their whole life savings and gamble themselves into massive 46     debt, they in effect have sold themselves into legalized financial slavery to the casino. That’s perfectly legal, and the laws
 47     will protect the property interest of the casino and the right of the casino to collect on the debt. Even though the Thirteenth
 48     Amendment outlawed slavery and even though the gambler might be a slave in this circumstance, because it was his choice
 49     and he wasn’t compelled to do it, then it isn’t illegal or unconstitutional.

Another example of privileges being exchanged for rights is when we obtain a state marriage license. When we voluntarily get a marriage license, we basically surrender our God-given right to control the fruit of our marriage, including our children and all our property, and give jurisdiction to the government to control every aspect of our lives. Many people do this because their hormones get the better of them and they aren't practical or rational enough to negotiate the terms of their marriage and won't sit down with their spouse and write down an agreement that will keep the government out of their lives. Marriage is supposed to be a confidential spiritual and religious union between a man and a woman, but when we get a marriage license, we violate the separation of church and state and actually get married not only to our spouse, but also to the government. We become, in effect, a polygamist! A marriage license is a license to the government, not to us, that allows them to invade our lives any way they see fit at any time at the request of either spouse and based on the presumption that they are furthering the "public good", whatever that is! If couples get married in the church and get a marriage certificate but don't get a marriage license from the state, then the government has no jurisdiction over the spouses, the children, or the property of the marriage, and the only way it can get jurisdiction, under such circumstances is to PROVE that someone within the relationship is being hurt by the actions of others. If divorce results from an unlicensed marriage, the parties can litigate if need be, but the government has to stay within the bounds of any written or verbal agreement that the spouses have between them.

The government can't take away or even bargain away rights protected by the Constitution because the Declaration of Independence, which is "organic law" of this country which is implemented by the Constitution, says these rights are "unalienable", which means they can't be sold or transferred by any commercial process, including franchises.

"Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred [to the government]."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

However, governments can definitely take away privileges, often indiscriminately. For instance, receiving social security checks is a privilege, and not a right. The courts have repeatedly ruled that social security is not a contract or a right, but a privilege. We can only earn that privilege by "volunteering" to be a U.S. or "federal" statutory and NOT constitutional "citizen" and paying into the Social Security System. Paying into the Social Security System means participants have to waive their right to not be taxed on our income with direct taxes, which the Constitution forbids. Same thing for Medicare and disability insurance. There is nothing immoral or unethical or illegal with being taxed on our income to support these programs provided:

1. The programs are ONLY offered to those domiciled and physically present on federal territory that is no part of any state of the Union, who are called statutory "U.S. citizens" and "U.S. residents". Offering the "benefit" to those domiciled outside the territory of the sovereign such as those domiciled in states of the Union is a violation of the separation of powers doctrine.
2. Those being offered the "benefit" are informed prior to joining that participation was voluntary and that we could not be coerced to join or punished for not joining.
3. The program is only offered to EXISTING public officers in the government and is NOT used as a mechanism to unlawfully create any NEW offices. Pursuant to 4 U.S.C. §72, all such public offices may be exercise ONLY in the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere, except as expressly provided by law. There is no provision within the I.R.C. or the Social Security Act that in fact authorizes the creation of NEW public offices or the exercise of the offices that it does regulate within the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union. Furthermore, there are no internal revenue districts within any state of the Union, so revenue can't be collected outside the District of Columbia, which is the only remaining internal revenue district.
4. There is some measure of accountability and fiduciary duty associated with the government in managing and investing our money. Good stewardship of our contributions by the government is expected and bad stewardship is punished by the law and those who enforce the law.
5. We are informed frequently by the fiduciary that we can leave the program at any time, and that our benefits will be proportional to our contributions.
6. We made a conscious, informed decision on a signed contract to sacrifice our rights to qualify to receive the benefit or privilege. This is called "informed consent", which can only exist where there is "full disclosure" by either party of the rights surrendered and the benefits obtained through the surrender of rights. This approach is the basis for what is called "good faith" dealing.
7. If you die young or never collect benefits, your contributions plus interest should be given to your relatives, so that the government doesn't benefit financially from people dying.
8. There is no unwritten or invisible or undisclosed contract that binds us, and nothing will be expected of us that wasn't clearly explained up front before we signed the contract.

1 However, the problem is that our federal government has mismanaged the funds put into the Social Security System and
2 squandered the money. This has lead them to violate their fiduciary duties and the above requirements as follows:

- 3 1. Government employees routinely and deliberately waive or overlook the domicile requirement as a matter of public
4 policy rather than law, and thereby turn a government function into private business. See 20 C.F.R. §422.104, which 5 says that only statutory “citizens” and “residents” domiciled on federal territory within a statutory but not
6 constitutional “State” may lawfully participate.
- 7 2. The government refuses to be accountable or to notify us of the benefits we have earned. They also don’t tell us on 8 their statements how much we would earn if we quit contributing today and only drew benefits based on what we 9 paid in the past.
- 10 3. The federal government won’t tell us that participation is voluntary and they provide no means on the social security 11 website (<http://www.ssa.gov>) to de-enroll from the program. Instead, they try to fool us all into thinking that the 12 program is mandatory when in fact it is entirely voluntary. The reason the U.S. Government won’t tell us that 13 participation is voluntarily is that so many people would leave such an inefficient and poorly managed system to 14 start their own plans when they find this out that the Ponzi scheme it has become would suffer instant meltdown and 15 would turn into a big scandal!
- 16 4. If you never collect benefits or you die young, all the money you paid in and the interest aren’t given to your relatives
17 as an inheritance. The government keeps EVERYTHING, and this is a BIG injustice that would not occur if the 18 program were run more like the annuity that it should be.
- 19 5. There is no written agreement or contract, so they have no obligation or liability to be good stewards over our 20 contributions.
- 21 6. Our kids are coerced into joining the system when they are born under the Enumeration At Birth program and the 22 decision is made by their parents and not by them directly. This is unethical and immoral. See section 2.8.7.1 for 23 details on this type of scamming by the government.
- 24 7. We are also coerced by our parents to join because the IRS deceives us into thinking that we are obligated to get 25 Socialist Security Numbers for each of our children in order to qualify to use them as deductions on our taxes. In 26 effect, they bribe us with our own money to sell our children into slavery into this inept and poorly managed system.

27 For all the above reasons and many more, we recommend exiting this bankrupt welfare-state system as quickly as you can!
28 It’s a “privilege” you can’t be coerced to participate in anyway. We have to ask ourselves: Is a compelled benefit really a
29 benefit, or just another form of slavery? The trick is determining how to escape, because you will get absolutely NO help
30 from the Social Security Administration or the government! We provide answers to this dilemma of how to abandon the 31 Social Security Program and your federal citizenship in Chapter 3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

32 4.3.4 The Creator of a Right Determines Who May Regulate and Tax It

33 The creator of a right determines who may regulate and tax a specific right. If the creator is God or the Constitution, the right
34 is PRIVATE. If the creator is the state through a legislative enactment, the right is PUBLIC.

35 According to the Declaration of Independence, our PRIVATE rights come for God and not government or any law enacted
36 by government:

37 *“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
38 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure*
39 these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,
40 –”
41 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

42 Some people ignorantly argue that the Declaration of Independence cited above is not “LAW” and they are wrong. The very 43 first enactment of Congress on p. 1 of volume 1 of the Statutes At Large incorporated the Declaration of Independence as the 44 laws of this country. Don’t believe us on this critical point? Watch Judge Andrew Napolitano say the same thing. He also 45 says that law is THE MOST VIOLATED provision of law in existence:

Judge Andrew Napolitano says the Declaration of Independence is LAW enacted by Congress, SEDM Exhibit #03.006
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

46 An unalienable PRIVATE right is one that cannot be sold, bargained away, or transferred by any process, including either
47 your consent or through any franchise:

1                    "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
2                    [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

3 As the Declaration of Independence states, governments are established to secure and protect PRIVATE rights. Here is an
4 affirmation of these principles by the U.S. Supreme Court:

5                    "The most basic function of any government is to provide for the security of the individual and of his [PRIVATE]
6                    property. Lanzetta v. New Jersey, 306 U. S. 451, 455. These ends of society are served by the criminal laws which
7                    for the most part are aimed at the prevention of crime. Without the reasonably effective performance of the task
8                    of preventing private violence and retaliation, it is idle to talk about human dignity and civilized values."
9                    [Miranda v. Arizona, 384 U.S. 436, 539 (1966)]

10 Any attempt to alienate PRIVATE rights, and especially if done without the consent of the owner of the right, therefore:

- 11 1. Works a purpose OPPOSITE for which government was created.
- 12 2. Is a breach of fiduciary duty on the part of the government.
- 13 3. Is a theft.
- 14 4. Must be classified as PRIVATE business activity that may not be protected with sovereign immunity. Sovereign 15 immunity, recall, may only be invoked by de jure governments, not private corporations masquerading as 16 "government", which we call "de facto government".

17 We should be asking ourselves: Just how sacred are our God given constitutionally protected PRIVATE rights? Have we 18 lost sight of our objective of restoring liberty for ourselves and family? And even if we know something is wrong, and we 19 start to do something about it, are we standing on solid ground?

20 We are the masters over our government and not its subjects. We are the "sovereign people" as the U.S. Supreme Court called 21 us in Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 12 S.Ct. 375, 143 U.S. 135, 36 L.Ed. 103 (1892). We should not allow ourselves to be 22 compelled to waive fundamental rights to comply with some taxing scheme, merely for exercising my right to work and exist.

23 We absolutely have no "legal duty" to waive our fundamental rights to:

- 24 1. Speak or not to speak, as protected under the First Amendment.
- 25 2. Be secure in my personal home, papers and effects, as protected under the Fourth Amendment.
- 26 3. Not be compelled to be a witness against myself per the Fifth Amendment.
- 27 4. Due process of law, as protected under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments.
- 28 5. An impartial jury, as protected under the Sixth amendment.
- 29 6. Any other rights protected under the Ninth Amendment.

30 This is not a wild theory claim. We don't need to claim rights under the state Uniform Commercial Code. Our rights are God
31 given, not commercially given. Neither do I need to fear waiving a right because I use a "zip code" as part of my mailing 32 address.

33 The Supreme Court of the United States has already ruled on the standard for waiver of rights.

34                    "Waivers of constitutional rights not only must be voluntary but must be knowing, intelligent acts done with 35                    sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and likely consequences."
36                    [Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. at 749, 90 S.Ct. 1463 at 1i469 (1970). ]

37 See also the following cases:

38                    Fuentes v. Shevin, 407 U.S. 67 (1972);
39                    Brookhart v. Janis, 384 U.S. 6 (1966);
40                    Empsak v. U.S., 349 U.S. 190 (1955);
41                    Johnson v. Zerbst, 304 U.S. 58 (1938).

42 The issue of protection of rights has a track record 10 miles long. We should be able to confidently say:

43                    "We got em, they are ours, you (government) can't take em. If you (government) say that we lost them or waived
44                    them, the burden of proof is on you (government) to show us how we lost them or waived them or where you have 45                    the authority to take them."

1 Let us cite an example that establishes a standard for the protection of rights, so you can see some of these cases that establish
2 that track record. Back in the 60's, there was a voting rights case down in Texas. The state of Texas was imposing a poll tax
3 on the voters prior to letting them vote. The Texas U.S. District Court said in U.S. v. Texas, 252 F.Supp 234, 254, (1966):

4 "Since, in general, only those who wish to vote pay the poll tax, the tax as administered by the State, is equivalent
5 to a charge or a penalty imposed on the exercise of a fundamental right. If the tax were increased to a high degree,
6 as it could be if valid, it would result in the destruction of the right to vote. See Grosjean v. American Press Co.,
7 297 U.S. 233, 244, 54 S.Ct. 444 (1936)."
8 [U.S. v. Texas, 252 F.Supp 234, 254, (1966)]

9 [Note that the court reiterated the fundamental premise of law expressed by Chief Justice John Marshall in the landmark
10 decision of McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat 418 at.431 (1819), that "the power to tax is the power to destroy."]

11 The Texas district court went on to quote from the Supreme Court case of Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85
12 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965):

13 "It has long been established that a State may not impose a penalty upon those who exercise a right guaranteed
14 by the Constitution." Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of California, 271 U.S. 583. "Constitutional
15 rights would be of little value if they could be indirectly denied,' Smith v. Allwright, 321 US. 649, 644, or 16 manipulated out of existence,' Gomillion v. Lightfoot, 364 U.S. 339, 345."
17 [Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965)]

18 That Texas federal district court held the poll tax unconstitutional and invalid and enjoined the state of Texas from requiring 19 the payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting.

20 Now a rare legal procedure followed that ruling. The state of Texas appealed. Not to the court of appeals, but directly to the 21 Supreme Court. And in an equally rare circumstance, the Supreme Court took the district court's opinion as its own and 22 affirmed the Judgment based on the facts and opinion stated by the district court. See Texas v. U.S., 384 U.S. 155 (1966).

23 When the Amendments to the Constitution for the United States were ratified, they were considered a bill of restrictions on 24 the government, not a legislative grant of privileges that could be taken from "we the people." The courts have upheld this 25 premise many times, so if you're going to take a stand, it would be wise to base that stand on a position that has, at the 26 minimum, the track record established for the guarantee of fundamental rights. There is none better!!

27 The conclusion of this exercise then, is that the government cannot tax or penalize the exercise of a right. You might then 28 ask yourself:

- 29 1. How can the IRS impose a $5000 fine for filing a so-called "frivolous" tax return that exercises our Fifth Amendment
30 right not to incriminate ourselves and doesn't have our signature? (this is called a Jurat violation)
- 31 2. Why does the IRS impose a $50 fine upon employers or individual who file a 1099 form that does not have a social 32 security number if the party we employed wants his or her 5th Amendment right not to incriminate him/herself respected?
- 33 3. Why can the state require individuals to provide their social security number in order to get a driver's license that allows 34 them to exercise their RIGHT to travel?
- 35 4. Why can the government impose penalties on individuals for the exercise of rights when the Constitution in Article 1, 36 Section 9, Clause 3 specifically forbids the federal government to impose Bills of Attainder, which are penalties not 37 imposed by a jury trial? Likewise, Article 1, Section 10 also forbids states to impose penalties without a judicial trial?

38 The answer is that neither the state nor federal governments are legally allowed to do any of the above in a state of the union
39 where the Bill of Rights apply, because they amount to a tax or a penalty on the exercise of a God-given right! On the other
40 hand, they are perfectly entitled to do all of the above as long as they are doing so within the federal zone, where the Bill of 41 Rights do not apply, which is why we say throughout this book that the Internal Revenue Code and most state income tax
42 laws can only apply within the federal zone. The source of authority to do the above is a legislative grant of PUBLIC
43 privileges, not PRIVATE rights. If you look for the implementing regulations that authorize any of the above actions, they 44 don't exist. Because implementing regulations are not required for laws that only apply to government employees, then this 45 is a strong clue that Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code can ONLY apply to federal employees who are elected or 46 appointed officers of the United States government in receipt of taxable privileges of public office. Applying any of the 47 penalties mentioned above to anyone but appointed or elected officers of the United States government and who reside in 48 states of the Union are ILLEGAL and constitute a tort that you can sue for in court. These are the very illegal actions that 49 convert our glorious republic into a relativistic, totalitarian socialistic democracy where the collective as a whole is the

1 sovereign and no individuals have rights. They continue to be perpetrated because of fundamental ignorance about the 2 separation of powers and sovereignty between the state and federal governments.

4 manipulating rights out of existence and substituting penalties in their place, see:

2 Lastly, it is VERY important to realize that the very words we use to describe ourselves establish whether we are engaged in
3 a privileged activity or a right. We must be VERY careful to recognize key “words or art” that create a false legal presumption
4 of “privilege” and remove or replace them from our written and spoken vocabulary and all the government forms and
5 correspondence. This subject is covered more thoroughly in section 4.5.2.6 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions
6 Manual, Form #10.005, if you would like to know more. Below is a table showing you how to describe yourself so as to 7 avoid any association with “privileged” and thus “taxable” activities or status:

A “national” is not, unless of course he injures the equal rights of others. See section 4.9 and following later.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4  | “Taxpayer” status                   | Taxpayer                  | Nontaxpayer                   | A “taxpayer” is subject to the I.R.C. A “nontaxpayer” is not. He is “foreign” with respect to it, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5  | Marriage status                     | Married                   | Betrothed                     | Those who are “married” have a license. The only “marriages” recognized in most states is a licensed marriage. All persons with licensed marriages are polygamists. They marry BOTH the state AND their spouse and consent to be subject to the family code in their state.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 6  | Country to which you owe allegiance | “United States”           | “United States of America”    | The “United States” is the government of the District of Columbia and the territories and possessions of the federal government and excludes states of the Union, which are “foreign” with respect to the legislative jurisdiction of states of the Union.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 7  | What you earn by working            | “wages”“income”       | Earnings                      | “wages”, which are defined under 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3, can only be earned by federal statutory “employees”, which are elected or appointed officers of the United States government under 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1. “income” can only be earned by federally chartered corporations under the indirect excise tax upon “trade or business” activity described in Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. Since you don’t hold a “public office” and are not engaged in a “trade or business”, then you are incapable of earning either “wages” or “income”. See section 5.6.7 later for details. |
| 8  | Employment status                   | Self-employedEmployee | Self-supportingWorker     | The only “employees” under the Internal Revenue Code are those connected with a “trade or business”, as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1. The only people who are “self employed” are those federal “employees” who have income connected with a “trade or business”, which is a “public office” as shown in 26 U.S.C. §1402.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

| 10 | Place to send mail                  | Address                   | Dwelling                      | You can’t “have” or “possess” an address. An “address” is information, not a location. A dwelling is a physical location.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

1 Do you see how tricky this game with words is? We covered this earlier in section 3.9.1 as well. The trickiness is deliberate,
2 so that you can be deceived by a covetous government into becoming a “subject” of their corrupt laws and a feudal serf
3 residing on the federal plantation:

4 *“For where [government] envy and self-seeking [of money they are not entitled to] exist, confusion [and 5 deception] and every evil thing will be there.”
6 [James 3:16, Bible, NKJV]*

7 4.3.6 PRIVATE Civil Liberties v. PUBLIC Civil Rights v. PUBLIC Political Rights

8 There is a great deal of confusion over the distinctions between “civil rights”, “civil liberties”, “constitutional rights”, and 9 “political rights” and the nature of each as either PUBLIC or PRIVATE. We believe this confusion is deliberately crafted to 10 confuse PUBLIC and PRIVATE so that PRIVATE is easier to STEAL for covetous politicians.

11 Most legal publications are not very useful in helping distinguish each right as PUBLIC or PRIVATE and the definitions
12 have historically change drastically over the years, which makes the task even more difficult. The distinctions we make in 13 this section are therefore somewhat arbitrary but intended to prevent the confusion of PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights so that 14 PRIVATE rights are not lost or indiscriminately converted to PUBLIC rights without the consent of the owner.

15 It is very important to understand that there are three classes of rights within our system of jurisprudence. All other “rights”
16 are simply subsets of these three classes of rights:

- 17 1. PRIVATE Civil Liberties. Also called PRIVATE rights. Relate to the Bill of Rights and natural rights and have no
18 relation to the establishment, support or management of the government. Attach to the land you stand on and not your 19 citizenship status. Everyone, whether alien or citizen, has this kind of right and the protection afforded by government
20 is equal to all for this type of right. On this subject,, the U.S. Supreme Court said:

21 “The Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution is not confined to the protection of citizens. It says:

22 Nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor 23 deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

24 These provisions are universal in their application to all persons within the territorial jurisdiction, without regard
25 to any differences of race, of color, or of nationality; and the equal protection of the laws is a pledge of the 26 protection of equal laws.”

27 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

- 28 2. PUBLIC Civil Rights. Also called PUBLIC rights. Privileges granted to STATUTORY “citizens” and “residents” and 29 created by Congress. Available mainly to those physically present on and domiciled on federal territory. You lose these 30 rights if you change your domicile to be outside of federal territory.
- 31 3. PUBLIC Political rights. Also called PUBLIC rights. Are a privilege incident to citizenship. Involve participation, 32 directly or indirectly, in the establishment or management of the government. They include voting, the right to serve as 33 a jurist, and the right to occupy public office. In most jurisdictions, political rights usually have the prerequisite of 34 “allegiance”, in order to ensure that those who manage or administer the government as voters and jurists have the best
35 interests of the society in mind.

36 “Civil rights” and “Political rights” as used above were first defined and clarified in the case of Fletcher v. Tuttle, 151 Ill. 41,
37 37 N.E. 683 (1894). Note that BOTH of these types of rights refer to “members of a district community or nation”:

38 “As defined by Anderson, a civil right is ‘a right accorded to every member of a district community or nation,’
39 while a political right is a ‘right exercisable in the administration of government.’ And, Law Dict. 905. Says
40 Bouvier: ‘Political rights consist in the power to participate, directly or indirectly, in the establishment or
41 management of the government. These political rights are fixed by the constitution. Every citizen has the right
42 of voting for public officers, and of being elected. These are the political rights which the humblest citizen
43 possesses. Civil rights are those which have no relation to the establishment, support, or management of the 44 government. They consist in the power of acquiring and enjoying property, or exercising the paternal and
45 marital powers, and the like. It will be observed that every one, unless deprived of them by sentence of civil 46 death, is in the enjoyment of the civil rights, which is not the case with political rights; for an alien, for example,
47 has no political, although in full enjoyment of the civil, rights.’ 2 Bouv. Law Dict. 597.

1 The question, then, is whether the assertion and protection of political rights, as judicial power is apportioned in
 2 this state between courts of law and courts of chancery, are a proper matter of chancery jurisdiction. We would
 3 not be understood as holding that political rights are not a matter of judicial solicitude and protection, and that
 4 the appropriate judicial tribunal will not, in proper cases, give them prompt and efficient protection, but we think
 5 they do not come within the proper cognizance of courts of equity. In Sheridan v. Colvin, 78 Ill. 237, this court,
 6 adopting, in substance, the language of Kerr on Injunctions, said: 'It is elementary law that the subject of the 7 jurisdiction of the court of chancery is civil property. The court is conversant only with the questions of property
 8 and the maintenance of civil rights. Injury to property, whether actual or prospective, is the foundation on which 9 the jurisdiction rests. The court has no jurisdiction in matters merely criminal or [151 Ill. 54]merely immoral,
 10 which do not affect any right of property. Nor do matters of a political character come within the jurisdiction of 11 the court of chancery. Nor has the court of chancery jurisdiction to interfere with the public duties of any 12 department of the government, except under special circumstances, and where necessary for the protection of 13 rights or property.' In that case the police commissioners of the city of Chicago filed their bill in chancery against 14 the mayor, the members of the common council, and certain officers of the city to restrain the enforcement of the 15 city ordinance reorganizing the police force of the city, and depriving the complainants of their functions as 16 police commissioners, it being claimed that the common council had no power to pass the ordinance, and that it
 17 was consequently void. It was held that the rights which were thus sought to be protected and enforced were 18 purely political, and that a court of chancery, therefore, had no jurisdiction to interfere with the passage or 19 enforcement of the ordinance. In Dickey v. Reed, 78 Ill. 261, a bill in chancery was filed by the state's attorney of 20 Cook county, and by taxpayers of the city of Chicago, to restrain the members of the common council of the city
 21 and the city clerk from canvassing the returns of the election held in the city April 23, 1875, upon the question
 22 whether the city would become incorporated under the general incorporation act. It was claimed that the election,
 23 for certain reasons, was void, and also that gross frauds had been perpetrated at the election, by depositing a 24 large number of ballots in the ballot boxes which had not been cast by the voters, and that a large number of the 25 illegal and fraudulent votes in favor of organization had been cast, and that various other irregularities, having 26 the effect of invalidating the election, had intervened. A preliminary injunction having been awarded, it was 27 disregarded by the city officers, who proceeded, notwithstanding, to canvass the vote and declare [151 Ill. 55]the 28 result. Various of the city officers and their advisers were attached and fined for contempt, and, on appeal to this
 29 court from the judgment for contempt, it was held that the matter presented by the bill was a matter over which a
 30 court of chancery had no jurisdiction, and that the injunction was void, so that its violation was not an act which
 31 subjected the violators to proceedings for contempt. In Harris v. Schryock, 82 Ill. 119, it was held that the power
 32 to hold an election is political, and not judicial, and that a court of equity has no jurisdiction to restrain officers
 33 from the exercise of such powers; and it was said that this was in accordance with repeated decisions of this
 34 court, and in support of that statement. People v. City of Galesburg, 48 Ill. 485; Walton v. Develing, 61 Ill.
 35 201; Darst v. People, 62 Ill. 306; and Dickey v. Reed, supra, are cited. So, in Delahanty v. Warner, 75 Ill. 185, it
 36 was held that a court of equity has no jurisdiction to entertain a bill to enjoin the mayor and aldermen of a city
 37 from removing a party from office, and appointing a successor, and from preventing the party from discharging
 38 his duties after removal by them, as the party's remedy as law is complete by quo warranto against the successor,
 39 or by mandamus against the mayor and councilmen. In State v. Stanton, 6 Wall. 50, a bill was filed by the state
 40 of Georgia against the secretary of war and other officers representing the executive authority of the United
 41 States, to restrain them in the execution of the acts of congress known as the 'Reconstruction Acts,' on the ground
 42 that the enforcement of those acts would annul and totally abolish the existing state government of the state, and
 43 establish another and different one in its place, and would, in effect, overthrow and destroy the corporate 44 existence of the state, by depriving it of all means and instrumentalities whereby its existence might and otherwise
 45 would be maintained; and it was held that the bill [151 Ill. 56]called for a judgment upon a political question,
 46 and that it would not therefore be entertained by a court of chancery; and it was further held that the character
 47 of the bill was not changed by the fact that, in setting forth the political rights sought to be protected, it averred
 48 that the state had real and personal property, such, for example, as public buildings, etc., of the enjoyment of
 49 which, by the destruction of its corporate existence, the state would be deprived, such averment not being the
 50 substantial ground of the relief sought. In Re Sawyer, 124 U. S. 200, 8 Sup. Ct. 482, it was held that the circuit
 51 court of the United States had no jurisdiction to entertain a bill in equity to restrain the mayor and committee of 52 a city in Nebraska from removing a city officer upon charges filed against him for misfeasance in office, and that
 53 an injunction issued on such bill, as well as an order committing certain persons for contempt in disregarding
 54 the injunction, was absolutely void. In that case the court say. 'The office and jurisdiction of a court of equity,
 55 unless enlarged by express statute, are limited to the protection of rights of property. It has no jurisdiction over
 56 the prosecution, the punishment, or the pardon of crimes or misdemeanors, or over the appointment and removal
 57 of public officers. To assume such jurisdiction, or to sustain a bill in equity to restrain or relieve against 58 proceedings for the punishment of offenses, or for the removal of public officers, is to invade the domain of the 59 courts of common law, or of the executive and administrative department of the government.' In support of its 60 decision, the court cites, among various other cases, the decisions of this court in Delahanty v. Warner, Sheridan
 61 v. Colvin, and Dickey v. Reed, above referred to, and quotes with approval the passage in the opinion in Sheridan
 62 v. Colvin above set forth, taken, in substance, from Kerr on Injunctions. [151 Ill. 57]Other authorities of similar
 63 import might be referred to, but the foregoing are amply sufficient to show that wherever the established
 64 distinctions between equitable and common-law jurisdiction are observed, as they are in this state, courts of
 65 equity have no authority or jurisdiction to interpose for the protection of rights which are merely political, and 66 where no civil or property right is involved. In all such cases, the remedy, if there is one, may be sought in a court
 67 of law. The extraordinary jurisdiction of courts of chancery cannot therefore be invoked to protect the right of a
 68 citizen to vote or to be voted for at an election, or his right to be a candidate for or to be elected to any office;
 69 nor can it be invoked for the purpose of restraining the holding of an election, or of directing or controlling the 70 mode in which, or of determining the rules of law in pursuance of which, an election shall be held. These matters
 71 involve in themselves no property rights, but pertain solely to the political administration of government. If a 72 public officer, charged with political administration, has disobeyed or threatens to disobey the mandate of the

1 law, whether in respect to calling or conducting an election or otherwise, the party injured or threatened with
 2 injury in his political rights is not without remedy; but his remedy must be sought in a court of law, and not in a
 3 court of chancery.

4 The only decision to which we are referred in which relief of the character of that sought in this case was given
 5 in what was in substance an equitable proceeding is State v. Cunningham, 83 Wis. 90, 53 N. W. 35. That was an
 6 original proceeding brought in the supreme court of Wisconsin, to test the validity of the apportionment law,
 7 passed by the legislature of that state, dividing the state into legislative districts. An injunction was prayed to 8 restrain the secretary of state from publishing notices of an election of members of the senate and assembly in 9 the legislative districts attempted to be created by that act, and from filing [151 Ill. 58]and preserving in his office
 10 certificates of nomination and nomination papers, and from certifying the same to the several county clerks. The 11 court entertained jurisdiction of the proceeding, and, on final hearing, awarded a perpetual injunction as prayed
 12 for. We have carefully considered the case as reported, and, if we understand it correctly, it cannot, in our opinion,
 13 be regarded as an authority in favor of equity jurisdiction in the case before us. In this connection it may be borne
 14 in mind, as a matter of some importance, that the Wisconsin Code of Procedure attempts to abolish the distinction
 15 between actions at law and in equity; but as to precisely how far that statutory provision has been held to have
 16 broken down the distinctions between common-law and equitable remedies we do not pretend to be accurately
 17 advised. But, whether that distinction is held to remain practically unaffected by the statute or not, it appears
 18 from the opinion of the court that its jurisdiction to grant a remedy by injunction in that case was based solely
 19 upon that provision of the constitution of Wisconsin which gives to the supreme court jurisdiction 'to issue writs
 20 of habeas corpus, mandamus, injunction, quo warranto, certiorari, and other original and remedial rights, and 21 to hear and determine the same. Const. art. 7, § 3. In construing this provision of the constitution, the court holds
 22 that these various writs, and injunction among them, are prerogative writs; and that the supreme court is thereby
 23 given original jurisdiction in all judicial questions affecting the sovereignty of the state, its franchises and 24 prerogatives, or the liberty of the people; and that injunction and mandamus are thereby made correlative
 25 remedies, so as to authorize resort to injunction to restrain excess of action in the same class of cases where 26 mandamus may be resorted to for the purpose of supplying defects. Thus, the court, in the opinion, quoting the 27 language of a former decision in which this constitutional provision is construed, say: 'And it is very safe to 28 assume that the [151 Ill. 59]constitution gives injunction to restrain excess in the same class of cases as it gives 29 mandamus to supply defect; the use of the one writ or the other in each case turning solely on the accident of 30 overaction or shortcoming of the defendant; and it may be that, where defect and excess meet in a single case,
 31 the court might meet both, in its discretion, by one of the writs, without being driven to send out both, tied together
 32 with red tape, for a single purpose.' And again: 'Inasmuch as the use of the writ of injunction, in the exercise of 33 the original jurisdiction of this court, is correlative with the writ of mandamus, the former issuing to restrain
 34 where the latter compels action, it is plain that this case, as against the respondent, is a proper one for an
 35 injunction to restrain unauthorized action by him in a matter where his duties are clearly ministerial, and affect 36 the sovereignty rights and franchises of the state, and the liberties of the people.' It thus seems plain that, in view
 37 of the construction of the constitution of Wisconsin adopted by the supreme court of that state, the prerogative
 38 writ of injunction of which that court is given original jurisdiction is a writ of a different nature, and having a
 39 different scope and purpose, from an ordinary injunction in equity. Where the established distinctions between 40 equity and common-law jurisdiction are observed, injunction and mandamus are not correlative remedies, in the
 41 sense of being applicable to the same subject-matter, the choice of a writ to be resorted to in a particular case to
 42 depend upon whether there is an excess of action to be restrained or a defect to be supplied. The two writs properly
 43 pertain to entirely different jurisdictions, and to different classes of proceedings, injunction being the proper writ
 44 only in cases of equitable cognizance, and mandamus being a common-law writ, and applicable only in cases
 45 coming within the appropriate jurisdiction of courts of common law. Besides, it would seem that, in Wisconsin,
 46 the writ of injunction of which the supreme [151 Ill. 60]court is given original jurisdiction is not limited, as is the
 47 jurisdiction of courts of equity, to cases involving civil or property rights, but may be resorted to in all cases
 48 'affecting the sovereignty of the state, its franchises or prerogatives, or the liberties of the people,' thus including 49 within its scope the protection of political as well as civil or property rights. It thus seems plain that State v.
 50 Cunningham was decided under a judicial system differing essentially from ours, and that it cannot be resorted 51 to as an authority upon the question of the jurisdiction of courts of equity in this state in cases of this character.

52 [Fletcher v. Tuttle, 151 Ill. 41, 37 N.E. 683 (Ill., 1894)]

53 Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, refers to "civil rights" as "civil liberties", and defines them as follows:

54 "Civil liberties. Personal, natural rights guaranteed and protected by the Constitution; e.g. freedom of speech,
 55 press, freedom from discrimination, etc. Body of law dealing with natural liberties, shorn of excesses which 56 invade equal rights of others. Constitutionally, they are restraints on government. Sowers v. Ohio Civil Rights
 57 Commission, 20 Ohio Misc. 115, 252 N.E.2d. 463, 476. State law may recognize liberty interests more extensive
 58 than those independently protected by the Federal Constitution. Mills v. Rogers, 457 U.S. 291, 300, 102 S.Ct.
 59 2442, 2449, 73 L.Ed.2d. 16 (1982). See also Bill of Rights, Civil Rights Acts; Fundamental rights."
 60 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 246]

61 As we said previously, the rights indicated in the Bill of Rights are PRIVATE, so the above refers to PRIVATE rights. If 62 they are referring to civil statutes as the origin of the right, then it is a PUBLIC right and PUBLIC privilege.

63 Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, defines "political rights" as follows:

1                                “Political rights. Those which may be exercised in the formation or administration of the government. Rights of
2 citizens established or recognized by constitutions which give them the power to participate directly or indirectly
3 in the establishment or administration of the government.”
4                                [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1159]

6 case of states of the Union:

On federal land or property where exclusive federal jurisdiction applies, as described in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Federal Constitution, the above table looks very different. Remember that the Bill of Rights does not apply within federal property. Therefore, all rights are PUBLIC rights that derive from federal legislation and “acts of congress” published in the Statutes at Large and codified in Title 48 of the U.S. Code. Since Congress can rewrite its own laws any time it wants, then it can take away rights by simple legislation. Therefore, on federal property, what are mistakenly called “rights” are really just “privileges”. Anything that can be taken away on a whim or through a legislative enactment simply cannot be described as a “PRIVATE right”.

Below is the revised version of the above table that reflects these realities. The term “Civil PUBLIC Privilege” as used in the following table is the equivalent to “Civil Right”. The term “Civil Right” is NOT equivalent to “Civil Liberty” as defined earlier. Civil Rights are PUBLIC, Civil Liberties are always PRIVATE.

Within federal territories, possessions, and Indian reservations, “PRIVATE rights” don’t exist and the “PUBLIC privileges” that replace them are legislatively granted and often, there isn’t even a Constitution to protect people from government usurpation. The only “laws” within federal territories and possessions are those that are enacted by Congress, in most cases. Below is a listing of the legislative “Bill of Rights” for each of the territories and possessions of the United States that are under the stewardship of the U.S. Congress. “Bill of Rights” is a misnomer, and they should be called “Bill of Privileges” rather than “Bill of Rights” because the rights conveyed are PUBLIC and can be revoked. When a territory is emancipated as the Philippines was, all of these so-called rights can be revoked by Congress through a mere act of legislation. The list below is not all-inclusive but shows you only the most important territories and possessions:

Table 4-11: “Bill of PUBLIC Rights” for U.S. territories, possessions, and Indian reservations

| # | Territory/Possession | Legislative “Bill of Rights” Found At |

Your public servants don’t want you to know or be able to distinguish between PRIVATE and PUBLIC rights and the circumstances when you exercise each. They want you to believe that all rights attach to your citizenship status or your domicile so that you falsely believe that they are “PUBLIC privileges” incident to citizenship rather than PRIVATE rights granted by God and which can’t be taken away. They also want to do this in order to bring you within their legislative jurisdiction and tax and pillage your labor and property, because being a “citizen” under federal law implies a domicile within federal jurisdiction and outside of the state you live in. Below is a deceptive definition of “citizen” from Black’s Law Dictionary to prove our point:

“citizen. One who, under the Constitution and laws of the United States, or of a particular state, is a member of the political community, owing allegiance and being entitled to the enjoyment of full civil rights. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. U.S. Const., 14th Amend. See Citizenship.”

“Citizens” are members of a political community who, in their associated capacity, have established or submitted themselves to the dominion of a government for the promotion of their general welfare and the protection of their individual as well as collective rights. Herriott v. City of Seattle, 81 Wash.2d. 48, 500 P.2d. 101, 109.

[. . .]

Under diversity statute [28 U.S.C. §1332], which mirrors U.S. Const. Article III’s diversity clause, a person is a “citizen of a state” if he or she is a citizen of the United States and a domiciliary of a state of the United States. Gibbons v. Udaras na Gaeltachta, D.C.N.Y., 549 F.Supp. 1094, 1116. [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 244]

Notice in the above:

1. The phrase “..and laws of the United States”. This means the thing described is a STATUTORY citizen. A Constitutional citizen would not be subject to the “laws of the United States” but would be subject to the common law and protected by the Constitution.
2. The phrase “are members of a political community who, in their associated capacity, have established or submitted themselves to the dominion of a government”. The only way you can do that is to choose a domicile in that place because domicile is a prerequisite to either voting or serving as a jurist. Nonresidents aren’t allowed to do either.

The term “civil rights” as used above is therefore NOT equivalent to “civil liberties” as used earlier, even though Black’s Law Dictionary tries to confuse the two. Civil rights are PUBLIC PRIVILEGES granted by statute. Civil liberties are NOT and are PRIVATE. Notice that they didn’t mention who else, other than “citizens”, enjoys “full civil rights”, because they want to create a false presumption that all rights derive from citizenship as “entitlements” or “privileges”. We show above, however, that civil liberties originate exclusively from the Bill of Rights in the Federal Constitution.

Notice that none of the Amendments that form the Bill of Rights mention anything about a requirement for “citizenship”. The cites below help drive home our point to show that EVERYONE, whether “citizen” or “alien” (called “resident” in law) is entitled to “civil liberties” under the law”.

[Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

“Is any one of the rights secured to the individual by the Fifth or by the Sixth Amendment any more a privilege or immunity of a citizen of the United States than are those secured by the Seventh? In none are they privileges or immunities granted and belonging to the individual as a citizen of the United States, but they are secured to all persons as against the Federal government, entirely irrespective of such citizenship. As the individual does not enjoy them as a privilege of citizenship of the United States, therefore, when the Fourteenth Amendment prohibits the abridgment by the states of those privileges or immunities which he enjoys as such citizen, it is not correct or reasonable to say that it covers and extends to [176 U.S. 581, 596] certain rights which he does not enjoy by reason of his citizenship, but simply because those rights exist in favor of all individuals as against Federal governmental powers.”
[Maxwell v. Dow, 176 U.S. 581 (1900)]

provided that an employer of more than five workers at any one time in that state should not employ less than 80 per cent. qualified electors or native-born citizens, and that any employer who did so should be subject upon conviction to the payment of a fine and imprisonment. It was held that such a law denied aliens an opportunity of earning a livelihood and deprived them of their liberty without due process of law, and denied them the equal protection of the laws. As against the Chinese merchants of the Philippines, we think the present law which deprives them of something indispensable to the carrying on of their business, and is obviously intended chiefly to affect them as distinguished from the rest of the community, is a denial to them of the equal protection of the laws."

The alien retains immunities from burdens which the citizen must shoulder. By withholding his allegiance from the United States, he leaves outstanding a foreign [342 U.S. 586] call on his loyalties which international law not only permits our Government to recognize, but commands it to respect. In deference to it, certain dispensations from conscription for any military service have been granted foreign nationals. They cannot, consistently with our international commitments, be compelled "to take part in the operations of war directed against their own country." In addition to such general immunities they may enjoy particular treaty privileges.

Under our law, the alien in several respects stands on an equal footing with citizens, but, in others, has never been conceded legal parity with the citizen. Most importantly, to protract this ambiguous status within the country is not his right, but is a matter of permission and [342 U.S. 587] tolerance. The Government's power to terminate its hospitality has been asserted and sustained by this Court since the question first arose.
[Harisiades v. Shaughnessy, 342 U.S. 580 (1952)]

"Civil rights", on the other hand, are only available to domiciled statutory citizens and residents. The term "inhabitant" is a person domiciled in a particular place. This is confirmed by the content of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17, which says that the capacity to sue or be sued is determined by the law of the domicile of the party.

"RIGHT: ...Civil rights are such as belong to every citizen of the state or country, or, in a wider sense, to all its inhabitants, and are not connected with the organization or administration of the government."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, 1968, pp. 1486-1488]

IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity

(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
(2) for a corporation [the "United States", in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the corporation], by the law under which it was organized [laws of the District of Columbia]; and
(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and

(B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.

The reason that EVERYONE is entitled to civil rights, including "aliens", is because our Constitution is based on the concept of "equal protection of the laws". Equal protection is mandated in states of the Union by Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment. Here is what the Supreme Court says on the requirement for "equal protection":

"The equal protection demanded by the fourteenth amendment forbids this. No language is more worthy of frequent and thoughtful consideration than these words of Mr. Justice Matthews, speaking for this court, in Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S.Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071: 'When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power.' The first official action of this nation declared the foundation of government in these words: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, [165 U.S. 150, 160] that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.' While such declaration of principles may not have the force of organic law, or be made the basis of judicial decision as to the limits of right and duty, and while in all cases reference must be had to the organic law of the nation for such limits, yet the latter is but the body and the letter of which the former is the thought and the spirit, and it is always safe to read the letter of the constitution in the spirit of the Declaration of

1 Independence. No duty rests more imperatively upon the courts than the enforcement of those constitutional
 2 provisions intended to secure that equality of rights which is the foundation of free government."
 3 [Gulf, C. & S.F.R. Co. v. Ellis, 165 U.S. 150 (1897) ]

4 Equal protection means that EVERYONE, whether they are a "citizen" or an "alien" (which is called a "resident" in the tax
 5 code) or "non-resident non-person", is entitled to the SAME civil liberties but NOT necessarily the same "civil PUBLIC
 6 rights".

7 On the other hand, not all People have the same "political rights". Only "citizens" can vote and serve on jury duty while
 8 aliens are excluded from these functions in most states. The reason is that only citizens claim "allegiance" to the political 9 body and therefore only they are likely to exercise their political rights in such a way that will preserve, defend, and protect
 10 the existing governmental system and the rights of their fellow men. Chaos would result if aliens could come into a country
 11 who are intent on destroying the country and then exercise sovereign powers of voting and jury service in such a way as to 12 disrespect the law and destroy the existing civil order.

13 4.3.7 Why we MUST know and assert our rights and can't depend on anyone to help us

14 All rights come not from the government, from a judge, or any law, but from God, our Creator alone, just as the Declaration
 15 of Independence says. Since rights don't come from any man, but from God, then it's vain and foolish to ask any earthly 16 man what your rights are. To remain free, we must know what rights are instinctively and be willing to literally fight for 17 them at all times. It's not only impossible, but illegal for an attorney who practices law to fight for your rights within the 18 context of a court proceeding. Your attorney cannot claim or exercise any of the rights God gave you while he is representing 19 you in any court proceeding. For further details on this, read our article below:

20 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Articles/WhyYouDontWantAnAtty/WhyYouDon'tWantAnAttorney.htm>

21 An attorney cannot assert any of your rights on your behalf. Only YOU, the sovereign, can. Below is a very good explanation
 22 of why we can't be free and at the same time allow an attorney to represent us in court. The quote below is extracted from a
 23 federal court decision:

24 "The privilege against self-incrimination [Fifth Amendment] is neither accorded to the passive resistant, nor the 25 *person who is ignorant of their rights, nor to one who is indifferent thereto. It is a fighting clause. Its benefits
 26 can be retained only by sustained combat. It cannot be claimed by an attorney or solicitor. It is only valid
 27 when insisted upon by a belligerent claimant in person."
 28 [U.S. v. Johnson, 76 F.Supp. 538 (1947), Emphasis added]*

29 Please notice the boldfaced and underlined words the court used in the above quote! What human endeavor are these words
 30 normally used in connection with? WAR! Freedom is not for the timid, but for the brave. That is why they call America
 31 "Land of the Free and Home of the Brave!". If you want to stay free, then you must be willing to fight with anyone and 32 everyone who tries to take away that freedom, and especially with tyrannical public servants.

33 Rights [read Liberties] are always demanded!

34 Also note in the quote above that what the court above called a "privilege" is really structured in the Bill of Rights as a
 35 "Liberty" or restraint on government! Who is afforded "civil rights"? One who knows them and demands them! Our pledge
 36 of allegiance says "with liberty and justice for ALL". If you are going to stay free, then you must help everyone to stay free.
 37 A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. The weakest link is the most helpless, ignorant, and defenseless members of 38 society. We can only remain free so long as we are willing to donate our effort and money to defending the weakest members
 39 of society from government abuse. If we only protect our rights and don't help our neighbor defend his, then the tyrants in 40 government will isolate, divide, and eventually conquer and enslave everyone.

41 4.3.8 Why you shouldn't cite federal statutes (PUBLIC RIGHTS) as authority for protecting your PRIVATE rights

42 Nearly all federal civil law is a civil franchise that you must volunteer for. This is covered in:

[Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
 http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm](http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm)

As such:

1. One must be domiciled or resident on federal territory to invoke federal civil statutory law. State citizens domiciled in constitutional states of the Union do NOT satisfy this criteria.
2. One must consent to the statutory “citizen” or “resident” franchise by describing themselves as such on government forms.
3. If you are a state citizen domiciled in a constitutional state of the Union and you cite federal statutory law as authority for an injury, then indirectly you are:
  - 3.1. Misrepresenting your status as a statutory “citizen of the United States” under federal law.
  - 3.2. Conferring civil jurisdiction to a federal court that they would not otherwise lawfully have.
  - 3.3. Waiving sovereign immunity under 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97, section 28 U.S.C. §1603(b)(3).

There are exceptions to the above, but they are rare. Any enactment of Congress that implements a constitutional provision, for instance, would be an exception. For instance, the civil rights found mainly in Title 42, Chapter 21 entitled “Civil Rights” implement the Fourteenth Amendment. They do not CREATE “privileges” or “rights”, but rather enforce them as authorized by the Fourteenth Amendment, Section 5. This is revealed in the following document:

Section 1983 Litigation, Litigation Tool #08.008
<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>

The most often cited statute within Chapter 21 is 42 U.S.C. §1983. To wit:

Every person [not “man” or “woman”, but “person”] who, under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom, or usage, of any State or Territory or the District of Columbia, subjects, or causes to be subjected, any citizen of the United States or other person within the jurisdiction thereof to the deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by the Constitution and laws, shall be liable to the party injured in an action at law, suit in equity, or other proper proceeding for redress, except that in any action brought against a judicial officer for an act or omission taken in such officer's judicial capacity, injunctive relief shall not be granted unless a declaratory decree was violated or declaratory relief was unavailable. For the purposes of this section, any Act of Congress applicable exclusively to the District of Columbia shall be considered to be a statute of the District of Columbia

The first thing to notice about the above, is that they use the word “person” instead of “man or woman”. This “person” is a CONSTITUTIONAL person described in the Fourteenth Amendment, not a STATUTORY “person” domiciled or resident on federal territory and subject to the GENERAL jurisdiction of the national government. The phrase “within the jurisdiction” above means the SUBJECT MATTER jurisdiction and not the GENERAL jurisdiction. How do we know this? Because:

1. They mention the laws of a State or territory or the District of Columbia RATHER than those of the national government.
2. The statute may ONLY be enforced against officers of constitutional states depriving those under their protection of their constitutionally guaranteed rights. It may NOT be enforced against ANY private person.

 [Section 1983 Litigation, Litigation Tool #08.008, p. 1;
 FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>]

On the opposite end of the spectrum, we have civil franchises such as Social Security, Medicare, marriage licenses, driver licenses, all of which require you to volunteer by filling out an application and using government property before you are treated as a statutory “person”, “taxpayer”, “spouse”, “citizen”, or “resident”. This is covered in:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>

You will find out later that the status of being either a STATUTORY “citizen” or STATUTORY “resident” within a franchise is not a status you want to have under federal law, because that is how you become a “taxpayer”! They also use the word

1 “State”, which we know from 4 U.S.C. §110(d) means a federal State, which is a territory or possession of the United States.
2 States of the Union do NOT fit this category, folks!

3 A very important aspect of natural rights is the following fact:

4 “You don’t need stinking federal statutes to protect them!” [Family Guardian Fellowship]

5 Below is an example of a sovereign Indian tribe that sued a state official under the provisions of 42 U.S.C. §1983 and yet
6 tried to assert that it was “sovereign”. The U.S. Supreme Court admitted that it could NOT cite this statute as authority:

7 “The issue pivotal here is whether a tribe [which enjoys “sovereign immunity” from suit] qualifies as a
8 claimant -- a “person within the jurisdiction” of the United States -- under § 1983.[5] The United States
9 maintains it does not, invoking the Court’s “longstanding interpretive presumption that “person” does not include
10 the sovereign,” a presumption that “may be disregarded only upon some affirmative showing of statutory intent
11 to the contrary.” Brief for United States as Amicus Curiae 7-8 (quoting Vermont Agency of Natural Resources v.
12 United States ex rel. Stevens, 529 U.S. 765, 780-781 (2000)); see Will, 491 U.S. at 64. Nothing in the text,
13 purpose, or history of § 1983, the Government contends, overcomes the interpretive presumption [538 U.S. 710]
14 that “person” does not include the sovereign.” Brief for United States as Amicus Curiae 7-8 (some internal 15 quotation marks omitted). Furthermore, the Government urges, given the Court’s decision that “person” excludes
16 sovereigns as defendants under § 1983, it would be anomalous for the Court to give the same word a different
17 meaning when it appears later in the same sentence. Id. at 8; see Brown v. Gardner, 513 U.S. 115, 118 (1994)
18 (the “presumption that a given term is used to mean the same thing throughout a statute” is “surely at its most 19 vigorous when a term is repeated within a given sentence”); cf. Lafayette v. Louisiana Power & Light Co., 435
20 U.S. 389, 397 (1978) (because municipalities are “persons” entitled to sue under the antitrust laws, they are also, 21 in principle, “persons” capable of being sued under those laws).

22 The Tribe responds that Congress intended § 1983 “to provide a powerful civil remedy against all forms of 23 official violation of federally protected rights.” Brief for Respondents 45 (quoting Monell v. New York City Dept.
24 of Social Servs., 436 U.S. 658, 700-701 (1978)). To achieve that remedial purpose, the Tribe maintains, § 1983
25 should be “broadly construed.” Brief for Respondents 45 (citing Monell, 436 U.S. at 684-685) (internal quotation 26 marks omitted). Indian tribes, the Tribe here asserts, “have been especially vulnerable to infringement of their 27 federally protected rights by states.” Brief for Respondents 42 (citing, inter alia, The Kansas Indians, 5 Wall.
28 737 (1867) (state taxation of tribal lands); Minnesota v. Mille Lacs Band of Chippewa Indians, 526 U.S. 172
29 (1999) (state infringement on tribal rights to hunt, fish, and gather on ceded lands); Mississippi Band of Choctaw
30 Indians v. Holyfield, 490 U.S. 30 (1989) (tribal jurisdiction over Indian child custody proceedings); California v.
31 Cabazon Band of Mission Indians, 480 U.S. 202 (1987) (state attempt to regulate gambling on tribal land)). To 32 guard against such infringements, the Tribe contends, the [538 U.S. 711] Court should read § 1983 to encompass
33 suits brought by Indian tribes.

34 As we have recognized in other contexts, qualification of a sovereign as a “person” who may maintain a particular
35 claim for relief depends not “upon a bare analysis of the word “person,” Pfizer Inc. v. Government of India, 434
36 U.S. 308, 317 (1978), but on the “legislative environment” in which the word appears, Georgia v. Evans, 316
37 U.S. 159, 161 (1942). Thus, in Georgia, the Court held that a State, as purchaser of asphalt shipped in interstate 38 commerce, qualified as a “person” entitled to seek redress under the Sherman Act for restraint of trade. Id. at 39 160-163. Similarly, in Pfizer, the Court held that a foreign nation, as purchaser of antibiotics, ranked as a
40 “person” qualified to sue pharmaceutical manufacturers under our antitrust laws. Pfizer, 434 U.S. at 309-320;
41 cf. Stevens, 529 U.S. at 787, and n. 18 (deciding States are not “person[s]” subject to qui tam liability under the 42 False Claims Act, but leaving open the question whether they “can be “persons” for purposes of commencing an 43 FCA qui tam action” (emphasis deleted)); United States v. Cleveland Indians Baseball Co., 532 U.S. 200, 213
44 (2001) (“Although we generally presume that identical words used in different parts of the same act are intended
45 to have the same meaning, the presumption is not rigid, and the meaning of the same words well may vary to meet 46 the purposes of the law.” (internal quotation marks, brackets, and citations omitted)).

47 There is in this case no allegation that the County lacked probable cause or that the warrant was otherwise
48 defective. It is only by virtue of the Tribe’s asserted “sovereign” status that it claims immunity from the County’s 49 processes. See App. 97-105, ¶¶1-25, 108-110, ¶¶33-39; 291 F.3d. at 554 (Court of Appeals “find[s] that the
50 County and its agents violated the Tribe’s sovereign immunity when they obtained and executed a search warrant
51 against the Tribe and tribal [538 U.S. 712] property.” (emphasis added)). Section 1983 was designed to secure
52 private rights against government encroachment, see Will, 491 U.S. at 66, not to advance a sovereign’s
53 prerogative to withhold evidence relevant to a criminal investigation. For example, as the County acknowledges,
54 a tribal member complaining of a Fourth Amendment violation would be a “person” qualified to sue under §
55 1983. See Brief for Petitioners 20, n. 7. But like other private persons, that member would have no right to 56 immunity from an appropriately executed search warrant based on probable cause. Accordingly, we hold that
57 the [sovereign] Tribe may not sue under § 1983 to vindicate the sovereign right it here claims.{6}

59 State courts are the only appropriate forum in which to litigate to protect your rights if you live in a state of the Union and 60 not on federal property. The Supreme Court confirmed this when it said:

1 “It would be the vainest show of learning to attempt to prove by citations of authority, that up to the adoption of
2 the recent Amendments [the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendment], no claim or pretense was set up that those
3 rights depended on the Federal government for their existence or protection, beyond the very few express
4 limitations which the Federal Constitution imposed upon the states—such as the prohibition against ex post facto
5 laws, bill of attainder, and laws impairing the obligation of contracts. But with the exception of these and a few
6 other restrictions, the entire domain of the privileges and immunities of citizens of the states, as above defined,
7 lay within the constitutional and legislative power of the states, and without that of the Federal government.
8 Was it the purpose of the 14th Amendment, by the simple declaration that no state should make or enforce any
9 law which shall abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, to transfer the security
10 and protection of all the civil rights which we have mentioned, from the states to the Federal government? And
11 where it is declared that Congress shall have the power to enforce that article, was it intended to bring within the 12 power of Congress the entire domain of civil rights heretofore belonging exclusively to the states?

13 We are convinced that no such result was intended by the Congress which proposed these amendments, nor by 14 the legislatures of the states, which ratified them.

15 Having shown that the privileges and immunities relied on in the argument are those which belong to citizens
16 of the states as such, and that they are left to the state governments for security and protection, and not by this
17 article placed under the special care of the Federal government, we may hold ourselves excused from defining
18 the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States which no state can abridge, until some case
19 involving those privileges may make it necessary to do so.

21 When properly litigated in a state court, the only authority necessary for the defense of rights is the Constitution itself and 22 proof of your domicile in a state of the Union and not on federal property. The Supreme Court alluded to this fact when it
23 stated:

24 “The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It
25 will certainly cease to deserve that high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested
26 legal right.”
27 [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

28 Those citing EXCLUSIVELY the constitution do not NEED federal statutes, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

29 The design of the Fourteenth Amendment has proved significant also in maintaining the traditional separation of 30 *powers 524*524 between Congress and the Judiciary. The first eight Amendments to the Constitution set forth
31 self-executing prohibitions on governmental action, and this Court has had primary authority to interpret those 32 prohibitions. The Bingham draft, some thought, departed from that tradition by vesting in Congress primary
33 power to interpret and elaborate on the meaning of the new Amendment through legislation. Under it, “Congress,
34 and not the courts, was to judge whether or not any of the privileges or immunities were not secured to citizens
35 *in the several States.” Flack, supra, at 64. While this separation-of-powers aspect did not occasion the widespread*
36 resistance which was caused by the proposal’s threat to the federal balance, it nonetheless attracted the attention
37 *of various Members. See Cong. Globe, 39th Cong., 1st Sess., at 1064 (statement of Rep. Hale) (noting that Bill of* 38 *Rights, unlike the Bingham proposal, “provid[es] safeguards to be enforced by the courts, and not to be
39 exercised by the Legislature”); id., at App. 133 (statement of Rep. Rogers) (prior to Bingham proposal it “was 40 left entirely for the courts . . . to enforce the privileges and immunities of the citizens”). As enacted, the Fourteenth
41 Amendment confers substantive rights against the States which, like the provisions of the Bill of Rights, are self-
42 *executing. Cf. South Carolina v. Katzenbach, 383 U. S., at 325 (discussing Fifteenth Amendment). The power to* 43 interpret the Constitution in a case or controversy remains in the Judiciary.
44 [City of Boerne v. Flores, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

45 Nearly all federal statutes dealing with the protection of so-called “rights” exist for the following reasons. And by “rights”
46 we really mean franchise privileges:

- 47 1. They only apply within federal jurisdiction and on federal land, where the Bill of Rights do not apply and where federal 48 jurisdiction is exclusive and plenary. See Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901). These statutes are therefore meant 49 as a substitute for the Bill of Rights that only applies in federal areas.
- 50 2. They are intended to be used by “persons” domiciled on federal territory wherever situated and may only be invoked by 51 nonresident parties where a specific extraterritorial subject matter issue enumerated in the Constitution is involved, such 52 as interstate commerce.
- 53 3. The result of persons citing federal statutes who are domiciled in Constitutional states of the Union is that these people 54 basically are volunteering or “electing” to become “resident” parties and/or “taxpayers” for the purposes of the 55 dispute. Keep in mind that if you are a Constitutional and not statutory “citizen”, then making such an election is a
56 CRIME pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §911!

1 Per Fourteenth Amendment, Section 5, 42 U.S.C. §1981, implements the equal protection provisions of said amendment as
 2 follows:

3 TITLE 42 > CHAPTER 21 > SUBCHAPTER I > Sec. 1981.
 4 Sec. 1981. - Equal rights under the law

5 (a) Statement of equal rights

6 All persons within the jurisdiction of the United States, shall have the same right in every State and Territory to
 7 make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, give evidence, and to the full and equal benefit of all laws and
 8 proceedings for the security of persons and property as is enjoyed by white citizens, shall be subject to like
 9 punishment, pains, penalties, taxes, licenses, and exactions of every kind, and to no other.

10 The whole chapter 21 only applies to people “within the jurisdiction of the United States”, which we already said are 11 CONSTITUTIONAL and NOT federal STATUTORY “persons”. If you are domiciled within a state of the Union and don’t 12 maintain a domicile on federal territory, then that doesn’t include you, amigo! By “like”, they mean the same “taxes” as 13 “U.S. citizens” pay who were born in federal territories or possessions or the District of Columbia. Notice they put 14 “punishment, pains, penalties, and taxes” in the same sentence because they are all equivalent!

15 "A fine is a tax for doing something wrong. A tax is a fine for doing something right."

16 Here is some more evidence:

17 TITLE 42 > CHAPTER 21 > SUBCHAPTER IX > §2000h-4
 18 §2000h-4. Construction of provisions not to exclude operation of State laws and not to invalidate consistent State
 19 laws

20 Nothing contained in any title of this Act shall be construed as indicating an intent on the part of Congress to
 21 occupy the field in which any such title operates to the exclusion of State laws on the same subject matter, nor 22 shall any provision of this Act be construed as invalidating any provision of State law unless such provision is 23 inconsistent with any of the purposes of this Act, or any provision thereof.

24 It’s silly to go to such great lengths to free yourself of federal taxes by spending countless hours reading and studying and
 25 applying this book if you are going to turn right around and call on Uncle [Big Brother] to protect you from people in your
 26 own state! If you want to be sovereign, you can’t depend on Big Brother for anything, because the minute you start doing
 27 so, they [the IRS goons in this case] are going to come knocking on your door and ask you to “pay up”! People who are 28 sovereign look out for themselves and don’t take handouts or help from anyone, folks!

29 4.3.9 Enumeration of inalienable PRIVATE rights

30 As we said in the previous sections, you must know your rights before you have any! A sovereign who is not subject to 31 federal statutory law cannot cite that law in his defense, and can only defend himself by litigating in defense of his 32 Constitutional and natural rights. He must do so in equity and not law, and proceed against the perpetrator as a private 33 individual.

34 There is no single place we have found which even attempts to enumerate all of these rights or “protected liberty interests”.
 35 You won’t find them listed in any statute or legislative act or legal reference book. The only source we have found which 36 identifies them is mainly rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court and state Supreme Courts. The following subsections constitute 37 a summary of these rights, provided for ready reference in order to save you the MUCHO research time we had to devote in 38 producing it:

4.3.10 Two of You

I suspect that on the day of your birth your parents gave you a name, and whatever that name is (we'll use a generic name to illustrate), was spelled something like this: "John Henry Doe". Notice how it is spelled in both upper and lower case.

This is my given name, and it is the one to which I respond to, in all matters concerning me, as a Creature of God with Rights from God and as a Sovereign American of the Republic of Illinois, one of the several States of the Union of States (The united States of America).

I realize that seems like a mouth full. However, it is no less important than the Declaration of Independence, the U.S. Constitution, or the Bill of Rights. Since this country was founded on the premise of individual freedom as espoused by these very documents, it is up to us individually to continually remind ourselves of just who we are, and what are our responsibilities to ourselves. Should we forget who we are (and most of us have), then we fall prey to those who would misuse their power to rule over us. These documents guarantee our Rights. Only you can use them.

The other thing that happened when you were born is that the state and federal government also made an artificial or corporate you in their databases under the Uniform Commercial Code.

While this may not seem obvious to you at the moment it is nonetheless significant, and has been used to trick, mislead, and confuse us all into doing things as Sovereign Americans we surely would not have done had we only known these differences. This has been going on now for about 65 years, since Roosevelt and his "New Deals".

What the government did was to create what is called a fictitious corporate "person". Remember the interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment and how the word "person" was placed in quotation marks? Well here it is.

The Secretary of State in each state maintains a listing of business and individual names upon which commercial liens can be registered under the Uniform Commercial Code. If your name is found in the state's UCC database as a person who is either owed money or owes money, then the state is referring to the fictitious you rather than the natural you. This is the corporate you under commercial law. There are rules of precedence under the UCC whereby the first person to register a claim under your name in the UCC database will be reimbursed first. Some people will register a lien on their own name, claiming full rights to all their own property and assets, in order that if a third party tries to use the State's UCC system and the courts to put a lien on them, then they can't collect in the courts because the person already has a superseding lien under his own name on his own property. This is called "UCC redemption".

Take a look at any paper money you might have, notice at the very top it reads, "Federal Reserve Note". So, what is a NOTE? It is a promise to pay. It is not currency with intrinsic value that can be traded for gold or silver, which is the only currency the government was authorized. It is a debit and the ultimate owner of the note is the holder of the debt. In this case, the holder of the debt is those who own the Federal Reserve, not even the Federal Government, much less you and me.

It might help to think of this artificial or corporate "person" as your shadow. It follows you wherever you go, but sometimes, the things you do are actually meant for your shadow, not you. Yet, you answer to these things as though it were you, and in doing so, you have neglected to protect and reserve your Rights as a sovereign "Citizen". There is a simple way to reverse this process and to avoid any further misunderstandings in the future as you shall soon discover.

4.4 Government

4.4.1 What is government?

We'll start off this section with a definition of government from Black's Law Dictionary. Note especially the definition of "Republican government", which is the kind government we have here in America:

Government. From the Latin gubernaculum. Signifies the instrument, the helm, whereby the ship to which the state was compared, was guided on its course by the "gubernator" or helmsman, and in that view, the government is but an agency of the state, distinguished as it must be in accurate thought from its scheme and machinery of government.*

1 In the United States, government consists of the executive, legislative, and judicial branches in addition to
 2 administrative agencies. In a broader sense, includes the federal government and all its agencies and bureaus,
 3 state and county governments, and city and township governments.

4 The system of polity in a state; that form of fundamental rules and principles which a national or state is governed,
 5 or by which individual members of a body politic are to regulate their social actions. A constitution, either written
 6 or unwritten, by which the rights and duties of citizens and public officers are prescribed and defined, as a
 7 monarchical government, a republican government, etc. The machinery by which the sovereign power in a state
 8 expresses its will and exercises its functions; or the framework of political institutions, departments, and offices,
 9 by means of which the executive, judicial, legislative, and administrative business of the state is carried on.

10 The whole class or body of officeholders or functionaries considered in the aggregate, upon whom devolves the 11 executive, judicial, legislative, and administrative business of the state.

12 In a colloquial sense, the United States or its representatives, considered as the prosecutor in a criminal action;
 13 as in the phrase, "the government objects to the witness."

14 The regulation, restrain, supervision, or control which is exercised upon the individual members of an organized
 15 jural society by those invested with authority; or the act of exercising supreme political power or control.

16 See also De facto government; Federal government; Judiciary; Legislature; Seat of government.

17 Federal government. The government of the United States of America, as distinguished from the governments of 18 the several states.

19 Local government. The government or administration of a particular locality, especially, the governmental 20 authority of a municipal corporation, as a city or county, over its local and individual affairs, exercised in virtue
 21 of power delegated to it for that purpose by the general government of the state or nation.

22 Mixed government. A form of government combining some of the features of two or all of the three primary forms,
 23 viz., monarchy, aristocracy, and democracy.

24 Republican government. One in which the powers of sovereignty are vested in the people and are exercised by 25 the people, either directly, or through representatives chosen by the people, to whom those powers are specially 26 delegated. In re Duncan, 139 U.S. 449, 11 S.Ct. 573, 36 L.Ed. 219; Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 27 22 L.Ed. 627.

28 [Black's Law Dictionary Sixth Edition, p. 695]

29 The important term in the above definition is the term "state", which is then precisely defined as follows in that same legal 30 dictionary:

31 "State. A people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common-law habits and custom
 32 into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and 33 control over all persons and things within its boundaries, capable of making war and peace and of entering into
 34 international relations with other communities of the globe. United States v. Kusche, D.C.Cal., 56 F.Supp. 201
 35 207, 208. The organization of social life which exercises sovereign power in behalf of the people. Delany v.
 36 Moralitis, C.C.A.Md., 136 F.2d. 129, 130. In its largest sense, a "state" is a body politic or a society of men.
 37 Beagle v. Motor Vehicle Acc. Indemnification Corp., 44 Misc.2d. 636, 254 N.Y.S.2d. 763, 765. A body of people
 38 occupying a definite territory and politically organized under one government. State ex re. Maisano v. Mitchell, 39 155 Conn. 256, 231 A.2d. 539, 542. A territorial unit with a distinct general body of law. Restatement, Second,
 40 Conflicts, §3. Term may refer either to body politic of a nation (e.g. United States) or to an individual government
 41 unit of such nation (e.g. California).

42 [...]

43 The people of a state, in their collective capacity, considered as the party wronged by a criminal deed; the public;
 44 as in the title of a cause, "The State vs. A.B."

45 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1407]

46 In a Republican Form of Government, the "state" then, is the People both individually and collectively, who are the 47 Sovereigns, and they, not their public servants, govern themselves using laws that they mutually and individually consent to 48 through their elected representatives. A consenting party is one who chooses a civil domicile in a specific region and thereby
 49 becomes a statutory "citizen". Being a constitutional citizen does NOT make one a "consenting party" because the act of 50 birth is NOT an act of discretion or implied consent.

When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty, . . . that is to say, . . . the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has been customary in England from time immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate ferries, common carriers, hackmen, bakers, millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a maximum of charge to be made for services rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day, statutes are to be found in many of the States upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been successfully contended that such legislation came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against interference with private property. With the Fifth Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power upon the city of Washington "to regulate . . . the rates of wharfage at private wharves, . . . the sweeping of chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, . . . and the weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and, in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 9 id. 224, sect. 2. Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876), SOURCE: [http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]

The Declaration of Independence says "that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed". That consent (individual consent, as opposed to collective consent) expresses itself in several ways:

1. Choosing a domicile within a specific geographic place and thereby consenting to the civil statutory laws of that specific place. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. Pledging allegiance to the flag of our nation or state.
3. Swearing an oath. Jesus commanded us NOT to swear oaths in Matt. 5:33-37.
4. Signing a government form containing a perjury statement that subjects us to the jurisdiction of that government.
5. Signing a government form obligating us to do something.
6. Voting for our elected representatives and then having them enact our laws (agreements) into positive law.
7. Submitting ourselves to the jurisdiction of the court when there is litigation. This includes entering a plea in a court of justice when accused of a crime. Pleas must be consensual.

appearance. A coming into court as a party to a suit, either in person or by attorney, whether as plaintiff or defendant. The formal proceeding by which a defendant submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court. The voluntary submission to a court's jurisdiction.

In civil actions the parties do not normally actually appear in person, but rather through their attorneys (who enter their appearance by filing written pleadings, or a formal written entry of appearance). Also, at many stages of criminal proceedings, particularly involving minor offenses, the defendant's attorney appears on his behalf. See e.g., Fed.R.Crim.P. 43.

An appearance may be either general or special; the former is a simple and unqualified or unrestricted submission to the jurisdiction of the court, the latter is a submission to the jurisdiction for some specific purpose only, not for all the purposes of the suit. A special appearance is for the purpose of testing or objecting to the sufficiency of service or the jurisdiction of the court over defendant without submitting to such jurisdiction; a general appearance is made where the defendant waives defects of service and submits to the jurisdiction of court. Insurance Co. of North America v. Kunin, 175 Neb. 260, 121 N.W.2d. 372, 375, 376.

8. Sending our money to a public servant when they ask for it.
9. Volunteering to serve in the military BEFORE we are drafted.
10. Obeying the request of a public servant to do something.

Anything not consensual is therefore unjust and the Supreme Court describes it as a "despotism".

"It must be conceded that there are rights in every free government beyond the control of the State [or a covetous jury or majority of electors]. A government which recognized no such rights, which held the lives, liberty and property of its citizens, subject at all times to the disposition and unlimited control of even the most democratic depository of power, is after all a despotism. It is true that it is a despotism of the many--of the majority, if you choose to call it so--but it is not the less a despotism."

[Loan Ass'n v. Topeka, 87 U.S. (20 Wall.) 655, 665 (1874)]

The purpose of our system of justice is exclusively to ensure that everything that happens in society is done only by consent, and to punish those:

1. Who deprive others of life, liberty, or property without their consent. Involuntary deprivation of any one of these three is an injury, whether or not there is a law that criminalizes the behavior. The sole purpose law protects us by preventing such injury.
2. Who compel people to do anything either through force, or fraud, or both. That is why kidnapping, fraud, extortion, rape, and racketeering are all crimes.

Any good Republican government must ask for your individual consent preferably in writing in order to take your money or property through taxation or judicial process. This is the requirement of the Fifth Amendment. The U.S. Supreme Court explains it this way:

"That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

There are only three types of governments in the context of "consent":

1. When the government is honest, it will ask for consent directly and thereby inform you that you and not them are in charge. This was the de jure government our founders gave us.
2. When the government is dishonest and deceptive and greedy and covetous of power and money but still at least a little democratic in form, it will do it so indirectly that you never even knew you gave consent. In such a corrupted government those who expose the deception and tyranny of the process by which consent was fraudulently procured are then punished and persecuted. This is the de facto government we have today: one that punishes those who expose the fraud and extortion that is the income tax and who also oppose any other type of government tyranny.
3. If the government is completely tyrannical, such as a monarchy or dictatorship, it will completely disregard the will of the people and never ask them for permission or consent to do anything. Sovereignty resides in the king or dictator and not the people under such a government. This is the type of government we have within the federal zone or federal "United States"<sup>[1]</sup>, where the people within it are ruled by people who do not live there, but instead by a Congress full of people who are alien to it and who came from states of the Union.

The surest evidence that we have good government is that it is continually asking for our consent in a very explicit way and always reminding us that we, and not them, are in charge!

"Remember the word that I said to you, 'A servant is not greater than his master.' If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also."

[Jesus in John 15:20, Bible, NKJV]

When people get together and decide to give consent as a collective, they do so only through a written Constitution (which is a contract) or through enacted positive law. The Supreme Court calls this approach "government by compact":

"In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon compact [consent expressed in a written contract called a Constitution or in positive law]. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people."

[Glass v. The Sloop Betsey, 3 (U.S.) Dall 6]

Note the above profound statement of the U.S. Supreme Court: "In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired by force or fraud, or both." This is what happens when governments are created or choose to operate without the consent of the people they exist to serve: force or fraud. This is also exactly what happens, for instance, in a pure democracy where the majority rules unconstrained by a bill of rights, but it can't happen in a

1 Republic. The existence of force or fraud within any government, in fact, is the essence of tyranny. The unlawful application
 2 of force or fraud is also precisely the same disease that now afflicts and corrupts our allegedly republican form of government,
 3 and which has thereby transformed it into a de facto socialist democracy which disrespects the Constitutional rights of 4 individuals and abuses and enslaves its citizens in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment. This force or fraud is implemented 5 mainly by:

- 6 1. Using deceptive definitions, vaguely written laws that are subject to misinterpretation, and collusion between the Judicial 7 and the Executive Branches to in effect undermine the Constitution and consolidate all power into the hands of the 8 Executive Branch of the government. The tools that our treasonous politicians have used to effect this will be thoroughly 9 documented and explained later in the book in section 6.1.
- 10 2. Creating conflicts of interest in the judicial system on the part of judges, attorneys, and jurors. For instance, making
 11 judges and jurors decide tax matters that will affect their tax bill. The corruption of the judicial system started in 1938
 12 with the ruling in O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277, 59 S.Ct. 838 (1939).
- 13 3. Compelling participation in government franchises and/or refusing to protect your right to NOT participate. This:
 14 3.1. Turns all those so compelled into public officers within the government.
 15 3.2. Causes the crime of impersonating a public officer.
 16 3.3. Turns a de jure government into a de facto government.

17 See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 18 4. Turning a statutory "citizen" into a franchise and a public officer in the government and interfering with common law
 19 remedies in court. This effectively outlaws private rights and private property and makes a de jure government into a de
 20 facto government. See:

21 4.1. Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

22 4.2. De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

25 The tools that our treasonous politicians have used to effect this will be thoroughly documented and explained later in the 26 book in section 6.1

27 Here is the legal definition of "compact" to prove our point that the Constitution and all federal civil law written in furtherance
 28 of it are indeed a "compact" and consensual contract:

29 "Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working
 30 agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties, which
 31 creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties, in their
 32 distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or right
 33 that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause;
 34 Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty."
 35 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

36 Enacting a mutual agreement into positive law then, becomes the vehicle for expressing the fact that the People collectively
 37 agreed and consented to the law and to accept any adverse impact that law might have on their liberty. Public servants then,
 38 are just the apparatus that the sovereign People use for governing themselves. As the definition above shows, the apparatus
 39 and machinery of government is simply the "rudder" that steers the ship, but the Captain of the ship is the People individually
 40 and collectively. In a true Republican Form of Government, the REAL government is the people individually and 41 collectively, and not their public servants.

42 An excellent free video animation is provided on our website to help illustrate in very simple terms that all just government
 43 is based on consent, and that liberty can only exist where the actions of all parties are free of force, fraud, and duress. It is 44 called "The Philosophy of Liberty" and we highly encourage you to view it:

45 <https://famguardian.org/Subjects/Freedom/Articles/PhilosophyOfLiberty.mp4>

46 We will now summarize the above analysis succinctly into a single terse definition of "government", in the case of our 47 Republican Form of Government mandated by Article 4, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution:

1 “Government. The means by which the sovereigns, who are the People individually and collectively and who
2 are called the “state”, exercise their divine and natural right directly from God to regulate and control and 3 govern their own affairs so as to:

- 4 1. Prevent conflicts of interest among those in the judicial system who enforce the social contract, so 5 that those who don't want to participate in the civil aspects of the contract are not coerced to do so.
- 6 2. Protect your right to NOT be compelled to participate in any government franchise, including the 7 statutory "citizen" or "resident" franchise. Otherwise, it is FRAUD to claim the franchise is 8 "voluntary".
- 9 3. Protect each other from harm to their life, liberty, and property. See the last six commandments of the 10 ten commandments found in Exodus 20:12-17. The greatest protection of our liberties comes from a
11 separation of powers within government, so that power cannot concentrate and produce tyranny. This 12 is the basis of having a Republican Form of Government and it is called the “Separation of Powers 13 Doctrine” in the legal field.
- 14 4. Provide the maximum liberty to every member of society. In the legal realm, this is called “equal 15 protection of the laws” and its purpose is to eliminate partiality in judgment. The following scriptures
16 from God's Laws prohibit partiality in judgment: Exodus 23:3, Leviticus 19:15, Deut. 1:17, Deut.
17 10:17, Deut. 16:19, Job 13:10, Prov. 18:5, Prov. 24:23, Prov. 28:21. Romans 2:11, James 2:9, James 18 3:17. The declaration of independence also says that all men are created equal and those who are 19 equal cannot be discriminated against or have their liberty taken away because they are black, poor, 20 disadvantaged, or a “nontaxpayer”.
- 21 5. Honor their God and perfect their faith and salvation by obeying His sacred laws, and NO OTHER 22 LAW. See Ecclesiastes 12:13, which says that man's sole purpose on earth is to fear God and keep 23 His holy commandments. James 2:14-26 also says that our faith is perfected by our works of 24 obedience to a sovereign God and His laws, and that faith without works is dead faith. Genesis 1:28
25 also identifies the source of ALL of our delegated authority to govern ourselves, which is God Himself.
26 Here, in fact, is what God says on this very subject of writing laws that conflict with God's laws:

27 But to the wicked, God says:

28 “What right have you to declare My statutes [write man's vain law], or take 29 My covenant [the Bible] in your mouth, seeing you hate instruction and 30 cast My words behind you? When you saw a thief, you consented with him, 31 and have been a partaker with adulterers. You give your mouth to evil, and 32 your tongue frames deceit. You sit and speak against your brother; you
33 slander your own mother's son. These things you have done, and I kept 34 silent; you thought that I was altogether like you; but I will reprove you, and 35 set them in order before your eyes. Now consider this, you who forget God,
36 lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver: Whoever offers praise
37 glorifies Me; and to him who orders his conduct aright [and bases it on 38 God's laws] I will show the salvation of God.”
39 [Psalm 50:16-23, Bible, NKJV]

40 In satisfying the above requirements, the people satisfy the first of the two great commandments to love our God
41 with all our heart, mind, and soul, found in Exodus 20:2-11. The above requirements also fulfill the second of 42 the two great commandments to love our neighbor as ourselves, which is found in Leviticus 19:18, Gal. 5:14, Mark
43 12:28-33; Romans 13:9, Matt. 22:39; Luke 10:27; James 2:8 within the Bible.

44 The collective result of the sovereign people governing themselves under God's laws found in the Bible is 45 protection, both while they are on this earth and after they die. Man's laws only protect us while we are here in 46 body, but God's laws also protect us after we die and become spirit. Therefore, a just society will base its laws
47 entirely and exclusively upon God's laws so as to maximize protection for all people both here and in the afterlife.
48 Anything less will produce evil in the sight of the Lord, perversion of the purposes of government, tyranny, and 49 abuse of the legal and governmental apparatus for personal profit.

50 To answer the main question of this section on what exactly is government in the simplest possible way:

51 “IN AMERICA, GOVERNMENT IS US! WE ARE THE GOVERNMENT! EVERY ONE
52 OF US! Why? Because in America under a Republican Form of Government, the People 53 are the sovereigns, and not their public servants.”

54 Note that by saying the government is US, we do NOT mean to say that we are all public officers in the government! Rather,
55 while we serve as jurists, voters, and statutory "Taxpayers" we must REMAIN EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the 56 civil control of the government. Otherwise, the government transforms from de jure to de facto. This is covered in:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 The above conclusions are consistent with the Supreme Court, which said on this very subject:

2 "From the differences existing between feudal sovereignties and Government founded on compacts, it necessarily
 3 follows that their respective prerogatives must differ. Sovereignty is the right to govern; a nation or State-
 4 sovereign is the person or persons in whom that resides. In Europe the sovereignty is generally ascribed to the
 5 Prince; here it rests with the people; there, the sovereign actually administers the Government; here, never in
 6 a single instance; our Governors are the agents of the people, and at most stand in the same relation to their
 7 sovereign, in which regents in Europe stand to their sovereigns. Their Princes have personal powers, dignities,
 8 and pre-eminences, our rulers have none but official; nor do they partake in the sovereignty otherwise, or in 9 any other capacity, than as private citizens."

10 [Chisholm, Ex'r. v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.ed. 454, 457, 471, 472 (1794)]

11 The above conclusions are also completely consistent with the words of President Abraham Lincoln, who said in his famous 12 Gettysburg Address during the Civil War in 1863:

13 "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we
 14 take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly 15 resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of 16 freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."
 17 [Abraham Lincoln, Gettysburg Address, November 19, 1863]

18 ". . .government of the people, by the people, and for the people" makes the People their own governors and government. We
 19 simply can't have any rulers above us if our Constitution (Article 4, Section 2 and Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1) makes 20 everyone equal under the law and our Declaration of Independence says "All men are created equal". If the Judge and the 21 President and the Congressmen have the same rights as us, they can't be our rulers, and can only be our servants. Even the 22 Supreme Court agrees with the conclusion that the People are the sovereigns, which makes them their OWN governors and 23 rulers:

- 24 • Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 \(1892\): "The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens,' are 25 synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our 26 republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their 27 representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people, and 28 a constituent member of this sovereignty. ..."
- 29 • Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 \(1884\) "There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the 30 government of the United States...In this country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no
 31 power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld."
- 32 • Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 \(1906\) "His [the individual's] rights are such as existed by the law of the land long 33 antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance 34 with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his
 35 property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does 36 not trespass upon their rights."
- 37 • Perry v. U.S., 294 U.S. 330 \(1935\) "In the United States, sovereignty resides in the people...the Congress cannot 38 invoke sovereign power of the People to override their will as thus declared."
- 39 • Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 \(1886\) "Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and 40 source of law...While sovereign powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the 41 people."

42 Another very important inference about the meaning of government is in order at this point. If WE are the government here
 43 in America, and if WE accept any money from a public servant, then WE also become statutory "employees" of the 44 government within a legal context. The tax code is written to apply entirely and exclusively to instrumentalities, "public 45 officers", and statutory "employees" of the federal government, which is exactly what we become if we accept any amount
 46 of money from our public servants that we did not in fact earn with our own personal sweat and labor. When public servants
 47 try to bribe you with your own stolen "tax" money using a socialist handout program, they in effect are attempting to bring
 48 you under the control of their laws as statutory "employees" of the government! The only thing the government can lawfully
 49 spend money on is a "public purpose", which means you must be a federal public officer, agent, statutory "employee", or

1 instrumentality on official business executing a constitutionally authorized government function in order to lawfully receive
 2 public funds. Otherwise, you are committing theft and embezzlement by converting public funds to a private use. Remember
 3 that the primary purpose of law is to control and limit what government can do so that the true sovereigns, the people, will
 4 be LEFT ALONE by the government.

5 *"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They
 6 recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a
 7 part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect
 8 Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the
 9 Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized
 10 men."*

11 *[Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper,
 12 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]*

13 This status of having accepted their stolen loot and thereby becoming connected to them as a statutory "employee" is the 14 status described in the Internal Revenue Code as being "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States".
 15 Those who are "effectively connected" are plugged into the government matrix. This point will become very important later
 16 on in Chapter 5, where we talk about who the proper subjects of the Internal Revenue Code truly are. This status of being 17 "effectively connected" really means that we have become a government whore and adulterer. The legal dictionary defines 18 "commerce" as intercourse:

19 *"Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens
 20 or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the 21 instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it
 22 is carried on..."*

23 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

24 The Bible describes believers (us) as God's bride.

25 "For your Maker is your husband, the Lord of hosts is His name; and your Redeemer is the Holy One of
 26 Israel; he is called the God of the whole earth, for the Lord has called you like a woman forsaken and grieved
 27 in spirit, like a youthful wife when you were refused," says your God."*

28 [Isaiah 54:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

29 When we as God's bride accept stolen loot, and involve ourselves in commerce with the government, we become adulterers
 30 and friends of the world:

31 *"Where do wars and fights come from among you? Do they not come from your desires for pleasure [unearned
 32 money] that war in your members [and your democratic governments]? You lust [after other people's money]
 33 and do not have. You murder [the unborn to increase your standard of living] and covet [the unearned] and 34 cannot obtain [except by empowering your government to STEAL for you!]. You fight and war [against the rich
 35 and the nontaxpayers to subsidize your idleness]. Yet you do not have because you do not ask [the Lord, but 36 instead ask the deceitful government]. You ask and do not receive, because you ask amiss, that you may spend it
 37 on your pleasures. Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you not know that friendship with the world for the 38 governments of the world] is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of the world [or the 39 governments of the world] makes himself an enemy of God."*

40 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

41 Our disclaimer defines "government" as follows:

42 DISCLAIMER

43 4. MEANING OF WORDS

44 *The term "government" is defined to include that group of people dedicated to the protection of purely and exclusively
 45 PRIVATE RIGHTS and PRIVATE PROPERTY that are absolutely and exclusively owned by a truly free and sovereign human
 46 being who is EQUAL to the government in the eyes of the law per the Declaration of Independence. It excludes the protection
 47 of PUBLIC rights or PUBLIC privileges \(franchises, Form #05.030\) and collective rights \(Form #12.024\) because of the 48 tendency to subordinate PRIVATE rights to PUBLIC rights due to the CRIMINAL conflict of financial interest on the part of 49 those in the alleged "government" (18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §§144, and 455). See Separation Between Public and Private 50 Rights Course, Form #12.025 for the distinctions between PUBLIC and PRIVATE.*

51 "As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and 52 are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. [1] Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts. [2] That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves. [3] and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. [4] It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual [PRIVATE] rights is against public policy. Anything done CIVILLY for the benefit of those working IN the government at the involuntary, enforced, coerced, or compelled \(Form #05.003\) expense of PRIVATE free humans is classified as DE FACTO \(Form #05.043\), non-governmental, PRIVATE business activity beyond the core purpose of government that cannot and should not be protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity. Click here \(Form #11.401\) for a detailed exposition of ALL of the illegal methods of enforcement (Form #05.032) and duress \(Form #02.005\). "Duress" as used here INCLUDES:

1. Any type of LEGAL DECEPTION, Form #05.014.
2. Every attempt to insulate government workers from responsibility or accountability for their false or misleading statements (Form #05.014 and Form 12.021 Video 4), forms, or publications (Form #05.007 and Form #12.023).
3. Every attempt to offer or enforce civil franchise statutes against anyone OTHER than public officers ALREADY in the government. Civil franchises cannot and should not be used to CREATE new public offices, but to add duties to EXISTING public officers who are ALREADY lawfully elected or appointed. See Form #05.030.
4. Every attempt to commit identity theft by legally kidnapping CONSTITUTIONAL state domiciled parties onto federal territory or into the "United States" federal corporation as public officers. Form #05.046.
5. Every attempt to offer or enforce any kind of franchise within a CONSTITUTIONAL state. See Form #05.030.
6. Every attempt to entice people to give up an inalienable CONSTITUTIONAL right in exchange for a franchise privilege. See Form #05.030.
7. Every attempt to use the police to enforce civil franchises or civil penalties. Police power can be lawfully used ONLY to enforce the criminal law. Any other use, and especially for revenue collection, is akin to sticking people up at gunpoint. See Form #12.022.
8. Every attempt at CIVIL asset forfeiture to police in the conduct of CRIMINAL enforcement. This merely creates a criminal conflict of interest in police and makes them into CIVIL revenue collectors who seek primarily their own enrichment. See Form #12.022.
9. Every attempt to compel or penalize anyone to declare a specific civil status on a government form that is signed under penalty of perjury. That is criminal witness tampering and the IRS does it all the time.
10. Every attempt to call something voluntary and yet to refuse to offer forms and procedures to unvolunteer. This is criminal FRAUD. Congressmen call income taxes voluntary all the time but the IRS refuses to even recognize or help anyone who is a "nontaxpayer". See Exhibit #05.041.

All of the above instances of duress place personal interest in direct conflict with obedience to REAL law, Form #05.048. They are the main source of government corruption \(Form #11.401\) in the present de facto system \(Form #05.043\). The only

1 type of enforcement by a DE JURE government that can or should be compelled and lawful is CRIMINAL or COMMON

 22 who is acting in complete obedience to the word of God in all their interactions with anyone and everyone in government.
 23 Any attempt by a PRIVATE human to consent to any CIVIL STATUTORY offering by any government \(a franchise, Form
 24 #05.030\) is a violation of their delegation of authority order from God \(Form #13.007\) that places them OUTSIDE the 25 protection of God under the Bible.

26 Under this legal definition of "government" the IDEAL and DE JURE government is one that:

- 27 1. The States cannot offer THEIR taxable franchises within federal territory and the FEDERAL government may not 28 establish taxable franchises within the territorial borders of the states. This limitation was acknowledged by the U.S.
 29 Supreme Court in the License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462 \(1866\) and continues to this day but is 30 UNCONSTITUTIONALLY ignored more by fiat and practice than by law.
- 31 2. Has the administrative burden of proof IN WRITING to prove to a common law jury of your peers that you
 32 CONSENTED in writing to the CIVIL service or offering before they may COMMENCE administrative enforcement of 33 any kind against you. Such administrative enforcement includes, but is not limited to administrative liens,
 34 administrative levies, administrative summons, or contacting third parties about you. This ensures that you CANNOT
 35 become the unlawful victim of a USUALLY FALSE PRESUMPTION \(Form #05.017\) about your CIVIL STATUS
 36 \(Form #13.008\) that ultimately leads to CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT \(Form #05.046\). The decision maker on 37 whether you have CONSENTED should NOT be anyone in the AGENCY that administers the service or benefit and 38 should NEVER be ADMINISTRATIVE. It should be JUDICIAL.
- 39 3. Judges making decisions about the payment of any CIVIL SERVICE fee may NOT participate in ANY of the programs
 40 they are deciding on and may NOT be "taxpayers" under the I.R.C. Subtitle A Income tax. This creates a criminal 41 financial conflict of interest that denies due process to all those who are targeted for enforcement. This sort of 42 corruption was abused to unlawfully expand the income tax and the Social Security program OUTSIDE of their 43 lawful territorial extent \(Form #05.018\). See Lucas v. Earl, 281 U.S. 111 \(1930\), O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S.
 44 277 \(1939\) and later in Hatter v. U.S. 532 U.S. 557 \(2001\).
- 45 4. EVERY CIVIL service offered by any government MUST be subject to choice and competition, in order to ensure 46 accountability and efficiency in delivering the service. This INCLUDES the minting of substance based currency. The 47 government should NOT have a monopoly on ANY service, including money or even the postal service. All such 48 monopolies are inevitably abused to institute duress and destroy the autonomy and sovereignty and EQUALTY of 49 everyone else.
- 50 5. CANNOT "bundle" any service with any other in order to FORCE you to buy MORE services than you want.
 51 Bundling removes choice and autonomy and constitutes biblical "usury". For instance, it CANNOT:
 52 5.1. Use "driver licensing" to FORCE people to sign up for Social Security by forcing them to provide a "franchise
 53 license number" called an SSN or TIN in order to procure the PRIVILEGE of "driving", meaning using the 54 commercial roadways FOR HIRE and at a profit.
 55 5.2. Revoke driver licenses as a method of enforcing ANY OTHER franchise or commercial obligation, including 56 but not limited to child support, taxes, etc.
 57 5.3. Use funds from ONE program to "prop up" or support another. For instance, they cannot use Social Security
 58 as a way to recruit "taxpayers" of other services or the income tax. This ensures that EVERY PROGRAM
 59 stands on its own two feet and ensures that those paying for one program do not have to subsidize failing
 60 OTHER programs that are not self-supporting. It also ensures that the government MUST follow the SAME
 61 free market rules that every other business must follow for any of the CIVIL services it competes with other 62 businesses to deliver.
 63 5.4. Piggyback STATE income taxes onto FEDERAL income taxes, make the FEDERAL government the tax
 64 collector for STATE TAXES, or the STATES into tax collectors for the FEDERAL government.
- 65 6. Can lawfully enforce the CRIMINAL laws without your express consent.
- 66 7. Can lawfully COMPEL you to pay for BASIC SERVICES of the courts, jails, military, and ROADS and NO OTHERS.
 67 EVERYONE pays the same EQUAL amount for these services.

- 1 8. Sends you an ITEMIZED annual bill for CIVIL services that you have contracted in writing to procure. That bill
2 should include a signed copy of your consent for EACH individual CIVIL service or "social insurance". Such "social
3 services" include anything that costs the government money to provide BEYOND the BASIC SERVICES, such as 4 health insurance, health care, Social Security, Medicare, etc.
- 5 9. If you do not pay the ITEMIZED annual bill for the services you EXPRESSLY consented to, the government should 6 have the right to collect ITS obligations the SAME way as any OTHER PRIVATE human. That means they can
7 administratively lien your real or personal property, but ONLY if YOU can do the same thing to THEM for services
8 or property THEY have procured from you either voluntarily or involuntarily. Otherwise, they must go to court IN
9 EQUITY to collect, and MUST produce evidence of consent to EACH service they seek payment or collection for. In 10 other words, they have to follow the SAME rules as every private human for the collection of CIVIL obligations that 11 are in default. Otherwise, they have superior or supernatural powers and become a pagan deity and you become the 12 compelled WORSHIPPER of that pagan deity. See Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016 for 13 details on all the BAD things that happen by turning government into such a CIVIL RELIGION.

19 4.4.2 Biblical view of taxation and government

20 "The reward of energy, enterprise and thrift is taxes." -- William Feather

21 "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy,
22 acceptable to God, which is your reasonable service. And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God."
[Romans 12:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

23 There are several new testament verses that are quoted out of context by alleged government authorities and false churches
24 in order to deceive people into believing that they should support their man-made governments and obey their man-made
25 law. This, however, is not the case, as God has never given His people authority to make their own law or to walk in the 26 statutes of men. Therefore, a more detailed look is necessary regarding these scriptures so that the deception can clearly be 27 seen.

28 One verse that is relentlessly misquoted is "...render unto Caesar!" found in Mark 12:14-17, where Jesus said:

29 "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's."
30 [Mark 12:14-17, Bible, NKJV].

31 When Jesus said this, He was totally aware of God's Law, and we can be sure that He was not telling the teachers of the law
32 to do contrary to God's Law. Let's see just exactly what Jesus meant by "the things which are Caesar's" when he said this.

33 First of all, who was this "Caesar" that Jesus was referring to, but the equivalent of a king? Let's see who the king is in our
34 society according to the supreme Court:

35 "Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while
36 sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by 37 whom and for whom all government exists and acts."
38 Yick Wo v. Hopkins, [118 U.S. 356; 6 S.Ct. 1064 (1886)]

39 "The people of this State, as the successors of its former sovereign, are entitled to all the rights which formerly
40 belonged to the King by his prerogative. Through the medium of their Legislature they may exercise all the
41 powers which previous to the Revolution could have been exercised either by the King alone, or by him in
42 conjunction with his Parliament; subject only to those restrictions which have been imposed by the Constitution
43 of this State or of the U.S."
44 [Lansing v. Smith, 21 D. 89, 4 Wendel 9 (1829) (New York)]

45 The real "king" in our society is not the government or anyone serving the sovereign people in the government, but the 46 PEOPLE! That's you! So even if you misinterpret Jesus' words to mean that we should render to corrupt government 47 "servants" that which they illegally ask for and demand, since your own government (judiciary in this case) calls you the king, then your public servants are the ones who should be “rendering”! Render to the sovereign king (Caesar, that’s you) his due, which is everything that is his property and his right, including 100% of his earned wage.

“Remember the word that I said to you, ‘A servant is not greater than his master.’”
[Jesus in the Bible, John 15:20]

Why does the IRS insist on arguing with their “King” (which is you) and violating this scripture? Therefore, covetous public servants in the government, from a Biblical perspective, simply can’t be greater than the sovereigns they serve in the public at large or they are violating God’s law, denying equal protection of the law to all, and become hypocrites and tyrants. Plain and simple, isn’t it?

The other thing that people often overlook in interpreting Jesus passage above regarding taxes is the following question:

“What exactly does belong to Caesar?”

As we pointed out earlier in section 4.1 and as we will point out again later in section 5.1.1, the only thing that a sovereign (such as a government or a biological person) can “own” and control is that which he creates. Below is a list of the many things that God created, direct from the Bible. He “owns” all these things by implication, which means everything else belongs to “Caesar”:

“In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.”
[Gen. 1:1, Bible, NKJV]

<sup>11</sup>The heavens are Yours [God’s], the earth also is Yours;
The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
The north and the south, You have created them;
Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
You have a mighty arm;
Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.”
[Psalm 89:11-13, Bible, NKJV]

“I have made the earth,
And created man on it.
I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
And all their host I have commanded.”
[Isaiah 45:12, Bible, NKJV]

“Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the Lord your God, also the earth with all that is in it.”
[Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV]

Well, if God created the heavens and the earth, then what else is there? What is it that Caesar can “own” if he can’t own these and didn’t create these? Even the U.S. Supreme Court confirms that a sovereign cannot destroy that which it did not create, and that the power to tax is the power to destroy. Another way of saying this is that the creation cannot be greater than its Creator.

“Woe to him who strives with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherd of the earth! Shall the clay say to him who forms it, ‘What are you making?’ Or shall your handiwork say, ‘He has no hands?’ Woe to him who says to his father, ‘What are you begetting?’ Or to the woman, ‘What have you brought forth?’”
[Isaiah 45:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

“What is a Constitution? It is the form of government, delineated by the mighty hand of the people, in which certain first principles of fundamental laws are established. The Constitution is certain and fixed; it contains the permanent will of the people, and is the supreme law of the land; it is paramount to the power of the Legislature, and can be revoked or altered only by the authority that made it. The life-giving principle and the death-doing stroke must proceed from the same hand.”
[VanHorne’s Lessee v. Dorrance, 2 U.S. 304 (1795)]

The cite below from the U.S. Supreme Court proves the above conclusion. The court was ruling on whether the federal government, which was a creation of the sovereign states, can tax its creator: a state of the Union. The conclusion was absolutely NOT!

1                   "The taxing power of the federal government does not therefore extend to the means or agencies through or by
 2 the employment of which the states perform their essential functions; since, if these were within its reach, they
 3 *might be embarrassed, and perhaps wholly paralyzed, by the burdens it should impose. That the power to tax
 4 involves the power to destroy; that the power to destroy may defeat and render useless the power to create; that
 5 there is a plain repugnance in conferring on one government a power to control the constitutional measures
 6 of another, which other, in respect to those very measures, is declared to be supreme over that which exerts the 7 control,-are propositions not to be denied."

8                   [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1895)]

9           The government cannot tax the labor of a natural person because it didn't create people -God did! For government to 10 tax/destroy people who were made in the image of God and are therefore servants of God is an affront to the Creator. It also 11 amounts to adultery by those who allow themselves to be so enslaved, because they are fornicating outside of marriage with 12 a false idol or god called government:

13                   "For your Maker is your husband, the Lord of hosts is His name; and your Redeemer is the Holy One of
 14 Israel: he is called the God of the whole earth, for the Lord has called you like a woman forsaken and grieved
 15 in spirit, like a youthful wife when you were refused," says your God."

16                   [Isaiah 54:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

17           The definition of "commerce" in the legal dictionary confirms that serving the government or sending it our money is 18 "intercourse". Intercourse is illegal outside of marriage. When we commit "intercourse" with government by sending our 19 money to it or serving it, then we are committing adultery, because government is not our husband: only God is.

20                   "Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens
 21 or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the
 22 instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it
 23 *is carried on..."

24                   [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

25           The concept of commerce with government being a form of adultery ties back to the theme we will mention later in section
 26 4.4.12, where we say that the government wants you to believe that the status of being a "citizen" is just like marrying the 27 government, and God plainly doesn't allow that.

28           Extending these timeless principles to the matter above of "Rendering to Caesar": The only thing Caesar "created" was the 29 money with his image on it, so the only thing he has the moral authority to destroy or harm using the money is only
 30 the creation itself, which is the money. For instance, we cannot allow the use of Caesar's money to destroy, harm, enslave, or 31 control the people who are compelled without recourse to use it or we will violate the rulings of the Supreme Court above.
 32 The only way that result can be guaranteed is for us to give back to Caesar's all of his fake fiat paper money and to barter
 33 with gold and silver instead. That, in fact, is exactly what the original founding fathers did! We started out with currency
 34 based on gold that had value independent of the government. This is what Jesus was indirectly implying here: give back to 35 Caesar that which is Caesar's, which is his money. This also happens to be the only conclusion consistent with the rulings of 36 the U.S. Supreme Court above and with Natural Order described in section 4.1.

37           The context for the "Render to Caesar" quote above was that the Pharisees wanted to trap Jesus. They were the teachers of 38 the Law, and knew full well what God's word says about laws and governments other than God's. The Pharisees knew ALL 39 of the following:

40           They knew that even their own Israelite kings could not make any law, but could only administer God's law, not turning aside
 41 from God's commandments, to the right hand, or to the left:

42                   When thou [Israel] art come unto the land which the LORD thy God gives thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt
 43 dwell therein, and shalt say, I will set a king over me, like as all the nations that are about me;

44                   [Deut 17:14] [The word of the Lord through his servant Moses]]

45                   And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a
 46 book out of that which is before the priests the Levites: [17:19] and it shall be with him, and he shall read therein
 47 all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and these 48 statutes, to do them: [17:20] That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn not aside from 49 the commandment, to the right hand. Or to the left: to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he,
 50 and his children, in the midst of Israel.

51                   [Deut 17:18]

1 Not adding to it, or diminishing from it:

2 What thing soever I command you [all Israel], observe to do it: thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it.
3 [Deut 12:32]

4 The Pharisees knew that it was a sin to walk in the statutes of the heathen, and that if their OWN ISRAELITE KINGS made
5 any statutes, it was a SIN to walk in their statutes as well:

6 In the ninth year of Hoshea the king of Assyria took Samaria, and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed
7 them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes. [17:7] for so it was, that the
8 children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of 9 Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods, [17:8] And walked in the 10 statutes of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out from before the children of Israel, and of the kings of Israel,
11 which they had made. [ 2Ki 17:18] Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them out of 12 his sight: there was none left but the tribe of Judah only. [17:19] Also Judah kept not the commandments of the 13 LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made.
14 [2 Ki 17:6]

15 The Pharisees knew that God's people have laws that are different from all other people's [God's Laws] and that even in 16 foreign lands they do not keep the king's [man's] laws:

17 Then Haman [the highest prince in the kingdom of the Medes and the Persians] said to King Hauser's [the king
18 of the Medes and the Persians who reigned from India to Ethiopia], "There is a certain people [The Jews; Judeans
19 who were obedient to God's Law] scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom;
20 their laws are different from all other people's, and they do not keep the king's laws. . ."
21 [Est 3:8]

22 The Pharisees knew the principle that consenting with a thief, be he a tyrant king or commoner, makes one a partaker with 23 that thief—and an apostate:

24 "When thou sawest a thief then thou consentedst with him, and hast been partaker with adulterers."
25 [Ps 50:18]

26 Adulterers—Strong's reference number: 5003

27 Hebrew: na'aph

28 Definition: to commit adultery; fig. to apostatize

29 The Pharisees knew that those who participate in evil through the use of an agent are guilty of the act themselves:

30 [2 Sa 11:14] And it came to pass in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab [his agent], and sent it by the 31 hand of Uriah. [11:15] And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hottest battle, and 32 retire ye from him, that he may be smitten, and die. [11:16] And it came to pass, when Joab observed the city,
33 that he assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were. [11:17] And the men of the city went 34 out, and fought with Joab: and there fell some of the people of the servants of David; and Uriah the Hittite died 35 also.

36 [2 Sa 11:26] And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned for her husband.
37 [11:27] And when the mourning was past, David sent and fetched her to his house, and she became his wife, and 38 bare him a son. But the thing that David had done displeased the LORD.

39 [2 Sa 12:9] [Then Nathan said to David] Wherefore hast thou despised the commandment of the LORD, to do
40 evil in his sight? thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, [through the use of an agent] and hast taken
41 his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

42 Therefore, by the same principle, the Pharisees knew that participating in a heathen government by financing a heathen agent
43 of the government to enforce heathen laws makes the one who pays the tribute guilty of the acts of the heathen government.

44 The Pharisees knew that those who are obedient to God's laws only will not pay toll, tribute, and custom to a heathen king
45 ["Caesar"]:

46 [Ezr 4:6] Now in the reign of Ahasuerus [a heathen king ("Caesar")], in the beginning of his reign, they [the 47 king's people through their agents, the counselors] wrote an accusation [to the king] against the inhabitants of

Judah and Jerusalem. [saying the following:] [4:12] Let it be known to the king that the Jews [who obey God's law, not the king's law] who came up from you have come to us at Jerusalem, and are building the rebellious and evil city, [from the king's point of view only; righteous and obedient from God's point of view] and are finishing its walls and repairing the foundations. [4:13] Let it now be known to the king that, if this city is built and the walls completed, they will not pay tax, tribute, or custom, and the king's treasury will be diminished. [They will pay no tribute to "Caesar"]. [NKJ]

[4:16] We certify the king that, if this city be builded again, and the walls thereof set up, by this means thou shalt have no portion [no tribute to "Caesar"] on this side the river. [KJV]

The Pharisees knew that the throne of iniquity cannot have fellowship with God or his believing family:

[Ps 94:20] Shall the throne of iniquity [wicked rulers] have fellowship with thee, which frameth mischief by a law? [make enactments or decrees which condemn innocent blood by adding to or diminishing from God's Law]

The Pharisees knew that the people in whose heart is God's law are to obey His Law and are not to fear the reproach of men:

[Is 51:7] Hearken unto me [the Lord], ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law; fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their revilings.

[Is 51:12] I, even I, am he that comforteth you: who art thou, that thou shouldest be afraid of a man that shall die, and of the son of man which shall be made as grass..."

The Pharisees knew God's admonition about not following after the manners of the heathen:

[Eze 11:10] Ye [Israel] shall fall by the sword; I [the Lord] will judge you in the border of Israel; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

[Eze 11:12] And ye shall know that I am the LORD: for ye have not walked in my statutes, neither executed my judgments, but have done after the manners of the heathen that are round about you.

Note: The Hebrew word translated to "manners" speaks specifically of governmental and judicial activity. Here, Ezekiel is not speaking of "ways or customs" of the heathen, he is speaking about the "statutes, ordinances, judgments, laws and government" of the heathen.

Manners—Strong's reference number: 4941

Hebrew: mishpat

Derivation: Derived from 8199

Definition: prop. a verdict (favorable or unfavorable) pronounced judicially, espec. A sentence or formal decree (human or [partic.] divine law, individual or collect.) include. The act, the place, the suit, the crime, and the penalty; abstr. justice, include. right, or privilege (statutory or customary), or even a style

Manners—Strong's reference number: 8199

Hebrew: shaphat

Derivation: A primary word.

Definition: to judge, i.e., pronounce sentence (for or against); impl. vindicate or punish; by extens. To govern; pass. To litigate (lit. or fig.)

The Pharisees knew that God's people do not obey wicked governments that have other gods even if they are thrown into a fiery furnace:

[Dan 3:16] Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego replied to the king, "O Nebuchadnezzar, we do not need to defend ourselves before you in this matter. [3:17] If we are thrown into the blazing furnace, the God we serve is able to save us from it, and he will rescue us from your hand, O king.

[3:18] But even if he does not, we want you to know, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the image of gold you have set up." [NIV]

1 [3:19] Then Nebuchadnezzar was full of fury, and the expression on his face changed toward Shadrach, Meshach,
2 and Abed-Nego. Therefore he spoke and commanded that they heat the furnace seven times more than it was
3 usually heated. [3:20] And he commanded certain mighty men of valor who were in his army to bind Shadrach,
4 Meshach, and Abed-Nego, and cast them into the burning fiery furnace. [NKJ]

5 The Pharisees knew that God's people do not obey wicked governments even if they are thrown into a lion's den:

6 [Dan 6:7] All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counselors, and the captains,
7 have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition
8 of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions. [Dan 6:10] Now
9 when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber
10 toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as 11 he did aforetime.
12 [Dan 6:16] Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. . ."

13 The Pharisees knew that those who have set up kings and princes [governments] but not by God's hand, have trespassed
14 against His law:

15 [Hos 4:1] [The word of the LORD through the prophet Hosea]: Hear the word of the LORD, ye children of 16 Israel: for the LORD hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy,
17 nor knowledge of God in the land.

18 [Hos 8:1] Set the trumpet to thy mouth. He [the enemy] shall come as an eagle against the house of the LORD,
19 because they [Israel] have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

20 [Hos 8:4] They have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I [the Lord] knew it not: of their 21 silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

22 The Pharisees knew that it is a sin to keep statutes made by Israelite kings, let alone a heathen "Caesar":

23 [Mic 6:13] [The warning of the Lord through his servant Micah]: Therefore also will I [the Lord] make thee
24 [Israel] sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of your sins.

25 [Mic 6:16] For the statutes of Omri are kept, and all the works of the house of Ahab [kings of Israel who made
26 their own statutes], and ye walk in their counsels; that I should make thee a desolation, and the inhabitants thereof
27 an hissing: therefore ye shall bear the reproach of my people.

28 The Pharisees were fully aware that God only allowed "Caesar" to be in power to prove Israel to see whether they would 29 keep the way of the LORD to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not:

30 [Jdg 2:21] I [the Lord] also will not henceforth drive out any from before them [Israel] of the nations [heathen
31 Caesars, etc.] which Joshua left [unvanquished] when he died: [2:22] That through them [the heathen
32 governments] I may prove Israel, whether they will keep the way of the LORD to walk therein, as their fathers 33 did keep it, or not.

34 [Jdg 3:4] and they [the nations which the LORD left] were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they [Israel]
35 would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

36 And the Pharisees were aware of the conclusion of the whole matter:

37 [Ecc 12:13] Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is 38 the whole duty of man.

39 And finally, the Pharisees knew that when a people, and especially believers, refuse to correct or rebuke sin in their society,
40 then the unrebuked sin of even one evil man could curse the whole society and separate that society from the blessings of the 41 Lord. In the Pharisees time, the evil was that of the King named Caesar, which they could not and would not rebuke and thus 42 became hypocrites, as Jesus called them.

43 [Matt. 23:23, Bible] "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you pay tithes of mint and anise and 44 cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faith. These you ought to 45 have done, without leaving the others undone."

The Pharisees knew their hypocrisy in the matter of rebuking sin at the time they asked the question of Jesus about rendering taxes to Caesar because the Book of Joshua, Chapter 7, written 1400 years earlier, tells the story about Moses' successor Joshua, who lost a war with the Amorites and the blessings of God because one of his men illegally stole a treasure that was the spoils of war and hid it under his tent and would not confess or right his wrong before God and his people, and preferred to lie about it. The result was that the people felt guilty and cowardly in battle and ran away from the enemy to become the laughing stock of the land. They were cursed by God because they would not confront and correct this evil in their society, which consisted of theft and deceit:

[Joshua 7:11-13] "Israel has sinned, and they have also transgressed My covenant which I commanded them. For they have even taken some of the accursed things, and have both stolen and deceived [the IRS]; and they have also put it among their own stuff.

"Therefore, the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they have become doomed to destruction. Neither will I be with you anymore, unless you destroy the accursed [the IRS and the Federal Reserve in our day and age] from among you.

Get up, sanctify the people [clean up this mess!], and say 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because thus says the Lord God of Israel; "There is an accursed thing in your midst, O Israel; you cannot stand before your enemies until you take away the accursed thing from among you."

Therefore, knowing all of the above scriptures, the Pharisees laid a trap for Jesus similar to the question: "Have you stopped beating your wife yet?" They were certain that they could trap Jesus into affirming that either: it was lawful to pay tribute to "Caesar", which they knew to be against God's Law, and thereby condemning him under God's Law to pay tribute to a heathen government [Caesar], thereby condemning him under "Caesar's" "law". Then the Pharisees could go tell "Caesar", and thereby get rid of Jesus with the sword of Caesar:

[Mat 22:17] [The Pharisees sent their disciples to Jesus, who said,] Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?

Jesus was also versed in the above scriptures. He was fully aware that it is against God's Law to give tribute to a heathen "Caesar". He also knew that it would enrage "Caesar" for him to say so. Jesus knew that giving the correct answer was a trap laid for him by the Pharisees, and he evaded their trap by the following: He didn't define what was or was not "Caesar's". He didn't even affirm that the penny with "Caesar's" image and superscription was to be rendered to "Caesar". Jesus' answer was that the Pharisees should render to "Caesar", a heathen who did not know or obey God's Law, exactly what was due to any heathen or Israelite who did not obey God's Law:

[Num 15:15] One ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation [of Israel], and also for the stranger [foreigner; non Israelite] that sojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. [15:16] One law and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you. (i.e.: death for breaking God's Law:

[Deu 27:26] Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law [God's Law, not Caesar's law] to do them. And all the people shall say, Amen.)

Therefore, the Pharisees knew that what they had just been told was to render unto "Caesar" what God's Law required: death, and since they were declining to carry out the sentence of the law, they were hypocrites, since they were the enforcement officials of God's Law and knew what "Caesar" was due under God's Law. They had also been told that they were acting presumptuously by not harkening to carry out the sentence of the law and they themselves should be put to death along with "Caesar" in order to put their own evil away from Israel:

[Deu 17:11] According to the sentence of the law which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they shall tell thee, thou shalt do: thou shalt not decline from the sentence which they shall shew thee, to the right hand, nor to the left. [17:12] And the man that will do presumptuously, and will not hearken unto the priest that standeth to minister there before the LORD thy God, or unto the judge, [and render unto Caesar what Caesar was due, death in this particular case] even that man shall die [the Pharisees, for not carrying out the sentence in this particular case]: and thou shalt put away the evil from Israel.

This is obviously why the Pharisees marveled at Jesus. They were not about to tell "Caesar" that God's Law required him to be put to death, because "Caesar" would have then come after the Pharisees. In addition, Jesus had just rebuked both "Caesar" and the Pharisees by stating publicly that both "Caesar" and the Pharisees should be put to death, and the Pharisees who hated Jesus knew it but couldn't go tell "Caesar" in order to get Jesus in trouble. Also, "Caesar" and his agents didn't know enough

1 about God's Law to realize that Jesus said that "Caesar" should be put to death, and "Caesar" thinks to this very day that
2 Jesus was saying to pay tribute. Checkmate. Jesus will, incidentally, render to "Caesar" what is "Caesar's" at His coming:

3 [Luk 19:27] [Jesus, speaking of himself in a parable said,] but those mine enemies, which would not that I should
4 reign over them [kings, "Caesars", judges of the earth and their followers at His coming], bring hither, and slay
5 them before me.

6 [Psalm 2:7] [The psalmist foretelling that Jesus will "render unto Caesar what is Caesar's at his coming]: I will
7 declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son [Jesus]; this day have I begotten thee.

8 [2:9] Thou [Jesus] shalt break them [the heathen kings (Caesars) and judges] with a rod of iron; thou shalt
9 dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel. [2:10] Be wise now therefore, O ye kings: ["Caesars"] be instructed,
10 ye judges of the earth. [Note: These verses in Psalm 2 are confirmed to be about Jesus in Acts 13:33; Heb 1:1-
11 5; Heb 5:5, and by Jesus Himself in Rev 2:26-27].

12 [Zec 14:9] [Zechariah prophesying that Jesus will "render unto Caesar what is Caesar's" at His coming]: And 13 the LORD [Jesus] shall be king over all the earth: in that day shall there be one LORD, and his name one.

14 [14:12] And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD [Jesus] will smite all the people [kings, "Caesars",
15 judges of the earth and all who follow them] that have fought against Jerusalem [Jesus' capital city when He
16 comes with his saints]; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall
17 consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth. [Note: These verses can be 18 seen to be about Jesus in Mat 25:31-32; Mat 28:18; Joh 18:37; 1Ti 6:13-15; Rev 11:15; Rev 19:14; Rev 20:4- 19 6].

20 Continuing with Jesus' answer to the Pharisees:

21 [Mat 22:18] But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? [22:19] Shew me
22 the tribute money. And they brought unto him a penny. [22:20] And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and 23 superscription? [22:21] They say unto him, Caesar's. Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Caesar
24 the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's.

25 [Mar 12:14] And when they [certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians] were come, they say unto him,
26 Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest
27 the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar, or not? [12:15] Shall we give, or shall we not
28 give? But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penny, that I may see it.
29 [12:16] and they brought it. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said
30 unto him, Caesar's [12:17] and Jesus answering said unto them, Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's
31 and to God the things that are God's. And they marveled at him.

32 [Luke 20:22] [The chief priests and scribes asked Jesus,] Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Caesar, or no?
33 [20:23] but he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me? [20:24] shew me a penny.
34 Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered and said, Caesar's. [20:25] and he said unto them,
35 Render therefore unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.

36 From that day forward, the Pharisees and the Sadducees would not ask Jesus any further questions:

37 [Mat 22:46] And no one was able to answer Him a word, nor from that day on did anyone dare question Him
38 anymore. [NKJ]

39 [Luk 20:39] Then some of the scribes answered and said, "Teacher, You have spoken well." [20:40] but after 40 that they dared not question Him anymore. [NKJ]

41 The silence of the Pharisees from that point on spoke volumes about their sin. The Bible explains that those who are silent,
42 such as the Pharisees and Saducees who tried to trap Jesus, do NOT praise Him, which by implication means that they 43 dishonor God:

44 "The dead do not praise the LORD, Nor any who go down into silence."
45 [Psalm 115:17, Bible, NKJV]

46 "Out of the mouth of babes [Jesus never attended a man-made school] and nursing infants
47 You have ordained strength,
48 Because of Your enemies,
49 That You may silence the enemy and the avenger."
50 [Psalm 8:2, Bible, NKJV]

1                   "For this is the will of God, that by doing [or saying] good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish
 2                   men"
 3                   [1 Peter 2:15, Bible, NKJV]

4                   "For the LORD our God has put us to silence And given us water of gall to drink, Because we have sinned
 5                   against the LORD."
 6                   [Jeremiah 8:14, Bible, NKVJ]

7 Jesus was not calling for revolution against Rome, even though it was an oppressive conqueror of Israel. On the other hand,
 8 His apostles refused to obey a government order not to preach and teach in Jesus' name (Acts 5:27-29). On that occasion,
 9 one of Jesus' apostles said:

10                   "We ought to obey God rather than men."

11 The same admonition to obey God rather than man is found in Psalm 118:8-9

12                   "It is better to trust the Lord
 13                   Than to put confidence in man.
 14                   It is better to trust in the Lord
 15                   Than to put confidence in princes."
 16                   [Psalm 118:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

17 Finally, the Apostle Paul agreed with and reiterated these conclusions by saying that that it is scandalous for Christians to use
 18 civil rather than ecclesiastical courts in order to settle our disputes:

19                   1Corinthians 6:1 Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before
 20                   the saints?

21                   1Corinthians 6:7 *Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law [in a civil rather than
 22                   ecclesiastical court] one with another. Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather [suffer yourselves*
 23                   to] be defrauded?

24 The Roman Tribute Coin

25 5. Tiberius; 14 - 37 A.D.; AR denarius; the "Tribute Penny" of the Bible. In Mark 12:14-17 the Temple priests, testing
 26 Jesus, asked Him:

27                   And when they were come, they say unto him, "Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for 28                   thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar,
 29                   or not? Shall we give, or shall we not give?"

30                   But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, "Why tempt ye me? bring me a penny (denarius), that I may see 31                   [it]."

32                   And they brought [it]. And he saith unto them, "Whose [is] this image and superscription?" And they said unto 33                   him, "Caesar's."

34                   And Jesus answering said unto them, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that 35                   are God's." And they marveled at him.

37 Figure 4-2: Roman tribute coin

The account of the Tribute to Caesar is more extensively covered in Matthew, chapter 22. In this account, and others, the bible clearly shows that as soon as the Herodians understood the answer that they received, they marveled at the answer, and went on their way. After that time, they ceased to question Him anymore.

When you research out the origin and lineage of the term “Pontifus Maximus”, you find the Babylonian origin. Essentially, it is saying that “Caesar is God.” This title was later adopted by the Roman Popes.

Conclusions

Aren't we supposed to obey the authority over us? Yes, as long as there is no conflict with God's law. Blind obedience to all civil authority dictates, wishes, whims etc. is not always necessary though. Furthermore, if blind obedience to civil authority is really the rule to live by, I have some thought provoking questions for those who preach that false doctrine to answer:

1. Was it right for Moses parents to disobey the civil authority over them and not kill their baby? The Hebrew midwives disobeyed the civil authority and God blessed them. See Ex. 1.
2. Was it right for Peter and the disciples to disobey civil authority and keep preaching Christ? See Acts 5.
3. Was it right for Samson to disobey the civil authority (the Philistines ruled the land)? See Judges 16.
4. Was it right for the prophets to disobey the civil authority and proclaim their message at the risk of life, limb and property? See Hebrews 11.
5. Was it right for Daniel to disobey the civil authority and pray to God in spite of the command by the absolute dictator not to do so? See Daniel 6.
6. Was it right for the founding fathers like Patrick Henry, George Washington, etc. to disobey King George, the civil authority over them, and begin this great land we now freely enjoy? I suggest you re-read the Declaration of independence and try to see the motive of those great and godly men.
7. If tyranny is not the government ordained by God, is it right to resist tyranny? See the entire history of the nation of Israel in their struggle against various tyrants.
8. Was it right for the Germans at the concentration camps to obey their elected or appointed civil authority and kill the Jews?
9. Have the IRS's chains of slavery become comfortable to you and you prefer them and the peace and safety of not standing for what is right over liberty? See Patrick Henry's famous speech. It applies very well here.
10. Was it right for the French underground to disobey the civil authority and blow up German tanks, bridges etc during WW II?
11. Was it right for the men in the book of Judges to disobey the civil authority over them and rebel against their rulers?
12. Was it right for the united States to oppose the aggression of Hitler? Sadam Hussein? Japan at Pearl Harbor? Etc.

- 1 13. If someone steals your car, kidnaps your kids or rapes your wife will you call the police (use the civil authorities and 2 legal system) and/or defend your family physically and legally?
3 14. If the pacifist position is what some are now preaching, should Bible colleges and churches expel students and church
4 members who go into the military or refuse entrance or membership to those who are in or have been in the military in
5 order to be consistent?
6 15. Was it right for Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego to disobey the civil authority by not bowing on command? See Daniel
7 3.
8 16. In Acts 5 and 12 Peter disobeyed the civil authorities over him. He walked past the sleeping guards, out of jail and fled
9 the country. This was illegal for him to do. Is this the same Peter who wrote the I Peter passage we preach from about 10 obeying authority?

11 When one understands that the answer Jesus gave to whether we should pay taxes was given under Hebrew law, then they
12 understand that the same fate awaits all who pay the tribute to Caesar that God will mete out for Caesar, then we can see that
13 Jesus was clearly saying, “Do not pay taxes unto Caesar”, as was alleged at His trial. See Luke 23:2, where the people
14 accused Jesus of forbidding the payment of taxes to Caesar, which said:

15 [Luke 23:2, KJV] And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this [fellow] perverting the nation, and 16 forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, saying that he himself is Christ a King.

17 See also: First Samuel 8:7-19 in which we learn God’s displeasure with those who refused to be governed by Him and instead
18 decided to elect their own King [government], who God said would oppress them.

19 And the Lord said to Samuel, “Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have not rejected
20 you, but they have rejected Me, that I should not reign over them.

21 “According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this
22 day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods—so they are doing to you also.

23 “Now therefore heed their voice, However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of 24 the king who will reign over them.”

25 So Samuel told all the words of the Lord to the people who asked him for a king. And he said, “This will be the 26 behavior of the king who will reign over you: He will take your sons and appoint them for his own chariots and 27 to be his horsemen, and some will run before his chariots.

28 “He will appoint captains over his thousands and captains over his fifties, will set some to plow his ground and 29 reap his harvest, and some to make his weapons of war and equipment for his chariots.

30 “He will take your daughters to be perfumers, cooks, and bakers.

31 “And he will take the best of your fields, your vineyards, and your olive groves, and give them to his servants.

32 “He will take a tenth of your grain and your vintage, and give it to his officers and servants.

33 “And he will take your male servants, your female servants, your finest young men, and your donkeys, and put 34 them to his work.

35 *“He will take a tenth of your sheep. And you will be his servants.

36 “And you will cry out in that day because your king whom you have chosen for yourselves, and the Lord will not 37 hear you in that day.”

38 Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, “No, but we will have a king over us,
39 that we also may be like all the nations and that our king may judge us and go out before us and fight our battles.”

40 What God was saying is that we should not appoint our government to rule over us, but to have them servicing us and for God
41 to rule over us as the sovereigns in charge of the government.

42 “Away with you, Satan! For it is written, ‘You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him ONLY [NOT the 43 government!] you shall serve.’”
44 [Matt. 4:10, Bible, NKJV]

1 He was saying this because he knew that tyranny and a dictatorship would be the ultimate result, which would be oppressive
2 and sinful.

3 *"You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those who are great exercise authority over them.
4 Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant.
5 And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave--just as the Son of Man did not come to be 6 served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many."
7 [Matthew 20:25-28, Bible, NKJV]*

8 Is our present government our servant? Does the Internal Revenue SERVICE serve you? Our founding fathers ensured that 9 the U.S. government started out in 1776 as our servant by limiting its power with a masterful system of checks and balances.
10 They did this because the abuses and tyranny of the British king were fresh in their minds. But since then, we have forgotten
11 what God told us and looked the other way while our Congress [who has unlawfully made itself into the equivalent of the 12 king in biblical times] and its henchmen in the IRS [the king's tax collectors] have transformed themselves from servants to 13 tyrannical dictators by slowly but systematically rewriting the laws to deceive people into believing this have a tax liability
14 because the apathetic populace they created using the public education system let them get away with it. Revelation 18:3-8
15 describes what the reward is to be for those who seek to be part of such a corrupt government or those who trust in and do
16 not rebel against such a government: God is talking below about Babylon, which is a metaphor for all the graft and corruption
17 that results from human government unrestricted by the checks and balances that our founding fathers put into the U.S.
18 Constitution and unaccountable to God. Earlier in Revelation 17, Babylon the Great is described as "The Great Harlot who 19 sits on many waters with whom the kings of the earth committed fornication" (Rev. 17:1-2). We believe that this great Harlot
20 is really the bride of Christ (his church/people) described by Paul in Eph. 5:22-24 which never married her husband, Christ,
21 and therefore becomes a harlot and commits fornication with Satan. Here's Rev. 18:3-8:

22 "For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings of the earth have committed 23 fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have become rich through the abundance of her luxury."

24 And I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest 25 you receive of her plagues."

26 "For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities.

27 "Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she 28 has mixed, mix double for her."

29 "In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and 30 sorrow; for she says in her heart, 'I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.'"

31 *"Therefore her plagues will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned
32 with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her."
33 [Rev. 18:3-8, Bible, NKJV]*

34 Look above again at what is REALLY supposed to be "rendered to Caesar [Babylon]" in Revelation 18:6-8:

35 "Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she 36 has mixed, mix double for her."

37 "In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and 38 sorrow; for she says in her heart, 'I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.'"

39 *"Therefore her plagues will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned
40 with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her."*

41 Notice above the phrase: "in the cup which she has mixed, mix double for her." That phrase ought to look very familiar to 42 those who have read the Bible. In particular, we believe it refers to the following Bible passage, which talks about how to 43 discipline a THIEF. Babylon the Great Harlot is simply an ignorant people who consented with a thief called government.
44 That thief was empowered to commit its deplorable acts of injustice by two things: 1. The vote of the democratic majority;
45 2. The collective indifference of the people towards the criminal acts of their government.

46 *"If a man delivers to his neighbor money or articles to keep, and it is stolen out of the man's house, if the thief is
47 found, he shall pay double. If the thief is not found, then the master of the house shall be brought to the judges 48 to see whether he has put his hand into his neighbor's goods."*

1 [Exodus 22:7-8, Bible, NKJV]

2 The phrase “his neighbor’s goods” above, by the way, includes both the labor and the property of your neighbor. If the
3 government as your agent pilfers or steals the labor of your neighbor to support you by misrepresenting what the tax code
4 says, then it is a thief and you are consenting with a thief by receiving such stolen property. Consequently, you are part of
5 Babylon the Great Harlot, and you will get a double dose of the abuse you heaped on others in the process according to the 6 above!

7 Based on Rev. 18:6-8, the ultimate reward for trusting government to rule us or allowing a king to rule over us instead of God
8 is death and famine.

9 “For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.”
10 [Romans 6:23, Bible, NKJV]

11 Why is this the reward to be rendered to Caesar? Because the idolatry represented by making Caesar into a false god violates 12 the first and most important commandment!:

13 You shall have no other gods [including Kings or government] before Me. You shall not make for yourself a 14 carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the 15 water under the earth; you shall not bow down or serve them. For I, the Lord your God, am a jealous God,

18 [Exodus 20:3-6, NKJV]

19 The Bible is replete with examples of those who were killed at the command or with the blessing of God for the idolatry of 20 worshipping other gods, including government. Below are just a few examples:

21 Ezekiel 9:5 "And I heard God say to the other men, 'Follow him through the city and kill. Spare no one.'"

22 Ezekiel 9:6 "Kill the old men, young men, young women, mothers and children."

23 Ezekiel 9:7 "God said to them, 'Defile the Temple. Fill its courtyards with corpses. Get to work!' So they began 24 to kill the people in the city."

25 Ezekiel 9:11 "Then the man wearing linen clothes returned and reported to the Lord, 'I have carried out your 26 orders.'"

CONTEXT FOR WHY GOD COMMANDED THE KILLING IN THE ABOVE FOUR VERSES:

Ezekiel 8:17: "Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it a trivial thing to the house of Judah to commit the abominations which they commit here? For they have filled the land with violence; then they have returned to provoke Me to anger. Indeed they put the branch to their nose. Therefore I also will act in fury. My eye will not spare nor will I have pity; and though they cry in My ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them."

The people were:

- Committing acts of violence (Ezekiel 8:17)
- Worshipping idols (Eze. 8:10-12)
- Women were weeping for an idol called Tammuz (Ezekiel 8:14)
- Priests were worshipping the sun God. (Ezekiel 8:16)

The killing was God’s judgment and wrath against His own people, not those of other races in a Zionist plot. God disciplined His own children in this case for violating the greatest and the first of the ten commandments found in Exodus 20:3-11.

God simply fulfilled justice by punishing His own people for violating the first commandment and committing idolatry. If He hadn’t done this, He would not have maintained the sanctity of His children at the time (His family now includes everyone, not just Israel) or allowed the truth of His word, recorded in their writings, to be passed down through the generations so we could enjoy it today. The greater good was thereby accomplished, because God through the Israelites allowed His word and His truth to be revealed to us in what later became the Bible. No other culture or race has been able, through so many generations, to record the history and divine intervention of God in the lives of men better or in a more inspiring way than the writings of the Jews about God, and God apparently wanted to protect this, or His message of truth to us, and His love letter to the world, the Holy Bible, would be lost forever if He allowed His messenger, the Israelites, to be corrupted and to renounce their heritage and their history and the writings of the Bible they authored.

*"As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent."
[Rev. 3:19]*

The only thing the Bible says is to be rendered to Caesar is death and mourning and famine. Render to him his due! Now do you understand what Jesus was saying and why both the Government and the Pharisees wanted to crucify Him? We aren't suggesting here that you should take the law into your own hands and subvert the sovereignty of God through vigilante justice in fulfilling Jesus' command above, but we are showing you what God says Caesar really deserves and what only God in His righteousness can give him. Note that Jesus also took the trouble here to hide or encrypt His subtle message, so that it would survive the ages and time and appear in the version of the Bible we have today. Otherwise, the government would have destroyed the Bible message long ago.

Luke 10:21, "In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent [of the world], and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight."

The Bible is radical and revolutionary when the Holy Spirit illuminates for us what God is really saying. Is it any wonder our Christian founding fathers rebelled against the King of Britain so they could restore God to His rightful role over them, to put the king under them? Those who truly believe that we should "render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's" can't in good conscience support the notion of the American Revolution, which at the time accomplished the opposite goal and was an armed rebellion against "Caesar".

4.4.3 The purpose of government: protection of the weak from harm and evil<sup>91</sup>

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that the purpose of government was protection when it said:

*"In the formation of a government, the people may confer upon it such powers as they choose. The government, when so formed, may, and when called upon should, exercise all the powers it has for the protection of the rights of its citizens and the people within its jurisdiction; but it can exercise no other."
[United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875)]*

The important aspect of the above is consent. The Declaration of Independence says that all just powers of government derive from the consent of the governed. In the legal field, "positive law" constitutes the only legitimate evidence that the people ever consented to surrender authority or any part of their rights to the government. Every power not originating from explicit consent is unjust by implication and amounts to tyranny. The people have to consent to delegate authority to protect them to the government that they collectively form. Those powers they do not explicitly consent to delegate to government and that protection which they do not want or do not consent to receive from government, they should not be forced to either cooperate with or to pay for. To do otherwise is the very definition of tyranny.

The next question is, what exactly is the government protecting us from? The Supreme Court explained that it's duty is to protect us from enemies of the Constitution, which is the solemn expression of the will of the sovereign People who ordained it:

<sup>91</sup> Adapted from Constitutional Income: Do You Have Any?, Phil Hart, ISBN 0-9711880-0-9, pp. 88-94.

1 "The obligations of allegiance to the State, and of obedience to her laws, subject to the Constitution of the
 2 United States, are binding upon all citizens, whether faithful or unfaithful to them, but the relations which
 3 subsist while these obligations are performed are essentially different from those which arise when they are
 4 disregarded and set at naught. And the same must necessarily be true of the obligations and relations of States
 5 and citizens to the Union. No one has been bold enough to contend that, while Texas was controlled by a
 6 government hostile to the United States, and in affiliation with a hostile confederation, waging war upon the 7 United States, senators chosen by her legislature, or representatives elected by her citizens, were entitled to seats
 8 in Congress, or that any suit instituted in her name could be entertained in this court. All admit that, during this
 9 condition of civil war, the rights of the State as a member, and of her people as citizens of the Union, were 10 suspended. The government and the citizens of the State, refusing to recognize their constitutional obligations,
 11 assumed the character of enemies, and incurred the consequences of rebellion."
 12 [Texas v. White, 74 U.S. 700 (1868)]

13 Consequently, any citizen who doesn't honor their constitutional obligations, which means ensuring that the government
 14 stays within the boundaries of the Constitution, is an ENEMY that the government and more importantly the courts, have a 15 sacred duty to protect us from.

16 There's no such thing as a free lunch. The protection afforded by the police powers of a government is, however, procured
 17 at a high price. That price is our unfailing "allegiance" and "obedience" to our protector and whatever laws it passes that 18 apply within the jurisdiction where we are domiciled.

19 "There cannot be a nation without a people. The very idea of a political community, such as a nation is, implies
 20 an [88 U.S. 162, 166] association of persons for the promotion of their general welfare. Each one of the persons
 21 associated becomes a member of the nation formed by the association. He owes it allegiance and is entitled to its 22 protection. Allegiance and protection are, in this connection, reciprocal obligations. The one is a compensation
 23 for the other; allegiance for protection and protection for allegiance."
 24 [Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 166-168 (1874)]

25 Another way of saying the above is that we can't earn or deserve the right to be protected unless and until we are willing to 26 reciprocate by protecting our protector. This is an extension of the Golden Rule described by Jesus in Matt. 7:12 and Luke
 27 6:31, in which He told us to do unto others as we would have them do unto us.

28 "Therefore, whatever you want men to do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets."
 29 [Matt. 7:12, Bible, NKJV]

30 How then, does this "allegiance" or "mutual protection" manifest itself and who is it directed at? In our society, the People
 31 as private citizens and individuals are the "sovereigns" and the government is their servant. The government is simply a
 32 "contractor" or an agent with specific authority delegated through the contract called the Constitution, but it is not the 33 "sovereign". The collection of all "sovereigns" within a political community, in fact, is called the "state" in Black's Law
 34 Dictionary. We emphasize here that the definition of "state" does NOT include public servants or anyone working in the 35 government. In America, the "state" is the people, and not their public servants. Here is how the Supreme Court describes 36 it:

37 "From the differences existing between feudal sovereignties and Government founded on compacts [contracts
 38 called "Constitutions"], it necessarily follows that their respective prerogatives must differ. Sovereignty is the 39 right to govern; a nation or State-sovereign is the person or persons in whom that resides. In Europe the 40 sovereignty is generally ascribed to the Prince; here it rests with the people; there, the sovereign actually
 41 administers the Government; here, never in a single instance; our Governors are the agents of the people, and 42 at most stand in the same relation to their sovereign, in which regents in Europe stand to their sovereigns.
 43 Their Princes have personal powers, dignities, and pre-eminences, our rulers have none but official; nor do
 44 they partake in the sovereignty otherwise, or in any other capacity, than as private citizens."
 45 [Chisholm, Ex'r. v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.ed. 454, 457, 471, 472) (1794)]

46 As you will learn later in this chapter, having "allegiance" to a "state" and the laws that it enacts for the equal protection of 47 all inhabitants, in fact, is the only qualification necessary to be a "citizen" within a political community. Those born within 48 a political community are "presumed" to have such allegiance because under the concept of "jus sanguinis", children assume 49 the same citizenship status as their parents, and therefore are "presumed" to have the same "allegiance" and warrant the same
 50 protection as their parents.

51 Another interesting result of this "allegiance" that we must have in order to procure the protection of our neighbor is that this
 52 allegiance must be exclusive and undiluted by any other competing allegiances. Another way of saying this is that we cannot 53 have conflicting allegiances or we will have a conflict of interest. Conflict of interest is a federal crime under 18 U.S.C.

§208, for instance. Here is the way the introduction explains it in the Supreme Court case of Talbot v. Janson, 3 U.S. 133 (1795). This is not the opinion of the court, per se, but it is very enlightening nonetheless:

“Yet, it is to be remembered, and that whether in its real origin, or in its artificial state, allegiance, as well as fealty, rests upon lands, and it is due to persons. Not so, with respect to Citizenship, which has arisen from the dissolution of the feudal system and is a substitute for allegiance, corresponding with the new order of things. Allegiance and citizenship, differ, indeed, in almost every characteristic. Citizenship is the effect of compact [contract]; allegiance is the offspring of power and necessity. Citizenship is a political tie; allegiance is a territorial tenure. [ . . . ] The doctrine is, that allegiance cannot be due to two sovereigns; and taking an oath of allegiance to a new, is the strongest evidence of withdrawing allegiance from a previous, sovereign . . . .”
 [Talbot v. Janson, 3 U.S. 133 (1795); From the syllabus but not the opinion; SOURCE:
http://www.law.cornell.edu/supct/search/display.html?terms=choice%20or%20conflict%20and%20law&url=/supct/html/historics/USSC\_CR\_0003\_0133\_ZS.html]

The implication of the above concept regarding conflicting allegiance is profound. Essentially, we must conclude from the above that we can’t take an oath to more than one sovereign at a time and that our primary allegiance and source of protection lies with the last sovereign we took an oath to. The Bible says not to take oaths to any earthly thing and that we can and should only take oaths toward God:

“Again, you have heard that it was said to the people long ago, ‘Do not break your oath, but keep the oaths you have made to the Lord.’ But I tell you, Do not swear [toward men] at all: either by heaven, for it is God’s throne; or by the earth, for it is his footstool; or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the Great King. And do not swear by your head, for you cannot make even one hair white or black. Simply let your ‘Yes’ be ‘Yes,’ and your ‘No,’ ‘No’; anything beyond this comes from the evil one.”
 [Matt. 5:33-37, Bible, NKJV]

“You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve Him [ONLY], and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name. He is your praise, and He is your God, who has done for you these great and awesome things which your eyes have seen. Your fathers went down to Egypt with seventy persons, and now the LORD your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.”
 [Deut. 10:12-22, Bible, NKJV]

Based on the above analysis, the MAIN source of protection that believers can have is God and not any government or man-made thing. This is the only conclusion one can reach based on the above requirements of the Bible and the Supreme Court. We’ll cover this subject in much greater detail in the next section. It is also true, however, that the First Amendment was intended to ensure that our government cannot interfere with or punish us for having our primary allegiance to God:

First Amendment

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Below is how the Supreme Court described the competing allegiances of people toward both God and the “state”. As you will learn shortly, God and government are competitors for the affection and worship/obedience of the people:

“Much has been said of the paramount duty to the state, a duty to be recognized, it is urged, even though it conflicts with convictions of duty to God. Undoubtedly that duty to the state exists within the domain of power, for government may enforce obedience to laws [whose ONLY purpose is to protect, but not to dictate any other matters] regardless of scruples. When one’s belief collides with the power of the state, the latter is supreme within its sphere and submission or punishment follows. But, in the forum of conscience, duty to a moral power higher than the state has always been maintained. The reservation of that supreme obligation, as a matter of principle, would unquestionably be made by many of our conscientious and law-abiding citizens. The essence of religion is belief in a relation to God involving duties superior to those [283 U.S. 605, 634] arising from any human relation. As was stated by Mr. Justice Field, in Davis v. Beason, 133 U.S. 333, 342, 10 S.Ct. 299, 300: ‘The term ‘religion’ has reference to one’s views of his relations to his Creator, and to the obligations they impose of reverence for his being and character, and of obedience to his will.’ One cannot speak of religious liberty, with proper appreciation of its essential and historic significance, without assuming the existence of a belief in supreme allegiance to the will of God. Professor Macintosh, when pressed by the inquiries put to him, stated what is axiomatic in religious doctrine. And, putting aside dogmas with their particular conceptions of deity, freedom of conscience itself implies respect for an innate conviction of paramount duty. The battle for religious liberty has been fought and won with respect to religious beliefs and practices, which are not in conflict with good order [because not harmful to anyone], upon the very ground of the supremacy of conscience within its proper field. What that field is, under our system of government, presents in part a question of constitutional law, and also, in part, one of legislative policy in avoiding unnecessary clashes with the dictates of conscience. There is abundant room for enforcing the requisite authority of [positive] law [which the I.R.C. is NOT] as it is enacted and requires obedience, and for maintaining the conception of the supremacy of law as essential to orderly government, without demanding that either citizens or applicants for citizenship shall assume by oath an obligation to regard allegiance to God as subordinate to allegiance to civil power. The attempt to exact such a promise, and thus to bind one's conscience by the taking of oaths or the submission to tests, has been the cause of many deplorable conflicts. The Congress has sought to avoid such conflicts in this country by respecting our happy tradition.

[U.S. v. Macintosh, 283 U.S. 605 \(1931\)]

The jurisdiction that government has to protect the people is completely devoid of any moral or lawful authority to dictate to a man how he must use his property so long as doing so does not injure his neighbor in its use. Here is how the Supreme Court describes it:

"Surely the matters in which the public has the most interest are the supplies of food and clothing; yet can it be that by reason of this interest the state may fix the price at which the butcher must sell his meat, or the vendor of boots and shoes his goods? Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

Based on the above, the government cannot, should not, and must not be allowed compel you to use your property for your neighbor's benefit. Consequently, the government cannot compel you to participate in any social program, including Unemployment Insurance, Social Security, Medicare, food stamps, or any other welfare-state program. In short, government cannot involve itself in any kind of charity, because the family and the church were given exclusive jurisdiction over this subject matter by God Himself in the Holy book. If the government gets into these areas, it is breaking down the separation of powers that is the foundation of our government and is abusing its taxing power to STEAL, as you will learn later. The only exception to this rule is that if the recipient is a federal statutory "employee", it is OK, because the money we are paying as a citizen is supporting the functions of the government, which is the only legitimate use of a "tax":

"To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const. Lim., 479."

[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 \(1874\)]

Another important concept surrounding the protection offered by government and its laws is that if we give them our allegiance and they abuse it by refusing to recognize and protect our sovereignty, which is their half of the bargain, then we cease to have any legal duty to obey them:

"the enemy acquired that firm possession which enabled him to exercise the fullest rights of sovereignty over that place. The sovereignty of the United States over the territory was, of course, suspended, and the laws of the United States could no longer be rightfully enforced there or be obligatory upon the inhabitants who remained and submitted to the conquerors. By the surrender, the inhabitants passed under a temporary allegiance to the British government and were bound by such laws and such only as it chose to recognize and impose. From the nature of the case, no other laws could be obligatory upon them, for where there is no protection or allegiance or sovereignty, there can be no claim to obedience."

The above case of disobeying a corrupt government that isn't doing its job is not only a right, but a duty, according to the Declaration of Independence:

"But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security."

[Declaration of Independence]

1 How is it that we can lawfully cease to obey a government or its laws when neither are not only not protecting us, but actually
 2 hurting us? The method is to “divorce the corporate state” using the following steps, which are exhaustively described in the 3 Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 and simplified below:

- 4 1. Change our domicile to a place outside the legislative jurisdiction of the government in question. For example, we can 5 lawfully change our domicile to “heaven” and rely exclusively on God’s laws for our protection. The Jews did this in
 6 the book of Nehemiah by building a wall and erecting their own substitute government. This removes us from the 7 jurisdiction of the civil laws of a corrupted government. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) says the capacity to sue
 8 or be sued is determined by the laws of the defendant’s domicile. Domicile must be voluntary and when it is coerced,
 9 its obligations cannot be enforced.
- 10 2. Change our citizenship status to that of a “national” and not a “citizen”. A “national”, as you will learn in section 4.12.12
 11 and following later in this chapter, is a person subject to the “political jurisdiction” but not the “legislative jurisdiction”
 12 of the government in question. Citizenship, like allegiance, must be voluntary, and when it is coerced, its obligations 13 cannot be enforced.
- 14 3. Revoke all licenses and privileges from the government:
  - 15 3.1. Revoke all marriage licenses and replace them with private contracts.
  - 16 3.2. Revoke driver’s licenses or get a foreign driver’s license.
  - 17 3.3. Revoke all government-issued numbers, such as Socialist Security Numbers.
  - 18 3.4. Stop accepting all privileged “government benefits”. When we cease to need or want anything, we can’t be 19 controlled by the government.

20 “The more you want, the more the world can hurt you.” [Confucius]

21 When we have accomplished the above steps, the only thing we can lawfully be held responsible for by the government is
 22 hurting our neighbor, which are the criminal laws. We are not subject to or responsible for most civil laws or taxes.

23 Now let’s look at the purpose of government from a spiritual perspective. According to the Bible, the purpose of government
 24 is to reward good and punish evil as God’s law defines it and NOT as man’s law defines it. This responsibility on the part of 25 government can be summarized in one word: protection. Government is there to protect us from evil on the part of fellow
 26 Americans, aliens, and even other nations. This commission derives directly from the second great commandment to love
 27 our neighbor as ourselves found in Romans 13:9 and Matt. 29:39.

28 *“Master, which is the greatest commandment in the law? Jesus said to him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God
 29 with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. (39) And 30 the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all
 31 law...”
 32 [Matthew 22:36-40, Bible, NKJV]*

33 The Apostle Paul even said that loving our neighbor fulfilled ALL the law. We assume he said this because God is our 34 neighbor:

35 *“For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’”
 36 [Gal 5:14, Bible, NKJV]*

37 To be more specific, that which the government is protecting in the process of “loving” us, according to Thomas Jefferson in 38 our Declaration of Independence, is our “life, liberty, and our pursuit of happiness”. The Supreme Court has said that “pursuit
 39 of happiness” equates with our property rights. Here is an example:

40 *“By that portion of the fourteenth amendment by which no State may make or enforce any law which shall abridge
 41 the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, or take life, liberty, or property, without due process
 42 of law, it has now become the fundamental law of this country that life, liberty, and property (which include 43 ‘the pursuit of happiness’) are sacred rights, which the Constitution of the United States guarantees to its 44 humblest citizen against oppressive legislation, whether national or local, so that he cannot be deprived of 45 them without due process of law.”
 46 [Bartemeyer v. State of Iowa, 85 U.S. 129 (1873)]*

47 That is why we say:

48 “Liberty, man’s highest value, is simply love disguised.” [Family Guardian Fellowship]

1 We emphasize that fear and love, by the way, are mutually exclusive:

2 "There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made
 3 perfect in love."
 4 [1 John 4:18, Bible, NKJV]

5 Therefore, if there is any aspect of what government does that makes us fearful or afraid even though we are diligently doing
 6 our best to follow God's law in its entirety and loving our neighbor according to the standards that God set down in the Ten
 7 Commandments, then our government has violated its commission and its authority delegated from God, because it is not
 8 fulfilling the second great commandment to "love our neighbor" as the Bible requires. Instead, it has become a terrorist
 9 organization that makes us afraid for our lives and our liberties. We expand upon this point further in section 2.1.10 of the 10 Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, where we will establish from a legal perspective that the IRS is indeed a 11 terrorist organization.

12 Governments based on fear that disrespect the requirement for consent of the governed are Satanic while governments based 13 on love and respect for our neighbor are godly. Most of the governments throughout the world are based on fear and not
 14 love, and therefore most of them are Satanic, which is to say that they are controlled by Satan himself. They are Satan's
 15 property. Jesus, after all, referred to Satan as "the ruler of the world," the one whom mankind in general obeys by heeding
 16 his urgings to ignore God's requirements (John 14:30; Eph. 2:2). The Bible also calls Satan "the god of this system of things,"
 17 who is honored by the religious practices of people who adhere to this system of things. See 2 Cor. 4:4; 1 Cor. 10:20.

18 When endeavoring to tempt Jesus Christ, the Devil brought Him up and showed him all the kingdoms, also called 19 "governments" of the inhabited earth in an instant of time; and the Devil said to Him:

20 "I will give you all this authority and the glory of them, because it has been delivered to me, and to whomever I
 21 wish I give it. You, therefore, if you do an act of worship before me, it will all be yours."
 22 [Luke 4:5-7]

23 If the governments of the world both present as well as past were not under Satan's authority and rulership he could never 24 have offered them to Christ in the first place. Revelation 13:1-2 reveals that Satan gives "power, throne and great authority"
 25 to the global political system of rulership. Daniel 10:13, 20 discloses that Satan has had demonic princes over principal 26 kingdoms of the earth. Ephesians 6:12 refers to these as constituting "governments, authorities, world rulers of this darkness,
 27 wicked spirit forces in heavenly places." No wonder that 1 John 5:19 says: "The whole world is lying in the power of the 28 wicked one." But his power is only for a limited period of time and is only by the toleration and consent of God Almighty.

29 When we love our neighbor (our fellow Americans) the way that God intends, we would certainly never hurt or enslave them
 30 or make them afraid like our government does and if everyone loved them, then they wouldn't need protection or government
 31 to begin with! In that ideal state, we would be a country (but not a nation, see section 4.5) without a need for a government,
 32 which is exactly how Adam and Eve were before their fall. It is also the type of government the founding fathers intended:
 33 "A government of the people, for the people, and by the people", as Abraham Lincoln said at his famous Gettysburg address.
 34 A government of the people, by the people, and for the people is a government where the people rule themselves without 35 a king and are aided in doing that through their public servants, who represent and execute but not usurp the people's will.

36 "The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens,' are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They
 37 both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who
 38 hold the power and conduct [run] the government through their representatives [servants]. They are what we 39 familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this 40 sovereignty. ..."
 41 [Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]

42 Our biblical response to godly government is found in the same passage as God's purpose for government.

43 "Submit yourself to every ordinance of man [which is] for the Lord's sake, whether it be to the king, as supreme,
 44 or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them
 45 that do well."
 46 [1 Peter 2:13-14, Bible, KJV]

47 Our duty to submit to godly authority has a qualifier attached to it, and that is that the authority be godly, that it "praises good 48 and punishes evil" according to God's, and not man's definition of evil found in His law, the Bible. The Apostle Paul even 49 said that all authority comes from God:

1 “Let every soul be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and the
 2 authorities that exist are appointed by God.”

3 [Romans 13:1, Bible, NKJV]

4 Therefore, when “authority” ceases to be godly or violates God’s sacred law, then we cease to have a duty to submit to it.
 5 The implication is that any act by a government employee that does not have authority that comes from God’s law ceases to
 6 have any authority at all, and by implication becomes the act of a private and not government authority undertaken for
 7 personal gain. After all, how can you claim that you are a servant of God or His Divine Justice as we showed earlier in 8 section 4.1 if you follow or condone or subsidize a government that disrespects or disobeys or rebels against God and His
 9 law? This would lead to an absurd consequence indeed!

10 “No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one,
 11 and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.”

12 [Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV]

13 Those people who founded America found themselves in exactly that position above where they could not please both God
 14 and the British government and their reaction was to rebel and not obey.

15 If God is who He says He is, then He is the ultimate designer of all that exists in the universe. He is the great “physician”,
 16 the great “engineer”. His “user manual” on how to run everything he created for us is in His Holy Book. The scriptures
 17 identify four types of government: personal government, family government, church government and civil government. If
 18 God is God then only He has the authority (the author) to set the jurisdictional boundaries between each type of government
 19 because only He created them all:

20 “The heavens are Yours, the earth also is Yours;
 21 The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
 22 The north and the south, You have created them;
 23 Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
 24 You have a mighty arm;
 25 Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.
 26 Righteousness and justice are the foundation of Your throne;
 27 Mercy and truth go before Your face”
 28 [Psalm 89:11-14, Bible, NKJV]

29 For example, God delegated to families the teaching of children, not to government. The entire system of government schools
 30 is a violation of God’s design. A civil government limited in jurisdiction to only the purposes identified in scripture would 31 need very little money to operate. There would be no need to tax a man’s right to exist. No need to tax his wages or salary,
 32 because people would be presumed to govern their own affairs and support themselves, and to delegate to government only
 33 those things that they cannot do for themselves, like a military, a court system, and jails.

34 Protection of its weaker citizens is therefore the only source of moral authority for anything that government does. But
 35 exactly who is it that government has the greatest and most sacred duty to protect? The strong or the wealthy or the educated
 36 in any society don’t need protection because they can fend for themselves. The reason we even have a public education
 37 system is to make even the humblest of citizens better able to fend for themselves to begin with. With their wealth and 38 education and influence, the strong of society can:

- 39 1. Hire the best lawyers to defend them.
- 40 2. Bribe politicians.
- 41 3. Use their influence to coerce others to do their bidding.
- 42 4. Hire bodyguards.
- 43 5. Install alarm systems to protect their property.
- 44 6. Pay expensive talent to manage their assets to eliminate taxes altogether using trusts and exotic tax shelters.
- 45 7. Form cartels and monopolies to coerce the people to pay higher prices.

46 So the real people who the government is there to protect are the weak and defenseless of our society: those with so little 47 money and so little influence and education that no one else would even bother come to their aid and protection. These people 48 include:

- 49 • Widows
- 50 • Adolescents

- 1 • Aged and retired people
- 2 • Immigrants who can't speak the language
- 3 • The poor
- 4 • The ignorant or undereducated
- 5 • Those who can't afford legal counsel of their own if prosecuted wrongfully

6 Lysander Spooner explained the purpose of Government as follows:

7 "Government is established for the protection of the weak against the strong. This is the principal, if not the sole
 8  motive for the establishment of all legitimate government. It is only the weaker party that lose their liberties, when
 9  a government becomes oppressive. The stronger party, in all governments are free by virtue of their superior
 10  strength. They never oppress themselves. Legislation is the work of this stronger party; and if, in addition to the 11  sole power of legislation, they have the sole power of determining what legislation shall be enforced, they have
 12  all power in their hands, and the weaker party are the subjects of an absolute government. Unless the weaker
 13  party have a veto, they have no power whatever in the government and...no liberties... The trial by jury is the 14  only institution that gives the weaker party any veto upon the power of the stronger. Consequently it is the only 15  institution that gives them any effective voice in the government, or any guaranty against oppression."
 16 [Lysander Spooner in his short essay entitled "Trial by Jury"]

17 The Bible also confirms that the purpose of God's law is to protect the weaker, not stronger parties, when God said:

18 The Essence of the Law

19 "And now, Israel, what does the LORD your God require of you, but to fear the LORD your God, to walk in all His
 20  ways and to love Him, to serve the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, and to keep the 21  commandments of the LORD and His statutes which I command you today for your good? Indeed heaven and the
 22  *highest heavens belong to the LORD your God, also the earth with all that is in it. The LORD delighted only in 23  your fathers, to love them; and He chose their descendants after them, you above all peoples, as it is this day.
 24 Therefore circumcise the foreskin of your heart, and be stiff-necked no longer. For the LORD your God is God of 25  *gods and Lord of lords, the great God, mighty and awesome, who shows no partiality nor takes a bribe. He 26  administers justice for the fatherless and the widow, and loves the stranger, giving him food and clothing.
 27 Therefore love the stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt. You shall fear the LORD your God; you*
 28  shall serve Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name. He is your praise, and He is your 29  God, who has done for you these great and awesome things which your eyes have seen. Your fathers went down
 30  to Egypt with seventy persons, and now the LORD your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.
 31 [Deut. 10:12-22, Bible, NKJV]

33 "A father of the fatherless, a defender of widows,
 34 is God in His holy habitation.

35 God sets the solitary in families;
 36 He brings out those who are bound into prosperity;
 37 But the rebellious dwell in a dry land."
 38 [Psalm 68:5-6, Bible, NKJV]

39 "You shall not afflict any widow or fatherless child."
 40 [Exodus 22:2, Bible, NKJV]

41 "When you beat your olive trees, you shall not go over the boughs again; it shall be for the stranger, the 42  fatherless, and the widow. When you gather the grapes of your vineyard, you shall not glean it afterward; it 43  shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow."
 44 [Deut. 24:20-21, Bible, NKJV]

45 "Cursed is the one who perverts the justice due the stranger, the fatherless, and widow." "And all the people
 46  shall say, "Amen!"
 47 [Deut. 27:19, Bible, NKJV]

48 "The LORD watches over the strangers; He relieves the fatherless and widow; But the way of the wicked He 49  turns upside down."
 50 [Psalm 146:9, Bible, NKJV]

51 "Defend the fatherless, Plead for the widow."
 52 [Isaiah 1:17, Bible, NKJV]

53 "For if you thoroughly amend your ways and your doings, if you thoroughly execute judgment between a man
 54  and his neighbor, if you do not oppress the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and do not shed innocent

1 blood in this place, or walk after other gods to your hurt, then I will cause you to dwell in this place, in the
 2 land that I gave to your fathers forever and ever."
 3 [Jer. 7:5-7, Bible, NKJV]

4 Thus says the LORD: "Execute judgment and righteousness, and deliver the plundered out of the hand of the
 5 oppressor. Do no wrong and do no violence to the stranger, the fatherless, or the widow, nor shed innocent
 6 blood in this place."
 7 [Jer. 22:3, Bible, NKJV]

8 "Do not oppress the widow or the fatherless, The alien or the poor. Let none of you plan evil in his heart
 9 Against his brother."
 10 [Zech. 7:10, Bible, NKJV]

11 Is government living up to its calling to defend and protect the above types of defenseless and weaker people? Well, for 12 starters, we show you in section 2.12.1 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form 06.008 that the IRS focuses the vast 13 majority of its audit activity and expenditures on low income people, who are least able to afford to pay extortion money to
 14 the government or expensively litigate to defend their rights when abused. That is a massive injustice because as we just 15 pointed out, the weak and the poor are the ones who need government's protection the most! Abortion falls in the same
 16 category. All of the scriptures above that refer to the "fatherless" are also referring to children born usually to poor women
 17 who didn't have a male provider and who in most cases were unwanted. Who defends the speechless and the most vulnerable
 18 members of society like unborn children, most of whom are fatherless? Our government certainly isn't doing it! Here is 19 what the Bible says about what we are supposed to do for all the babies who are being murdered by abortionists at government
 20 expense:

21 "Open your mouth for the speechless,
 22 In the cause of all [unborn children] who are appointed to die.<sup>[U]</sup>
 23 Open your mouth, judge righteously,
 24 And plead the cause of the poor and needy."
 25 [Prov. 31:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

26 Our government is failing miserably at the only job that it has to protect the most defenseless members in society, folks! God
 27 said abortion is the weapon of choice that He would use against a wicked and defiant people who rebel against Him and His 28 Law and who refuse to defend the weak of society. Here is an example:

29 "All the kings of the nations,
 30 All of them, sleep in glory,
 31 Everyone in his own house;
 32 But you [the rebellious and wicked] are cast out of your grave
 33 Like an abominable branch,
 34 Like the garment of those who are slain,
 35 Thrust through with a sword,
 36 Who go down to the stones of the pit,
 37 Like a corpse trodden underfoot.
 38 You will not be joined with them in burial.
 39 Because you have destroyed your land
 40 And slain your [unborn] people.
 41 The brood of evildoers shall never be named.
 42 Prepare slaughter for his children
 43 Because of the iniquity of their fathers,
 44 Lest they rise up and possess the land,
 45 And fill the face of the world with cities."

46 "For I will rise up against them," says the LORD of hosts,
 47 "And cut off from Babylon the name and remnant,
 48 And offspring and posterity," says the LORD.
 49 "I will also make it a possession for the porcupine,
 50 And marshes of muddy water;
 51 I will sweep it with the broom of destruction," says the LORD of hosts.
 52 [Isaiah 14:18-23, Bible, NKJV]

53 Our birth rate has gone so low because of abortion that we aren't even replacing the people we have, and God is thereby using 54 abortion to extinct a selfish and wicked and rebellious people from their own land. Couples who should be having babies are
 55 so worried about their personal standard of living and civil status and keeping up with the Joneses that we aren't having any 56 more children because they cost too much money. Their tax rate is so high that they can't afford to have babies. Instead, we

1 are sucking babies brains out (partial birth abortion) and throwing them in the garbage can! Those societies and peoples who
 2 don't allow the murder of abortion are the ones who will eventually inherit our land, which right now looks like it will be the
 3 Mexican and Black cultures. God is doing this because in Genesis 1:28, He commanded us to "be fruitful and multiply" and
 4 we are disobeying and defying His command, so He is disciplining us. We have forgotten what God said about children, and
 5 how they are a gift from Him. God is angry with us because we won't accept His gift!

6 *"Behold, children are a heritage from the LORD,
 7 The fruit of the womb is a reward.
 8 Like arrows in the hand of a warrior,
 9 So are the children of one's youth.
 10 Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them;
 11 They shall not be ashamed,
 12 But shall speak with their enemies in the gate."
 13 [Psalm 127:3-5, Bible, NKJV]*

14 As of 1909, when the Sixteenth Amendment was proposed, the United States federal government had yet to become the great
 15 nanny in the sky (the political corporation, or Parens Patriae) solving everybody's problems from cradle to grave. Instead,
 16 our government largely followed the Biblical mandate just mentioned. Government's fundamental duty to protect life and 17 property can also be found at Romans 13:3-4.

18 The Geneva Bible, which is the Bible the Pilgrims used, states:

19 *"For princes are not to be feared for good works, but for evil. Wilt you then be without fear of the power? Do
 20 well. For shalt though have praise of the same. For he is the minister of God for thy wealth. But if though do
 21 evil, fear: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the minister of God to take vengeance on him that 22 doth evil."
 23 [Geneva Bible, 1st Edition, 1560]*

24 When government takes one-third or more of a man's yearly earnings, using as its authority to do so a "Code" that isn't even 25 enacted "law" that is many thousands of pages long and so complicated that virtually no one can understand it, is government
 26 doing good? Or is government doing evil?

27 The way to make people respect and obey the law is to make the law respectable. The way to make the law respectable, in 28 turn, is to keep it short and simple and comprehensible by the common man, who is the person it was intended to apply to.
 29 The extent to which only judges and lawyers can understand the law is the extent to which the law is no longer respectable.
 30 The extent to which our law becomes not law, but "Code" that is not enacted into positive law and which essentially is a
 31 state-sponsored "religion" is the extent to which our government has become a false god and a religion. The Internal Revenue
 32 "Code" is not public or positive law, but religion, as you will find out later in section 5.4.1. It doesn't protect or help anyone 33 but public servants and the irresponsible. See:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

34 Adam Smith, in his famous book entitled "Wealth of Nations," upon which our founders heavily relied when they wrote our 35 Constitution, espoused this same general concept of government described above:

36 *"The first duty of the sovereign is, that of protecting the society from the violence and invasion of other
 37 independent societies...The second duty of the sovereign is, that of protecting, as far as possible, every member
 38 of the society from the injustice or oppression of every other member of it... The third duty and last duty of the 39 sovereign or commonwealth is that of erecting and maintaining those public institutions and those public works,
 40 which, though they may be in the highest degree advantageous to a great society..."
 41 [Adam Smith, Wealth of Nations, book V, pp. 468-473, (1776); Prometheus Books, Amherst, New York, 1991]*

42 When Jesus said, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's: and to God the things that are God's," (Matt. 22:21) notice
 43 that He did not say, "Give Caesar everything he asks you for." Jesus also didn't define exactly what belongs to Caesar, now
 44 did he? Deuteronomy 10:14 says that the entire world belongs to God, so what really DOES belong to Caesar?

45 *"Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the Lord your God, also the earth with all that is in it."
 46 [Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV]*

Inherent in the former statement is the idea that there are limits on what belongs to Caesar and that the consent of the people, not Caesar, define what belongs to Caesar. God also said in 1 Sam. 12:19 that Caesar CANNOT be above us, but must below us, and that it is a sin to have a “king” above us. By implication, this means that no one working in government can be anything BUT a servant below us and not a ruler above us. The servant cannot be greater than the Master, and must SERVE the master:

“Servants, be submissive to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the harsh.”
[1 Peter 2:18, Bible, NKJV]

In God’s world view, civil government has limited jurisdiction and is a servant of the people, who are then servants of God who are conformed to God’s holy Law. If government asks you to render to it the mind of your child, will you obey or object?

4.4.4 Equal protection

Equal protection is the cornerstone of all free governments. It is the heart and soul of the Constitution and is mentioned once in the Declaration of Independence and three times in the Constitution as follows:

Declaration of Independence: “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”

See: [http://www.archives.gov/national\_archives\_experience/charters/declaration\_transcript.html]

Constitution, Article IV, Section 1: Full Faith and Credit shall be given in each State to the public Acts, Records, and judicial Proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general Laws prescribe the Manner in which such Acts, Records and Proceedings shall be proved, and the Effect thereof.

Constitution, Article IV, Section 2: “The Citizens of each State shall be entitled to all Privileges and Immunities of Citizens in the several States.”

[See: <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/article04/>]

Constitution, Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1: “No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.”

[See: <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment14/>]

Equal protection is also found in the enactments of Congress made in pursuance to the Constitution. Below is one of many examples found in the Titles of the U.S. Code:

TITLE 42 > CHAPTER 21 > SUBCHAPTER 1 > Sec. 1981.
Sec. 1981. - Equal rights under the law

(a) Statement of equal rights

All persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall have the same right in every State and Territory to make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, give evidence, and to the full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of persons and property as is enjoyed by white citizens, shall be subject to like punishment, pains, penalties, taxes, licenses, and exactions of every kind, and to no other.

Equal protection means, for instance, that:

1. All Biological People are treated equally under the law. See the Declaration of Independence. The law may not discriminate against or injure one group of people to the benefit of another group. They all have equal civil rights, but they must be “citizens” in order to have political rights.
2. All States are equal under the Constitution. See <http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/article04/16.html#3>
3. Every legal “person” is equal under the law in any given place. The one exception to this rule is that that biological people enjoy the protection of the Bill of Rights (the first Ten Amendments to the U.S. Constitution) whereas artificial persons such as corporations do not.

1 Our notion of “justice”, in fact, originates with the concept of equal protection. Here is a definition of “justice” from Easton’s
2 Bible Dictionary.

3 JUSTICE — is rendering to every one [equally, whether citizen or alien] that which is his due. It has been
4 distinguished from equity in this respect, that while justice means merely the doing what positive law demands,
5 equity means the doing of what is fair and right in every separate case.<sup>92</sup>
6 [Easton’s Bible Dictionary, 1996]

7 Those who want to graphically depict the operation of law and justice will often do so by using a scale. The purpose of a
8 scale is to demonstrate when two weights are precisely equal, and when they are not equal, the scale will tip to one side or 9 the other and thereby demonstrate the existence of inequality. When the weights are unequal, we have what is called a “false
10 balance”. The Bible mentions the following in regards to a false or unjust balance:

11 “Dishonest scales are an [hateful] abomination to the LORD,
12 But a just weight is His delight.”
13 [Prov. 11:1, Bible, NKJV]

14 The above scripture is basically saying that God HATES a false balance. He hates when people are cheated for dishonest
15 gain, which is called “mammon” in the Bible.

16 “No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the 17 one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.”<sup>93</sup>
18 [Jesus in Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV]

19 “MAMMON. This word occurs in the Bible only in Mt. 6:24 and Lk. 16:9, 11, 13, and is a transliteration of 20 Aramaic māmōnā. It means simply wealth or profit, but Christ sees in it an egocentric covetousness which claims
21 man’s heart and thereby estranges him from God (Mt. 6:19ff.): when a man ‘owns’ anything, in reality it owns
22 him. (Cf. the view that mammon derives from Bab. mimma, ‘anything at all’.) ‘Unrighteous mammon’ (Lk. 16:9)
23 is dishonest gain (F. Hauck, TDNT 4, pp. 388–390) or simply gain from self-centered motives (cf. Lk. 12:15ff.).
24 The probable meaning is that such money, used for others, may be transformed thereby into true riches in the 25 coming age (Lk. 16:12).<sup>94</sup> “
26 [The New Bible Dictionary, INTER-VARSITY PRESS38 De Montfort Street, Leicester LE1 7GP, England, p. 720]

27 A famous Bible commentary on Prov. 11:1 above has the following very enlightening things to say which reveal the true
28 meaning of “equal protection”:

29 “As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so 30 righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he 31 expect that his devotion should be accepted; for,

32 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of 33 unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public],
34 which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves
35 in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a
36 wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such 37 frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered,
38 they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an 39 abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren.

40 2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our 41 devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale
42 of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him.

43 A [false] balance, [whether it be in the federal courtroom or at the IRS or in the 44 marketplace,] cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater
45 abomination to God.”

1 Equal protection demands that all persons shall be treated equally in any given place. It does not, however, guarantee that
 2 the persons in one place will be treated the same as persons in another place or another state. Here is an explanation of this
 3 fact from the Supreme Court:

4 “We might go still further and say, with undoubted truth, that there is nothing in the Constitution to prevent any
 5 state from adopting any system of laws or judicature it sees fit for [176 U.S. 581, 599] all or any part of its
 6 territory. If the state of New York, for example, should see fit to adopt the civil law and its method of procedure
 7 for New York city and the surrounding counties, and the common law and its method of procedure for the rest of
 8 the state, there is nothing in the Constitution of the United States to prevent its doing so. This would not of itself,
 9 within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment, be a denial to any person of the equal protection of the laws.
 10 If every person residing or being in either portion of the state should be accorded the equal protection of the laws
 11 prevailing there, he could not justly complain of a violation of the clause referred to. For, as before said, it has 12 respect to persons and classes of persons. It means that no person or class of persons shall be denied the same
 13 protection of the laws which is enjoyed by other persons or other classes in the same place and under like
 14 circumstances. The Fourteenth Amendment does not profess to secure to all persons in the United States the 15 benefit of the same laws and the same remedies. Great diversities in these respects may exist in two states
 16 separated only by an imaginary line. On one side of this line there may be a right of trial by jury, and on the other
 17 side no such right. Each state prescribes its own modes of judicial proceeding. If diversities of laws and judicial 18 proceedings may exist in the several states without violating the equality clause in the Fourteenth Amendment,
 19 there is no solid reason why there may not be such diversities in different parts of the same state. A uniformity
 20 which is not essential as regards different states cannot be essential as regards different parts of a state, provided
 21 that in each and all there is no infraction of the constitutional provision. Diversities which are allowable in
 22 different states are allowable in different parts of the same state. Where part of a state is thickly settled, and
 23 another part has but few inhabitants, it may be desirable to have different systems of judicature for the two
 24 portions, -trial by jury in one, for example, and not in the other. Large cities may require a multiplication of courts
 25 and a peculiar arrangement of jurisdictions. It would be an unfortunate restriction of the powers of the state
 26 government if it could not, in its [176 U.S. 581, 600] discretion, provide for these various exigencies. If a
 27 Mexican state should be acquired by treaty and added to an adjoining state or part of a state in the United States,
 28 and the two should be erected into a new state, it cannot be doubted that such new state might allow the Mexican
 29 laws and judicature to continue unchanged in the one portion, and the common law and its corresponding 30 judicature in the other portion. Such an arrangement would not be prohibited by any fair construction of the 31 Fourteenth Amendment. It would not be based on any respect of persons or classes, but on municipal 32 considerations alone, and a regard for the welfare of all classes within the particular territory or jurisdiction.”
 33 [Missouri v. Lewis, 101 U.S. 22 (1879)]

34 Equal protection is also the heart of our tax system, which is a form of “commerce” described in the above passage:

- 35 1. All Americans in the states are required to pay the same amount of money to support the federal government, and this 36 amount is called a “direct tax” or a “capitation tax”. A tax which is graduated and discriminates against the rich, for 37 instance, is unequal and therefore violates equal protection. That is why the Constitution says the following:
 38 1.1. Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4: “No Capitation, or other direct, Tax shall be laid, unless in Proportion to the Census
 39 of Enumeration herein before directed to be taken.”
 40 1.2. Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3: “Representatives and direct Taxes shall be apportioned among the several States
 41 which may be included within this Union, according to their respective Numbers”
 42 2. All states pay the same amount, per person, to support the federal government. An apportioned direct tax is collected by 43 the state government, and the same amount is assessed against every person in the state and throughout the country. It
 44 is up to the states how they choose to collect the money, but they must pay their apportionment at the beginning of every 45 federal fiscal year.
 46 3. In the Internal Revenue Code:
 47 3.1. All income tax that applies within states of the Union has a flat percentage rate of 30% for ALL income and are not 48 “graduated” or “progressive”. See 26 U.S.C. §871(a).
 49 3.2. The only people who pay a graduated and discriminatory rate are those who “consent” or “elect” to do so. That
 50 “election” is made by filing a form 1040 rather than the form 1040NR that is the proper form for those in states of 51 the Union. All income connected with a “trade or business in the United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C.
 52 §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”, is subject to the graduated rate. Because all “public offices”
 53 exist in the District of Columbia under 4 U.S.C. §72, and because the Bill of Rights and the requirement for equal
 54 protection do not apply in the District of Columbia, a graduated rate of tax is then applied to what essentially are 55 the government’s own elected or appointed officers. These people are the only real statutory “employees” within 56 the Internal Revenue Code. See 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) for proof.

57 When equal protection is working the way it is supposed to, we have a society that is entirely free of “hypocrisy”, “favoritism”,
 58 and “partiality”. We looked in Black’s Law Dictionary for the word “hypocrisy” and it wasn’t there. According to Jesus,
 59 lawyers and judges are among the worst hypocrites of all, which may explain why they don’t want the truth about their

1 misdeeds mentioned in their favorite or most frequently used book. Below is a definition of the word from Harper's Bible
2 Dictionary:

3 "hypocrisy, a term and idea that are primarily limited in the Bible to the NT writings. The Greek word
4 transliterated into English as 'hypocrite' was used to denote an actor, one who performed behind a mask. Thus
5 the popular understanding came to be that of persons who pretended to be something that they were not. It is
6 interesting to note, however, that hypocrisy does not appear to be so limited in meaning in the NT. The term can 7 sometimes denote general wickedness or evil, self-righteousness, pretense, or breach of 'contract.'

8 "The best-known passage in the NT describing hypocrisy is Matthew 23:1, where self-righteousness and pretense
9 are both in evidence (cf. also Matt. 6:2, 5, 16; 7:5; 15:7; 22:18; 24:51; Mark 7:6; Luke 6:42; 12:56; 13:15).

10 In Gal. 2:13, Paul accuses Peter, Barnabas, and other Jewish Christians of hypocrisy (RSV: 'insincerity').
11 Although the term does not occur in Acts 5:1-11, the story reflects the seriousness with which the early church
12 regarded hypocritical behavior. Perhaps the most frightening aspect of this sin is that one can enter the state of 13 hypocrisy and not realize it (Matt. 7:21-23).<sup>95</sup>
14 [Nave's New Bible Dictionary]

15 Hypocrisy or favoritism in the administration of man's laws results in an unstable government, because people get angry at 16 the government for playing favorites and eventually will revolt against that government. Everyone who has been a parent
17 knows how this works. Parents who don't love all their children equally will end up with sibling rivalries that can alienate
18 family members from each other, make family life very tumultuous, and eventually destroy families. Likewise, if you want
19 to know exactly what is wrong in the political family called "government", start looking for instances of favoritism and
20 hypocrisy, which are the surest signs of tyranny and injustice. This whole book is an effort to do precisely that.

21 The Supreme Court had some very powerful things to say about the requirement for equal protection. Below are a few of 22 their more eloquent dictas on the subject:

23 "The equal protection demanded by the fourteenth amendment forbids this. No language is more worthy of 24 frequent and thoughtful consideration than these words of Mr. Justice Matthews, speaking for this court, in Yick
25 Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S.Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071: 'When we consider the nature and the theory of our 26 institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their
27 development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely 28 personal and arbitrary power.' The first official action of this nation declared the foundation of government in 29 these words: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, [165 U.S. 150, 160] that all men are created equal, that they
30 are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit
31 of happiness.' While such declaration of principles may not have the force of organic law, or be made the basis
32 of judicial decision as to the limits of right and duty, and while in all cases reference must be had to the organic
33 law of the nation for such limits, yet the latter is but the body and the letter of which the former is the thought and 34 the spirit, and it is always safe to read the letter of the constitution in the spirit of the Declaration of Independence.
35 No duty rests more imperatively upon the courts than the enforcement of those constitutional provisions
36 intended to secure that equality of rights which is the foundation of free government."
37 Gulf, C. & S.F.R. Co. v. Ellis, [165 U.S. 150 (1897)]

39 "In Calder v. Bull, which was here in 1798, Mr. Justice Chase said, that there were acts which the Federal and
40 State legislatures could not do without exceeding their authority, and among them he mentioned a law which 41 punished a citizen for an innocent act; a law that destroyed or impaired the lawful private [labor] contracts [and 42 labor compensation, e.g. earnings from employment through compelled W-4 withholding] of citizens; a law that 43 made a man judge in his own case; and a law that took the property from A [the worker], and gave it to B [the 44 government or another citizen, such as through social welfare programs]. 'It is against all reason and justice,' 45 he added, 'for a people to intrust a legislature with such powers, and therefore it cannot be presumed that they
46 have done it. They may command what is right and prohibit what is wrong; but they cannot change innocence
47 into guilt, or punish innocence as a crime, or violate the right of an antecedent lawful private [employment]
48 contract [by compelling W-4 withholding, for instance], or the right of private property. To maintain that a
49 Federal or State legislature possesses such powers [of THEFT!] if they had not been expressly restrained,
50 would, in my opinion, be a political heresy altogether inadmissible in all free republican governments.' 3 Dall.

The notion of equal protection is also found hidden throughout the Bible. When it is talked about, it is described as “hypocrisy” or “hypocrites”. Below are just a few examples where the subject of “hypocrites” is described in the New King James Bible:

1. God knows and detects hypocrites. Isa 29:15,16.
2. Christ knew and detected hypocrisy. Mt 22:18.
3. God has no pleasure in hypocrites. Isa 9:17.
4. Hypocrites shall not come before God. Job 13:16.
5. Hypocrites described as:
  - 5.1. Willfully blind. Mt 23:17,19,26.
  - 5.2. Vile. Isa 32:6.
  - 5.3. Self-righteous. Isa 65:5; Lu 18:11.
  - 5.4. Covetous. Eze 33:31; 2 Pe 2:3.
  - 5.5. Ostentatious. Mt 5:2,5,16; 23:5.
  - 5.6. Censorious. Mt 7:3-5; Lu 13:14,15.
  - 5.7. Regarding tradition more than the word of God. Mt 15:1-3.
  - 5.8. Exact in minor things, but neglecting important duties. Mt 23:23,24.
  - 5.9. Having but a form of godliness. 2 Ti 3:5.
  - 5.10. Seeking only outward purity. Lu 11:39.
  - 5.11. Professing but not practicing. Eze 33:31,32; Mt 23:3; Ro 2:17-23.
  - 5.12. Using but lip-worship. Isa 29:13; Mt 15:8.
  - 5.13. Glorifying in appearance only. 2 Co 5:12.
  - 5.14. Trusting in privileges. Jer 7:4; Mt 3:9.
  - 5.15. Apparently zealous in the things of God. Isa 58:2.
  - 5.16. Zealous in making proselytes. Mt 23:15.
  - 5.17. Devouring widows’ houses. Mt 23:14.
  - 5.18. Loving pre-eminence. Mt 23:6,7.
6. Worship by hypocrites not acceptable to God. Isa 1:11-15; 58:3-5; Mt 15:9.
7. Joy of hypocrites, but for a moment. Job 20:5.
8. Hope of hypocrites will perish. Job 8:13; 27:8,9.
9. Heap up wrath against hypocrites. Job 36:13.
10. Fearfulness shall surprise hypocrites. Isa 33:14.
11. Hypocrites destroy others by slander. Pr 11:9.
12. Hypocrites when in power, are a snare. Job 34:30.
13. Apostasy abounds with hypocrites. 1 Ti 4:2.
14. Beware the principles of hypocrites. Lu 12:1.
15. Spirit of hypocrites hinders growth in grace. 1 Pe 2:1.
16. Woe to hypocrites. Isa 29:15; Mt 23:13.
17. Punishment of hypocrites. Job 15:34; Isa 10:6; Jer 42:20,22; Mt 24:51.
18. Hypocrites illustrated by Jesus. Mt 23:27,28; Lu 11:44.
19. Exemplified by the following Bible personalities
  - 19.1. Cain. Ge 4:3.
  - 19.2. Absalom. 2 Sa 15:7,8.
  - 19.3. The Jews. Jer 3:10.
  - 19.4. Pharisees, &c. Mt 16:3.
  - 19.5. Judas. Mt 26:49.
  - 19.6. Herodians. Mr 12:13,15.
  - 19.7. Ananias. Ac 5:1-8.
  - 19.8. Simon. Ac 8:13-23.

Note item 5.14 above, which describes hypocrites as “trusting in privileges”. Here is what the scripture says in that reference:

But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, “Brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? Therefore bear fruits worthy of repentance, and do not think to say to yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our father.’ For I say to you that God is able to raise up children to Abraham from these stones. And even now the ax is laid to the root of the trees. Therefore every tree which does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance, but He who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will baptize you with the

1 Holy Spirit and fire. His winnowing fan is in His hand, and He will thoroughly clean out His threshing floor, and
 2 gather His wheat into the barn; but He will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.”
 3 [Jesus in Matt. 3:7-12, Bible, NKJV]

4 What Jesus was implying in the above scripture is that we should not trust in, or rely upon any kind of “privileges” and that
 5 we instead will be judged at Jesus’ second coming by our acts of righteousness, and not by our “privileged” status or condition.
 6 You will note, for instance, that at the final Wedding Supper of the Lamb described in the book of Revelation Chapter 19 and
 7 in Matt. 22:2-14, believers in God who have been obedient to God’s calling and His sacred Law shall be present to rejoin
 8 their Bridegroom, who is Jesus, God’s Son. Those who are invited to the wedding must be attired in clean white linen, which 9 is described in Rev. 19:18 as “the righteous acts of the saints”. Note there is no mention of “privilege” being an adequate
 10 substitute for righteous acts anywhere in the Bible.

11 And to her [the bride of Christ, which is the Church and the believers in the Church] it was granted to be arrayed
 12 in fine linen, clean and bright, for the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints.

13 Then he said to me, “Write: ‘Blessed are those who are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb!’”
 14 [Rev. 19:8, Bible, NKJV]

16 “But when the king [God] came in to see the guests [at the wedding feast], he saw a man there who did not have
 17 on a wedding garment. So he said to him, ‘Friend, how did you come in here without a [clean white] wedding
 18 garment?’ And he was speechless. Then the king [God] said to the servants ‘Bind him hand and foot, take him
 19 away, and cast him into outer darkness: there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’ For many are called, but 20 few are chosen.”
 21 [Matt. 22:11-14, Bible, NKJV]

22 We’ll expand considerably upon that idea of “trusting in privileges” as being a kind of hypocrisy that is despised not only by
 23 most people, but more importantly by God Himself in several other places in this book, because it is a very important point
 24 and the key to the way our government causes our taxing system to operate. Most notably, we will cover it later in section
 25 4.4.12, where we will talk about “Government-instituted slavery using ‘privileges’”.

26 Other places where the subject of equality and equal protection is dealt with in the Bible include the following:

27 “You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid
 28 in any man’s presence, for the judgment is God’s. The case that is too hard for you, bring to me, and I will hear 29 it.”
 30 [Deut. 1:17, Bible, NKJV]

31 “You shall not pervert justice; you shall not show partiality, nor take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the eyes of the 32 wise and twists the words of the righteous.”
 33 [Deut. 16:19, Bible, NKJV]

34 “For the LORD your God is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great God, mighty and awesome, who shows no
 35 partiality nor takes a bribe.” [Deut. 10:17, Bible, NKJV]

36 “He [God] will surely rebuke you If you secretly show partiality.”
 37 [Job 13:10, Bible, NKJV]

38 “The rich and the poor have this in common, the LORD is the maker of them all.”
 39 [Prov. 22:2, Bible, NKJV]

40 “But you, do not be called ‘Rabbi’; for One is your Teacher, the Christ, and you are all brethren. Do not call
 41 anyone on earth your father; for One is your Father, He who is in heaven. And do not be called teachers; for One
 42 is your Teacher, the Christ. But he who is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whoever exalts 43 himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted”.
 44 [Jesus in Matt. 23:8-12, Bible, NKJV]

45 But Jesus called them to Himself and said to them, “You know that those who are considered rulers over the 46 Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Yet it shall not be so among you;
 47 but whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant. And whoever of you desires to be first
 48 shall be slave of all. For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a 49 ransom for many.”
 50 [Mark 10:42-45, Bible, NKJV. See also Matt. 20:25-28]

1 “There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female: for you are all
 2 one in Christ Jesus.”
 3 [Gal. 3:28, Bible, NKJV]

4 Is it fitting to say to a king, "You are worthless,"
 5 And to nobles, "You are wicked"?
 6 Yet He [God] is not partial to princes,
 7 Nor does He regard the rich more than the poor;
 8 For they are all the work of His hands.
 9 [Job. 34:18-19, Bible, NKJV]

10 “The poor man is hated even by his own neighbor,
 11 But the rich has many friends.
 12 He who despises his neighbor sins;
 13 But he who has mercy on the poor, happy is he.”
 14 [Prov. 14:20-21]

15 “You shall not show partiality to a poor man in his dispute.”
 16 [Exodus 23:3, Bible, NKJV]

17 “The rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when you give an offering to 18 the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves.”
 19 [Exodus 30:15, Bible, NKJV]

20 “Better is the poor who walks in his integrity Than one perverse in his ways, though he be rich.”
 21 [Prov. 28:6, Bible, NKJV]

22 “And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter 23 the kingdom of God.”
 24 [Matt. 19:24, Bible, NKJV]

25 “For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich to all who call upon 26 Him.”
 27 [Rom. 10:12, Bible, NKJV]

28 “Command those who are rich in this present age not to be haughty, nor to trust in uncertain riches but in the 29 living God, who gives us richly all things to enjoy.”
 30 [1 Tim. 6:17, Bible, NKJV]

31 Every place where Jesus Christ vehemently condemned a sin in the Bible was one where hypocrisy and inequality was 32 evident. The greater the hypocrisy, the more vehement was His condemnation. Below is the most graphic example of His 33 condemnation of hypocrisy from the Bible, in Matt. 23. This was the passage cited in the definition of “hypocrisy” above:

34 <sup>13</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You shut the kingdom of heaven in men's faces.
 35 You yourselves do not enter, nor will you let those enter who are trying to.

36 <sup>15</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You travel over land and sea to win a single 37 convert, and when he becomes one, you make him twice as much a son of hell as you are.

38 <sup>16</sup>“Woe to you, blind guides! You say, ‘If anyone swears by the temple, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by 39 the gold of the temple, he is bound by his oath.’ <sup>17</sup>You blind fools! Which is greater: the gold, or the temple that 40 makes the gold sacred? <sup>18</sup>You also say, ‘If anyone swears by the altar, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by 41 the gift on it, he is bound by his oath.’ <sup>19</sup>You blind men! Which is greater: the gift, or the altar that makes the gift
 42 sacred? <sup>20</sup>Therefore, he who swears by the altar swears by it and by everything on it. <sup>21</sup>And he who swears by the 43 temple swears by it and by the one who dwells in it. <sup>22</sup>And he who swears by heaven swears by God's throne and 44 by the one who sits on it.

45 <sup>23</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You give a tenth of your spices—mint, dill and 46 cummin. But you have neglected the more important matters of the law—justice, mercy and faithfulness. You
 47 should have practiced the latter, without neglecting the former. <sup>24</sup>You blind guides! You strain out a gnat but 48 swallow a camel.

49 <sup>25</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You clean the outside of the cup and dish, but 50 inside they are full of greed and self-indulgence. <sup>26</sup>Blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup and dish, and 51 then the outside also will be clean.

1 <sup>27</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law [both man’s law and God’s law] and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You are like
2 whitewashed tombs, which look beautiful on the outside but on the inside are full of dead men’s bones and
3 everything unclean. <sup>28</sup>In the same way, on the outside you appear to people as righteous but on the inside you are
4 full of hypocrisy and wickedness.

5 <sup>29</sup>“Woe to you, teachers of the law and Pharisees, you hypocrites! You build tombs for the prophets and decorate
6 the graves of the righteous. <sup>30</sup>And you say, ‘If we had lived in the days of our forefathers, we would not have taken
7 part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.’ <sup>31</sup>So you testify against yourselves that you are the 8 descendants of those who murdered the prophets. <sup>32</sup>Fill up, then, the measure of the sin of your forefathers!

9 <sup>33</sup>“You snakes! You brood of vipers! How will you escape being condemned to hell? <sup>34</sup>Therefore I am sending you
10 prophets and wise men and teachers. Some of them you will kill and crucify; others you will flog in your
11 synagogues and pursue from town to town. <sup>35</sup>And so upon you will come all the righteous blood that has been
12 shed on earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Berehiah, whom you murdered
13 between the temple and the altar. <sup>36</sup>I tell you the truth, all this will come upon this generation.

14 <sup>37</sup>“O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you, how often I have longed to
15 gather your children together, as a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you were not willing. <sup>38</sup>Look, your 16 house is left to you desolate. <sup>39</sup>For I tell you, you will not see me again until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in 17 the name of the Lord.’”
18 [Jesus in Matt. 23:13-39, Bible, NIV]

19 Funny, and very true! ☺ By condemning hypocrisy frequently throughout the New Testament, Jesus (God’s servant) was 20 basically saying that everyone should play by the same rules and that those who refuse to will suffer the wrath (severe anger
21 and displeasure) of God. If God is our Father and parents can’t play favorites with their children, then we are all equal under 22 His divine Laws found in the Holy Bible. That same spirit of equality, then, must also exist in our own earthly laws enacted
23 pursuant to His divine delegated authority in the Bible. In fact, this equality does exist for the most part within the laws of 24 America. It is only in the taxing statutes (which you will learn later are neither “law” nor “positive law”) where inequality
25 exists. Gross and totally unjust inequality also exists in the application and enforcement of law by the federal and state
26 judiciaries, the legal profession, and the Department of Justice. The weak point is and always has been the weaknesses,
27 prejudices, and biases of us as humans in administering God’s perfect laws and justice. This is especially true of the way that
28 our tax laws are administered by the I.R.S., which is described throughout this book. The gross injustice and inequality found
29 in the administration of our taxing “codes” or “statutes” was the reason, as a matter of fact, for the writing of this book.
30 Below are just a few examples of such gross inequality, hypocrisy, and partiality on the part of the government and IRS and 31 there are many more documented later in Chapter 7:

- 32 1. When the IRS attempts collection, they seize people’s property and money without even going to court. But when we 33 want to collect anything from anyone, we have to hire an expensive lawyer and go to court and the federal judiciary will 34 refuse to force the IRS to pay our legal fees, which never would have been necessary if they had just obeyed the law like
35 everyone else. This prejudices the defense of our rights
- 36 2. The IRS insists that we put the most intimate details about ourselves on a tax return document, and yet when you talk to 37 anyone at the IRS or write them a letter, they refuse to sign the letter or even provide their full legal name or address.
- 38 3. Those who counterfeit money are punished with 20 years in prison, but when the IRS produces a fraudulent security 39 called an “assessment” with no authority of law whatsoever and sells it on the open market, the federal judiciary routinely 40 refuses to convict them of securities fraud.
- 41 4. The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, Public Law 104-208 requires in section 809 that anyone collecting a debt, when 42 requested, produce the original debt instrument and prove the existence of the debt. HOWEVER, when people send a
43 Privacy Act request to the IRS demanding evidence of a valid assessment, the IRS routinely refuse to produce it and the 44 courts routinely refuse to compel them to produce it, knowing full well that there is no law that authorizes them to do
45 assessments on people.

46 Lastly, we must remember that any entity that can break the Ten Commandments or any of man’s laws and not suffer the 47 same punishment under the law as everyone else in a society based on equal protection of the laws is a false god and an idol.
48 An idol is simply any “superior being or thing” which has greater rights and sovereignty than anyone else in society. The 49 first four commandments of the Ten Commandments make idolatry not only a sin, but the WORST kind of sin punishable by 50 death. Any misguided individual who tolerates or votes in favor of governments abusing their taxing powers to steal from 51 the rich and give to the poor is committing treason against the Constitution and also is violating the second great
52 commandment to love his neighbor. You don’t STEAL from someone you love, and neither do honorable or respectable
53 members of society tolerate or condone government servants who do the stealing as their agents either. The Ten
54 Commandments say “Thou shalt not steal.” They don’t say: “Though shalt not steal, UNLESS you are the government.”

If you'd like to investigate this matter of "hypocrisy" covered extensively elsewhere in this and other books, read the following sections:

1. Section 1.10.5 of this book: You can't trust most lawyers or politicians
2. Section 4.4.12 of this book: Government-instituted slavery using "privileges"
3. Section 4.4.13 of this book: Government has become idolatry and a false religion
4. Section 4.3.15 of this book: How public servants eliminate or avoid or hide the requirement for consent
5. Section 5.14 of this book: Congress has made you a Political "tax prisoner" and a feudal "tax serf" in your own country
6. Chapter 6 of this book covers many aspects of hypocrisy in action within all branches of the U.S. government.
7. Chapter 2 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 covers the specific issue of IRS hypocrisy, arrogance, and violation of law. It proves that the IRS depends on privileges not enjoyed by the average American in the illegal collection and assessment of income taxes:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
8. Chapter 5 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 points out all the lies and propaganda put out by the government intended to deceive the average American into accepting an unequal role as a federal serf working for a privileged class of hypocrites in the District of Columbia (Washington "D.C."):
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

Because it is a natural human tendency to hate hypocrisy and sin, those who intend to win using litigation against the government should grandstand to the jury the inherent inequity, injustice, and hypocrisy rampant in our government. This will mobilize the support needed to get a conviction against government lawbreakers.

If you would like a much more detailed treatment of the subject of equal protection and equal treatment that is the foundation of the United States Constitution beyond that described in this section, please read the following document:

4.4.5 How government and God compete to provide "protection"

We stated in the previous section that the goal of government is protection of the liberties of the sovereign public from evil and harm. Here is an example from the Declaration of Independence:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. --That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness."

Because God loves us, He has exactly the same purpose and goal as any just government should have. Here are a few examples of how the purpose of God is protection, and there are many more in the book of Psalm:

"O you afflicted one, tossed with tempest, and not comforted, behold, I will lay your stones with colorful gems, and lay your foundations with sapphires. I will make your pinnacles of rubies, your gates of crystal, and all your walls of precious stones. All your children shall be taught by the Lord, and great shall be the peace of your children. In righteousness you shall be established; you shall be far from oppression, for you shall not fear; and from terror, for it shall not come near you. Indeed they shall surely assemble, but not because of Me. Whoever assembles against you shall fall for your sake."

"Behold, I have created the blacksmith who blows the coals in the fire, who brings forth an instrument for his work; and I have created the spoiler to destroy. No weapon formed against you shall prosper, and every tongue which rises against you in judgment you shall condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is from Me," says the Lord.
[Isaiah 54:11-17, Bible, NKJV]

As Christians, we should prefer God's protection over government's protection at all times. This is because we should trust the Lord and not man:

1                   "It is better to trust the Lord
 2                   Than to put confidence in man.
 3                   It is better to trust in the Lord
 4                   Than to put confidence in princes."
 5                   [Psalm 118:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

6 In the scripture above, the term "man" is synonymous with the words "nation" or "government". Governments are simply 7 collections of men and if we can't put confidence in "men", then we also can't put confidence or trust in any collection of 8 men, whether it be a corporation or a government. Here is one reason why:

9                   "Arise, O Lord,
 10                   Do not let man prevail:
 11                   Let the nations be judged in Your sight.
 12                   Put them in fear, O Lord,
 13                   That the nations may know themselves to be but men."
 14                   [Psalm 9:19-20, Bible, NKJV]

15 No collection of men, whether it be an organized jural society, a government, or simply a mob, can have any more rights than 16 a single man, because the Constitution makes the people, not the government, the sovereigns (kings) and makes us all "equal"
 17 under the law. We covered the section of "equal protection of the law" earlier in the chapter, in fact. In particular, the 18 Fourteenth Amendment section 1 guarantees "equal protection of the laws" to all. At the point when the Declaration of 19 Independence was signed in 1776, we eliminated all "kings" and "rulers" in our society because that divinely inspired
 20 document said that all of us were endowed by God Himself with equal, inalienable rights, which implied that we all are equal
 21 under God's laws and man's laws:

22                   *"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
 23                   [God] with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

24 If we are all equal under the law, then our government may not discriminate against biological people for the benefit of its 25 own statutory "employees" or the corporate entities which it creates in the furtherance of "commerce". The real "king" in 26 our society, then, is the people individually and collectively and public servants in government, from the President on down,
 27 simply serve them. Therefore, government statutory "employees" or public officers cannot have any more "privileges" or 28 rights than private citizens. The public servant cannot be greater than his Master, which is you. The purpose for having 29 juries in courts is so that the people can govern themselves, which relegates the judge to that of being simply a coach to ensure
 30 that they do it fairly and in a way that is consistent with the Constitution and respects the equal rights of others. The legal 31 encyclopedia Corpus Juris Secundum and the United States supreme Court both confirmed the above conclusions somewhat
 32 when they said:

33                   "...when the United States enters into commercial business it abandons its sovereign capacity and is treated like 34                   any other corporation..." [91 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), United States, §4 (2003)]

35                   "It has always been a part of the judicial function to determine whether the act of one party (whether that party 36                   be a single individual, an organized body, or the public as a whole) operates to divest the other party of any 37                   rights of person or property. In every constitution is the guaranty against the taking of private property for public 38                   purposes without just compensation."
 39                   [Reagan v. Farmers Loan & Trust Co., 154 U.S. 362 (1894)]

40 Here is another example of why we should trust the Lord instead of any man or collection of men in government for our
 41 protection, extracted again from the Bible:

42                   "For I was ashamed to request of the king an escort of soldiers and horsemen to help us against the enemy on
 43                   the road, because we had spoken to the king, saying 'The hand of our God is upon all those for good who seek 44                   Him, but His power and His wrath are against all those who forsake Him.' So we fasted and entreated our God
 45                   for this, and He answered our prayer."
 46                   [Ezra 8:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

47 When governments have (or at least "should" have) the same loving goals as God in terms of protecting us (His children and 48 His sheep/ flock) equally from evil and harm, then we are to submit to them. When they cease to be ministers of God's justice
 49 or turn against God, then we should disobey those government laws that conflict with God's laws or natural law.

50                   "We ought to obey God rather than men."
 51                   [Acts 5:27-29, Bible, NKJV]

1 This must be so because we have a fiduciary duty to God himself to keep justice under His sacred law over and above any
 2 earthly law, and when our servants in government don't or won't do it, then it becomes our job as the Sovereigns and Masters
 3 to do the job they have failed to do as our agents and servants:

4 *"Keep justice, and do righteousness, for My salvation is about to come, and My righteousness is revealed.
 5 Blessed is the man who does this, and the son of man who lays hold of it; who keeps from defiling the Sabbath,
 6 and keeps his hand from doing any evil."
 7 [Isaiah 56:1-2, Bible, NKJV]*

8 If we sit idly by and neglect our civic duties while subsidizing and encouraging our servants in government to breach their
 9 fiduciary duty to protect us because of our negligence and inattention, then we become accountable to God for the acts and
 10 omissions of our agents and the harm that causes to our neighbor and our fellow man. This is vividly illustrated by the story
 11 of David and Bathsheeba in the Bible found in 2 Samuel Chapters 11 and 12. In that story, king David lusted after a beautiful 12 married woman named Bathsheeba and had his servant send Bathsheeba's husband Uriah into battle to be killed (See 2 Sam.
 13 11:14-25). After Uriah was killed and David married Bathsheeba, first the Lord killed the child born of adultery and then here
 14 is what the Lord said to David about the acts of his servant/agent, and note that God held David, not his servant, responsible 15 for the murder:

16 *[Then Nathan said to David] "Why have you despised the commandment of the Lord, to do evil in His sight? You
 17 have killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword; you have taken his wife to be your wife, and you have killed him with 18 the sword of the people of Ammon. Now therefore, the sword shall never depart from your house, because you
 19 have despised Me, and have taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife."
 20 [2 Sa 12:9, Bible, NKJV]*

21 Because both God and government have as their goal protection of their believers and subjects respectively, you could say
 22 that both God and government are competitors for the affections, worship, and obedience of the people. This has been so
 23 throughout history. The whole notion behind the separation of church and state is aimed at making this competition fair and
 24 equal between these two competing sovereigns. That is why churches are not supposed to involve themselves in politics if
 25 they want to maintain their tax exempt status and why governments may not tax churches: because taxation by government
 26 of churches or political advocacy against government by churches would destroy that perfect separation of powers.

27 When government becomes too oppressive, then the healthy competition between church and state ensures a steady
 28 convergence back to the perfect balance of powers that Natural Law requires. For instance, if government raises its tax rates
 29 too high, then everyone will either donate everything they have to the church or become churches (Corporation Sole, for 30 instance) in order to avoid government taxes and control. Likewise, when church gets to be too big or influential, then the 31 government tries to step in and pass laws and ordinances to limit its power or worse yet, creates its own state-sanctioned
 32 church, as the kings of England did with the Anglican church. In that case, the church becomes another means of state control.
 33 America was founded by Quakers in the 1600's who were trying to escape state control of the Anglican church so they could
 34 worship freely according to their conscience and without government interference. See section 5.2.1 for a fascinating history
 35 of the creation and founding of America.

36 When governments grow too big, the competition between church and state for the affections and loyalty of the public favors
 37 government and thereby prejudices the influences of churches and God on the people. At that point, churches and believers
 38 have a moral responsibility for political activism and reform. This political imbalance is perpetuated by a combination of:
 39 1. Media advocacy; 2. Unjust laws that discriminate against religious activities; 3. Dumbing down of the population in 40 regards to religious issues and legal issues. Government thus becomes a substitute for God or an idol in this case, and this 41 violates the First Commandment to put God first and have no other gods (see Exodus 20:1-11, Bible, NKJV). The focus of 42 section 4.4.13 later is to then prove from a legal perspective using evidence that our contemporary government has indeed
 43 replaced God and become an idol, and that this condition poses a great threat to our freedoms and liberties, and invites the 44 wrath of God. Ultimately, the result will be subjection and slavery of the people to their rulers and a police state the likes of 45 which this country has never seen. The people will be lead like lemmings into government and legal profession captivity and 46 slavery because of their ignorance and lack of faith or trust in God.

47 *"The Gentiles shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity: because they were 48 unfaithful to Me, therefore I hid My face from them. I gave them into the hand of their enemies, and they all fell
 49 by the [legal] sword. According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions I have dealt with 50 them, and hidden My face from them."
 51 [Ezekiel 39:23-24, Bible, NKJV]*

52 How has God "hidden his face"? By:

1. The outlawing of simple prayer in the schools.
2. The removal of the Ten Commandments and crosses from public buildings and parks.
3. The removal of religious teachings from our classrooms.
4. The passing of government laws that clearly violate God's laws.

See section 4.17 later, for instance, for further details on man's laws conflict with God's laws.

4.4.6 Separation of powers doctrine

The foundation of our republican form of government is the notion of "separation of powers". In the legal field, this is called "the separation of powers doctrine". The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed the purpose of the separation of powers doctrine in the case of U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995) :

*"In Europe, the Executive is almost synonymous with the Sovereign power of a State; and, generally, includes legislative and judicial authority. When, therefore, writers speak of the sovereign, it is not necessarily in exclusion of the judiciary; and it will often be found, that when the Executive affords a remedy for any wrong, it is nothing more than by an exercise of its judicial authority. Such is the condition of power in that quarter of the world, where it is too commonly acquired by force, or fraud, or both, and seldom by compact. In America, however, the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon compact. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people. It was entrusted by them, as far as was necessary for the purpose of forming a good government, to the Federal Convention; and the Convention executed their trust, by effectually separating the Legislative, Judicial, and Executive powers; which, in the contemplation of our Constitution, are each a branch of the sovereignty. The well-being of the whole depends upon keeping each department within its limits. In the State government, several instances have occurred where a legislative act, has been rendered inoperative by a judicial decision, that it was unconstitutional; and even under the Federal government the judges, for the same reason, have refused to execute an act of Congress. <sup>FN*</sup> When, in short, either branch of the government usurps that part of the sovereignty, which the Constitution assigns to another branch, liberty ends, and tyranny commences."*
[The Betsey, 3 U.S. 6 (1794)]

*"We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S. Const., Art. I, § 8. As James Madison wrote, "[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v. Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid. "U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]*

*"The people of the United States, by their Constitution, have affirmed a division of internal governmental powers between the federal government and the governments of the several states-committing to the first its powers by express grant and necessary implication; to the latter, or [301 U.S. 548, 611] to the people, by reservation, 'the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States.' The Constitution thus affirms the complete supremacy and independence of the state within the field of its powers. Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 295, 56 S.Ct. 855, 865. The federal government has no more authority to invade that field than the state has to invade the exclusive field of national governmental powers; for, in the oft-repeated words of this court in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, 'the preservation of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government.' The necessity of preserving each from every form of illegitimate intrusion or interference on the part of the other is so imperative as to require this court, when its judicial power is properly invoked, to view with a careful and discriminating eye any legislation challenged as constituting such an intrusion or interference. See South Carolina v. United States, 199 U.S. 437, 448, 26 S.Ct. 110, 4 Ann.Cas. 737."*
[Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U.S. 548 (1937)]

The founders believed that men were inherently corrupt. They believed that where power concentrates, so does tyranny. To prevent tyranny, they separated the power within our government in the following ways:

1. Separation of church (God) and state. The state and God (the church) are in competition with each other to protect the people, as we showed in the previous section. Guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

2. Separation of money and state. Guaranteed by Article 1, Section 10, Clause 1 of the Constitution, which required that no State shall make anything but gold and silver money. See also section 2.8.9.2 later.
3. Separation of marriage and state. At the time, there were no marriage licenses and everyone got married in their church. Their marriage certificate was the family bible, because that is where they recorded the ceremony.
4. Separation of education and state. The Constitution did not authorize the federal government to get involved in education, and since everything not mentioned in the Constitution was reserved to the states under the Tenth Amendment, we also had separation of education and state.
5. Separation of media and state: The founders always believed that a free and independent media was a precursor to an accountable and moral government and they wrote the requirement for freedom of the press into the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.
6. Separation of the people and the government. The founders gave the people equal footing with the state governments by giving them the House of Representatives. The House of Representatives is equal in legislative power to the Senate, which represents the state governments.
7. State v. Federal separation. The states had complete sovereignty internal to their border over everything except taxes on foreign commerce, mail fraud, and counterfeiting. Slavery was later added to that by the Thirteenth Amendment. The federal government had jurisdiction over all external or foreign matters only. Guaranteed by Art. IV of the Constitution.
8. Separation of powers within the above two distinct governments. Guaranteed by Art. 1, Art. II, and Art. III of the Constitution:
  - 8.1. Executive
  - 8.2. Legislative
  - 8.3. Judicial

The founding fathers derived the idea of separation of powers from various historical legal treatises available to them at the time they wrote the Constitution. The main source which described this separation of powers and after which they patterned their design for our government was a book written by Montesquieu which you can read for yourself below:

The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol.htm>

The founders implemented separation between the federal and state governments to put the states in competition with each other for citizens and commerce, so that when one state became too oppressive by having taxes that were too high or too many laws, people would move to a better state where they had more freedom and lower taxes. This would ensure that the states that were most oppressive would have the fewest citizens and the worst economy. They also put the federal government in charge of foreign commerce only, so that the only way it could increase its revenues was to promote, not discourage or restrict, commerce with foreign nations. If the taxes on foreign commerce were too high, people would simply buy more domestic goods and the federal government would shrink. It was naturally self-balancing.

The founders also put branches within each government in competition with each other: Executive, Legislative, and Judicial. They ensured that each branch had distinct functions that could not be delegated to another branch of government. Each branch would then jealously guard its power and jurisdiction to ensure that it was not invaded or undermined by the other branch. This ensured that there would always be a balance of powers so that the system was self-regulating and the balance of powers would be maintained.

"To the contrary, the Constitution divides authority between federal and state governments for the protection of individuals. State sovereignty is not just an end in itself: "Rather, federalism secures to citizens the liberties that derive from the diffusion of sovereign power." Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 759 (1991) (BLACKMUN, J., dissenting). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serve to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Gregory v. [505 U.S. 144, 182] Ashcroft, 501 U.S., at 458. See The Federalist No. 51, p. 323. (C. Rossiter ed. 1961).

Where Congress exceeds its authority relative to the States, therefore, the departure from the constitutional plan cannot be ratified by the "consent" of state officials. An analogy to the separation of powers among the branches of the Federal Government clarifies this point. The Constitution's division of power among the three branches is violated where one branch invades the territory of another, whether or not the encroached-upon branch approves the encroachment. In Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1, 118 -137 (1976), for instance, the Court held that Congress had infringed the President's appointment power, despite the fact that the President himself had manifested his consent to the statute that caused the infringement by signing it into law. See National League of Cities v. Utery, 426 U.S., at 842, n. 12. In INS v. Chadha, 462 U.S. 919, 944-959 (1983), we held that the legislative veto violated the constitutional requirement that legislation be presented to the President, despite Presidents' approval of hundreds of statutes containing a legislative veto provision. See id., at 944-945. The constitutional authority of Congress cannot be expanded by the "consent" of the governmental unit whose domain is thereby narrowed, whether that unit is the Executive Branch or the States.

State officials thus cannot consent to the enlargement of the powers of Congress beyond those enumerated in the Constitution. Indeed, the facts of this case raise the possibility that powerful incentives might lead both federal and state officials to view departures from the federal structure to be in their personal interests. Most citizens recognize the need for radioactive waste disposal sites, but few want sites near their homes. As a result, while it would be well within the authority of either federal or state officials to choose where the disposal sites will be, it is likely to be in the political interest of each individual official to avoid being held accountable to the voters for the choice of location. If [505 U.S. 144, 183] a federal official is faced with the alternatives of choosing a location or directing the States to do it, the official may well prefer the latter, as a means of shifting responsibility for the eventual decision. If a state official is faced with the same set of alternatives - choosing a location or having Congress direct the choice of a location - the state official may also prefer the latter, as it may permit the avoidance of personal responsibility. The interests of public officials thus may not coincide with the Constitution's intergovernmental allocation of authority. Where state officials purport to submit to the direction of Congress in this manner, federalism is hardly being advanced. "
[New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 144 (1992)]

The founders put the states in charge of the federal government by filling the senate with delegates from each state and by giving each state full and complete and exclusive control over all taxation within its borders, with the exception of taxes on foreign commerce, which is commerce external to states of the Union and among foreign countries.

"In the states, there reposes the sovereignty to manage their own affairs except only as the requirements of the Constitution otherwise provide. Within these constitutional limits the power of the state over taxation is plenary."

The states gave the federal government control only over taxes on foreign commerce under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution.<sup>96</sup> The states ensured this result by mentioning in two places in the Constitution, Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, that all direct taxes had to be apportioned to the legislatures of each state. The requirement to apportion direct taxes is the only mandate that appears twice in the Constitution, because they wanted to emphasize this limit on federal taxing powers. This ensured that the federal government could never burden or economically enslave individual citizens within each state or tax state governments directly:

"The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."
[Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

The founders imposed these restrictions on direct taxation because they knew that direct taxes amounted to slavery and they didn't want to become slaves to the federal government. Through the requirement for apportionment, state legislatures became the intermediaries for all federal appropriations that depended on other than indirect taxes on foreign commerce. Any other approach would require citizens in the states to serve two masters: state and federal, for the income they earn. This is a fulfillment of the Bible, which said on this subject:

"No one can serve two masters [state and federal]: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

Thomas Jefferson, one of our most important founding fathers, confirmed the purpose of the separation of powers between state and federal governments. He confirmed that the purpose of the federal government was to regulate commerce and interaction with foreign countries and that it never had the authority or jurisdiction to invade within states, either through legislation or through police powers:

"The extent of our country was so great, and its former division into distinct States so established, that we thought it better to confederate [U.S. government] as to foreign affairs only. Every State retained its self-government in domestic matters, as better qualified to direct them to the good and satisfaction of their citizens, than a general government so distant from its remoter citizens and so little familiar with the local peculiarities of the different parts."

[Thomas Jefferson to A. Coray, 1823. ME 15:483 ]

"I believe the States can best govern our home concerns, and the General Government our foreign ones."

[Thomas Jefferson to William Johnson, 1823. ME 15:450 ]

"My general plan [for the federal government] would be, to make the States one as to everything connected with foreign nations, and several as to everything purely domestic."

[Thomas Jefferson to Edward Carrington, 1787. ME 6:227 ]

"Distinct States, amalgamated into one as to their foreign concerns, but single and independent as to their internal administration, regularly organized with a legislature and governor resting on the choice of the people and enlightened by a free press, can never be so fascinated by the arts of one man as to submit voluntarily to his usurpation. Nor can they be constrained to it by any force he can possess. While that may paralyze the single State in which it happens to be encamped, [the] others, spread over a country of two thousand miles diameter, rise up on every side, ready organized for deliberation by a constitutional legislature and for action by their governor, constitutionally the commander of the militia of the State, that is to say, of every man in it able to bear arms."

[Thomas Jefferson to A. L. C. Destutt de Tracy, 1811. ME 13:19 ]

You can read the above quotes from Thomas Jefferson on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Politics/ThomasJefferson/jeff1050.htm>

Note that Jefferson said that the federal government was given jurisdiction over foreign affairs only, which includes foreign commerce. The only exception to this general rule is subject matter within the states over the following:

1. Slavery under the Thirteenth Amendment.
2. Counterfeiting under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5 of the Constitution.
3. Mail under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 7 of the Constitution.
4. Assaults and infractions against its own officers under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 18 of the Constitution.
5. Treason under Article 3, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution.

Every other type of subject matter jurisdiction exercised by the federal government within the states is not authorized by the Constitution, and therefore can only be undertaken with the voluntary consent and participation of the state governments and the people within them. This type of consensual jurisdiction is called "comity".

"comity. Courtesy; complaisance; respect; a willingness to grant a privilege, not as a matter of right, but out of deference and good will. Recognition that one sovereignty allows within its territory to the legislative, executive, or judicial act of another sovereignty, having due regard to rights of its own citizens. Nowell v. Nowell, Tex.Civ.App., 408 S.W.2d. 550, 553. In general, principle of "comity" is that courts of one state or jurisdiction will give effect to laws and judicial decisions of another state or jurisdiction, not as a matter of obligation, but out of deference and mutual respect. Brown v. Babbitt Ford, Inc., 117 Ariz. 192, 571 P.2d. 689, 695. See also Full faith and credit clause."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 267]

Jefferson's quotes are also fully consistent with our system of federal taxation. For instance, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution limits federal taxation powers to commerce with foreign nations and between, but not within, states. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) also reveals that the only specific sources of "gross income" that are taxable under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code are those associated with Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC) and Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs), both of whom are involved in commerce with foreign countries only. Even the IRS' own publications in the Federal Register confirm that this was the original intent of the founders. Below is an excerpt from the Federal Register, Volume 37, page 20960 dated October 5, 1972:

"Madison's Notes on the Constitutional Convention see [Federalist Paper #45] reveal clearly that the framers of the Constitution believed for some time [and wrote this permanent requirement into the Constitution] that the principal, if not sole, support of the new Federal Government would be derived from customs duties and taxes connected with shipping and importations. Internal taxation would not be resorted to except infrequently, and for special [emergency] reasons. The first resort to internal taxation, the enactment of internal revenue laws in 1791 and in the following 10 years, was occasioned by the exigencies of the public credit. These first laws were repealed in 1802. Internal revenue laws were reenacted for the period 1813-17, when the effects of the war of 1812 caused Congress to resort to internal taxation. From 1818 to 1861, however, the United States

1 had no internal revenue laws and the Federal Government was supported by the revenue from import duties and
 2 the proceeds from the sale of public lands. In 1862 Congress once more levied internal revenue taxes. This time
 3 the establishment of an internal revenue system, not exclusively dependent upon the supplies of foreign commerce,
 4 was permanent."

5 What the IRS doesn't tell you in the above is that the resort to internal taxation under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code
 6 was only authorized against officers of the United States government and not against private citizens living in the states of 7 the Union. According to the U.S. Supreme Court, the enactment of the Sixteenth Amendment didn't change that 8 Constitutional requirement one iota either. You can view this document on our website at:

10 Those federal politicians, legislators, and judges intent on becoming tyrants or expanding their power must break down the 11 separation of powers established by the founders above if they want to concentrate power or take away powers from the 12 states. They have done this over the years mainly by the following means, which we devote nearly the entirety of this book 13 to exposing and explaining:

- 14 1. Deliberately deceiving people about the intent and result of ratifying the Sixteenth Amendment. According to the U.S.
 15 Supreme Court, the Sixteenth Amendment "conferred no power of taxation" upon the federal government, but simply 16 reinforced the idea that federal income taxes are indirect excise taxes only on businesses.<sup>97</sup> Yet, to this day, your
 17 dishonest Congressman and the IRS itself both insist that the Sixteenth Amendment is the basis for their authority to tax
 18 the labor of a natural person, in spite of the fact that these kind of taxes violate the Thirteenth Amendment and constitute 19 slavery and involuntary servitude.
- 20 2. Eliminating separation of church and state by either taxing churches or using the IRS to terrorize and gag them for their 21 political activities. This is already happening. See the following website for details: <http://www.hushmoney.org/>
- 22 3. Eliminating separation of money and state by eliminating the gold standard and transitioning to a fiat paper currency.
 23 This was done in 1913 with the introduction of the Federal Reserve Act on Dec. 23, 1913, shortly after the ratification
 24 of the Sixteenth Amendment in February 1913.
- 25 4. Eliminating separation of marriage and state by introducing marriage licenses. This was done in a large scale starting in 26 1923, with the Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act of 1929. See section 4.14.6.7 later for further details.
- 27 5. Confusing the definitions of words to make the separation of powers between state and federal unclear. For instance:
 28 5.1. Confusing the definitions of "state" and "State".
 29 5.2. Confusing the definition of "United States"
 30 5.3. Not defining the word "foreign" in the Internal Revenue Code
- 31 6. Obfuscating the distinctions between "U.S. citizen" and "national" status within federal statutes. "U.S. citizens" were 32 born in the federal United States while "nationals" were born in states of the Union.
- 33 7. Judges violating the due process rights of the accused by making frequent use of false presumption against litigants
 34 regarding citizenship and "taxpayer" status without documenting in their rulings what presumptions they are making or 35 having to defend with evidence why such presumptions are warranted. Remember that "presumption" is the opposite of 36 due process and also happens to be a sin in the Bible. Refer to section 2.8.2 earlier for details.
- 37 8. Refusing to acknowledge or recognize the limits of federal jurisdiction within federal courtrooms. We have been 38 informed of many individuals being brutalized and abused by itinerant federal judges whose jurisdiction was challenged.
- 39 9. Suppressing any evidence or debate in courtrooms on the nature of separation of powers. Doing so by complicating rules 40 of evidence, and making citizens meet a higher standard for evidence than the government.
- 41 10. Using the proceeds of extorted or illegally-collected federal income tax revenues to break down the separation of powers
 42 between states and the federal government. For instance, depriving states of federal revenues who do not do what the 43 federal government wants them to do. This is called "privilege-induced slavery". We explain later in section 6.1 that 44 this kind of artifice has been thoroughly exploited to create a de facto government that is completely at odds with the de 45 jure separation of powers required by our Constitution.
- 46 11. Discrediting and slandering legal professionals who bring attention to the separation of powers between state and federal 47 jurisdiction by calling them "frivolous" or "incompetent" and/or pulling their license to practice law. The framing of 48 Congressman Traficant and Congressman George Hansen are examples of this kind of political persecution by abusing 49 the legal system as a tool of persecution.
- 50 12. Paying people in the legal publishing business to obfuscate the definitions of words. We show later in section 6.8 several 51 instances of such corruption.

- 1 13. Making the laws found in the U.S. Code so confusing that the average American can't rely on his own understanding of 2 them to know what the law requires. Instead, he must be compelled to rely on a high-paid expert, such as a judge or lawyer,
 3 both of whom have a conflict of interest in expanding their power, to say what the law really requires. This transforms
 4 our society from a "society of laws and not men" into a "society of men".<sup>98</sup>
- 5 14. Suppressing and oppressing the Right to Petition guaranteed to We the People in the First Amendment. The Founders
 6 believed that the people had an inalienable right to withhold payment of taxes until their petitions were heard and
 7 responded to. Federal courts have evaded and avoided upholding this requirement, in what amounts to treason against 8 the Constitution punishable by death. See the article on our website about this subject at:

9 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/LegalEthics/RightToPet-031002.pdf>

10 The U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186 (1962) has developed some legal criteria for determining 11 whether a court may invade or undermine the duties of a coordinate branch of government in its rulings and thereby undermine 12 the separation of powers. Below is the criteria:

- 13 1. Has the issue been committed expressly by the Constitution to a coordinate political branch of the government?
 14 2. Are there judicially discoverable and manageable standards for deciding the case?
 15 3. Can the case be decided without some initial policy determination of a kind clearly for nonjudicial discretion?
 16 4. Can the court decide the case independently without expressing lack of respect due a coordinate branch of the 17 government?
 18 5. Is there an unusual need for unquestioning adherence to a political decision already made?
 19 6. Is there a potentiality for embarrassment from multifarious decisions by different branches of the government on the 20 same question?

21 In the criteria above, the Executive and Legislative branches of the government are regarded as "political branches", while 22 the judicial branch is not a political branch, but exclusively a legal branch. Understanding these criteria are important for 23 readers who want to challenge the exercise of political powers by the federal judiciary, such as in areas of:

- 24 1. Interfering with one's political choice of domicile. See section 5.4.8 later for details.
 25 2. Interfering with one's political choice of citizenship. See sections 4.11 through 4.11.13 later.
 26 3. Interfering with the exercise of political rights or a political party. You as a private individual constitute an independent
 27 sovereignty and political party and a court may not interfere with your political choices. See section 4.3.6 earlier for a
 28 definition of political rights.

29 A court that interferes with or questions or undermines a person's political affiliations above is involving itself in political 30 questions and the judge is overstepping his authority.

31 "Political questions. Questions of which courts will refuse to take cognizance, or to decide, on account of their 32 purely political character, or because their determination would involve an encroachment upon the executive or 33 legislative powers.*

34 *"Political questions doctrine" holds that certain issues should not be decided by courts because their resolution
 35 is committed to another branch of government and/or because those issues are not capable, for one reason or 36 another, of judicial resolution. Islamic Republic of Iran v. Pahlavi, 116 Misc.2d. 590, 455 N.Y.S.2d. 987, 990.*

37 *A matter of dispute which can be handled more appropriately by another branch of the government is not a
 38 "justiciable" matter for the courts. However, a state apportionment statute is not such a political question as to 39 render it nonjusticiable. Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 208-210, 82 S.Ct. 691, 705-706, 7 L.Ed.2d. 663.
 40 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1158-1159]*

41 The U.S. Supreme Court has also insightfully defined the very harmful effect on society when the judicial branch of the 42 government involves itself in political questions of the above nature in the case of Luther v. Borden:

43 *"But, fortunately for our freedom from political excitements in judicial duties, this court [the U.S. Supreme 44 Court] can never with propriety be called on officially to be the umpire in questions merely political. The 45 adjustment of these questions belongs to the people and their political representatives, either in the State or 46 general government. These questions relate to matters not to be settled on strict legal principles. They are 47 adjusted rather by inclination, or prejudice or compromise, often.

Another evil, alarming and little foreseen, involved in regarding these as questions for the final arbitrament of judges would be that, in such an event, all political privileges and rights would, in a dispute among the people, depend on our decision finally. We would possess the power to decide against, as well as for, them, and, under a prejudiced or arbitrary judiciary, the public liberties and popular privileges might thus be much perverted, if not entirely prostrated. But, allowing the people to make constitutions and unmake them, allowing their representatives to make laws and unmake them, and without our interference as to their principles or policy in doing it, yet, when constitutions and laws are made and put in force by others, then the courts, as empowered by the State or the Union, commence their functions and may decide on the rights which conflicting parties can legally set up under them, rather than about their formation itself. Our power begins after theirs [the Sovereign People] ends. Constitutions and laws precede the judiciary, and we act only under and after them, and as to disputed rights beneath them, rather than disputed points in making them. We speak what is the law, jus dicere, we speak or construe what is the constitution, after both are made, but we make, or revise, or control neither. The disputed rights beneath constitutions already made are to be governed by precedents, by sound legal principles, by positive legislation e.g. "positive law", clear contracts, moral duties, and fixed rules; they are per se questions of law, and are well suited to the education and habits of the bench. But the other disputed points in making constitutions, depending often, as before shown, on policy, inclination, popular resolves and popular will and arising not in respect to private rights, not what is meum and tuum, but in relation to politics, they belong to politics, and they are settled by political tribunals, and are too dear to a people bred in the school of Sydney and Russel for them ever to intrust their final decision, when disputed, to a class of men who are so far removed from them as the judiciary, a class also who might decide them erroneously, as well as right, and if in the former way, the consequences might not be averted except by a revolution, while a wrong decision by a political forum can often be peacefully corrected by new elections or instructions in a single month; and if the people, in the distribution of powers under the constitution, should ever think of making judges supreme arbiters in political controversies when not selected by nor, frequently, amenable to them nor at liberty to follow such various considerations in their judgments as [48 U.S. 53] belong to mere political questions, they will dethrone themselves and lose one of their own invaluable birthrights; building up in this way -- slowly, but surely -- a new sovereign power in the republic, in most respects irresponsible and unchangeable for life, and one more dangerous, in theory at least, than the worst elective oligarchy in the worst of times. Again, instead of controlling the people in political affairs, the judiciary in our system was designed rather to control individuals, on the one hand, when encroaching, or to defend them, on the other, under the Constitution and the laws, when they are encroached upon. And if the judiciary at times seems to fill the important station of a check in the government, it is rather a check on the legislature, who may attempt to pass laws contrary to the Constitution, or on the executive, who may violate both the laws and Constitution, than on the people themselves in their primary capacity as makers and amenders of constitutions."

[Luther v. Borden, 48 U.S. 1 (1849)]

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4.4.7 "Sovereign"="Foreign"

In law, a "sovereign" is called a "foreigner", "stranger", "transient foreigner", "sojourner", "stateless person", or simply a "nonresident". This is an unavoidable result of the fact that states of the Union are:

1. The separation of powers between the states and the national government. See:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. The separation between PUBLIC and PRIVATE. See:

Separation Between Public and Private Course, Form #12.025

<https://sedm.org/LibertyU/SeparatingPublicPrivate.pdf>

3. The legal separation between Church and State, whereby we humans are the church and the government is the state:

Law and Government Page, Section 11: Church v. State and First Amendment

<https://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/LawAndGovt.htm#CHURCH v. STATE AND FIRST AMENDMENT>

4. The fact that States of the Union are:

4.1. Sovereign in respect to each other and in respect to federal jurisdiction.

4.2. "foreign countries" or "foreign states" with respect to federal legislative jurisdiction.

"The United States Government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state." [N.Y. v. re Merriam, 36 N.E. 505, 141 N.Y. 479, affirmed 16 S.Ct. 1073, 41 L.Ed. 287]

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §884 (2003)]

4.3. Addressed as "states" rather than "States" in federal law because they are foreign.

4.4. The equivalent of independent nations in respect to federal jurisdiction excepting the subject of foreign affairs.

"The States between each other are sovereign and independent. They are distinct and separate sovereignties, except so far as they have parted with some of the attributes of sovereignty by the Constitution. They continue to be nations, with all their rights, and under all their national obligations, and with all the rights of nations in every particular; except in the surrender by each to the common purposes and objects of the Union, under the Constitution. The rights of each State, when not so yielded up, remain absolute."
[Bank of Augusta v. Earle, 38 U.S. (13 Pet.) 519, 10 L.Ed. 274 (1839)]

Many Americans naturally cringe at the idea of being called a "foreigner" in their own country. The purpose of this section is to explain why there is nothing wrong with maintaining the status of being "foreign" and why it is the ONLY way to preserve and protect the separation of powers that was put into place by the very wise founding fathers for the explicit purpose of protecting our sacred Constitutional Rights.

The U.S. Supreme Court described how legal entities and persons transition from being FOREIGN to DOMESTIC in relation to a specific court or venue, which is ONLY with their express consent. This process of giving consent is also called a "waiver of sovereign immunity" and it applies equally to governments, states, and the humans occupying them. To wit:

Before we can proceed in this cause we must, therefore, inquire whether we can hear and determine the matters in controversy between the parties, who are two states of this Union, sovereign within their respective boundaries, save that portion of power which they have granted to the federal government, and foreign to each other for all but federal purposes. So they have been considered by this Court, through a long series of years and cases, to the present term; during which, in the case of The Bank of the United States v. Daniels, this Court has declared this to be a fundamental principle of the constitution; and so we shall consider it in deciding on the present motion. 2 Peters, 590, 91.

*Those states, in their highest sovereign capacity, in the convention of the people thereof; on whom, by the revolution, the prerogative of the crown, and the transcendent power of parliament devolved, in a plenitude unimpaired by any act, and controllable by no authority, 6 Wheat. 651; 8 Wheat. 584, 88; adopted the constitution, by which they respectively made to the United States a grant of judicial power over controversies between two or more states. By the constitution, it was ordained that this judicial power, in cases where a state was a party, should be exercised by this Court as one of original jurisdiction. The states waived their exemption from judicial power, 6 Wheat. 378, 80, as sovereigns by original and inherent right, by their own grant of its exercise over themselves in such cases, but which they would not grant to any inferior tribunal. By this grant, this Court has acquired jurisdiction over the parties in this cause, by their own consent and delegated authority; as their agent for executing the judicial power of the United States in the cases specified.

[The State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Complainants v. the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Defendant, 37 U.S. 657, 12 Pet. 657, 9 L.Ed. 1233 (1838)]

The idea of the above cite is that all civil subject matters or powers by any government NOT expressly consented to by the object of those powers are foreign and therefore outside the civil legal jurisdiction of that government. This fact is recognized in the Declaration of Independence, which states that all just powers derive from the CONSENT of those governed. The method of providing that consent, in the case of a human, is to select a civil domicile within a specific government and thereby nominate a protector under the civil statutory laws of the territory protected by that government. This fact is recognized in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), which says that the capacity to sue or be sued is determined by the law of the domicile of the party. Civil statutory laws from places or governments OUTSIDE the domicile of the party may therefore NOT be enforced by a court against the party. This subject is covered further in section 5.4.8 of this book.

A very important aspect of domicile is that whether one is domestic and a citizen or foreign under the civil statutory laws is determined SOLELY by one's domicile, and NOT their nationality. You can be born anywhere in America and yet still be a non-resident non-person in relation to any and every state or government within America simply by not choosing or having a domicile within any municipal government in the country. You can also be a statutory "non-resident non-person" in relation to the national government and yet still have a civil domicile within a specific state of the Union, because your DOMICILE is foreign, not your nationality.

Consistent with the above analysis of how one transitions from FOREIGN to DOMESTIC through CONSENT are the following corroborating authorities.

1. The Declaration of Independence, which says that all JUST powers derive ONLY from the "consent of the governed". Anything not consensual is therefore unjust and does not therefore have the "force of law" or any civil jurisdiction whatsoever against those not consenting.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, 1776

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."
 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

2. The concept of "comity" in legal field:

comity. Courtesy; complaisance; respect; a willingness to grant a privilege, not as a matter of right, but out of deference and good will. Recognition that one sovereignty allows within its territory to the legislative, executive, or judicial act of another sovereignty, having due regard to rights of its own citizens. Nowell v. Nowell, Tex.Civ.App., 408 S.W.2d. 550, 553. In general, principle of "comity" is that courts of one state or jurisdiction will give effect to laws and judicial decisions of another state or jurisdiction, not as a matter of obligation, but out of deference and mutual respect. Brown v. Babbitt Ford, Inc., 117 Ariz. 192, 571 P.2d. 689, 695. See also Full faith and credit clause.
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 267]

3. The Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Part 4, Chapter 97.
4. The Minimum Contacts Doctrine, U.S. Supreme Court of the U.S. Supreme Court. See International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945).
5. The Longarm Statutes within your state. Each state has statutes authorizing nonresidents and therefore foreign sovereigns to waive their sovereign immunity in civil court.

Going along with the notion of the Separation Of Powers doctrine in the previous section is the concept of "sovereignty". Sovereignty is the foundation of all government in America and fundamental to understanding our American system of government. Below is how President Theodore Roosevelt, one of our most beloved Presidents, describes "sovereignty":

"We of this mighty western Republic have to grapple with the dangers that spring from popular self-government tried on a scale incomparably vaster than ever before in the history of mankind, and from an abounding material prosperity greater also than anything which the world has hitherto seen.

As regards the first set of dangers, it behooves us to remember that men can never escape being governed. Either they must govern themselves or they must submit to being governed by others. If from lawlessness or fickleness, from folly or self-indulgence, they refuse to govern themselves then most assuredly in the end they will have to be governed from the outside. They can prevent the need of government from without only by showing they possess the power of government from within. A sovereign cannot make excuses for his failures; a sovereign must accept the responsibility for the exercise of power that inheres in him; and where, as is true in our Republic, the people are sovereign, then the people must show a sober understanding and a sane and steadfast purpose if they are to preserve that orderly liberty upon which as a foundation every republic must rest."
 [President Theodore Roosevelt; Opening of the Jamestown Exposition; Norfolk, VA, April 26, 1907]

In this section, we will cover some very important implications of sovereignty within the context of government authority and jurisdiction generally. We will analyze these implications both from the standpoint of relations WITHIN a government

1 and the relationship that government has with its citizens and subjects. We will expand upon the subject of sovereignty in
2 the context of taxes later in sections 5.2.2 and 5.2.3.

3 Sovereignty can exist within individuals, families, churches, cities, counties, states, nations, and even international bodies.
4 This is depicted in the “onion diagram” below, which shows the organization of personal, family, church, and civil
5 government graphically. The boundaries and relations between each level of government are defined by God Himself, who
6 is the Creator of all things and the Author of the user manual for it all, His Holy Book. Each level of the “onion” below is
7 considered sovereign, independent, and “foreign” with respect to all the levels external to it. Each level of the diagram
8 represents an additional layer of protection for those levels within it, keeping in mind that the purpose of government at every 9 level is “protection” of the sovereigns which it was created to serve and which are within it in the diagram below:

10 Figure 4-3: Hierarchy of sovereignty

11
12 The interior levels of the above onion govern and direct the external levels of the onion. For instance, citizens govern and
13 direct their city, county, state, and federal governments by exercising their political right to vote and serve on jury duty. Here
14 is how the Supreme Court describes it:

1                   “The words ‘people of the United States’ and ‘citizens,’ are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They
2 both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who
3 hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the
4 ‘sovereign people,’ and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty. ...” [Boyd
5 v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]

6                   “...at the Revolution, the sovereignty devolved on the people; and they are truly the sovereigns of the country, but 7 they are sovereigns without subjects...with none to govern but themselves; the citizens of America are equal as 8 fellow citizens, and as joint tenants in the sovereignty.”

9 Chisholm v. Georgia, [2 Dall \(U.S.\) 419, 454, 1 L.Ed. 440, 455 @DALL 1793, pp. 471-472]

10 City governments control their state governments by directing elections, controlling what appears on the ballot, and
11 controlling how much of the property and sales tax revenues are given to the states. State government exercise their authority
12 over the federal government by sending elected representatives to run the Senate and by controlling the “purse” of the federal 13 government when direct taxes are apportioned to states.

14 Sovereignty also exists within a single governmental unit. For instance, in the previous section, we described the Separation
15 of Powers Doctrine by showing how a “republican form of government” divides the federal government into three distinct,
16 autonomous, and completely independent branches that are free from the control of the other branches. Therefore, the 17 Executive, Legislative, and Judicial departments of both state and federal governments are “foreign” and “alien” with respect
18 to the other branches.

19 Sovereignty is defined in man’s law as follows, in Black’s Law Dictionary:

20                   “Sovereignty. The supreme, absolute, and uncontrollable power by which any independent state is governed;
21 supreme political authority; paramount control of the constitution and frame of government and its 22 administration; self sufficient source of political power, from which all specific political powers are derived; the 23 international independence of a state, combined with the right and power of regulating its internal affairs
24 without foreign dictation; also a political society, or state, which is sovereign and independent.
25 Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. 455, 1 L.Ed. 440; Union Bank v. Hill, 3 Cold., Tenn 325; Moore v. Shaw, 17 Cal.
26 218, 79 Am.Dec. 123; State v. Dixon, 66 Mont. 76, 213 P. 227.”
27 [Black’s Law Dictionary Fourth Edition (1951), p. 1568]

28 “Sovereignty” consists of the combination of legal authority and responsibility that a government or individual has within 29 our American system of jurisprudence. The key words in the above definition of sovereignty are: “foreign”, “uncontrollable”, 30 and “independence”. A “sovereign” is:

- 31 1. A servant and fiduciary of all sovereigns internal to it.
- 32 2. Not subject to the legislative or territorial jurisdiction of any external sovereign. This is because he is the “author” of 33 the law that governs the external sovereign and therefore not subject to it.

34                   “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign powers 35 are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people.”
36 Yick Wo v. Hopkins, [118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

- 37 3. “Foreign” but not a privileged “alien” with respect to other external sovereigns, from a legal perspective. This means 38 that:
  - 39 3.1. The purpose of the laws of the sovereign at any level is to establish a fiduciary duty to protect the rights and 40 sovereignty of all those entities which are internal to a sovereignty.
  - 41 3.2. The existence of a sovereign may be acknowledged and defined, but not limited by the laws of an external sovereign.
  - 42 3.3. The rights and duties of a sovereign are not prescribed in any law of an external sovereign.
- 43 4. “Independent” of other sovereigns. This means that:
  - 44 4.1. The sovereign has a duty to support and govern itself completely and to not place any demands for help upon an 45 external sovereign.
  - 46 4.2. The moment a sovereign asks for “benefits” or help, it ceases to be sovereign and independent and must surrender
47 its rights and sovereignty to an external sovereign using his power to contract in order to procure needed help.

48 The purpose of the Constitution is to preserve “self-government” and independence at every level of sovereignty in the above
49 onion diagram:

1 "The determination of the Framers Convention and the ratifying conventions to preserve complete and
 2 unimpaired state [and personal] self-government in all matters not committed to the general government is
 3 one of the plainest facts which emerges from the history of their deliberations. And adherence to that
 4 determination is incumbent equally upon the federal government and the states. State powers can neither be
 5 appropriated on the one hand nor abdicated on the other. As this court said in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700,
 6 725, 'The preservation of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design
 7 and care of the Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government.
 8 The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States.' Every 9 journey to a forbidden end begins with the first step; and the danger of such a step by the federal government in 10 the direction of taking over the powers of the states is that the end of the journey may find the states so despoiled
 11 of their powers, or-what may amount to the same thing-so [298 U.S. 238, 296] relieved of the responsibilities
 12 which possession of the powers necessarily enjoins, as to reduce them to little more than geographical 13 subdivisions of the national domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under consideration, it
 14 had been thought that any such danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been ratified. "
 15 Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

16 Below are some examples of the operation of the above rules for sovereignty within the American system of government:

- 17 1. No federal law prescribes a duty upon a person who is a "national" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) but not a statutory "citizen"
- 18 under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or 8 U.S.C. §1152(a)(21). References to "nationals" within federal law are rare and every instance
- 19 where it is mentioned is in the context of duties and obligations of public servants, rather than the "national himself" or
- 20 herself. We will expand further upon this subject later in section 4.12.1 and following.
- 21 2. Natural persons who have not expressly and in writing contracted away their rights are "sovereign". Here is how the
- 22 U.S. Supreme Court describes it:

23 "There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter
 24 has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual
 25 may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own
 26 way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom,
 27 beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent
 28 to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with 29 the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his
 30 property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he
 31 does not trespass upon their rights."
 32 Hale v. Henkel, [201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

- 33 3. States of the Union and the Federal government are both immune from lawsuits against them by "nationals", except in
- 34 cases where they voluntarily consent by law. This is called "sovereign immunity". Read the Supreme Court case of
- 35 Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999) for exhaustive details on the constitutional basis for this immunity.
- 36 4. States of the Union are "foreign" with respect to the federal government for the purposes of legislative jurisdiction. In
- 37 federal law, they are called "foreign states" and they are described with the lower case word "states" within the U.S.
- 38 Code and in upper case "States" in the Constitution. Federal "States", which are actually territories of the United States
- 39 (see 4 U.S.C. §110(d)) are spelled in upper case in most federal statutes and codes. States of the Union are immune from
- 40 the jurisdiction of federal courts, except in cases where they voluntarily consent to be subject to the jurisdiction. The
- 41 federal government is immune from the jurisdiction of state courts and international bodies, except where it consents to
- 42 be sued as a matter of law. This is called "sovereign immunity".

43 Foreign States: "Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state.
 44 The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the 45 action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."
 46 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

47 Foreign Laws: "The laws of a foreign country or sister state. In conflicts of law, the legal principles of 48 jurisprudence which are part of the law of a sister state or nation. Foreign laws are additions to our own laws,
 49 and in that respect are called 'jus receptum'. "
 50 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 647]

- 51 5. The rules for surrendering sovereignty are described in the "Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act", which is codified in 28
- 52 U.S.C. §§1602-1611. A list of exceptions to the act in 28 U.S.C. §1605 define precisely what behaviors cause a sovereign
- 53 to surrender their sovereignty to a fellow sovereign.

54 The key point we wish to emphasize throughout this section is that a sovereign is legislatively (but not necessarily 55 constitutionally) "foreign" with respect to all other external (outside them within the onion diagram) sovereigns and therefore

56 not subject to their jurisdiction. In that respect, a sovereign is considered a "foreigner" of one kind or another in the laws of every sovereign external to it. For instance, state citizens who are a “national” (as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21)) but not a subject STATUTORY “citizen” (8 U.S.C. §1401) are classified as a statutory “non-resident non-persons” within the Internal Revenue Code. Only by lawfully occupying a public office do they acquire any civil status, to include “nonresident alien”. They are “alien” to the code because he is not subject to it and they are a “non-resident” because they do not maintain a domicile in the federal zone. This is no accident, but simply proof in the law itself that such a person is in deed and in fact a “sovereign” with respect to the government entity that serves him. Understanding this key point is the foundation for understanding the next chapter, where we will prove to you with the government’s own laws that most Americans born in and living within states of the Union, which are “foreign states” with respect to federal jurisdiction, are:

1. Statutory “non-resident non-persons” if they are not engaged in a public office.
2. “nonresident aliens” as defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) if they are engaged in a public office in the national government.
3. Not “persons” or “individuals” within federal civil law, including the Internal Revenue Code. You can’t be a “person” or an “individual” within federal law unless you either have a domicile within federal jurisdiction or contract with the federal government to procure an identity or “res” within their jurisdiction and thereby become a “res-ident”. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the rights of human beings are unalienable, which means they can’t be bargained or contracted away through any commercial process. Therefore, domicile is the only lawful source of jurisdiction over human beings.

“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of. . .”

Furthermore, the Bible says we can’t contract with “the Beast”, meaning the government and therefore, we have no delegated authority to give away our rights to the government:

“You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”
[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

4. Not “nonresident alien individuals”. You can’t be a “nonresident alien individual” without first being an “individual” and therefore a “person”. 26 U.S.C. §7701(c) defines the term “person” to include “individuals”. Instead, they are “nonresident alien NON-persons”.
5. “foreign” or “foreigners” with respect to federal jurisdiction. All of their property is classified as a “foreign estate” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31). In the Bible, this status is called a “stranger”:

“You shall neither mistreat a stranger nor oppress him, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.”
[Exodus 22:21, Bible, NKJV]

“And if a stranger dwells with you in your land, you shall not mistreat him.”
[Leviticus 19:33, Bible, NKJV]

6. Not “foreign persons”. You can’t be a “foreign person” without first being a “person”.
7. “nontaxpayers” if they do not earn any income from within the “federal zone” or that is connected with an excise taxable activity called a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as a public office in the United States government.
8. Not qualified to sit on a jury in a federal district court, because they are not statutory “citizens” under federal law.

Now do you understand why the Internal Revenue Code defines the term “foreign” as follows? They don’t want to spill the beans and inform you that you are sovereign and not subject to their jurisdiction! The definition of “foreign” in the Internal Revenue Code defines the term ONLY in the context of corporations, because the government only has civil statutory jurisdiction over PUBLIC statutory “persons” that they created and who are therefore engaged in a public office, of which federal corporations are a part:

26 U.S. Code § 7701 - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(3) Corporation

The term “corporation” includes associations, joint-stock companies, and insurance companies.

(4) Domestic

The term “domestic” when applied to a corporation or partnership means created or organized in the United States or under the law of the United States or of any State unless, in the case of a partnership, the Secretary provides otherwise by regulations.

(5) Foreign

The term “foreign” when applied to a corporation or partnership means a corporation or partnership which is not domestic.

The reason they defined "foreign" as they did above is that:

1. The “United States” government is a “foreign corporation” in respect to a state. Everything OUTSIDE that corporation is “foreign”.

“The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state.”
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §883 (2003)]

“Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution.”
[Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, 36 U.S. 420 (1837)]

TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) “United States” means -

(A) a Federal corporation;

(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

2. The only thing legally INSIDE the “United States” corporation as a legal person are public officers and federal instrumentalities such as OTHER federal corporations.
3. The government can only regulate or control that which it creates, and it didn’t create state corporations. Legislatively foreign states did that. State corporations are therefore OUTSIDE the “United States” corporation and foreign to it because not created by the United States government.
4. The power to tax is the power to create. They can’t tax what they didn't create, meaning they can't tax PRIVATE human beings. PRIVATE human beings are not statutory "persons" or "taxpayers" within the Internal Revenue Code UNLESS they are serving in public offices within the national and not state government. See:

Hierarchy of Sovereignty: The Power to Create is the Power to Tax, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/PowerToCreate.htm>

5. They know they only have jurisdiction over PUBLIC entities lawfully engaged in public offices WITHIN the government, all of which they CREATED by statute.

6. The term "United States" in statutes has TWO possible meanings in statutes such as the I.R.C.:
  - 6.1. The GEOGRAPHICAL "United States" consisting of Federal territory.
  - 6.2. The "United States" federal corporation 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A).
7. Most uses of "United States" within the I.R.C. rely on the SECOND definition above, including the term "sources within the United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3). That means a "source in the United States" really means an OFFICE or INSTRUMENTALITY within the United States federal corporation.
8. They want to promote false presumption about federal jurisdiction by making everyone falsely believe that they are a statutory "person" or "taxpayer" and therefore a public office in the national government. Acting as a "public officer" makes an otherwise private human being INTO a public office and therefore LEGALLY but not GEOGRAPHICALLY "within" the "United States" federal corporation.
9. They want to create and exploit "cognitive dissonance" by appealing to the aversion of the average American to being called a "foreigner" or "non-resident non-person" with respect to his own federal government.
10. They want to mislead and deceiving Americans into believing and declaring on government forms that they are statutory rather than constitutional "U.S. citizens" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 who are subject to their corrupt laws instead of "nationals" but not a "citizens" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21). The purpose is to compel you through constructive fraud to associate with and conduct "commerce" (intercourse/fornication) with "the Beast" as a statutory "U.S. citizen", who is a government whore. They do this by the following means:
  - 10.1. Using "words of art" to encourage false presumption.
  - 10.2. Using vague or ambiguous language that is not defined and using political propaganda instead of law to define the language.

Keep in mind the following with respect to a "foreigner" and the status of being a statutory "non-resident non-person" and therefore sovereign:

1. What makes you legislatively "foreign" in respect to a specific jurisdiction or venue is a foreign civil DOMICILE, not a foreign NATIONALITY.
2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) is the method of enforcing your foreign status, because it recognizes that those who are not domiciled on federal territory are beyond the civil statutory jurisdiction of the CIVIL court. This does NOT mean that you are beyond the jurisdiction of the COMMON law within that jurisdiction, but simply not beyond the civil STATUTORY control of that jurisdiction.
3. The only way an otherwise PRIVATE human being not domiciled on federal territory can be treated AS IF they are is if they are lawfully engaged in a public office within the national and not state government.
4. There is nothing wrong with being an "alien" in the tax code, as long as we aren't an alien with a "domicile" in the District of Columbia, which makes us into a "resident". The taxes described under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code are not upon "aliens", but instead mainly upon "residents", who are "aliens" with a legal domicile within federal exclusive jurisdiction. We cover this in section 5.4.19 of the Great IRS Hoax.
5. A "nonresident alien" is not an "alien" and therefore not a "taxpayer" in most cases. 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1141-1(c)(3)(i) both define an "alien" as "any person who is neither a citizen nor national of the United States". 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) defines a "nonresident alien" as "neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A))".
6. A "nonresident alien" who is also an "alien" may elect under 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(4\) to be treated as a "resident" by filing the wrong tax form, the 1040, instead of the more proper 1040NR form. Since that election is a voluntary act, then income taxes are voluntary for nonresident aliens.
7. A "nonresident alien" may not lawfully elect to become a "resident alien" or a "resident" pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(4\) unless married to a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h).
8. The only way that a "non-resident non-person" who is a "national" of the country can lawfully become domiciled in a place is if he or she or it physically moves to that place and then declares an intention to remain permanently and indefinitely. When the nonresident alien does this, it becomes a statutory citizen of that place, not a "resident alien".
9. Only "aliens" can have a "residence" within the Internal Revenue Code pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2. "nationals" of the country cannot lawfully be described as having a "residence" because that word is nowhere defined to include "nationals" or even "citizens" with a domicile or abode on federal territory.

This concept of being a "foreigner" or statutory "non-resident non-person" as a sovereign is also found in the Bible as well. Remember what Jesus said about being free?:

*"Ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free."
[John 8:32, Bible, NKJV]*

We would also add to the above that the Truth shall also make you a "non-resident non-person" under the civil statutory "codes"/franchises of your own country! Below are a few examples why:

*"Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you now know that friendship [and "citizenship"] with the world [or the governments of the world] is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend I "citizen" or "taxpayer" or "resident" or "inhabitant"] of the world makes himself an enemy of God."
[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]*

*"For our citizenship is in heaven [and not earth], from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ"
[Philippians 3:20, Bible, NKJV]*

*"I am a stranger in the earth; Do not hide Your commandments [laws] from me."
[Psalm 119:19, Bible, NKJV]*

*"I have become a stranger to my brothers, and an alien to my mother's children; because zeal for Your [God's] house has eaten me up, and the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me."
[Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV]*

It is one of the greatest ironies of law and government that the only way you can be free and sovereign is to be an "foreign person" or what the Bible calls a "stranger" of one kind or another within the law, and to understand the law well enough to be able to describe exactly what kind of "foreign person" you are and why, so that the government must respect your sovereignty and thereby leave you and your property alone.

"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

Olmstead v. United States, [277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

The very object of "justice" itself is to ensure that people are "left alone". The purpose of courts is to enforce the requirement to leave our fellow man alone and to only do to him/her what he/she expressly consents to and requests to be done:

PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly's translation), chap. 9.

"Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right." [Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

A person who is "sovereign" must be left alone as a matter of law. There are several examples of this important principle of sovereignty in operation in the Bible as well. For example:

Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from all other people's, and they do not keep the king's laws [are FOREIGN with respect to them and therefore sovereign]. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it into the king's treasuries." [Esther 3:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

In the Bible, when the Jews were being embarrassed and enslaved by surrounding heathen populations, they responded in the Book of Nehemiah by building a wall around their city and being self-contained and self-governing to the exclusion of the "aliens" and "foreigners" around them, who were not believers. This is their way of not only restoring self-government, but of also restoring God as their King and Sovereign, within what actually amounted to a "theocracy":

"The survivors [Christians] who are left from the captivity in the province are there in great distress and reproach. The wall [of separation between "church", which was the Jews, and "state", which was the heathens around them] of Jerusalem is also broken down, and its gates are burned with fire." [Neh. 1:3, Bible, NKJV]

Then I said to them, "You see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lies waste, and its gates are burned with fire. Come and let us build the wall of [of separation in] Jerusalem that we may no longer be a reproach." And I told them of the hand of my God which had been good upon me, and also of the king's words that he had spoken to me. So they said, "Let us rise up and build." Then they set their hands to this good work.

But when Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab heard of it, they laughed at us and despised us, and said, "What is this thing that you are doing? Will you rebel against the king?"

So I answered them, and said to them, "The God of heaven Himself will prosper us; therefore we His servants will arise and build [the wall of separation between church and state]..." [Neh. 3:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

The "wall" of separation between "church", which was the Jews, and "state", which was the surrounding unbelievers and governments, they were talking about above was not only a physical wall, but also a legal one as well! The Jews wanted to be "separate", and therefore "sovereign" over themselves, their families, and their government and not be subject to the surrounding heathens and nonbelievers around them. They selected Heaven as their "domicile" and God's laws as the basis for their self-government, which was a theocracy, and therefore became "strangers" on the earth who were hated by their neighbors. The Lord, in wanting us to be sanctified and "separate" as His "bride", is really insisting that we also be a "foreign

1 person” or “stranger” with respect to our unbelieving neighbors and the people within the heathen state that has territorial
2 jurisdiction where we physically live:

3 "Come out from among them the unbelievers and [government idolaters]
4 And be separate [“sovereign” and “foreign”], says the Lord.
5 Do not touch what is unclean [corrupted],
6 And I will receive you.
7 I will be a Father to you,
8 And you shall be my sons and daughters,
9 Says the Lord Almighty."
10 [2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

11 When we follow the above admonition of our Lord to become “sanctified” and therefore “separate”, then we will inevitably
12 be persecuted, just as Jesus warned, when He said:

13 "If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world would
14 love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates
15 you. Remember the word that I said to you, 'A servant is not greater than his master.' If they persecuted Me,
16 they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do
17 to you for My name's sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. If I had not come and spoken to 18 them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. He who hates me hated My father
19 also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they 20 have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is 21 *written in their law. 'They hated Me without a cause.'"
22 *[John 15:18-25, Bible]

23 The persecution will come precisely and mainly because we are sovereign and therefore refuse to be governed by any 24 authority except God and His sovereign Law. Now do you understand why Christians, more than perhaps any other faith,
25 have been persecuted and tortured by governments throughout history? The main reason for their relentless persecution is 26 that they are a threat to government power because they demand autonomy and self-government and do not yield their
27 sovereignty to any hostile (“foreign”) power or law other than God and His Holy law. This is the reason, for instance, why
28 the Roman Emperor Nero burned Christians and their houses when he set fire to Rome and why he made them part of the 29 barbaric gladiator spectacle: He positively hated anyone whose personal sovereignty would make his authority and power
30 basically irrelevant and moot and subservient to a sovereign God. He didn't like being answerable to anyone, and especially 31 not to an omnipotent and omnipresent God. He viewed God as a competitor for the affections and the worship of the 32 people. This is the very reason why we have "separation of church and state" today as part of our legal system: to prevent 33 this kind of tyranny from repeating itself. This same gladiator spectacle is also with us today in a slightly different form. It's 34 called an "income tax trial" in the federal church called "district court". Below are just a few examples of the persecution
35 suffered by Jews and Christians throughout history, drawn from the Bible and other sources, mainly because they attempted
36 to fulfill God's holy calling to be sanctified, separate, sovereign, a “foreign person”, and a “stranger” with respect to the laws,
37 taxes, and citizenship of surrounding heathen people and governments:

- 38 1. The last several years of the Apostle John's life were spent in exile on the Greek island of Patmos, where he was sent by 39 the Roman government because he was a threat to the power and influence of Roman civil authorities. During his stay
40 there, he wrote the book of Revelation, which was a cryptic, but direct assault upon government authority.
- 41 2. Every time Israel was judged in the Book of Judges, they came under “tribute” (taxation and therefore slavery) to a 42 tyrannical king.
- 43 3. Abraham's great struggles for liberty were against overreaching governments, Genesis 14, 20.
- 44 4. Isaac struggled against overreaching governments Gen 26.
- 45 5. Egyptian Pharaohs enslaved God's people, Ex. 1.
- 46 6. Joshua's battle was against 31 kings in Canaan.
- 47 7. Israel struggled against the occupation of foreign governments in the Book of Judges
- 48 8. David struggled against foreign occupation, 2 Samuel 8, 10
- 49 9. Zechariah lost his life in 2 Chronicles for speaking against a king.
- 50 10. Isaiah was executed by Manasseh.
- 51 11. Daniel was oppressed by Officials who accused him of breaking a Persian statutory law.
- 52 12. Jesus was executed by a foreign power Jn. 18ff.
- 53 13. Jesus was a victim of Israel's kangaroo court, the Sanhedrin.
- 54 14. The last 1/4 of the Book of Acts is about Paul's defense against fraudulent accusations.
- 55 15. The last 6 years of Paul's life was spent in and out prison defending himself against false accusations.

1 Taxation is the primary means of destroying the sovereignty of a person, family, church, city, state, or nation. Below is the
2 reason why, from a popular bible dictionary:

3 “TRIBUTE. Tribute in the sense of an impost paid by one state to another, as a mark of subjugation, is a common
4 feature of international relationships in the biblical world. The tributary could be either a hostile state or an ally.
5 Like deportation, its purpose was to weaken a hostile state. Deportation aimed at depleting the man-power. The 6 aim of tribute was probably twofold: to impoverish the subjugated state and at the same time to increase the 7 conqueror’s own revenues and to acquire commodities in short supply in his own country. As an instrument of 8 administration it was one of the simplest ever devised: the subjugated country could be made responsible for the 9 payment of a yearly tribute. Its non-arrival would be taken as a sign of rebellion, and an expedition would then 10 be sent to deal with the recalcitrant. This was probably the reason for the attack recorded in Gn. 14.
11 [New Bible Dictionary. Third Edition. Wood, D. R. W., Wood, D. R. W., & Marshall, I. H. 1996, c1982, c1962.
12 InterVarsity Press: Downers Grove]

13 If you want to stay “sovereign”, then you had better get used to the following:

- 14 1. Supporting yourself and governing your own families and churches, to the exclusion of any external sovereignty. This 15 will ensure that you never have to surrender any aspect of your sovereignty to procure needed help.
- 16 2. Learning and obeying God’s laws.
- 17 3. Being an “foreigner”, “stranger”, or civil statutory “non-resident non-person” in your own land.
- 18 4. Being persecuted by the people and governments around you because you insist on being “foreign” and “different” from 19 the rest of the “sheep” around you.

20 If you aren’t prepared to do the above and thereby literally “earn” the right to be free and “sovereign”, just as our founding
21 fathers did, then you are literally wasting your time to read further in this book. Doing so will make you into nothing more
22 than an informed coward. Earning liberty and sovereignty in this way is the essence of why America is called:

23 “The land of the free and the home of the brave.”

24 It takes courage to be brave enough to be different from all of your neighbors and all the other countries in the world, and to 25 take complete and exclusive responsibility for yourself and your loved ones. Below is what happened to the founding fathers
26 because they took this brave path in the founding of this country. Most did so based on the Christian principles mentioned
27 above. At the point when they committed to the cause, they renounced their British citizenship and because “aliens” with 28 respect to the British Government, just like you will have to do by becoming a “national” but not a “citizen” under federal 29 law:

30 And, for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we
31 mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our Sacred honor

32 Have you ever wondered what happened to the fifty-six men who signed the Declaration of Independence? This 33 is the price they paid:

34 Five signers were captured by the British as traitors, and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes
35 ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the revolutionary army, another had two sons captured. Nine of the 36 fifty-six fought and died from wounds or hardships resulting from the Revolutionary War.

37 These men signed, and they pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor!

38 What kind of men were they? Twenty five were lawyers or jurists. Eleven were merchants. Nine were farmers or 39 large plantation owners. One was a teacher, one a musician, one a printer. Two were manufacturers, one was a
40 minister. These were men of means and education, yet they signed the Declaration of Independence, knowing full 41 well that the penalty could be death if they were captured.

42 Almost one third were under forty years old, eighteen were in their thirties, and three were in their twenties. Only
43 seven were over sixty. The youngest, Edward Rutledge of South Carolina, was twenty-six and a half, and the 44 oldest, Benjamin Franklin, was seventy. Three of the signers lived to be over ninety. Charles Carroll died at the 45 age of ninety-five. Ten died in their eighties.

46 The first signer to die was John Morton of Pennsylvania. At first his sympathies were with the British, but he
47 changed his mind and voted for independence. By doing so, his friends, relatives, and neighbors turned against 48 him. The ostracism hastened his death, and he lived only eight months after the signing. His last words were, "tell
49 them that they will live to see the hour when they shall acknowledge it to have been the most glorious service that 50 I ever rendered to my country."

1 Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy.
2 He sold his home and properties to pay his debts, and died in rags.

3 Thomas McKeam was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He
4 served in the Congress without pay, and his family was kept in hiding. His possessions were taken from him, and 5 poverty was his reward.

6 The signers were religious men, all being Protestant except Charles Carroll, who was a Roman Catholic. Over
7 half expressed their religious faith as being Episcopalian. Others were Congregational, Presbyterian, Quaker,
8 and Baptist.

9 Vandals or soldiers or both, looted the properties of Ellery, Clymer, Hall, Walton, Gwinnett, Heyward, Rutledge,
10 and Middleton.

11 Perhaps one of the most inspiring examples of "undaunted resolution" was at the Battle of Yorktown. Thomas
12 Nelson, Jr. was returning from Philadelphia to become Governor of Virginia and joined General Washington just 13 outside of Yorktown. He then noted that British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his 14 headquarters, but that the patriots were directing their artillery fire all over the town except for the vicinity of his 15 own beautiful home. Nelson asked why they were not firing in that direction, and the soldiers replied, "Out of 16 respect to you, Sir." Nelson quietly urged General Washington to open fire, and stepping forward to the nearest 17 cannon, aimed at his own house and fired. The other guns joined in, and the Nelson home was destroyed. Nelson 18 died bankrupt, at age 51.

19 Caesar Rodney was another signer who paid with his life. He was suffering from facial cancer, but left his sickbed
20 at midnight and rode all night by horseback through a severe storm and arrived just in time to cast the deciding 21 vote for his delegation in favor of independence. His doctor told him the only treatment that could help him was 22 in Europe. He refused to go at this time of his country's crisis and it cost him his life.

23 Francis Lewis's Long Island home was looted and gutted, his home and properties destroyed. His wife was thrown 24 into a damp dark prison cell for two months without a bed. Health ruined, Mrs. Lewis soon died from the effects
25 of the confinement. The Lewis's son would later die in British captivity, also.

26 "Honest John" Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she lay dying, when British and Hessian troops invaded
27 New Jersey just months after he signed the Declaration. Their thirteen children fled for their lives. His fields and 28 his grist mill were laid to waste. All winter, and for more than a year, Hart lived in forests and caves, finally 29 returning home to find his wife dead, his children vanished and his farm destroyed. Rebuilding proved too be too
30 great a task. A few weeks later, by the spring of 1779, John Hart was dead from exhaustion and a broken heart.

31 Norris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

32 Richard Stockton, a New Jersey State Supreme Court Justice, had rushed back to his estate near Princeton after 33 signing the Declaration of Independence to find that his wife and children were living like refugees with friends.
34 They had been betrayed by a Tory sympathizer who also revealed Stockton's own whereabouts. British troops
35 pulled him from his bed one night, beat him and threw him in jail where he almost starved to death. When he was 36 finally released, he went home to find his estate had been looted, his possessions burned, and his horses stolen.
37 Judge Stockton had been so badly treated in prison that his health was ruined and he died before the war's end,
38 a broken man. His surviving family had to live the remainder of their lives off charity.

39 William Ellery of Rhode Island, who marveled that he had seen only "undaunted resolution" in the faces of his 40 co-signers, also had his home burned.

41 When we are following the Lord's calling to be sovereign, separate, "foreign", and "alien" with respect to a corrupted state
42 and our heathen neighbors, below is how we can describe ourselves from a legal perspective:

- 43 1. We are fiduciaries of God, who is a "nontaxpayer", and therefore we are "nontaxpayers". Our legal status takes on the 44 character of the sovereign who we represent. Therefore, we become "foreign diplomats".

45 "For God is the King of all the earth: Sing praises with understanding."
46 [Psalm 47:7, Bible, NKJV]

47
48 "[For the LORD is our Judge, the LORD is our Lawgiver, the LORD is our King; He will save \[and protect\] us.](#)"
49 [Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

- 50 2. The laws which apply to all civil litigation relating to us are from the domicile of the Heavenly sovereign we represent,
51 which are the Holy Bible pursuant to:

2.1. God's Laws found in the following memorandum of law:

[Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm](http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm)

2.2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\)

2.3. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 44.1

3. Our "domicile" is the Kingdom of God on Earth, and not within the jurisdiction of any man-made government. We can have a domicile on earth and yet not be in the jurisdiction of any government because the Bible says that God, and not man, owns the WHOLE earth and all of Creation. We are therefore "transient foreigners" and "stateless persons" in respect to every man-made government on earth. Click here for details.

*"Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]*

4. We are "non-resident non-persons" under federal statutory civil law.

5. We are CONSTITUTIONAL but not STATUTORY "citizens" and "nationals" but not "citizens" under federal statutory civil law. The reason this must be so is that a statutory "citizens of the United States" (who are born anywhere in America and domiciled within exclusive federal jurisdiction under 8 U.S.C. §1401) may not be classified as an instrumentality of a foreign state under 28 U.S.C. §1332\(c\) and (d) and 28 U.S.C. §1603\(b\). See our article entitled "Why You are a 'national', 'state national', and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen" for further details and evidence.

6. We are not and cannot be "residents" of any earthly jurisdiction without having a conflict of interest and violating the first four Commandments of the Ten Commandments found in Exodus 20. Heaven is our exclusive legal "domicile", and our "permanent place of abode", and the source of ALL of our permanent protection and security. We cannot and should not rely upon man's vain earthly laws as an idolatrous substitute for Gods sovereign laws found in the Bible. Instead, only God's laws and the Common law, which is derived from God's law, are suitable protection for our God-given rights.

*"For I was ashamed to request of the king an escort of soldiers and horsemen to help us against the enemy on the road, because we had spoken to the king, saying 'The hand of our God is upon all those for good who seek Him, but His power and His wrath are against all those who forsake Him.' So we fasted and entreated our God for this, and He answered our prayer."
[Ezra 8:21-22, Bible, NKJV]*

7. We are Princes (sons and daughters) of the only true King and Sovereign of this world, who is God.

*"You [Jesus] are worthy to take the scroll,
And to open its seals;
For You were slain,
And have redeemed us to God by Your blood
Out of every tribe and tongue and people and nation,
And have made us kings and priests to our God;
And we shall reign on the earth."
[Rev. 5:9-10, Bible, NKJV]*

And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, "What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings [governments] of the earth [lawfully] take customs or taxes, from their sons [citizens and subjects] or from strangers [statutory "aliens", which are synonymous with "residents" in the tax code, and exclude "citizens"]?"

Peter said to Him, "From strangers [statutory "aliens"]/"residents" ONLY. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)L."

*Jesus said to him, "Then the sons [of the King, Constitutional but not statutory "citizens" of the Republic, who are all sovereign "nationals" and "nonresidents"] are free [sovereign over their own person and labor. e.g. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY]."
[Matt. 17:24-27, Bible, NKJV]*

8. We are "Foreign Ambassadors" and "Ministers of a Foreign State" called Heaven. The U.S. Supreme Court said in U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark below that "ministers of a foreign state" may not be statutory "citizens of the United States" under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. Furthermore, the Fourteenth Amendment was intended exclusively for freed slaves and not sovereign Americans such as us.

1 "For our citizenship is in heaven [and not earth], from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus
 2 Christ"
 3 [Philippians 3:20, Bible, NKJV]

5 "And Mr. Justice Miller, delivering the opinion of the court [legislating from the bench, in this case], in analyzing 6 the first clause [of the Fourteenth Amendment], observed that "the phrase 'subject to the jurisdiction thereof'
 7 was intended to exclude from its operation children of ministers, consuls, and citizens or subjects of foreign
 8 states, born within the United States."
 9 [U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649, 18 S.Ct. 456, 42 L.Ed. 890 (1898) ]

- 10 9. Our dwelling, which is a "temporary and not permanent place of abode", is a "Foreign Embassy". Notice we didn't say 11 "residence", because only "residents" (aliens) can have a "residence" under 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2(b).
 12 10. We are protected from federal government persecution by 18 U.S.C. §112 and the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act of
 13 1976.
 14 11. We are a "stateless person" within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §1332\(a\) immune from the jurisdiction of the federal courts,
 15 which are all Article IV, legislative, territorial courts. We are "stateless" because we do not maintain a domicile within 16 the "state" defined in 28 U.S.C. §1332\(d\), which is a federal territory and excludes states of the Union.
 17 12. We are not allowed under God's law to conduct "commerce" or "intercourse" with "the Beast" by sending to it our money
 18 or receiving benefits we did not earn. Black's law dictionary defines "commerce" as "intercourse". The Bible defines 19 "the Beast" as the "kings of the earth"/political rulers in Rev. 19:19:

20 "Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or 21 inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the
 22 instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it
 23 is carried on..."
 24 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

26 "Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot [the atheist totalitarian democracy] who sits on many
 27 waters [which are described as seas and multitudes of people in Rev. 17:15], with whom the kings of the earth
 28 [political rulers of today] committed fornication [intercourse], and the inhabitants of the earth were made
 29 drunk with the wine of her fornication [intercourse, usurious and harmful commerce]."

30 So he carried me away in the Spirit into the wilderness. And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was 31 full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet,
 32 and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and
 33 the filthiness of her fornication [intercourse]. And on her forehead a name was written: MYSTERY, BABYLON
 34 THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

35 I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw 36 her, I marveled with great amazement."
 37 [Rev. 17:1-6, Bible, NKJV]

39 "And I saw the beast, the kings [heathen political rulers and the unbelieving democratic majorities who control
 40 them] of the earth [controlled by Satan], and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him [God]
 41 who sat on the horse and against His army."
 42 [Revelation 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

44 The Bible calls this kind of commerce "fornication" and "adultery" and describes the fornicator called "Babylon the Great 45 Harlot" basically as a democracy instead of a Republic in Revelation, Chapters 17 to 19. This is consistent with the 46 Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act found in 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\), which says that those who conduct "commerce" with 47 the "United States" federal corporation within its legislative jurisdiction thereby surrender their sovereignty.
 48 Participation in our corrupted tax system also fits the classification of "commerce" within the meaning of this
 49 requirement. See the link below for details:

4.4.8 The purpose of income taxes: government protection of the assets of the wealthy

Since those Americans who have accumulated great wealth benefit more from government than those who have little, it is logical to assume that the wealthy should pay more for government than the poor as the former enjoy a greater benefit. It is the “no free lunch” principle:

“Mr. COX. It is not my intention to belittle wealth, but, on the other hand, I believe it should be the duty of all to uphold it where it is honestly procured. The idea that men like Carnegie, now the holder of more than $300,000,000 worth of the bonds of the United States steel trust, escape federal taxation is indeed absurd...and then, to realize that all of these enormous fortunes are escaping their just and proportionate share of taxation while the people themselves are staggering under our present system of indirect taxation, it is no wonder to me they cry for relief. If it be the determination of the so-called ‘business interests’ in this country to maintain an enormous navy at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars annually, as well as an army, to protect and defend their various business interests, I insist that this part of the wealth of the country ought to stand its proportionate share of taxation, and I know of no way to compel them to do it as justly and equitably as an income tax. [Loud applause]”

If you give it some thought, you’ll realize that it would be impossible to accumulate a lot of wealth if it were not for the institution of civil government. What if we lived in anarchy? How much would your stocks and bonds be worth? How much would your vacation home be worth that was hundreds of miles away from where you live? These things would be worth nothing. And what about your overseas investments in oil wells in Africa? If there were no United States navy, air force, or army to protect them, these investments would be worthless too.

So those corporations or businesses that have accumulated a level of wealth beyond what they can personally protect have received an extra benefit from civil government. In this case, the amount of benefit can be measured by the amount of property that has been accumulated. A tax on the income of this property could fairly accurately coincide with the degree of the benefit received. This was the original purpose of the income tax: to tax income from property of corporations and businesses so that the property paid for the support of the government is in proportion to the benefit of property received from the existence of civil government. Sounds reasonable to us:

“Taxation is the equivalent for the protection which the government affords to the persons and property of its citizens; and as all are alike protected, so all alike should bear the burden, in proportion to the interests secured. [Cooley’s Constitutional Limitations, 6th ed., 598, 607, 608, 615.]” [Rehearing, Brief for Appellants at 79, Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601 (1895)]

There is also an element of charity inherent in an income tax system that seeks to make property pay for the support of government. The charity involves property that is not productive and not producing income. This would be the family farm that was inherited by beneficiaries who were unable to work it for whatever reason. The farm would pay no income tax as it earned no income, thus allowing the new owners to keep the farm and not lose it to the tax man as they might under a direct tax.

Because the Constitution has always authorized an indirect, unapportioned income tax on corporations involved in foreign and interstate trade under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3, the means has always been available for the federal government to institute income taxes, with or without the Sixteenth Amendment. If you read the Congressional debates on the Sixteenth Amendment in 1909, you will find that the Sixteenth Amendment was originally introduced by Congress to make the “rich” pay their fair share of the cost of supporting the government. In most cases, the “rich” referred to were the large corporations and trusts that had formed as a result of the gigantic industrial monopolies in the oil, steel, and railroad businesses. The Democrats appealed to people’s jealousies by proposing to institute an income tax on the very rich owners of these trusts and corporations through a direct, unapportioned tax on property while the Republicans proposed higher indirect excise taxes in the Corporate Tax Act of 1909 to appease the Democrats. That Corporate Tax Act of 1909 wasn’t enough to appease the Democrats and the American people so the Sixteenth Amendment was proposed as a solution. Several versions of the Sixteenth Amendment were proposed during the Congressional debates in 1909, including a direct, unapportioned income tax. However, the version that included direct, unapportioned taxes was soundly defeated and the version we have today which survived, according to several rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, continues to be an indirect excise tax on federal corporations only. The Sixteenth Amendment, as a matter of fact, conferred no new powers of taxation, according to the Supreme Court in Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916) . See the following for additional details on the nature of the income tax as an indirect excise tax:

4.4.9 Why all man-made law is religious in nature

A fascinating book on the subject of Biblical Law entitled The Institutes of Biblical Law by Rousas John Rushdoony irrefutably establishes that all law is religious, and that it represents a covenant between man and God which is characterized as divine revelation. When we consider that government is founded exclusively on law, government itself then becomes a religion to implement or execute or enforce divine revelation. When government abuses the authority delegated by God through God's law, then it also becomes a false religious cult. This exposition will set the stage for section 4.4.13 later, which establishes that our present day government is nothing but a cult surrounding the false religion it created with its own unjust law because this law has become a vain substitute and an affront to God's Law found in the Bible. Here are some very insightful quotes from pp. 4-5 of that wonderful book:

Law is in every culture religious in origin. Because law governs man and society, because it establishes and declares the meaning of justice and righteousness, law is inescapably religious, in that it establishes in practical fashion the ultimate concerns of a culture. Accordingly, a fundamental and necessary premise in any and every study of law must be, first, a recognition of this religious nature of law.

Second, it must be recognized that in any culture the source of law is the god of that society. If law has its source in man's reason, then reason is the god of that society. If the source is an oligarchy, or in a court, senate, or ruler, then that source is the god of that system. Thus, in Greek culture law was essentially a religiously humanistic concept,

In contrast to every law derived from revelation, nomos for the Greeks originated in the mind (nous). So the genuine nomos is no mere obligatory law, but something in which an entity valid in itself is discovered and appropriated...It is "the order which exists (from time immemorial), is valid and is put into operation."<sup>99</sup>

Because for the Greeks mind was one being with the ultimate order of things, man's mind was thus able to discover ultimate law (nomos) out of its own resources, by penetrating through the maze of accident and matter to the fundamental ideas of being. As a result, Greek culture became both humanistic, because man's mind was one with ultimacy, and also neoplatonic, ascetic, and hostile to the world of matter, because mind, to be truly itself, had to separate itself from non-mind.

Modern humanism, the religion of the state, locates law in the state and thus makes the state, or the people as they find expression in the state, the god of the system. As Mao Tse-Tung has said, "Our God is none other than the masses of the Chinese people."<sup>100</sup> In Western culture, law has steadily moved away from God to the people (or the state) as its source, although the historic power and vitality of the West has been in Biblical faith and law.

Third, in any society, any change of law is an explicit or implicit change of religion. Nothing more clearly reveals, in fact, the religious change in a society than a legal revolution. When the legal foundations shift from Biblical law to humanism, it means that the society now draws its vitality and power from humanism, not from Christian theism.

Fourth, no disestablishment of religion as such is possible in any society. A church can be disestablished, and a particular religion can be supplanted by another, but the change is simply to another religion. Since the foundations of law are inescapably religious, no society exists without a religious foundation or without a law-system which codifies the morality of its religion.

Fifth, there can be no tolerance in a law-system for another religion. Toleration is a device used to introduce a new law-system as a prelude to a new intolerance. Legal positivism, a humanistic faith, has been savage in its hostility to the Biblical law-system and has claimed to be an "open" system. But Cohen, by no means a Christian, has aptly described the logical positivists as "nihilists" and their faith as "nihilistic absolutism."<sup>101</sup> Every law-system must maintain its existence by hostility to every other law-system and to alien religious foundations or else it commits suicide.

In analyzing now the nature of Biblical law, it is important to note first that, for the Bible, law is revelation. The Hebrew word for law is torah which means instruction, authoritative direction.<sup>102</sup> The Biblical concept of law is broader than the legal codes of the Mosaic formulation. It applies to the divine word and instruction in its totality:

1 ...the earlier prophets also use torah for the divine word proclaimed through them (Is. viii.
2 16, cf. also v. 20; Isa. xxx. 9 f.; perhaps also Isa. i. 10). Besides this, certain passages in 3 the earlier prophets use the word torah also for the commandment of Yahweh which was
4 written down: thus Hos. viii. 12. Moreover there are clearly examples not only of ritual
5 matters, but also of ethics.

6 Hence it follows that at any rate in this period torah had the meaning of a divine instruction,
7 whether it had been written down long ago as a law and was preserved and pronounced
8 by a priest, or whether the priest was delivering it at that time (Lam. ii. 9; Ezek. vii. 26;
9 Mal. ii. 4 ff.), or the prophet is commissioned by God to pronounce it for a definite situation
10 (so perhaps Isa. xxx. 9).

11 Thus what is objectively essential in torah is not the form but the divine authority.<sup>103</sup>

12 The law is the revelation of God and His righteousness. There is no ground in Scripture for despising the law.
13 Neither can the law be relegated to the Old Testament and grace to the New:

14 The time-honored distinction between the OT as a book of law and the NT as a book of 15 divine grace is without grounds or justification. Divine grace and mercy are the 16 presupposition of law in the OT; and the grace and love of God displayed in the NT events
17 issue in the legal obligations of the New Covenant. Furthermore, the OT contains evidence 18 of a long history of legal developments which must be assessed before the place of law is 19 adequately understood. Paul's polemics against the law in Galatians and Romans are 20 directed against an understanding of law which is by no means characteristic of the OT as 21 a whole.<sup>104</sup>

22 There is no contradiction between law and grace. The question in James's Epistle is faith and works, not faith and 23 law.<sup>105</sup> Judaism had made law the mediator between God and man, and between God and the world. It was this
24 view of law, not the law itself, which Jesus attacked. As Himself the Mediator, Jesus rejected the law as mediator
25 in order to re-establish the law in its God-appointed role as law, the way of holiness. He established the law by 26 dispensing forgiveness as the law-giver in full support of the law as the convicting word which makes men
27 sinners.<sup>106</sup> The law was rejected only as mediator and as the source of justification.<sup>107</sup> Jesus fully recognized the 28 law, and obeyed the law. It was only the absurd interpretations of the law He rejected. Moreover,

29 We are not entitled to gather from the teaching of Jesus in the Gospels that He made any 30 formal distinction between the Law of Moses and the Law of God. His mission being not 31 to destroy but to fulfil the Law and the Prophets (Mt. 5:17), so far from saying anything in 32 disparagement of the Law of Moses or from encouraging His disciples to assume an 33 attitude of independence with regard to it, He expressly recognized the authority of the 34 Law of Moses as such, and of the Pharisees as its official interpreters. (Mt. 23:1-3).<sup>108</sup>

35 With the completion of Christ's work, the role of the Pharisees as interpreters ended, but not the authority of the 36 Law. In the New Testament era, only apostolically received revelation was ground for any alteration in the law.
37 The authority of the law remained unchanged.

38 St. Peter, e.g. required a special revelation before he would enter the house of the 39 uncircumcised Cornelius and admit the first Gentile convert into the Church by baptism 40 (acts 10:1-48) --a step which did not fail to arouse opposition on the part of those who
41 "were of the circumcision" (cf. 11:1-18).<sup>109</sup>

42 The second characteristic of Biblical law is that it is a treaty or covenant. Kline has shown that the form of the 43 giving of the law, the language of the text, the historical prologue, the requirement of imprecations and 44 benedictions, and much more, all point to the fact that the law is a treaty established by God with His people.
45 Indeed, "the revelation committed to the two tables was rather a suzerainty treaty or covenant than a legal

code.<sup>110</sup> The full covenant summary, the Ten Commandments, was inscribed on each of the two tables of stone, one table or copy of the treaty for each party in the treaty, God and Israel.<sup>111</sup>

The two stone tables are not, therefore, to be likened to a stele containing one of the half-dozen or so known legal codes earlier than or roughly contemporary with Moses as though God had engraved on these tables a corpus of law. The revelation they contain is nothing less than an epitome of the covenant granted by Yahweh, the sovereign Lord of heaven and earth, to his elect and redeemed servant, Israel.

Not law, but covenant. That must be affirmed when we are seeking a category comprehensive enough to do justice to this revelation in its totality. At the same time, the prominence of the stipulations, reflect in the fact that "the ten words" are the element used as pars pro toto, signifies the centrality of law in this type of covenant. There is probably no clearer direction afforded the biblical theologian for defining with biblical emphasis the type of covenant God adopted to formalize his relationship to his people than that given in the covenant he gave Israel to perform, even "the ten commandments." Such a covenant is a declaration of God's lordship, consecrating a people to himself in a sovereignly dictated order of life.<sup>112</sup>

This latter phrase needs re-emphasis: the covenant is "a sovereignly dictated order of life." God as the sovereign Lord and Creator gives His law to man as an act of sovereign grace. It is an act of election, of electing grace (Deut. 7:7 f.; 8:17; 9:4-6, etc.).

The God to whom the earth belongs will have Israel for His own property, Ex. xix. 5. It is only on the ground of the gracious election and guidance of God that the divine commands to the people are given, and therefore the Decalogue, Ex. xx. 2, places at its forefront the fact of election.<sup>113</sup>

In the law, the total life of man is ordered: "there is no primary distinction between the inner and the outer life; the holy calling of the people must be realized in both."<sup>114</sup>

The third characteristic of the Biblical law or covenant is that it constitutes a plan for dominion under God. God called Adam to exercise dominion in terms of God's revelation, God's law (Gen. 1:26 ff.; 2:15-17). This same calling, after the fall, was required of the godly line, and in Noah it was formally renewed (Gen. 9:1-17). It was again renewed with Abraham, with Jacob, with Israel in the person of Moses, with Joshua, David, Solomon (whose Proverbs echo the law), with Hezekiah and Josiah, and finally with Jesus Christ. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper is the renewal of the covenant: "this is my blood of the new testament" (or covenant), so that the sacrament itself re-establishes the law, this time with a new elect group (Matt. 26:28; Mark 14:24; Luke 22:20; 1 Cor. 11:25). The people of the law are now the people of Christ, the believers redeemed by His atoning blood and called by His sovereign election. Kline, in analyzing Hebrews 9:16, 17, in relation to the covenant administration, observes:

...the picture suggested would be that of Christ's children (cf. 2:13) inheriting his universal dominion as their eternal portion (note 9:15b; cf. also 1:14; 2:5 ff.; 6:17; 11:7 ff.). And such is the wonder of the messianic Mediator-Testator that the royal inheritance of his sons, which becomes of force only through his death, is nevertheless one of co-regency with the living Testator! For (to follow the typographical direction provided by Heb. 9:16,17 according to the present interpretation) Jesus is both dying Moses and succeeding Joshua. Not merely after a figure but in truth a royal Mediator redivivus, he secures the divine dynasty by succeeding himself in resurrection power and ascension glory.<sup>115</sup>

The purpose of God in requiring Adam to exercise dominion over the earth remains His continuing covenant word: man, created in God's image and commanded to subdue the earth and exercise dominion over it in God's name, is recalled to this task and privilege by his redemption and regeneration.

1 The law is therefore the law for Christian man and Christian society. Nothing is more deadly or more derelict
2 than the notion that the Christian is at liberty with respect to the kind of law he can have. Calvin whose classical
3 humanism gained ascendancy at this point, said of the laws of states, of civil governments:

4 I will briefly remark, however, by the way, what laws it (the state) may piously use before
5 God, and be rightly governed by among men. And even this I would have preferred passing
6 over in silence, if I did not know that it is a point on which many persons run into dangerous
7 errors. For some deny that a state is well constituted, which neglects the polity of Moses,
8 and is governed by the common laws of nations. The dangerous and seditious nature of 9 this opinion I leave to the examination of others; it will be sufficient for me to have evinced
10 it to be false and foolish.<sup>116</sup>

11 Such ideas, common in Calvinist and Lutheran circles, and in virtually all churches, are still heretical nonsense.<sup>117</sup>
12 Calvin favored "the common law of nations." But the common law of nations in his day was Biblical law, although 13 extensively denatured by Roman law. And this "common law of nations" was increasingly evidencing a new 14 religion, humanism. Calvin wanted the establishment of the Christian religion; he could not have it, nor could it
15 last long in Geneva, without Biblical law.

16 Two Reformed scholars, in writing of the state, declare, "It is to be God's servant, for our welfare. It must exercise
17 justice, and it has the power of the sword."<sup>118</sup> Yet these men follow Calvin in rejecting Biblical law for "the 18 common law of nations." But can the state be God's servant and by-pass God's law? And if the state "must exercise
19 justice," how is justice defined, by the nations, or by God? There are as many ideas of justice as there are 20 religions.

21 The question then is, what law is for the state? Shall it be positive law, after calling for "justice" in the state,
22 declare, "A static legislation valid for all times is an impossibility." Indeed!<sup>119</sup> Then what about the 23 commandment, Biblical legislation, if you please, "Thou shalt not kill," and "Thou shalt not steal"? Are they not
24 intended to valid for all time and in every civil order? By abandoning Biblical law, these Protestant theologians
25 end up in moral and legal relativism.

26 Roman Catholic scholars offer natural law. The origins of this concept are in Roman law and religion. For the 27 Bible, there is no law in nature, because nature is fallen and cannot be normative. Moreover the source of law is 28 not nature but God. There is no law in nature but a law over nature, God's law.<sup>120</sup>

29 Neither positive law [man's law] nor natural law can reflect more than the sin and apostasy of man: revealed
30 law [e.g. ONLY THE BIBLE] is the need and privilege of Christian society. It is the only means whereby man
31 can fulfill his creation mandate of exercising dominion under God. Apart from revealed law [the BIBLE!],
32 man cannot claim to be under God but only in rebellion against God.

35 To summarize the findings of this section:

- 36 1. The purpose of law is to describe and codify the morality of a culture. Since only religion can define morality, then all 37 law is religious in origin.
- 38 2. In any culture, the source of law becomes the god of that society. If law is based on Biblical law, then the God of that 39 society is the true God. If it becomes the judges or the rulers, who are at war with God, then these rulers become the god 40 of that society.
- 41 3. In any society, any change of law is an explicit or implicit change of religion.
- 42 4. The disestablishment of religion in any society is an impossibility, because all civilizations are based on law and law is 43 religious in nature.

5. There can be no tolerance in a law system for another religion. All religious systems eventually seek to destroy their competition for the sake of self-preservation. Consequently, governments tend eventually to try to control or eliminate religions in order to preserve and expand their power.
6. The laws of our society must derive from Biblical law. Any other result leads to “humanism”, apostasy, and mutiny against God, who is our only King and our Lawgiver.
7. Humanism is the worship of the “state”, which is simply a collection of people under a democratic form of government. By “worship”, we mean obedience to the dictates and mandates of the collective majority. The United States is NOT a democracy, it is a Republic based on individual rights and sovereignty, NOT collective sovereignty.
8. The consequence of humanism is moral relativism and disobedience to God’s laws, which is sin and apostasy and leads to separation from God.

4.4.10 The Unlimited Liability Universe

*“The hand of the diligent will rule,
But the lazy [or irresponsible] man will be put to forced labor.”
[Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]*

In the previous section, we showed how the shift in our culture away from Biblical law has taken us down the path to “humanism”, which turns the “state” or government into a religion and a law system that eventually focuses itself on eradicating all other competing religions and law-systems in the society in order to ensure its own survival. Humanism is the worship of the “state” and it is the essence of socialism. Recall that a “state” is simply a collection of people within a political jurisdiction.

*“State. A people permanently occupying a fixed territory bound together by common-law habits and custom into one body politic exercising, through the medium of an organized government, independent sovereignty and control over all persons and things within its boundaries, capable of making war and peace and of entering into international relations with other communities of the globe. United States v. Kusche, D.C.Cal., 56 F.Supp. 201 207, 208. The organization of social life which exercises sovereign power in behalf of the people. Delany v. Moralitis, C.C.A.Md., 136 F.2d. 129, 130. In its largest sense, a “state” is a body politic or a society of men. Beagle v. Motor Vehicle Acc. Indemnification Corp., 44 Misc.2d. 636, 254 N.Y.S.2d. 763, 765. A body of people occupying a definite territory and politically organized under one government. State ex re. Maisano v. Mitchell, 155 Conn. 256, 231 A.2d. 539, 542. A territorial unit with a distinct general body of law. Restatement, Second, Conflicts, §3. Term may refer either to body politic of a nation (e.g. United States) or to an individual government unit of such nation (e.g. California).”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1407]*

We will build on that theme in this section to show how the inexorable growth of the power and influence of the state and of humanism is perpetrated in our culture. Much of the content of this section derives once again from the excellent book Biblical Institutes of Law by Rousas Rushdoony, 1972, pp. 664-669. The premise of this section is that the growth of humanism, socialism, and collectivism requires the government to exploit the weaknesses of the people. Thomas Jefferson warned us about this tendency of government, when he said:

*“In every government on earth is some trace of human weakness, some germ of corruption and degeneracy, which cunning will discover, and wickedness insensibly open, cultivate and improve.”
[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIV, 1782. ME 2:207]*

The chief weakness that covetous governments have learned to exploit in order to expand their power is to appeal to people’s sinful need to avoid responsibility of all kinds and to thereby evade the consequence of their sinful, lazy, apathetic, and ignorant actions. People by nature are lazy and will always take the path of least resistance. They will often pay any price to evade responsibility for themselves and their actions, including giving up all their rights. In legal terms, the government therefore expands its power by:

1. Writing laws and creating programs that insulate people from responsibility for their actions and themselves.
2. Calling those who receive the benefit of these laws “privileged”
3. Instituting a tax on the “privileged” activities.
4. Persecuting those who speak out about the above types of exploitation.

The above process begins with biblical SIN. The Bible forbids offering oneself, and by implication offering the government or anyone participating in government, as surety for the actions of others.

Dangerous Promises

1                   "My son, if you become surety for your friend, If you have shaken hands in pledge for [or made a promise or
 2 guarantee to] a stranger, You are snared by the words of your mouth; You are taken by the words of your
 3 mouth. So do this, my son, and deliver yourself; For you have come into the hand of your friend: Go and humble
 4 yourself; Plead with your friend. Give no sleep to your eyes, Nor slumber to your eyelids. Deliver yourself like a
 5 gazelle from the hand of the hunter, And like a bird from the hand of the fowler."
 6 [Prov. 6:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

 8                   "surety. One who at the request of another, and for the purpose of securing to him a benefit, becomes responsible
 9 for the performance by the latter of some act in favor of a third person, or hypothecates property as security
 10 therefore. One who undertakes to pay money or to do any other act in event that his principal fails therein. A 11 person who is primarily liable for payment of debt or performance of obligation of another."
 12 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1441]

13                   "A man devoid of understanding shakes hands in a pledge, and becomes surety for his friend."
 14 [Proverbs 17:18, Bible, NKJV]

15                   "He who is surety for a stranger will suffer, but one who hates being surety is secure."
 16 [Prov. 11:15, NKJV]

17 In effect, the government is making a profitable business or franchise out of offering surety, and we call this business "social 18 insurance". It is the same type of insurance that the serpent offered Eve in the Garden of Eden. Unfortunately, they are not
 19 offering themselves, that is public servants, as the surety, but SOMEONE ELSE. Namely, YOU if you are a "taxpayer". In 20 effect, the government "wolf" takes over the public fool (school) system, regulates the media, and coerces apathetic and 21 cowardly employers everywhere into helping them manufacture "sheep" and ignorant people to volunteer to become "surety"
 22 for all of the non-producers and government dependents in the society.

23                   "Most assuredly, I say to you, he who does not enter the sheepfold by the door, but climbs up some other way
 24 [using the Federal Reserve, the IRS, the media, and taking over the public schools], the same is a thief and a 25 robber."
 26 [Jesus in John 10:1, Bible, NKJV]

27                   "If you make yourselves sheep, the wolves will eat you."
 28 [Benjamin Franklin]

29                   "A democracy is a sheep and two wolves deciding on what to have for lunch. Freedom is a well armed sheep 30 contesting the results of the decision."
 31 [Benjamin Franklin]

32                   "It is the duty of a good shepherd to shear his sheep, not to skin them."
 33 [Tiberius Caesar]

34 These sheep are "preprogrammed" to be irresponsible, dependent on government, dysfunctional, ignorant, apathetic, and lazy.
 35 They are taught to evade personal responsibility for every aspect of their behavior. In short, their sin and violation of God's 36 laws has made them unable to govern or support themselves, and so they have given government the moral authority to step
 37 in as their "Parens Patriae", or government parent, to take over their lives and become an agent of plunder to support their 38 sinful and irresponsible lifestyle. These sheep are trained and conditioned by our government "servants", like Pavlov's dogs,
 39 to succumb to the enticements of an evil government (called a "Beast" in the book of Revelation in the Bible) by participating 40 in and partaking of the benefits of socialism and in so doing, they surrender their sovereignty to the totalitarian democratic 41 "collective".

42                   "A violent man entices his neighbor,
 43 And leads him in a way that is not good
 44 He winks his eye to devise perverse things;
 45 He purses [covers] his lips [by not telling the whole truth] and brings about evil."
 46 [Prov. 16:29-30, Bible, NKJV]

47 The brainwashed sheep are unwittingly recruited to join a mob full of treacherous socialists who want to plunder the rich by 48 abusing their voting rights and their power sitting as a jurist. In effect, the apparatus of government is put to an evil
 49 use by conducting a war of the have-nots against the haves. The have-nots essentially abuse their democratic power as jurists
 50 and voters to make the haves surety for have-nots. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court said about this war, which it called

1 a "war on capital". It also declared that war UNCONSTITUTIONAL by declaring the first income tax after the Civil War
2 unconstitutional:

3 "The present assault upon [THEFT of] capital [by a corrupted socialist government] is but the beginning. It
4 will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war
5 of the poor against the rich; a war of growing intensity and bitterness. [ . . . ]

6 The legislation, in the discrimination it makes, is class legislation. Whenever a distinction is made in the burdens
7 a law imposes or in the benefits it confers on any citizens by reason of their birth, or wealth, or religion, it is class
8 legislation, and leads inevitably to oppression and abuses, and to general unrest and disturbance in society."
9 [Pollock v. Farmers Loan and Trust, 157 U.S. 429 (1895)]

10 The Bible also describes this war exactly the same way as the U.S. Supreme Court did:

11 "Where do wars and fights come from among you? Do they not come from your desires for pleasure [unearned
12 money from the government] that war in your members [and your democratic governments]? You lust [after 13 other people's money] and do not have. You murder [the unborn to increase your standard of living] and covet
14 [the unearned] and cannot obtain [except by empowering your government to STEAL for you!]. You fight and 15 war [against the rich and the nontaxpayers to subsidize your idleness]. Yet you do not have because you do not 16 ask [the Lord, but instead ask the deceitful government]. You ask and do not receive, because you ask amiss, that 17 you may spend it on your pleasures. Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you not know that friendship [citizenship]
18 with the world [for the governments of the world] is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend
19 [STATUTORY "citizen", "resident", "taxpayer"] of the world [for the governments of the world] makes 20 himself an enemy of God."
21 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

22 "The king establishes the land by justice, But he who receives bribes [socialist handouts, government "benefits", 23 or PLUNDER stolen from nontaxpayers] overthrows it."
24 [Prov. 29:4, Bible, NKJV]

25 If a member of the flock of sheep balks at joining the socialist mob, they are censured and punished usually financially for 26 being politically incorrect. They are denied a job or a socialist benefit and/or credit if they refuse to take the mark of the 27 Beast, the Socialist Security Number, or refuse to fill out a W-4 to begin withholding taxes. Those who participate in this
28 brand of socialism all share "one purse", and make the government effectively into one big social insurance company to
29 insulate themselves from responsibility for their own laziness, apathy, greed, and sin. The role of government in a republic
30 then transitions from that of only protecting the people to that of punishing and plundering success while rewarding and 31 encouraging failure. Here is how the Bible says we should view this process of corruption, and note that it says this is "evil"
32 and that we should not participate in it:

33 Avoid Bad Company

34 "My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
35 Do not consent
36 If they say, "Come with us,
37 Let us lie in wait to shed blood;
38 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
39 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
40 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
41 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
42 Cast in your lot among us,
43 Let us all have one purse"--
44 My son, do not walk in the way with them,
45 Keep your foot from their path;
46 For their feet run to evil,
47 And they make haste to shed blood.
48 Surely, in vain the net is spread
49 In the sight of any bird;
50 But they lie in wait for their own blood.
51 They lurk secretly for their own lives.
52 So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain;
53 It takes away the life of its owners."
54 [Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

55 We even have a name for this form of corrupted government:

1                    “Ineptocracy (in-ep-toc'-ra-cy) - a system of government where the least capable to lead are elected by the least
 2 capable of producing, and where the members of society least likely to sustain themselves or succeed, are
 3 rewarded with goods and services paid for by the confiscated wealth of a diminishing number of producers.

4                    Synonyms: Electile dysfunction. “

5                    [SEDM Political Dictionary]

6 God, however, wants us to follow His sacred law, and the result of doing so makes government unnecessary, because we
 7 become self-governing and self-supporting and do not make government into a false god or become idolaters in the process:

8                    “He [God] brings the princes to nothing.
 9 He makes the judges of the earth useless.”
 10 [Isaiah 40:23, Bible, NKJV]

11                    “How long will you slumber, O sluggard?
 12 When will you rise from your sleep?
 13 A little sleep, a little slumber,
 14 A little folding of the hands to sleep--
 15 So shall your poverty come on you like a prowler,
 16 And your need like an armed man [from the government/IRS].”
 17 [Prov. 6:9-11, Bible, NKJV]

18                    “The hand of the diligent will rule,
 19 But the lazy man will be put to forced labor [working for the government through income taxes].”
 20 [Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]

21 After government has exploited our own sinfulness in this way so as to make us ripe for their political control, domination,
 22 and oppression, a huge monolithic government bureaucracy steps in as our “sugar daddy” or “Parens Patriae” and not only
 23 offers but demands to help us run our marriages, our financial affairs, our businesses, and forces us to pay taxes to support
 24 the infrastructure needed to do this. In many cases, they force us to pay for services and benefits that we don’t want! What
 25 business within a truly free economy could force you to buy or use their product other than a monopoly, and aren’t monopolies
 26 illegal under the Sherman Antitrust Act? Tyrants in government thereby appear to the ignorant and complacent masses of 27 sheep as God’s avengers to “harvest” (STEAL) our property, our liberty, our labor, and everything else they covet and lust
 28 after, and we not only willingly accept their domination, but we beg for it by demanding ever more increasing amounts of 29 “free” government services! The resulting evasion of responsibility and acquiescence to government usury by the sheep
 30 manifests itself in many forms, a few of which we have summarized below:

Table 4-14: The characteristics of the irresponsible and how the government panders to them

| # | Type of irresponsibility                                                                          | How the government and liberal culture exploits this form of irresponsibility for their own gain                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | How the churches reward and encourage this type of irresponsibility                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 1 | Do not want to take responsibility for the consequences of their sin                              | Passing laws that legalize sinful behaviors. Promising to pass such laws during election time in order to curry favor with voters.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Smorgasbord religion. Pick the set of beliefs that best benefits you. Focus on "grace" and "love" absent an emphasis on obeying God's laws.                                                                                                                                      |
| 2 | Do not want to take responsibility for supporting themselves                                      | Creating Social welfare programs such as Medicare, Welfare, Temporary Aid to Needy Families (TANF), food stamps.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Tithes the churches receive are supposed to be used for charity purposes but pastors jealously guard their contributions to maximize their "take". Then they try to steer the sheep toward government entitlement programs to make up for their greed and their lack of charity. |
| 3 | Do not want to take responsibility for their sexual sin                                           | Passes laws allowing children to get condoms in schools. Teaches sex education instead of abstinence in schools. Institutes "don't ask don't tell" policies in the military. Supreme court declaring abortion legal, which is the murder of defenseless children.                                                                                                            | Churches look the other way when parishioners get abortions and do not protest the holocaust of abortion by participating in such things as Operation Rescue.                                                                                                                    |
| 4 | Do not want to take responsibility for making their marriage work                                 | Offer marriage licenses that put family court judges in charge of you, your income, and all your assets.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Churches also demanding that their parishioners get a marriage license before they will officiate a ceremony. That way people getting married don't become the churches problem, but instead can be handled by corrupted family courts.                                          |
| 5 | Do not want to take responsibility for educating or raising their kids                            | Offer public schools, so that parents do not have to confederate and start private Christian schools to educate their children. Teaching the young sinful behaviors such as homosexuality, abortion, drugs so they make easy serfs of government. Showing them how to fill out income tax returns in high school before they even know how to balance a checkbook.           | Pastors avoiding moral training in church, so that children growing up in single-parent families never learn how to govern themselves from their busy parents and must therefore depend on government to do for them what they cannot do for themselves.                         |
| 6 | Do not want to take responsibility for their retirement                                           | Offer Socialist Security and federal retirement programs and do not offer employees the option of taking money earmarked for retirement and investing and controlling it themselves. This leaves large sums of money in control of the government, which they then use as a carrot to force you to pay income taxes because if you don't, they will turn it over to the IRS. | Not warning people that they should not depend on government and that they should take 100% responsibility for themselves.                                                                                                                                                       |
| 7 | Do not want to tithe to their church                                                              | Federal subsidies for charities, which carry with it the requirement for the churches to not criticize government or oppose its illegal enforcement of income tax code. Example: President Bush's faith-based initiative.                                                                                                                                                    | Pastors not chastising parishioners who do not tithe for their greed and robbery of God, for fear of scaring away the sheep. Pastors ingratiating or poaching generous parishioners (sheep) from other churches to join their church.                                            |
| 8 | Do not want to take responsibility for bad business decisions                                     | Creating a privileged status called "corporations", in which liability for wrongdoing is limited. This encourages reckless investment, bad business practices, and corruption like we have been seeing lately with Enron, Worldcom, etc. Income taxes on corporations then, amount essentially to "liability insurance".                                                     | Not censuring or excommunicating those in the congregation who have committed civil crimes involving business corruption and refuse to repent.                                                                                                                                   |
| 9 | Do not want to take responsibility for hurting others in the process of operating a motor vehicle | Government passes laws forcing people to have insurance in order to have the "privilege" of driving.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |

The ultimate result of the universal and complete adoption of the above concepts is as follows, which is a parody of the content of the Bible, Psalm 23:

DEMOCRAT'S 23rd PSALM

The government is my Shepherd, therefore I shall not work.
 It alloweth me to lie down on a good job.
 It leadeth me beside still factories;
 it destroyeth my initiative,
 It leadeth me in the path of a parasite for politic's sake.

2           Yea, though I walk through the valley
3           of laziness and deficit spending,
4           I will fear no evil, for the government is with me.

6           It prepareth an economic Utopia for me,
7           by borrowing from future generations.
8           It filleth my head with false security;
9           my inefficiency runneth over.

10
11           Surely the government should take care of me
12           all the days of my life!
13           And I will dwell in a welfare state forever and ever.

14 In the legal field, the process of evading responsibility is called “avoiding liability”. Amazingly, the government openly
15 admits that it is one big insurance company which exists to insulate people from all types of liability! Here is what one
16 Congressman said during the Congressional debates on the Sixteenth Amendment, which is the income tax amendment:

17           “M. Thiers, the great French statesman, says, ‘a tax paid by a citizen to his government is like a premium paid
18           by the insured to the insurance company, and should be in proportion to the amount of property insured in one
19           case and the other to the amount of property protected or defended [or managed] by the government.’”
20           [44 Cong.Rec. 4959 (1909)]

21 The natural consequence of the logic of the quote above is that the less responsibility and liability we are willing to assume 22 for ourselves, the greater will be our tax rate and the corresponding slavery to government that goes with it. If you trace the 23 percentage of the average American family’s income which goes to pay state and federal taxes over the last 100 years, we 24 can see in numerical terms the shift away from personal responsibility and the rise of the “collective” as the sovereign in our
25 society. This information reveals how we have abandoned the original Constitutional Republican model based on faith and 26 personal responsibility, and gradually drifted to a socialist/humanistic economy like most of the rest of the nations in the 27 world. God warned us that this would happen but we simply refuse to heed Him because of the hedonistic stupor our 28 government has put us into by bribing us with “free” government benefits and programs subsidized with STOLEN loot
29 through illegally enforcing the income tax code:

30           “And they rejected His statutes and His covenant that He had made with their fathers, and His testimonies [His
31           Law/Bible] which He had testified against them; they followed [government] idols, became idolaters, and went
32           after the nations who were all around them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they should
33           not do like them. So they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, made for themselves a molded
34           image and two calves, made a wooden image and worshiped all the host of heaven, and served Baal. And they
35           caused their sons and daughters to pass through the fire, practiced witchcraft and soothsaying, and sold
36           themselves [through usurious taxes] to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger. Therefore 37           the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them from His sight; there was none left but the tribe of 38           Judah alone.”
39           [2 Kings 17:15-18, Bible, NKJV]

40 One congressman has actually quantified this shift from personal to collective responsibility in a wonderful article entitled 41 “The Coming Crisis: How Government Dependency Threatens America’s Freedom” available on our website at:

42 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Freedom/Articles/ComingCrisis-01508.pdf>

43 Governments therefore know that people don’t want to have to accept responsibility or liability and they use this sinful human 44 tendency to expand their power and revenues by transferring responsibility to themselves. The transfer of responsibility from 45 us as individuals to the government cannot occur, however, without a transfer of sovereignty with it. Sovereignty and
46 dependency are mutually exclusive. The buck has to stop somewhere, and when we won’t take responsibility for ourselves,
47 we have to surrender sovereignty to the collective democracy, and this eventually leads to socialism and humanism. This 48 abdication of our responsibilities also amounts to a violation of God’s laws. Christians have a MUCH higher calling with 49 their God than simply to depend on a bloated and evil socialist government to subsidize their idleness and hedonism with 50 funds that were stolen from their brother through illegal extortion and constructive fraud:

51           “You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; nor shall you testify in a dispute so as to turn aside after many to pervert 52           justice.”
53           [Exodus 23:2, Bible, NKJV]
54

1 "Now about brotherly love we do not need to write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love
2 each other. And in fact, you do love all the brothers throughout Macedonia. Yet we urge you, brothers, to do so
3 more and more.

4 "Make it your ambition to lead a quiet life, to mind your own business and to work with your hands, just as
5 we told you, so that your daily life may win the respect of outsiders and so that you will not be dependent on 6 anybody."

7 [I Thess. 4:9-12, Bible, NIV]

8 There is nothing new to this government approach of encouraging irresponsibility and indemnifying a person from liability
9 for their own sinful actions. Government is simply imitating God's approach. Throughout the Bible, God warns us that we
10 will be held personally liable for all of our choices and actions. That liability will occur on judgment day:

11 "And as it is appointed for men to die once, but after this the judgment, so Christ was offered once to bear the 12 sins of many. To those who eagerly wait for Him He will appear a second time, apart from sin, for salvation. For 13 the law, having a shadow of the good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with these 14 same sacrifices, which they offer continually year by year, make those who approach perfect [in the sight of 15 God]"

16 [Hebrews 9:27-28, 10:1, Bible, NKJV]

17 Here you can see that God is talking about final judgment for our actions and choices, and He is implying that unless we are 18 perfect in His eyes at that judgment, then we are condemned. However, God is also promising indemnification from personal
19 liability, which here is called "salvation" to those who "eagerly wait for Him". Faith in and obedience to Christ is basically
20 being offered here as an insurance policy against the final judgment and wrath of God. That obedience manifests itself in 21 following the two great commandments that Christ revealed to us in Mark 12:28-33:

22 Then one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, perceiving that He had answered
23 them well, asked Him, "Which is the first commandment of all?"

24 Jesus answered him, "The first of all the commandments is: "Hear, O Israel, the LORD our God, the LORD is 25 one. And you shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind, and with 26 all your strength. This is the first commandment. And the second, like it, is this: "You shall love your neighbor
27 as yourself. There is no other commandment greater than these."

28 So the scribe said to Him, "Well said, Teacher. You have spoken the truth, for there is one God, and there is no
29 other but He. And to love Him with all the heart, with all the understanding, with all the soul, and with all the 30 strength, and to love one's neighbor as oneself, is more than all the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices."

31 [Mark 12:28-33, Bible, NKJV]

32
33 "For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'"
34 [Gal 5:14, Bible, NKJV]

35 The important thing to remember is that there is a BIG difference between man's and God's approach toward encouraging
36 people to avoid liability. Faith produces salvation and indemnification because it makes us appear "perfect" in God's eyes,
37 but it does not relieve us from personal liability for obeying God's laws.

38 Faith Without Works Is Dead

39 What does it profit, my brethren, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can faith save him? If a
40 brother or sister is naked and destitute of daily food, and one of you says to them, "Depart in peace, be warmed
41 and filled," but you do not give them the things which are needed for the body, what does it profit? Thus also faith
42 by itself, if it does not have works, is dead.

43 But someone will say, "You have faith, and I have works." Show me your faith without your works, and I will 44 show you my faith by my works. You believe that there is one God. You do well. Even the demons believe--and
45 tremble! But do you want to know, O foolish man, that faith without works is dead? Was not Abraham our father
46 justified by works when he offered Isaac his son on the altar? Do you see that faith was working together with 47 his works, and by works faith was made perfect? And the Scripture was fulfilled which says, "Abraham believed
48 *God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness." And he was called the friend of God. You see then that a 49 man is justified by works, and not by faith only.

50 Likewise, was not Rahab the harlot also justified by works when she received the messengers and sent them out
51 another way?

1 For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.
2 [James 2:14-26, Bible, NKJV]

3 Faith in God does not allow us to avoid the final judgment, but our works provide evidence of our faith and obedience at that
4 judgment. The final judgment is like a court trial. With no admissible evidence of our faith at this trial, we will be convicted
5 of our sin and suffer God's wrath.

6 "Then I saw a great throne and Him who sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away. And 7 there was found no place for them.

8 "And I saw the dead, small and great, standing before God, and books were opened. And another book was 9 opened, which is the Book of Life. And the dead were judged according to their works, by the things which were 10 written in the books.

11 "The sea gave up the dead who were in it, and Death and Hades delivered up the dead who were in them. And 12 they were judged, each one according to his works.

13 "Then Death and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

14 "And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire."
15 [Revelation 20:11-15, Bible, NKJV]

16 The purpose of God's law is to teach us how to love God and our neighbor (see the Ten Commandments in Exodus 20). The 17 Bible says that obedience to God's laws even after we profess faith is still mandatory:

18 "Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My 19 Father in heaven."
20 [Matt. 7:21, Bible, NKJV]

21 "But whoever keeps His word, truly the love of God is perfected in him. By this we know that we are in Him."
22 [1 John 2:5, Bible, NKJV]

23 "For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments. And His commandments are not burdensome."
24 [1 John 5:3, Bible, NKJV]

25 "Therefore, to him who knows to do good and does not DO it, to him it is sin."
26 [James 4:17, Bible, NKJV]

27 "Blessed are those who do His commandments, that they may have the right to the tree of life, and may 28 enter through the gates into the city."
29 [Rev. 22:14; Bible, NKJV]

30 "But he who looks into the perfect law of liberty and continues in it, and is not a forgetful hearer but a 31 DOER of the work, this one will be blessed in what he does."
32 [James 1:25, Bible, NKJV]

33 The government, on the other hand, tells us that we can be criminals under God's law and avoid liability and responsibility
34 for our sins on earth as long as we join the "collective" and worship the politicians and the government as our false god by 35 surrendering control over our earnings from labor to that god in the form of income taxes. Basically, we have to serve the 36 government with our labor, and the Bible calls that kind of servitude "worship". Below is an excerpt from the Ten 37 Commandments demonstrating this:

38 "You shall have no other gods before Me.

39 "You shall not make for yourself a carved image--any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in
40 the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them nor serve
41 [worship] them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon

1 the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me,<sup>6</sup>but showing mercy to thousands, to those
 2 who love Me and keep My commandments."
 3 [Exodus 20:3-4, Bible, NKJV]

4 That false government promise of no liability for sin was the same promise that Satan made when he tempted the first sinner,
 5 Eve. Satan promised Eve that if she sinned by eating the forbidden fruit of the tree, then she would not suffer the consequence
 6 of death promised by God. Remember that the Bible says "The wages of sin is death" (Romans 6:23) and Satan lied when
 7 he promised Eve that she would not die. In short, there would be no liability for her violation of God's law and instead, she 8 would be a "god" herself:

9 Then the serpent said to the woman, "You will not surely die [no liability]. For God knows that in the day you
 10 eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil."
 11 [Genesis 3:4-5; Bible, NKJV]

12 In a "collective" form of government such as a democracy, the "collective" is the false god to be worshipped. That collective 13 is called the "state" in legal terms. When we join that collective, we become like a god, and share in the unjust authority and 14 power that it has. That unjust authority expresses itself through the abuse of voting rights and jury service in a way that 15 actually injures our neighbor and offends God because it attempts to indemnify us from the consequences and liability for 16 our sin and irresponsibility.

17 A limited liability company is one in which the liability of each shareholder is limited to the amount of his shares or stocks,
 18 or to a sum fixed by guarantee called "limited liability guarantee". The purpose of limited liability laws is to limit
 19 responsibility. Although the ostensible purpose is to protect the shareholders, the practical effect is to limit their responsibility
 20 and therefore encourage recklessness in investment. A limited liability economy is socialistic. By seeking to protect people,
 21 a limited liability economy merely transfers responsibility away from the people to the state, where "central government
 22 planning" supposedly obviates personal responsibility. Limited liability encourages people to take chances with limited risks,
 23 and to sin economically without paying the price. Limited liability laws rest on the fallacy that payment for economic sins
 24 need not be made. In actuality, payment is simply transferred to others. Limited liability laws were unpopular in earlier,
 25 Christian eras but have flourished in the Darwinian world. They rest on important religious presuppositions.

26 In a statement central to his account, C.S. Lewis described his preference, prior to his conversion to Christianity, for a
 27 materialistic, atheistic universe. The advantages of such a world are the very limited demands it makes on a man.

28 To such a craven and materialist's universe has the enormous attraction that it offered you limited liabilities. No
 29 strictly infinite disaster could overtake you in it. Death ended all. And if ever finite disasters proved greater than 30 one wished to bear, suicide would always be possible. The horror of the Christian universe was that it had no
 31 door marked Exit...But, of course, what mattered most of all was my deep-seated hatred of authority, my 32 monstrous individualism, my lawlessness. No word in my vocabulary expressed deeper hatred than the word
 33 Interference. But Christianity placed at the center what then seemed to me a transcendental Interferer. If this 34 picture were true then no sort of "treaty with reality" could ever be possible. There was no region even in the
 35 innermost depth of one's soul (nay, there least of all) which one could surround with a barbed wire fence and 36 guard with a notice of No Admittance. And that was what I wanted; some area, however small, of which I could
 37 say to all other beings, "This is my business and mine only."<sup>121</sup>

38 This is an excellent summation of the matter. The atheist wants a limited liability universe, and he seeks to create a limited
 39 liability political and economic order. The more socialistic he becomes, the more he demands a maximum advantage and a 40 limited liability from his social order, an impossibility.

41 In reality, living with the fact that the universe and our world carry always unlimited liabilities is the best way to assure 42 security and advantage. To live with reality, and to seek progress within its framework, is man's best security.

43 The curses and the blessings of the law stress man's unlimited liability to both curses and blessings as a result of disobedience
 44 or obedience to the law. In Deuteronomy 28:2 and 15, we are told that the curses and blessings come upon us and "overtake"
 45 us. Man cannot step outside of the world of God's consequence. At every moment and at every point man is overtaken, 46 surrounded, and totally possessed by the unlimited liability of God's universe.

1 Man seeks to escape this unlimited liability either through a denial of the true God, or by a pseudo-acceptance which denies
 2 the meaning of God. In atheism, the attitude of man is well summarized by William Ernest Henley's poem, "Invictus."
 3 Henley boasted of his "unconquerable soul" and declared,

4 I am the master of my fate;
 5 I am the captain of my soul

6 Not surprisingly, the poem has been very popular with immature and rebellious adolescents.

7 Pseudo-acceptance, common to mysticism, pietism, and pseudo evangelicals, claims to have "accepted Christ" while denying
 8 His law. One college youth, very much given to evangelizing everyone in sight, not only denied the law as an article of his
 9 faith, in speaking to this writer, but went further. Asked if he would approve of young men and women working in a house
 10 of prostitution as whores and pimps to convert the inmates, he did not deny this as a valid possibility. He went on to affirm
 11 that many of his friends were converting girls and patrons wholesale by invading the houses to evangelize one and all. He 12 also claimed wholesale conversion of homosexuals, but he could cite no homosexuals who ceased the practice after their 13 conversion; nor any whores or their patrons who left the houses with their "evangelizers." Such lawless "evangelism" is only 14 blasphemy.

15 In the so-called "Great Awakening" in colonial New England, antinomianism, chiliasm, and false perfectionism went hand
 16 in hand. Many of these "holy ones" forsook their marriage for adulterous relations, denied the law, and claimed immediate 17 perfection and immortality.<sup>122</sup>

18 What such revivalism and pietism espouses is a limited liability universe in God's name. It is thus atheism under the banner
 19 of Christ. It claims freedom from God's sovereignty and denies predestination. It denies the law, and it denies the validity
 20 of the curses and blessings of the law. Such a religion is interested only in what it can get out of God: hence, "grace" is 21 affirmed, and "love," but not the law, nor God's sovereign power and decree. But smorgasbord religion is only humanism,
 22 because it affirms the right of man to pick and choose what he wants; as the ultimate arbiter of his fate, man is made captain
 23 of his soul, with an assist from God. Pietism thus offers limited liability religion, not Biblical faith.

24 According to Heer, the medieval mystic Eckhart gave to the soul a "sovereign majesty together with God. The next step was
 25 taken by the disciple, Johannes of Star Alley, who asked if the word of the soul was not as mighty as the word of the 26 Heavenly Father."<sup>123</sup> In such a faith, the new sovereign is man, and unlimited liability is in process of being transferred to 27 God.

28 In terms of the Biblical doctrine of God, absolutely no liabilities are involved in the person and work of the Godhead. God's 29 eternal decree and sovereign power totally govern and circumscribe all reality, which is His creation. Because man is a
 30 creature, man faces unlimited liability; his sins have temporal and eternal consequences, and he cannot at any point escape
 31 God. Van Til has summed up the matter powerfully:

32 The main point is that if man could look anywhere and not be confronted with the revelation of God then he could 33 not sin in the Biblical sense of the term. Sin is the breaking of the law of God. God confronts man everywhere.
 34 He cannot in the nature of the case confront man anywhere if he does not confront him everywhere. God is one;
 35 the law is one. If man could press one button on the radio of his experience and not hear the voice of God then
 36 he would always press that button and not the others. But man cannot even press the button of his own self-
 37 consciousness without hearing the requirement of God.<sup>124</sup>

38 But man wants to reverse this situation. Let God be liable, if He fails to deliver at man's request. Let man declare that his 39 own experience pronounces himself to be saved, and then he can continue his homosexuality or work in a house of 40 prostitution, all without liability. Having pronounced the magic formula, "I accept Jesus Christ as my personal lord and 41 savior," man then transfers almost all the liability to Christ and can sin without at most more than a very limited liability.
 42 Christ cannot be accepted if His sovereignty, His law, and His word are denied. To deny the law is to accept a works religion,
 43 because it means denying God's sovereignty and assuming man's existence in independence of God's total law and 44 government. In a world where God functions only to remove the liability of hell, and no law governs man, man works his own way through life by his own conscience. Man is saved, in such a world, by his own work of faith, of accepting Christ, not by Christ's sovereign acceptance of him. Christ said, "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you" (John 15:16). The pietist insists that he has chosen Christ; it is his work, not Christ's. Christ, in such a faith, serves as an insurance agent, as a guarantee against liabilities, not as sovereign lord. This is paganism in Christ's name.

In paganism, the worshipper was not in existence. Man did not worship the pagan deities, nor did services of worship occur. The temple was open every day as a place of business. The pagan entered the temple and bought the protection of a god by a gift or offering. If the god failed him, he thereafter sought the services of another. The pagan's quest was for an insurance, for limited liability and unlimited blessings, and, as the sovereign believer, he shopped around for the god who offered the most. Pagan religion was thus a transaction, and, as in all business transactions, no certainty was involved. The gods could not always deliver, but man's hope was that, somehow, his liabilities would be limited.

The "witness" of pietism, with its "victorious living," is to a like limited liability religion. A common "witness" is, "Praise the Lord, since I accepted Christ, all my troubles are over and ended." The witness of Job in his suffering was, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him" (Job 13:15). St. Paul recited the long and fearful account of his sufferings after accepting Christ: in prison, beaten, shipwrecked, stoned, betrayed, "in hunger and thirst,...in cold and nakedness" (II Cor. 11:23-27). Paul's was not a religion of limited liability nor of deliverance from all troubles because of his faith.

The world is a battlefield, and there are casualties and wounds in battle, but the battle is the Lord's and its end is victory. To attempt an escape from the battle is to flee from the liabilities of warfare against sinful men for battle with an angry God. To face the battle is to suffer the penalties of man's wrath and the blessings of God's grace and law.

Apart from Jesus Christ, men are judicially dead, i.e., under a death sentence, before God, no matter how moral their works. With regeneration, the beginning of true life, man does not move out from under God's unlimited liability. Rather, with regeneration, man moves from the world of unlimited liability under the curse, to the world of unlimited liability under God's blessings. The world and man were cursed when Adam and Eve sinned, but, in Jesus Christ, man is blessed, and the world progressively reclaimed and redeemed for Him. In either case, the world is under God's law. Blessings and curses are thus inseparable from God's law and are simply different relationships to it.

Men inescapably live in a world of unlimited liability, but with a difference. The covenant-breaker, at war with God and unregenerate, has an unlimited liability for the curse. Hell is the final statement of that unlimited liability. The objections to hell, and the attempts to reduce it to a place of probation or correction, are based on a rejection of unlimited liability. But the unregenerate has, according to Scripture, an unlimited liability to judgment and the curse. On the other hand, the regenerate man, who walks in obedience to Jesus Christ, his covenant head, has a limited liability to judgment and the curse. The unlimited liability of God's wrath was assumed for the elect by Jesus Christ upon the cross. The regenerate man is judged for his transgressions of the law of God, but his liability here is a limited one, whereas his liability for blessings in this life and in heaven are unlimited. The unregenerate can experience a limited measure of blessing in this life, and none in the world to come; they have at best a limited liability for blessing.

Man thus cannot escape an unlimited liability universe. The important question is this: in which area is he exposed to unlimited liability, to an unlimited liability to the curse because of his separation from God, or to an unlimited liability to blessing because of his faith in, union with, and obedience to Jesus Christ?

Along the lines of this section, a reader sent us the following poem which summarizes why our lives will amount to nothing if we do not accept personal responsibility for ourself and learn to accept the unlimited liability that God bestowed upon us as part of his death sentence for our disobedience in the book of Genesis:

Risk..

To weep... is to risk appearing sentimental,

To hope... is to risk despair,

To reach out for another... is to risk involvement,

1 To try...
2 is to risk failure,

3 To expose feelings...
4 is to risk exposing your true self,

5 To place your ideas, your dreams before the crowd...
6 is to risk their loss,

7 To love is to risk...
8 not being loved in return,

9 To live...
10 is to risk dying,

11 But risks must be taken because the greatest hazard in life,
12 is to risk nothing.

13 The person who risks nothing, does nothing, has nothing, and is nothing. They may avoid suffering and sorrow,
14 but they cannot learn, feel, change, grow, love, and live. Chained by their certitudes, they are a slave, they have 15 forfeited their freedom.

16 Only a person who risks.
17 is free.

18 4.4.11 The result of violating God's laws or putting man's laws above God's laws is slavery, servitude, and captivity

19 The Bible vividly describes what happens when the people choose to disregard God's laws and follow only the laws of men
20 or of governments made up of men. The result of disregarding God's laws and substituting in their place man's vain laws is 21 slavery, servitude, and captivity for any society that does this. The greater the conflict or deviation between man's laws and 22 God's laws, the more severe the punishment and oppression and wrath will be that God will inflict:

23 But to the wicked, God says:

24 "What right have you to declare My statutes [write man's vain law], or take My covenant [the Bible] in your
25 mouth, seeing you hate instruction and cast My words behind you? When you saw a thief, you consented with
26 him, and have been a partaker with adulterers. You give your mouth to evil, and your tongue frames deceit. You
27 sit and speak against your brother; you slander your own mother's son. These things you have done, and I kept
28 silent; you thought that I was altogether like you; but I will reprove you, and set them in order before your eyes.
29 Now consider this, you who forget God, lest I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver: Whoever offers
30 praise glorifies Me; and to him who orders his conduct aright I will show the salvation of God."
31 [Psalm 50:16-23, Bible, NKJV]

32 Below is an excerpt from the Bible that illustrates the point we are trying to make in this section, found in 2 Kings 17:5-23.
33 The governments described below that violated God's laws and thereby alienated themselves from God consisted of kings,
34 but today's equivalent is our politicians, who by law should be servants but who through extortion under the color of law in 35 illegally enforcing income taxes, have made themselves into the equivalent of kings.

36 Israel Carried Captive to Assyria

37 <sup>5</sup> Now the king of Assyria went throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria and besieged it for three years.
38 <sup>6</sup> In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria took Samaria and carried Israel away to Assyria, and placed 39 them in Halah and by the Habor, the River of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

40 <sup>7</sup> For so it was that the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, who had brought them up out
41 of [slavery in] the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and they had feared other gods,
42 and had walked in the statutes of the nations whom the LORD had cast out from before the children of Israel,
43 and of the kings of Israel, which they had made.<sup>9</sup> Also the children of Israel secretly did against the LORD their
44 God things that were not right, and they built for themselves high places in all their cities, from watchtower to 45 fortified city.<sup>10</sup> They set up for themselves sacred pillars and wooden images<sup>11</sup> on every high hill and under every
46 green tree.<sup>11</sup> There they burned incense on all the high places, like the nations whom the LORD had carried away
47 before them; and they did wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger,<sup>12</sup> for they served idols [governments and
48 laws and kings], of which the LORD had said to them, "You shall not do this thing."

<sup>13</sup>Yet the LORD testified against Israel and against Judah, by all of His prophets, every seer, saying, "Turn from your evil ways, and keep My commandments and My statutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by My servants the prophets."<sup>14</sup>Nevertheless they would not hear, but stiffened their necks, like the necks of their fathers, who did not believe in the LORD their God.<sup>15</sup>And they rejected His statutes and His covenant that He had made with their fathers, and His testimonies which He had testified against them; they followed idols, became idolaters, and went after the nations who were all around them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they should not do like them.<sup>16</sup>So they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, made for themselves a molded image and two calves, made a wooden image and worshiped all the host of heaven, and served Baal.<sup>17</sup>And they caused their sons and daughters to pass through the fire, practiced witchcraft and soothsaying, and sold themselves [through usurious taxes] to do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger.<sup>18</sup>Therefore the LORD was very angry with Israel, and removed them from His sight; there was none left but the tribe of Judah alone.

<sup>19</sup>Also Judah did not keep the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which they made.<sup>20</sup>And the LORD rejected all the descendants of Israel, afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of plunderers, until He had cast them from His sight.<sup>21</sup>For He tore Israel from the house of David, and they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king. Then Jeroboam drove Israel from following the LORD, and made them commit a great sin.<sup>22</sup>For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they did not depart from them,<sup>23</sup>until the LORD removed Israel out of His sight, as He had said by all His servants the prophets. So Israel was carried away from their own land to Assyria, as it is to this day.

Therefore, the surest way to incur the wrath of God against you is to disregard or violate His Laws, or to put the commandments and laws and governments of men above obedience to His sacred laws. We must have our priorities straight or we may dishonor God and violate the first four commandments of the Ten Commandments, which require us to love and trust and honor God above and beyond any earthly government. If we put man's laws above God's laws on our priority list, then we are committing idolatry toward a man-made thing called government, as we explained earlier in section 4.1.

We will describe later in section 4.17 a few examples where the modern day vain laws of our government conflict with God's laws. These conflicts of law force us into the circumstance where we must make a choice in our obedience and allegiance. The choice of which of those two we should obey when there is such a conflict ought to be quite evident to those who have read the passage above.

4.4.12 Government-instituted slavery using "privileges"

"In the matter of taxation, every privilege is an injustice."
[Voltaire]

"The more you want, the more the world can hurt you."
[Confucius]

"If you think of yourselves as helpless and ineffectual, it is certain that you will create a despotic government to be your master. The wise despot, therefore, maintains among his subjects a popular sense that they are helpless and ineffectual."
[Frank Herbert, The Dosadi Experiment]

Anyone who has been married instinctively knows what "privilege-induced slavery" is. They understand that you have to give up some of your "rights" for the benefits and "privileges" associated with being married. For instance, one of the rights that the government forces you to give up using the instrument it created called the "marriage license", especially if you are a man, is sovereignty over your property and your labor. As we said in the previous section, if you get married with a state marriage license, then control over your property and labor is surrendered ultimately to the government, because if your spouse becomes dissatisfied, the marriage license gives the government absolute authority to hijack all your property and your labor for the imputed "public good", but as you will find out, the chief result of this hijacking is actually injustice. The marriage license authorizes a family law judge to abuse your property and your labor without your voluntary consent to create a welfare state for women intent on rebelling against their husbands and using marriage as a means of economic equalization. The book entitled Sovereign Christian Marriage, Form #06.009 explains that this very characteristic of marriage licenses issued by the state accomplishes the following unjust results:

1. Usurps and rebels against the sovereignty of God by interfering with His plan for marriage and family clearly spelled out in the Bible.
2. Encourages spouses to get divorced, because at least one of them will be financially rewarded with the property and labor of the other for doing so.

3. Makes marriage into legalized prostitution, where the sex comes during the marriage and the money comes after marriage and the state and family court judge becomes the pimp and the family law attorneys become tax collectors for the pimp.

The above defects in the institution of marriage caused by the government “privilege” called state-issued marriage licenses, of course, are the natural result of violating God’s/Natural law on marriage found in the Bible, where Eph. 5:22-24 makes the man, and not the government or the woman, the sovereign in the context of families. This is what happens whenever mankind rebels against God’s authority by trying to improve on God’s design for the family: massive injustice. Remember, that God created man first, and out of man’s rib was created woman, which makes man the sovereign, and this conclusion is completely consistent with the concept of Natural Order we discussed earlier in section 4.1.

“For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, since he is made in the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man. For man is not from woman, but woman from man. Nor was man created for the woman, but woman for the man.”
[1 Cor. 11:7-9, Bible, NKJV]

If you are going to arrogantly call this attitude chauvinistic, politically incorrect, or bigoted then you’re slapping God in the face and committing blasphemy because this is the way GOD designed the system and who are YOU to question that?

“But indeed, O man, who are you to reply against God? Will the thing formed say to him who formed it, ‘Why have you made me like this?’ Does not the potter have power over the clay, from the same lump to make one vessel for honor and another for dishonor?”
[Romans 9:20-21, Bible, NKJV]

The government uses this very same concept of privilege-induced slavery in the “constructive contract” you in effect sign by becoming a “citizen” or availing yourself of a government benefit. Here is the phrase that one of our astute readers uses to describe it in his book Social Security: Mark of the Beast, Form #11.407, which is posted on our website for your reading pleasure (<http://famguardian.org/Publications/SocialSecurity/TOC.htm>):

“Protection draws subjection.”
[Steven Miller]

Protectio trahit subjectionem, subjectio projectionem.
Protection draws to it subjection, subjection, protection. Co. Litt. 65.
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;
SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

In a sense, when you become a “citizen”, you “marry” the state in order to have its protection, and we’ll talk about the terms of this constructive “marriage contract” later in section 4.9. Below is a summary:

1. When you become a “citizen” by either being naturalized or by choosing a domicile within the jurisdiction of the government, you must profess allegiance.
  - 1.1. “Domicile” carries with it the concept of “allegiance”.

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”
Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954) ]

“This right to protect persons having a domicile, though not native-born or naturalized citizens, rests on the firm foundation of justice, and the claim to be protected is earned by considerations which the protecting power is not at liberty to disregard. Such domiciled citizen pays the same price for his protection as native-born or naturalized citizens pay for theirs. He is under the bonds of allegiance to the country of his residence, and, if he breaks them, incurs the same penalties. He owes the same obedience to the civil laws. His property is, in

1 the same way and to the same extent as theirs, liable to contribute to the support of the Government. In nearly
 2 all respects, his and their condition as to the duties and burdens of Government are undistinguishable.”
 3 [Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U.S. 698 (1893)]

4 1.2. Naturalization requires an oath of “allegiance”. See 8 U.S.C. §1448.

- 5 2. You marry the state by promising it “allegiance”. Spouses who marry each other take a similar oath to “love, honor, and 6 obey” each other, and thereby protect each other.

7 “Allegiance and protection [by the government from harm] are, in this connection, reciprocal obligations. The 8 one is a compensation for the other; allegiance for protection and protection for allegiance.”
 9 [Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 166-168 (1874)]

- 10 3. Your passport is proof you are “married” to the state. See 22 U.S.C. §212

11 “No passport shall be granted or issued to or verified for any other persons than those owing allegiance, whether 12 citizens or not, to the United States.”
 13 [22 U.S.C. §212]

- 14 4. After you have “married” the state, you assume a citizenship status as a “national”, which is simply someone who has 15 allegiance to the “state”.

16 TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER I > § 1101
 17 § 1101. Definitions

18 (a) As used in this chapter—

19 (21) The term “national” means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

20 All forms of allegiance require the taking of oaths, and God says you can’t take oaths and that the reason is because you are 21 married to Him and not some pagan ruler or government. Those who take oaths to anything other than God become “friends 22 of the world” and enemies of God:

23 “Do not fear, for you will not be ashamed; neither be disgraced, for you will not be put to shame; for you will
 24 *forget the shame of your youth, and will not remember the reproach of your widowhood anymore. For your
 25 Maker is your husband, the Lord of hosts is His name; and your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel; He is
 26 called the God of the whole earth, for the Lord has called you like a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, like* 27 a youthful wife when you were refused,” says your God. “For a mere moment I have forsaken you, but with great
 28 mercies I will gather you. With a little wrath I hid My face from you for a moment; but with everlasting kindness
 29 I will have mercy on you,” says the Lord, your Redeemer.”
 30 [Isaiah 54:4-8, Bible, NKJV]
 31

32 “Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, ‘You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform your oaths
 33 to the Lord.’

34 *“But I say to you, do not swear at all: neither by heaven, for it is God’s throne; 35 nor by the earth, for it is His 35 footstool; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King.

36 “Nor shall you swear by your head, because you cannot make one hair white or black.

37 “But let your ‘Yes’ be ‘Yes,’ and your ‘No,’ ‘No.’ For whatever is more than these is from the evil one.
 38 [Matt. 5:33-37, Bible, NKJV]
 39

40 “Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you not know that friendship [allegiance toward] with the world [or the 41 governments of the world] is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend [“citizen”, “resident”,
 42 “taxpayer”] of the world [or the governments of the world] makes himself an enemy of God.”
 43 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

44 We have an article on our website entitled “The Citizenship Contract” by George Mercier that actually describes in detail the 45 terms of the citizenship marriage contract below:

46 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Indiv/MercierGeorge/InvContrcts--TheCitizenshipContract.htm>

1 Here is the way the U.S. supreme Court describes this marriage contract:

2 "There cannot be a nation without a people. The very idea of a political community, such as a nation is, implies
 3 an [88 U.S. 162, 166] association of persons for the promotion of their general welfare. Each one of the 4 persons associated becomes a member of the nation formed by the association. He owes it allegiance and is
 5 entitled to its protection. Allegiance and protection are, in this connection, reciprocal obligations. The one is a
 6 compensation for the other; allegiance for protection and protection for allegiance."
 7 [Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. (21 Wall.) 162, 166-168 (1874)]

8 Like marriage licenses, signing the "citizenship contract" means you give up some of your rights, and as a matter of fact, the 9 government wants you to believe that you give up the same rights by becoming a citizen as you do by getting a marriage
 10 license. When you marry the federal government by becoming a "U.S. citizen", you in effect are assimilated into the federal
 11 corporation called the "United States" defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) and are classified by the courts as an officer of that 12 corporation in receipt of taxable privileges. You also then become completely subject to the jurisdiction of that corporation.
 13 If you are a child of God, at the point when you married the state as a citizen, you united God with an idolatrous, mammon
 14 state and sold yourself into legal slavery voluntarily, in direct violation of the Bible:

15 "No one can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one,
 16 and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."
 17 [Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV]

18 "Do not be unequally yoked together with unbelievers. For what fellowship has righteousness with lawlessness?
 19 And what communion has light with darkness?"
 20 [2 Cor. 6:14, Bible, NKJV]

21 As expected, God's law once again says that we should not become citizens of this world, and especially if it is dominated 22 by unbelievers:

23 "For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ"
 24 [Philippians 3:20]

25 "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off were assured of them,
 26 embraced them and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth,"
 27 [Hebrews 11:13]

28 "Beloved, I beg you as sojourners and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts which war against the soul..."
 29 [1Peter 2:1]

30 "Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of 31 the world makes himself an enemy of God. "
 32 [James 4:4]

33 One of the reasons God doesn't want us to become citizens of this world is because when we do, we have violated the first
 34 commandment and committed idolatry, by replacing God with an artificial god called government, who then provides 35 protection for us that we for one reason or another can't or won't trust or have faith in God to provide. This lack of faith then 36 becomes our downfall. The words of the Apostle Paul resolve why this is:

37 "But he who doubts is condemned if he eats, because he does not eat from faith; for whatever is not from faith
 38 in God] is sin."
 39 [Rom. 14:23, Bible, NKJV]

40 Is it moral or ethical for the government to try to manipulate our rights out of existence by replacing them with taxable and 41 regulatable "privileges" by procuring our consent and agreement? Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court says on this subject:

42 "It would be a palpable incongruity to strike down an act of state legislation which, by words of express
 43 divestment, seeks to strip the citizen of rights guaranteed by the federal Constitution, but to uphold an act by
 44 which the same result is accomplished under the guise of a surrender of a right in exchange for a valuable
 45 privilege which the state threatens otherwise to withhold. It is not necessary to challenge the proposition that, as 46 a general rule, the state, having power to deny a privilege altogether, may grant it upon such conditions as it sees
 47 fit to impose. But the power of the state in that respect is not unlimited, and one of the limitations is that it may 48 not impose conditions which require the relinquishment of Constitutional rights. If the state may compel the 49 surrender of one constitutional right as a condition of its favor, it may, in like manner, compel a surrender of all.
 50 It is inconceivable that guaranties embedded in the Constitution of the United States may thus be manipulated 51 out or existence."

1 [Frost v. Railroad Commission, 271 U.S. 583, 46 S.Ct. 605 (1926)]

2 So the bottom line is that it is not permissible for a state to try to undermine your Constitutional rights by making privileges
3 they offer contingent on surrendering Constitutional rights, but they do it anyway because we let them get away with it, and
4 because they are very indirect about how they do it.

5 In a very real sense, the government has simply learned how to use propaganda to create fear and insecurity in the people,
6 and then they invent vehicles to turn eliminating your fear into a profit center that requires you to become citizens and pay
7 taxes to support. For instance, they use the Federal Reserve to create the Great Depression by contracting the money supply,
8 and then they get these abused people worried and feeling insecure about retirement and security in the early 1930's, and then
9 invent a new program called Social(ist) Security to help eliminate their fear and restore your sense of security. But remember,
10 in the process of procuring the "privilege" to be free of anxiety about old age, you have surrendered sovereignty over your 11 person and labor to the government, and they then have the moral authority to tax your wages and make you into a serf and 12 a peon to pay off the federal debt accumulated to run that program.

13 "The righteousness[and contentment] of the upright will deliver them, but the unfaithful will be caught by their 14 lust [for security or government benefits]."
15 [Prov. 11:6, Bible, NKJV]

16 Another favorite trick of governments is to make something illegal and then turn it into a "privilege" that is taxed. This is 17 how governments maximize their revenues. They often call the tax a "license fee", as if to imply that you never had the right
18 to do that activity without a license. You will never hear a government official admit to it, but the government reasoning is 19 that the tax amounts to a "bribe" or "tribute" to the government to get them to honor or respect the exercise of some right that 20 is cleverly disguised as a taxable "privilege" and to enforce payment of the bribe to a corrupt officer in a court of law. Unless 21 you know what your rights are, it will be very difficult to recognize this subtle form of usury. Here is what the courts have 22 to say about this kind of despicable behavior by the government:

23 "A right common in every citizen such as the right to own property or to engage in business of a character not
24 requiring regulation CANNOT, however, be taxed as a special franchise by first prohibiting its exercise and 25 then permitting its enjoyment upon the payment of a certain sum of money."
26 [Stevens v. State, 2 Ark. 291, 35 Am. Dec. 72, Spring Val. Water Works v. Barber, 99 Cal. 36, 33 Pac. 735, 21
27 L.R.A. 416. Note 57 L.R.A. 416]

28 Clear thinking about our freedom and liberty demands that when faced with situations like this, we ask ourselves, where does 29 the government derive its authority and "privileges"?. The answer is:

30 ..from the PEOPLE!

31 The Declaration of Independence says so!:

32 "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
33 with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure
34 these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the
35 governed."

36 Instead, we ought to charge government workers a tax for the "privilege" of having the authority and the "privilege" from the
37 people to serve (not "govern", but SERVE) them, and the tax that government servants pay us for that privilege should be
38 equal to whatever they charge us for the privileges they delegate back to us using the authority we gave them! We need to 39 think clearly about this because it's very easy to get trapped in bad logic by deceitful lawyers and politicians who want to get
40 into your bank account and enslave you with their unjust laws and extortion cleverly disguised as legitimate taxes. We should 41 always remember who the public servants are and who the public is. We are the public and government employees are the 42 servants! Start acting like the boss for once and tell the government what you expect out of them. The only reason the 43 government continues to listen to us is because:

- 44 1. We vote our officials into office.
- 45 2. If we don't like the laws they pass, we can nullify them every time we sit down on a jury or a grand jury.
- 46 3. If the above two approaches don't keep their abuse of power in check, we can buy guns to protect ourselves from 47 government abuse.

For instance, the government started issuing marriage licenses in about 1923 and charged people for the “privilege”. But then we have to ask ourselves what a license is. A license is permission from the state to perform an act which, without a license, would be illegal. Is it illegal to get married without the blessing of the state? Did Adam and Eve have a marriage license from God? Absolutely NOT. Marriage licenses, driver’s licenses, and professional licenses are a scam designed to increase control of the state over your life and turn you into a financial slave and serf to the government!

The IRS uses privilege-induced slavery to its advantage as well. For instance, it:

1. Sets the rate of withholding for a given income slightly higher than it needs to be so that Americans who paid tax will have to file to get their money back. In the process of filing, these unwitting citizens:
  - 1.1. Have to incriminate themselves on their tax returns.
  - 1.2. Forfeit most of the Constitutional rights, including the First (right to NOT communicate with your government), Fourth (seizure), and Fifth Amendment (self-incrimination) protections.
  - 1.3. Tell the IRS their employer, which later allows the IRS to serve the private employer illegally with a “Notice of Levy” and steal assets in violation of due process protections in the Constitution in the Fifth Amendment.
2. On the W-4 form, makes it a privilege just to hold onto your income. The regulations written by the Treasury illegally (and unconstitutionally) say that if a person does not submit a W-4 or submits an incorrect W-4, the employer (who really isn’t a statutory “employer” because it isn’t a federal employer who has statutory “employees” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)) must withhold at the single zero rate. Thus, it becomes a “privilege” to just receive the money you earned without tax deducted! The only way you can preserve the “privilege” is to incriminate yourself by filling out the W-4, in violation of the Fifth Amendment.
3. The federal judiciary and the IRS will wickedly tell you that because of the Anti-Injunction Act found at 26 U.S.C. §7421, if you dispute the amount of tax you owe or you assert non-liability, you must pay the tax FIRST before you are permitted to file a lawsuit and subject your case to judicial review. In effect, what Congress has done by legislation is forced you to bribe the government in order to have the privilege to sue them! If you assert that you are a “nontaxpayer” and a person not liable for tax, the IRS will try to get your case dismissed because corrupt judges will assert “sovereign immunity”. See section 2.4.2 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 for further details on this scam. For those of you who are Christians, this scam quite clearly violates the bible, which declares:

“And you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous.” [Exodus 23:8]

4. Your state government will tell you that you MUST give them a valid Social Security Number in order for you to get a state driver’s license. They will do this in spite of the fact that traveling is a right and not a government privilege. In the words of the U.S. Supreme Court and lower courts:

“The right to travel is part of the ‘liberty’ that a citizen cannot be deprived without due process of law.” [Kent v. Dulles, 357 U.S. 116 (1958); U.S. v. Laub, 385 U.S. 475 (1967)]

“The use of the highways for the purpose of travel and transportation is not a mere privilege, but a common and fundamental Right of which the public and the individual cannot be rightfully deprived.” [Chicago Motor Coach vs. Chicago, 169 N.E. 22; Ligare vs. Chicago, 28 N.E. 934; Boon vs. Clark, 214 SSW 607; 25 Am.Jur. (1st) Highways Sect.163]

To give you just one more example of how privilege-induced slavery leads to government abuse, let’s look at licenses to practice law. The only rational basis for having any kind of professional license is consumer protection, but the legal profession has totally distorted and twisted this concept to benefit them, which amounts to a massive conflict of interest. For instance:

1. Only licensed attorneys can defend others in court. This prevents family members or friends or paralegals from providing low-cost legal assistance in court, and creates a greater marketplace and monopoly for legal services by attorneys. This also means that a lot more people go without legal representation, because they can’t afford to hire a lawyer to represent them. Is that justice, or is that simply the spread of oppression and injustice in the name of profit for the legal profession?
2. Even if the attorney is licensed to practice law from the socialist state, the court can revoke their right to defend anyone in a court of law. For instance:
  - 2.1. Look at what the court did to attorney Jeffrey Dickstein in United States v. Collins, 920 F.2d. 619, (10th Cir. 11/27/1990), which we showed in section 6.6.4.5. If you look at the ruling for this case, you will find that the court withdrew defendant Collins right to be represented by Attorney Dickstein, because they called attorney Dickstein

a “vexatious litigant”. He was therefore deprived of his choice of competent legal counsel, because the court viewed his counsel as “politically incorrect”.

2.2. Refer also to what the court did to attorney Oscar Stilley in section 6.11.1, as he defended Dr. Phil Roberts on tax charges. The court said, and we quote:

“The practice of law, sir, is a privilege, especially in Federal Court. You’re close to losing that privilege in this court, Mr. Stilley.”

3. Clients with attorneys are given favoritism by the court in the award of attorney fees against the other side. This leads attorneys to inflate their fees if they expect sanctions, in order to coerce the opposing side to settle. In most courts, pro per or pro se litigants are either not allowed or seldom are awarded attorney fees against the opposing side. Only litigants who have counsel can get attorney fee awards by the court. In effect, the courts treat the time and expense of pro per litigants in defending themselves as irrelevant and completely without value! That’s right.. if you as a pro per litigant keep track of your time diligently and bill for it at a rate less than an attorney in your motion for sanctions against the other side, the judge (who incidentally used to be a lawyer and probably still has lawyer golf buddies he wants to bring business to) will laugh you out of the courtroom! This has the effect of incentivizing people to have expensive legal counsel and incentivizes the lawyers to prolong the litigation and maximize their hourly rate to maximize their income. If you then ask a judge why they don’t award attorney fee sanctions to pro per litigants, he might get defensive and say: “Pro per litigants are high maintenance, and make extra work for the court because they don’t know what they are doing.” And yet these same courts and judges are the ones who earlier, as attorneys practicing law, intimidated and perpetuated the very ignorance on the part of their clients that made these people ignorant litigants as pro pers! All this rhetoric is just a smokescreen for the real agenda, which is maximizing business for and profits of those who practice law, and restricting the supply of qualified talent in order to keep the prices and the income of attorneys artificially high.

If we avail ourselves of a “privilege” granted by the state through operation of any statute that does not involve the exercise of a fundamental right, then we cannot have a constitutional grounds for redress of grievances against the statute:

“Anyone who partakes of the benefits or privileges of a given statute, or anyone who even places himself into a position where he may avail himself of those benefits at will, cannot reach constitutional grounds to redress grievances in the courts against the given statute.”
[Ashwander v. T.V.A., 297 U.S. 288, 346, 56 S.Ct. 466, 482, 80 L.Ed. 688 (1936)][underlines added]

But if we are simply trying to exist, by working and receiving a paycheck, voting, serving on jury duty, and fulfilling our various civic and family duties, we cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing:

“The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing. The corporation is an artificial entity which owes its existence and charter power to the State, but the individual’s right to live and own property are natural rights for the enjoyment of which an excise cannot be imposed.”
[Redfield v. Fisher, 292 Oregon 814, 817]

“Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege.” [Taxation West Key 43]...“The Right to receive income or earnings is a right belonging to every person and realization and receipt of income is therefore not a ‘privilege’, that can be taxed.”
[Taxation West Key 933]-[Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d. 453, Tenn.]

4.4.13 Government has become idolatry and a false religion

"Tyranny is the inevitable consequence of rule from above, a point that the Founding Fathers understood well when they separated the powers of a small and restrained government.

"Liberty is a human achievement, the product of a 1,000-year struggle. We have taken too lightly our obligation to "earn it anew." Consequently, we are ceasing to possess 'that which thy fathers bequeathed thee.' Our legislative political order has become an administrative state in which 'We the People' are increasingly fearful of the government that we allegedly control.

"If Thomas Jefferson was right, we cannot get self-rule back without a revolution."
[Jeff Bowman]

God, in Exodus 20:3, as part of the Ten Commandments, said:

"You shall have no other gods before Me."

Our life as Christians should revolve around putting God at the top of our priority list. That means supporting His causes with the first fruits of our labor and tithing to the church. Here's the scripture to back up this assertion:

"Honor the Lord with your possessions, and with the firstfruits of all your increase; so your barns will be filled with plenty, and your vats will overflow with new wine."
[Prov. 3:9-10]

But how can we tithe to the church and put God first, if we illegally pay almost 50% of our income to all the following combined taxes before God even gets his first dime in out tithes?:

1. Federal income tax (25% of our income).
2. State income tax. (15% of our income)
3. Property tax. (5% of our income)
4. Sales tax. (2% of our income)
5. Estate (Death) taxes. (up to 100% of our income and our assets over a lifetime!)

Instead, the first fruits of our labor and almost 50% of our living income (and 100% of our assets when we die) go to the GOVERNMENT first in the form of income taxes, before we ever even see a dime of our own income, and we put way too much emphasis and reliance on the government to help us. In effect, we allow or permit or volunteer ourselves to become

1 government slaves and they become our masters and thus we lose our sovereignty and thereby make God of secondary
 2 importance, presumably because we want a hand-out and government “security”. But listen to what God says about this type
 3 of abomination:

4 “Cursed is the one who trusts in man [and by implication, governments made up of men], who depends on
 5 flesh for his strength and whose heart turns away from the Lord. He will be like a bush in the wastelands; he
 6 will not see prosperity when it comes. He will dwell in the parched places of the desert, in a salt land where no
 7 one lives. But blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. He will be like a tree
 8 planted by the water that sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always 9 green. It has no worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit.”
 10 [Jeremiah 17:5-8, Bible, NIV]

11 By surrendering our sovereignty and letting government become our god or our cult, we have committed idolatry: relying
 12 more on government and man than we do on God or ourselves to meet our needs. Jesus Himself, however, specifically 13 warned us not to do this:

14 “Away with you , Satan! For it is written, ‘You shall worship the Lord your God, and Him ONLY [NOT the 15 government!] you shall serve.’”
 16 [Matt. 4:10, Bible, NKJV]

17 This kind of pernicious evil violates Psalm 118:8-9, which says: “It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in 18 man. It is better to trust the Lord than to put confidence in princes.” I translate “princes” to mean “government”. Likewise,
 19 such idolatry also violates Psalm 146:3, which says: “Put not your trust in princes, [nor] in the son of man, in whom [there 20 is] no help. “

21 But can government REALLY be a religion from a genuine legal perspective and can we prove this in court? Absolutely!
 22 Let’s look at the definition of “religion” from Black’s Law Dictionary to answer this question, and notice the highlighted
 23 words:

24 “Religion. Man’s relation to Divinity, to reverence, worship, obedience, and submission to mandates and
 25 precepts of supernatural or superior beings. In its broadest sense includes all forms of belief in the existence of 26 superior beings exercising power over human beings by volition, imposing rules of conduct, with future
 27 rewards and punishments. Bond uniting man to God, and a virtue whose purpose is to render God worship
 28 due him as source of all being and principle of all government of things. Nikulnikoff v. Archbishop, etc., of 29 Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church, 142 Misc. 894, 255 N.Y.S. 653, 663.”
 30 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1292]

31 Now we will take the highlighted words from this definition of “religion” above and put them into a table and compare
 32 worship of God on the left to worship of government on the right. The results are very surprising. The attributes in the left
 33 column of the table below are listed in the same sequence presented in the above definition and have asterisks next to them.
 34 Those attributes without asterisks provide additional means of comparison between worship of God and worship of 35 government (god with a little “g”).

1 Isn't that interesting? The other thing you MUST conclude after examining the above table is that if anyone in government
2 is a "superior being" relative to any human in the society they govern, then the government unavoidably becomes an idol and

1 a god to be “worshipped” and submitted to as if the government or its servants individually were a religion. In the feudal
2 system of British Common Law from which our legal system derives, they even call judges “Your Worship”:

3 “worship 1. chiefly Brit: a person of importance—used as a title for various officials (as magistrates and some
4 mayors) 2: reverence offered a divine being or supernatural power; also: an act of expressing such reverence
5 3: a form of religious practice with its creed and ritual 4: extravagant respect or admiration for or devotion to 6 an object of esteem <~ the dollar>.”
7 [Webster’s Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 1361]

8 We started with a government of law and not of men but we ended up with the opposite because of our apathy and ignorance:

9 “The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It
10 will certainly cease to deserve that high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested
11 legal right.”
12 [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

13 A government run by judges, instead of law is called a “kritarchy”. Such a government is described as a government of men
14 and not of law. Since judges are also “public servants”, then a “kritarchy” also qualifies as a “dulocracy”:

15 “Dulocracy. A government where servants and slaves have so much license and privilege that they domineer.”
16 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 501]

17 The book of Judges in the Bible shows what happens to a culture that trusts in man and the flesh and their own feelings rather 18 than in God’s law for their sense of justice and morality. Below is an excerpt from our Bible introducing the Book of Judges
19 to make the moral lessons contained in the book crystal clear:

20 The Book of Judges stands in stark contrast to Joshua. In Joshua an obedient people conquered the land through
21 trust in the power of God. In Judges, however, a disobedient and idolatrous people are defeated time and time
22 again because of their rebellion against God.

23 In seven distinct cycles of sin to salvation, Judges shows how Israel had set aside God’s law and in its place
24 substituted “what was right in his own eyes” (21:25). The recurring result of abandonment from God’s law is 25 corruption from within and oppression from without. During the nearly four centuries spanned by this book,
26 God raises up military champions to throw off the yoke of bondage and to restore the nation to pure worship. But 27 all too soon the “sin cycle” begins again as the nation’s spiritual temperance grows steadily colder.

28 ...

29 The Book of Judges could also appropriately be titled “The Book of Failure.”

30 Deterioration (1:1-3:4). Judges begins with short-lived military successes after Joshua’s death, but quickly turns
31 to the repeated failure of all the tribes to drive out their enemies. The people feel the lack of a unified central 32 leader, but the primary reasons for their failure are a lack of faith in God and lack of obedience to Him (2:1-2).
33 Compromise leads to conflict and chaos. Israel does not drive out the inhabitants (1:21, 27, 29, 30); instead of 34 removing the moral cancer [IRS, Federal Reserve?] spread by the inhabitants of Canaan, they contract the 35 disease. The Canaanite gods [money, sex, covetousness] literally become a snare to them (2:3). Judges 2:11-23
36 is a microcosm of the pattern found in Judges 3-16.

37 Deliverance (3:5-16:31). In verses 3:5 through 16:31 of the Book of Judges, seven apostasies (fallings away 38 from God) are described, seven servitudes, and seven deliverances. Each of the seven cycles has five steps: sin,
39 servitude, supplication, salvation, and silence. These also can be described by the words rebellion, retribution,
40 repentance, restoration, and rest. The seven cycles connect together as a descending spiral of sin (2:19). Israel
41 vacillates between obedience and apostasy as the people continually fail to learn from their mistakes. Apostasy
42 grows, but the rebellion is not continual. The times of rest and peace are longer than the times of bondage. The 43 monotony of Israel’s sins can be contrasted with the creativity of God’s methods of deliverance.

44 Depravity (17:1-21:25). Judges 17:1 through 21:25 illustrate (1) religious apostasy (17 and 18) and (2) social 45 and moral depravity (19-21) during the period of the judges. Chapters 19-21 contain one of the worst tales of 46 degradation in the Bible. Judges closes with a key to understanding the period: “everyone did what was right
47 in his own eyes” (21:25) [a.k.a. “what FEELS good”]. The people are not doing what is wrong in their own 48 eyes, but what is “evil in the sight of the Lord” (2:11).
49 [The Open Bible, New King James Version, Thomas Nelson Publishers, Copyright 1997, pp. 340-341]

The hypocrisy and idolatry represented by a government of judges or of men rather than law not only violates the first and greatest Commandment in the Bible found in Exodus 20:3 and Matt. 22:37-38, but is also more importantly violates the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution:

First Amendment:

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

How do government servants make themselves or the government they are part of into a “superior being”? Here are just a few highly unethical and evil ways:

1. Writing laws that apply to everyone but them.
  2. Enforcing laws against everyone BUT themselves.
  3. Abuse official, judicial, or sovereign immunity to make themselves exempt from all laws EXCEPT those the government individually and expressly consents to while refusing the ability of the average American to do the same thing.
  4. Refusing to recognize or protect the First Amendment right of people NOT to be a CUSTOMER of the civil protection called a “citizen” or “resident” and to thereby be protect ONLY by the common law rather than the civil law. This makes government essentially into a criminal protection racket in which “taxes” are really nothing more than a bribe to get criminals in government to CIVILLY leave you alone. Since justice is the right to be left alone, it also produces INJUSTICE. Government are nothing more than a “body corporate” whose only product is “protection”. What other corporation can FORCE you to buy their product? A government founded to provide PROTECTION that won’t even protect you from ITSELF has no business collecting monies to protect you from anyone ELSE.
  5. Imputing to themselves more rights or methods of acquiring rights than the people themselves have. In other words, who are the object of PAGAN IDOL WORSHIP because they possess “supernatural” powers. By “supernatural”, we mean that which is superior to the “natural”, which is ordinary human beings.
  6. Printing (counterfeiting) unlimited amounts of money to fund their socialist takeover of America while putting everyone else into jail for doing the same thing. This is the main purpose of the corrupt Federal Reserve.
  7. Having a monopoly on anything, INCLUDING “protection”, and who turn that monopoly into a mechanism to force EVERYONE illegally to be treated as uncompensated public officers in exchange for the “privilege” of being able to even exist or earn a living to support oneself.
  8. Making judges, juries, or any decision maker into either federal benefit recipients or "taxpayers" in tax cases, thus making the judge and/or jury into criminals with a financial conflict of interest that makes it impossible to win against the government in any proceeding involving the violation of the tax or franchise codes.
  9. Abusing executive enforcement powers to "selectively enforce" against political enemies to protect their own self-interest rather than the interest of the average American.
  10. Lying with impunity in ALL of their publications and not being responsible for the accuracy of ANY of their government publications, and especially tax publications
  11. Forcing everyone who wants their help to sign under penalty of perjury with accurate and truthful information while not being EQUALLY accountable for doing the same when they communicate with the public.
  12. Enforcing laws outside their territory, thus abusing the legal system as an excuse to engage in acts of international LEGALIZED terrorism.
  13. Lying to or misleading a grand jury and not be held accountable for it because they would have to prosecute themselves if they did.
  14. Corrupt judges suppressing admission of evidence in court that would undermine their power or control over society. This is especially true in cases against wrongdoers in government.
  15. Corrupt judges making cases unpublished where the government was litigated against and lost, thus preventing them from being cited as precedent.
- Nonpublication.com
<http://www.nonpublication.com/>
16. Corrupt judges threatening prosecuting attorneys with loss of licenses for corruption cases against themselves or anyone in government.
  17. Corrupt judges telling juries that they must rule in the case based on what the judge says is the law rather than based on a reading of the actual law. This substitutes the judge's will for what the law says, violates the separation of powers, and makes the judge in the judge, jury, and executioner and the people into SLAVES.
  18. Abuse the legal system to terrorize and persecute Americans for their political activities or to coerce them into giving up some right that the law entitles them to. Most Americans can’t afford legal representation and government abuses this vulnerability by litigating maliciously and endlessly against their enemies to terrorize them into submission and run up their legal bills. This makes their victims into a financial slave of an expensive attorney who is licensed by the same state he is litigating against, which imparts a conflict of interest that prejudices the rights of his client.

TITLE 18 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 77 > Sec. 1589.
Sec. 1589. - Forced labor

Whoever knowingly provides or obtains the labor or services of a person -

(3) by means of the abuse or threatened abuse of law or the legal process.

shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than 20 years, or both. If death results from the violation of this section, or if the violation includes kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse or the attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, the defendant shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for any term of years or life, or both

By making itself a “superior being” relative to the people it governs and serves and using the color but not actual force of law to compel the people to pay homage to and “worship” and to serve it with their stolen labor (extorted through illegally enforced income taxes), Congress has mandated a religion, with all the many necessary characteristics found in the legal definition of “religion” indicated above, and this is clearly unconstitutional. The only way to guarantee the elimination of the conflict of law that results from putting government above the people is to:

1. Make God the sovereign over all of creation.
2. Make the people servants to God and His fiduciary agents.
3. Create government as a servant to the People and their fiduciary agent. Make the only source of government authority that of protecting the people from evil, injustice, and abuse.

There is no other rational conclusion one can reach based on the above analysis. There is simply no other way to solve this logical paradox of government becoming a religion in the process of making itself superior to the people or the “U.S. citizens”. The definition of “religion” earlier confirmed that God must be the origin of earthly government, when it said:

“Bond uniting man to God, and a virtue whose purpose is to render God worship due him as source of all being and principle of all government of things.”

One of our readers, Humberto Nunez, wrote a fascinating and funny article showing just how similar government and most religions really are:

GOVERNMENT IS A PAGAN CULT AND WE'VE ALL BEEN DRINKING THE KOOL AID

By: Humberto Nunez

Government is a pagan cult. When you join the Armed Forces, the first thing they do is shave your head. Just like in many cults, where they shave your head. The Army also uses sleep deprivation in Boot Camp, just like many cults do, to brainwash their people.

Secret Service Agents are willing to “die for their beliefs” (in defense of The President: their cult leader).

Many men say that they would “die for their country”. This is a form of pagan Martyrdom for the pagan cult State.

Many today say that “religion has caused more war... “ and blah blah blah.

But the fact is that governments send out draft cards, not churches. Governments started WWI and WWII, not religion. In fact, during times of peace governments hate religion because religion is the governments’ #1 competition for allegiance, and during times of war, governments use religion for their own agenda.

Another similarity to cults: FBI Agents even dress similar to Mormons, and have the same type of haircuts. Many cults have a dress code of some kind, just like in the Army, and even in the Corporate world.

When you join the Moonies you would probably end up selling flowers for them, and the Moonies will keep all the profits from the work you do. When you work today, the pagan cult State takes your profits (in the form of income taxes), and they won't let you leave their cult (the State). If you attempt to not pay your taxes, you would be arrested and branded a criminal.

Now, I did a little research into the symptoms and signs of a cult and found these 5 Warning Signs: (to distinguish a cult from a 'normal' religion)

3. The organization is willing to place itself above the law; this is probably the most important characteristic.
4. The leadership dictates, (rather than suggests) important personal (as opposed to spiritual) details of followers' lives, such as whom to marry, what to study in college, etc.
5. The leader sets forth ethical guidelines members must follow but from which the leader is exempt.
6. The group is preparing to fight a literal, physical Armageddon against other human beings.
7. The leader regularly makes public assertions that he or she knows is false and/or the group has a policy of routinely deceiving outsiders.

Now, let's break these down one by one.

1. The organization is willing to place itself above the law; this is probably the most important characteristic.

Example: Death Penalty.

What is the purpose and intention behind State sponsored Death Penalty? The primary purpose and intention behind State sponsored Death Penalty is not to deter crime, nor is it to be tough on crime. To understand the purpose and intent behind this, we must study psychology, in particular, behavioral psychology; like in training a dog. To train a dog, one must use behavioral modification techniques. For example, the primary purpose and intention behind anti-smoking laws is to get you to obey the State. Before you can train a dog to kill, you must first train the dog to obey simple commands; like sit, and roll over. The same is true of recycling laws. Glass bottles are actually much safer for the environment than plastic bottles. The primary purpose and intention behind recycling laws is not to save the environment, it is a behavioral modification technique to get the people to obey the Government.

Now, back to State sponsored death penalty laws. The primary purpose and intention behind Death Penalty laws is to get people used to the idea that the State is above the law. It is illegal for people to kill and to murder. With State sponsored Death Penalty laws, the State is Above the Law.

There you have symptom #1:

1. The organization is willing to place itself above the law; this is probably the most important characteristic.
2. The leadership dictates, (rather than suggests) important personal (as opposed to spiritual) details of followers' lives, such as whom to marry, what to study in college, etc.

I can give a dozen examples of this behavioral modification ploy of cults. Recycling and anti-smoking laws were two examples I explained above. Dictating the behavior of Americans today is pervasive throughout our entire society.

3. The leader sets forth ethical guidelines members must follow but from which the leader is exempt.

We can see this today very clearly when it comes to violence. Many Americans today are forced to attend Anger Management Courses while at the same time the State uses violence (like in the Iraq War).

4. The group is preparing to fight a literal, physical Armageddon against other human beings.

Three words: War on Terrorism

5. The leader regularly makes public assertions that he or she knows is false and/or the group has a policy of routinely deceiving outsiders.

I don't think that last symptom (of a cult) needs further explanation.

Well there you have it; the Government has all of the 5 major signs/symptoms of being a cult.

For the philosophy behind The Nature of Government I recommend this read:

http://www.apfn.org/apfn/nature\_gov.htm

1 It is A MUST READ for all Americans and all freedom loving peoples of the world. It is so good that if I start
2 quoting from it, I'll just end up pasting the entire article here in my article. So I'll just leave it at that and say you
3 the reader here MUST READ IT.

4 Now, the atheist says "Show me God." I say, "Show me government." I do not believe in the existence of 5 government. Now hold your horses, I know that sounds silly at first, but let me explain.

6 Let's say you were on a ship full of people. Now the people in that ship went insane and started hallucinating,
7 thinking that you were an alien from another planet and that you must be killed. If those people on that ship killed
8 you, you would really be dead, literally. Just because of the reality of the consequences of that mass hallucination
9 (you being dead) does not prove that you were really an alien. It just proves that the people were suffering from 10 mass hallucination. So, just because the so-called 'government' can arrest you and put you in jail, that does not
11 prove the existence of government. It just proves mass hallucination.

12 Let's start again now:

13 The atheist says "Show me God." I say, "Show me government." Now don't tell me the White House. That is 14 not 'government'. That is a building. That's just as if I were to show an atheist a church (a building), that would 15 not prove the existence of God.

16 Ok now, you might show me a Police Officer in uniform, and offer proof on how he can actually arrest me, to 17 prove the existence of Government.

18 Well, I can show an atheist a priest in uniform, but that would not prove the existence of God. Even if Congress
19 gave priests the authority to arrest people on the streets that would still not prove the existence of God to an
20 atheist. Just like a cop in uniform does not prove the existence of government, it only proves that the people are 21 suffering from mass hallucination.

22 People today are obsessed with the laws of the pagan-cult State. The Constitution, the Bill of Rights, etc. etc,
23 people meditating day and night on the 'laws' of the pagan-cult State, as opposed to the Law of God. Thomas
24 Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, these men have become cult figures. They have replaced Abraham, Isaac, Jacob,
25 Noah, Moses, as the men of God to be pondered on and studied.

26 Sacrifice for Protection

27 In ancient times, people performed human sacrifice to their pagan false gods for 'Protection' from the gods. They 28 believed their gods also played the role of 'Provider' by performing human sacrifice for rain for their crops for 29 example.

30 Today, the U.S. Fed. Govt. is asking for "Sacrifice for Protection'. The State today is now saying that the people
31 must sacrifice their Freedoms and Liberties for 'Protection' from terrorism (demons, evil spirits, etc.) and that
32 the State will then 'Provide' them with safety.

33 This is metaphorically a form of human sacrifice. It is not a human sacrifice where you literally kill someone (like 34 in the Death Penalty), but it is a "human" sacrifice. I mean, the State is not asking the animals to sacrifice their 35 Freedoms and Liberties, it is asking us humans, so it is a "human" sacrifice as opposed to an 'animal' sacrifice
36 in that sense. Also, there is death involved; the death of our Freedoms and Liberty.

37 By the way, State sponsored Death Penalty is another form of human sacrifice for the pagan-cult State, and State
38 sponsored abortion is a form of child sacrifice for this pagan-cult State.

39 Black Robes: Judges and Devil worshippers

40 Judges wear Black Robes just like Devil worshippers. The Judges' Desk is the Altar of Baal. They bring men tied 41 up in handcuffs before the altar (Judges' desk) and these men are for the human sacrifice and the entire court
42 proceeding is a satanic ritual.

43 Sounds crazy? Is it a coincidence that the 'language of the court' is Latin (ex: Habeas Corpus) just like the 44 'language of a Catholic Exorcism' is also in Latin? Lawyers speak Latin in the court room just like Priests use
45 Latin when performing exorcisms when you have a 'case' of full DEMONIC POSSESSION.

46 Also, the same type of 'respect' a Priest would expect from a visitor to his church is the same type of respect a 47 Judge expects in his court room. There's even a penalty for disobeying this 'respect'; it's called "Contempt of 48 Court".

49 Another psychological conditioning behavior modification technique being applied on the American Public is 50 this: Television shows like Judge Judy, Judge Joe, all these People's Courts television shows. The primary intention and purpose behind these so-called Court Room Justice shows is to condition the public to get used to entering a court room with NO Trial by Jury. In not one of any of these types of shows do you ever see a Trial by Jury; that is not a mistake, it is intentional, and by design.

I can go on and on with this article and offer a million more details.

To conclude, if the U.S. Govt. plans to attack Iran, North Korea, etc. in the future. And if there is the possibility that this War on Terrorism might lead to WWII. Then, that is nothing but pagan-cult MASS SUICIDE. And the U.S. Govt. is a pagan cult, and WE'VE ALL BEEN DRINKING THE KOOL AID. [Does Jim Jones from Ghana ring a bell?]

Now, some readers of this article (especially neo-conservatives) would automatically brand me an Anarchist. I am not an Anarchist, what I am questioning is the role of government. According to the Founding Fathers of America, the role of government was to protect your Individual Rights. NOT TO TAKE THEM AWAY.

And finally, if the people will not serve God, they will end up serving and being slaves of government. I am sure many Christians would believe this, and even some followers of eastern philosophies; for this is a form of 'Bad Karma'.

And, if man will not serve God, then woman will not serve man. This is also a form of 'bad karma' [and it may also explain why the divorce rate is so high].

Another fascinating and funny article that helps to clarify just how God-like our government has become is as follows:

The Ten Commandments of the U.S. Government, Family Guardian Fellowship

I. I am the Lord of the Talmud, thou shalt have no Biblical God before me.

II. Thou shalt not make unto thee any but Satanic images: the witch, symbol of the city government and police department of Salem, Massachusetts; the five-pointed occult pentagram of Sirius, of the state religion of Egypt, emblem of the Department of Defense and our Armed Forces, and the badge of U.S. law enforcement at all levels; the pyramid of Pharaoh, capped by the all-Seeing Eye of Horus, emblazoned on the currency in the denomination of one shekel.

III. Thou shalt not take the name of thy god in vain: thou shalt not blaspheme the name Rabbi, Israeli, Zionism, "U.S. government", or any politician or agency.

IV. Remember the Wal Mart sale on the Sabbath Day, and keep it holy by spending. Seven days must thou labor, that thereby thou shalt spend ever more.

V. Honor thy son and thy daughter. Neither spank nor say no to them when they seek to consume the sex and violence that is dangled before them from every lawful venue. Thy daughter shalt dress like a cheap harlot from the age of eight onward, and thy son shall engage in bloody video games, likewise from his eighth year. All of these are legal and profitable, saith the Lord.

VI. Thou shalt not kill the molester of 150 children in his prison cell, and thou shalt condemn the convict who executes the molester, lest such justice be encouraged, and lest it be known that the convict had greater common sense and honor than a legion of our judges.

VII. Thou shalt commit adultery and televise and popularize it throughout the land, and broadcast it into Afghanistan and Iraq, that thereby the Muslims shall be vouchsafed a share in our democracy and freedom.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal from us, for we detest competition.

IX. Thou shalt indeed bear false witness, for by perjury our Law is established.

X. Covet thy neighbor's goods and thy neighbor's wife, for thereby doth our Order prosper.

I'll bet you never even dreamed that there were so many parallels between Christianity and government, did you? I'll bet you also never thought of government as a religion, but that is exactly what it has become. The idea of making government a religion or creating false idols for the people to worship is certainly not new. Here is an example from the bible, where "cities" are referred to as "gods". Notice this passage also criticizes evolutionists when it says "Saying to.. a stone 'you gave birth to me.'". Evolutionists believe that we literally descended from rocks that evolved from a primordial soup:

1 "As the thief is ashamed when he is found out,
 2 So is the house of Israel ashamed;
 3 They and their kings and their princes, and their priests and their prophets,
 4 Saying to a tree, "You are my father,"
 5 And to a stone, "You gave birth to me."
 6 For they have turned their back to Me, and not their face.
 7 But in the time of their trouble
 8 They will say, "Arise and save us."
 9 But where are your gods [governments] that you have made for yourselves?
 10 Let them arise,
 11 If they can save you in the time of your trouble;
 12 For according to the number of your cities
 13 Are your gods, O Judah."
 14 [Jeremiah 2:26-28, Bible, NKJV]

15 Leaders know that if you can get people to worship false idols and thereby blaspheme God with their sin, then you can use
 16 this idolatry to captivate and enslave them. For instance, in the Bible in 1 Kings Chapters 11 and 12, we learn that Solomon
 17 disobeyed the Lord by marrying foreign wives and worshipping the idols of these foreign wives. When Solomon died, his 18 son Rehoboam hardened his heart against God and alienated his people. Then he fought a competitor named Jeroboam over
 19 the spoils of his vast father's remnant kingdom (1 Kings 12). The weapon that Jeroboam used to compete with Rehoboam
 20 was the creation of a false idol for the ten tribes of Israel that were under his leadership. This false idol consisted of two 21 calves of solid gold. The false idol distracted ten of the 12 tribes of Israel from wanting to reunite with the other two tribes
 22 and worship the true God. To this day, the twelve tribes have never again been able to reunite, because they were divided by 23 idolatry toward false gods. Here is a description of how Jeroboam did it from 1 Kings 12:25-33:

24 Golden Calves at Bethel and Dan

25 <sup>25</sup> Then Jeroboam fortified Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim and lived there. From there he went out and 26 built up Peniel.

27 <sup>26</sup> Jeroboam thought to himself, "The kingdom will now likely revert to the house of David. <sup>27</sup> If these people
 28 go up to offer sacrifices at the temple of the LORD in Jerusalem, they will again give their allegiance to their
 29 lord, Rehoboam king of Judah. They will kill me and return to King Rehoboam."

30 <sup>28</sup> After seeking advice, the king made two golden calves. He said to the people, "It is too much for you to go
 31 up to Jerusalem. Here are your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of Egypt." <sup>29</sup> One he set up in Bethel,
 32 and the other in Dan. <sup>30</sup> And this thing became a sin; the people went even as far as Dan to worship the one 33 there.

34 <sup>31</sup> Jeroboam built shrines on high places and appointed priests from all sorts of people, even though they were
 35 not Levites. <sup>32</sup> He instituted a festival on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, like the festival held in Judah, and 36 offered sacrifices on the altar. This he did in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves he had made. And at Bethel he 37 also installed priests at the high places he had made. <sup>33</sup> On the fifteenth day of the eighth month, a month of his 38 own choosing, he offered sacrifices on the altar he had built at Bethel. So he instituted the festival for the 39 Israelites and went up to the altar to make offerings.
 40 [1 Kings 12:25-33, Bible, NIV]

41 Similar to Jeroboam, our present government conquers the people by encouraging them to become distracted with false idols.
 42 These false idols include:

- 43 1. Government. This translates into worship of and slavery to government through the income tax and an obsession
 44 with petitioning government to protect people from discrimination or punishment for the consequences of their sins,
 45 including homosexuality, dishonesty, and infidelity.
- 46 2. Money. They use this lust for money to divide and conquer and control families by getting them fighting over 47 money within their marriage. They encourage people to get marriage licenses they never needed in order to get
 48 jurisdiction over the spouses and their assets, and then they make it so easy to get divorced that it becomes
 49 economically attractive to marry people for their money. This means that people get married for all the wrong
 50 reasons, and make themselves into slaves of the state in the process of using the state courts as a vehicle to plunder
 51 their partner using community property laws.
- 52 3. Sex. A fixation with sex, homosexuality, fornication, and adultery. People who are obsessed with anything, and 53 especially sex, are far less likely to be informed about the law or vigilant about holding their government 54 accountable.
- 55 4. Sports and television. People who are hooked on Monday night football or the latest host soap or sitcom aren't 56 likely to be caught visiting the law library or reading the Bible as God says they should.
- 57 5. Materialism. This manifests itself in an obsession to acquire and keep "things".

6. Sin. In the past, the government outlawed gambling and lotteries. Now most states have actually institutionalized this kind of sin. The government holds lotteries and even advertises them. Indian reservations have become havens for legalized gambling.

Have you ever visited a doctor's office for minor surgery? What the doctor does is administer a local anesthetic to numb your senses in the area he will be cutting and operating on so you won't experience pain or feel what he is doing. The government does the same thing. Before they hook you up to "The Matrix" using their umbilical called the "income tax" to painfully suck you dry, they use a "local anesthetic" that numbs your senses and your discretion. This "local anesthetic" is the sin and hedonism and idolatry they try to get you addicted to and distracted with that they use to make you into a slave:

*"Most assuredly, I say to you, whoever commits sin is a slave of sin."
[Jesus in John 8:34, Bible, NKJV]*

Once you are a slave to your sin, you are far less likely to give them any trouble about being a host organism for the federal parasite that sucks your life and your labor and your property dry. They supplement this local anesthetic called "sin" with a combination of cognitive dissonance, lies and propaganda, ignorance generated by the public fool (school) system, and an occasional media report about how they trashed a famous person to keep you in fear and immobilized to oppose their organized extortion and racketeering. This trains you never to trust or respect your own judgment well enough to even conceive of questioning authority or challenging their jurisdiction.

*"Surely oppression destroys a wise man's reason.
And a [compelled] bribe [called income tax] debases the heart."
[Ecclesiastes 7:7, Bible, NKJV]*

The concept of government as a religion especially applies to the field of taxation. The Internal Revenue Code is 9,500 pages of very fine print. We know because we have a personal copy and read it often. Our own former Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill calls it, and I quote:

"9,500 pages of gibberish."

[See this quote in a news article at: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/OrgAndDuties/IRSExhibit-PaulONeill-IRSCo9500PgsOfGibberish.pdf>]

How many people have taken the time to read the Internal Revenue Code in its entirety, and even among those very few people who have read it completely, how many believe that they fully and completely understand it well enough to swear under penalty of perjury that facts they reveal and statements they might make about their own personal tax liability would be completely consistent with it? If you don't meet these two criteria of having read it completely and often and having a full and accurate understanding about it that is truthful and consistent with its legislative intent, then any statement you make on a tax return that is based on your state of mind in that instance becomes simply a matter of usually misinformed or ignorant "belief". There's a good word for this condition of believing something without knowing all the facts. It is called "faith" and it is the foundation of all religions in the world!:

*"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."
[Heb. 11:1, Bible, NKJV]*

Isn't "faith" based on a "belief" in something which you have not seen sufficient scientific evidence to prove? If you are like most Americans who have never read or even seen any part of the Internal Revenue Code, which is the only admissible "evidence" of your legal tax obligation, then any action you might take and any statement you might make regarding your tax "liability" under such circumstances could be rationally described only as an act of "faith" and "belief". Here's the legal definition of "faith":

Faith. Confidence; credit; reliance. Thus, an act may be said to be done 'on the faith' of certain representations.*

Belief; credence; trust. Thus, the Constitution provides that 'full faith and credit' shall be given to the judgments of each state in the courts of the others.*

*Purpose; intent; sincerity; state of knowledge or design. This is the meaning of the word in the phrase "good faith" and "bad faith". See Good faith."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 599]*

1 Even when you hire an expensive professional to prepare your tax return, you still have all of the responsibility and liability
 2 for the content and the accuracy of the return and if the IRS institutes a penalty for errors or omissions, isn't it you rather than
 3 your tax preparer who has to pay the penalty? What exactly are you "trusting" (see the definition of "faith" above) when you
 4 sign a tax return and state under penalty of perjury that it is truthful without even reading or knowing or understanding the
 5 tax code? What you are in fact "trusting" is "man" or your "government". You are trusting what the IRS told you in its
 6 publications, right? Or you're trusting an ignorant and greedy and unethical tax lawyer or a misinformed accountant to tell
 7 you what your legal responsibilities are, aren't you? That is called trusting "man" because a man wrote those publications or 8 gave you the advice that you formed your "belief" from. The Bible says we shouldn't trust men or a "worthless" government,
 9 and instead ought to trust only Him:

10 "Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law [God's Law, not Caesar's law] to do them. And all 11 the people shall say, Amen."
 12 [Deu 27:26, Bible, NKJV]

13 "Behold, the nations are as a drop in the bucket, and are counted as the small dust on the scales."
 14 [Isaiah 40:15, Bible, NKJV]

15 "All nations before Him are as nothing, and they are counted by Him less than nothing and worthless."
 16 [Isaiah 40:17, Bible, NKJV]

17 "Cursed is the one who trusts in man [or by implication man-made government], who depends on flesh for his
 18 strength and whose heart turns away from the Lord. He will be like a bush in the wastelands; he will not see*
 19 prosperity when it comes. He will dwell in the parched places of the desert, in a salt land where no one lives.
 20 But blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. He will be like a tree planted by the 21 water that sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always green. It has 22 no worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit."
 23 [Jeremiah 17:5-8, Bible, NIV]

24 Now if our government had stuck to its original charter to be "a society of laws and not men", then we wouldn't be forced to
 25 have to depend on "men" to know what our tax responsibilities are because we would be able to read the law ourselves
 26 without consulting an "expert" and KNOW what we are supposed to do:

27 "The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It
 28 will certainly cease to deserve that high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested
 29 legal right."
 30 [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

31 If our government had remained honorable and honest, the laws would be simple and clear and short. Read the earlier tax
 32 laws: they are very short and easy to understand. These laws were KNOWABLE by the common man. The easiest way to 33 make the law respectable is to make it short and simple enough so that every person can read and understand it. When it
 34 grows too large and/or too complicated to be knowable by every citizen, then at that point, we have transformed our society
 35 from a society of laws to a society of men, which is the root and the foundation of tyranny and the very reason we rebelled
 36 against English monarchs to form this country! That kind of corruption of our laws began starting in around 1913, shortly
 37 after the Federal Reserve Act and the Sixteenth Amendment were passed. At that point, our government became a gigantic
 38 parasite completely unrestrained by the Constitutional limits that had kept it under control. It became a socialist bureaucracy
 39 bent on destroying our liberties and making itself into a false god.

40 The IRS publications are the only thing that most Americans have ever read that even comes close to claiming to represent
 41 what is in the real tax code found in the Internal Revenue Code. Because most people can't afford a high-priced lawyer or
 42 accountant who understands the tax code completely, and don't have the time to read the entire IRC or buy and read a
 43 comprehensive and complete book on taxes, then Americans in effect are economically coerced into relying on and having a
 44 "religious faith" in the IRS publications as their only source to understand what the tax code requires. Add to that the legal 45 ignorance perpetuated in them by our government schools and you have additional government duress. Worst yet, the federal 46 courts have said that none of these IRS publications are credible and that they "confer no rights". Read the article on our 47 website about this scam because it will blow your mind!:

48 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

49 Even the IRS says you can't rely on their own publications in their Internal Revenue Manual:

1 "IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their
2 advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."

3 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

4 So once again, if you haven't personally read the entire Internal Revenue Code, don't understand it completely, or have
5 trusted the IRS publications, then your "faith" is ill-founded and in effect becomes "bad faith" because you are relying on a
6 completely unaccountable, criminal, and lawless organization called the IRS to define and fulfill your purported legal 7 responsibilities, and that can only be described as despicable, morally wrong, and biblically unsound:

8 "Bad faith. The opposite of "good faith," generally implying or involving actual or constructive fraud, or a
9 design to mislead or deceive another, or a neglect or refusal to fulfill some duty or some contractual obligation,
10 not prompted by an honest mistake as to one's rights or duties, but by some interested or sinister motive. Term
11 "bad faith" is not simply bad judgment or negligence, but rather it implies the conscious doing of a wrong because 12 of dishonest purpose or moral obliquity; it is different from the negative idea of negligence in that it contemplates 13 a state of mind affirmatively operating with furtive design or ill will..."

14 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 139]

15 You are not alone in your compelled depravity and violation of God's law because most Americans, including us, are just 16 like you. But you have to trust "somebody" on this tax subject don't you, because if you don't file the government is going
17 to go after you and penalize you, aren't they? So you are compelled to have "faith" in something, right? You get to choose
18 what that "something" is, but the result is a compelled "faith" or "trust" in "something" because of demands the government
19 is making on you to satisfy your alleged tax responsibilities.

20 Now if the Constitution says in the First Amendment that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of 21 religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof", and yet the IRS tells you under the "color of law" that you have to in effect
22 trust or have "religious faith" in "something" in order to satisfy their criminal extortion under the "color of law", then isn't
23 the government in effect "making a law respecting the establishment of a religion"? When corrupt judges make rulings on 24 tax issues that violate the Constitution and prejudice our sacred rights, aren't they making law? Isn't this kind of judicial
25 activism called "judge-made law" and isn't Congress' failure to discipline such tyrant judges the equivalent of allowing them
26 to write law that will then be used as precedent in the future? Isn't the object of that "religious faith" and "trust" that the 27 government compels us to have the fraudulent IRS Publications directly, and the IRS who prepares them indirectly? So in 28 effect, if the income tax is indeed an "enforced" or "compelled" tax, then the government has established "faith in the IRS"
29 as a religion by the operation of law. And then the federal courts of that same government have turned around and said that 30 even though the only basis for most people's beliefs is the IRS publications, they aren't trustworthy nor credible, and in fact,
31 you can be penalized for relying on what the IRS told you in them! So you are in effect being compelled to trust or have 32 "religious faith" in a lie, aren't you? But then out of the other side of that same hypocritical and criminal government's 33 mouth, the U.S. supreme Court says:

34 "Courts, no more than the Constitutions, can intrude into the consciences of men or compel them to believe
35 contrary to their faith or think contrary to their convictions, but courts are competent to adjudge the acts men
36 do under the color of a constitutional right, such as that of freedom of speech or of the press or of the free exercise
37 of religion and to determine whether the claimed right is limited by other recognized powers, equally precious to 38 mankind. So the mind and the spirit of man remain forever free, while his actions rest subject to necessary
39 accommodation to the competing needs of his fellows."

40 "If all expression of religion or opinion, however, were subject to the discretion of authority, our unfettered
41 dynamic thoughts or moral impulses might be made only colorless and sterile ideas. To give them life and 42 force, the Constitution protects their use. No difference of view as to the importance of the freedoms of press or 43 religion exist. They are "fundamental personal rights and liberties" Schneider v. State, 308 U.S. 147, 161, 60
44 S.Ct. 146, 150, 84 L.Ed. 155. To proscribe the dissemination of doctrines or arguments which do not transgress
45 military or moral limits is to destroy the principal bases of democracy, --knowledge and discussion. One man,
46 with views contrary to the rest of his compatriots, is entitled to the privilege of expressing his ideas by speech or 47 broadside to anyone willing to listen or to read. ...

48 "Ordinances absolutely prohibiting [or penalizing] the exercise of the right to disseminate information are, a 49 fortiori, invalid."

50 [Jones v. City of Opelika, 316 U.S. 584, 62 S.Ct. 1231 (1942), Emphasis added]

51 And when we raise the issue in court that the payment of federal income taxes violates our religious beliefs as documented
52 here, then the courts frequently say that our arguments are "frivolous". See section 4.18 later and U.S. v. Lee, 455 U.S. 252
53 (1982) for further confirmation of how the government essentially labels our religious beliefs as being frivolous in the process of enforcing their “love for your money” in the courts. That too is a government action to create a religion, because all of the arguments here are based on the law and words right out of the mouths of the government’s own judges and lawyers. Indirectly, they are saying that their own words are frivolous! That’s religion and idolatry, and the object of worship is the almighty dollar. The result of them calling our claims “frivolous” is a maximization of federal revenues and personal retirement benefits of federal judges through illegal and unconstitutional extortion. That too violates Christian beliefs, which say that “covetousness” is idolatry, which is the religious worship of idols:

“Therefore put to death your members which are on the earth: fornication, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry.”
[Colossians 3:5, Bible, NKJV]

“Behold, to obey [God and His Law] is better than sacrifice, and to heed than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is an iniquity and idolatry. Because you have rejected the word of the Lord, He also has rejected you from being king [or sovereign over government].”
[1 Sam. 15:22-28, Bible, NKJV]

The implication of the above scripture is that when public servants in the government violate God’s law, they cease to be part of the government and are acting as private individuals absent the authority of law. They are no longer the sovereigns who are serving the public they are there to protect. Instead they are serving themselves mainly and thereby violating the fiduciary relationship they have as part of the public trust and federal corporation known as the “United States government” (see section 2.1 earlier for details). Christians are supposed to disobey such unlawful and immoral actions, including those of courts.

“We ought to obey God rather than men.”
[Acts 5:27-29, Bible, NKJV]

So we have a paradox, folks. Either Subtitle A income taxes are mandatory and enforced and “religious faith in the IRS” has become the new religion, or the taxes are instead entirely “voluntary” donations and therefore do not conflict with religious views or the First Amendment. We can’t have it both ways, but the government’s fraudulent way of calling them mandatory conflicts with so many aspects of our Constitution that we may as well throw the whole Bill of Rights in the toilet and tell everyone the truth: which is that all their freedoms are suspended to pay for the extravagant debts of an out-of-control government and everyone is an economic slave and a serf to the government.

In our time, government has not only become a religion, it has also become an anti-religion intent on driving Christianity out of public life so that its only competitor (God) can be eliminated and it can continue to grow in power without resistance and graduate to that of a totalitarian communist state. Christianity, it turns out, is the only competitor to government at the moment for the worship of the people, and the one thing that most minority groups focused on rights (homosexuals, women’s liberation, abortion, etc) have in common is a hate for Christianity, because Christianity is the only check on their corruption and hedonism. Christianity is the salt, the preservative, and the immune system for our society, and when you want to overtake society with sin and disease and death, the first thing you have to attack is its immune system.

The kind of idolatrous thinking that accepts the income tax as legal therefore leads to socialism ultimately, and turns the government into a tyrannical police state that robs citizens of their assets and puts them to use for the alleged “common good.” It is a product of mobocracy masquerading as democracy, where less privileged or poorer groups use their voting power to compel the government to plunder the assets of wealthier people for their personal benefit. This is the central approach the demagogues (I mean democrats) use: buy votes with money extorted from hard-working citizens. The Supreme Court agreed precisely with these conclusions below in the case of Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874):

“To lay with one hand the power of government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it on favored individuals.. is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.”

The only way a socialist state can justify its existence is to assert that the government knows better how to take care of you than you do, and past experience, especially with the Soviet Union, proves that approach doesn't work! Forcing you to have “faith” in the government is a violation of the First Amendment by establishing government as a “religion”. Worship of government as a religion is the essence of socialism. Socialism has never worked throughout all of history, because the corruption of men at the highest levels who are in charge of the public funds always leads to usury, abuse, evil, and tyrannical oppression of the people they are supposed to serve.

1                    “Remember the word that I said to you , ‘A servant is not greater than his master.’ If they persecuted Me, they
 2                    will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do to you
 3                    for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me.”
 4                    [Jesus speaking in the Bible, John 15:20-21]

5 Our own country was formed by Christian patriots more than 200 years ago because they rejected this very thing happening
 6 to us! They founded the first country whose legal system was based entirely on Natural Law and Natural Order, which we 7 further explain in sections 3.4 and 4.1.

8 Socialism also makes us into unwitting slaves of the government. Would anyone argue that we don't already have a police
 9 state, where the Gestapo are the tyrants at the IRS, and fear of the IRS is what keeps us paying our "tribute to the king" in the 10 form of income taxes? Would anyone argue that we are not a country full of cowards when it comes to facing our oppressors?
 11 Realistically speaking: How long can cowards remain free and sovereign? Remember that the original American colonies
 12 waged an entire violent war of independence and risked everything they had to fight against Britain when their taxes to Britain
 13 were only 7%? Now some of us are paying 50% of our income in taxes without even flinching or whimpering or fighting.
 14 We're a bunch of wimps if you ask me!

15 The point is that it's much more difficult to put God first with federal income taxes because out of the remaining 50% of our
 16 income left after we pay taxes, we have to feed our families and pay our bills. Is it any wonder then that less than 1% of 17 Christians tithe 10% of their income to the church as the Bible requires in Malachi 3:8-10? They can't afford to because they
 18 are being taxed/raped and financially enslaved by the government illegally! And then the IRS compels churches to shut up
 19 about this kind of abuse by taking away their 501(c)(3) tax-exempt status if they speak up!

20 But if you didn't have to pay income taxes and the IRS would honor your right to do so legally (why does the IRS call it
 21 "voluntary compliance" if we can't choose not to pay?), wouldn't you give MUCH more to God and put God first? I certainly 22 would! Therefore, implementing the advice found in this document will, in the long run, result in equipping you with the 23 income you need to be more generous to your local church and to the noble causes and preservation of American liberties 24 and freedoms that we all believe in.

25 HOWEVER: If your intent is to take the money you saved in taxes as a result of following the guidance
 26 in this document and spend it on your own selfish desires and not on the church (whatever church you 27 belong to) or helping others, then you are violating the copyright on this document and acting illegally.
 28 We demand that you destroy this book and NOT read or use this document because we would submit
 29 that you are a less than honorable steward over the gracious gifts that God (whatever God you believe 30 in) has bestowed upon you and deserve to have your income taken away by the tyrants at the IRS.
 31 Selfishness and deceit are their own best avengers, and we should rightly reap what we sow. Anything
 32 less would be to promote anarchy, hypocrisy, injustice, and oppression in our society. Recall that it was 33 selfishness and vanity on the part of government employees which created the problems so clearly
 34 documented in this book to begin with. You can't cure selfishness with more selfishness, and you will 35 be maligning the tax honesty movement and other noble patriots by abusing these materials for your 36 own selfish gain and associating yourself with them in so doing.

37 The above comment is based on the following scriptures:

38                    “A man with an evil eye hastens after riches, and does not consider that poverty will come upon him.”
 39                    [Prov. 28:22, Bible, NKJV]

40                    “Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves [the IRS and
 41 the government] break in and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust
 42 destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.”
 43                    [Matt. 6:19-21, Bible, NKJV]

44 Now some of you, in fear, might say that we need to obey the government and not make any noise. When should a Christian
 45 disobey the civil government? (Rom. 13:7; Acts 5:27-29) When a civil government refuses people the liberty to worship and 46 obey God freely or violates God's law, it has lost its mandate of authority from God. Then the Christian should feel justified

1 and maybe even compelled in disobeying. How are we to worship God freely? With the first fruits of our labor and our
 2 income!

3 Ben Franklin , who incidentally was one of the attendees at the Constitutional Convention, believed that when a government
 4 began to be tyrannical, it was the right and even the DUTY of the citizens to rebel against that government. Here is what he 5 said:

6 "Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God."

7 The Christian, however, is called to bear with his government whenever possible, but there must be a limit to that forbearance.

8 "Those who stand for nothing will fall for anything."
 9 [Alex Hamilton]

10 Jesus did not call for revolution against Rome, even though it was an oppressive conqueror of Israel. On the other hand, the 11 apostles refused to obey a government order not to preach and teach in Jesus' name (Acts 5:27-29). On that occasion, one of 12 Jesus' apostles said:

13 "We ought to obey God rather than men."

14 Whenever the civil government forbids the practice of things that God has commanded us to do, or tells us to do things He
 15 has commanded us not to do, then we are on solid ground in disobeying the government. Blind obedience to government is 16 never right or biblically sound. However difficult or costly it may be, we all must reserve the right to say no to things that 17 we consider oppressive or immoral or sinful. If we don't and we make government our unquestioned god, here is the future
 18 that awaits us:<sup>125</sup>

5 The Supreme Court ruled in the case of Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619 (1937) and Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603
 6 (1960), that Social Security (and by implication all other government social programs!) are NOT insurance and are NOT a
 7 contract. The government isn't obligated to pay you back anything, much less even the amount of money you put into any
 8 social (or should we say socialist?) program (see section 2.9.1 for further details on this). Because Social Security is therefore 9 not insurance and not a trust fund, then what should Christians view it as? It is theft, plain and simple!

10 Social Security is socialism. Socialism is theft. Theft is a sin. There was never a promise to pay benefits. Rights can only 11 come from responsibilities. You won't understand this yet, but those who accept public benefits cannot have rights. The 12 Supreme Court agreed precisely with these conclusions below:

13                   "To lay with one hand the power of government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it on
 14 favoured individuals.. is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation.

 20 for the benefit of another."
 21 [U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

23                   "A statutory provision which is not a legitimate police regulation cannot be made such by being placed in the 24 same act with a police regulation, or by being enacted under a title that declares a purpose which would be a
 25 proper object for the exercise of that power.

26                   "It being self-evident that, unless all things are held in common, some persons must have more property than 27 others, it is from the nature of things impossible to uphold freedom of contract and the right of private property
 28 without at the same time recognizing as legitimate those inequalities of fortune that are the necessary result of 29 the exercise of those rights.

30                   "The Fourteenth Amendment recognizes "liberty" and "property" as coexistent human rights, and debars the 31 states from any unwarranted interference with either.

32                   "Since a state may not strike down the rights of liberty or property directly, it may not do so indirectly, as by 33 declaring in effect that the public good requires the removal of those inequalities that are but the normal and 34 inevitable result of the exercise of those rights, and then invoking the police power in order to remove the 35 inequalities, without other object in view.

36                   "The Fourteenth Amendment debars the states from striking down personal liberty or property rights or 37 materially restricting their normal exercise excepting so far as may be incidentally necessary for the 38 accomplishment of some other and paramount object, and one that concerns the public welfare. The mere
 39 restriction of liberty or of property rights cannot, of itself, be denominated "public welfare" and treated as a
 40 legitimate object of the police power, for such restriction is the very thing that is inhibited by the Amendment. "
 41 [Coppage v. Kansas, 236 U.S. 1 (1915)]

42 The reason why the Supreme Court ruled the way it did above is because:

43                   "Democracy is a form of government that cannot long survive, for as soon as the people learn that they have a 44 voice in the fiscal policies of the government, they will move to vote for themselves all the money in the treasury, 45 and bankrupt the nation".
 46 [Karl Marx, 1848 author of "The Communist Manifesto"]

47 What protects us as Americans from the above excesses of democracy and mobocracy is the mandate imposed in Article 4, 48 Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution to provide a Republican Government, which by implication is based on individual rather 49 than collective sovereignty and rights as you will find out later in section 4.7:

50                   "The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government..."

1 The U.S. Supreme Court in the landmark case of Pollock v. Farmers' Loan and Trust, 157 U.S. 429 (1895), which outlawed
 2 income taxes legislated by Congress, said the following regarding what happens when the government becomes a Robinhood
 3 and tries to promote equality of result rather than equality of opportunity. We end up with class warfare, in society done
 4 using the force of law and a mobocracy mentality:

5 *"The present assault upon capital is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and
 6 more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing
 7 intensity and bitterness.*

8 ...

9 *The legislation, in the discrimination it makes, is class legislation. Whenever a distinction is made in the burdens
 10 a law imposes or in the benefits it confers on any citizens by reason of their birth, or wealth, or religion, it is class
 11 legislation, and leads inevitably to oppression and abuses, and to general unrest and disturbance in society."*

12 Federal funds are not available to ordinary persons. Only indigents can qualify to receive federal benefits. It is highly unlikely
 13 that you ever qualified for a Social Security Card. Section 205\(c\)\(2\)\(B\)\(i\) of the Social Security Act allows government to 14 assign Social Security Numbers to applicants for benefits financed with government funds. Unless you need federal benefits,
 15 Social Security Cards are not available to you. You cannot qualify for a number. That's right! SOCIAL SECURITY
 16 NUMBERS ARE NOT AVAILABLE TO THOSE WHO CAN PROVIDE FOR THEMSELVES. If you can still provide 17 for yourself, or if your family or church or state can support you, it would be fraud to apply for federal benefits.

18 Let me repeat this essential fact is several ways, until you understand: The application for an SS Card (the SSA Form SS-5)
 19 is a form limited to a very specific purpose. It is only for indigents who need federal funds. People who can provide for 20 themselves cannot be indigent. Social Security Cards cannot be issued to anyone until they apply for federal benefits. The 21 government cannot know who is destitute; they must wait for applicants desperate enough to apply for federal funds. It must 22 be voluntary. Social Security has no trust fund; it is solely a handout. It is limited to government wards. Only socialists can
 23 qualify for a card. ONLY THOSE WHO CANNOT SUPPORT THEMSELVES AND ARE WILLING TO ACCEPT
 24 SOCIALISM AND WILLING TO SWEAR SO WITH A PERJURY OATH ON A PERMANENT IRREVOCABLE
 25 RECORD, CAN QUALIFY TO RECEIVE A SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER.

26 To remain constitutional, only wards of the government can receive benefits. This is a vow of poverty. You exchanged your 27 rights to all future wages for the false promise of future benefits. You did so voluntarily. I'll discuss labor rights and poverty
 28 vows and taxable wages in other chapters.

29 According to the legal definition of "Tacit Procuration", you grant them the power of attorney if you expect them to provide 30 for you. You asked them to provide for you - To steal for you. Government does not and cannot create wealth, it must tax in 31 order to give. Government cannot provide benefits unless it takes them from someone else. Socialism is theft of your 32 neighbor's money. Your new master will take money from your neighbors, against their will, and over their objections. These 33 civil servants will eventually resort to the force of guns, on your behalf, to seize property from any neighbor who stubbornly
 34 and repeatedly refuses to hand over whatever is demanded. It is theft. They call it distraint. It is not insurance. Proverbs 1:10-
 35 19 gives us advice about those who entrap the innocent to fill their house with plunder.

36 In Matt 20:25-27 and Mark 10:42-43 and Luke 22:25-27 Jesus tells us to not have dominion over others, but to serve.
 37 CHRISTIANS SERVE. CHRISTIANS DON'T LORD over those who are not under them. Not by force, not by vote, not by 38 hiring a servant and then delegating to the servant an authority to steal - an authority that you don't have. Again: Christians
 39 don't have dominion over their neighbors. You cannot tax your neighbors to fund your retirement, and that's exactly what
 40 you are doing by collecting a Social Security Check, because the government isn't paying back the money you put in. As a 41 matter of fact, it pays back many times the value of the money you put in and doesn't maintain a trust balance at all.
 42 Everything it takes in is paid right back out to beneficiaries!

43 Since there is no trust fund (nor can there be one) - Only by the deepest commitment to covetousness can you force others to 44 pay for your retirement (or pay your doctor bills, or pay to educate your children). You are coveting your neighbors' goods.
 45 You are forcing your dominion over those who are not subject to your authority, contrary to Christ's command.

46 Conversely, if your bank account and property can be seized to pay for your neighbor's retirement (or doctor bills or tuition),
 47 then you must have somehow lost your right to keep `your' property or money. What do you suppose that you signed to waive
 48 any right to keep `your' property?

1 Have you become surety for the debts of a stranger? The security in Social Security is social. Look up "social insurance" in
 2 a law dictionary. You have become surety for your neighbor. Proverbs 11:15 "He that is surety for a stranger shall smart for
 3 it: and he that hateth suretyship is sure." Also: Proverbs 17:18

4 Only wards of the government (card carrying socialists) can receive the benefits of National Socialism.

5 SS is not a trust fund or insurance, it is an excise tax on the benefits of a limited citizenship (including the government granted
 6 privilege of earning wages). This tax revenue goes into the general fund. Authority for this taxation comes from the Buck
 7 Act, not the Internal Revenue Code. It is presumed, but not required, that congress will appropriate funds each year for
 8 maintenance of the government wards. The Supreme Court ruled in 1980 that Social Security benefits are not based on a
 9 fixed contract and therefore can change or be eliminated at any time. Fleming v. Nestor, 80 S.Ct. 1367.

10 In the 1891 naturalization case of Mr. Sauer, Title 81 Federal Reporter page 358 the court held that Mr. Sauer, although an 11 industrious, law abiding man, could not become a citizen because he claimed to be a Socialist. Socialists could not become 12 citizens. And they still cannot. I have another chapter that cites every court case where people were forced to get Social 13 Security numbers. Every case is a welfare applicant. Social Security Numbers are only for socialists. Socialists cannot have 14 rights. Read Appendix C of Social Security: Mark of the Beast
 15 (<http://famguardian.org/Publications/SocialSecurity/TOC.htm>) and prove to yourself that they have changed their citizenship
 16 and are not protected by the first eight amendments to your Constitution (Hague case) and do not have the right to a trial by 17 jury (Colegate case). If you want to lose your birthright just fill out a form claiming socialist benefits. If you think you still 18 have a right to a trial by jury, read Appendix F of Mark of the Beast.

19 A Christian cannot be a socialist. Christians are not to associate with freeloaders, according to 2nd Thessalonians 3:6-14:

20 2nd Thessalonians 3:6 (NIV): In the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, we command you, brothers, to keep away from every 21 brother who is idle and does not live according to the teaching you received from us.

22 3:7 For you yourselves know how you ought to follow our example. We were not idle when we were with you,
 23 3:8 nor did we eat anyone's food without paying for it. On the contrary, we worked night and day, laboring and toiling so that
 24 we would not be a burden to any of you.

25 3:9 We did this, not because we do not have the right to such help, but in order to make ourselves a model for you to follow.

26 3:10 For even when we were with you, we gave you this rule: "If a man will not work, he shall not eat." I want to interject a
 27 note here: this isn't a snobbish threat to starve the poor, it is a fundamental Biblical principle. In the same sentence where 28 God condemned us to die, he condemned us to work for food. That's right! To acknowledge socialism is to deny God's 29 authority. Genesis 3:19 (KJV): "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of 30 it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." The socialists that want you to provide not only 31 their food but also health care, deny God's authority to sentence us to hardships.

32 3:11 We hear that some among you are idle. They are not busy; they are busybodies.

33 3:12 Such people we command and urge in the Lord Jesus Christ to settle down and earn the bread they eat.

34 3:13 And as for you, brothers, never tire of doing what is right.

35 3:14 If anyone does not obey our instruction in this letter, take special note of him. Do not associate with him, in order that 36 he may feel ashamed."

37 That the freeloader may feel ashamed. I've been told that I am too sarcastic just because I quote the Bible.

38 Do not confuse voluntary charity with forced socialism. Christians are often in need of charity, yet cannot accept socialism.

39 "We have rights, as individuals, to give as much of our own money as we please to charity; but as members of 40 Congress we have no right so to appropriate a dollar of public money."
 41 [David Crockett, Congressman 1827-35]

42 Does the Bible support the notion that socialism can provide for Christians? Let's take a closer look:

- 43 • 1st Thessalonians 2:9 (NIV): " Surely you remember, brothers, our toil and hardship; we worked night and day in 44 order not to be a burden to anyone ..."
- 45 • 1st Thessalonians 4:11-12 "work with your hands...so that you will not be dependent on anybody."

- 1 • 1st Corinthians 4:11 (NIV): "To this very hour we go hungry and thirsty, we are in rags, we are brutally treated, we 2 are homeless." [note: they were homeless but they were not freeloaders. Even Christ was homeless, Matt 8:20, Luke
3 9:58.]
- 4 • Proverbs 10:26: (NKJV) "As vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes, so is the lazy man to those who send him."
- 5 • Proverbs 20:4: (NKJV): "The lazy man will not plow because of winter; he will beg during harvest and have 6 nothing."
- 7 • Proverbs 21:25 (KJV): "The desire of the slothful killeth him; for his hands refuse to labour."
- 8 • Ephesians 4:28 (NIV): "He who has been stealing must steal no longer, but must work, doing something useful with 9 his own hands, that he may have something to share with those in need."
- 10 • Acts 14:22 (NIV) "...We must go through many hardships to enter the kingdom of God," [You will understand this 11 after you study the topic of citizenship]
- 12 • Luke 19:26 (NIV): "He replied, 'I tell you that to everyone who has, more will be given, but as for the one who has 13 nothing, even what he has will be taken away.'"
- 14 • 2nd Corinthians 11:9 (NIV) "And when I was with you and needed something, I was not a burden to anyone,... I 15 have kept myself from being a burden to you in any way, and will continue to do so."
- 16 • 2nd Corinthians 7:2 (NIV) "... we have exploited no one. "
- 17 • Jesus is quoted in Matthew 25:29-30 (KJV) "For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have 18 abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. And cast ye the unprofitable 19 servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."
- 20 • Proverbs 13:4 (NIV) "The sluggard craves and gets nothing, but the desires of the diligent are fully satisfied."
- 21 • Proverbs 20:4 (KJV) "The sluggard will not plow by reason of the cold; therefore shall he beg in harvest, and have 22 nothing."

23 If a Christian cannot be a socialist, then a Christian cannot have an ID card available only to socialists. Theodore Roosevelt:

24 "The first requisite of a citizen in this Republic of ours, is that he shall be able and willing to pull his own weight."

25 As further proof that socialists have never had rights, in Appendix C of Social Security: Mark of the Beast read where the 26 Articles of Confederation extended the rights of citizenship to inhabitants with the exceptions of paupers and vagabonds and
27 fugitives. A vagrant is not a vagabond. Even Christ was homeless (Matt 8:20, Luke 9:58). A vagabond is a homeless
28 freeloader. A pauper is a person who must be supported at public expense. Social Security partakers are supported at public 29 expense, therefore cannot have the rights of citizens any more than a fugitive would have.

30 The English word "stigma" comes from the Greek and, in English, means a mark of shame or a brand of disgrace. The third
31 six in 666 is the Greek stigma (666= chi-xi-stigma). The mark is not necessarily a tattoo or implant. Do you have a permanent 32 mark of shame?

33 Conclusions so far: There is no Social Security trust fund, there is no insurance, and there is no pension. It is plunder. It is 34 pure orthodox socialism. Socialists are not and cannot become citizens. Socialists cannot have rights. Never could, still 35 can't. Christians cannot be socialists. Christians cannot have socialist ID. Did your government school teach you this?

36 PUBLIC EDUCATION

37 Karl Marx wrote the Communist Manifesto in 1848. Public schools is the 10th plank. As I said earlier: Those who accept 38 public benefits cannot have rights. Rights can only come from responsibilities. You have no right to force others to pay your 39 Children's tuition. Hillary Clinton's village will raise the children of those who forfeit their rights to their own children. Even 40 the U.S. Supreme Court in Meyer v. Nebraska, 262 U.S. 390 (1923), concluded

41 "it is the natural duty of the parent to give his children education suitable to their station in life..."

42 The U.S. Supreme Court in Plyler v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202 (1982), concluded,

- 43 • "...education is not a fundamental right..."
- 44 • "the Fourteenth Amendment's protection extends to anyone, citizen or stranger, who is subject to the laws of a 45 State..."

1 US Congressman in the 1840's Robert Dale Owen, later known as the father of American socialism, believed that the Christian
2 faith hindered man's evolution. An Owen associate wrote:

3 *"The great object was to get rid of Christianity and to convert our churches into halls of science... the plan was
4 not to make open attacks upon religion - although we might belabor the clergy and bring them into contempt
5 where we could ... but to establish a system of state - we said national - schools... from which all religion would 6 be excluded and to which all parents were to be compelled by law to send their children."*

7 These views influenced John Dewey at the Columbia Teacher's College, and by 1900 a socialist system of compulsory 8 schools, which exclude religion, became a reality.

9 SUMMARY

10 The seven-headed scarlet beast is a socialist confederation of beast powers that raised up from the sea. The sea symbolizes
11 multitudes of people (Rev 17:5). Seas of people (democracies) demand socialist benefits. These people received not the love
12 of the truth that they might be saved. They want to be taken care of, but not by God. They won't accept the responsibility to 13 take care of themselves, or suffer God's trials. They fabricated a counterfeit image of God [the government] to provide for 14 them and protect them. They get their rights from their god that they created. This is without a doubt idolatry and the new 15 god is government. Here is the way one of our readers described it:

16 *"The people want 'Zeus' and 'Gods'/'gods' --- paganism!
17 They' got PAY-GUN-ISM!!!"*
18 /http://www.bayith-yhvh.org/index.Segmented-1.htm.html/

19 They expect you to worship their counterfeit image of God. In their courts, your rights come from the god they created.

20 *"Accustomed to trampling on the rights of others, you have lost the genius of your own independence and become 21 the fit subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you."
22 [Abraham Lincoln, September 11, 1858]*

26 4.4.15 All Governments are Corporations

27 According to the U.S. Supreme Court, all governments are corporations:

28 *"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by
29 usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but 30 whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of
31 power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the 32 instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is 33 a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all 34 persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst.
35 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing
36 of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of 37 individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a 38 principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal 39 government, by the amendments to the constitution."
40 [Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, 36 U.S. 420 (1837)]*

41 The above quote from the U.S. Supreme Court is further confirmed by the United States Code:

42 United States Code
43 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
44 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
45 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
46 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
47 Sec. 3002. Definitions

1 (15) "United States" means -

2 (A) a Federal corporation:

3 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

4 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

5 The fact that all governments are corporations and that the United States government is a federal corporation means that their
6 authority is limited by their corporate charter. In the case of our federal government, that corporate charter is the Constitution
7 of the United States of America. Any attempt to violate the corporate charter amounts to an assault on the liberties of the 8 body politic that granted the charter, which is us as the Sovereigns, who are "We the People".

9 Our federal government has obviously violated its corporate charter and thereby wreaked havoc on our society. The following
10 Declaration was written by an enlightened legal researcher, Dessie Andrews, as a way to show not only how the legal 11 profession has corrupted our system of government, but how we can put it back inside the box that its corporate charter was 12 supposed to keep it in. She proposes that we should convene a Third Continental Congress which should resolve to pass the 13 following Declaration, which would dissolve the criminal government of the United States because it has violated its charter.
14 We believe she is onto something and we urge you to read this important work. If you would like to contact her, send an

37 A government functions as a corporation. Inasmuch as every government is an artificial person, an abstraction,

50 They have systematically and with great patience stolen the birthright of every American and state

52 They have codified the Law and overlaid it with codes and statutes. The Revised Statutes of the United 53 States in 1878.

1 They have not enacted law, as Constitutionally mandated, since 1879, but rather, have initiated
2 "public policy".

3 They have created a "government" outside the Charter and pretend to fill the offices which have 4 remained vacant since 1871. In so doing, they ended the separation of powers guaranteed to the 5 People, ending any responsibilities assumed under the mantle of the office of officer and became one
6 body of employees. The Civil Service Act of 1883.

7 They have legislated away the Peoples' Circuit courts. The Judiciary Act of 1911.

8 They have created a central bank in defiance of the Framers' express wishes and orders. Federal
9 Reserve Act of 1913

10 They have abolished the several States and State Citizens with the passage of the 17th Amendment in 11 1913.

12 They have given the substance of every state Citizen to a private corporation, the Federal Reserve,
13 with the Glass-Steagal Act of 1933.

14 They have stolen the assets, energy, property and futures of every state Citizen and pledged them to 15 foreign corporations.

16 They have openly declared the People to be enemies of the State.

17 They have initiated policies in violation of the takings clause in their Corporate charter, in order to 18 fund social programs and redistribute wealth.

19 They have undermined the educational process in the several States and created a slave force with the 20 uneducated.

21 They have snatched the children from their natural parents through the use of the doctrine of parents
22 patriae.

23 They, by their charter, being confined to the ten mile square area known as Washington DC, have 24 created agencies to justify their intrusion upon and into the several States

25 They have eliminated the People's courts and a duly elected Congress and left the People with no 26 redress of grievances.

27 They have instituted Roman civil law on the land under the guise of Corporate courts.

28 They have implemented a Bar Association to still the voice of the People in their Corporate courts.

29 They have tricked the People into invisible contracts with guile and deceit and without full disclosure,
30 into exchanging their Sovereign standing for that of a Corporate employee status.

31 They hold the People in slavery with their presumptions, their courts and their police powers.

32 They have waged war and committed unspeakable atrocities in my name on innocent peoples and 33 nations, without declaring war.

34 They have obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing to Assent to Laws for establishing 35 Judiciary powers, instead they sit in administrative, corporate courts.

36 They have made Judges dependent on their will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount
37 and payment of their salaries.

38 They have erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of employees, masquerading as 39 Officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

40 They have kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the consent of the legislatures,
41 by declaring constant and chronic emergencies.

1 They have affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil powers.
 2 They have combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and
 3 unacknowledged by our laws; giving their Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation.

4 For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us.

5 For protecting them, by a mock Trial or investigation, from punishment for any Murders or other
 6 atrocities they should commit on the Inhabitants of the several States.

7 For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent..

8 For depriving us of the benefits of Trial by Jury.

9 For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the 10 Forms of our Governments.

11 For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for 12 us in all cases whatsoever.

13 They have abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of their Protection and waging War against 14 us.

15 They have brought the law of the seas onto the land, bringing with it its system of taxes, fines and 16 penalties, thus destroying the lives of our people.

17 They are, at this time, transporting large Armies to complete the works of death, desolation and 18 tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most 19 barbarous ages, and totally unworthy of the leaders of a civilized nation.

20 They have bankrupted the United States corporation too many times to count, have initiated
 21 Reorganization after Reorganization, each time being more onerous to the People and each time
 22 divesting them of more rights and replacing them with government issued privileges and benefits.

23 They have created worthless military scrip, removed all backing of substance of any currency and 24 forced the People to trade with worthless scrip and credit, thereby stealing the substance of the People
 25 and eroding their worth with inflation.

26 In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated
 27 Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Government Pretender whose character is thus marked
 28 by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the holder of the sacred trust of a free people.

29 The actors conspiring under color of law to undermine the integrity and substance of the People, have 30 accomplished these acts by counterfeiting the Seals of States and Offices, to deceive the People.

31 For these reasons and more, I, one of the descendants of the declarers of the Declaration of Independence of 32 1776 do solemnly Publish and Declare, That the People of the several States are, and of Right ought to be, FREE
 33 AND INDEPENDENT PEOPLE OF THE SEVERAL STATES; that they are absolved from all Allegiance to the 34 corporate United States of America, that they no longer have a republican, representative form of government.
 35 That the employees of the United States of America long ago exceeded their trust which was granted to them by 36 the People with limited delegation of powers. That, as Creators of the Corporation known as the United States
 37 of America, we hereby disband and dissolve the corporate charter which was granted in trust.

38 That I, the undersigned, was endowed with unalienable rights from my Creator. That I rely on the Protection of 39 divine Providence, and with this compact, pledge to my fellow men and women my Life, my Fortune and my 40 sacred Honor.

41 4.4.16 How public servants eliminate or avoid or hide the requirement for “consent” to become “Masters”

42 "Good intentions will always be pleaded for every assumption of authority. It is hardly too strong to say that the 43 Constitution was made to guard the people against the dangers of good intentions. There are men in all ages
 44 who mean to govern well, but they mean to govern. They promise to be good masters, but they mean to be 45 masters."
 46 [Noah Webster]

47 Earlier in section 4.4.1, we showed how all just government authority derives from the “consent” of the governed, starting
 48 with the Declaration of Independence on down. The implication of this requirement of law is that all good governments and

1 the public servants working within them should always remind us that they need our consent to do anything and they must
2 explicitly ask for our consent in writing before they accomplish anything on our behalf. That consent must come in all of the 3 following coinciding forms:

- 4 1. There must be a positive law statute which our elected representatives passed and therefore consented to authorizing 5 absolutely everything they are doing for us.
- 6 2. There must be a regulation published in the Federal register or the state register that implements the statute and which:
  - 7 2.1. Gives due notice to the public that their rights may be adversely affected by enforcing the new law.
  - 8 2.2. Gives an opportunity for public comment and review to discern legislative intent and the proper enforcement of the 9 law.
  - 10 2.3. Reconciles the broad language of the statute against the requirements of the Bill of Rights.
- 11 3. There must be a delegation of authority for the specific government agent who is implementing the regulations and the 12 statutes within the agency in question. Anything not explicitly in the delegation of authority order may not be 13 accomplished.
- 14 4. If the statute and implementing regulation creates a privilege that we have to volunteer for in order to receive, there must 15 be a form signed by us and received by the government which shows that we elected to voluntarily participate in the
16 privilege and pay the corresponding tax. If we wish to qualify the conditions under which we consent to the program,
17 the application for the program must also have an attachment containing additional provisions that we place upon our 18 participation, so as to completely define the extent of our “consent”. The government application should also explicitly 19 and completely define the specific rights we are giving up in order to procure the government privilege.

20 The above requirements effectively put government servants inside of a box which they cannot legally go outside of without
21 being personally liable for a tort, which is an involuntary violation of rights to life, liberty, or property. The minute our public
22 servants stop asking for our consent, our signature, and our permission and stop reading and obeying the regulations and 23 delegation of authority orders that limit their authority whenever they are dealing with us is the point at which they are trying
24 to become masters and tyrants and make us into slaves. Jesus warned us this was going to happen when he said:

25 “Remember the word that I said to you, “A [public] servant is not greater than his master [the American People].”
26 If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you [because you emphasize this relationship]. If they kept My 27 word [God’s Law], they will keep yours [the Constitution] also.”
28 [Jesus in John 15:20, Bible, NKJV]

29 Positive law is essentially an agreement, a contract, a delegation of authority, and a promise by the government, in effect, to 30 only do what we, the Sovereigns and their Master, consented explicitly to allow them to do, and to respect our sacred God-
31 given rights while they are doing it.

32 “No legislative act [of the SERVANT] contrary to the Constitution [delegation of authority from the MASTER]
33 can be valid. To deny this would be to affirm that the deputy [public SERVANT] is greater than his principal
34 [the sovereign American People]; that the servant is above the master; that the representatives of the people
35 are superior to the [SOVEREIGN] people [as individuals]; that men, acting by virtue of [delegated] powers
36 may do not only what their [delegated] powers do not authorize, but what they forbid...[text omitted] It is not
37 otherwise to be supposed that the Constitution could intend to enable the representatives of the people to 38 substitute their will to that of their constituents. It is far more rational to suppose, that the courts were designed
39 to be an intermediate body between the people and the legislature, in order, among other things, to keep the latter
40 within the limits assigned to their authority. The interpretation of the laws is the proper and peculiar province of 41 the courts. A Constitution is, in fact, and must be regarded by judges, as fundamental law [a DELEGATION OF 42 AUTHORITY FROM THE MASTER TO THE SERVANT]. If there should happen to be an irreconcilable variance
43 between the two, the Constitution is to be preferred to the statute.”
44 [Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper # 78]

45 As concerned Americans who want to preserve our liberties and freedoms, we must be ever-vigilant and watchful when our 46 government steps outside the boundaries of the law by ignoring the requirement for consent in all the forms listed above. We 47 must ensure that specific challenges to our sovereignty and authority by defiant public dis-servants are met with an appropriate
48 and timely response which emphasizes in no uncertain terms “who is boss”. Parents frequently must do the same thing with 49 their children. The Bible says we should not spare the rod for our children or our servants, because it is the only way we will 50 ever stay free and have peace at home.

51 “But if that servant says in his heart ‘My master is delaying his coming,’ and begins to beat the male and female
52 servants, and to eat and drink and be drunk, the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking 53 *for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the unbelievers. And that servant who knew his master's will, and did not prepare himself or do according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

[Luke 12:45-47, Bible, NKJV]

"He who spares his rod [of discipline] hates his son, But he who loves him disciplines him promptly."

[Prov. 13:24, Bible, NKJV]

In a free society with a free press, open defiance by public servants of the Constitution, the law, and their delegation of authority and open violations of our rights are more difficult to get away with than in totalitarian or communist countries where the press is state controlled. Therefore, the means of defiance must be much more subtle and made to look simply like an "accident", or a product of "bureaucracy" or mismanagement or inefficiency, rather than what it really is: Open, rebellious, willful defiance of the law and violation of our rights. Because people will rebel against sudden changes, public servants intent on seizing and usurping power from their master, the People, are very aware of the fact that they must take baby steps to make any headway in the struggle for control. Here is how one of our readers wisely describes it:

"The devil always works in baby steps. If you put a frog in hot water, he will immediately jump out. But if you put him in cool water and then gradually raise the temperature over tens or even hundreds of years, then you can boil the frog alive and he won't even know how it happened."

This section will therefore focus on how to recognize very subtle and insidious but prevalent techniques that our public dis-servants commonly use to sidestep the requirement for consent and usurp authority to transform themselves from servants to masters. We already covered the more obvious and blatant means of effecting tyranny earlier in section 2.8. This section and its subsections will focus on much more subtle, devious, and insidious techniques at rebellion by our public servants. Once we are trained to recognize these techniques, we will be better equipped to meet them with an appropriate response that protects our rights and liberties and reminds them "who's boss". We have traced the history of many of the insidious corrupting steps taken by public dis-servants since the beginning of our country within Chapter 6 of this book. That chapter makes very interesting reading for history buffs and also provides powerful confirmation of the techniques documented in succeeding subsections.

4.4.16.1 Rigging government forms to create false presumptions and prejudice our rights

By far the most common method to hide or eliminate consent from the governance process is the insidious rigging of government forms to create false presumptions in the reader and thereby prejudice out rights. This method involves:

1. Constricting the choices offered on a government form to only those outcomes that the government wants and removing all others, even though there are other more desirable and valid legal choices.
2. Using labels that are incorrect to identify the party filling out the form in some way, such as "taxpayer", or "resident", or "citizen".
3. Modifying the perjury statement at the end of the form to create false presumptions about our residency.

The above techniques most commonly appear on the following types of forms:

1. Jury summons.
2. Voter registration.
3. Tax returns.
4. Withholding forms
5. Driver's license applications.

In an effort to prevent prejudicing our rights, we have downloaded most of the above types of forms and modified them electronically to remove false or misleading labels and to restore the missing choices from the forms. You can view the tax-related modified forms on our website below. The modified versions of the forms appear in the column entitled "Amended form". The page also describes the changes that have been made to the forms to remove false presumptions or restricted choices:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSFormsPubs.htm>

4.4.16.2 Misrepresenting the law in government publications

1 Tyrants focus on propaganda as a major way to expand their power and influence. Propaganda is a very efficient means of
 2 political control because it is inexpensive and does not require the use of guns or force or a military. Such propaganda is 3 implemented by three chief methods:

- 4 1. Government ownership or control or regulation of the media and press, including television stations and newspapers.
- 5 2. Eliminating private education and forcing children to be educated in government-run public schools. Teaching evolution
 6 instead of creationism to take the focus off God and religion, and to make Government a replacement for God and an
 7 idol to young minds. This breeds an atheistic society that is hostile to God.
- 8 3. Misrepresenting what the laws say in government publications.

9 The media and the public education system, once they are put under government control or regulation, are then used as a
 10 vehicle to deceive and brainwash the people to believe lies that expand government power and control further. This very 11 technique, in fact, is part of the original Communist Manifesto written by Karl Marx, which calls for:

12 Sixth Plank: Centralization of the means of communications and transportation in the hands of the State. (read*
 13 DOT, FAA, FCC etc...)

14 Tenth Plank: Free education for all children in public schools. Abolition of Children's factory labor in its present*
 15 form. Combination of education with industrial production.

16 We will focus the remainder of this section on the third approach used to implement propaganda, which is that of 17 misrepresenting what the law says in government publications. The surest way to know whether the laws are being 18 misrepresented in government publications is to:

- 19 1. Examine whether the people in government who are doing the misrepresentation are being held personally accountable 20 by our legal system for their actions to deceive the people.
- 21 2. Pose pointed questions to the author of the deceiving publication that will help expose the deception. If the government
 22 responds with either silence (the Fifth Amendment response), gives a personal opinion instead of citing relevant law, or 23 further tries to confuse or mislead the questioner, then one can safely conclude that the government knows what they are 24 doing is wrong and is trying to cover it up.

25 The First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States is designed to ensure an accountable government. The Right
 26 to Petition clause of the First Amendment, in particular, demands that the government answer the petitions of the people for 27 redress of grievances, including petitions that include questions or inquiries about government improprieties. In practice, our 28 government ignores the First Amendment Petition for Redress clause repeatedly. This violation of our Constitution by 29 specific public dis-servants and the refusal of the federal courts to hold specific IRS employees accountable for the content
 30 of IRS publications are the main influences that propagate and expand willful constructive fraud and deceit that permeates
 31 government tax publications. The fraud and deceit, in turn, are what maintains the high level of "voluntary compliance"
 32 currently existing.

33 Within government publications, the main method for fraud and deceit is to use "words of art" without clarifying that the 34 words used are clearly different from common understanding. We pointed this out earlier in section 3.9.1, when we analyzed
 35 various words of art commonly found in the Internal Revenue Code. The key "words of art" were described in that section, 36 and the most important ones are :

- 37 1. "employee"
- 38 2. "employer"
- 39 3. "income"
- 40 4. "taxpayer"
- 41 5. "State"
- 42 6. "United States"
- 43 7. "trade or business"
- 44 8. "nonresident alien"

45 We also discussed earlier in section 3.16 how both the IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual and the courts refuse to hold the 46 IRS accountable for the content of their publication. The section below from the IRM below clearly establishes that you
 47 can't rely on anything on an IRS form or publication:

1 Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)
 2 IRS Publications

3 IRS Publications, issued by the Headquarters Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their
 4 advisors. They typically highlight changes in the law, provide examples illustrating Service positions, and
 5 include worksheets. Publications are nonbinding on the Service and do not necessarily cover all positions for a
 6 given issue. While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position.

7 Consequently, you can't trust anything the IRS puts out on a government form or a publication, and the courts have even said
 8 you can be penalized for relying on IRS advice! See the article below:

Federal Courts and the IRS' Own IRM Say the IRS is NOT RESPONSIBLE for Its Actions or Its Words or For Following Its Own Written Procedures!, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

9 Is it any wonder that the author of the publications is not identified and that the lies and deception contained in IRS
 10 publications continues? Can you also see that if the IRS did tell the whole truth in their publications about the use of their
 11 "words of art", that almost no one would participate in the federal donation program deceitfully called a "tax"? This deception
 12 and hypocrisy is unconscionable and must be righted. It can only be fixed by holding the IRS and their employees just as 13 liable for false statements in their publications as Americans are held liable for what they put on government tax forms. If 14 their publications are wrong or misleading, then the author should go to jail. All IRS publications must also be signed under 15 penalty of perjury by the IRS commissioner, just like the IRS tries to force us to do on our tax forms.

16 4.4.16.3 Automation

17 Bureaucrats just love automation because it gives them a convenient excuse to blame the lack of their "ability" to satisfy the 18 requirement to procure your consent upon an impersonal computer that they have no control over and no one person is 19 responsible for. The most common place this happens is:

- 20 1. Mandating the use of Socialist Security Numbers. The Socialist Security Administration, for instance, said in a signed
 21 letter we received from them that there is no requirement to either have or use a Socialist Security Number, which implies
 22 that its use is "voluntary" and "consensual". On the other hand, most government agencies when you call them up, they
 23 will tell you that you HAVE to provide a Socialist Security Number in order for them to be "able" to help you or to 24 process your "application" and that their computer won't work without it. If you tell them that they do not have your
 25 consent to use a Socialist Security Number to process your application, they will tell you that they have to deny you
 26 some privilege or benefit, as though them doing anything for you is a privilege and not a right.
- 27 2. In many cases you may want to protect your rights by providing an attachment to staple to your paper government
 28 application that qualifies and defines the extent of your "consent". We have tried this several times and they have told
 29 us that they don't keep attachments, and in fact shred not only your attachment but also the original paper application
 30 after they enter only the relevant data into the computer. If you ask them if they scan in the application or the attachment
 31 before shredding, they will say no. This is destroying evidence! This is also a violation of the First Amendment, which 32 guarantees us a right of free speech and to define how we communicate with our government. When you complain about
 33 it, they will typically say they do this to promote "efficiency". When you ask them if they have a field to enter important 34 notes on their terminal screen, they will say none is provided.
- 35 3. When a government dis-servant has violated the requirement for consent in the methods above and you call to complain
 36 and find a person accountable for the problem, your public servants will knowingly use automation to avoid personal
 37 accountability. Most large federal agencies have a "voicemail jail" front end to their phone support so that it is virtually
 38 impossible to get through to a specific person to complain or to talk to the last person who helped you. When you login
 39 to their website, you will also find that there is no way to find the identify or contact information of a specific person or 40 their specific job function. This discourages personal responsibility by specific government servants, which in turn
 41 encourages abuse and tyranny. Bureaucrats just love this approach, because then they can say they must be doing what 42 Americans want because they never hear any complaints! The IRS support line, for instance, is an example of that. It
 43 takes almost two hours on hold waiting to get help, when they talk to you they are trained to be rude if you bring up the
 44 law, they won't give you their full name or direct phone number, and it is virtually impossible to talk to the same person
 45 who was handling your case on the last call. This is no accident: it is a defect in customer service deliberately engineered 46 to frustrate, exasperate, and alienate you so that you will just pay up and go away.
- 47 4. When the government maintains records about you, they will frequently choose to code the information and then not 48 publish the meaning of the codes, so that even if you do obtain a copy of the record, it is meaningless without the "code"

book”. This is the technique used both by the IRS and many state taxing authorities. The IRS’ electronic information about “taxpayers” is called the “Individual Master File” and it took us nearly a year to figure out how the codes work and then design a program to decode the content of the files. About ten days before we released the program to do the decoding called the Master File Decoder, the IRS launched an investigation of us and called us in for an audit, presumably to prevent the program from getting into the hands of the American Public.

When you complain about any of the above violations of the requirement for consent, government dis-servants will frequently say “We are just ‘clerks’ and are not empowered to change the system”, and then they will give you an address to write to, knowing that most people don’t like to write and that letters can more easily be ignored and forgotten than live phone calls. If you then write the appropriate party to complain, your letter will either be ignored or they will send you a flattering form letter that doesn’t deal substantially with any of your concerns, and in effect, blow you off and never deal with the problem. All the while, they can use the following additional standard excuses with innocent impunity, such as:

1. “Please write your Congressman if you don’t like it.”
2. “We can’t give you the benefit until you give us your Social Security Number.”
3. “Why don’t you talk to someone who cares?”
4. “We’re too busy around here to deal with your personal concerns. Can’t you see how many people there are in line behind you?”

This kind of evasion of responsibility and violation of rights and privacy using computers as the means is the similar to the kind of evasion practiced by the U.S. Congress, in fact, in the context of tax collection. When our country was founded, taxation without representation was the biggest cause for the revolution. After we won the revolution and separated from Great Britain, our new federal government put the representation and taxation function in the same place: The House of Representatives, which is part of the Legislative Branch. The House of Representatives was meant to represent the people while the Senate represented the states. As long as the “purse”, which is the responsibility and authority to collect taxes, remained under the control of the People in the House of Representatives, we had “taxation with representation”. When the exigencies of the Civil War happened in the 1860’s, the first thing the IRS did was try to move the tax collection function to the Executive Branch, thus separating the representation from the taxation function. Déjà vu all over again! The “Bureau of Internal Revenue” (BIR) was put into the Executive Branch instead of the Legislative Branch, and was assigned the responsibility to collect taxes to pay for the Civil War. When the people complained, they complained bitterly about “taxation without representation”, and about the injustice and violation of the Constitution that was being wrought by this expediency. Instead of Congress taking responsibility for the monster they created, they blamed it on the excesses and abuses of the BIR and the Executive Branch! They turned the rogue organization they created into the whipping boy for all of the complaints and told constituents that they had no control over the Executive Branch because of the separation of powers! In fact, they were violating the Constitution and the Separation of Powers Doctrine by trying to delegate the tax collection function to the Executive Branch and they should have been impeached! No sovereign power of any branch of government can be delegated to another branch.

4.4.16.4 Concealing the real identities of government wrongdoers

In the former Soviet Union, the government terrorized the citizens using a secret police force called the KGB. They made everyone into informants to the KGB by offering rewards to people who would snitch on their “comrades”. The government, in such a scenario, becomes a terrorist organization. The secrecy surrounding the KGB was the main source of government terror because its activities were kept secret and the government-controlled press did not report on their activities. The fear that the terrorism is intended to produce comes mainly from ignorance about who or what we are up against.

Secrecy, however, is anathema to a free society and an accountable government. Wherever there is secrecy in government, there is sure to be tyranny, corruption, and abuse of power. Consequently, those governments that are knowingly engaged in illegal or criminal activities will implement security measures to keep the identity of the perpetrators of the crimes and terrorism secret. This helps maintain the deception and illusion that we have a “voluntary tax system”, as the U.S. Supreme Court said in Flora v. United States, but at the same time, generates enough fear and anxiety in Americans to keep them involuntarily paying anyway. Can it reasonably or truthfully be said that any choice or decision we make in the presence of any kind of illegal duress and the fear it produces is voluntary or consensual? Absolutely NOT! Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, says the following under the definition of the word “consent” on p. 305:

“Consent is implied in every agreement. It is an act unclouded by fraud, duress, or sometimes even mistake.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 305]

1 Is an enforcement act that is not specifically authorized by an implementing regulation published in the federal register an
 2 act of duress? You bet it is! If that act hurts someone, and more importantly, if it produces fear in all the “sheep” who
 3 observed it, then it is an act of illegal duress and terrorism. If the fear produced by the illegal act causes someone to comply
 4 with the wishes of the IRS when no law obligates them to, then their act is no longer consensual, but simply a response to 5 illegal government terrorism, racketeering, and extortion.

6 Have you ever tried to find a publication or a government website that identifies everyone who works at the IRS by name
 7 and gives their mailing address, phone number, and email address? We’ll give you a clue: There is no such thing! We have
 8 spent days searching for this type of information at the law library and the public library and on the Internet and have found
 9 nothing. We even called them and they said they don’t make that kind of information public. We also wrote them a freedom
 10 of information act request to provide the information and they refused to comply. Does this cause you some concern? We 11 hope so! The IRS is unlike any other government organization because of the secrecy it maintains about the identity of its 12 employees, and perhaps that’s because they aren’t even part of the U.S. government! They have no lawful authority to even 13 exist either within the Constitution or under Title 31 of the U.S. Code. The IRS even readily admits that they are not an 14 agency of the federal government! See:

15 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/USGovDeniesIRS/USGovDeniesIRS.htm>

16 The IRS is, instead, a rogue private organization of financial terrorists involved in racketeering, what Irwin Schiff calls “The 17 Federal Mafia”, that is extorting vast sums of money from the American people under the “color of law” but without the 18 authority of law. For confirmation of this fact, look at the 1939 edition of the Internal Revenue Code (still active today and 19 never repealed) and look at the code section dealing with the duties of IRS “Revenue Agents”:

20 53 State 489

21 Revenue Act of 1939, 53 Stat. 489

22 Chapter 43: Internal Revenue Agents

23 Section 4000 Appointment

24 The Commissioner may, whenever in his judgment the necessities of the service so require, employ competent 25 agents, who shall be known and designated as internal revenue agents, and, except as provided for in this title,
 26 no general or special agent or inspector of the Treasury Department in connection with internal revenue, by 27 whatever designation he may be known, shall be appointed, commissioned, or employed.

28 “Competent agents”? What a joke! If they were “competent”, then they would:

- 29 1. Know and follow the law and be fired if they didn’t.
- 30 2. Work as an “employee” for a specific Congressman in the House of Representatives who was personally accountable
 31 for their actions. “Taxation and representation” must coincide to preserve the original intent of the Constitution.

32 You can read the above statute yourself on our website at:

33 <http://famguardian.org/CDs/LawCD/Federal/RevenueActs/Revenue%20Act%20of%201939.pdf>

34 If “Revenue Agents” are not “appointed, commissioned, or employed”, then what exactly are they? I’ll tell you what they 35 are: They are independent consultants who operate on commission. They get a commission from the property they steal
 36 from the American People, and their stolen “loot” comes from the Department of Agriculture. See the following response to 37 a Freedom of Information Act request proving that IRS agents are paid by the Department of Agriculture:

38 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/OrgAndDuties/USDAPaysIRS.pdf>

39 Why would the Congress NOT want to make Revenue Agents “appointed, commissioned, or employed”? Well, if they are 40 effectively STEALING property from the American people and if they are not connected in any way with the federal
 41 government directly, have no statutory authority to exist under Title 26, and are not statutory “employees”, then the President
 42 of the United States and all of his appointees in the Executive Branch cannot then be held personally liable for the acts and 43 abuses of these thieves. What politician in his right mind would want to jeopardize his career by being held accountable for 44 a mafia extortion ring whose only job is to steal money from people absent any legal authority?
 45

1 Because IRS supervisors know they are involved in criminal terrorism, extortion, and racketeering, they have taken great
2 pains to conceal the identity of their employees as follows:

- 3 1. When you call their 800 support number, the agent who answers will only give you his first name and an employee
4 number. If you specifically ask him for his full legal name, he will refuse to provide it and cannot cite the legal or 5 delegated authority that authorizes him to do this.
- 6 2. If you do a Freedom of Information Act request on the identity of a specific IRS employee and provide the employee
7 number, the IRS will refuse to disclose it, even if you can prove with evidence that the employee was acting illegally and 8 wrongfully.
- 9 3. There is no information about either the IRS organization chart or the identity of specific IRS employees anywhere on 10 either the Department of the Treasury or the IRS websites.
- 11 4. When you go to an IRS due process meeting and ask for identification of the employees present, they will present an IRS
12 badge that contains a “pseudo name” which is not the real name of the employee. If you ask them for some other form
13 of ID to confirm the accuracy of the IRS Pocket Commission they presented as we did, IRS employees will refuse to 14 provide it. The only reasonable explanation for this is that the Pocket Commissions issued by the IRS are fraudulent.
- 15 5. You can visit the law library or any public library and spend days looking for any information about the identity of 16 anyone in the IRS below the upper management level, and you will not find anything. The closest thing we found was 17 the Congressional Quarterly, which only publishes information about the identity of a handful of IRS upper management 18 types.
- 19 6. Collection notices coming from the IRS that might adversely affect your rights to property are conspicuously missing
20 signatures and the identity of the sender. There is frequently no phone number to call or person to write, and if the letter
21 has a signature, it is the signature of a fictitious person who doesn’t even exist. If you write a response to the collection
22 letter and direct it to the signer of the letter, it is frequently either ignored entirely or is sent back with a statement saying 23 that the employee doesn’t exist!
- 24 7. They will not put their last names or employee numbers in clear view on their name badges so you don’t even know who 25 you are talking to.
- 26 8. When you call the information number and ask the legal identity of a specific number or his or her contact information 27 and to connect you to them, they will refuse to comply.
- 28 9. When you visit the federal government building, and especially the IRS floor of the building, you will notice that there 29 are not directories of people who work there and all doors have cipher locks so you can’t go inside and try to find
30 someone. Their “customer service desk” will have two-inch thick bullet proof glass. Do you think they would need that 31 kind of security if they really were conscientiously performing the only legitimate function of government in defending,
32 protecting, and respecting our Constitutional rights? The laws and their whole work environment are designed to protect 33 them from their “customers” and the people they work for! They may use the excuse that they are trying to prevent 34 terrorism, but who are the real terrorists? THEM! Yes indeed, they are trying to protect from terrorists, and in their
35 mind, any American who demands an accountable government that obeys the Constitution is a terrorist. We have a
36 government pamphlet from the FBI that clearly says that people who promote the Constitution are terrorist! You can 37 view this pamphlet at:
38 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/LegalEthics/ConstDefenderTerorsts.pdf>
- 39 10. If you go to the IRS website and download any of their publications relating to tax scams or enforcement, notice that 40 neither the agency nor any specific individual is identified as the author. For instance, the IRS publishes a short 41 propaganda pamphlet called “The Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments” at:
42 http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/friv\_tax.pdf

43
44 The most interesting thing about this pamphlet is not the inflammatory and accusatory and presumptuous rhetoric, but
45 the fact that it is posted on the IRS website and no author is specifically identified. DO you think that people in the 46 government who claim to be speaking “The Truth”, as they call it, ought to be held accountable for their statements?
47 How can you have a reasonable basis for belief if they aren’t identified and held accountable? For instance, at a court
48 trial, witnesses must identify themselves and swear under oath that they will tell “the truth, the whole truth, and nothing
49 but the truth”. There is not such affirmation at the end of the document, no IRS seal, and no author identified. This isn’t 50 truth: its’ government sponsored propaganda!

51 Below is the text from a real deposition of an IRS agent in a tax trial showing how IRS agents disguise their identities
52 deliberately to protect them from the legal consequences of their criminal behavior:

53 A. Well, there have been several revenue officers that have worked this case, not just me.

54 Q. Who are the other ones?

1 A. There was another revenue officer that worked it prior to it being assigned to me. I don't recall his name
2 right off the top of my head, but I know it was a male revenue officer.

3 Q. Is he still there at the IRS?

4 A. Yes, he is.

5 Q. You don't remember his name?

6 A. Well, to be quite frank with you, he changed his name over a course of time. So I'm not sure which name
7 he was using at that time.

8 Q. What's his new and old name?

9 A. His old name was John Tucker and his new name is John Otto.

10 Q. Why did he change his name?

11 A. That was something that the Internal Revenue Service gave the employees the option to do so because 12 taxpayers would file liens against employees, they would file judgments against employees, record them in the 13 courthouses where they lived, and it would make it difficult for the revenue officer to sell their home or, you know,
14 transfer property or whatever the case might be. In other words, it would encumber their own personal property.

15 And so the Internal Revenue Service gave us an option to use what we call pseudonyms that would 16 protect the employees from taxpayers harassing us in that particular manner.

17 Q. So it's not a legal name change, it's just --

18 A. It's for Internal Revenue Service's purposes.

19 Q. Have you ever used another name?

20 A. Yes, I have.

21 Q. What other names have you used?

22 THE WITNESS: Do I have to answer that?

23 MR. SHILLING: Are you talking work name?

24 THE WITNESS: Are you talking work name or are you talking about my legal name?

25 Q. (BY MR. DROUGHT:) I'm talking about both. Are there any other names that you have ever gone by?

26 A. Yes. I have my maiden name and I have my married name that I use.

27 Q. And your maiden name is what?

28 THE WITNESS: Do I have to answer?

29 MR. SHILLING: Well, at this point she is operating under the pseudonym. Let's go off the record for a 30 second.

31 (Off record 10:53 a.m. to 10:55 a.m.)

32 MR. SHILLING: You can give any other name. Do you have any other pseudonyms that you used?

33 THE WITNESS: No. I have only used Frances Jordan.

34 Q. (BY MR. DROUGHT:) How long have you used that name?

35 A. Approximately 10 years.

36 Q. So 1994 about?

37 A. That's a good ballpark. The service made that available to employees for one very specific reason. At 38 that particular time, there was a lot of -- you know, Oklahoma City, you know, that was in reference to those 39 individuals that were killed in that. So that became a concern that the employees have some type of protection.

40 A coworker that I sat next to received a letter at her home address from a taxpayer, and she had two 41 small children, and her fear was that the taxpayer may do something to her home or to her children, and so she 42 inquired about using a pseudonym, and I inquired about using one at the same time because we need to protect 43 our families and our children from any harassing taxpayers.

44 Q. What about judges that send people to prison?

45 A. Sir, I can only tell you that the service made that option available to the employees.

46 Q. What about policeman that arrest people?

47 A. Sir, I can tell you -- I'm not a police officer. I'm not a judge. I'm only a revenue officer with the Internal 48 Revenue Service. That option was made available to us because of the type of job that we have. We have to take
49 people's money, we have to take people's property, and sometimes people become very distraught when that
50 happens. So consequently they -- they do do things to our families and to our homes, and we need to protect 51 ourselves as much as we can.

52 Q. Okay. What names have you gone by besides Frances Jordan?

53 A. While I worked for the Internal Revenue Service?

54 Q. Yes.

55 A. I'm going to -- like Mr. Shilling said, I'm going to not answer that question at this time until we discuss it
56 with the judge to see whether or not he prefers -- that he allows me to use my pseudonym or if he makes me use 57 my real name.

58 MR. DROUGHT: We are asking for her to give us those names, and we will agree to keep them
59 confidential and used only for the purpose of this lawsuit, but I think it's relevant and it likely could lead to 60 something relevant, and I don't want to have to go in front of the judge and spend these people's money. We are
61 asking that she give us the names now so I can ask her about them now and not have to come back and re-depose
62 her.

63 Do the above observations disturb you? They should! We are living in a police state and the IRS is a Gestapo organization
64 of secret police operatives who maintain "voluntary compliance" through financial terrorism. It's terrorism because they:

- 65 • Cannot demonstrate the authority of a specific statute AND implementing regulations AND delegation of authority
66 order authorizing their act of enforcement. 50 U.S.C. §841, in fact, says any public servant who refuses to 67 acknowledge and respect the Constitutional or lawful limits on their authority is a "communist"!

- 1 • Won't reveal their identities or allow themselves to be held personally liable and accountable to the public for their
- 2 illegal and fraudulent acts and statements.
- 3 • Are allowed to institute illegal abuses of our rights completely anonymously and without having to accept personal
- 4 responsibility for the abuses.

5 On the other hand, how long do you think the lies, the propaganda, and the willful and illegal abuses of our rights by would
6 continue if the following reforms were instituted and enforced upon the IRS:

- 7 1. Every Revenue Agent who interacts with the public had to reveal their true, full legal identity and contact information,
8 including their Social Security Number. After all, if they can ask you for it, then you should be able to do the same thing.
9 Equal protection of the laws requires it.
- 10 2. Use of "Pseudo names" on IRS Pocket Commissions was discontinued.
- 11 3. The identities of every IRS employee down to the lowest level was published on the IRS website.
- 12 4. Every piece of correspondence from the IRS had to be signed under penalty of perjury as required by 26 U.S.C. §6065
13 and the complete contact information and real legal name of the originator or responsible person must be identified on 14 the correspondence.

15 The answer is that the abuses would stop IMMEDIATELY. Secrecy and the fear it produces is the only thing that keeps this 16 house of cards standing, folks!

17 4.4.16.5 Making it difficult, inconvenient, or costly to obtain information about illegal government activities

18 Criminals, whether they are violating the Constitution or enacted statutory law, don't want evidence about their misdeeds
19 exposed. A crime is simply any act that harms someone and was not done to them with their consent. The Freedom of 20 Information Act and the Privacy Act are both designed to maintain an accountable government that serves the people by 21 ensuring that people can always find out what their government is up to. Information about what the government is doing
22 can then be used to prosecute specific public servants who violated the requirement for consent and your rights. Government
23 agencies typically maintain "Public relations" offices, and also a full-time legal staff called the "disclosure group" to deal
24 with requests for information that come in from the Public because of these laws. These disclosure litigation lawyers have 25 the specific and sole function of filtering and obscuring and obfuscating information that is provided to the public about the 26 activities and employees of the agency they work for. The main purpose for doing the filtering is to protect from prosecution
27 wrongdoers within the agency. Disclosure litigation lawyers know that Fifth Amendment guarantees only biological people
28 the right to not incriminate themselves, but corporations are not covered by the Fifth Amendment. The U.S. Code identifies 29 the U.S. Government as a federal corporation in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A), and so the silver tongued devils have to devise 30 more devious means to conceal the truth. They are paid to lie and conceal and deceive the public without actually "looking"
31 like they are doing so. They are "poker players" for the government.

32 When you send in a Privacy Act Request or Freedom of Information Act request, as we have many times, that focuses on 33 some very incriminating evidence that could be used against the government, the response usually falls into one of the 34 following four categories:

- 35 1. The government will say the information is exempt from disclosure and cite the exemptions found in 5 U.S.C.
36 §552a(k).
- 37 2. The government will only provide a subset of the requested information and not explain why they omitted certain key 38 information.
- 39 3. The government will provide the information requested, but redact the incriminating parts. For instance, they will 40 black out the incriminating information and/or remove key pages.
- 41 4. If the government is involved in an enforcement action and the information you requested under the Privacy Act or 42 Freedom Of Information Act could stop or interfere with the action because it exposes improprieties, they will try to 43 drag their feet and delay providing the information until they have the result they want. For instance, if you send in a
44 Privacy Act request for information about your tax liability, they will delay the response until after the period of appeal
45 or response is over. That way , you can't respond or defend yourself against their illegal actions in a timely fashion.

46 In the process of decoding the Individual Master Files of several people, we have found that the IRS very carefully conceals
47 information that would be useful in understanding what the IRS knows about a person. They use complicated, computerized
48 codes in their records for which no information is presently available about what they mean. They used to make a manual
49 called IRS Document 6209 available on their website for use in decoding IMF's, but it was taken down in 2003 so that no public information about decoding is available now. A number of people have sent Freedom of Information Act Requests to the IRS requesting a copy of IRS Document 6209 and the IRS has responded by providing a very incomplete and virtually useless version of the original manual, with key chapters removed and most of the rest of the remaining information blacked out. They are obviously obstructing justice by preventing evidence of their wrongdoing from getting in the hands of the public. Some people who have requested this document under the Freedom of Information Act from the IRS, got the unbelievable response below:

“We are sorry, but under the war on terrorism, the information you requested is not available for release because it would jeopardize the security of the United States government.”

What the heck does the meaning of the codes in a persons’ IRS records have to do with the war on terrorism? The war on terror is being used as an excuse to make our own government into a terrorist organization! The needs of the public and the need for an accountable government that obeys the Constitution far outweigh such lame excuses by the IRS that have the effect of obstructing justice and protecting wrongdoers in the IRS. Such criminal acts of concealment are also illegal under the following statutes:

- 18 U.S.C. §3: Accessory after the fact
- 18 U.S.C. §4: Mispriison of felony
- 18 U.S.C. Chapter 73: Obstruction of justice
- 18 U.S.C. §241: Conspiracy against rights under

Since the IRS Document 6209 is effectively no longer available through the Freedom Of Information Act, then if a person wanted a full and complete and uncensored version of the document from the government they would then have to file a disclosure lawsuit against the government for not complying with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act. Lawsuits, lawyers, and litigation are costly, inconvenient, and demanding and therefore beyond the reach and affordability of the average busy American. Consequently, the government wins in its effort to block from public disclosure key information about its own wrongdoing. The result is that by bending the rules slightly, they in effect make it so costly, inconvenient, exasperating, and complicated to have an accountable and law-abiding government that few people will attempt to overcome the illegal barrier they have created. The few that do overcome this barrier then have to worry about finding an attorney who is brave enough to get his license to practice law pulled by the government he is litigating against for prosecuting such government wrongdoers. The system we have now is very devious and prejudicial and needs to be reformed.

4.4.16.6 Ignoring correspondence and/or forcing all complaints through an unresponsive legal support staff that exasperates and terrorizes “customers”

When your rights have been violated because a government agency or employee has tried to do something without your explicit, informed consent, then the clerk at the government agency who instituted the wrong will further obstruct redress of grievances as follows:

1. They will tell you that they can’t give you information about their supervisor to lodge a complaint, and this is especially true if you did not get their full legal name because they refused to give it to you.
2. They will say that this is an issue or problem that you must contact the “legal department” or “public affairs department” about. Then they will tell you that those organizations do not take direct calls and insist that everything must be in writing. They will not explain why, but the implications are obvious: They want to prevent spilling the beans and prevent further contact with themselves or their supervisors so they cannot be prosecuted for wrongdoing.
3. Then when you write the address the clerk gave you, most often the legal department will ignore it entirely or respond with a lame form letter that answers questions you never asked and doesn’t directly address any of the major issues you raised. This leaves you with no further recourse but to litigate, and they do it this way on purpose because they know most people won’t litigate and can’t afford the time or expense to do so. Checkmate. The government got what it wanted: a violation of your rights without legal or material consequence for the violation.

Those Americans who are familiar with the above process and the abuses it results in and who are more familiar with legal procedure can still use the above process to their advantage with a procedure we call the Notary Certificate of Default Method (NCDM), whereby the correspondence sent to the legal department establishes what you expect, provides exhaustive evidence of government wrongdoing, formats the complaint as what is called an “Admissions” in the legal field, gives the government a specific time period to respond, and states that failure to respond constitutes an affirmative admission to every question. They then send in their complaint to the legal department or “Taxpayer Advocate” via certified mail with a proof of mailing,

1 which then develops legal evidence of what was sent and when it was sent. This approach gives them admissible evidence
 2 they can use in court to litigate against the government. You can read more about the Notary Certificate of Default Method
 3 in the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, section 3.4.4.5.

4 4.4.16.7 Deliberately dumbing down and propagandizing government support personnel who have to implement 5 the law

6 To quote former Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neil on the subject of the Internal Revenue Code, which he says is...:

7 "9,500 pages of gibberish."

8 SOURCE: [http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/OrgAndDuties/IRSExhibit-PaulONeill-
 9 IRSCode9500PgsOfGibberish.pdf]

10 Add to this the following:

- 11 1. 22,000 pages of Treasury and IRS regulations that implement the Internal Revenue Code
- 12 2. 70,000 employees at the IRS
- 13 3. A very high turnover rate among revenue agents, and the need to constantly educate new recruits.
- 14 4. An overworked support force.
- 15 5. Contracting key functions of the IRS out to independent third party debt collectors.
- 16 6. A very unpleasant job to do that most people detest.

17 ...and you have a recipe for disaster, abuse, and tyranny and a total disregard of the requirement for consent and respect of 18 the rights of sovereign Americans everywhere. Several studies have been done on the hazards of this government bureaucracy
 19 by the Government Accountability Office, which show that IRS advice on their telephone support line was wrong over 80%
 20 of the time! IRS supervisors who design the training curricula for new employees have also made a concerted effort to "dumb
 21 down" revenue agents to increase "voluntary compliance". For instance, during the We the People Truth in Taxation Hearing
 22 held in Washington D.C. on February 27-28, 2002, a former IRS Collection Agent brought his IRS Revenue Agent training
 23 materials to the hearing and proved using the materials that Revenue Agents are not properly warned that there is no law
 24 authorizes them to do Substitute For Return (SFR) assessments upon anything BUT a business or corporation located in the 25 federal zone which consents to taxation, and that SFR's against biological people are illegal and violate 26 U.S.C. §6020(b)
 26 and Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 5.1.11.6.10. See the questions and evidence for yourself on our website at:

27 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Section%2013.htm>

28 Do you think that an IRS Revenue Agent who meets all the following criteria is going to be "properly equipped" to follow
 29 the lawful limits on his authority, respect your rights, and help you make an informed choice based only on consent? What
 30 a joke! Most IRS employees:

- 31 1. Are never taught from the law books or taught about the law. Instead, are only taught about internal procedures
 32 developed by people who don't read the tax code. And if they do start reading the law and asking questions of their
 33 supervisors, as former IRS Criminal Investigator Joe Banister did, then they are asked to resign or fired if they won't 34 resign.
- 35 2. Rely mainly upon the IRS publications for information about what to do and are not told to read the law, in spite of the 36 fact that the IRS Internal Revenue Manual in section 4.10.7.2.8 says that IRS Publications should not be used to form 37 an opinion about what the tax code requires.
- 38 3. Are wrong 80% of the time about the only subject they are paid to know.
- 39 4. Don't stay at the job longer than about two years because of the very high turnover in the organization.
- 40 5. Are despised and feared by the public for what they do, mainly because they do not honor the restrictions placed on 41 them by the law itself.
- 42 6. Have deceptive IRS formal classroom training materials that deliberately omit mention about doing Substitute For 43 Return (SFR) assessments upon natural persons, even though it is not authorized by the law in 26 U.S.C. §6020(b).

44 In the legal realm, ignorance of the law is no excuse. Therefore, if anyone at the government agency can or should be held
 45 responsible for acts that violate the law and our rights, it should be the ignorant and deliberately misinformed clerk or
 46 employee who committed the act. However, the managers of these employees should also be culpable, because they 47 deliberately developed the training and mentorship curricula of their subordinates so as to maximize the likelihood that employees would violate the laws and prejudice the rights of Americans in order to encourage “voluntary compliance” with what the agency wants, but which the law does not require. These devious managers will most often respond to accusations of culpability by trying to maintain a defense called “plausible deniability”, in which they deny responsibility for the illegal actions of their employees because they will falsely claim that they did not know about the problem. Notifying these wayward government employees personally via certified mail and posting all such correspondences on a public website for use in litigation against the government can be very helpful in fighting this kind of underhanded approach. This is the approach of Larken Rose, who has been keeping a database of all government employees at the IRS who have been notified that employees are mis-enforcing the law and yet refused to take action to remedy the wrong, concealed the fact that they were notified of the wrong, and continued to claim “plausible deniability”. This has gotten him on the bad side of the IRS to the point where they decided to raid his house and confiscate his computers, and then plant false evidence of kiddie porn on them and have him prosecuted for it violation of kiddie porn laws. Your government servants are wicked and these abuses must be stopped!

If you would like to know more about the subject of “plausible deniability” in the context of the IRS, refer to:

4.4.16.8 Creating or blaming a scapegoat beyond their control

As we point out later in section 6.5.1, our republic was created out of the need for taxation WITH representation. England was levying heavy taxes without giving us any representation in their Parliament, and we didn’t like it and revolted. The original Constitutional Republican model created by the founders solved this problem by giving the sovereign People in the House of Representatives the dual responsibility of both Representing us AND Collecting legitimate taxes while also limiting the term of office of these representatives to two years. This ensured that:

- The sovereign People controlled the purse of government so that it would not get out of control.
- If our tax-collecting representatives got too greedy, we could throw the bastards out immediately.
- There would be no blame-shifting between the tax collectors and our representatives, because they would be one and the same.

This scheme kept our representatives in the House who controlled the purse strings on a very short leash and prevented government from getting too big or out of control. The very first Revenue Act of 1789 found in the Statutes at Large at 1 Stat. 24-49 created the office of Collector of Revenue and imposed the very first official federal tax of our new Constitutional Republic only upon imports. This tax was called a “duty” or “impost”, or “excise”. It placed collectors at every port district and made them accountable to Congress. This type of a taxing structure remained intact until the Civil War began in 1860.

However, our system of Taxation WITH Representation was eventually corrupted, primarily by separating the Taxation and Representation functions from each other. With the start of the Civil War and as an emergency measure in the Revenue Act of 1862, the Congress through legislation shifted the tax collection to a newly created “Bureau of Internal Revenue” (BIR), which was part of the Executive Branch and came under the Department of Treasury, which was in the Executive Branch. At that point, we lost the direct relationship between Taxation and Representation because the functions were separated across two departments. All of the evils in our present tax system trace back to the corruption that occurred at that point because:

1. Specific collection agents in the IRS are not put under a member of the House of Representatives and apportioned, as all federal tax collections require in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3. This means that they are not supervised by someone who we directly control in the House.
2. Congress has a convenient “whipping boy” they created to do the tax collection function. This whipping boy is conveniently in another branch of government that they can claim they have no direct control over. This causes endless finger-pointing and eliminates all accountability on either end of the Taxation or Representation equation.
3. Those in IRS cannot be held directly accountable because most are federal employees who are hard to fire and not elected so they are not accountable to the people.

Even today, this devious tactic of separating responsibility from authority for government abuses among multiple branches is very frequently used as the only real justification for what would otherwise be flagrant disregard for the rights of the people by the government. For instance, if the government is abusing people’s rights in a way that gets negative media attention, the most common justification you will hear is that the bureaucracy has gotten too big, is out of control, and is not accountable directly to the people. The Executive branch will usually be the culprit, and no one in the Legislative Branch will want to

1 take responsibility to pass a law to fix it. Or worst yet, the Legislative Branch will pass a “dead law”, which is a statute meant
 2 to appease the public but for which the Executive Branch positively refuses to write implementing regulations to enforce.
 3 This is what happened with the campaign finance reforms in the 2001. Sound familiar? The more layers of bureaucracy
 4 there are, the more effective this system of blame-shifting becomes. With more layers, public servants can just conveniently
 5 excuse themselves by saying “It takes forever to get X to do anything so it’s unlikely that we will be able to help you with 6 your problem.”

7 To give you an example of how the IRS abuses this technique to their advantage, look at how they respond to Privacy Act
 8 requests for Assessment documents. The Privacy Act requires them to respond with the documents requested within 20 days.
 9 After several people began using the Privacy Act to demand assessment documents, and since the IRS was not doing legal
 10 assessments and wanted to hide the fact from the public, the IRS changed their Internal Revenue Manual in 2000 to essentially
 11 delay and interfere with responding. In Internal Revenue Manual section 11.3.13.9.4, the IRS basically tells its Disclosure
 12 Officers essentially to bounce a person’s Privacy Act Request for assessment documents all over its many hundreds of 13 disclosure offices until the person gets frustrated and essentially gives up. Read this dastardly section yourself at:

14 <http://www.irs.gov/irm/part11/ch03s14.html#d0e13151>

15 4.4.16.9 Terrorizing and threatening, rather than helping, the ignorant

16 Another famous techniques of criminals working in public service is to terrorize the ignorant. This technique is usually only 17 used when the financial stakes are high and a person is taking custody of a large sum of money that the government wants to 18 steal a part of. Here is how it works:

- 19 1. Before the distribution can be made, and notice is sent to the affected party stating the conditions under which the 20 distribution can be made without incurring tax liability.
- 21 2. If the party wants to take the distribution without tax withholding as prescribed in 26 U.S.C. §3406, they are told that 22 they must sign a statement under penalty of perjury that they meet the conditions required for not being “liable” for 23 federal income taxes. They will be told that if it is not under penalty of perjury, then they cannot get their money or 24 property back.
- 25 3. The statement the party must sign will contain a dire warning that if they are wrong in signing the form, they are 26 committing perjury and that they will violate 18 U.S.C. §1001, which carries with it a fine and jail time up to five years!
- 27 4. In the meantime, the clerks processing the paperwork in the government, when consulted, will tell the submitter that:
 28 4.1. We can’t provide legal advice.
 29 4.2. We refuse to sign any statement under penalty of perjury which might help you to determine whether you meet the 30 criteria for not being taxable.
 31 4.3. You are on your own and need to seek expensive legal counsel if you want assistance.
- 32 5. If you ask the clerks the phone contact information for the legal department to resolve your issue with the government
 33 agency, they will tell you:
 34 5.1. We can’t give it out
 35 5.2. It only works internally and you can’t use it.
 36 5.3. Calls are not authorized to the legal department. All inquiries must be in writing. Then when you write the legal 37 department of the agency, they will completely ignore your request and you will have no way to call them and do 38 follow-up to ensure that they respond.
- 39 6. The party will therefore be left with only two options:
 40 6.1. Pay the withholding tax.
 41 6.2. Hire an expensive legal counsel to “advise” you and then pay something approaching the cost of the withholding
 42 tax to a government-licensed attorney who has a conflict of interest. The government-licensed attorney will tell
 43 you that you have to pay the tax even if there is no law that requires this, because if he doesn’t, the government will 44 pull his license. Now you paid close to DOUBLE the withholding tax after everything is said and done, because 45 you have to pay an expensive attorney AND the withholding tax.

46 To give you one example of how the above tactic is used, consider the situation of a public servant who has just left federal
 47 employment voluntarily or was terminated. At that point, he usually has a large retirement nest egg in Federal Thrift Savings
 48 Plan (TSP) that he wants to take into his or her custody while also avoiding the need to pay any income tax as a consequence
 49 of the distribution. Lawyers in the District of Columbia who are running the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) have devised a way
 50 to basically browbeat people into paying withholding taxes on direct retirement distributions using the above technique. Here
 51 is how it works:

1. Federal government workers who leave federal service and who want to withdraw their retirement savings must submit the TSP-70 form to the Thrift Savings Program. You can view this form at: <http://tsp.gov/forms/index.html>
2. Most separating federal government employees inhabit the states of the Union:
  - 2.1. Are “nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).
  - 2.2. Are not “citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
  - 2.3. Are “nonresident aliens” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) IN THE CONTEXT OF THE OFFICIAL DUTIES ONLY.
  - 2.4. Are “non-resident non-persons” in the context of their PRIVATE property and PRIVATE affairs. As we explain later in this chapter and throughout chapter 5 later.
3. TSP Publication OC-96-21 describes the procedures to be used for “nonresident aliens” who are not engaged in a “trade or business” to withdraw their entire retirement free of the 20% withholding mandated by 26 U.S.C. §3406. Here is what section 3 of that pamphlet says:

3. How much tax will be withheld on payments from the TSP?

The amount withheld depends upon your status, as described below. Participant. If you are a nonresident alien, your payment will not be subject to withholding for U.S. income taxes. (See Question 2.) If you are a U.S. citizen or a resident alien, your payment will be subject to withholding for U.S. income taxes. If you are a U.S. citizen or resident alien when you separate, you will receive from your employing agency the tax notice “Important Tax Information About Payments From Your TSP Account,” which explains the withholding rules that apply to your various withdrawal options.

Later on in that same pamphlet above, here is what they say about the requirement for a statement under penalty of perjury attesting that you are a “nonresident alien” with no income from within the federal “United States”:

2. Will the TSP withhold U.S. taxes from my payments?

This depends on whether the payment you receive is subject to U.S. income tax. If the money you receive is subject to U.S. income tax, then it is subject to withholding. In general, the only persons who do not owe U.S. taxes are nonresident alien participants and nonresident alien beneficiaries of nonresident alien participants. The TSP will not withhold any U.S. taxes if you fit into either category and you submit the certification described below. However, if you do not submit the certification to the TSP, the TSP must withhold 30% of your payment for Federal income taxes.

Certification. To verify that no tax withholding is required on a payment you are receiving as a participant, the TSP asks that you certify under penalty of perjury that you are a nonresident alien whose contributions to the TSP were based on income earned outside the [federal] United States. If you are receiving a payment as a beneficiary, you must certify that you are a nonresident alien and that the deceased participant was also a nonresident alien whose contributions to the TSP were based on income earned outside the United States. (Certification forms are attached to this tax notice.)

4. The certification form for indicating that you are a “nonresident alien” who earned all income outside the “United States[**]” is contained at the end of the above pamphlet. Here is the warning it contains in the perjury statement at the end:

Warning: Any intentional false statement in this certification or willful misrepresentation concerning it is a violation of the law that is punishable by a fine of as much as $10,000 or imprisonment for as long as 5 years, or both (18 U.S.C. 1001).

5. The critical issue in the above pamphlet, of course, is their “presumed” and ambiguous definition of “United States”, which we will find out later in section 4.5.3 means the federal United States or “federal zone”, which is the District of Columbia Only within Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code as indicated by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10). If you call the Thrift Savings Program (TSP) coordinator and ask him some very pointed questions about the definition of “United States” upon which the above pamphlet relies and the code section or regulation where it is found, you will get the run-around. If you ask for the corporate counsel phone number, they refuse to give it to you and tell you to ask in writing. If you write them, they will ignore you because they don’t want the truth to get out in black and white. If you were to corner one of these people after they left federal service and ask them for honest answers, they would probably tell you that their supervisor threatened them if they leaked out what is meant by “United States” to callers or if they put anything in writing. They are obviously holding the truth hostage for 20 pieces of silver. They will positively refuse to

1 give you anything in writing that will help clarify the meaning of “United States” as used in the pamphlet, because they
 2 want to make it very risky and confrontational for you to keep your hard-earned money. They will refuse to take any
 3 responsibility whatsoever to help you follow the law, and they will conveniently claim ignorance of the law, even though
 4 ignorance of the law is no excuse, according the courts.

5 Note in the above the hypocrisy evident in the situation and the resulting violation of equal protection of the laws mandated
 6 by the Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1:

- 7 1. You are being compelled to take a risk of spending five years in jail by signing something under penalty of perjury that 8 they can falsely accuse you is fraudulent and wrong. All you have to do is look at them the wrong way and they will try
 9 to sick a mafia police state on you. At the same time, there is absolutely no one in government who is or can be required
 10 to take the equivalent risk by signing a determination about the meaning of “United States” in their own misleading 11 publication.
- 12 2. Publication OC-96-21 starts off with a disclaimer of liability and advice to consult an attorney, and yet it is impossible 13 for you to have the same kind of disclaimer if you sign their form at the end of the pamphlet.
- 14 3. They refuse to put anything in writing that they say or do and require EVERYTHING you do with them to be in writing
 15 and signed under penalty of perjury. If you do a Privacy Act request for their internal documents relating to your case 16 to hold them accountable, they will refuse to provide them because they want to protect their coworkers from liability.
 17 This is hypocrisy.
- 18 4. All risk is thereby transferred to you and avoided by your public dis-servants. Consequently, there is no way to ensure 19 that they do their job by genuinely helping you, even though that is the ONLY reason they even have a job to begin with.

20 In effect, what our public dis-servants are doing above is using ignorance, fear, deliberate ambiguity of law and publications,
 21 and intimidation as weapons to terrorize “nontaxpayers” into paying extortion money to the government. They have made
 22 every option available to you EXCEPT bribing the government into a risky endeavor, knowing full well that most people will 23 try to avoid risk. They will not help citizens defend their property, which is the ONLY legitimate function of government.
 24 Based on the above, the only thing these thieves will help anyone do is bribe the government with money that isn’t owed and
 25 to do so under the influence of constructive fraud, malfeasance, and breach of fiduciary duty on the part of the public dis-
 26 servant. The presence of such constructive fraud makes it impossible to give informed, voluntary consent in the situation,
 27 and therefore makes it impossible to willfully make a false statement. However, it is common for federal judges to aid and
 28 abet in the persecution and terrorism of honest Americans who submit the above OC-96-21 form in order to perpetuate the 29 federal mafia and keep the stolen loot flowing that funds their fat federal retirement checks.

30 4.4.17 Why good government demands more than just “obeying the law”

31 We should all teach our own children that legal, law-abiding behavior is desirable. However, in a civilized society, simply 32 “obeying the law” and doing nothing more is minimal behavior and poor citizenship. Civilization cannot long endure if our 33 conduct is merely "legal." The Apostle Paul alluded to this when he said:

34 “All things are lawful for me, but all things are not helpful. All things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought 35 under the power of any.”
 36 [1 Cor. 6:12, Bible, NKJV]

37 For civilization to endure and expand personal liberty and happiness, human relations must be characterized by respect,
 38 courtesy, good manners, ethics, and morality - none of which are required by law. The reason they can’t be required by law
 39 is because:

40 “You can’t legislate morality.”

41 With former President Bill Clinton, "I didn't break any laws" has become the hissing cackle of false humility and hypocritical
 42 vanity displayed by the puff adder politician in the White House and his "Sit Up! Bark!" democrat emulators in the halls of 43 Congress. He is a walking, talking contradiction of everything worthy of teaching our children about self-government. If 44 everyone did nothing more for the benefit of our society than emulate his despicable behavior, then what kind of country do
 45 you think we would have? What we would end up with is a banana-republic where “the end justifies the means”, and we
 46 would certainly no longer deserve the kind of respect and envy that many throughout the rest of the world bestow upon this 47 country.

"I didn't break any laws" is nothing to brag about. Our ancestors were individuals and families of character as with most of the American people who do not measure their daily choices by what is merely legal. They have lived their moment-by-moment lives by respect for individuals, standards of ethics, and principles of boundary that transcend mere law. They believed this was normal and average civilized conduct. When they come of age, our children and our Children's children will agree.

The former actor in the White House is, by repeated acts of misconduct, challenging the statistical laws of probability and the Creator's sow-reap Laws of Certainty. Lying and cheating, and getting away with it, appears to be successful. But, like a speeder on the highway, "Success breeds failure." He will get caught or crash - or both! Count on it.

The day is soon coming when Clinton's former supporters will, by hindsight, speak his name as a curse. Many of us would have preferred foresight. Remember the words of former President George Bush before he lost the election to Clinton? "President Clinton has no character?" He was definitely right, in hindsight, now wasn't he? But, after all, foresight has a prerequisite. It is called "making choices by principle."

Any civilization, if it is to endure, expand, and prosper, must be based on "making choices by principle", rather than simply "complying with the law". The foundation of making choices by principle rather than law is morality and ethics. Morality and ethics are summed up in one word: wisdom. The chief source of all wisdom is God:

"The fear of [respect and obedience towards] the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding, for by me your days will be multiplied, and years of life will be added to you."
[Prov. 9:10-11, Bible, NKJV]

Therefore, belief and trust in God over and above the vanity of man is the chief source of "making choices by principle" in our society. Any effort by our corrupted courts to eliminate religion from the media or public life or schools is an effort to remove "principle", and by implication, morality and ethics and wisdom, from the decision-making process. Even the Supreme Court agrees:

"The American people have always regarded education and acquisition of knowledge as matters of supreme importance which should be diligently promoted. The Ordinance of 1787 declares: 'Religion, morality and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.'"
[Meyer v. State of Nebraska, 262 U.S. 390 (1923)]

When you eliminate God and religion from society, then you end up with a society without a conscience, which is exactly what our country would be like if everyone were like former President Clinton and his Democrat imitators.

4.5 Separation of Powers

The following subsection will deal with what the U.S. Supreme Court calls the "separation of powers". That separation of powers was created and put there primarily for the protection of PRIVATE rights we covered earlier. For a more detailed coverage of the subject, see:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023

4.5.1 The Three Definitions of "United States"

Most of us are completely unaware that the term "United States" has several distinct and separate legal meanings and that it is up to us to know and understand these differences, to use them appropriately, and to clarify exactly which one we mean whenever we sign any government or financial form (including voter registration, tax documents, etc). If we do not, we could unknowingly, unwillingly and involuntarily be creating false presumptions that cause us to surrender our Constitutional rights and our sovereignty. The fact is, most of us have unwittingly been doing just that for most, if not all, of our lives. Much of this misunderstanding and legal ignorance has been deliberately "manufactured" by our corrupted government in the public school system. It is a fact that our public dis-servants want docile sheep who are easy to govern, not "high maintenance" sovereigns capable of critical and independent thinking and who demand their rights. We have become so casual in our use of the term "United States" that it is no longer understood, even within the legal profession, that there are actually three different legal meanings to the term. In fact, the legal profession has contributed to this confusion over this term by removing

1 its definitions from all legal dictionaries currently in print that we have looked at. See section 6.10.1 later for details on this
2 scam.

3 Most of us have grown up thinking the term United States indicates and includes all 50 states of the Union. This is true in
4 the context of the U.S. Constitution but it is not true in all contexts. As you will see, this is the third meaning assigned to the
5 term “United States” by the United States Supreme Court. But, usually when we (Joe six pack) use the term United States we
6 actually think we are saying the united States, as we are generally thinking of the several states or the union of States. There
7 are times when you could be mistaken and as you will come to realize, this could be a very costly assumption.

8 First, it should be noticed that the term United States is a noun. In fact, it is the proper name and title “We the people...” gave
9 to the corporate entity (non-living thing) of the federal (central) government created by the Constitution. This in turn
10 describes where the “United States” federal corporation was to be housed as the Seat of the Government - In the District of 11 Columbia, not to exceed a ten mile square.

12 Constitution
13 Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17

14 To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as
15 may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the 16 United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the 17 State in which the Same shall be for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful
18 Buildings;—And [underlines added]

19 Below is how the united States supreme Court addressed the question of the meaning of the term “United States” (see Black’s 20 Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that the term
21 United States has three uses:

22 "The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign
23 occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the 24 territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states
25 which are united by and under the Constitution."
26 [Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 \(1945\)]

27 We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.
28

You are a "Citizen of the United States" like someone is a Citizen of France, or England. We abbreviate this version of "United States" with a single asterisk after its name: "United States*" throughout this article.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |

Here Congress has exclusive legislative jurisdiction. In this sense, the term "United States" is a singular noun. You are a person residing in the District of Columbia, one of its Territories or Federal areas (enclaves). Hence, even a person living in the one of the sovereign States could still be a member of the Federal area and therefore a "citizen of the United States." This is the definition used in most "Acts of Congress" and federal statutes. We abbreviate this version of "United States" with a two asterisks after its name: "United States" throughout this article. This definition is also synonymous with the "United States" corporation found in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). |

The U.S. Supreme Court helped to clarify which of the three definitions above is the one used in the U.S. Constitution, when it said the following. Note they are implying the THIRD definition above and not the other two:

*"The earliest case is that of Hepburn v. Ellzey, 2 Cranch, 445, 2 L.Ed. 332, in which this court held that, under that clause of the Constitution limiting the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States to controversies between citizens of different states, a citizen of the District of Columbia could not maintain an action in the circuit court of the United States. It was argued that the word 'state,' in that connection, was used simply to denote a distinct political society. 'But,' said the Chief Justice, 'as the act of Congress obviously used the word 'state' in reference to that term as used in the Constitution, it becomes necessary to inquire whether Columbia is a state in the sense of that instrument. The result of that examination is a conviction that the members of the American confederacy only are the states contemplated in the Constitution . . . and excludes from the term the signification attached to it by writers on the law of nations.' This case was followed in Barney v. Baltimore, 6 Wall. 280, 18 L.Ed. 825, and quite recently in Hooe v. Jamieson, 166 U.S. 395, 41 L.Ed. 1049, 17 Sup.Ct.Rep. 596. The same rule was applied to citizens of territories in New Orleans v. Winter, 1 Wheat. 91, 4 L.Ed. 44, in which an attempt was made to distinguish a territory from the District of Columbia. But it was said that 'neither of them is a state in the sense in which that term is used in the Constitution.' In Scott v. Jones, 5 How. 343, 12 L.Ed. 181, and in Miners' Bank v. Iowa ex rel. District Prosecuting Attorney, 12 How. 1, 13 L.Ed. 867, it was held that under the judiciary act, permitting writs of error to the supreme court of a state in cases where the validity of a state statute is drawn in question, an act of a territorial legislature was not within the contemplation of Congress."*
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

The Supreme Court further clarified that the Constitution implies the third definition above, which is the United States*** when they said the following. Notice that they say "not part of the United States within the meaning of the Constitution" and that the word "the" implies only ONE rather than multiple meanings:

"As the only judicial power vested in Congress is to create courts whose judges shall hold their offices during good behavior, it necessarily follows that, if Congress authorizes the creation of courts and the appointment of judges for limited time, it must act independently of the Constitution upon territory which is not part of the United States within the meaning of the Constitution."
[O'Donoghue v. United States, 289 U.S. 516, 53 S.Ct. 740 (1933)]

1 Another important distinction needs to be made. Definition 3 above refers to the confederation of states under the constitution,
 2 but this country is not a “nation”, in the sense of international law. This very important point was made clear by the U.S.
 3 Supreme Court in 1794 in the case of Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793), when it said:

4 This is a case of uncommon magnitude. One of the parties to it is a State; certainly respectable, claiming to be
 5 sovereign. The question to be determined is, whether this State, so respectable, and whose claim soars so high,
 6 is amenable to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States? This question, important in itself,
 7 will depend on others, more important still; and, may, perhaps, be ultimately resolved into one, no less radical
 8 than this 'do the people of the United States form a Nation?'

9 A cause so conspicuous and interesting, should be carefully and accurately viewed from every possible point of 10 sight. I shall examine it; 1st. By the principles of general jurisprudence. 2nd. By the laws and practice of 11 *particular States and Kingdoms. From the law of nations little or no
 12 illustration of this subject can be expected. By that law the 13 several States and Governments spread over our globe, are 14 considered as forming a society, not a NATION. It has only been by a very* 15 few comprehensive minds, such as those of Elizabeth and the Fourth Henry, that this last great idea has been 16 even contemplated. 3rdly, and chiefly, I shall examine the important question before us, by the Constitution of the 17 United States, and the legitimate result of that valuable instrument.
 18 [Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793)]

19 Black’s Law Dictionary further clarifies the distinction between a nation and a society by clarifying the differences between 20 a national government and a federal government, and keep in mind that our government is called “federal government”:

21 “NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. The government of a whole nation, as distinguished from that of a local or 22 territorial division of the nation, and also as distinguished from that of a league or confederation.

23 “A national government is a government of the people of a single state or nation, united as a community by what
 24 is termed the “social compact,” and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things, so far
 25 as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. A federal government is distinguished from a 26 national government by its being the government of a community of independent and sovereign states, united 27 by compact.” Piqua Branch Bank v. Knoup, 6 Ohio.St. 393”
 28 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Revised Fourth Edition, 1968, p. 1176]

29 So the “United States***” the country is a “society” and a “sovereignty” but not a “nation” under the law of nations, by the 30 Supreme Court’s own admission. Because the supreme Court has ruled on this matter, it is now incumbent upon each of us
 31 to always remember it and to apply it in all of our dealings with the Federal Government. If not, we lose our individual
 32 Sovereignty by default and the Federal Government assumes jurisdiction over us. So, while a sovereign American will want
 33 to be the third type of Citizen and on occasion the first, he would never want to be the second. A person who is a “citizen”
 34 of the second is called a statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, and he is treated in law as occupying a place not 35 protected by the Bill of Rights, which is the first ten amendments of the United States Constitution. Below is how the U.S.
 36 Supreme Court described this “other” United States, which we call the “federal zone”:

37 *“The idea prevails with some, indeed it has found expression in arguments at the bar, that we have in this country
 38 substantially two national governments; one to be maintained under the Constitution, with all of its
 39 restrictions; the other to be maintained by Congress outside the independently of that instrument, by exercising
 40 such powers [of absolutism] as other nations of the earth are accustomed to.. I take leave to say that, if the 41 principles thus announced should ever receive the sanction of a majority of this court, a radical and
 42 mischievous change in our system of government will result. We will, in that event, pass from the era of 43 constitutional liberty guarded and protected by a written constitution into an era of legislative absolutism.. It
 44 will be an evil day for American liberty if the theory of a government outside the supreme law of the land finds
 45 lodgment in our constitutional jurisprudence. No higher duty rests upon this court than to exert its full 46 authority to prevent all violation of the principles of the Constitution.”*
 47 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

48 Let us pause at this point to discuss WHAT exactly is a “nation” in the context of our country historically. As the U.S.
 49 Supreme Court ruled, “the word citizen is understood as conveying the idea of membership of a nation, and nothing more.”
 50 Minor v. Happersett, 88 U.S. 162 (1874). Merriam-Webster dictionary defines a nation as: “a community of people composed 51 of one or more nationalities and possessing a more or less defined territory and government” Going by this definition, our 52 country contains 52 nations: each of the 50 states of the Union, the U.S.***, and the U.S.**; where the government for the 53 U.S.*** would be the central government under the restriction of the constitution and with finite enumerated delegated powers

(the federal government of the USA) and the government of the U.S.** would be the central government with exclusive legislative jurisdiction (plenary power) and no constitutional limitations (the national government of the federal zone). Also, from a historical perspective, under the Articles of Confederation (a confederation form of central government) and before the District of Columbia was incorporated, the only nations in our country were the sovereign states. In adapting the Constitution in 1787, the form of the central government changed to a federal form of government and the collective states of the Union, the USA, became a nation. In incorporating the District of Columbia, the federal zone became a nation of its own, with Congress now wearing two different hats: the national government for the federal zone and the federal government for the USA.

The second definition of “United States**” above is also a federal corporation. This corporation was formed in 1871. It is described in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\):

TITLE 28 > PART VI > CHAPTER 176 > SUBCHAPTER A > Sec. 3002.
 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) “United States” means -

(A) a Federal corporation;

(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in fact, has admitted that all governments are corporations when it said:

“Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made [the Constitution is the corporate charter]. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes ‘all persons,’ ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. ‘No man shall be taken,’ ‘no man shall be disseised,’ without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution.”
[Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, 36 U.S. 420 (1837)]

If we are acting as a federal statutory “employee”, then we are representing the “United States** federal corporation”. That corporation is a statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 which is completely subject to all federal law. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\) says that when we are representing that corporation as “officers” or statutory “employees”, we therefore become statutory “U.S. citizens” completely subject to federal territorial law:

“A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.”
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

Yet on every government (any level) document we sign (e.g. Social Security, Marriage License, Voter Registration, Driver’s License, BATF 4473, etc.) they either require you to be a “citizen of the United States” or they ask “are you a resident of Illinois?”. They are in effect asking you to assume or presume the second definition, the “United States**”, when you fill out the form, but they don’t want to tell you this because then you would realize they are asking you to lie on a government form. They in effect are asking you if you wish to act in the official capacity of a public statutory “employee” and public officer of the federal corporation. The form you are filling out therefore is serving the dual capacity of a federal job application and an application for benefits. The reason this must be so, is that they are not allowed to pay “benefits” to private citizens and can only lawfully pay them to public statutory “employees”. Any other approach makes the government into a thief. See the article below for details on this scam:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 If you accept their false presumption, or you answer “Yes” to the question of whether you are a “citizen of the United States”
 2 or a “U.S. citizen” on a federal or state form, usually under penalty of perjury, then you have committed perjury under penalty
 3 of perjury and also voluntarily placed yourself under their jurisdiction as a public official/”employee” and are therefore
 4 subject to Federal & State Codes and Regulations (Statutes). The Social Security Number they ask for on the form, in fact,
 5 is prima facie evidence that you are a federal statutory “employee”, in fact. Look at the proof for yourself:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6 Most laws passed by government are, in effect, law only for government. They are private law or contract law that act as the 7 equivalent of a government employment agreement. We the People, as the Sovereigns, are not subject to it unless we sign
 8 an employment agreement that can take many different forms: W-4, SS-5, 1040, etc. The W-4 is a federal election form and
 9 you are the only voter. They are asking you if you want to elect yourself into “public office”, and if you say “yes”, then you
 10 got the job and a cage is reserved for you on the federal plantation:

11 “The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the 12 regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity
 13 as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees.
 14 Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425
 15 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many
 16 circumstances government employees can. O’Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id.,
 17 at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the 18 government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the 19 incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v.
 20 Broderick, [497 U.S. 62, 95] 392 U.S. 273, 277-278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular:
 21 Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired
 22 for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan
 23 political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public
 24 Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm’n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973);
 25 Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616-617 (1973).”
 26 [Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

27 By making you into a public official or statutory “employee”, they are destroying the separation of powers that is the main
 28 purpose of the Constitution and which was put there to protect your rights.

29 *“To the contrary, the Constitution divides authority between federal and state governments for the protection
 30 of individuals. State sovereignty is not just an end in itself: “Rather, federalism secures to citizens the liberties
 31 that derive from the diffusion of sovereign power.” Coleman v. Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 759 (1991)
 32 (BLACKMUN, J., dissenting). “Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal
 33 Government serve to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power
 34 between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front.”
 35 Gregory v. [505 U.S. 144, 182] Ashcroft, 501 U.S., at 458. See The Federalist No. 51, p. 323. (C. Rossiter ed.

38 They are causing you to voluntarily waive sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28
 39 U.S.C. §1601-1611. 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\) of the act says that those who conduct “commerce” within the legislative 40 jurisdiction of the “United States” (federal zone), whether as public official or federal benefit recipients, surrender their 41 sovereign immunity.

42 TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
 43 § 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

44 (a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any 45 case—

46 (2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state;
 47 or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial [employment or federal benefit]
 48 activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with 49 a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

1 They are also destroying the separation of powers by fooling you into being a statutory U.S. citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
 2 28 U.S.C. §1332(c) and (d) specifically excludes such statutory “U.S. citizens” from being foreign sovereigns who can file
 3 under diversity of citizenship. This is confirmed by the Department of State Website:

4 *“Section 1603(b) defines an “agency or instrumentality” of a foreign state as an entity (1) which is a separate
 5 legal person, corporate or otherwise, and (2) which is an organ of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof,
 6 or a majority of whose shares or other ownership interest is owned by a foreign state or political subdivision
 7 thereof, and (3) which is neither a citizen of the a state of the United States as defined in Sec. 1332(c) and (d)
 8 nor created under the laws of any third country.”*
 9 Department of State Website, [http://travel.state.gov/law/info/judicial/judicial\_693.html]

10 In effect, they kidnapped your legal identity and made you into a resident alien statutory “employee” working in the “king’s
 11 castle”, the District of Columbia, and changed your status from “foreign” to “domestic” by creating false presumptions about 12 citizenship and using the Social Security Number, W-4, and SSA Form SS-5s to make you into a “subject citizen” and a 13 public statutory “employee” with no constitutional rights.

14 The nature of most federal law as private law is carefully explained below:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

15 As you will soon read, the government uses various ways to mislead and trick us into their private laws (outside our 16 Constitutional protections) and make you into the equivalent of their statutory “employee”, and thereby commits a great fraud
 17 on the American People.

18 The essentials of their deception include the following, to which this document is dedicated to exposing:

- 19 1. Which United States are they talking about (this article)?
- 20 2. What is a “person”?
- 21 3. What is an “individual”?
- 22 4. How can there be two of you?
- 23 5. What constitutes “foreign income” and “domestic income”?
- 24 6. What is the SOLUTION?

25 I hope you will take the time to STUDY this information thoroughly, then commence to use it, in an effort to untangle yourself
 26 from this web of deceit. It is the only sure, nonviolent way to regain your Constitutional Rights as it guarantees you your 27 individual sovereignty as a freeman.

28 4.5.2 Two Political Jurisdictions: “National Government” vs. “Federal/general government”

29 Many people are blissfully unaware that there are actually two mutually exclusive political jurisdictions within United States
 30 the country. Your citizenship status determines which of the two political jurisdictions you are a member of and you have 31 an option to adopt either. This book describes how to regain the model on the right, the “Federal government”, which we
 32 also call the “United States of America” throughout this book. We have prepared a table to compare the two and explain
 33 what we mean. The vast majority of Americans fall under the model on the left, and their own ignorance, fear, and apathy
 34 has put them there. The model on the left treats everyone as part of the federal corporation called the “United States”, which 35 is how the law defines it in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). This area is also called “the federal zone” throughout this book. The 36 “United States” first became a federal corporation in 1871 and you can read this law for yourself right from the Statutes at 37 Large:
