- 28 2. Penalties for noncompliance (26 U.S.C. §§6671-6715, which also has no implementing regulations under the tax imposed
- 29 in section 1 of the I.R.C.)
- 30 3. Collections (26 U.S.C. §6330 and 6331, which has no implementing regulations under the tax imposed in Section 1 of
- 31 the Internal Revenue Code).

32 We already covered the first two aspects of enforcement in sections 5.4.15 and 5.4.16 of this book respectively. We noted
 33 above that collections of Subtitle A income taxes under 26 U.S.C. §6330 and 6331 also has no implementing regulations like
 34 the other two parts of the enforcement process. This is no accident, but a direct result of the fact that personal income taxes
 35 are and always have been voluntary, which means that they are donations instead of taxes! For a statute to be realized as an 36 enforceable law, then it must have an implementing regulation that applies it to a specific tax. If you look in the CFR, you
 37 will not find either of the following two regulations which would apply the ability to collect to the income tax: 26 C.F.R.
 38 §1.6331 or 26 C.F.R. §1.6330. The only implementing regulations for 6330 and 6331 are found in 26 C.F.R. Part 70, which 39 is for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, because these taxes are enforced taxes and the BATF is an enforcement agency. The 40 IRS is not an enforcement agency like the BATF, but instead is an administrative agency who cannot use distraint against 41 Citizens to collect personal income taxes because it is a voluntary tax:

42                    "Our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint".
 43 [Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

44 What the IRS likes to do is point to 26 C.F.R. §301.6330 and 26 C.F.R. §301.6331 and say these are the implementing
 45 regulations that authorize them impose collections for Subtitle A. This claim is pure fraud! These regulations are only 46 explanatory or amplifying regulations, but they are not implementing regulations that apply the statute to a specific tax. The 47 "301" in the regulation number simply refers to Part 301 of the Regulations under 26 C.F.R., instead of the section of the

1 Subtitles A and C tax that is implemented! For instance, if there was a regulation implementing collection of Employment
 2 taxes under Subtitle C, then the regulation number would be 26 C.F.R. §31.6330 or 26 C.F.R. §31.6331, but there is no such
 3 regulation!

4 *"...the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of the regulation promulgated by the 5 Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...The 6 Government urges that since only those who violate these regulations [not the Code] may incur civil or criminal
 7 penalties, it is the actual regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, and not the broad authorizing
 8 language of the statute, which are to be tested against the standards of the Fourth Amendment; and that when so 9 tested they are valid."
 10 [Calif. Bankers Assoc. v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 21, 44, 39 L.Ed.2d. 812, 94 S.Ct. 1494]*

11 5.4.18 No Implementing Regulations for "Tax Evasion" or "Willful Failure To File" Under 26 U.S.C. §§7201 or 12 7203!

13 Just like other aspects of enforcement covered earlier for assessment, collections, and penalties, the Secretary of the Treasury
 14 also has not written any implementing regulations for the criminal acts of Tax Evasion under 26 U.S.C. §7201 or Willful
 15 Failure to File under 26 U.S.C. §7203. If there were an implementing regulation for these that applied it to Subtitle A Income
 16 Taxes imposed in Section 1, which is in Part 1 of the I.R.C., then the regulation numbers would be 26 C.F.R. §1.7201 (Tax
 17 Evasion) and 26 C.F.R. §1.7203 (Willful Failure to File) respectively, but these regulations do not exist! Without 18 implementing regulations, these code sections do not apply to the personal income tax and therefore can't be lawfully

20 A search of the U.S. Attorneys' Manual on the Department of Justice website confirms the conclusions of this chapter. Look

22 [http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/eousa/foia\_reading\_room/usam/title9/4mcrim.htm - 9-4.139](http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/eousa/foia_reading_room/usam/title9/4mcrim.htm - 9-4.139)

23 This section comes under the general section entitled "Statutes Assigned by Citation". The section lists all the criminal
 24 statutes under each title of the U.S. Code and the federal agency authorized by law to investigate the crime. In the right hand
 25 column listed under "Agency With Investigative Jurisdiction" for Internal Revenue Code sections §§7201-7209, it
 26 conspicuously says "None"! The reason is because there are NO IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS. Either the Internal 27 Revenue Service or the BATF would need to write implementing regulations under these criminal code sections in order for
 28 them to be considered enforceable outside of the federal government and the agency that wrote the implementing regulation
 29 would then be the agency listed in the U.S. Attorneys' Manual as having investigative jurisdiction. Quite a scam, huh?

30 In fact, the only people who can be prosecuted for "failure to file" under 26 U.S.C. §7201 are officers and employees of the 31 United States when acting in their official capacity as an agent of the government. The federal courts have indirectly
 32 confirmed this fact. For instance, here is what one of them said about the fact that there are no implementing regulations for 33 federal tax crimes:

34 *"Federal income tax regulations governing filing of income tax returns do not require Office of Management and 35 Budget control numbers because requirement to file tax return is mandated by statute, not by regulation."
 36 [U.S. v. Bartrug, E.D.Va.1991, 777 F.Supp. 1290, affirmed 976 F.2d. 727, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1659, 507
 37 U.S. 1010, 123 L.Ed.2d. 278]*

38 Below is what it says about the requirement to publish in the Federal Register, and note that anything that imposes a "penalty"
 39 has a requirement to publish in the Federal Register and is defined as having "general applicability and legal effect". Certainly 40 the requirement to file a tax return, if it can land a person in jail, would impose a penalty and have "general applicability and 41 legal effect", and yet it is not published in the Federal Register by the admission of the court above!:

42 44 U.S.C. §1505 Documents to be Published in the Federal Register

43 (a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect [against 44 persons living in states of the Union]; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

45 There shall be published in the Federal Register -

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect

Finally, here is what the implementing regulations for the Internal Revenue Code says about the effect of statutes and regulations that are not published in the Federal Register, and note that they cannot have any effect on the rights of anyone when they are not so published:

26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication, public inspection, and specific requests for records.

(ii) Effect of failure to publish.

*Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in paragraph (a)(1) of this section which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to paragraph (a)(2)(i) of this section. Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference shall not adversely change or affect a person's rights.

In conclusion, the only types of statutes that can impose a penalty and either not have implementing regulations or not have the statute or implementing regulations published in the Federal Register are those that affect only federal employees acting in the official capacity of their employment. Everything else must be published in the F.R. and when it is not, it cannot affect anyone other than federal employees acting in their official capacity as officers and agents of the government. Consequently, nearly all of the people who do not work for the federal government who have ever been prosecuted for Willful Failure to File in violation of 26 U.S.C. §7201 were “assumed” or “presumed” to be “employees” and “officers” of the United States government, and in nearly all cases, this was a violation of their due process rights and produced a “void judgment” that is reversible. It also creates an opportunity for these maliciously prosecuted individuals to seek damages under equity jurisdiction against the judges and prosecutors who wrongfully allowed them to be convicted.

1. Ignorant judges who don't know the law.
2. Ignorant Citizens and their legal counsel who don't know about implementing regulations and therefore don't use this knowledge as a defense.
3. Judicial tyranny and conspiracy to protect the income tax. This conspiracy exploits the ignorance of the law by jurors, Citizens, and the legal profession to uphold and expand the operation of the income tax, as we thoroughly documented earlier in section 2.8.13 and later in section 6.6 of this book.

The government loves to make examples out of people whose ignorance of the law allowed them to be convicted of tax evasion and willful failure to file. That is how they keep the “sheeple” (sheep people) scared and “volunteering” to be slaves. But when people do learn the law and use it to defend themselves, the government makes sure that such cases, if they are litigated, go unpublished and never get entered into the court record or case databases, which amounts to fraud, extortion, and a conflict of interest on the part of judges.

5.4.19 The “person” addressed by criminal provisions of the IRC isn't you!

26 U.S.C. §7343 defines the legal “person” who may be held criminally liable under the Internal Revenue Code for failure to comply with the code. Below is the content of that statute:

26 U.S.C. §7343: Definition of term “person”

Person - The term "person" as used in this chapter includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

Ah...so when a real-live-flesh-and-blood person (known in law as a "natural person") is held accountable for criminal non-compliance with the law, he is held accountable only in his capacity as the officer or employee, under a duty to perform, on behalf of the "legal fiction" called a corporation. The same kind of constraint also applies to liability for penalties as well, as we explained earlier in section 5.4.16, where we talked about the definition of "person" found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1. Once again: you are sovereign and the government is the servant and not the master. The only people the government can boss around and abuse in a free country are those who volunteer and consent to such abuse by volunteering to receive taxable government privileges as a corporation!

5.4.20 The Secretary of the Treasury Has No Delegated Authority to Collect Income Taxes inside of States of the Union!

Earlier in section 4.3.6, we thoroughly described the Separation of Powers Doctrine and showed that it is the essence of our "Republican Form of Government". We showed that the Separation of Powers Doctrine was the main mechanism envisioned by the Founding Fathers to guarantee the protection of our liberties. In this section, we are going to apply the Separation of Powers Doctrine to show that the Secretary of the Treasury is completely without authority to enforce or collect income taxes from anyone but federal instrumentalities.

The power of taxation was granted to the Legislative Branch under Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 of the Constitution. Under the Separation of Powers Doctrine and under Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution, no branch of government can delegate its powers to any other branch of government. The Supreme Court agreed with this in the case of Butcher's Union when it said:

"Whatever differences of opinion," said the court, [in the case of Beer Co. v. Massachusetts, 97 U.S. 28] "may exist as to the extent and boundaries of the police power, and however difficult it may be to render a satisfactory definition of it, there seems to be no doubt that it does extend to the protection of the lives, health, and property of the citizens, and to the preservation of good order and public morals. The legislature cannot by any contract divest itself of the power to provide for these objects. They belong emphatically to that class of objects which demand the application of the maxim, salus populi suprema lex, and they are to be attained and provided for by such appropriate means as the legislative discretion may devise. That discretion can no more be bargained away than the power itself."

"In the still more recent case of Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814, the whole subject is reviewed in the opinion delivered [111 U.S. 746, 753] by the chief justice. That also was a case of a chartered lottery, whose charter was repealed by a constitution of the state subsequently adopted. It came here for relief, relying on the clause of the federal constitution against impairing the obligation of contracts. The question is therefore presented, (says the opinion,) whether, in view of these facts, the legislature of a state can, by the charter of a lottery company, defeat the will of the people authoritatively expressed, in relation to the further continuance of such business in their midst. We think it cannot. No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves cannot do it, much less their servants. The supervision of both these subjects of governmental power is continuing in its nature, and they are to be dealt with as the special exigencies of the moment may require. Government is organized with a view to their preservation, and cannot divest itself of the power to provide for them. For this purpose the legislative discretion is allowed, and the discretion cannot be parted with any more than the power itself."

[Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

The power to collect taxes cannot therefore be delegated by the Legislative Branch to the Executive Branch because that would separate the taxation and representation functions. The President, who is in the Executive Branch, cannot oversee or implement the collection of taxes by the Legislative Branch. Recall that the entire American revolution was fought over the issue of taxation with representation. We were being taxed by the British King and we had no representation in the British Parliament. When we formed our new government in 1789 after the American Revolution, we put the taxation and representation functions together and within the Legislative Branch of the new government. The House of Representatives was the place where the will of the people was directly represented. Members of the House were elected every two years to ensure that they would be in close touch with the sentiments of the people because if they weren't, the bastards would be on the street in two short years! The first tax ever passed by the Congress was a tax on imports, which was called a "duty" (see 1 Stat. 24) and the first collectors of these taxes resided at shipping ports of entry. These collectors reported directly to the House of Representatives initially and paid monies they collected directly to the Treasury Department in the Executive

1 Branch. After that first tax was instituted in March 1789, the office of Secretary of the Treasury was created in the act of
2 Sept. 2, 1789 (1 Stat. 65), and he reported directly to the House of Representatives and the Senate in the Legislative Branch,
3 and not to the President in the Executive Branch. The job of the Secretary of the Treasury was to “superintend” or supervise
4 the collection of all revenues by the collectors stationed at each port of entry. Therefore, the taxation and the representation
5 functions were coincident and within the Legislative Branch as required by the Separation of Powers Doctrine.

6 Now let's fast forward to take a look at how things are being done today. The Department of the Treasury and the Secretary
7 of the Treasury are BOTH in the Executive Branch. The Secretary of the Treasury is appointed by the president and not the
8 House of Representatives and serves under the President and not the Congress. This was not the case at the foundation of 9 our country. The Secretary of the Treasury is now responsible for collecting taxes and the IRS works for the Secretary.
10 Public servants in the Executive Branch are not directly accountable to the people because all of them are appointed, not
11 elected. The Congress deceptively whines and complains in its correspondence with constituents who have been abused by 12 the IRS that they cannot control what the IRS does, because it is in the Executive Branch, but we must realize that they
13 are the ones who created this defect to begin with. We cannot have members of the Executive Branch in the role of collecting
14 taxes from people in the states of the Union because it violates the Separation of Powers Doctrine. The fact that members of 15 Congress complain about this situation is their own fault, because they are responsible for fixing it. Does it seem as though
16 the Constitution is being violated in this case? The answer is an emphatic no, but you can only reach that informed conclusion
17 after you take the time to understand the true nature of the Internal Revenue Code as we describe it in this chapter.

18 As we have been saying throughout this entire chapter, the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is a tax on only public offices,
19 instrumentalities, and statutory “employees” of the federal government, who are all engaged in some way or another with a
20 “trade or business”, which is defined as “the functions of a public office” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). This is consistent with 21 the Legislative Intent of the Sixteenth Amendment revealed by President Taft in his written address to Congress found in the 22 Congressional Record at 44 Cong.Rec. 3344 and given June 16, 1909. As a tax on only federal government “employees”
23 and instrumentalities, it is not a direct tax on people in states of the Union nor was it ever intended to be collected outside of 24 the federal zone or outside of the federal government. The Internal Revenue Code was obfuscated (using “words of art”)
25 over the years to make it deceptively “appear” like it might apply to people in states of the Union, but in fact it does not and 26 never has. It is instead a tax only on federal instrumentalities, such as “employees” and contractors. Federal “employees”
27 all work in the federal zone, and the federal zone is not a constitutional republic. It is instead a legislative socialist democracy,
28 as we showed earlier in sections 4.7 and 4.8. The requirement found in Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution to guarantee
29 a “Republican form of Government” with separation of powers does not apply to dealings between federal employees and 30 the Congress. There is no need for separation of powers in dealing with federal employees because Article 1, Section 8,
31 Clause 17 of the Constitution says Congress can do whatever it wants inside the federal zone and need not abide by the Bill
32 of Rights there. Consequently, it is perfectly Constitutional for the Legislative Branch to institute a direct, unapportioned tax
33 (actually a “kickback” of federal pay) only on federal “employees” and to have a person who is not part of the Legislative 34 Branch called the Secretary of the Treasury collect the tax. We will now examine the delegated of the authority of the 35 Secretary of the Treasury to prove the conclusions of this section.

36 Treasury Department Order No. 150-42, dated July 27, 1956, appearing in at 21 Fed. Reg. 5852, specifies the following:

37 The Commissioner shall, to the extent of the authority vested in him, provide for the administration of United

39 On February 27, 1986 (51 Fed. Reg. 9571), Treasury Department Order No. 150-01 specified the following:

40 The Commissioner shall, to the extent of authority otherwise vested in him, provide for the administration of the 41 United States internal revenue laws in the U.S. Territories and insular possessions and other authorized areas of

43 The point is that the above order does not authorize collection of revenues within the borders of the Union states because 44 Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution forbid collection of direct taxes by 45 the federal government from natural persons.

46 Authors note: It should be stated clearly and unambiguously that it is UNCONSTITUTIONAL for any part of the federal 47 government to collect a revenues from Americans, except for congress! The founding fathers insisted it be that way, so that
48 if congress tried to impose and collect a tax the people didn't want, they could vote the rascals out!! So how is it that the 49 current fraud is allowed to continue, where the Internal Revenue Laws are imposed on American Citizens domiciled in the

1 50 Union states with income from within the 50 Union states. Show me the Delegation of Authority Order (DAO) that 2 authorizes this!

3 On September 14, 1787, a motion was proposed in Congress to “strike out” the power of Congress to impose and collect
4 taxes and, instead, delegate that authority to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury is not elected
5 but appointed by the President in the Executive Branch of the Government. This motion was denied because it was a direct
6 violation of the Constitutional “Separation of Power” protections for the American Citizens. Therefore, the Secretary of the 7 Treasury has never formally been delegated the Constitutional Authority to collect any type of tax from the citizens of the 8 50 Union states, even though today he tries to fool everyone into thinking that is his lawful responsibility! Absent a valid
9 delegation of authority order, the Secretary of the Treasury, under whom the IRS Commissioner serves, is acting entirely
10 outside the bounds of his Constitutional authority in collecting taxes as he does!

11 Remember, there are two classes of citizens in the United States, (1) state nationals of the 50 Union states, described in the 12 Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1, to the Constitution and (2) statutory “citizens subject to its jurisdiction” described in 8
13 U.S.C. §1401 who were born in territories over which the United States is exclusively Sovereign (i.e. District of Columbia, 14 Guam, Puerto Rico, etc.). These citizens are not legislated for under constitutional guidelines. The only taxing authority the
15 Secretary of the Treasury can have would be over these subject federal citizens, in addition to “resident aliens”, who are 16 under the exclusive territorial jurisdiction of the United States. The Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A is “situs based”
17 territorial federal legislation. It is only applicable to domiciliaries of the federal zone and to persons receiving federal 18 payments outside the federal zone. Otherwise the tax is as foreign as the Japanese income tax. That’s why the Treasury
19 Secretary can NEVER have any delegated authority derived from the constitution to enforce income tax collection upon those 20 domiciled in nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states.

21 “The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions
22 *concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court
23 has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their
24 political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation*
25 *upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra.”*
26 [Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

27 Now let’s look at what the U.S. Supreme Court said about the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to administratively
28 enforce the income taxes outside the federal zone. We quote from the Supreme Court case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific
30 and decided January 24, 1916:

31 “We have not referred to a contention that because certain administrative powers to enforce the act were
32 conferred by the statute upon the Secretary of the Treasury, therefore it was void as unwarrantedly delegating
33 legislative authority [to collect taxes inside states of the Union], because we think to state the proposition is to

35 The U.S. Supreme Court cited the following cases in reaching this conclusion:

- 36 • Marshall Field & Co. v. Clark, 143 U.S. 649, 36 L.Ed. 294, 12 Sup.Ct.Rep. 495
- 37 • Buttfield v. Stranahan, 192 U.S. 470, 496, 48 L.Ed. 525, 535, 24 Sup.Ct.Rep. 349
- 38 • Oceanic SteamNav. Co. v. Stranahan, 214 U.S. 320, 53 L.Ed. 1013, 29 Sup.Ct.Rep. 671

39 That’s right!: According to the Supreme Court, revenues under I.R.C., Subtitle A can only be collected inside the federal
40 zone because the Secretary of the Treasury has NO LAWFUL DELEGATED AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER THE IT
41 OUTSIDE THE FEDERAL ZONE! When it comes to income taxes, the truth can sometimes be stranger than fiction!

42 NOTE: The Supreme Court not only referred to the contention but stated it and thus answered it citing case precedent. In 43 answering the contention in the ruling of the Court the Supreme Court Justices rendered the federal income tax VOID. Since
44 no one else to my knowledge has ever cited this fact the Courts may not honor the ruling. Nevertheless it is a factual statement
45 under the Law that the Congress cannot delegate its powers to anyone, or anything, or any entity. Another factual statement
46 in the Law is that the Congress cannot breach the balance of power between branches of government by giving its legislative 47 power to the executive branch. Both of these statements are set in stone. For either one or both of those reasons the federal 48 income tax AND the Internal Revenue Service are unconstitutional.

1 The Federalist Papers, written by the founding fathers in order to encourage states to join the Union by ratifying the
2 Constitution, confirmed the above conclusions as follows:

3 "It is true, that the Confederacy is to possess, and may exercise, the power of collecting internal as well as
4 external taxes throughout the States; but it is probable that this power will not be resorted to, except for
5 supplemental purposes of revenue; that an option will then be given to the States to supply their quotas by
6 previous collections of their own; and that the eventual collection, under the immediate authority of the Union,
7 will generally be made by the officers, and according to the rules, appointed by the several States [not by anyone
8 in the federal government!]. Indeed it is extremely probable, that in other instances, particularly in the 9 organization of the judicial power, the officers of the States will be clothed with the correspondent authority
10 of the Union."

11 [The Federalist Paper #45, James Madison]

12 Why must state revenue officers collect taxes on behalf of the federal government rather than the federal government doing
13 it directly? The reason is once again that Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the U.S.
14 Constitution require that all direct taxes must be apportioned among the states!

15 5.4.21 The Department of Justice has NO Authority to Prosecute or investigate IRC Subtitle A Income Tax Crimes!

16 The responsibility of the Department of Justice is to prosecute individuals for violation of the tax code (not "law", but "code").

18 <http://squid.law.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/get-cfr.cgi?TITLE=28&PART=0&SECTION=70&TYPE=TEXT>

19 The U.S. Attorneys' Manual, Section 6-1.000 also describes their lawful role in tax prosecutions, which is also available at

22 The Department of Justice prosecutes tax crimes using a document called the Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal 23 Tax Manual. The 1994 version of this document is posted on our website in its entirety for you to read and examine at 24 <http://famguardian.org/>. The IRS relies on the Department of Justice to:

- 25 1. Decide whether a particular tax case should be litigated.
- 26 2. Institute the litigation.
- 27 3. Criminally prosecute against tax crimes which they have delegated authority to prosecute.

28 If you examine the U.S. Attorneys' Manual, the Department of Justice has NO delegated authority to prosecute tax crimes
29 involving U.S. citizens. Here is the section from their manual dealing with their authority to prosecute tax crimes involving 30 the IRS:

31 U.S. Attorneys' Manual
32 6-4.270 Criminal Division Responsibility

(c) Functions of Department of Justice unaffected

Nothing in this section or section 301(f) of title 31 shall be considered to affect the duties, powers, or functions imposed upon, or vested in, the Department of Justice, or any officer thereof, by law existing on May 10, 1934.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: Do you see anything in the above authority of the DOJ relating to prosecuting tax crimes involving any of the following? We don't!:

1. Tax evasion of income taxes (26 U.S.C. §7201)
2. Frivolous returns (26 U.S.C. §6702)
3. Willful failure to file (26 U.S.C. §7203)

You can confirm the conclusions of this section for yourself on the Internet. Section 9-4.139 of the Department of Justice, U.S. Attorneys' Manual (USAM) found on the DOJ website at:

http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/eousa/foia\_reading\_room/usam/title9/4mcrn.htm#9-4.139

has a listing of all of the statutes within the Internal Revenue code and the specific agency that has "investigative jurisdiction" for that statute. The agency with "investigative jurisdiction" is the agency responsible for enforcing a specific statute. All of the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code are found in sections 7201 through 7209 of the Internal Revenue Code. In order to have investigative jurisdiction, an agency must write an implementing regulation that then creates the authority and the procedure to enforce a specific criminal provision upon a specific tax under the Internal Revenue Code. For instance, if there were an implementing regulation written by the IRS for Willful Failure to File for Subtitle A income taxes, the regulation number would be 26 C.F.R. §1.7203, but there is no such regulation! As we said earlier in section 5.4.18, there are no implementing regulations for any tax crimes for Subtitle A income taxes. The consequence is that there is no agency with "investigative jurisdiction" to enforce the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. The org chart for the IRS also confirms that the IRS is NOT an enforcement agency because it does not fall under the Undersecretary for Enforcement within the Department of the Treasury, as shown below:

Below was the entry under 26 U.S.C. §7201-7209 found within section 9-4.139 of the USAM as of February 2002, showing who has investigative authority for tax crimes under the Internal Revenue Code, repeated here for your benefit:

Table 5-49: Agencies with investigative jurisdiction as of February 2002

| Statute | Criminal Division Section | Telephone # | Agency with Investigative Jurisdiction |
| 7201-7209      | All                              |                    | None                                          |

This is a tacit admission by our government that no agency may enforce the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which is another way of saying that no one is liable to pay this tax because it is in fact a donation as we have said repeatedly throughout this chapter! If the IRS or the DOJ do investigate crimes related to the Internal Revenue Code without the above authority or an implementing regulation, then they are acting unlawfully and have exceeded the authority delegated to them by the U.S. codes and the regulations that implement them which are written by the Secretary of the Treasury. They can be prosecuted for libel and any number of crimes if their illegal action causes you any kind of injury or expense.

Subsequent to the writing and publication of this section, the Department of Justice rewrote the above entry in their table. Sometime between February 2002 and July 2005, the entry was changed to read:

| Statute | Criminal Division Section | Telephone # | Agency with Investigative Jurisdiction |
|----------------|----------------------------------|--------------------|-----------------------------------------------|

2 1. The same Department of Justice admitted that the IRS is NOT an agency of the federal government. See:

3 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/USGovDeniesIRS/USGovDeniesIRS.htm>

4 The reason the IRS is not an agency of the federal government is that it isn't carrying out a constitutional function within
5 the states and therefore is an independent creation of Congress that only has jurisdiction over matters INTERNAL to the 6 federal zone, as is shown throughout the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, Chapter 7. That is why they are 7 called the INTERNAL Revenue Service to begin with. Even the IRS identifies itself NOT as an "agency", but a "bureau".
8 See their document 7233 at the link below. Search for the word "bureau" and you will see what we mean:

9 http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/irs\_75\_years.pdf

10 2. There are not implementing regulations published in the Federal Register authorizing enforcement of I.R.C., Subtitle A
11 against private persons in states of the Union. The only people the IRS can enforce against are federal instrumentalities
12 in the District of Columbia, according to 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\)\(1\) and 5 U.S.C. §553\(a\), who are the only groups that can 13 be the target of penalties absent said publication.

16 5.4.22 The Federal Courts Can't Sentence You to Federal Prison for Tax Crimes if You Are A statutory "U.S. 17 citizen" and the Crime was Committed Outside the Federal Zone

18 Amazingly, even if you are stupid enough to claim you are a domiciliary of the federal zone, whether it be a "U.S. citizen"
19 or "resident", and thereby subject yourself to the corrupt jurisdiction of a federal court, even under such circumstances, if you
20 commit a "tax crime" outside the federal zone and inside one of the sovereign Union states, no federal court can lawfully

22 TITLE 18 > PART III > CHAPTER 301 > Sec. 4001.
23 Sec. 4001. - Limitation on detention; control of prisons

24 (a) No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an Act of 25 Congress.

26 And in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, Rule 54\(c\) prior to Dec. 2002, it states:

27 Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 54: Application and Exception

28 (c) Application of Terms.

30 "Act of Congress" includes any act of Congress locally applicable to and in force in the District of Columbia,
31 in Puerto Rico, in a territory or in an insular possession.

32 The U.S. attorney prosecuting you will try to fool you into thinking that you can be prosecuted for "Willful failure to file"
33 under 26 U.S.C. §7203 or "Tax Evasion" 26 U.S.C. §7201 or Fraud under 26 U.S.C. §7206, but the fact of the matter is that 34 unless you committed this crime inside the federal zone as per Rule 54(c) of the Rules of Criminal Procedure, then they can't 35 legally sentence you.

36 Also, as you learned earlier in section 5.4.18, there are no implementing regulations for Willful Failure to File or Tax Evasion,
37 which means these cannot be crimes for anyone but federal employees, even if you were residing inside the federal zone
38 when you violated these statutes.

1                    "...we think it important to note that the Act's civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of regulations
2 promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on

4                    [California Bankers Ass'n v. Shultz, 416 U.S. 21 (1974)]

5 So why do so many people get prosecuted for Willful Failure under 26 U.S.C. §7203 or File and Tax Evasion 26 U.S.C.
6 §7201? Here are a few possible explanations:

- 7 1. They filed the wrong form, an IRS Form 1040, which says at the top that they are a "U.S. individual". This fooled the 8 federal government into thinking that they were a "U.S. person" domiciled inside the territorial jurisdiction of the "United 9 States", which is the federal zone. The more appropriate form should have been a 1040NR if they filed anything.
- 10 2. They hired an ignorant lawyer who didn't know the limited territorial jurisdiction of the federal laws and/or didn't know 11 that there were no implementing regulations for Willful Failure to File or Tax Evasion.
- 12 3. Their lawyer was coerced by the judge, who may at one time or another threatened to pull his license to practice law in 13 that court if he told the truth about the limited territorial jurisdiction of the court and submitted evidence into the record 14 that the criminal defendant did not reside in the federal zone and did not commit a "crime" there.
- 15 4. They lied on their tax return, which you should NEVER do.
- 16 5. They were incompetent and defended themselves.
- 17 6. The judge wouldn't allow them to submit evidence into the record that the crime was not committed in the federal zone 18 or that he was not a statutory "U.S. citizen" or subject to the jurisdiction of the federal court.
- 19 7. They could not challenge the jurisdiction of the court because they hired an attorney. See:
20 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Articles/WhyYouDontWantAnAtty/WhyYouDon'tWantAnAttorney.htm>

21 5.4.23 You Don't Have to Provide a Social Security Number on Your Tax Return!

22 There is a presumption found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(b\) that if you submit a tax return to the U.S. government, then you
23 are by default a "U.S.** person". We repeat that section below, which is the only section of the regulations that talks about 24 the requirement to furnish an identifying number on a tax return:

25                    26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b)

26                    (b) Requirement to furnish one's own number--(1) U.S. persons. Every U.S. person who makes under this title a
27 return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms
28 and the accompanying instructions.

29 Notice the word "its". This should clue you into the fact that the tax code doesn't apply to flesh and blood people, who are 30 called "natural persons" in laws like that above. If they had meant to refer to such a natural person, the word "it's" would 31 have said "his" or "her". Consequently, the only type of "person", they can be referring to is a privileged corporation, as we 32 pointed out at the beginning of this chapter.

33 According to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), a "U.S. person" is either an alien or a federal statutory "U.S. citizen" under in 8 U.S.C.
34 §1401. Here is the definition:

36                    Sec. 7701. - Definitions

37                    (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent
38 thereof—

39                    (30) United States person
40                    The term "United States person" means -

41                    (A) a [corporate] citizen or resident [alien] of the [federal] United States,

42                    (B) a domestic partnership,

43                    (C) a domestic corporation,

44                    (D) any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of paragraph (31)), and

45                    (E) any trust if -

46                    (i) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the 47 trust, and

48                    (ii) one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

This means that if such the “person” is a “citizen” under the I.R.C., then they must have been domiciled or incorporated in the federal “United States**”/federal zone, which is limited only to the District of Columbia or U.S. territories. Don’t let the word “citizen” above fool you either, because corporations within law are “citizens” as well and they are “born” at the instant when they are officially “incorporated” by the Secretary of State of the jurisdiction where they are domiciled. Congress wants to deceive you into believing that the term “citizen” also means a natural persons (people), but in the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, this term ONLY refers to corporations because “income”, as you will learn later in section 5.6.5, is defined by our Constitution and by the Supreme court to be limited only to monies earned by federal corporations in the conduct of foreign commerce! This is also consistent with the use of the word “it’s” as used above in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b), where the only “U.S. persons” in the IRC who can have TINs are corporations. Here is some more proof of that to whet your appetite to read later sections:

19 C.J.S., Corporations §886 [Legal encyclopedia]

"A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only."

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

The other very interesting result of the above regulation at 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) is the use of the word “Taxpayer Identification Number”, which is called a “TIN” for short. This is a VERY important word, folks! Here is the meaning of that word from the Treasury regulations:

(3) IRS individual taxpayer identification number -- (i) Definition. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number means a taxpayer identifying number issued to an alien individual by the Internal Revenue Service, upon application, for use in connection with filing requirements under this title. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number does not refer to a social security number or an account number for use in employment for wages. For purposes of this section, the term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or national of the United States.

So anyone who has or uses a TIN is an “alien”, and a Social Security Number is NOT a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) according to the regulations. We learned earlier in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) that the only thing you are required to provide on a tax return is a “Taxpayer Identification Number” (TIN) and we learned above that a Social Security Number (SSN) is NOT a TIN. Further confirmation of these conclusions can be found by looking at the forms used to obtain “Taxpayer Identification Numbers”. Form W-7 is used to get a TIN while a SSA Form SS-5 is used to obtain a Social Security Number: two totally different forms. Consequently, you can't be and aren't required to provide your SSN on a tax return! Amazing, isn't it? This is another way of saying that you aren't the proper subject of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and aren't a “taxpayer” folks! The form W-7 even confirms that it is ONLY for aliens, when it says at the top:

"For use by individuals who are not 'U.S. citizens' or nationals."

The only thing you can be if you are neither a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 nor a “national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) is an “alien”! Duhhh! Don't believe us? Look at the W-7 form for yourself below:

After you look at the W-7 form, go back and reread section 4.11.13, table 4-25 of this book and you will see that the only thing a person can be who is not a “U.S. citizen” or a “national” is an “alien”. The IRS just doesn't have the courage to directly state the truth on the W-7 form because then NO ONE would fill it out and everyone would drop out of the tax system in droves!

Even more interestingly, under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\), having a social security number creates a “presumption” that you maintain a legal “domicile” within the federal zone. Here is what the regulation says about the requirement to provide a social security number when furnishing returns:

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\)

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons--(1) General rule--(i) Social security number. A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.

What both "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and "resident aliens" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) have in common is that they both maintain a legal "domicile" within the federal zone. We proved this earlier in section 5.4.8. As a presumed domiciliary of the federal zone or a "U.S. person", you have NO Constitutional rights according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)! You must therefore rebut the false presumptions below that you are:

1. A domiciliary of the federal zone.
2. A statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
3. A "resident alien under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
4. "U.S. person" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).

. . . whenever you correspond with the IRS and continually emphasize instead that you are a "national" and not a "citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and a "non-resident non-person". Only if you are lawfully and consensually engaged in a public office can you claim to be a "nonresident alien" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B). The way to do this is by following the regulation above and requesting a change in the status of your Social Security Number with the IRS!

We give you instructions in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 entitled "IMPORTANT: Change Your U.S. Citizenship Status" on how to expatriate from 14th Amendment or U.S. citizenship and to obtain evidence proving your change in citizenship. This frees you from the legal obligation to complete income tax returns. We can't guarantee that the IRS will never bother you again if you don't file beyond that point, but we do help to minimize the risk that they will bother you or cause any trouble by showing you how to prove that you aren't a statutory U.S. citizen or aren't therefore liable for submitting returns or paying income tax.

Lastly, it may also interest you to know that there are only two places in the Bible where numbers are referred to in the context of people, and both of them refer to the efforts of Satan himself. Here is the first one:

Now Satan stood up against Israel, and moved David to number Israel. So David said to Joab and to the leaders of the people, "Go, number Israel from Beersheba to Dan, and bring the number of them to me that I may know it."
[1 Chron. 21:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

The only other place numbering of people is referenced is throughout the book of Revelation in reference to the last days. The mark is given by "the Beast", which is defined to be the "Kings of the earth" who are at war with God as described in Rev. 19:19:

"And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army."
[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

"He [the Beast, which is the political rulers of the earth] causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, and that no one may buy or sell except one who has the mark or the name of the beast, or the number of his name."

"Here is wisdom. Let him who has understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man: His number is 666."
[Rev. 13:16-18, Bible, NKJV]

Those who allow themselves to accept the mark of the beast shall be tormented by God himself and it would appear that he shall receive the same punishment as all of Babylon and be part of Babylon:

"And another angel followed, saying, "Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she has made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication." Then a third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, "If anyone worships the beast and his image, and receives his mark on his forehead or on his hand, he himself shall also drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out full strength into the cup of His indignation. He shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. And the smoke of their torment ascends forever and ever; and they have no rest day or night, who worship the beast and his image, and whoever receives the mark of his name."

1 [Rev. 14:8-11, Bible, NKJV]

2 The people who receive this mark will be among those who are victims of the first Bowl judgment of God's wrath:

3 "So the first [angel] went and poured out his bowl [of judgment] upon the earth, and a foul and loathsome sore
 4 came upon the men who had the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image."
 5 [Rev. 16:2, Bible, NKJV]

6 Only those who do not accept the mark will reign with Christ in Heaven:

7 "And I saw thrones, and they sat on them, and judgment was committed to them. Then I saw the souls of those
 8 who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, who had not worshiped the beast or 9 his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they lived and reigned
 10 with Christ for a thousand years."
 11 [Rev. 20:4, Bible, NKJV]

12 Is it therefore any surprise that the only status you can have which doesn't EXPRESSLY require a number is not associated 13 with the political rulers of the earth is that of a "nonresident alien" who has no income from the government, which is the 14 "beast" in the Bible? Accepting money from the government that you didn't earn is fornication with Babylon, and the mark
 15 is the means of controlling how the stolen loot is distributed among the thieves. The victims of the theft are all the people
 16 who did not want to participate in the system of usury and abuse and socialism called the "income tax". Anyone who accepts
 17 this money is a "thief", and the Bible says when a thief is found, he shall pay double the amount stolen:

18 "If a man [the government, in this case] delivers to his neighbor [a citizen, in this case] money or articles to keep,
 19 and it is stolen out of the man's house [our out of his paycheck], if the thief is found, he shall pay double. If the 20 thief is not found, then the master of the house shall be brought to the judges to see whether he has put his hand
 21 into his neighbor's goods."
 22 [Exodus 22:7-8, Bible, NKJV]

23 The tribulation described in the Bible book of Revelation is God's punishment and judgment to all those who became thieves
 24 by accepting stolen loot from a corrupted socialist government.

25 "My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
 26 Do not consent
 27 If they say, "Come with us,
 28 Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent "nontaxpayers]";
 29 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
 30 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
 31 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
 32 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
 33 Cast in your lot among us,
 34 Let us all have one purse [share the stolen LOOT]"--

35 My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don't let the government FORCE
 36 you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a "taxpayer"/government whore or a "U.S.
 37 person"].
 38 Keep your foot from their path;
 39 For their feet run to evil,
 40 And they make haste to shed blood.
 41 Surely, in vain the net is spread
 42 In the sight of any bird;
 43 But they lie in wait for their own blood.
 44 They lurk secretly for their own lives.
 45 So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits];
 46 It takes away the life of its owners."
 47 [Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

49 "And I heard another voice from heaven [God] saying, 'Come out of her [Babylon the Great Harlot, a democratic,
 50 rather than republican, state full of socialist non-believers], my people [Christians], lest you share in her sins,
 51 and lest you receive of her plagues.'"
 52 [Revelation 18:4, Bible, NKJV]

5.4.24 Your Private Employer Isn't Authorized by Law to Act as a Federal "withholding agent"

IRS Publication 15, Circular E: Employer's Tax Guide: Employer's Tax Guide indicates on page 6 what the definition of "employer" is. It only lists federal agencies and "States" as employers. See for yourself:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSPub15.pdf>

Remember that "States" in the Internal Revenue Code means territories and possessions of the United States as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). Private employers do not appear anywhere in the booklet. One of our readers did an FOIA request asking the IRS for the forms and publications that private employers should use. Guess what the response said:

"We have no documents responsive to your request."

Do you get it? The I.R.C., Subtitle A federal income tax and I.R.C., Subtitle C employment withholding taxes only apply to:

1. "U.S. persons" with a domicile in the District of Columbia, most of whom work for the federal government. These people are described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).
2. Territories of the United States, which are classified as "States" in federal statutes and "acts of Congress".
3. Those engaged in a "trade or business" temporarily abroad as described in 26 U.S.C. §911.

States of the Union cannot and do not appear in the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A and if they did, they would appear as "states" and not "States". This is further confirmed by the regulations below, which prove that there are no "employers" outside the "United States", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) to include only the District of Columbia and nowhere defined to include states of the Union within I.R.C., Subtitle A:

Title 26: Internal Revenue

PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE

Subpart B—Federal Insurance Contributions Act (Chapter 21, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)

General Provisions

(b) Services performed within the United States [District of Columbia]. Services performed after 1954 within the United States (see §31.3121(e)-1) by an employee for his employer, unless specifically excepted by section 3121(b), constitute employment. With respect to services performed within the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into is immaterial. The citizenship or residence of the employee or of the employer also is immaterial except to the extent provided in any specific exception from employment. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment.

"(c) Services performed outside the United States—(1) In general. Except as provided in paragraphs (c)(2) and (3) of this section, services performed outside the United States (see §31.3121(e)-1) do not constitute employment."

Note from the above that services performed outside the District of Columbia do not constitute "employment". This is also consistent with:

1. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(c)(ii), which says that "nonresident aliens" not engaged in a "trade or business" [public office in the U.S. government], even if they work in the "United States", do not earn taxable income. You will note that 4 U.S.C. §72 says that all public offices shall be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere.
2. 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(6) says that services of a "nonresident alien individual" (a person domiciled in a state of the Union and engaged in a public office) do not constitute "wages" that can be included on a W-2 form.
3. 26 C.F.R. §1.872-2(f) says that earnings from outside the "United States" (District of Columbia) does not constitute "gross income".

1 Private employers aren't covered by the Internal Revenue Code, and the only reason that any of them think otherwise is
2 because they never bothered to read the Internal Revenue Code or IRS Publication 15, Circular E: Employer's Tax Guide
3 for themselves and simply were reacting to authority that the IRS in fact did not have.

4 The term "withholding agent" is defined as follows in the Internal Revenue Code:

6 Sec. 7701. - Definitions

7 (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent
8 thereof –

9 (16) Withholding agent

10 The term "withholding agent" means any person required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions of 11 section 1441, 1442, 1443, or 1461.

| 1461         | Liability for withheld tax                 | Nonresident aliens and foreign corporations (see title of Chapter 3 of Subtitle A). |

14 So the question is: "Which one of the above are you as a person in a state of the Union who is working for a private, non-
15 federal employer?". The answer is "nonresident alien". The trouble is, your private employer fits in the same category as 16 you and is therefore outside of federal jurisdiction and not even subject to the Internal Revenue Code or to withholding. See 17 paragraph (b) below:

18 Title 26
19 PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
20 Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
21 § 31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1 Remuneration for services of nonresident alien individuals.

22 (a) In general. All remuneration paid after December 31, 1966, for services performed by a nonresident alien 23 individual, if such remuneration otherwise constitutes wages within the meaning of §31.3401(a)-1 and if 24 such remuneration is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States,
25 is subject to withholding under section 3402 unless excepted from wages under this section. In regard to 26 wages paid under this section after February 28, 1979, the term "nonresident alien individual" does not 27 include a nonresident alien individual treated as a resident under section 6013 (g) or (h).

28 (b) Remuneration for services performed outside the United States. Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien
29 individual (other than a resident of Puerto Rico) for services performed outside the United States is excepted
30 from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

31 Keep in mind that the I.R.C is "legislation" as described by the Supreme Court below:

32 "It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S.
33 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal
34 affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
35 Carter v. Carter Coal Co., [298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

37 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSForm2678.pdf>

1 Does your private employer have one of these signed forms on file? Chances are he doesn't, and he is withholding
2 ILLEGALLY. That means he is STEALING.

3 So the question then becomes: "By what lawful authority does my private employer deduct and withhold "taxes" on my
4 personal earnings from labor (not "wages", but "earnings") and where is he even defined as an 'employer' in the Internal 5 Revenue Code?" We'll now answer that question.

6 The IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) confirms the above, which says:

7 Internal Revenue Manual
8 5.14.10.2 \(09-30-2004\)
9 Payroll Deduction Agreements

10 2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction
11 agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements
12 before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.
13 [<http://www.irs.gov/irm/part5/ch14s10.html>]

14 The Internal Revenue Code provisions under Subtitle C, Employment Taxes, is based on the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939.
15 That act only lawfully taxed "Public Salaries", which is to say salaries of "public officers" of the United States Government

17 26 U.S.C. Sec. 3401\(c\) Employee

18 For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official
19 of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or 20 instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a

23 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee:

24 "...the term [employee] includes [is limited to] officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United
25 States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia,
26 or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an 27 officer of a corporation."

28 And the only definition of "employee" that we are aware of that has ever been published in the Federal Register reads as 29 follows:

31 Employee: "The term employee specifically includes officers and employees whether elected or appointed, of the 32 United States, a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or 33 instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing."

34 Any way you slice it, Subtitle A income taxes are indirect excise taxes upon the "privileges" of "public office" within the 35 federal United States corporation as we pointed out in section 5.1.8. Keep in mind also that a "public office" includes more
36 than just an elected or appointed employment position. Any artificial entity can be a "public office", including a whole
37 company, if it is owned or controlled or under contract with the federal government. Even the U.S. Congress agrees with this
38 conclusion in their "Frequently Asked Questions Concerning the Federal Income Tax", Congressional Research Service
39 Report 97-59A. See:

40 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/CRS/CRS-97-59A-rebuts.pdf>

41 In addition to all the above conclusions, even more important is the fact that Subtitle A income taxes only apply to persons
42 domiciled inside the federal zone, those receiving federal payments, or to those with contracts, agency, or employment with 43 the federal government as we thoroughly documented earlier in sections 5.2 through 5.2.20. This is a product of the fact that
44 the federal government has no police powers inside states of the Union and because the Sixteenth Amendment never delegated

1 the authority to collect direct, unapportioned taxes upon People within states of the Union. It authorizes collection of a direct,
2 unapportioned tax inside the federal zone or federal United States, but not within states of the Union.

3 Since in most cases, the company you work for is not a federal “employer”, then neither you nor that company are the proper
4 subject of either Subtitle A income taxes or Subtitle C employment taxes. But here is the clincher: Either one of you can
5 volunteer to be subject to and liable for these taxes under Subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code! You, who a “public
6 official” of the United States Government can volunteer to withhold these “donations” to the federal government and once
7 you volunteer by signing a contract/agreement called a W-4, your private employer, if he is within the federal zone, becomes
8 liable to pay them to Uncle Sam under 26 U.S.C. §1461 because if he doesn't, he has defrauded the government. But if you
9 don't decide to donate or withhold, your private employer isn't liable to do anything. The only thing that any private employer
10 is liable to do is to deduct and withhold WHEN YOU ASK him to, and to pay monies deducted to the federal government
11 under 26 U.S.C. §1461. Even then, though, he must maintain a legal domicile in the federal zone or represent a corporation
12 that does under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) in order to be subject to federal law. Businesses in states of the Union
13 aren't within the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code. As a matter of fact, our research in section 5.6.8 reveals that the 14 IRS classifies all employment taxes deducted as gifts to the federal government, which is what Tax Class 5 is! How can a
15 private employer domiciled within states of the Union and outside of federal jurisdiction be held “liable” for not sending gifts
16 to the federal government? Furthermore, we will show in section 11 that it would be a serious violation of law for the IRS to 17 coerce or force either you or the business you work for to donate such gifts, because that would amount to solicitation of a
18 bribe, which is just money that is extorted without the authority of law.

19 Now let's look at whether private employers who are not part of the federal government and have no federal workers are 20 allowed to withhold. The U.S. Supreme Court said that the labor of a human being is “property” in a legal sense:

22 right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner
23 not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so
24 as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS
25 IN HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE 26 MOST SACRED AND INVOLABLE... to hinder his employing this strength and dexterity in what manner he 27 thinks proper without injury to his neighbor, is a plain violation of this most sacred property."''
28 [Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

29 Anyone who withholds on earnings from labor that are not connected with a voluntary, excise taxable activity is effecting
30 slavery, because they are literally STEALING property. This is confirmed by examining the withholding regulations at 26
31 C.F.R. §1.1441-2 say that withholding may not be effected on the sale of “property”:

32 Title 26: Internal Revenue
33 PART 1—INCOME TAXES
34 Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Corporations and Tax-Free Covenant Bonds
35 § 1.1441-2 Amounts subject to withholding.

36 (b) Fixed or determinable annual or periodical income—

37 (1) In general—

38 (i) Definition. For purposes of chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder, fixed or 39 determinable annual or periodical income includes all income included in gross income under section 61
40 (including original issue discount) except for the items specified in paragraph (b)(2) of this section. Items of 41 income that are excluded from gross income under a provision of law without regard to the U.S. or foreign 42 status of the owner of the income, such as interest excluded from gross income under section 103(a) or qualified
43 scholarship income under section 117, shall not be treated as fixed or determinable annual or periodical
44 income under chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code. Income excluded from gross income under section 892
45 (income of foreign governments) or section 115 (income of a U.S. possession) is fixed or determinable annual 46 or periodical income since the exclusion from gross income under those sections is dependent on the foreign 47 status of the owner of the income. See §1.306-3(h) for treating income from the disposition of section 306 stock 48 as fixed or determinable annual or periodical income.

50 (2) Exceptions. For purposes of chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder, the items of income
51 described in this paragraph (b)(2) are not fixed or determinable annual or periodical income—

(i) Gains derived from the sale of property (including market discount and option premiums), except for gains described in paragraph (b)(3) or (c) of this section; and

(ii) Any other income that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) may determine, in published guidance (see §601.601(d)(2) of this chapter), is not fixed or determinable annual or periodical income.

Note that withholding is not authorized on gains derived from any kind of property other than that listed above, and since labor isn't included in the list, then there can be no withholding on "labor". Next, we examine I.R.C. Section 61 to determine whether "labor" is included in the definition of "gross income". We have highlighted and boldfaced and underlined the only portion of that section that relates to "labor" of a human being:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter B > PART 1 > § 61
§ 61. Gross income defined \(a\) General definition

Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

- (1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;
- (2) Gross income derived from business;
- (3) Gains derived from dealings in property;
- (4) Interest;
- (5) Rents;
- (6) Royalties;
- (7) Dividends;
- (8) Alimony and separate maintenance payments;
- (9) Annuities;
- (10) Income from life insurance and endowment contracts;
- (11) Pensions;
- (12) Income from discharge of indebtedness;
- (13) Distributive share of partnership gross income;
- (14) Income in respect of a decedent; and
- (15) Income from an interest in an estate or trust.

The above definition uses several tricky "words of art: to deceive the reader about withholding on "labor", such as "compensation", "services", etc. These "words of art" are then defined in the Classification Act of 1923, 42 Stat. 1988 as follows:

1. "department": "the term 'department' means an executive department of the United States Government, a governmental establishment in the executive branch of the United States Government which is not a part of an executive department, the municipal government of the District of Columbia, the Botanic garden, Library of Congress, Library Building and Grounds, Government Printing Office (GPO), and the Smithsonian Institution."
2. "position": "means a specific civilian office or employment, whether occupied or vacant, in a department other than the following: Offices or employments in the Postal Service; teachers, librarians, school attendance officers, and employees of the community center department under the Board of Education of the District of Columbia; officers and members of the Metropolitan police, the fire department of the District of Columbia, and the United States park police; and the commissioned personnel of the Coast Guard, the public Health Service, and the Coast and Geodetic Survey."
3. "employee": "means any person temporarily or permanently in a position."
4. "service": "means the broadest division of related offices and employments."
5. "compensation": "means any salary, wage, fee, allowance, or other emolument paid to an employee for service in a position."

What the above definitions show, is that "labor", in the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A, is not the commodity being taxed. Rather, "compensation" for "services" performed in conduct of a "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) as "the functions of a public office" is the voluntary, excise taxable activity that is being taxed. Remember, Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax upon privileged, excise taxable activities, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. The "activity" is a "trade or business", which is basically privileged employment with the federal government:

"..by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect [excise] taxation to which it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a

1 consideration of the sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a
 2 tax on income, but by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. "
 3 Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., [240 U.S. 103 (1916)]

4 The Supreme Court also said after Congress attempted to establish the first income tax in 1862 to fund the civil war that a
 5 "trade or business" cannot be licensed or taxed within the borders of a state of the Union:

6 "Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
 7 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
 8 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
 9 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the
 10 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

11 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
 12 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively
 13 to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted
 14 by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the
 15 legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the 16 State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in 17 the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must 18 impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and
 19 thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.
 20 Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."
 21 License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

22 You will also note that the Supreme Court has said that no one may withhold the wages of a worker against his will:

23 "Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can
 24 rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will..."
 25 The Antelope, [23 U.S. 66; 10 Wheat 66; 6 L.Ed. 268 (1825)]

26 Even the statutes confirm that labor is not a commodity or article of commerce that therefore may be "taxed":

27 United States Code
 28 TITLE 15 - COMMERCE AND TRADE
 29 CHAPTER 1 - MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE
 30 Sec. 17. Antitrust laws not applicable to labor organizations

31 The labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce....

32 Now let's look at what the Bible says about the theft and fraud of holding back the wages of the laborer, and it's not pretty,
 33 Mr. Employer:

34 "The laborer is worthy of [ALL of ] his wages."
 35 [1 Tim. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

36 "Woe to him who builds his house by unrighteousness
 37 And his chambers by injustice,
 38 Who [whether individual or government] uses his neighbor's service without wages
 39 And gives him nothing for his work,"
 40 [Jer. 22:13, Bible, NKJV]

41 "Come now, you rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you! Your riches are corrupted, and 42 your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and silver are corroded, and their corrosion will be a witness against 43 you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have heaped up treasure in the last days. Indeed the wages of the 44 laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, cry out; and the cries of the reapers have
 45 reached the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth. <sup>5</sup>You [the business owner who controls the purse of the workers] have 46 lived on the earth in pleasure and luxury; you have fattened your hearts as<sup>bl</sup> in a day of slaughter. You have 47 condemned, you have murdered the just; he does not resist you. "
 48 [James 5:1-6, Bible, NKJV]

49 "You shall not cheat your neighbor, nor rob him. The wages of him who is hired shall not remain with you all 50 night until morning. "
 51 [Lev. 19:13, Bible, NKJV]

1 Any way you look at it, private employers who don't have privileged federal "employees" for workers cannot withhold
2 against the wishes of the workers and if they do, they are STEALING and violating both man's law and God's law. There is
3 nothing in federal law or state law that would indemnify them from such STEALING. They are no better than petty street
4 criminals, and any payroll clerk who doesn't understand this is a sitting duck for any worker who is even mildly educated
5 about the law and willing to defend his rights.

6 5.4.25 The money you pay to government is an illegal bribe to public officials

7 For those who deduct payroll taxes involuntarily and without consent, the money they pay either through Subtitle C
8 withholding or through Subtitle A 1040 returns amounts to extortion under the color of law and a compelled bribe because 9 there is no liability statute and no Constitutional authority to collect inside states of the Union. The payments amount to 10 extortion because:

- 11 1. The IRS threatens and pressures private employers to withhold on their employees.
- 12 2. Private employers make payment of income taxes based on the above pressure a precondition of obtaining or keeping a 13 job.
- 14 3. The IRS and the Department of Injustice terrorize and legally harass employers who choose not to withhold. Case in 15 point is Arrow Plastics, whose proprietor Dick Simkanin was hounded for three straight years in what amounts to an 16 abuse of the legal system and forced labor in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589. The DOJ had to endlessly pester three 17 different grand juries and he appeared to testify in front of the first two but they didn't get an indictment until they were 18 able to keep him away from the third grand jury.

19 This illegally paid and collected money contributes to the corruption and delinquency of our elected or appointed officers,
20 because it enhances their power and influence and causes them to commit treason against the republic by transforming it into 21 a socialist democracy and starting up all kinds of government handout programs. Here is the law making this bribe illegal:

23 Sec. 201. - Bribery of public officials and witnesses

25 (1) directly or indirectly, corruptly gives, offers or promises anything of value to any public official or person

(4) directly or indirectly, corruptly demands, seeks, receives, accepts, or agrees to receive or accept anything of value personally or for any other person or entity in return for being influenced in testimony under oath or affirmation as a witness upon any such trial, hearing, or other proceeding, or in return for absenting himself therefrom; shall be fined under this title or not more than three times the monetary equivalent of the thing of value, whichever is greater, or imprisoned for not more than fifteen years, or both, and may be disqualified from holding any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States.

Since Article 4, Section 4, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution requires that the United States Government shall guarantee a republican form of government to each state in the union, then anyone who pays such bribes or accepts them is committing treason by doing so. They are also subsidizing the oppression of fellow Americans, treason, and conspiracy against the rights of their fellow Americans. Have you ever been to the zoo and seen the sign that says "Please don't feed the animals"? Well, I think we need one on every federal building and on every Internal Revenue Service form you fill out. The animals are your public dis-servants!

Since you must be a "public officers" of the U.S. government in order to be the proper subject of Subtitle C employment taxes as indicated above, your voluntary payment of employment taxes amounts to a bribe to procure public office!

Whoever pays or offers or promises any money or thing of value, to any person, firm, or corporation in consideration of the use or promise to use any influence to procure any appointive office or place under the United States for any person, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than one year, or both

That's right, you have made yourself into a criminal by volunteering to pay Subtitle C Employment Taxes and the judges and your Congressmen just look the other way because they are bought and paid for with your bribes, which you never would have paid if they had told you the truth to begin with.

That's not all folks. Recall from our investigation earlier in section 2.8.10 that the Federal Reserve is a private, for profit trust which is not part of the federal U.S. government. It is foreign to the U.S. government. It is not federal, there are no "reserves" and calling it this is a FRAUD! Even the federal courts agreed that the Federal Reserve is a private trust in Lewis v. U.S., 680 F.2d. 1238, 1241 (1982). Also recall that most of the income tax revenues go to the Federal Reserve to pay off the national debt to the private, foreign Federal Reserve. In that capacity, the U.S. Congress and the IRS are acting as collection agents for a foreign principal. Did your Congressman register as an agent of a foreign principal as required by law to indicate that he is a collection agent of that foreign principal?

Sec. 219. - Officers and employees acting as agents of foreign principals

(a) Whoever, being a public official, is or acts as an agent of a foreign principal required to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938 or a lobbyist required to register under the Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995 in connection with the representation of a foreign entity, as defined in section 3(6) of that Act shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for not more than two years, or both.

(b) Nothing in this section shall apply to the employment of any agent of a foreign principal as a special Government employee in any case in which the head of the employing agency certifies that such employment is required in the national interest. A copy of any certification under this paragraph shall be forwarded by the head of such agency to the Attorney General who shall cause the same to be filed with the registration statement and other documents filed by such agent, and made available for public inspection in accordance with section 6 of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended.

(c) For the purpose of this section "public official" means Member of Congress, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner [IRS Commissioner!], either before or after he has qualified, or an officer or employee or person acting for or on behalf of the United States, or any department, agency, or branch of Government thereof, including the District of Columbia, in any official function, under or by authority of any such department, agency, or branch of Government

You might want to do a Freedom Of Information Act (FOIA) request of your Congressman and ask him for his Foreign Agent Registration documents. What? He doesn't have them? Prosecute the criminal and have him thrown in jail for two years like the IRS mafia did to Congressman James Traficant! Your Congressmen and their henchmen at the IRS are traitors and criminals, and these laws prove it! Anyone who sends their hard-earned money to Washington, D.C. is subsidizing criminal activity and is involved in a financial crimes enterprise in violation of 18 U.S.C. §225, and they are subsidizing bank robbery

1 under 18 U.S.C. §2113 and the monetary transactions derived from unlawful activity under 18 U.S.C. 1957. In short, they
2 are traitors. You can't pay Subtitle C taxes, which are technically gifts, without being a criminal and in effect bribing your
3 Congressman and the IRS. Remember, it is Congress who decides how the money you donate is spent.

4 What about your private employer? His federal Employer Identification Number is what identifies him as part of the Federal
5 Corporation called the United States government identified in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\). He is acting as a voluntary agent of
6 the federal government under the "color of law". In order to act as such an agent, he has to fill out IRS Form 2678 in
7 accordance with 26 U.S.C. §3504 and be designated as a "withholding agent" by the Secretary of the Treasury, which most
8 private employers have never done. Here is that section:

9 TITLE 26 > Subtitle C > CHAPTER 25 > Sec. 3504.
10 Sec. 3504. - Acts to be performed by agents

11 In case a fiduciary, agent, or other person has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of, or pays the wages of 12 *an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, the Secretary, under regulations
13 prescribed by him, is authorized to designate such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are
14 required of employers under this title and as the Secretary may specify. Except as may be otherwise prescribed
15 by the Secretary, all provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of an employer shall be 16 applicable to a fiduciary, agent, or other person so designated but, except as so provided, the employer for whom
17 such fiduciary, agent, or other person acts shall remain subject to the provisions of law (including penalties)
18 applicable in respect of employers

19 Congress, through the above statute, may not delegate to the Secretary an authority that they themselves do not have.
20 Remember that the only "employees" they are referring to above are federal "employees" and the reason the Secretary has 21 jurisdiction to appoint such agents is because he is exercising in rem jurisdiction over wages paid to "public officers" of the 22 United States government, because part of those wages belong to the federal government and are a kickback that must be 23 recovered, as we reveal later in section 5.6.10. At the point that your private employer submits IRS Form 2678 and 24 "volunteers" to be a withholding agent, the form says the following about his obligations:

25 *"It is understood that the agent and the employer or payer are subject to all provisions of law and regulations
26 (including penalties) which apply to employers or payers."

27 However, even if your private, nonfederal employer tried to volunteer as a "withholding agent", the Constitution doesn't 28 authorize the federal government or the Secretary of the Treasury to appoint private employers within states of the Union as 29 "withholding agents" for Subtitle A taxes so they are acting illegally.

30 "Illegal. Against or not authorized by law."
31 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 747]

32 "The Government of the United States, therefore, can claim no powers which are not [explicitly] granted to it
33 by the Constitution, and the powers actually granted must be such as are expressly given, or given by necessary
34 implication."
35 [Buffington v. Day, 11 Wall. 113, 78 U.S. 122 (1871)]

36 You can confirm the above assertions by requesting a copy of his delegation order and seeing whether it says the Secretary
37 can do this with private employers. You will find as we have in doing so that he doesn't have this authority. If he doesn't
38 have that authority, then he can't delegate it to the IRS. That means your private employer is not operating with the authority
39 of federal law and really has no lawful authority at all to act as a "withholding agent" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16).
40 If his actions as a voluntary federal agent result in an oppression of your sacred Constitutional rights, then he is liable under 41 equity jurisdiction in any state court for the injury or tort that he causes you. Plain and simple. Even if your employer isn't 42 being compensated for his acts as a federal agent, he can be prosecuted under the same standards as a government employee!
43 This opens a whole new realm of possibilities, folks.

44 As an agent of a foreign principal, the federal reserve, your private employer is part of this criminal conspiracy and treason
45 against the constitutional republic. He is a communist and a socialist, in fact, as we showed in the introduction to this chapter.
46 This is especially true if he forces you to pay payroll taxes by threatening to fire or discipline you if you don't file a W-4 with 47 him or her to initiate withholding. Since he has no lawful authority to deduct or withhold the taxes, being outside the exclusive
48 territorial jurisdiction of the United States government under Subtitles A or C of the I.R.C., then coercing you to deduct or 49 withhold or filing a W-4 without your consent is a clear violation of the Fifth Amendment, which says that we can't be 50 deprived of our property without due process of law or just compensation.

There aren't a lot of private employees who would resort to suing their employers, because this would amount to looking a gift horse in the mouth, but this is what most ignorant employers deserve for their negligent and harmful administration of payroll tax withholding. If your employer in effect discriminates against you because you refuse to volunteer, ignorantly and wrongfully thinking that he has the authority by law to compel you to withhold, then you have a case with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) for employment discrimination based on your religious beliefs and based on 8 U.S.C. §1324(a)(3)(A). The same argument applies if they won't accept the government form you choose to submit to stop withholding, which in most cases is the Amended W-8BEN form we have on our website. If they say they won't accept the Amended W-8BEN and demand a W-4, then they are violating your First Amendment rights by telling you how you can or must communicate with your government. Free speech implies the ability to either not communicate at all with your government or to communicate on the forms that YOU choose. If you have a coercive or tyrannical employer, then lodging a formal complaint with the EEOC might be an effective strategy to twist their arm. You'll have your employer scurrying like cockroaches when the lights come on with such tactics, folks!

5.4.26 How a person can "volunteer" to become liable for paying income tax?

Even if a person is not liable for paying any federal taxes on their income, they can nevertheless "volunteer" to make themselves liable to pay. This topic is also discussed in section 3.12.1.21, where we talk about "Taxpayer." For instance, if you have a large income but none of it is taxable as "gross income", you can make yourself liable anyway simply by misreporting nontaxable income as taxable on a 1040 form, signing it, and sending it in! That's called a donation. Do you think the IRS will argue with or correct people who do this? Quite the contrary, they will prosecute such people if they can get more money out of them! This was clearly stated in the case of Lyddon & Company v. U.S., 158 F.Supp. 951:

"When one files a tax return showing taxes due, he has, presumably, assessed himself and is content to become liable for the tax, and to pay it either when it is due according to statute, or when he can get the money together."

There are other equally important choices we can make that will identify us as "volunteers who want to pay federal income taxes" as far as the federal courts are concerned. Here are just a few:

1. Claiming we are a U.S.** citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401, which we should never do on any piece of paper we sign. Instead, if we have to claim we are a U.S. citizen in order to vote, for instance, then we should always clarify exactly what we mean, which is that we are a "national" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), but not a statutory "U.S.** citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401. Once we are a statutory "U.S. person"/"U.S. citizen"/"U.S. resident", we are completely subject to federal jurisdiction, which is a BAD idea with federal court system as corrupt as the one we have.
2. Submitting a 1040, which tells the IRS we are electing to be a statutory "U.S. citizen", statutory "resident alien", or a statutory "U.S. person" and a resident or domiciliary of the District of Columbia and the federal zone. The correct form to submit is the W-8BEN and the 1040NR, which makes us a nonresident alien with respect to federal income taxes.
3. Signing up for the Social Security program or receiving a Social Security Number and saying we are "U.S. citizens" on the SSA Form SS-5. We instead need to specify on the SSA Form SS-5 that we are "nationals" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21). We also need to change the status of our SSN by submitting a W-8BEN to the IRS and asking them to register us as "nationals" and "nonresident aliens" rather than "U.S. citizens", or else we by default become "U.S.** citizens" who have no constitutional rights.
4. Signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4 or W-4 Exempt to the private company we work for. This identifies us as a federal "employee" who has made an election to be treated as being involved in a "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a trade or business".
5. When we use the postal system and put zip codes on our mail and use state abbreviations. We should instead use the full state name and put all postal zip codes in parentheses to emphasize that we are not subjecting ourselves to federal jurisdiction.

Below is how one of our readers succinctly described how we volunteer to become liable to pay federal income taxes:

"There seems to be two camps. One says the tax is illegal and doesn't apply to them...ie (Joe Banister) 16th amendment wasn't properly ratified, taxes aren't apportioned ...etc. All these and related arguments miss an important and critical point. Why is it that a 'patriot' finds himself in court.. makes a valid argument...and then loses the case? Why did Robert Clarkson spend five years in jail.. convicted of interfering with IRS operations. The judge would not allow any first amendment arguments. Everyone thought the judge was a communist pinko. The judge was right when he said no free speech arguments would be allowed because the constitution did not apply. Everyone missed the real issue including Robert who did five years. I reject the court's decision... but THE JUDGE WAS RIGHT."

1           "The citizenship issue is a huge issue or should I say nexus. I ran into a fella a while back that had the case
2 cite where a judge said we become citizens of the corporate U.S. when we pay the first dollar into social security
3 as an adult; and our use of the current postal system. The judge declined to elaborate but (here I'm being very 4 optimistic) was trying to tell the litigant what he must do to beat the infidels back. I have ex-patriated / re-
5 patriated, filed my UCC documents, and am making use of common law trusts. Appears that everything is working
6 and soon I will find out in an up-coming court case.... The ex-patriating issue and KNOWING how the uniform
7 commercial code and how we get into contracts with the corporate US seems to be the minimum we must know
8 and defend. For nearly thirty years I have heard it all from sincere but wide-eyed 'patriots' who were eager to 9 convince me how the income tax was illegal...blah, blah, blah. It never occurred to them that they are not 10 SUBJECT TO the tax (even if it was legal). Several judges I see now and then are now avoiding me. I made the 11 'mistake' of asking them about jurisdiction and straw man and Uniform Commercial Code issues. Squirm and 12 sweat describes their responses. Maybe we haven't found the "Magic-Bullet" yet but it seems that we are very 13 close."

14 Therefore, all of our problems begin when we claim to be persons domiciled within exclusive federal jurisdiction, which 15 includes "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or "residents" (aliens with a domicile) under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). This 16 is what makes us slaves of the state in the pursuit of taxable government privileges and benefits, whether they be the right to 17 vote, social security, driver's licenses, permits, etc. In a way, one could say that the effort by the government to fool American
18 Nationals, who are "non-resident non-persons", into claiming they are domiciliaries of the federal zone constitutes the crime
19 of "conspiracy against rights" in violation of 18 U.S.C. §241, because once we become domiciliaries of the federal zone, we 20 lose all our rights and no one including the states may interfere. Once we declare ourselves (usually falsely) to be
21 STATUTORY "U.S. citizens" or "residents", we become nonresidents in our own CONSTITUTIONAL state and divorce
22 our state. We also now become privileged "franchisees" and "dependents" of the "parens patriae" federal government. We're 23 slaves, and from that point on our government will call us "taxpayers", which is nothing but a polite way to say that we are
24 federal whores! At that point, every visit we make to a federal court assumes that we have the burden of proving that we are 25 not whores, I mean "taxpayers". Every case is litigated in equity rather than the Constitution, and the federal courts become 26 administrative courts to enforce our voluntary "domicile contract", which amounts to indentured servanthood. But keep in 27 mind that "U.S. citizenship" status is voluntary, according to the U.S. supreme Court as follows:

28           *"The citizen cannot complain, because he has voluntarily submitted himself to such a form of government. He
29 owes allegiance to the two departments, so to speak, and within their respective spheres must pay the penalties
30 which each exacts for disobedience to its laws. In return, he can demand protection from each within its own
32           [United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875) (emphasis added)]

33 If you don't want the "privileges" of being a domiciliary of the federal zone, then your government, in a free country, can't
34 force you to accept them or pay for them through income taxes. Compelled receipt of and payment for a government benefit
35 is not a benefit at all, but slavery disguised as government benevolence in plain violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.
36 Period, end of discussion. It's ludicrous the way our government treats "taxpayers" to even claim in the first place that being 37 a statutory "U.S. person" or "U.S. citizen" is a "privilege"! What a joke!

38 Remember the following important facts regarding the voluntary nature of "domicile". Also remember that under Federal 39 Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), our "domicile" and any agency we are exercising is where federal courts get civil jurisdiction.
40 The main purpose of the Federal District Courts is to facilitate "business" or "commerce" by enforcing the Social Security
41 contract with otherwise sovereign Americans in the states. Also remember that:

- 42 1. "Domicile" is the origin of the government's tax jurisdiction.
- 43 2. The choice of "domicile" is voluntary and we aren't obligated to have ANY earthly domicile.
- 44 3. All "residents" are "aliens" with a domicile in the federal zone. See 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
- 45 4. All "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are domiciled in the federal zone. They are automatically also "nationals of 46 the United States**" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22).
- 47 5. A "U.S. citizen" cannot renounce their "national" status while in the "United States**" under 8 U.S.C. §1483(a).
- 48 6. The government cannot remove any aspect of your citizenship status without your voluntary consent and participation,
49 because citizenship is a right and a contract, once granted by the government, and can only be revoked by the recipient,
50 which is you. See Afroyim v. Rusk, 387 U.S. 253 (1967):

51           "Citizen has constitutional right to remain a citizen in a free country unless he voluntarily relinquishes that 52 citizenship."

7. If you change your domicile to be outside the federal zone, you still retain your “national” status but lose your statutory “U.S. citizen” status under 8 U.S.C. §1401. The government can’t take away your “national” status in the process, because they can’t take away your citizenship without your consent.
8. 8 U.S.C. §1452 describes how to obtain evidence that you are a “non-citizen national” if you were born in a U.S. possession.
9. There are procedures on how to change your domicile and amend government records to remove any presumed statutory “U.S. citizen” status to become exclusively a “national” but not a “citizen” in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005.

5.4.27 Popular illegal government techniques for coercing “consent”

Now that we have firmly established that consent is required in the assessment and collection of income taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, it’s reasonable to ask what devious and illegal means the government uses to coerce “consent” or what they popularly call “voluntary compliance” out of the populace. We covered such techniques generally earlier in section 4.3.16, but it is reasonable to particularize the techniques down so that we can be very aware of the tools of coercion, force, and fraud used directly against us in the case of income taxation. We will therefore itemize each technique into a very specific “MO”, which is a “Method of Operation” used by criminal public servants for accomplishing their crime. The reason we put this section at the end of the treatment of the “voluntary” nature of income taxes is so that we can start from the point of knowing exactly what the lawful limits are upon the IRS’ authority. The techniques in the following subsections will be listed in order of the frequency they occur.

5.4.27.1 Deceptive language and words of art

IRS makes false presumptions about the meaning of several important words in its publications and forms and website which it is unwilling to share with you and which prejudice your rights and sovereignty in most cases. In such a case, we must remind ourselves what the U.S. Supreme Court said about the abuse of “presumption” to exceed the authority of the Constitution:

New York Times v. Sullivan, [376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

The purpose of these “words of art” is to deceive you into believing their false presumptions and thereby commit constructive fraud. The abused words include, but are not limited to:

1. “United States”
2. “State”
3. “state”
4. “foreign”
5. “nonresident alien”
6. “U.S. citizen”
7. “employee”
8. “income”
9. “gross income”
10. “trade or business”
11. “wages”
12. “individual”

The only way to overcome false presumptions about the meaning of the above words is to read the codes and laws for oneself, which the IRS knows that few Americans will do. This constructive fraud counts on the following elements to be successful:

1. A deficient public education system run by the government which dumbs-down Americans by not teaching them either “law” or “constitutional law”, in any grammar, junior high, or high school curricula.
2. College and university curricula in government-run universities that do not require the study of any aspect of law for most majors.
3. IRS and government websites that do not define the meaning of these words. See section 3.12.1 and following earlier for examples.
4. IRS publications that deliberately do not define the meaning of these words.

- 1 5. Legal dictionaries that have had these critical words removed so that they cannot be easily understood. For instance, no
2 legal dictionary published at this time that we could find has a definition of the term "United States" in it. See section 3 6.10.1 later, for instance.
- 4 6. Federal courts that have become vehicles for political propaganda and terrorism rather than justice. See sections 2.8.13 5 through 2.8.13.8.1 earlier.
- 6 7. A refusal, upon submitting a Freedom of Information Act Request, to provide an unambiguous and honest definition of 7 these words that includes the WHOLE truth.

8 Those who try to educate the public about the legal meaning of the above words have been persecuted by the IRS, and this 9 includes us. If you would like to learn more about this fraud, consult:

- 10 • Subsections underneath section 3.12.1 earlier.
- 11 • Section 5.10 later about vague laws

12 5.4.27.2 Ignoring Responsive Correspondence to Collection Notices

13 When the IRS attempts illegal collection actions against Americans, they send out threatening correspondence, often via 14 certified mail. Many recipients respond faithfully to this correspondence, using research from this book, documenting that 15 the IRS is:

- 16 1. Violating enacted positive law.
- 17 2. Wrongfully enforcing against a "nontaxpayer".
- 18 3. Involved in racketeering and organized extortion.
- 19 4. Collecting without the consent of the target.

20 We call such responses to illegal enforcement actions "response letters". Any time a person sends a response letter to the 21 IRS, they are doing what is called "Petitioning their government for illegal and unconstitutional abuses." The First
22 Amendment to the U.S. Constitution makes petitioning the government a protected right, the exercise of which cannot
23 be penalized. Such a petition also requires an earnest response by the IRS and due respect for the legal issues raised in it. Seldom 24 are these response letters read or even responded to by the IRS. Instead, the IRS routinely penalizes those submitting such 25 correspondence by:

- 26 1. Instituting penalties illegally and in violation of the Constitutional prohibition against Bills of Attainder. A Bill of 27 Attainder is a penalty without a court trial, and it is prohibited by Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution against natural 28 persons.
- 29 2. Creating additional retaliatory assessments.
- 30 3. Falsifying the Individual Master File (IMF) of the respondent by indicating that they are involved in criminal activity.
31 When the respondent notices this in their record, then the IRS refuses to correct the computer fraud, which is actually a
32 violation of 18 U.S.C. §1030. See our Master File Decoder for how this fraud works:
33 <http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Programs/MFDecoder/MFDecoder.htm>

34 5.4.27.3 Fraudulent forms and publications

35 The IRS publications are constructively fraudulent. Their purpose is mainly as a government propaganda vehicle intended 36 to encourage false presumption, because they exclude discussion of any of the below subjects, and therefore encourage 37 incorrect conclusions about the tax liability of the reader:

- 38 1. The limits upon federal jurisdiction.
- 39 2. The implications of these limits upon the definition of terms such as "United States", "State", "employee", and "income"
- 40 3. The fact that the Internal Revenue Code is not "law" and therefore imposes no obligation upon anyone except those who 41 consent to be subject to its provisions.
- 42 4. The fact that the Internal Revenue Code does not describe a lawful "tax" as defined by the Supreme Court
- 43 5. The dual nature of the Internal Revenue Code as a municipal tax upon all federal territories, possessions, and the District

45 The IRS admits that its publications are not trustworthy, by saying in its Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) the following:

1 "IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their
2 advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
3 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]

4 If you would like to learn more detail about this subject, read:

- 5 • Section 3.12 earlier on "words of art"
- 6 • Section 5.5.9 about fraud in the use of the 1040 form
- 7 • Section 6.9.6: IRS Trickery on the 1040 form to get you inside the federal zone
- 8 • Our website article describing how the courts refuse to hold the IRS responsible for the content of its publications,
9 forms, and telephone advice at: <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

10 5.4.27.4 Political propaganda

11 There are five main sources of political propaganda designed to terrorize the American public into consenting to comply with 12 the I.R.C. These sources are:

- 13 1. The IRS tax fraud alerts at: <http://www.irs.gov/compliance/enforcement/article/0,,id=121259,00.html>
- 14 2. The Department of Injustice press releases. See: <http://www.usdoj.gov/tax/TEN.htm>
- 15 3. Press releases leaked indirectly to the media.
- 16 4. Deliberately deceiving publications of the Congressional Research Service. This includes Congressional Research
17 Service report 97-59A entitled "Frequently Asked Questions Concerning the Federal Income Tax. We publish a rebutted
18 version of the pamphlet later in the book.
19 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/CRS/CRS-97-59A-rebutts.pdf>
- 20 5. Informal publications posted on the IRS website which the IRS refuses to take responsibility for. This includes the IRS

The Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments, Internal Revenue Service
http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/friv\_tax\_rebutts.pdf

- 22 6. Abuse of caselaw for political rather than legal purposes. The IRS will quote irrelevant federal caselaw from federal 23 courts that have no jurisdiction over us because we do not live on federal property. They will do this in violation of their 24 own Internal Revenue Manual, which says on the subject the following:

25 Internal Revenue Manual
26 4.10.7.2.9.8 \(05-14-1999\) Importance of Court Decisions

27 1. Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may

29 2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court
30 becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service
31 must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the 32 Code.

33 3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the
34 Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require
35 the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.

36 Because none of these sources portray the relevant, complete or most important truth about the limits upon federal taxing
37 powers, the result is that they exploit ignorance to create fear of the government and the IRS in order to encourage "voluntary 38 compliance". We might add that any decision accomplished in the presence of fear, at least in the context of rape, cannot be 39 considered "consensual". The only way consent can lawfully be procured is when it is FULLY INFORMED, meaning that 40 the decision maker is give the WHOLE truth upon which to make his decision, rather than only that subset of the truth which 41 benefits the government.

42 "Waivers of constitutional rights not only must be voluntary but must be knowing, intelligent acts done with 43 sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and likely consequences."
44 [Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. at 749, 90 S.Ct. 1463 at 1469 (1970)]

45 5.4.27.5 Deception of private companies and financial institutions

1 Through a systematic campaign of dis-information, the IRS deceives private companies outside of its jurisdiction into
2 believing that they are required to comply with whatever IRS agents tell them on the telephone or whatever gets mailed to
3 them in the form of a Notice of Levy or a Notice of Lien. The most famous private company, No Time Delay Electronics,
4 Nick Jesson, which challenged the IRS authority to use such tactics has been targeted for endless legal harassment and
5 terrorism by the IRS and the Franchise Tax Board. The owner of that establishment, Nick Jesson, was featured on the movie
6 on our website entitled "How to Keep 100% of Your Earnings" at:

7 <http://famguardian.org/Media/movie.htm>

8 Mr. Jesson eventually became the target of endless legal terrorism, the techniques of which are documented in the next
9 section.

10 Private employers not within the jurisdiction of the federal government that don't ask any questions and comply with illegal
11 requests by the IRS are left alone. However, those that request any of the following are harassed and terrorized:

- 12 1. Proof of the legal identity and service of process address of the person in the IRS who is making the request or sending 13 the illegal Notice of Lien or Notice of Levy.
- 14 2. The basis upon which to believe that the I.R.C. is "law".
- 15 3. Why the Notice of Levy form 668A-c(DO) is missing paragraph (a) of 26 U.S.C. §6331, which states that levies are 16 limited only to elected or appointed officers of the United States government or federal "instrumentalities" such as 17 "public officers".
- 18 4. An abstract of judgment signed by a judge authorizing the levy or lien of the property of the accused. The "Notice of 19 Levy" and "Notice Of Lien" must meet the requirements of the Fifth Amendment, which requires that all such takings
20 of property must be signed by a judge and be executed ONLY through judicial process.

22 Disinformation of payroll people at private companies is effected mainly through the techniques documented later in section
23 5.4.27.8. If you would like to learn how to fight such underhanded intimidation of private companies and financial institutions
24 in the context of withholding, please refer to our free pamphlet below:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FedStateWHOptions/FedStateWHOptions.pdf>

25 5.4.27.6 Legal terrorism

26 Those people who expose the illegal and fraudulent dealings of the government relating to income taxes are frequently
27 targeted for endless litigation and terrorism by the government. The nature of litigation is that it is expensive, very time-
28 consuming, and complex. The government institutes what is called "malicious abuse of legal process" to essentially wear
29 down, distract, and plunder their opponents of financial resources. Most Americans are unfamiliar with the legal process,
30 and when falsely accused or litigated against by the government, must hire an expensive attorney. This attorney, who is
31 licensed by the government, becomes just another government prosecutor against them who essentially bilks their assets
32 while cooperating subtly with the government in ensuring a conviction. It doesn't take long to exhaust the financial resources
33 of the falsely accused American, and so even if there is no money left for the IRS to collect at that point, they have still 34 accomplished the financial punishment that they sought originally. As long as it really hurts financially to not "consent", 35 then the government will win in the end.

36 We must remember, however, that such an abuse of legal process to effect the equivalent of slavery, is a crime if effected
37 within federal jurisdiction. The government parties who cooperate in such legal terrorism become personally liable for this 38 type of slavery:

40 Sec. 1589. - Forced labor

41 Whoever knowingly provides or obtains the labor or services of a person -

42 (3) by means of the abuse or threatened abuse of law or the legal process.

shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than 20 years, or both. If death results from the violation of this section, or if the violation includes kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse or the attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, the defendant shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for any term of years or life, or both

The slavery produced by this legal terrorism also violates the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against involuntary servitude and is punishable under 18 U.S.C. §1994 and 18 U.S.C. §1581.

5.4.27.7 Coercion of federal judges

Since 1918, federal judges sitting in the District and Circuit courts have been subject to IRS extortion and coercion. Since 1938, this extortion has enjoyed the blessing of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court. The Revenue Act of 1918, section 213, 40 Stat. 1057, was the first federal law to impose income taxes on federal judges. That act was challenged by federal judges in the case of Miles v. Graham, 268 U.S. 501 (1924) and the judges won. Congress attempted again in the Revenue Act of 1932, section 22, to do the same thing by much more devious means. Federal judges again challenged the attempt in the case of O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277 (1939), and lost. Since that time, the independence of the federal judiciary on the subject of taxation has been completely compromised. No judge who is subject to IRS extortion can possibly be objective when ruling on an income tax issue. He cannot faithfully and with integrity perform his job without violating 28 U.S.C. §144, 28 U.S.C. §455, and 18 U.S.C. §208. Consequently, the rulings of the federal district and circuit courts since that time have consistently favored the government, and thereby prejudiced the rights of the sovereign people. Every case involving a judge with this kind of conflict of interest can only be described as violation of due process of law, which requires both an impartial jury AND judge to preside over the trial. The very problem documented in the Declaration of Independence that was the reason for creating this country to begin with has once again come back to haunt us:

"They have made Judges dependent on their will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries."
[Declaration of Independence]

An entire book has been written about the corruption of the federal judiciary and its nature as an Article IV, territorial court which enjoys no jurisdiction in states of the Union, if you wish to investigate further:

5.4.27.8 Manipulation, licensing, and coercion of CPA's, Payroll clerks, Tax Preparers, and Lawyers

The IRS maintains several "education programs" for tax preparers, tax professionals, payroll people, and CPAs, which have really become nothing but propaganda, disinformation, and terrorism mechanisms. Below are a few:

1. TaxTalk Today, Internal Revenue Service: A website devoted to "educating" tax attorneys, CPAs, and payroll people. See <http://www.taxtalktoday.tv/>
2. Tax Professionals Area: Area on their website devoted to propagandizing tax professionals. See: <http://www.irs.gov/taxpros/index.html>
3. Enrolled Agent Program: Described in Treasury Circular 230, this publication prescribes the requirements that tax professionals must meet in order to get "privileged", priority service from the IRS in the resolution of tax problems. Those who don't participate in the program and meet all the governments demands are put on hold forever on the telephone and ignored when they seek tax help in the resolution of problems for their clients. Undoubtedly, they must be "compliant" and not challenge the authority of the IRS, and when they don't, their "privilege" of participating is summarily revoked.

1 Can you see how insidious and devious this manipulation is? On top of the above, those tax professionals who reveal the
2 truth are threatened to have their licenses and CPA credentials pulled. This happened to former IRS Criminal Investigator
3 Joe Banister, who became the target of an attempt by the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend his CPA license because he
4 was informing people about the government fraud documented in this book. This same kind of illegal duress of tax
5 professionals also extends to those who left the IRS to speak out against the agency: They are persecuted and become the 6 target of media slander campaigns. If you would like to learn more about this type of devious manipulation, consult the

14 5.5 Why We Aren't Liable to File Tax Returns or Keep Records

15 5.5.1 It's illegal and impossible to “file” your own tax return!

17 If you ask the IRS at an audit exactly what it means to “file” a tax return and when that task is accomplished they will tell
18 you the following as they told us:

- 19 1. A return is only considered “filed” after a Document Locator Number (DLN) is assigned to it in the upper right corner.
- 20 2. The only person who can assign a Document Locator Number (DLN) to any document filed with the IRS is the clerk 21 processing a tax return that you have mailed in.
- 22 3. If you personally appeared at the processing center and asked to personally file the return yourself, they would tell you 23 that:
  - 24 3.1. They can't let you inside their facility.
  - 25 3.2. You aren't allowed to enter into the processing area where a DLN could be assigned because you would then have 26 access or display of sensitive Privacy Act information about other “taxpayers”, which is illegal.
- 27 4. If you asked an IRS agent to give you the next “DLN” to assign to your return so you could write it on the return yourself, 28 they would say they aren't authorized to.

29 Therefore, it is not only literally impossible for you to personally “file” a tax return document about yourself, but it is also
30 ILLEGAL to file the return yourself because it would violate the privacy of other “taxpayers” in the process because you
31 would have to be physically present inside the IRS processing facility, which is illegal. Consequently, the only person who 32 can “file” a tax return is the clerk who processes it on behalf of someone else.

33 Knowing the above concept, one of our readers actually used this knowledge in his favor at an IRS audit. He has a certified
34 transcript under oath of two IRS agents admitting on the record that it is illegal to “file” a tax return! It's hilarious and he 35 has it on tape! The agents were totally embarrassed and we recommend that you use this approach as well.

36 The above reader also took the knowledge in this section one step further. He filed two blank returns to the IRS. The first
37 one had in big black letters “NOT LIABLE” written across the return as required by IRS regulations. Then he attached to it
38 a blank return along with an IRS Form 2848 Power of Attorney and a letter stating that he had authority to prepare and sign 39 the return on behalf of him if the agent would:

- 40 1. Provide the statute making him “liable” to pay.
- 41 2. Provide a signed copy of his delegation order authorizing him to “assess” a tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A 42 against a person who doesn't volunteer to pay the tax.
- 43 3. Provide a photocopy of his Pocket Commission and his state driver's license.
- 44 4. Provide his real legal name and home address so he could be served with legal papers in the event that he didn't follow

46 Guess what the response of the IRS was to the above request? It took them almost two years to respond to the paperwork
47 they got and they never filed a return on behalf of the reader! Then the reader decided to prosecute the AGENT for “Willful

1 Failure to File" under 26 U.S.C. §7203! He decided to do this because it's literally impossible and illegal for him to personally
 2 "file" a tax return so he thought he better let the agent do it, and the agent couldn't prove that he had the lawful authority to
 3 do it even though he was given the responsibility to do it using the 2848 form. That made the IRS agent criminally liable for 4 Willful Failure to File. That's the same statute that the IRS tries to use to go after us, but we can use it to turn the tables on 5 them instead. Go get'em folks!

6 5.5.2 Why God says you can't file tax returns

7 The book of Isaiah 39 records the story of a Israelite King Hezekiah who had great riches and honor. Envoys from a faraway
 8 land of Babylon sent him letters of condolence while he was sick, hoping to sweet talk him out of his wealth. In response to 9 the flattering letters, King Hezekiah invited them to visit and when they visited, he thought he would show off and parade his 10 wealth by showing them all that he had. Here is the story:

11 The Babylonian Envoys

12 Babylonian Captivity of Judah Foretold

13 <sup>1</sup> At that time Merodach-Baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to 14 Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. <sup>2</sup>And Hezekiah was pleased with 15 them, and showed them the house of his treasures--the silver and gold, the spices and precious
 16 ointment, and all his armory--all that was found among his treasures. There was nothing in his house
 17 or in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

18 <sup>3</sup>Then [prophet] Isaiah the prophet went to King Hezekiah, and said to him, "What did these men 19 say, and from where did they come to you?"

20 So Hezekiah said, "They came to me from a far country, from Babylon."

21 <sup>4</sup>And he said, "What have they seen in your house?"

22 So Hezekiah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing among my 23 treasures that I have not shown them."

24 <sup>5</sup>Then Isaiah said to [King] Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: <sup>6</sup>Behold, the days are 25 coming when all that is in your house, and what your fathers have accumulated until this day,
 26 shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left,' says the LORD. <sup>7</sup>'And they shall take away
 27 some of your sons who will descend from you, whom you will beget; and they shall be eunuchs in 28 the palace of the king of Babylon."

29 <sup>8</sup>So Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good!" For he said,
 30 "At least there will be peace and truth in my days."
 31 [Isaiah 39, Bible, NKJV]

32 Subsequently, the prophet Isaiah's predictions were fulfilled in 2 Chron. 36:1-17. The moral of the above story is that those 33 who are not discreet and who do not protect their privacy and information about their wealth will not keep it for long, and 34 will be plundered by covetous people, governments, and nations.

35 Now let's apply these principles to your situation. Tax returns record EVERY aspect of your wealth and earnings, and report
 36 it to foreigners in a foreign state and a foreign jurisdiction called the District of Criminals. By reporting everything on your 37 tax return, you are inviting them to come and take it. You are "showing off" your wealth, which, according to the prophet
 38 Isaiah, is a grievous sin that will invite strife and subjection. Below are some additional Bible cites that confirm this
 39 conclusion:

40 "A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself [and his assets], 41 But the simple pass on and are punished [and plundered]."
 42 [Prov. 22:3, Bible, NKJV]

 44 <sup>6</sup>Those who trust in their wealth

1                   And boast [on a tax return to a bunch of criminal politicians and lawyer thieves] in the multitude of their
2                   riches,
3                   <sup>7</sup>None of them can by any means redeem his brother,
4                   Nor give to God a ransom for him—
5                   <sup>8</sup>For the redemption of their souls is costly,
6                   And it shall cease forever—
7                   <sup>9</sup>That he should continue to live eternally,
8                   And not see the Pit.
9                   <sup>10</sup>For he sees wise men die;
10                  Likewise the fool and the senseless person perish,
11                  And leave their wealth to others [foreigners in the District of Criminals].
13                  Their dwelling places to all generations;
16                  He is like the beasts that perish.
17                  <sup>13</sup>This is the way of those who are foolish,
18                  And of their posterity who approve their sayings. Selah
19                  <sup>14</sup>Like sheep they are laid in the grave;
20                  Death shall feed on them;
21                  The upright shall have dominion over them in the morning;
23                  <sup>15</sup>But God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave,
24                  For He shall receive me. Selah
25                  <sup>16</sup>Do not be afraid when one becomes rich,
26                  When the glory of his house is increased;
28                  His glory shall not descend after him.
29                  <sup>18</sup>Though while he lives he blesses himself
30                  (For men will praise you when you do well for yourself),
31                  <sup>19</sup>He shall go to the generation of his fathers;
32                  They shall never see light.
33                  <sup>20</sup>A man who is in honor, yet does not understand,
35                  [Psalm 49:6-20, Bible, NKJV]

36 Therefore, you CANNOT complete a tax return and send it to anyone in government, because it is against God's law. Such 37 an unwise act amounts to:

- 38 1. “boasting of your wealth” and invites strife and thievery by the government.
- 39 2. The perjury statement at the end of the return amounts to an oath of allegiance to your sovereign and protector, the 40 government. This is idolatry, because the government becomes your substitute God. Even the Supreme Court says that 41 the last oath you took determines who your real “sovereign” or false god is:

42                   “Citizenship is a political tie; allegiance is a territorial tenure. [. . .] The doctrine is, that allegiance [which is
43                   expressed by the taking of an oath on a tax return] cannot be due to two sovereigns [God v.
44                   mammon/government]; and taking an oath of allegiance to a new, is the strongest evidence of withdrawing

48                   upct/html/historics/USSC\_CR\_0003\_0133\_ZS.html]

49 Jesus, on the other hand, said that we cannot take oaths, which implies that we cannot sign the perjury oath at the end of 50 the tax return:

51                   “Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, “You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform your oaths
52                   to the Lord.’ But I say to you, do not swear at all: neither by heaven, for it is God's throne; nor by the earth,
53                   for it is His footstool; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. Nor shall you swear by your head,
54                   because you cannot make one hair white or black. But let your “Yes’ be “Yes,’ and your “No,’ “No.’ For
56                   [Matt. 5:33-37, Bible, NKJV]

57 If you do not heed these warnings in God's law, then the same fate that happened to the tribe of Judah in the Bible will happen
58 to you. Instead of the plunderer being “Babylon”, it will be the equivalent of Babylon, which is the District of Criminals,

60 5.5.3 You're Not a “U.S. citizen” If You File Form 1040, You're a “Alien”!

The Great  IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

The income tax is “imposed” in 26 U.S.C. §1 on statutory “U.S. citizens” (8 U.S.C. §1401), “residents” (who are only “aliens”), and “nonresident aliens”. 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 explains this section as follows:

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 Income tax on individuals

(a) General rule

(1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual...

The group of people called “citizens and residents” in the above regulation are called “U.S. persons” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). These people maintain a “domicile” within the District of Columbia. Later in the regulations, in section 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c), we find that the definition of “individual” means an “alien” or “nonresident alien”. Here’s the definition of “individual”:

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(e).

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701\(b\)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S. tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701\(b\)-1\(d\) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

By the way, don't be distracted by the title of the regulation above, because the titles mean nothing according to 26 U.S.C. Section 7806\(b\). The title says “foreign persons”, and in fact that's exactly what you declare yourself to be when you file a form 1040! Based on the preceding discussion, if you are a “U.S. citizen”, then there is only one occasion where you can also be an “individual”, and that occasion is when you are overseas and domiciled in a foreign country that is not a state of the Union. These people are called “U.S. citizens living abroad” in the IRS publications and if they volunteer to file a return, then they should file a 1040 with an attached 2555. What the code is really saying is that if you are in a foreign country that is not a state of the Union, then:

1. You are outside the protections of the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights, which are the first ten amendments to the Constitution, only applies inside states of the Union. See Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901).
2. It's perfectly constitutional to tax you while in a foreign country since rights to not apply and doing so would not violate any of your Constitutional rights.
3. When you are in a foreign country, you are an “alien” relative to that foreign country and chances are that you come under the provisions of an income tax treaty between the United States and that foreign country. Within the Internal Revenue Code, under such circumstances, you would be referred to as an “alien” even if you in fact were also a statutory “U.S. citizen”!

- 1 4. The reason that federal “citizens” can be taxed under the provisions of a treaty with a foreign country is because:
2 4.1. When “citizens” (under federal law, who are born in the District of Columbia and federal territories only) are abroad
3 and domiciled in a foreign country, they are subject to the laws of the federal United States. They have to be subject
4 in order to be under the protection of the government when traveling.
5 4.2. There is a cost to provide the protection that government provides to its citizens when overseas, and its reasonable
6 that they should pay for that cost.
- 7 5. In spite of all the above, since the Internal Revenue Code is not “positive law” and there is not liability statute for anyone 8 other than withholding agents in 26 U.S.C. §1461, then the payment of Subtitle A income taxes even by statutory “U.S.
9 citizens” or “residents” or “U.S. persons” temporarily abroad is still not compulsory or mandatory. The “U.S. citizen”
10 we are referring to here is a statutory citizen defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401, and that definition doesn't include most

13 “The question in the case, and which was presented by the demurrer to the declaration is, as expressed by 14 plaintiff, whether Congress has power to impose a tax upon income received by a native citizen of the United
15 States who, at the time the income was received, was permanently resident and domiciled in the city of Mexico,

17 “Plaintiff assigns against the power, not only his rights under the Constitution of the United States, but under 18 international law, and in support of the assignments cites many cases. It will be observed that the foundation of 19 the assignments is the fact that the citizen receiving the income and the property of which it is the product are 20 outside of the territorial limits of the United States. These two facts, the contention is, exclude the existence of the 21 power to tax. Or to put the contention another way, to the existence of the power and its exercise, the person
22 receiving the income and the property from which he receives it must both be within the territorial limits of the 23 United States to be within the taxing power of the United States. The contention is not justified, and that it is not
24 justified is the necessary deduction of recent cases. In United States v. Bennett, 232 U.S. 299, 34 Sup.Ct. 433,
25 the power of the United States to tax a foreign-built yacht owned and used during the taxing period outside of the 26 [265 U.S. 47, 55] United States by a citizen domiciled in the United States was sustained. The tax passed
27 on was imposed by a tariff act,<sup>2</sup> but necessarily the power does not depend upon the form by which it is exerted.

28 “It will be observed that the case contained only one of the conditions of the present case, the property taxed was 29 outside of the United States. In United States v. Golet, 232 U.S. 293, 34 Sup.Ct. 431, the yacht taxed was outside
30 of the United States, but owned by a citizen of the United States who was 'permanently resident and domiciled in 31 a foreign country.' It was decided that the yacht was not subject to the tax-but this was a matter of construction.
32 Pains were taken to say that the question of power was determined 'wholly irrespective' of the owner's 'permanent
33 domicile in a foreign country,' and the court put out of view the situs of the yacht. That the court had no doubt of 34 the power to tax was illustrated by reference to the income tax laws of prior years and their express extension to 35 those domiciled abroad. The illustration has pertinence to the case at bar, for the case at bar is concerned with 36 an income tax, and the power to impose it.

37 “We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once in
38 United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations
39 upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered at 40 its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was pointed
41 [265 U.S. 47, 56] out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no
42 ground for constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of 43 powers which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty.'

44 “The contention was rejected that a citizen's property without the limits of the United States derives no benefit
45 from the United States. The contention, it was said, came from the confusion of thought in 'mistaking the scope
46 and extent of the sovereign power of the United States as a nation and its relations to its citizens and their relation
47 to it.' And that power in its scope and extent, it was decided, is based on the presumption that government by its
48 very nature benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and that opposition to it holds on to citizenship
49 while it 'belittles and destroys its advantages and blessings by denying the possession by government of an
50 essential power required to make citizenship completely beneficial.' In other words, the principle was declared
51 that the government, by its very nature, benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and therefore has
52 the power to make the benefit complete. Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and
53 cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor
54 was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States,
55 but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence
56 of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income
57 is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal-the government having power to impose the 58 tax.

1 So the question is, how can the IRS claim you owe anything under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A if you claim to be a
2 "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401? The answer is that it can ONLY happen when all of the following constraints apply:

- 3 1. You are either domiciled in the federal zone or living abroad, but not while you are in a state of the Union.
- 4 2. You filed a 1040 in the past and gave the IRS the mistaken impression that you were a "U.S. person" living abroad. If 5 you did not attach a Form 2555 to the form 1040, then you basically admitted to them that you are an "alien" domiciled
6 in the federal zone who has no constitutional rights, which you are perfectly entitled to do. Therefore, the IRS will
7 continue to think that you are a "alien" unless or until you notify them of your changed status by correcting all federal 8 paperwork that indicates your citizenship status, such as your passport application and SSA Form SS-5.
- 9 3. Even then, you must also volunteer to be a "taxpayer", because there is no liability statute requiring you to pay absent

11 When you fit the above constraints, you can be described as an "individual" under the Internal Revenue Code, which in most
12 cases is a "U.S. person" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) living abroad and coming under the provisions of an income
13 tax treaty with that foreign country pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911. That's why the IRS doesn't ask you on your 1040 income
14 tax return if you are a "U.S. citizen" but instead they put a title at the top of the form that says "U.S. Individual"! They are 15 indirectly asking you if you are either an "alien" domiciled in the federal zone (which are the only kinds of "residents" in the 16 code) or a statutory but not constitutional "U.S. citizen" living abroad who comes under an income tax treaty and is therefore 17 an "alien" under that treaty.

18 Those who declare themselves to be "U.S. individuals" by filing a form 1040 are declaring themselves to be either a
19 "nonresident alien" or an "alien" based on the definition of "individual" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) above, which is 20 the ONLY definition of "individual" anywhere in the Treasury Regulations, 26 C.F.R.. Now since the form 1040NR is filed
21 by "nonresident aliens" and since we must either be an "alien" to be a "U.S. individual" subject to income taxes, the only
22 thing we can be is an "Alien" under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) or a statutory "U.S.** citizen" abroad under 26 U.S.C.
23 §911(d) if we file a form 1040. Leave it to an IRS lawyer to figure out how to fool you into admitting that you are legally an 24 alien in your own country so that you can be taxed. Outrageous, isn't it?

25 The definition for "individual" that the government wants you to incorrectly assume, however, is that found in 5 U.S.C.

27 (2) the term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent
28 residence;

29 But this definition of "individual" is superseded by the only definition of "individual" found in the Treasury Regulations
30 found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 above. The whole purpose for providing a definition in a statute is to supersede the common 31 definition or other definitions.

32 The content of this section is confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1, which says the tax is "imposed" on "aliens" ONLY. Do you
33 see "citizens" mentioned anywhere in the following section(?):

34 NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES
35 DETERMINATION OF TAX LIABILITY
36 Tax on Individuals
37 Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

38 (a)(2)(ii) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, the tax imposed by section 1(d), as amended by 39 the Tax Reform Act of 1969, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business
40 in the United States by a married alien individual who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of 41 the taxable year or by a foreign estate or trust. For such years the tax imposed by section 1(c), as amended by 42 such Act, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United
43 States by an unmarried alien individual (other than a surviving spouse) who is a nonresident of the United 44 States for all or part of the taxable year. See paragraph (b)(2) of section 1.871-8." [26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii)]

45 Here's a definition from Black's Law Dictionary that confirms the findings of this section:

46 Resident alien. "One, not yet a citizen of this country, who has come into the country from another with the intent 47 to abandon his former citizenship and to reside here."
48 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition][Underlines added]

If you are a “national” but not a statutory “citizen”, then you are a “nonresident alien” and you DO NOT fit the description of being a “Resident alien” or an “alien” above because although you are not a statutory “U.S. citizen”, you do not reside or maintain a domicile within the federal United States or federal zone, which is the area that the term “resident” is relative to.

Finally, the Internal Revenue Code further confirms the content of this section. 26 U.S.C. §6091 confirms that statutory “citizens of the United States” described in 8 U.S.C. §1401 who reside outside the federal United States are not allowed to file their returns in a local IRS District Office or Service Center:

Sec. 6091. - Place for filing returns or other documents

When not otherwise provided for by this title, the Secretary shall by regulations prescribe the place for the filing of any return, declaration, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, required by this title or by regulations.

(b) Tax returns

In the case of returns of tax required under authority of part II of this subchapter -

(1) Persons other than corporations

(A) General rule

Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a return (other than a corporation return) shall be made to the Secretary -

(i) in the internal revenue district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the person making the return, or

(ii) at a service center serving the internal revenue district referred to in clause (i), as the Secretary may by regulations designate.

(B) Exception

Returns of -

(i) persons who have no legal residence or principal place of business in any internal revenue district,

(ii) citizens of the United States whose principal place of abode for the period with respect to which the return is filed is outside the United States,

(iii) persons who claim the benefits of section 911 (relating to citizens or residents of the United States living abroad), section 931 (relating to income from sources within Guam, American Samoa, or the Northern Mariana Islands), or section 933 (relating to income from sources within Puerto Rico),

(iv) nonresident alien persons, and

(v) persons with respect to whom an assessment was made under section 6851(a) or 6852(a) (relating to termination assessments) with respect to the taxable year, shall be made at such place as the Secretary may by regulations designate.

The term “United States” above, means the federal zone, as we explained earlier in chapter 4. Consequently, if a “citizen of the United States”, who is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 (meaning a person born in a territory or possession of the United States or the District of Columbia) is domiciled in a state of the Union, he can't file his tax return at a District Office, because he:

1. Does not live within any Internal Revenue District.
2. Does not live in any federal judicial district either.
3. Does not live in the federal zone or federal “United States”.

1 Where would he file his return then? He would file it with the International Branch of the Internal Revenue Service located
 2 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. That is the place where all 1040NR forms are sent by “nonresident aliens” and also where all
 3 1040 forms that have an attached form 2555 are sent. The 1040 form with the attached 2555 form are used by “U.S. citizens”
 4 under 8 U.S.C. §1401 who are traveling overseas or who are within states of the Union and who choose to volunteer to donate
 5 to the government under the authority of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

6 5.5.4 You're NOT the “individual” mentioned at the top of the 1040 form if you are a “U.S. citizen” Domiciled in 7 the Federal “United States”**!

8 The term “individual” is never defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code but appears at the top of the 1040 form “U.S.
 9 Individual Income Tax Return” and is mentioned also in 26 U.S.C. §1 and 26 U.S.C. §6012(a) . 26 U.S.C. §6012(a) is the 10 section of the I.R.C. that most lawyers and the IRS will tell you creates an obligation to file a “return of income”. So who is 11 this “individual”? Here is the only definition, hidden deep inside the Treasury regulations in a place you would never think
 12 to look, which we only found after we bought the regulations in searchable electronic CD-ROM form and did a search of the 13 entire 20,000 pages of regulations:

14 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

15 (c) Definitions

16 (3) Individual.

17 (i) Alien individual.

18 The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec.
 19 1.1-1(c).

 21 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

22 (c) Definitions

23 (3) Individual.

24 (ii) Nonresident alien individual.

25 The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who
 26 are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701\(b\)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S.
 27 tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern
 28 Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701\(b\)-1\(d\) of this
 29 chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or \(h\) to be treated as a resident of 30 the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under 31 chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

32 The above definition is the ONLY definition of the term “individual” found ANYWHERE in either the Internal Revenue
 33 Code or the Regulations. The above definition ought to raise some BIG red flags! First of all, if you live in the [federal]
 34 United States** as a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, then you aren't an “individual” because the 35 definition of “individual” doesn't include citizens of the United States**! If you are an alien, that is a person who is neither
 36 a citizen nor a national of the United States, who is domiciled in the federal United States**, then you are an individual. That 37 also makes you a “resident” because the terms “alien”, “resident alien”, and “resident” are all synonymous in the Internal 38 Revenue Code. For confirmation of this fact, examine 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) discussed in the previous section.

39 Therefore, the tax code can't apply to you even if you claim to be a U.S.** citizen on a 1040 income tax return! That is why
 40 they don't ask you if you are a “U.S. citizen” on the tax return and only say at the top “U.S. Individual!” This is consistent
 41 with our findings elsewhere in this chapter. It also explains why a U.S. citizen is defined as someone who lives in the Virgin
 42 Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico, or American Samoa, as follows:

43 26 C.F.R. §31.3121\(e\)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

You therefore can't be a "individual" who can be the subject of Subtitle A income taxes under 26 U.S.C. §1 unless you are:

1. A statutory "U.S. citizen" temporarily OUTSIDE the "United States*" (the country, which is called "abroad" in IRS publications) under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)
2. A statutory "U.S. resident" (alien) as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) domiciled in the federal zone and temporarily outside the "United States*" the country.
3. A statutory "U.S. person" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) temporarily outside the "United States*" the country but domiciled in the federal zone.

That's why they created a definition of statutory "U.S. citizen" that means you are living outside the United States* (in the Virgin Islands) so they can "pretend" that you are taxable! That way, even when you tell them you live in the "United States" by giving them an address in the 50 Union states on your tax return, they can still claim that you live in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands because of your status as a "U.S. citizen"! This whole scheme can be confirmed by ordering a copy of your non-sanitized Individual Master File (IMF) from the IRS and looking at the transaction codes on the IMF. If you look at your IMF and you have been filing 1040 forms for a while, chances are your record reflects that you reside in the Virgin Islands, even if you really have a domicile in one of the 50 Union states outside the federal zone! That's why the IRS made the Publication 6209, which is used for decoding the IMF file, "For Official Use Only", which is short for "Don't let Citizen bastards get their hands on this at all costs!". They know they are committing fraud and they don't want you, the Citizen, to know the horrible truth and expose that fraud, because then they lose their ability to claim "plausible deniability".

Even more interesting is the fact that form 1040NR is intended for nonresident aliens. The only type of "individual" not covered by the 1040NR is the "Alien". Therefore, the 1040 form is intended for "Aliens". How does it feel to be an "alien" in your own country? Leave it to greedy lawyers to dream up this kind of scam using definitions to fool you into paying taxes. The definition of Alien above excludes U.S. citizens or "nationals", so you have to in effect commit fraud by declaring yourself to be a foreigner domiciled in the federal zone in order to be the subject of the income tax.

The next time you file a Form 1040 as the "national" that you rightfully are, consider that you are committing "fraud" by claiming to be a "U.S. Individual". Your employer is also committing fraud on the W-2 he sends to you by claiming in Block 2 that you earn "wages", which you will find out later in section 5.6.5 means that you are an elected or appointed employee of the federal government and who comes under the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939! No kidding!

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you don't believe an "individual" can only be defined as an "alien" or "nonresident alien" as above or that the above definition is the only definition of "individual" anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code" or 26 C.F.R., then we challenge you to find a definition in either of these two titles (not IRS Publications, which we will find out later are a fraud, but the statutes, which aren't "positive law" by the way) that defines the word "individual" as also including "U.S. citizens" or "citizens of the United States". We searched the entire I.R.C. and 26 C.F.R. (20,000 pages) electronically and found NO other definitions! Furthermore, we challenge you to explain why the 1040 income tax form doesn't say "U.S. Citizen or Resident" instead of "U.S. Individual" at the top of the form!

5.5.5 No Law Requires You to Keep Records

26 U.S.C. §6001 states the following:

TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
 Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
 CHAPTER 61 - INFORMATION AND RETURNS
 Subchapter A - Returns and Records
 PART I - RECORDS, STATEMENTS, AND SPECIAL RETURNS

Sec. 6001. Notice or regulations requiring records, statements, and special returns

Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe. Whenever in the judgment of the Secretary it is necessary, he may require any person, by notice served upon such person or by regulations, to make such returns, render such statements, or keep such records, as the Secretary deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable for tax under this title.

The only records which an employer shall be required to keep under this section in connection with charged tips shall be charge receipts, records necessary to comply with section 6053(c), and copies of statements furnished by employees under section 6053(a).

If you look through all of the regulations pertaining to Subtitles A and C income taxes in the Internal Revenue Code, you will not find a single regulation requiring you to keep records to comply with the requirements of the code. The only thing records are needed for is to justify exemptions claimed during an examination or audit. The purpose of examinations and audits by the IRS is to exclude exemptions and thereby increase the amount of tax owed by the person being audited. However, if you don't have any taxable income because your income does not fall in the category of corporate profits (as a corporation, because the income tax is only legal as an indirect excise tax) as identified later in section 5.6.1, then you don't have to worry about exemptions so you don't have to worry about records either, unless specifically notified personally by the Secretary of the Treasury or by someone who can show you a delegation of authority order authorizing him or her to act in their behalf! If an IRS agent asks you to bring your records to an examination, you can safely tell him you were never notified personally by the Secretary of the Treasury that you were required to keep records. For examples under the Internal Revenue Code that require the keeping of records, refer to the following:

- 26 U.S.C. §4403 Record Requirements (Taxes on Wagering)
- 26 U.S.C. §5114 Records (Excise taxes on alcohol)
- 26 U.S.C. §5124 Records (Records on all distilled spirits received)
- 26 U.S.C. §5741 Records to be maintained (Records required for manufacturers of tobacco products)

Another interesting fact, is that the 1040 form constitutes a record in and of itself, which then points to the assumption of the existence of other records or evidence you have documenting the numbers on the form. If you can't be required to maintain records, then why can you be required to file a tax return!

5.5.6 Federal courts have NO authority to enforce criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code to crimes committed outside the federal zone

26 U.S.C. §7402(f) is the only place that describes the jurisdiction of the federal district courts of the United States to enforce the Internal Revenue Code. It states:

For general jurisdiction of the district courts of the United States in civil actions involving internal revenue, see Section 1340 of Title 28 of the United States Code.

Thus it is plain that district courts were only given jurisdiction to hear "civil actions"—not criminal ones—as far as the Internal Revenue Code is concerned. Even for "civil actions," the Code refers to the jurisdiction contained in 28 U.S.C. §1340, the United States Code of Civil Procedure. This alone proves that all trials involving alleged criminal violations of the Code by persons domiciled outside the federal zone, including those under 26 U.S.C. §7201 (tax evasion) and 7203 (willful failure to file) were and are illegal, and that federal judges never had jurisdiction to conduct them!

It is well-established that in order for the U.S. government to prosecute a person for a crime, the crime must be committed on federal property subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution. The burden of proof belongs to the federal government to demonstrate using a preponderance of evidence that the crime was committed on federal property that was ceded to the U.S. government by the state. Proof must consist of the cession documents. You can find more information about this concept in 40 U.S.C. §3112:

(a) Exclusive Jurisdiction Not Required.— It is not required that the Federal Government obtain exclusive jurisdiction in the United States over land or an interest in land it acquires.

(b) Acquisition and Acceptance of Jurisdiction.— When the head of a department, agency, or independent establishment of the Government, or other authorized officer of the department, agency, or independent establishment, considers it desirable, that individual may accept or secure, from the State in which land or an interest in land that is under the immediate jurisdiction, custody, or control of the individual is situated, consent to, or cession of, any jurisdiction over the land or interest not previously obtained. The individual shall indicate acceptance of jurisdiction on behalf of the Government by filing a notice of acceptance with the Governor of the State or in another manner prescribed by the laws of the State where the land is situated.

(c) Presumption.—It is conclusively presumed that jurisdiction has not been accepted until the Government accepts jurisdiction over land as provided in this section.

To give you some examples, in United States v. Bateman, 34 F. 86 (N.D.Cal. 1888), it was determined that the United States did not have jurisdiction to prosecute for a murder committed at the Presidio because California had never ceded jurisdiction; see also United States v. Tully, 140 F. 899 (D.Mon. 1905). But later, California ceded jurisdiction for the Presidio to the United States, and it was held in United States v. Watkins, 22 F.2d. 437 (N.D.Cal. 1927), that this enabled the U.S. to maintain a murder prosecution; see also United States v. Holt, 168 F. 141 (W.D.Wash. 1909), United States v. Lewis, 253 F. 469 (S.D.Cal. 1918), and United States v. Wurtzbarger, 276 F. 753 (D.Or. 1921). Because the U.S. owned and had a state cession of jurisdiction for Fort Douglas in Utah, it was held that the U.S. had jurisdiction for a rape prosecution in Rogers v. Squier, 157 F.2d. 948 (9th Cir. 1946). But, without a cession, the U.S. has no jurisdiction; see Arizona v. Manypenny, 445 F.Supp. 1123 (D.Ariz. 1977).

It stands to reason then, that no federal tax crime can be prosecuted in a federal court which did not occur on federal property subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the United States under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17. The only exception to this rule with respect to taxes are those which come under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution dealing with foreign (overseas) commerce, since this is a specific power or subject matter delegated to the federal government in the constitution and it applies throughout the country and on nonfederal land within the 50 Union states:

Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3

The Congress shall have Power ...To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;

It is precisely the above clause of the constitution that explains, later in this chapter, most of the taxable sources of income found in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f), when we discuss the 861 Position in section 5.6.10 and following.

Federal courts rightly say that federal tax crimes don't require implementing regulations to enforce. Here is an example:

[U.S. v. Bartrug, E.D.Va.1991, 777 F.Supp. 1290, affirmed 976 F.2d. 727, certiorari denied 113 S.Ct. 1659, 507 U.S. 1010, 123 L.Ed.2d. 278]*

The reason the federal courts are completely correct in the above conclusion is because the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code found in 26 U.S.C. §6700 and 7201-7217 only apply to federal "employees" acting in their official capacity, which almost exclusively occurs on federal property under the requirements of 4 U.S.C. §§71 & 72. . Here is the main reason why this is true:

TITLE 44 > CHAPTER 15 > Sec. 1505.
Sec. 1505. - Documents to be published in Federal Register

(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

There shall be published in the Federal Register -

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect.

When no implementing regulations are published in the Federal Register for any law that institutes a penalty that can adversely affect the Constitutional rights of a person domiciled in states of the Union and outside of federal territory, the law may not

1 be enforced against anything but federal “employees”, “officers”, and “agents” acting in their official capacity on federal
2 territory. The implementing regulations for Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code confirm this:

3 26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication and public inspection

5 Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in
6 subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not
7 required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not
8 incorporated by reference therein pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph. Thus, for example, any 9 such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference will not
10 adversely change or affect a person's rights.

11 When the Department of INjustice attempts to illegally and maliciously prosecute you for “Failure to File”, they will use your 12 incorrectly submitted IRS Form W-4 as prima facie evidence that you are a federal “employee”, because it says “employee”
13 in the upper left corner. When they do this, they have violated your due process rights because even though you swore under 14 penalty of perjury that you were an “employee” on the incorrect IRS Form W-4, they still are not allowed to presume that it
15 is true until they actually prove it, and if you are smart, you will submit an affidavit with your pleading which rescinds or 16 revokes your signatures on any such forms whenever you send correspondence to the IRS and whenever you file any kind of 17 motion as a criminal defendant in such an action. We also show in sections 3.5.3.14 and 3.5.4.13 and the Tax Fraud
18 Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 how to use the W-8 form instead of the IRS Form W-4 to stop withholding, and to use a 19 version of the form that does not create any false presumptions about your true status as a “non-resident non-person” and a 20 “nontaxpayer”.

21 Within the 50 Union states, the ONLY federal crimes which can be prosecuted in a federal court that occurred outside of the 22 territorial jurisdiction of the federal government are the following, all of which require implementing regulations if prosecuted
23 against persons who are not federal “employees”:

- 24 1. Federal government espionage.
- 25 2. Federal government sabotage.
- 26 3. Destruction of federal property.
- 27 4. Interference with the mail.
- 28 5. Frauds on the federal government.
- 29 6. Violations of Constitutional rights by either state or federal employees or officials.
- 30 7. Crimes involving federal insurance (such as FDIC).
- 31 8. Excise tax violations involving foreign commerce (Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution).
- 32 9. Slavery and enticement into slavery (Thirteenth Amendment).

33 For further details on the limits of the jurisdiction of the federal courts, refer to sections 7.4 through 7.4.10 in the Tax Fraud
34 Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

35 5.5.7 Objections to Filing Based on Rights

36 The Bill of Rights is a series of amendments to the original U.S. Constitution that serve to constrain the authority of the 37 federal government over citizens. They establish certain civil rights which may not be violated by the government. The first
38 ten amendments were ratified as part of the original Constitution, and subsequent amendments were added after the union of 39 the first Thirteen Colonies was formed. The First, Fourth, Fifth, and Tenth Amendments clearly eliminate any possibility
40 that the federal government can compel or force us to file tax returns. We summarize our findings here:

| Fourth           | The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Filing of tax returns violates our privacy and the security of our papers and effects, most notably our business records. It exposes them to undue and unwanted examination by the government. Compelled filing of tax returns creates a police state mentality in which we can get our own family members in criminal trouble for disclosing financial information about ourselves.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Fifth            | No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation. | The supreme Court ruled in Garner v. U.S. , 424 U.S. 648 (1976) that tax returns are the compelled testimony of a witness . Since the facts contained on them are submitted under penalty of perjury, they constitute evidence that can be used against a Citizen to prosecute him for criminal violation of the tax code. The Privacy Act warning in the 1040 booklet clearly states that the tax returns are provided to the Department of Justice, whose only function is criminal prosecution. Clearly then, the filing of tax returns cannot be compelled or it would violate the Fifth Amendment. Likewise, the withholding of one's income from one's pay, which is property, cannot occur without the consent of the Citizen or it would constitute deprivation of property without due process. That is why employers cannot withhold income from pay without receiving a W-4 "Withholding Allowance Certificate" form from the employee. |
| Tenth            | The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Direct taxes on citizens can be used for any social purpose and "social engineering", to usurp the authority of the States. For instance, if a State passes a law permitting abortion and the federal government wants to outlaw abortion, then all the federal government has to do is establish a huge tax credit for people who don't have abortions. This clearly violates the Tenth Amendment.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

In accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court Case of Garner v. U.S., 424 U.S. 648 (1976), income tax returns are submitted under duress and coercion and constitute the "compelled testimony of a witness". Therefore, by the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, tax returns are inadmissible as evidence in a court of law because they violate the right of non-self-incrimination and were therefore obtained illegally as per the supreme Court case of Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914). Below is a list of some of the types of coercion applied to compel such witnesses to testify against themselves:

- 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax (up to $100,000 fine or imprisonment not more than 5 years along with attorney fees).
- 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful Failure to File (fine up to $25,000 or imprisonment for one year or both)
- Hundreds of different penalties for late filing or underpayment, as documented in Part 20 of the Internal Revenue Manual, available at: http://www.irs.gov/prod/bus\_info/tax\_pro/irm-part/part20.html

- 1 4. IRS Liens and levies being imposed for nonpayment of taxes.
- 2 5. Receipt of threatening mail communications from the IRS (e.g. CP-515 "Notice of Deficiency" and subsequent Notice
- 3 of Lien and Levy").
- 4 6. Constant anxiety from and harassment by IRS agents (by telephone and otherwise).

5 Remember that the essential aspect of being a "right" is that the free exercise of rights CANNOT be penalized, taxed, or 6 regulated in any way by the government. The above laws, however, indeed do precisely that and are therefore to be regarded
 7 as unconstitutional, illegal, null, and void and they should immediately be declared as such by all federal courts. The U.S.
 8 Constitution is and always has been the Supreme Law of the land, and it supersedes all other law. The below supreme Court
 9 case emphasizes constraints on treatment of the rights of citizens by both the government and individuals in Harman v.

11 "It has long been established that a State may not impose a penalty upon those who exercise a right guaranteed
 12 by the Constitution." Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of California, 271 U.S. 583. "Constitutional
 13 rights would be of little value if they could be indirectly denied,' Smith v. Allwright, 321 U.S. 649, 644, or 14 manipulated out of existence,' Gomillion v. Lightfoot, 364 U.S. 339, 345."
 15 [Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965)]

 17 waiver of rights is for the IRS to sign an "Immunity from Prosecution Letter" under 26 U.S.C. §§6002-6003. In the event an 18 authorized agent of the U.S. Government is willing to sign such an agreement for ALL future income tax returns having to 19 do with you, then you are encouraged to submit returns, if you owe tax of course, which is highly unlikely. If there is some 20 other way to avoid waiving rights without fear of criminal prosecution that is not documented here, then we invite your help 21 in showing us what that method is.

22 One of the most famous Fifth Amendment tax resistance proponents is William Conklin. For years, he has had a standing
 23 challenge, offering up to $100,000 to the first person who can show how a Citizen can file a tax return without waiving his 24 Fifth Amendment rights. He wrote a fascinating and excellent book about the subject called Why No One is Required to File
 25 Tax Returns, ISBN 1-891833-91-X, $21, copyright 1996, 2000. This book is available from Davidson Press, 21520 Yorba

33 5.5.8 We Don't Have to Sign Tax Returns Under Penalty of Perjury, Which Makes Them Worthless and Useless!<sup>173</sup>

34 The premise of this section is that there is no law pursuant to the Constitution of the United States that requires an individual
 35 to make and sign under penalties of perjury a Form 1040 tax return. Unless otherwise noted, the terms defined in this section
 36 are quoted from the Sixth Edition of Black's Law Dictionary. To readers who consider as unnecessary (or perhaps even an 37 affront to their intelligence) listing below the definitions of some simple legal terms, the writer extends his apologies and 38 states that by including them here he merely wishes to preclude any effort on the part of potential gainsayers who think they 39 can refute the logical and legal premise of this work.

40 5.5.8.1 Definitions

41 "Affiant. The person who makes and subscribes an affidavit."

42 "Affidavit. A written or printed declaration of facts, made voluntarily, and confirmed by the oath or affirmation
 43 of the party making it, taken before a person having authority to administer such oath or affirmation. ....See also 44 Certification; Jurat; Verification." (The word "voluntarily" has been emphasized by the author.)

1 "Authority. Permission. Right to exercise powers; to implement and enforce laws; to exact obedience; to
2 command; to judge. Control over; jurisdiction. Often synonymous with power. The power delegated by a principal
3 to his agent."

4 "Belief. A conviction of the truth of a proposition, existing subjectively in the mind, and induced by argument,
5 persuasion, or proof addressed to the judgment." (Italics added.)

6 "Certification. The formal assertion in writing of some fact. The act of certifying or state of being certified."

7 "Confession. A voluntary statement made by a person charged with the commission of a crime or misdemeanor,
8 communicated to another person, wherein he acknowledges himself to be guilty of the offense charged, and 9 discloses the circumstances of the act or the share and participation which he had in it. See 18 U.S.C.A. § 3501."
10 (Italics added for emphasis.)

11 "Confessions, admissibility of. Subsections (d) and (e) of Title 18 U.S.C.A. § 3501 read as follows: "(d) Nothing
12 contained in this section shall bar the admission of any confession made or given voluntarily by any person to
13 any other person without interrogation by anyone, or at any time the person who made or gave such confession
14 was not under arrest or other detention. (e) As used in this section, 'confession' means any confession of guilt of 15 any criminal offense or any self-incriminating statement made or given orally or in writing." (Italics added.)
16 Subsections (d) and (e) of the U.S. Code are quoted to show that the legal definition of "confession" is not
17 restricted or applied solely to persons "charged with the commission of a crime or misdemeanor."

18 "Fraud on court. A scheme to interfere with judicial machinery performing task of impartial adjudication, as by 19 preventing opposing party from fairly presenting his case or defense. ....It consists of conduct so egregious that 20 it undermines the integrity of the judicial process."

21 "Individual. As a noun, this term denotes a single person as distinguished from a group or class, and also, very 22 commonly, a private or natural person as distinguished from a partnership, corporation or association...."

23 "Intimidation. Unlawful coercion; extortion; duress; putting in fear. To take, or attempt to take, 'by intimidation'
24 means willfully to take, or attempt to take, by putting in fear of bodily harm. Such fear must arise from the willful
25 conduct of the accused, rather than from some mere temperamental timidity of the victim; however, the fear of 26 the victim need not be so great as to result in terror, panic, or hysteria."

27 "Involuntary confession. Confession is 'involuntary' if it is not the product of an essentially free and unrestrained
28 choice of its maker or where maker's will is overborne at the time of the confession. [Citation omitted.] Term
29 refers to confessions that are extracted by any threats of violence, or obtained by direct or implied promises, or 30 by exertion of improper influence. [Citation omitted.]"

31 "Jurat. Certificate of officer or person before whom writing was sworn to. In common use term is employed to 32 designate certificate of competent administering officer that writing was sworn to by person who signed it. The 33 clause written at the foot of an affidavit, stating when, where, and before whom such affidavit was sworn."

34 "Knowledge. Acquaintance with fact or truth."

35 "Perjury. In criminal law, the willful assertion as to a matter of fact, opinion, belief, or knowledge, made by a 36 witness in a judicial proceeding as part of his evidence, either upon oath or in any form allowed by law to be
37 substituted for an oath, whether such evidence is given in open court, or in an affidavit, or otherwise, such
38 assertion being material to the issue or point of inquiry and known to such witness to be false." (Italics added.)

39 "Prima facie evidence. Evidence good and sufficient on its face. Such evidence as, in the judgment of the law, is 40 sufficient to establish a given fact, or the group or chain of facts constituting the party's claim of defense, and
41 which if not rebutted or contradicted, will remain sufficient. Evidence which, if unexplained or uncontradicted,
42 is sufficient to sustain a judgment in favor of the issue which it supports, but which may be contradicted by other 43 evidence."

44 "Proceeding.....An act which is done by the authority or direction of the court, agency, or tribunal, express or 45 implied; an act necessary to be done in order to obtain a given end; a prescribed mode of action for carrying into 46 effect a legal right."

47 "Subpoena. A subpoena is a command to appear at a certain time and place to give testimony upon a certain 48 matter. A subpoena duces tecum requires production of books, papers and other things."

49 "Summons. Instrument used to commence a civil action or special proceeding and is the means of acquiring
50 jurisdiction over a party. [Cite omitted.] Writ or process directed to the sheriff or other proper officer, requiring 51 him to notify the person named that an action has been commenced against him in the court from where the 52 process issues, and that he is required to appear, on a day named and answer the complaint in such action."

1                   "Verification. Confirmation of correctness, truth, or authenticity, by affidavit, oath, or deposition." Affidavit of
2                   truth of matter stated and object of verification is to assure good faith in averments or statements of party."

4                   [Cites omitted.] Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person.
5                   Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation."

6                   "Willful. Proceeding from a conscious motion of the will; voluntary; knowingly; deliberate. Intending the result
7                   which actually comes to pass; designed; intentional; purposeful; not accidental or involuntary."

8                   "Witness, n. In general, one who, being present, personally sees or perceives a thing; a beholder, spectator, or 9                   eyewitness. ....A person whose declaration under oath (or affirmation) is received as evidence for any purpose,
10                   whether such declaration be made on oral examination or by deposition or affidavit. Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 1878.

12                   "Witness tampering. The Federal Victim and Witness Protection Act prohibits the intimidation and harassment
13                   of witnesses before they testify, as well as prohibiting retaliation, or threats of retaliation, against witnesses after 14                   they testify. 18 U.S.C.A. §1512-1515."

15   5.5.8.2    Exegesis

16   The jurat of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form 1040 reads in relevant part:

17                   "Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and
18                   statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct and complete." (Italics added.)

19   The U.S. Supreme Court in Garner v. United States, 424 U.S. 648 (1976) stated that:

20                   "The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for purposes of Fifth
21                   Amendment analysis, the testimony of a 'witness,' as that term is used herein."

22   Rule 603 of the Federal Rules of Evidence (Fed.R.Evid.) states:

23                   "Before testifying, every witness shall be required to declare that he will testify truthfully, by oath or affirmation
24                   administered in a form calculated to awaken his conscience and impress his mind with his duty to do so." (Italics 25                   added.)

26   The jurat of Form 1040 establishes the premise here defended that the tax return to which the jurat refers is by law (26 U.S.C.
27   §7206) intended to be voluntarily completed and signed under the penalties of perjury. This is a simple observation derived
28   from the text of the jurat and the legal terms herein defined. Clearly, the self-assessment of income taxes by making a Form
29   1040 return under penalties of perjury is voluntary because the act of signing any affidavit or document that subjects its affiant
30   to the penalties of perjury must by law be willful. Obviously, a coerced statement though by signed jurat purports it was made
31   under penalties of perjury is nevertheless a fraudulent statement. It is not the rule of law or the payment of taxes that is here
32   protested but a rule of intellectual tyranny invented by corrupt bureaucrats and judges who under color of law (such as 26
33   U.S.C. §§ 6702, 7203) penalize individuals when they fail or refuse--without being subpoenaed--to testify on Form 1040 and 34   sign its decreed jurat that falsely purports that the form was made and signed willfully (the word means voluntarily) under 35   penalties of perjury.

36   Thus, it cannot be overly emphasized that the lawful signing of the Form 1040 jurat is premised upon the "knowledge and 37   belief" of the individual who willfully signs it and thereby certifies that he or she understands and agrees with the 38   governmentally prescribed information on the tax return to which the jurat refers. How many people can honestly state that 39   they have read even one page of the Internal Revenue Code upon which their completed 1040 form is presumably based?
40   The author has studied the tax code for over ten years and has discovered nothing in it that requires any person acting in his 41   or her capacity as an individual to file a completed Form 1040 that must be signed under penalties of perjury. However, the 42   author did discover a statute that prohibits or stops him from making and validating under penalties of perjury the information
43   that the IRS commissioner states must appear on a Form 1040 tax return--that statute is 26 U.S.C. §7206. Simply put,
44   government is not free to dictate to individuals what "we the people" must believe in order to be able to make and verify
45   under penalties of perjury a governmentally prescribed document that is based upon the term "gross income," as defined by 46   Congress in § 61(a) of the tax code.

1 Moreover, the common law requires that an oath be meaningful to the witness who takes the oath and this principle underpins
2 Rule 603 of the Fed.R.Evid. See U.S. v. Ward 973 F.2d. 730 (9th Cir. 1992). This principle is applicable to jurors as well,
3 i.e., a jurat must be crafted so as to be meaningful to its potential affiant. Thus, an oath or jurat based upon a religious belief
4 in an Almighty God as a test of an atheist's honesty makes no sense at all. Likewise, it is absurd and a corruption of law for
5 the IRS and the courts to force individuals to declare "under penalties of perjury" that they owe taxes which they do not know
6 and believe they owe. It must be obvious to all but the most obtuse or predisposed minds that a Form 1040 jurat that was
7 signed under coercion but which purports it was signed under penalties of perjury is a fraudulent document. A statement or 8 Form 1040 jurat signed because of coercion by a federal agency (i.e., the IRS) is no more valid than a confession that was
9 beaten out of a person by the local police. Confessions and affidavits are defined as voluntary documents, and therefore no
10 person acting in his or her own natural capacity may be logically or legally required to make or sign them, by whatever name
11 they are called. The New York Times reported (July 5, 1995) that IRS Commissioner Margaret Milner Richardson said that 12 "in IRS usage, the term 'voluntary compliance' referred to filling out tax forms, not to paying taxes." Having said that and if
13 it reflects what Commissioner Richardson believes, why does she penalize individuals or have them prosecuted as criminals
14 for not filling out tax forms? After explaining to an IRS agent why my knowledge and belief preclude me from 15 conscientiously and legally signing the jurat of a 1988 Form 1040, the agent replied (a promise?) that if I would sign the jurat
16 anyway, the IRS would not prosecute me for perjury. Now that's one for Ripley's Believe it or Not!

17 It is a rule of law that any doubt about the truth of a person's testimony given under oath or by affidavit is a question of fact
18 for a jury to decide. The Supreme Court in Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192 (1991), stated:

19 "Knowledge and belief are characteristically questions for the factfinder, in this case the jury." (See also United 20 States v. Burton, 737 F.2d. 439 (5th Cir. 1984).

21 Thus, any question about whether testimony by affidavit is the truth is for a jury to decide unless the affiant waives this right.
22 Where testimony of a relevant affidavit is not questioned, it must be accepted in evidence as factually true.

23 There are only two lawful ways for a person to testify before governmental bodies or agencies such as grand juries, the 24 Internal Revenue Service, courts of law, etc. One way is by command, whether it be by subpoena, subpoena duces tecum or 25 by direct command (order) of a court after the court has gained jurisdiction over a party through the operation of a summons.
26 In all such cases the command must name or be directed to the specific person whose testimony is sought. Subpoenas are 27 authoritative, legal commands to persons requiring them to testify as witnesses and subpoenas duces tecum are legal 28 commands to persons requiring them to produce "books, papers and other things." The only other lawful way to testify or to 29 produce "books, papers and other things" is to do so voluntarily.

30 Justice Hugo Black declared in U.S. v. Kahriger, 345 U.S. 22 (1953) that, "The United States has a system of taxation by 31 confession." (Italics added). Of course compelled confessions are not legal under the Constitution which is why Congress
32 mandated the inclusion of the jurat on Form 1040, thus informing the jurat's potential affiant that unless he/she knows and 33 believes the governmentally defined and preordained answers to the form's prescribed questions are correct, complete and
34 true, then the individual acting in his/her personal capacity may not be required to sign the jurat under any statute or regulation.
35 Justice Black did not state the nature of the confession by which the self-assessment of income taxes is made but any legal 36 confession must be "voluntary," Bram v. United States, 168 U.S. 532 (1897), and "the product of a rational intellect and a 37 free will," Townsend v. Sain, 372 U.S. 293 (1963).

38 Moreover, the Supreme Court in Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960), admitted the nature of the tax return confession
39 when it ruled that:

40 "Our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint." (Italics added).

41 These are not idle words as the Court ruled in United States v. Mason, 412 U.S. 391 (1973), that under the doctrine of stare

43 "the people have a right to rely upon the decisions of this Court and not be needlessly penalized for such reliance."

44 Clearly, the federal government's coercing of individuals--through the use of fear, intimidation, threats of prison sentences
45 and heavy penalties--to get them to complete and sign tax forms that falsely purport they were made and signed under 46 penalties of perjury is as unconstitutional if not quite as brutal as policemen beating signed, involuntary confessions out of 47 people. How valid or credible is testimony when given involuntarily to satisfy public officials and when based upon the 48 tyranny of mind and/or body? Remembering that the Supreme Court in Garner (supra) stated that:

1 "The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for purposes of Fifth
2 Amendment analysis, the testimony of a 'witness,'"

3 It is obvious that absent an individual's having been served a subpoena to testify on a Form 1040 or served a subpoena duces
4 tecum to produce a Form 1040 tax return or ordered by a court to file one, the individual is under no legal compulsion or duty
5 to do so. See also Wigmore on Evidence, McNaughton. rev., at 378, 379.

6 5.5.8.3 Conclusion

7 The making and signing under penalties of perjury of a Form 1040 return is dependent upon the "knowledge and belief" of 8 its potential affiant and inasmuch as individuals under the First Amendment enjoy the rights to freedom of conscience,
9 knowledge and belief and to the expression thereof, it is clear that the filing of a completed and legally validated Form 1040
10 tax return rests upon its voluntary subscription in "compliance with the tax code," of which § 7206 of the Internal Revenue
11 Code is a part. The definition of perjury supports the proposition that the crime of perjury is based upon the willful assertion
12 or affirmation--known to a witness to be false--of a fact, belief, or knowledge, made by the witness in a judicial proceeding
13 such as an open court or by affidavit for potential presentation to courts as admissible evidence. The IRS coerces individuals 14 by fear, intimidation, threats of penalties and criminal prosecution (and sometimes by implied promises not to prosecute
15 them) to complete and sign prescribed, Form 1040 "taxation by confession" documents that euphemistically are called "self-
16 assessed tax returns" under the ruse that they are voluntarily completed and signed and thereby subject their affiants to the 17 penalties of perjury. This method of assessing and collecting taxes is a monumental fraud perpetrated upon the people under 18 the guise of law; it is unconstitutional because it is fraudulent, if for no other reason. This deceptive practice is not the practice
19 of law but of intellectual tyranny and witness tampering. When the government forces millions of individuals to file
20 prescribed, Form 1040 testimony under a prescribed jurat that falsely purports that it was signed under penalties of perjury
21 and such testimony is used against the individuals in courts of law that accept these coerced returns as certified evidence of 22 what the individuals as witnesses "know and believe" (about a complex tax code that most of them have never read and about 23 which even judges differ), can any reasonable person doubt the absurdity, the duplicity, the invalidity and the 24 unconstitutionality of the Form 1040 involuntary confession of taxation?

25 5.5.9 1040 and Especially 1040NR Tax Forms Violate the Privacy Act and Therefore Need Not be Submitted

26 The Privacy Act of 1974 and subsequent amendments places stringent requirements on all paper forms that the federal 27 government produces and distributes to the public. Among the laws regarding privacy is Public Law 96-511, which states
28 the following relative to forms provided to the public by the federal government:

29 [It] "requires all information requests of the public to display a control number, an expiration date, and
30 indicate why the information is needed, how it will be used, and whether it is a voluntary or mandatory request.
31 Requests which do not reflect a current OMB control number or fail to state why not, are 'bootleg'<sup>174</sup> requests 32 and may be ignored by the public".

33 If you examine the IRS Forms 1040 and 1040NR, they do NOT meet these criteria. Below is a summary of the problems
34 with these forms as they relate to the Privacy Act of 1974:

35 5.5.9.1 IRS Form 1040

39 "The IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, the Privacy Act of 1974, and Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980
40 require that when we ask you for information we must first tell you our legal right to ask for the information, why
41 we are asking for it, and how it will be used. We must also tell you what could happen if we do not receive it and 42 whether your responsibility is voluntary, required to obtain a benefit, or mandatory under the law.

1 This notice applies to all papers you file with us, including this tax return. It also applies to any questions we
2 need to ask you so we can complete, correct, or prove your return; figure your tax; and collect tax, interest, or

4 Our legal right to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a) and their
5 regulations. They say that you must file a return or statement with us for any tax you are liable for. Your
6 response is mandatory under these sections [but only if you owe tax!]. Code section 6109 requires that you
7 provide your social security number or individual identification number on what you file. This is so we know
8 who you are, and can process your return and other papers. You must fill in all parts of the tax form that apply
9 to you. But you do not have to check the boxes for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund or for authorizing
10 the IRS to discuss your return with the paid preparer shown. You also do not have to provide your daytime phone 11 number.

12 You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction
13 Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions
14 must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of the Internal Revenue
15 law.

16 We ask for tax return information to carry out the tax laws of the United States. We need it to figure out and 17 collect the right amount of tax.

18 If you do not file a return, do not provide the information we ask for, or provide fraudulent information, you may 19 be charged penalties and be subject to criminal prosecution. We may also have to disallow the exemptions,
20 exclusions, credits, deductions, or adjustments shown on the tax return. This could make the tax higher or delay
21 any refund. Interest may be charged.

22 Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as stated in Code section 6103. However, Code
23 section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information shown on your 24 tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the 25 Department of Justice, to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, and to cities, states, the District of 26 Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their tax laws. We 27 may disclose your tax information to the Department of Treasury and contractors for tax administration purposes;
28 and to other persons as necessary to obtain information which we cannot get in any other way in order to 29 determine the amount of or to collect the tax you owe. We may disclose your tax information to the Comptroller
30 General of the United States to permit the Comptroller General to review the Internal Revenue Service. We may 31 also disclose your tax information to Committees of Congress; Federal, state, and local child support agencies;
32 and to other Federal agencies for the purposes of determining entitlement for benefits or the eligibility for and 33 the repayment of loans.

34 Please keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask for other information. If you have questions
35 about the rules for filing and giving information, please call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office."

36 As we point out in section 5.6.1, if you examine the entire Internal Revenue Code, you will not find a single statute making
37 anyone liable to pay a tax under Subtitle A, Income taxes. So why didn't the IRS in the Privacy Act notice above just come
38 out and say you don't have to file the return because there is not statute making you liable? Instead, they say you must file
39 the form for any tax "you are liable for", which is NONE! That means the form is voluntary and not mandatory, but they 40 couldn't say that, because then no one would ever pay their taxes. This is part of their crafty deception that perpetuates fraud
41 on a massive scale against the American public..

42 The 1040 form itself that comes inside the booklet that contains the above statement does not have a valid expiration date.
43 The IRS also doesn't state on this form:

- 44 1. What the definition of "person" is. Because the income tax, according to the Supreme Court and the Congressional 45 Research Service, is an indirect excise tax, then only those entities in receipt of U.S. government privileges are liable for 46 the tax. In this case, these "persons" are Corporation or Partnership registered in the District of Columbia or "public 47 officers" of the United States Government.
- 48 2. That human beings who do not meet the above definition of "person" need not fill out the tax form! The government is 49 so aware of this that they deleted the definition of person originally pointed to in 4 U.S.C. Sec. 110(a). This section of 50 the code, even to this day, points to a nonexistent 26 U.S.C. §3797, which formerly defined the term "person"!
- 51 3. That human beings have a Fifth Amendment right to not provide any of the information requested and cannot be 52 penalized for doing so in any way. One cannot be penalized, fined, or taxed for exercising rights guaranteed by the U.S.
53 constitution.

4. That you do not have to provide an SSN if you are not liable for tax. Therefore, if you are applying for a refund of all amounts paid, you need not provide an SSN and can remove it from all the W-2's and 1099 forms you get so as not to incriminate yourself.

5.5.9.2 IRS Form 1040NR

Disclosure and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice

The IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 requires that we tell you the conditions under which return information may be disclosed to any party outside the Internal Revenue Service. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need the information to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

This notice applies to all papers you file with us, including this tax return. It also applies to any questions we need to ask you so we can complete, correct, or process your return; figure your tax; and collect tax, interest, or penalties.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law.

Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103. However, section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information you write on your tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice, to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their tax laws. We may disclose your tax information to the Department of Treasury and contractors for tax administration purposes; and to other persons as necessary to obtain information that we cannot get in any other way in order to determine the amount of or to collect the tax you owe. We may disclose your tax information to the Comptroller General of the United States to permit the Comptroller General to review the Internal Revenue Service. We may also disclose your tax information to Committees of Congress; Federal; state, and local child support agencies; and to other Federal agencies for purposes of determining entitlement for benefits or the eligibility for the repayment of loans.

Keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask you for other information. If you have any questions about the rules for filing and giving information, call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office.

It's very obvious that the privacy notice on this booklet is far less complete than the 1040 form. Based on the above and the content of the 1040NR form itself, we conclude that:

1. 1040NR form:
  - 1.1. Does NOT have any kind of privacy act notice.
  - 1.2. Does NOT have an expiration date.
  - 1.3. Does NOT state whether the form is voluntary or mandatory.
2. Booklet:
  - 2.1. Does not even mention the Privacy Act of 1974. At least the 1040 booklet mentioned this act.

Clearly, this form violates the Privacy Act of 1974 and is "bogus" and may be ignored by the public because under the circumstances, the federal government has absolutely no jurisdiction. According to Public Law 96-511, this form may be disregarded. We have to ask ourselves based on these conclusions:

"Why would the IRS not want to state whether the form is voluntary or mandatory?"

The answer is that if they told the truth, the form would be indicated as voluntary and not mandatory for persons domiciled in the 50 Union states of the United States of America. If they did that, NO ONE would fill it out and their empire and house of cards would crumble! So instead, they blatantly violated the Privacy Act of 1974 and Public Law 96-511 and counted on the fact that most people filling out the form wouldn't notice the violation. Why? Because most of the people who fill out this form are foreigners from other countries who don't know our taxing statutes! Pretty sneaky, huh? That's how the IRS operates and it's EVIL.

1 5.5.9.3 Analysis and Conclusions

1 Based on analysis of the code sections cited by the IRS, here is a summary of our conclusions:

2 1. If you aren't liable to pay income tax, like most people, then:

- 1.1. You don't have to submit a tax return.
- 1.2. You aren't required to provide your SSN on your return. The only persons required to provide SSN's with their return are employers who are withholding, and not individuals, as indicated in 26 U.S.C. section 6011.
- 1.3. You aren't required to keep records.
- 1.4. You aren't required to use the forms prescribed by the IRS.
2. The 1040NR tax form totally violates the Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 and is a bogus form that Public Law 96-511 says you can disregard and not file. For instance, the 1040NR form doesn't have a Privacy Act notice, doesn't have an expiration date, and the booklet doesn't even mention the Privacy Act.
3. The 1040 tax form violates Public Law 96-511 and is bogus and that law says we can disregard the form and not use it. For instance, it does not have a valid expiration date, which can be no more than three years from the date of publication.
4. If you want examples of U.S. Government forms that DO meet all the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, then you are encouraged to visit the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004 of our website at <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm> and click on "View Evidence" in the upper left corner of the screen and go down to the bottom of the left scroll area under sections 13 and 14.

In closing, what you need to understand is that you must be liable for tax in order for the requirement to file the return to be mandatory. However, the IRS Privacy Act Notice for form 1040 above does not say this. It tries to create an impression that everyone is liable with convoluted illogic, but doesn't specifically say every American is liable because that would be a lie. It also doesn't say what the definition of "person" is and this definition is pivotal to understanding whether you are a "person" who is liable. They want you to be fearful and confused about whether you are a person liable so they can extort money out of you. However, as we said before, "persons", in this case, are those entities and individuals who are in receipt of U.S. government privileges because the income tax is an indirect excise tax. Such persons include ONLY public officers of the U.S. government, U.S. registered corporations and partnerships, DISC (Domestic International Sales Corporations), and FSC (Foreign Sales Corporations). Even the Congressional Research Service, in its Report 97-59A (which Congressmen frequently quote and distribute to constituents in answer to their tax questions and concerns), admits that the income tax is an indirect excise tax, which means that it is a tax on government granted privileges against businesses and corporations and not individuals. This report appears on our website at:

Because of what we learned in this section, you now have some very powerful arguments you can make when you file your "statement" every year to satisfy the requirements of 26 U.S.C. 6011\(a\), which we recommend. We know that you aren't a person who is liable, but we also know that the IRS is incompetent and needs to be reminded regularly of our nonliability so they don't, in their ignorance, mount an assault on our person and property in their mistaken belief that we are liable. After you get out of the tax system and stop paying income taxes by following the recommendations in chapter 3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, we recommend filing an annual statement in order to stay out of trouble. That statement should mention that the form (1040 or 1040NR) that the IRS may mistakenly allege you are required to file is "bogus" in accordance with Public Law 96-511 and that you are therefore allowed to disregard it and submit a statement (indicated in 26 U.S.C. §6011\(a\)) attesting to that fact and that you are a person who is not liable for the income tax and documenting your good faith reasons for your belief, which probably will come out of this chapter of the book.

5.5.10 If You Don't File, the IRS Can't File a Substitute Return For You Under 26 U.S.C. §6020 (b)

26 U.S.C. §6020 says the following about returns prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury:

*Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
 CHAPTER 61 - INFORMATION AND RETURNS
 Subchapter A - Returns and Records
 PART II - TAX RETURNS OR STATEMENTS
 Subpart D - Miscellaneous Provisions §6020 Returns prepared for or executed by Secretary*

(a) Preparation of return by Secretary

If any person shall fail to make a return required by this title or by regulations prescribed thereunder, but shall consent to disclose all information necessary for the preparation thereof, then, and in that case, the Secretary may prepare such return, which, being signed by such person, may be received by the Secretary as the return of such person.

So you can see that once again, the IRS and the Secretary of the Treasury HAVE to rely on the tax payer's self-assessment in order to establish a tax liability. Agents do not have delegated authority to prepare a tax form on behalf of an American without the signature of the person. This is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission (see Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section [1.16.4] 3.1 through [1.16.4] 3.2). Their pocket commission must indicate that they have Enforcement commission (the last letter of the serial number of the pocket commission must be "E") in order to complete a 23C Assessment form, for instance, and none of the revenue officers associated with Subtitles A and C have such commissions. Revenue officer must also have a Delegation Order showing their authority specifically to sign the IRS Form 23C and/or the 1040. No revenue officers who administer Subtitles A and C have such delegation orders and are acting outside their lawful authority to sign such forms. You should demand a copy of their Delegation Order and their Pocket Commission if any agent tries to exceed their authority by signing a return for you or a 23C Assessment form.

A "Substitute for Return (SFR)" is a tax return prepared under the authority of law by the Internal Revenue Service on behalf of an Americans who refuse to file returns and which creates a tax liability. Section 5.1.11.6.8 of the Internal Revenue Manual describes the authority of the Internal Revenue Service to execute Substitute for Returns. Below is the content of that section:

IRC 6020(b) Authority

1. The following returns may be prepared, signed and assessed under the authority of IRC 6020(b):

- A. Form 940, Employer's Annual Federal Unemployment Tax Return*
- B. Form 941, Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return*
- C. Form 943, Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees*
- D. Form 720, Quarterly Federal Excise Tax Return*
- E. Form 2290, Heavy Vehicle Use Tax Return*
- F. Form CT-1, Employer's Annual Railroad Retirement Tax Return*
- G. Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income.*

2. Pursuant to IRM 1.2.2.97, Delegations of Authority, Order Number 182 (rev. 7), dated 5/5/1997, revenue officers GS-09 and above, and Collection Support Function managers GS-09 and above, have the authority to prepare and execute returns under IRC 6020(b).

From the above, we can see that forms 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, 1041, and 1120 do NOT appear, meaning that the Internal Revenue Service has no lawful delegated authority to execute SFR's against Americans under 26 U.S.C. §6020 of the Internal Revenue Code for personal income taxes found in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. This means that if you don't complete and sign and submit an income tax form yourself and thereby assess yourself with a tax liability, no one in the government can do it without your consent or permission. Likewise, they can't AMEND an assessment that you do on yourself either. What they will do is PROPOSE an amendment and give you a time limit to respond, and then assume you agree if you fail to respond, but if you indicate on the original return that they may not amend it, then they are screwed and can't do anything except assume the liability you indicate, which hopefully will be zero! This very situation explains why even the government says our income tax system is based on "voluntary compliance".

The We the People Truth in Taxation Hearing held on 27-28 February 2002 featured an John Turner, Ex IRS Agent, who was a former collection officer for ten years, agreeing precisely with the above conclusions by answering a series of questions under oath related to his training as a revenue officer. He showed his actual IRS 6020(b) Training Course Materials as a revenue officer, which clearly showed that he did not have the authority to execute substitute for returns for IRS Forms 1040, 1040EZ, 1040A, 1040NR, 1041, or 1120. You can view the series of questions he answered and the evidence consisting of his revenue officer training materials on our website at:

In addition to the above significant conclusions, most revenue officers also have Delegation Orders that define which forms they are authorized to sign by law. The IRS simply does not issue delegation orders authorizing any revenue officer to sign or prepare SFRs for taxes associated with forms 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, 1041, and 1120. When the IRS does prepare SFR's for an individual, they typically do not sign the form. It is well-established in the federal courts that a tax return that is not signed is not a valid tax return and does not satisfy the requirement to file a return.

Assessment authority of revenue officers to prepare SFRs are described in 26 U.S.C. §6201 and the regulation which implements this section says the following. Note that the regulation is an "interpretive" and not a "legislative" regulation, which means that it can't be applied to the income tax "imposed" by section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. If you want to know about the different types of regulations, you can review section 3.15.2 earlier again:

1 [Code of Federal Regulations]
 2 [Title 26, Volume 17]
 3 [Revised as of April 1, 2001]
 4 From the U.S. Government Printing Office via GPO Access
 5 [CITE: 26CFR301.6201-1]

6 Sec. 301.6201-1 Assessment authority.

7 (a) IN GENERAL.

8 The district director is authorized and required to make all inquiries necessary to the determination and 9 assessment of all taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any prior internal revenue law. The 10 district director is further authorized and required, and the director of the regional service center is authorized,
 11 to make the determinations and the assessments of such taxes. However, certain inquiries and determinations
 12 are, by direction of the Commissioner, made by other officials, such as assistant regional commissioners. The 13 term "taxes" includes interest, additional amounts, additions to the taxes, and assessable penalties. The authority
 14 of the district director and the director of the regional service center to make assessments includes the following:

 16 assess all taxes determined by the taxpayer or by the district director or the director of the regional service

19 (2) UNPAID TAXES PAYABLE BY STAMP.

20 (i) If without the use of the proper stamp:

21 (a) Any article upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp is sold or removed for 22 sale or use by the manufacturer thereof, or

23 (b) Any transaction or act upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp occurs; The 24 district director, upon such information as he can obtain, must estimate the amount of the tax which 25 has not been paid and the district director or the director of the regional service center must make 26 assessment therefor upon the person the district director determines to be liable for the tax. However,
 27 the district director or the director of the regional service center may not assess any tax which is 28 payable by stamp unless the taxpayer fails to pay such tax at the time and in the manner provided by 29 law or regulations.

30 (ii) If a taxpayer gives a check or money order as a payment for stamps but the check or money order is not 31 paid upon presentment, then the district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess 32 the amount of the check or money order against the taxpayer as if it were a tax due at the time the check or 33 money order was received by the district director.

35 As we covered earlier in section 5.4.15, the IRS has no legal authority to assess you with an income tax "liability". The 36 reason is because the only form they can use to do so is the 1040, 1040NR, and/or 2555 under the authority of 26 U.S.C.
 37 §6020(b) , and this section along with its implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(2) clearly shows that
 38 the only thing the district director can do is make assessments of taxes collected by stamp but NOT for personal income taxes
 39 coming under Subtitles A and C. Notice that this regulation does NOT give the revenue officer authority to estimate tax nor 40 sign a return or list on behalf of a person, or it would have said so. Subtitles A and C personal income taxes must instead
 41 appear on a tax return, and the 1040, 2555, or 1040NR are the only things that qualify as legitimate returns upon which to
 42 base an assessment of Subtitle A and C personal income taxes. 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(1) says the taxes assessed by the 43 district director MUST be "disclosed on a return or list". Even the title says that: "TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN". If the 44 agent has no Delegation Order or delegated authority to prepare such a return, then he is acting outside his lawful delegated
 45 authority and can be prosecuted for violation of 26 U.S.C. §7214! The Government Accountability Office (GAO) published
 46 a surprising audit report, report number GAO/GGD-00-60R on the IRS Substitute for Return program. This report confirms 47 that Substitute For Returns are not really returns! The report says, and I quote:

48 "[IRS] Customer Service Division official commented on the phrase 'Substitute for Return.' They asked us to 49 emphasize that even though the program is commonly referred to as the SFR program, no actual tax return is 50 prepared."

You know what that means, folks? If the IRS doesn't prepare an actual return as required above in order to create a valid self-assessment, then they pull it out of their ass and then falsify their IDRS computer system IMF records by putting the system in manual override mode and creating a bogus backdated and fraudulent assessment so the assessment will occur before the expired Assessment Statute Expiration Date (ASED). You can confirm this if you FOIA your complete unsanitized master file for the years in question. It's financial terrorism and extortion, folks and these criminals should be locked up in jail and have the key thrown away for doing it! Our politicians look the other way because they want your money so bad that they condone extortion to get it. Below is a direct link to the GAO report if you would like to read it for yourself on our website:

5.6 Why We Aren't Liable to Pay Income Tax

"GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCEMENT (Reuters, New York): The government announced today that it is changing its emblem to a condom because it more clearly reflects the government's political stance. A condom stands up to inflation, halts production, destroys the next generation, protects a bunch of pricks, and gives you a sense of security while it's actually screwing you."
[Anonymous]

"It could probably be shown by facts and figures that the only distinctly native American criminal class is Congress."
[Mark Twain]

"There is no art which one government sooner learns of another, than that of draining money from the pockets of the people."
[Adam Smith (1776), Wealth of Nations, pg. 532 (Prometheus Books, Amherst, New York 1991)]

This section will show clearly why we aren't liable to pay income taxes using only the I.R. codes themselves and not the IRS Publications.

5.6.1 There's No Statute Making Anyone Other than Withholding Agents Liable to Pay Subtitle A Income Taxes!

26 U.S.C. §1461 makes the PAYER liable to deduct and withhold payment to another "person" but a nonresident cannot be a "person" within the meaning of this civil provision because all civil law attaches to one's choice of domicile:

§ 1461. Liability for withheld tax

Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.*

The word "liable" or "liability" is the only term that establishes a legal "duty" to pay a tax. The first and only positive law federal taxing statute that has ever imposed such a legal "duty" was section 29 of the Revenue Act of 1894, which said in pertinent part:

"Sec. 29. That it shall be the duty of all persons of lawful age having an income of more than three thousand five hundred dollars for the taxable year, computed on the basis herein prescribed, to make and render a list or return, on or before the day provided by law, in such form and manner as may be directed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to the collector or a deputy collector of the district in which they reside, of the amount of their income, gains, and profits, as aforesaid; ..."

Notice the phrase "it shall be the duty of all persons of lawful age". You can read this law direct from the Statutes at Large on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/HistoricalActs/IncomeTax1894final.pdf>

The above positive law was declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895) because it attempted to institute a direct tax within states of the Union in stark violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution. That case caught the Congress

1 red-handed trying to violate the Constitution and slapped them on the wrist for putting their hands in the cookie jar. Since
2 that time, the Congress has never since even attempted to institute any positive law federal taxing statute that included a
3 “legal duty” or “liability” for natural persons (people) to pay a direct tax in states of the Union. The closest they have ever
4 come was to create a “code” that “looks” like it is a law and “looks” like it creates a liability, but in fact does not because it
5 cannot without violating the Constitution.

6 If you search the current edition of the Internal Revenue Code you will find that there is currently no section within the entire
7 Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C, which makes most natural persons “liable” or establishes a legal “duty” for the 8 payment of the taxes imposed under section 1! That section “imposes” a tax but never makes anyone liable. The only liability
9 statute we could find pertaining to I.R.C., Subtitle A was 26 U.S.C. §1461, but this pertains to withholding agents, and not to 10 the average American. Why? Because Subtitle A income taxes on all persons, natural or corporate, are voluntary and always 11 have been since long before the Pollock case. The IRS Form 1040 confirms this. Look at the line that says what you owe 12 the government. Note that it says “Amount you Owe” and not “amount you are liable for”.

13 Liability is a crucial component of nearly everything that relates to income tax enforcement and every other area of law.
14 Before any enforcement action may be undertaken, a legal “liability” must first be demonstrated by the moving party, which 15 means that the government must first produce a valid assessment executed under the authority of a positive law, and we
16 already said earlier in section 5.4.15 that IRS does not have the authority to do an assessment for Subtitle A income taxes
17 because only you as the sovereign and the “volunteer” can do that on yourself. Here are a few legal aspects of enforcement 18 that have “liability” as a prerequisite:

- 19 1. 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(14\) entitled “Definitions” prescribes that a “taxpayer” is anyone who is “subject to” any internal 20 revenue tax. “Subject to” means “liable for”. Since no one who does not work as a “public officers” of the United States
21 government can be made “liable” for taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, then no private individual domiciled
22 in a state of the Union who is not a “public officer” of the United States government can be a “taxpayer” unless they 23 consensually volunteer to be. Being deceived into volunteering by using a repealed or obfuscated “code” or an abuse of 24 legal process as a propaganda vehicle does not qualify as lawful informed consent, but instead amounts to duress.
- 25 2. 26 U.S.C. §6001 entitled “Records” only requires persons who are “liable” to keep records in order to properly comply 26 with the provisions of the internal revenue code.
- 27 3. 26 U.S.C. §7601 entitled “Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects” authorizes agents to canvass the “district”
28 for persons “liable” for the tax. Without a liability demonstrated beforehand, they can’t go looking for either you or your 29 assets.
- 30 4. 26 U.S.C. §7602 entitled “Examination of books and witnesses” authorizes summons only for the purpose of 31 “determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax”. Without a demonstrated liability before the 32 summons, they can’t hold the summons!
- 33 5. 26 U.S.C. §6331\(a\) entitled “Levy and distraint” authorizes levies only upon persons who are “liable”. Without a 34 demonstrated liability, no levies may be made.
- 35 6. 26 U.S.C. §6700 entitled “Abusive tax shelters” makes it a crime to offer abusive tax shelters if these shelters are offered 36 to “taxpayers” with an existing tax liability that they want to reduce by purchasing an investment that will give them a
37 write-off. The government can’t prove you are offering “abusive tax shelters” if they can’t prove that the person you
38 were offering them to was “liable” for the tax, and therefore a “taxpayer”. “Nontaxpayers” have no practical use for “tax

40 tax shelter n(1952): a strategy, investment, or tax code provision that reduces one's tax liability.
41 [Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 1209]

42 Anything that is “voluntary” simply can’t be enforced, collected, or assessed. Not only this, but penalties for fraud or 43 inaccurate returns cannot be instituted without an existing “liability”, as revealed in 26 U.S.C. §6662(a) and 26 U.S.C.
44 §6663(a).

46 Sec. 6662. - Imposition of accuracy-related penalty

47 (a) Imposition of penalty

48 *If this section applies to any portion of an underpayment of tax required to be shown on a return, there shall be
49 added to the tax an amount equal to 20 percent of the portion of the underpayment to which this section applies.*

If you aren't legally "liable" for a tax to begin with and only file zero return or a one cent return, then you can't be penalized for doing so! That is why a natural person cannot be assessed by the IRS, cannot be penalized for nonpayment, and cannot legally have his property forcibly removed from him for nonpayment. Furthermore, subtitles A and C are the only "taxes" (really they are technically "donations", but the government calls them "taxes") in the I.R.C. which don't make the subjects "liable". All other types of taxes in the Internal Revenue Code specifically do the following in the Internal Revenue Code:

1. Make the individual specifically "liable" for the payment of taxes and state "shall be paid". Examples:
  - 1.1. 26 U.S.C. §4374
  - 1.2. 26 U.S.C. §4401\(c\)
  - 1.3. 26 U.S.C. §5005
  - 1.4. 26 U.S.C. §5043
  - 1.5. 26 U.S.C. §5703
2. Require the individual to keep records about his liability. Examples of other types of taxes that do require records:
  - 2.1. 26 U.S.C. §4403
  - 2.2. 26 U.S.C. §5114
  - 2.3. 26 U.S.C. §5124
  - 2.4. 26 U.S.C. §5741
3. Subject him or her to penalties for nonpayment. Examples:
  - 3.1. 26 U.S.C. Subtitle F, Sections 6671 through 6715 address assessable penalties.
  - 3.2. There are no implementing regulations or entries in any of the parallel tables of authorities (see http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel\_table.html) that map any of the penalties above to specific sections in 26 U.S.C. Subtitles A and C, nor are there any cross-references from Subtitles A and C that point to penalties in Subtitle F.

Without a legal liability, the IRS cannot institute collection, but they do so illegally anyway, and it's up to you to learn how they do it so you can fight it!

26 U.S.C. §1 is the section that the IRS says imposes the income tax. Here is an excerpt from that section:

United States Code
 TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
 Subtitle A - Income Taxes
 CHAPTER 1 - NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES
 Subchapter A - Determination of Tax Liability
 PART 1 - TAX ON INDIVIDUALS

Sec. 1. Tax imposed

(a) Married individuals filing joint returns and surviving spouses

There is hereby imposed on the taxable income of –

Incidentally, did you notice we used "mean" instead of "include" above...because the government just loves to abuse this word to illegally expand their jurisdiction! Here is the definition of the word "impose" from Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition:

Impose: To levy or exact as by authority; to lay as a burden, tax, duty, or charge.
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 755]

Exaction. The wrongful act of an officer or other person in compelling payment of a fee or reward for his services, under color of his official authority, where no payment is due.
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 557]

Extortion. The obtaining of property from another induced by wrongful use of actual or threatened force, violence, or fear, or under color of official right. 18 U.S.C.A. § 871 et seq.; § 1951.

A person is guilty of theft by extortion if he purposely obtains property of another by threatening to: (1) inflict bodily injury on anyone or commit any other criminal offense; or (2) accuse anyone of a criminal offense; or (3) expose any secret tending to subject any person to hatred, contempt or ridicule, or to impair his credit or business repute; or (4) take or withhold action as an official, or cause an official to take or withhold action; or (5) bring about or continue a strike, boycott or other collective unofficial action, if the property is not demanded or received for the benefit of the group in whose interest the actor purports to act; or (6) testify or provide information or withhold testimony or information with respect to another's legal claim or defense; or (7) inflict any other harm which would not benefit the actor. Model Penal Code, §224.4.

See also Blackmail; Hobbs Act; Loan Sharking; Shakedown. With respect to Larceny by extortion, see Larceny. Compare Coercion [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 585]

Amazing how brazen these lawyer criminals in the District of Criminals are, huh? Nothing in there about liability! And the definition of the word "levy" out of that same legal dictionary on p. 907 says:

Levy, v.: To assess; raise; execute; exact; tax; collect; gather; take up; seize. Thus, to levy (assess, exact, raise, or collect) a tax; to levy (raise or set up) a nuisance; to levy (acknowledge) a fine; to levy (inaugurate) war; to levy an execution, i.e., to levy or collect a sum of money on an execution.

Here is what the federal courts say about the requirements to create a statutory liability before an obligation to pay can be established:

"Liability for taxation must clearly appear[from statute imposing tax]." [Higley v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 69 F.2d. 160 (1934)]

"While Congress might have the power to place such a personal liability upon trust beneficiaries who did not renounce the trust, yet it would require clear expression of such intent, and it cannot be spelled out from language (as that here) which can be given an entirely natural and useful meaning and application excluding such intent." [Higley v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 69 F.2d. 160 (1934)]

"A tax is a legal imposition, exclusively of statutory origin (37 Cyc. 724, 725), and, naturally, liability to taxation must be read in statute, or it does not exist." [Bente v. Bugbee, 137 A. 552, 103 N.J. Law. 608 (1927)]

"...the taxpayer must be liable for the tax. Tax liability is a condition precedent to the demand. Merely demanding payment, even repeatedly, does not cause liability." [Terry v. Bothke, 713 F.2d. 1405, at 1414 (1983)]

Can you collect a tax that no one is liable for? You certainly can, if you can find enough ignorant Americans and fool or coerce them into believing that they are "taxpayers"! Do you see the words "liable" or "liability" used anywhere in the above two definitions or anywhere in 26 U.S.C. §1? We don't...and if you aren't liable, then you don't have to pay! When you search electronically through the entire 9,500 pages of the Internal Revenue Code like we did, you will indeed find the word "liability" used for every kind of tax OTHER than personal income taxes, but not for any of the taxes on individuals found in Subtitles A or C! When a person is made liable, the code explicitly says "shall be liable", "shall be paid" and "shall keep records", etc, but nowhere is this stated for personal income taxes in Subtitles A or C. Here are just a few examples where persons are explicitly made "liable" for payment of a tax that was also "imposed" elsewhere in the code:

"(a) The distiller or importer of distilled spirits shall be liable for the taxes imposed..."

1                   “(c) Proprietors of distilled spirits plants: “(1) Bonded storage. Every person operating bonded premises of
2 a distilled spirits plant shall be liable for internal revenue tax...”
3                   “(e)(1)” Withdrawals without payment of tax: “...shall be liable”
5

6                   26 U.S.C. §5043. Collection of taxes on wines
7                   “(a) Persons liable for payment
8 The taxes on wine provided for in this subpart shall be paid- ...”
9

10                   26 U.S.C. §5054. Determination and collection of tax on beer
11                   “(a) Time of determination
12 (1) Beer produced in the United States; certain imported beer...shall be paid by the brewer thereof in

15                   26 U.S.C. §5703. Liability for tax and method of payment.
16                   (a) Liability for tax
17 (1) Original liability...shall be liable for ...
18 (2) Transfer of liability...shall become liable...”

20 for anyone BUT withholding agents, so:

- 21 1. They are the only REAL “taxpayers”.
- 22 2. The people they withhold AGAINST are not statutory “taxpayers.”

23 Therefore, you who are not a statutory “withholding agent” can't be required to pay, which is why they also don't say “liable”
24 or “shall pay” anywhere in the statutes for these taxes on the parties who are not “withholding agents” anywhere in:

- 25 • Subtitle A: Income Taxes
- 26 • Subtitle C: Employment Taxes

27 A favorite trick of the IRS when the above fact is pointed out is to cite 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 and show that the implementing 28 regulation for the statute uses the phrase “are liable to”:

29                   26 C.F.R. §1.1-1

30                   (b) Citizens or residents of the United States liable to tax.

31                   In general, all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are
32 liable to the income taxes imposed by the Code whether the income is received from sources within or 33 without the United States. Pursuant to section 876, a nonresident alien individual who is a bona fide resident of 34 Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year is, except as provided in section 933 with respect to Puerto Rican
35 source income, subject to taxation in the same manner as a resident alien individual. As to tax on nonresident
36 alien individuals, see sections 871 and 877.

37 Did you get that? 26 U.S.C. §1 didn't use the word “liable” but the implementing regulation did, which is clearly illegal and 38 violates the concept described in the Spreckles v. C.I.R. case below, which says:

39                   “To the extent that regulations implement the statute, they have the force and effect of law...The regulation 40 implements the statute and cannot vitiate or change the statute...”
41 [Spreckles v. C.I.R., 119 F.2d, 667]

42 What the Treasury did to try to illegally expand their jurisdiction, in a clear demonstration of conflict of interest and a violation
43 of the Code of Ethics for Government employees we discussed in section 2.1, was create a bogus liability by writing an illegal
44 regulation in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) to implement 26 U.S.C. §1 and use the phrase word “liable to” but not “liable FOR” in the 45 regulation!

1 Did you notice that all the PREVIOUS statutory instances of liability said “shall be liable” or “liable for” and NEVER used
2 “liable TO”? Sneaky bastards! Remember that the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to write regulations that interpret
3 and implement the Internal Revenue Code under 26 U.S.C. §7805, but the Secretary has no delegated authority to expand or 4 enlarge or modify the original language or jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code section he is implementing and
5 enforcing! Why? Because the Congress is the only legislative body authorized by the Constitution, and no one in the 6 Executive branch, including the Treasury, has any delegated authority to legislate.

7 “When enacting §7206(1) Congress undoubtedly knew that the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to
8 prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, so long as they carry
9 into effect the will of Congress as expressed by the statutes. Such regulations have the force of law. The 10 Secretary, however, does not have the power to make law. Dixon v. United States, supra.”
11 [United States v. Levy, 533 F.2d. 969 (1976)]

12 See also U.S. v. Calamaro, 354 U.S. 351 \(1957\), where the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed that a regulation CANNOT add to 13 or expand the statute. This means they cannot add a liability that does not appear in the statute, and if they add a liability that 14 is not in the statute, then it can only apply to people WITHIN the agency the regulation was written for. The Secretary can 15 only impose duties not in the statutes upon his own workers. Do you work for the IRS?

16 Therefore, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(b\) is a regulation that is null and void and fraudulent on its face insofar as its imposition of an
17 otherwise nonexistent liability for the payment of Subtitle A income taxes. If you were to investigate this matter further, I'd 18 be willing to bet money that the Secretary of Treasury who approved this regulations was a lame duck and knew he was on 19 the way out of office and probably his last official act was to approve this regulation. That was the kind of scam that got the 20 Sixteenth Amendment passed by the lame duck Secretary of State Philander Knox, who perjured himself by saying that the 21 Sixteenth Amendment had been properly ratified by the required ¾ of the states.

23 Family Guardian,

24 “The current 26 U.S.C. §1 comes from Section 11 of the 1939 code, without any significant change occurring
25 (according to Congress). The old Section 11 said that the tax shall be “levied, collected, and PAID” upon the net
26 income of individuals. While I think it was stupid of them to reword it without stating the liability there, the 27 underlying law (the Statutes at Large) shows it, so 1.1-1 is correct. Congress also in Sections 6012 and 6151
28 show that one who receives “gross income” must file a return, and the one required to file the return “shall pay
29 such tax.” It's not in Subtitle A, but there's no requirement that it has to be, since the section says it applies “when
30 a return of tax is required UNDER THIS TITLE” (not subtitle). Why do you not consider 6151 to be a liability 31 clause?”

32 Larken Rose

33 <http://www.taxableincome.net/>

34 Here was part of our response to that claim:

35 Larken,

37 §1.6151 clearly shows that “taxpayers” should pay the amount of tax shown on the return, but it doesn't say they 38 are required to pay any tax that they didn't assess against themselves VOLUNTARILY. The only case they have to 39 pay taxes they didn't voluntarily assess is under section 6014, which allows the TAXPAYER to ELECT to allow 40 the IRS to compute his tax with his permission.

41 “Our system of taxation is based on voluntary assessment and payment, not on distraint”, according to Flora v.
42 U.S., 362 U.S. 145 \(1960\)

43 That's why you can't be made liable to pay a tax that you didn't assess against yourself voluntarily. If you refuse
44 to file a return or refuse to claim any gross income by filling in zeros on your return, then 26 USC §6201 clearly
45 shows that the IRS may not involuntarily assess you a liability! If you look at the Parallel Table of Authorities, 46 ALL of the taxes to which 6151 applies relate ONLY to Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms under Title 27. Look for 47 yourself!:

48 <http://www4.law.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/usc-cfr.cgi/26/6151>

2. 26 U.S.C. §6151 and 26 U.S.C. §6012 are NOT liability statutes. 6151 says you shall pay any tax shown on a return (that you completed VOLUNTARILY) and 6012 says you must "make a return" for any subtitle A taxable gross income you have. Since the term "make a return" doesn't say "file a return" or even who to file it WITH, then one can satisfy this requirement by filling out a tax return (called "making a return") and filing it in one's file cabinet! One place that the word "file" is used is in the title of 26 U.S.C. §7203, and 26 U.S.C. §7806 says the title has no force or effect. The only other place "file" is used is in 6151, which only applies to Title 27 taxes. The code or regulations for Subtitle A income taxes therefore has to say WHO to file the return WITH and mention "liable to file with the Secretary of the Treasury", which it doesn't. It does for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms taxes, but not for Subtitle A income taxes. See section 3.9.11 of my Great IRS Hoax book for further details on this. The code COULDN'T impose a requirement to file a return because it would violate the Fifth Amendment so they played games with words, as usual. I know this is picking nits, but that is what the code itself does and especially what Mr. Roginsky of the IRS did during his friendly interview with you!

Misunderstandings on your part about the issues discussed above is why you attract busy IRS bees to your honeypot. The IRS picks their battles carefully, and like the lion, hits the weakest parts of the herd, who are usually hobbling at the end of the procession with less than a full deck of cards. I'm not trying to criticize you, however, and simply want to help you by keeping you out of trouble.

Your friend,

Family Guardian

To give you just one example in real life that illustrates the lack of liability for Income Taxes, if employment taxes are indeed enforced "taxes" rather than "donations", then why:

1. Do you have to complete a W-4 giving the government permission to take your money under Subtitle C, Employment taxes? If it is a tax, they don't need your permission, do they!
2. Are Employment taxes classified by the IRS as gifts by assigning them to Tax Class 1? See section 5.6.8 later on this subject.

Something is fishy here, isn't it? And why do they call it a "tax" if you aren't "liable"? Shouldn't our dishonest government call it a "donation"? You be the judge!

The other question we should be asking ourselves is: "Who is the income tax imposed on?". 26 U.S.C. §1 uses the term "Individuals", but what does that mean? The answer is found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(a\):

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual.

The tax is "imposed" on "citizens or residents of the United States" and "nonresident aliens" described in sections 871(b) and 877(b), but we know that "United States" as used here means the federal zone or the federal United States, so the tax doesn't apply to us. That is the only logical conclusion we can reach based on the constitutional limitations on direct taxation found in Article 1, Section 9 (1:9:4), Clause 4 and 1:2:3 of the U.S. Constitution!

"The right to tax and regulate the national citizenship is an inherent right under the rule of the Law of Nations, which is part of the law of the United States, as described in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17." The Luisitania, 251 F.715, 732.

"This jurisdiction extends to citizens of the United States, wherever resident, for the exercise of the privileges and immunities and protections of [federal] citizenship."
[Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47,44 S.Ct. 447, 11 Virginia Law Review, 607 (1924) ]

So once again, if we aren't "U.S.** citizens" or nonresident aliens with income associated with a "trade or business" in the federal United States, then we aren't liable for income taxes!

1 26 C.F.R. §31.3121\(e\)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

2 (b)...The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin
3 Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

4 If we aren't statutory "U.S.** citizens" (8 U.S.C. §1401) but we were born in United States* the country on nonfederal land,
5 then we are "nationals" and non-resident non-persons. As we will point out later, most of us are born as non-resident non-
6 persons and "nationals" (see 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21)) because we are born outside the federal zone but inside the 50 Union
7 states. The legal profession has done their best to hide this fact over the years by redefining some key terms or removing
8 important definitions entirely from the legal dictionary. We talk about this later, in section 6.13.1.

9 Now when the IRS tries to do any enforcement action for income taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and they try
10 to call someone in for an audit, they don't have a leg to stand on. All you have to do is show them the statute that gives them
11 the authority to call the audit, from 26 U.S.C. §7601:

13 Sec. 7601. - Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects

14 (a) General rule

15 The Secretary shall, to the extent he deems it practicable, cause officers or employees of the Treasury
16 Department to proceed, from time to time, through each internal revenue district and inquire after and 17 concerning all persons therein who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax, and all
18 persons owning or having the care and management of any objects with respect to which any tax is imposed.

19 So the only thing the IRS can go looking for inside their "district", which encompasses only areas within the federal zone
20 that are within the outer boundaries of their region, are "persons therein who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax".
21 Without a liability statute, the IRS agent has no authority to call you into his office to ask about taxes he thinks you owe.
22 Once again, "liability" is a prerequisite in order for enforcement action to be warranted, and since "liability" is nowhere
23 defined in the IRC for Subtitle A individual income taxes, then it isn't a tax but a "donation". This is a very good fact to 24 bring up at your next IRS audit, folks! Now if you don't help him when he calls you in for an audit because you point out
25 that he can't prove you are liable, then he may try to illegally levy your pay. Once again, he's violating the "code" (not "law", 26 but "code") because look at what the levy statutes says, 26 U.S.C. §6331(a):

27 TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 64 > Subchapter D > PART II > Sec. 6331.
28 Sec. 6331. - Levy and distraint

29 (a) Authority of Secretary

30 If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10
31 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as 32 shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such 33 property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this
34 chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee,
35 or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United
36 States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of 37 such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in 38 jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure
39 or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided
40 in this section.

41 Once again, notice that the prerequisite for levy and distraint above is that the person must be liable, and so the frustrated IRS
42 agent can't legally levy your pay either, without subjecting himself to criminal liability under 26 U.S.C. §7433 and 26 U.S.C.

44 5.6.2 Your earnings aren't taxable because it is "notes" and "obligations" of the U.S. government

45 The power of Congress to coin money is found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution:

46 U.S. Constitution
47 Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5

1                   The Congress shall have Power To . . .

2                   To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures

3 The above power is not the origin for printing Federal Reserve Notes. Those notes are printed under the authority of Article
4 1, Section 8, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution:

5                   U.S. Constitution
6                   Article 1, Section 8, Clause 2

7                   The Congress shall have Power To . . .

8                   To borrow Money on the credit of the United States;

9 The “money” you think you carry around in your pocket isn’t money at all, but a debt instrument or obligation borrowed from 10 a PRIVATE banking consortium deceptively called the “Federal Reserve” pursuant to Article 1, Section 8, Clause 2 of the 11 Constitution. You will note that the top of each bill says “Federal Reserve Note”. The “Federal Reserve”, in fact, is about

13                   Money: In usual and ordinary acceptance it means coins and paper currency used as circulating medium of 14 exchange, and does not embrace notes, bonds, evidences of debt, or other personal or real
16 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1005]

17 Here is what the law says about this subject in 12 U.S.C. §411:

18                   TITLE 12 > CHAPTER 3 > SUBCHAPTER XII > Sec. 411.
19                   Sec. 411. - Issuance to reserve banks; nature of obligation; redemption

20                   Federal reserve notes, to be issued at the discretion of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System for 21 the purpose of making advances to Federal reserve banks through the Federal reserve agents as hereinafter set
22 *forth and for no other purpose, are authorized. The said notes shall be obligations
23 of the United States and shall be receivable by all national and member banks and Federal reserve*
24 *banks and for all taxes, customs, and other public dues. They shall be redeemed in 25 lawful money on demand at the Treasury Department of the 26 United States, in the city of Washington, District of Columbia,
27 or at any Federal Reserve bank

28 You can search the entire U.S. Code as we have and NOWHERE will you find any place where Federal Reserve Notes are 29 defined or identified as “dollars” as used in the Constitution. Therefore, you cannot lawfully conclude that they are 30 equivalent. A Congressman wrote the Federal Reserve Board and they wrote back to admit that there is NOT definition for 31 what a “dollar” is! See the amazing truth for yourself:

<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

32 But wait a minute! The law says that obligations of the U.S. government are not taxable in 31 U.S.C. §3124!

33                   TITLE 31 > SUBTITLE III > CHAPTER 31 > SUBCHAPTER II > Sec. 3124.
34                   Sec. 3124. - Exemption from taxation

35                   (a) Stocks and obligations of the United States Government are exempt from taxation by a State or political 36 subdivision of a State. The exemption applies to each form of taxation that would require the obligation, the 37 interest on the obligation, or both, to be considered in computing a tax, except -

38                   (1) a nondiscriminatory franchise tax or another nonproperty tax instead of a franchise tax, imposed on a 39 corporation; and

1 (2) an estate or inheritance tax.

2 (b) The tax status of interest on obligations and dividends, earnings, or other income from evidences of ownership
3 issued by the Government or an agency and the tax treatment of gain and loss from the disposition of those
4 obligations and evidences of ownership is decided under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 1 et seq.).
5 An obligation that the Federal Housing Administration had agreed, under a contract made before March 1, 1941,
6 to issue at a future date, has the tax exemption privileges provided by the authorizing law at the time of the 7 contract. This subsection does not apply to obligations and evidences of ownership issued by the District of 8 Columbia, a territory or possession of the United States, or a department, agency, instrumentality, or political
9 subdivision of the District, territory, or possession

10 Therefore, your Federal Reserve Notes (FRN's) are not taxable by federal State governments, because they aren't really
11 lawful money, but debt obligations, or the equivalent of corporate government bonds! For more interesting reading, we refer 12 you to the Legal Tender Cases, Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884).

13 "Under the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, and to issue circulating notes for the money
14 borrowed, [Congress'] power to define the quality and force of those notes as currency is as broad as the like
15 power over a metallic currency under the power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof. Under the two
16 powers, taken together, Congress is authorized to establish a national currency, either in coin or in paper, and
17 to make that currency lawful money for all purposes, as regards the national government or private individuals.
18 . . . (Emphasis added)"

20 "Congress has delegated the power to establish this national currency which is lawful money to the Federal 21 Reserve System. 12 U.S.C. §411. Congress has made the Federal Reserve note the measure of value in our
22 monetary system, 12 U.S.C. § 412 (1968),<sup>fn1</sup> and has defined Federal Reserve notes as legal tender for taxes, 31
23 U.S.C. §392 (1965). Taxpayers' attempt to devalue the Federal Reserve notes they received as income is,
24 therefore, not lawful under the laws of the United States."
25 [Mathes v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d. 70 (1978)]

26 5.6.3 Constitutional Constraints on Federal Taxing Power

27 While the current I.R. code and implementing regulations document the limited application of the federal income tax, it is
28 important to explain the reason why such a limitation exists. Without an explanation of why the code is as it is, the conclusion
29 may be unbelievable to some (regardless of the actual evidence). Certainly the limitation was not due to Congress not wanting
30 to tax all income. Without some obstacle to Congress' power, the tax which most people now believe exists (a tax on the 31 income of most Americans) would certainly have been imposed.

32 According to the Supreme Court, the broad and general wording which Congress used to define "gross income" was intended 33 to tax all income within their power to tax.

34 "This Court has frequently stated that this language [defining "gross income"] was used by Congress to exert 35 in this field 'the full measure of its taxing power.'"
36 [Commissioner v. Glenshaw Glass Co., 348 U.S. 426 (1955)]

37 This ruling is speaking specifically of Section 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, which is the predecessor to the 38 current 26 U.S.C. §61. Congress has stated that the scope of "gross income" did not change when the law was rearranged
39 and reworded. (It should be mentioned that the current tax code is basically just the income tax of 1913, but with many 40 amendments over the years adding, removing, rewording, and renumbering various sections. The fundamental nature and 41 origin of the tax remains intact.)

42 The general language of the definition of "gross income" (past and present) may give an initial impression of an unlimited
43 tax on the income of every individual. However, the meaning of a statute passed by Congress is limited to those matters

45 "It is elementary law that every statute is to be read in the light of the constitution. However broad and general
46 its language, it cannot be interpreted as extending beyond those matters which it was within the constitutional 47 power of the legislature to reach."
48 [McCullough v. Com. Of Virginia, 172 U.S. 102 (1898) ]

49 (Notice that this is not some radical decision, but is considered "elementary law.")

1 In other words, a statute may be more restricted than its general wording suggests. The above case goes on to say that
2 Constitutional restrictions are to be assumed when reading a statute (state or federal), even though they are not stated.

3 *"So, although general language was introduced into the statute of 1871, it is not to be read as reaching to
4 matters in respect to which the legislature had no constitutional power, but only as to those matters within its
5 control. And, if there were, as it seems there were, certain special taxes and dues, which, under the existing 6 provisions of the state constitution, could not be affected by legislative action, the statute is to be read as 7 though it in terms excluded them from its operation."
8 [McCullough v. Com. Of Virginia, 172 U.S. 102 (1898)]*

9 So a federal statute is to be read as though it specifically excludes matters which the Constitution does not put under federal
10 jurisdiction. So while, as the Supreme Court said, Congress intended to use the "full measure of its taxing power" by using 11 such a generally-worded definition of "gross income," the Supreme Court also admits that the income tax "cannot be applied
12 to any income which Congress has no power to tax" [William E. Peck & Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165 (1918)]. So the general
13 wording must be interpreted in light of the Constitutional limits on Congress' power. But this could pose a problem for the 14 average American. How is he to know what the Constitutional limits are on Congress' power (when even federal judges 15 disagree with each other on the matter)?

16 As mentioned at the beginning of this report, the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered (by statute) to implement and 17 interpret the law. When the Treasury regulations are published in the Federal Register, that becomes the official notice to 18 the public of what the law requires. Therefore, while the statutes may use general language (which might at first glance seem 19 to include matters outside of federal jurisdiction), the regulations must give specifics.

20 Though it is phrased somewhat differently than the current 26 U.S.C. §61, the definition of "gross income" found in Section
21 22(a) of the 1939 Code appears all-encompassing. The regulations under the 1939 Code, however, are very telling. (The 22 term "net income" was used back then, which would later become "taxable income.")

23 *"Sec. 29.21-1. Meaning of net income. The tax imposed by chapter 1 is upon income. Neither income
24 exempted by statute or fundamental law... enter into the computation of net income as defined by section 21."*

25 The term "fundamental law" refers to the Constitution (as countless court rulings show). While the general wording of the 26 statutes makes no such reference, here the regulations imply that some income not exempted by statute is nonetheless exempt
27 from taxation under the Constitution. Note the distinction between income exempted by statute, and income exempted by 28 the Constitution. This occurs again later in the same section:

29 "(b) Gross income, meaning income (in the broad sense) less income which is by statutory provision or 30 otherwise exempt from the tax imposed by chapter 1. (See section 22.)"

31 Again, the regulations are admitting that some things not exempted by statute are nonetheless exempt from federal taxation.
32 The above citation refers us to Section 22 (of the 1939 Code) for the meaning of "gross income." The regulations under that 33 section begin as follows:

34 *"Sec. 29.22(a)-1. What included in gross income.
35 Gross income includes in general [items of income listed] derived from any source whatever, unless exempt

37 This refers the reader to Section 22(b) to learn what income is "exempt from tax." After saying that certain items are 38 specifically exempted by statute, the regulations under section 22(b) (referred to in the previous citation) state:

39 "No other items are exempt from gross income except (1) those items of income which are, under the 40 Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government; (2) those items of income which are exempt from tax on 41 income under the provisions of any Act of Congress still in effect; and (3) the income exempted under the 42 provisions of section 116."

43 Again the regulations explicitly state that some income is not constitutionally taxable, even though it is not specifically
44 exempted by any statute passed by Congress. The statutes need not mention this, because (as shown above), the 45 Constitutional limitations are to be assumed when reading any statute. But because the regulations must give specifics, the 46 fact that some income not exempt by statute is exempted by the Constitution is specifically stated in the regulations. (Many 47 tax professionals are at a loss to explain this; they are unable to identify anything which is not taxable under the constitution,
48 but which is not exempted by statute.)

1 QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: What types of income not exempted by statute are nonetheless, under the Constitution, not
2 taxable by the federal government?

3 5.6.4 Exempt Income

4 The above issue of Constitutional limits on Congress' taxing power is not intended to dispute the constitutionality of the 5 income tax. In fact, the opinion of this author, the readers, and even the courts regarding the question of taxing jurisdiction
6 ends up being irrelevant in this case. The statutes of Congress, together with the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury
7 (which must also be approved by Congress), show that they believe their jurisdiction to tax incomes was limited to individuals
8 involved in international and foreign commerce.

9 (“International commerce” means trade which crosses country borders, such as income from within the federal United 10 States**/federal zone going to nonresident aliens. “Foreign commerce” means trade which happens entirely outside of the 11 United States of America, such as a U.S. citizen working and getting paid abroad, or in a federal possession.)

12 As discussed above, the regulations under 22(a) of the 1939 Code show that the meaning of “gross income” does not include
13 income which is exempt by statute, or other income which is “under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal 14 Government.” But, as stated before, the regulations must specifically inform the public of what is required, rather than leaving
15 people to guess at what is Constitutionally taxable. The following is the first paragraph of the 1945 regulations under the 16 section of statutes defining “gross income”:

17 “39.22(a)-1 What included in gross income (a) Gross income includes in general [items of income listed]
18 derived from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law. See sections 22(b) and 116. [the regulations
19 under the cited section states that some income not exempted by statute is “under the Constitution, not taxable
20 by the Federal Government.”] In general, income [not “gross income”] is the gain derived from capital, from 21 labor, or from both combined, provided it be understood to include profit gained through a sale or conversion of 22 capital assets. Profits of citizens, residents, or domestic corporations derived from sales in foreign commerce
23 must be included in their gross income; but special provisions are made for nonresident aliens and foreign
24 corporations by sections 211 to 238, inclusive, and, in certain cases, by section 251, for citizens and domestic
25 corporations deriving income from sources within possessions of the United States. Income may be in the form
26 of cash or of property.”

27 Keeping in mind the matter of taxing jurisdiction, it becomes clear that the Secretary of the Treasury in these regulations was 28 informing the public of which matters are constitutionally taxable by the federal government. This list of taxable activities
29 is completely absent from 22(a) of the 1939 statutes. As the Supreme Court has stated, “the statute is to be read as though it
30 in terms exclude[s]” matters not within the constitutional power of the government to tax. At the same time, the regulations
31 must give specifics to the public of what the law requires, and here they do so. Not surprisingly, the list of taxable activities
32 in these regulations matches precisely those matters which the Constitution puts under federal jurisdiction (international and 33 foreign commerce, and federal possessions).

34 Anyone claiming that this list of taxable activities is not exclusive (claiming instead that other types of income are also 35 taxable) encounters a logical problem. One must then claim that the regulations specifically say that some income not exempt
36 by statute is exempt under the Constitution, but that those regulations never give any indication as to what income is meant.
37 If this list is not the explanation of what is constitutionally taxable, then no further explanation seems to exist (which would 38 violate the requirement that the regulations specifically state what the law requires).

39 In addition, one would be hard pressed to explain why these regulations bother to specifically point out these taxable activities
40 (when the statutes do not), if this is not a complete list of what the Secretary believed to be constitutionally taxable.

41 While the regulations specifically mention the Constitutional limitations, and the limits are to be assumed when reading the 42 statutes, this is not to say that the statutes give no indication of the limited nature of the tax. While the general statutory
43 definition of “gross income” by itself may be misleading, there is plenty of evidence in the statutes that shows that Congress
44 knew the limits of its power, and stayed within those bounds. Most notably, the entire structure and contents of Subchapter
45 N (“Tax based on income from sources within or without the United States”) indicates that it is about international and 46 foreign commerce.

47 5.6.5 The Definition of “income” for the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code

1 Have you ever closely examined block 1 of the W-2 form that your employer sends you at the end of every year? The block
 2 is labeled "Wages, tips, other compensation". Have you ever wondered why this block isn't labeled "income"? After all, if
 3 you correspond with or talk with the revenue agents at the IRS, they will try to make you believe that everything you make
 4 is "income", so why don't they just call it that on the form? Did you ever notice that they will NEVER put in writing with
 5 their signature on it that the amount in block 1 is "income" and wonder why? The answer to these intriguing questions are
 6 found in this section and they will surprise you indeed! One of the reasons is that neither your employer nor the government
 7 can lawfully call what you make "income" without committing blatant fraud and making themselves criminally liable in the 8 process!

9 Amazing as it may sound, the entire 9,500 page Internal Revenue Code also never defines the word "income" in the context
 10 of a person domiciled in a state of the Union! To wit:

- 11 1. 26 U.S.C. §643(b) defines the term "income", but only in the context of the estate of a deceased person domiciled within 12 the federal zone under Subtitle B, but not in the context of any tax documented under Subtitle A. Below is that definition:

13 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter J > PART I > Subpart A > § 643
 14 § 643. Definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D

15 (b) Income For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term "income", when not preceded by the 16 words "taxable", "distributable net", "undistributed net", or "gross", means the amount of income of the estate
 17 or trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law.
 18 Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting
 19 in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable
 20 local law shall not be considered income.

21 As we learned earlier in section 5.1.11, the Internal Revenue Code serves a dual purpose. Subtitles A through C only
 22 apply to federal employees domiciliaries of the District of Columbia. Subtitles D and E apply throughout the states
 23 (mostly but not exclusively). From the very foundations of this country, the founders bestowed upon Congress no
 24 limitations as to the right to institute estate taxes within the District of Columbia and territories. This conclusion is based 25 on the ruling of the Supreme Court in the case of Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900), which explains the history of 26 estate taxes very thoroughly.

- 27 2. Under Subtitle A, the IRS defines the phrase "gross income" in 26 U.S.C. §61 and 26 U.S.C. §872 but it never tells you
 28 that "gross income" must also meet the Constitutional definition of "income" defined by the Supreme Court to be applied
 29 to the "items of gross income" appearing in that section. The older version of the codes and regulations used to do that 30 (see 26 C.F.R. §39.22(b)-1 (1956), for instance) but the new version was obfuscated to disguise it.

31 On many occasions, and especially during examinations or summons or depositions, IRS agents and DOJ lawyers will ask
 32 people "how much income did you have during taxable year ____?" As an American domiciled in the 50 Union states, the 33 correct answer is "that depends how you define 'income'. I didn't have any 'GROSS income', and the true definition of 34 'income' in my case is that defined in I.R.C. section 901." If you look in that section, the title of the section is "Sec. 901.
 35 Taxes of foreign countries and of possessions of United States" As we described earlier in section 5.2.5, everything outside
 36 of federal territories and possessions of the United States**/federal zone is "foreign" with respect to the I.R.C., and therefore 37 each of the 50 Union states are considered "foreign countries" with respect to the Internal Revenue Code, as we talked about
 38 in section 5.3.5 earlier. This conclusion forms the basis for why the correct form to file for Americans born in the federal
 39 zone and who are living overseas is IRS Form 2555. If you look over I.R.C. section 901, the income of Americans domiciled
 40 in the nonfederal areas simply isn't listed as being taxable within that section! You can therefore legitimately answer the 41 auditor or revenue agent during the examination that your "gross income" and your "taxable income" are both a "big fat
 42 zero." One of our readers (Wayne Bentson) used this technique during a deposition against the IRS and reported that 43 afterward he overheard two IRS revenue agents whispering to each other "He knows!", after which they promptly ended the 44 deposition! Even more interesting is that the very same sources of "gross income" enumerated in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) and 45 applying to both sources within and sources without the "[federal] United States**" are mentioned in this section 901 (FSC, 46 DISC, etc).

47 There still remains the question as to what is constitutionally allowable as "income" which can be taxed, as Congress is not
 48 constitutionally free to define "income" in any way it chooses (Simpson v. U.S., [D.C. Iowa 1976] 423 F.Supp. 720, reversed 49 on other grounds, Prescott v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, [C.A.] 561 F.2d. 1287). Further, the labels used do not 50 determine the extent of the taxing power (Simmons v. U.S., [C.A. Md. 1962] 308 F.2d. 160; Richardson v. U.S., [C.A. Mich.

To reiterate; the tax authorized under the original U.S. Constitution has not changed except as to separate the source of "income" from the income itself permitting the collection of an indirect (excise) tax on income by leaving the source for items of gross income for the recipient (wages, salaries, fees for service, and first time commissions) free of tax (Brushaber, supra.) despite how some politicians misinterpret the 16th Amendment.

NOTE: The Brushaber court referred to an earlier case, Pollock v. Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601 (1895) which declared the Income Tax Act of 1894 unconstitutional, as its effect would have been to leave the burden of the tax to be born by professions, trades, employments, or vocations; and in that way, what was intended as a tax on capital would remain, in substance, a tax on occupations and labor. This result, the court held, could NOT have been contemplated by Congress.

According to one federal court:

*"The general term "income" is not defined in the Internal Revenue Code."
[U.S. v. Ballard, 535 F.2d. 400(8th Cir, 1976)]*

Of course, we now know based on an examination of 26 U.S.C. §643(b) above that this conclusion is wrong based on the I.R.C. of today, but this may have been true when the ruling occurred in 1976. The U.S. Supreme Court has also ruled that Congress may not make its own definition of "income" in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920):

*"In order, therefore, that the [apportionment] clauses cited from article I [§2, cl. 3 and §9, cl. 4] of the Constitution may have proper force and effect ...[I]t becomes essential to distinguish between what is an what is not 'income,' ...according to truth and substance, without regard to form. Congress cannot by any definition it may adopt conclude the matter, since it cannot by legislation alter the Constitution, from which alone, it derives its power to legislate, and within those limitations alone that power can be lawfully exercised... [pg. 207] ...After examining dictionaries in common use we find little to add to the succinct definition adopted in two cases arising under the Corporation Tax Act of 1909, Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 415, 34 S.Sup.Ct. 136, 140 [58 L.Ed. 285] and Doyle v. Mitchell Bros. Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Sup.Ct. 467, 469, 62 L.Ed. 1054..."*

It is important to point out that the above ruling was made in the context of the Constitution and the states of the Union. Congress has always had the authority to declare the meaning of "income" in the context of the federal zone, but must observe the limitations of the Constitution when attempting to collect taxes in states of the Union. So what is "income"? Here are some definitions direct from the U.S. Supreme Court as cited in one of the above-mentioned cases:

*"...Whatever difficulty there may be about a precise scientific definition of 'income,' it imports, as used here, something entirely distinct from principal or capital either as a subject of taxation or as a measure of the tax;
conveying rather the idea of gain or increase arising from corporate activities."*
[Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 467 (1918)]

Has the IRS been treating you as a corporation all these years? When people see this, they say things like:

If you already read sections 4.1 and 5.1.1 earlier, you would understand why this is the case. For those of you who haven't, keep reading and we will clarify. Here is the other cite defining income mentioned in the Eisner ruling, from Stratton's Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 414, 58 L.Ed. 285, 34 Sup.Ct. 136 (1913):

*"This court had decided in the Pollock Case that the income tax law of 1894 amounted in effect to a direct tax upon property, and was invalid because not apportioned according to populations, as prescribed by the Constitution. The act of 1909 avoided this difficulty by imposing not an income tax, but an excise tax upon the conduct of business in a corporate capacity, measuring, however, the amount of tax by the income of the corporation...Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107, 55 L.Ed. 389, 31 Sup.Ct.Rep. 342, Ann. Cas."*

The case cited above in Stratton's, Flint v. Stone, is very enlightening on exactly what type of activity or source of income is being taxed and who has to pay the tax:

1           “The Corporation Tax is not a direct tax within the enumeration provision of the Constitution, but is an impost
2 or excise which Congress [220 U.S. 107] has power to impose under Art. I, §8, cl. 1, of the Constitution. Pollock
3 v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601, distinguished.

4           “Indirect taxation includes a tax on business done in a corporate capacity; the difference between it and direct 5 taxation imposed on property because of its ownership is substantial, and not merely nominal.

6           “Excises are taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale, or consumption of commodities within the country, upon 7 licenses to pursue certain occupations and upon corporate privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves
8 the exercise of the privilege, and if business is not done in the manner described, no tax is payable.

9           “The only limitations on the power of Congress to levy excise taxes are that they must be for the public welfare
10 and must be uniform throughout the United States; they do not have to be apportioned.

11           “Courts may not add any limitations on the power of Congress to impose excise taxes to that of uniformity, which 12 was deemed sufficient by those who framed and adopted the Constitution.

13           “The revenues of the United States must be obtained from the same territory, and the same people, and its
14 excise taxes collected from the same activities, as are also reached by the states to support their local
15 governments, and this fact must be considered in determining whether there are any implied limitations on the 16 federal power to tax because of the sovereignty of the states over matters within their exclusive jurisdiction.

17           “Enactments of Congress levying taxes are, as are other laws of the federal government acting within 18 constitutional authority, the supreme law of the land.

19           “Business activities such as those enumerated in the Corporation Tax Law are not beyond the excise taxing power
20 of Congress because executed under franchises created by the states.

21           “The power of Congress to raise revenue is essential to national existence, and cannot be impaired or limited by 22 individuals incorporating and acting under state authority. The mere fact that business is transacted pursuant
23 to state authority creating private corporations does not exempt it from the power of Congress to levy excise
24 laws upon the privilege of so doing.

25           “The exemption from federal taxation of the means and instrumentalities employed in carrying on the 26 governmental operations of the states does not extend to state agencies and instrumentalities used for carrying
27 on business of a private character. South Carolina v. United States, 199 U.S. 437. 220 U.S. 111

28           “The constitutional limitation of uniformity in excise taxes does not require equal application of the tax to all 29 coming within its operation, but is limited to geographical uniformity throughout the United States. Knowlton v.
30 Moore, 178 U.S. 41.”
31 [Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911)]

32 So what they are saying above in Flint is that in order to have “income” as Constitutionally defined, one must be a corporation
33 earning “profit” from a privileged activity or source that is subject to federal excise taxes. This applies equally to both federal 34 and state corporations, but only as provided by statute. The key is that the only taxable activities or sources for federal income
35 taxes are all related to foreign commerce, which is the only “privileged” type of commerce coming under federal jurisdiction
36 under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution. Foreign commerce is the 37 “privileged” activity that is subject to the federal excise tax because foreign commerce is subject only to federal regulation
38 and not state regulation.

39           “The States, after they formed the Union, continued to have the same range of taxing power which they had
40 before, barring only duties affecting exports, imports, and on tonnage. 2 Congress, on the other hand, to lay
41 taxes in order 'to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States',
42 Art. 1, Sec. 8, U.S.C.A.Const., can reach every person and every dollar in the land with due regard to 43 Constitutional limitations as to the method of laying taxes.”
44 [Graves v. People of State of New York, 306 U.S. 466 (1939)]

45 The legal definition of “duty” confirms that it is an excise tax on imports:

46           “Duty....denotes a tax or impost due to the government upon the importation or exportation of goods. See 19
47 U.S.C.A. See also Customs; Customs duties; Tariff; Toll; Tonnage-duty.”
48 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 505]

The fact that foreign commerce is a privileged activity that comes exclusively under federal jurisdiction is confirmed by examining 26 U.S.C. §7001, which requires that all such foreign commerce activities of legal fictions called “persons” [which in fact are corporations] be licensed by the federal government:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 72 > Subchapter A > Sec. 7001.
 Sec. 7001. - Collection of foreign items

(a) License

All persons undertaking as a matter of business or for profit the collection of foreign payments of interest or dividends by means of coupons, checks, or bills of exchange shall obtain a license from the Secretary and shall be subject to such regulations enabling the Government to obtain the information required under subtitle A (relating to income taxes) as the Secretary shall prescribe.

(b) Penalty for failure to obtain license

For penalty for failure to obtain the license provided for in this section, see section 7231

Under the current Internal Revenue Code, excise taxes under Subtitles D and E are the only such foreign commerce activities subject to legitimate federal excise taxes on “income”. Under subtitles A and C, the only taxable activities are foreign commerce of corporations and the only persons subject to the jurisdiction of the code are corporate officers, but because there is no liability statute anywhere in these subtitles, then income taxes under Subtitle A and Employment taxes under Subtitle C are not really “taxes” as legally defined, but more properly “donations”, and are voluntary. We covered this subject more thoroughly earlier in section 5.1.8. The only biological persons who can define earnings or monies as taxable under the Internal Revenue Code are those who “volunteer” to call it so, because the federal government isn’t authorized in the Constitution to define it as other than “corporate profit” from foreign commerce, according to the Supreme Court in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920). Incidentally, there are many who might be tempted to say that the ruling of the Supreme Court in Flint v. Stone Tracy above is irrelevant and overruled because it was made before the passage of the Sixteenth Amendment in 1913, which most contemporary politicians say is what authorized the income tax. However, this is a simply not true because the Supreme Court later ruled in Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916) that the Sixteenth Amendment “conferred no new powers of taxation.”

The above findings are completely consistent with our analysis found in section 5.1.8, where we concluded that Subtitle A Income taxes are indirect excise taxes on federal privileges. In the instant case above, the privilege is status as a corporation involved in foreign commerce:

United States Code
 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
 Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) "United States" means -

(A) a Federal corporation;

(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or

(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

As a matter of fact, the U.S. Supreme Court has admitted that ALL governments are corporations!:

"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution."
 [Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, 36 U.S. 420 (1837)]

The people in receipt of taxable federal corporate “privileges” are the officers of the corporation, who in this case are the “public officers” of the corporation working as Congressmen, the President, judges, and appointees of the President!

26 U.S.C. §7701

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(26) The term “trade or business” includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

26 U.S.C. §871\(b\)\(2\)-GRADUATED RATE OF TAX...

“(2) DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME.—In determining taxable income...gross income includes ONLY gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a TRADE OR BUSINESS within the United States.”

Following is a definition of “public office”:

*Public Office, pursuant to Black’s Law Dictionary, Abridged Sixth Edition, means:

“Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:

- (6) Authority conferred by law,
- (7) Fixed tenure of office, and
- (8) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
- (9) Key element of such test is that “officer is carrying out a sovereign function”.
- (10) Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:
  - (a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
  - (b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
  - (c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
  - (d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
  - (e) Position must have some permanency.”

The section below shows the only persons from whom unpaid taxes can be collected, and note that it is federal “public officers” or instrumentalities of the federal corporation known as the U.S. government, who are in receipt of taxable privileges:

26 U.S.C., Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes
Sec. 6331. Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

(b) Seizure and sale of property

The term “levy” as used in this title includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (e), a levy shall extend only to property possessed and obligations existing at the time thereof. In any case in which the Secretary may levy upon property or rights to property, he may seize and sell such property or rights to property (whether real or personal, tangible or intangible).

And the definition of “employee” confirms that these people against whom collection can be instituted are really just elected or appointed officers of the federal corporation known as the U.S. government:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(c\) Employee: “...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof,

1 or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term
2 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

3 The above are the ONLY entities against whom collection actions can be instituted, and this is a reflection of the fact that the
4 income tax is really just an embodiment of the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939! Essentially, taxes under Subtitle A are part of
5 the terms of the federal employment agreement that public officers voluntarily accept as a condition of employment. Section
6 5.6.10 expands upon this point. When you file a form 1040, you are in effect electing to treat your income as "effectively
7 connected with a trade or business in the United States" which is the equivalent of saying that you want to be treated as a
8 "public officer" of the U.S. government whose income is taxable under the indirect excise tax found in Internal Revenue
9 Code, Subtitle A!

10 To extend this federal corporation metaphor even further, the debt instruments or "stocks" issued by this federal corporation
11 known as the U.S. government are U.S. dollars! See the following cite right from the Supreme Court on this subject, where 12 someone challenged the constitutionality of paper money in preference to gold-backed currency:

13 "Under the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, and to issue circulating notes for the money
14 borrowed, [Congress'] power to define the quality and force of those notes as currency is as broad as the like
15 power over a metallic currency under the power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof. Under the two
16 powers, taken together, Congress is authorized to establish a national currency, either in coin or in paper, and
17 to make that currency lawful money for all purposes, as regards the national government or private individuals."
18 ... (Emphasis added)
19 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421, 448, 4 S.Ct. 122, 130, 28 L.Ed. 204 (1884)]

20 There you have it. The paper money you carry around is "stock" in the federal corporation called the "U.S. government" and 21 that government wants to make you a "stockholder" and an officer of that corporation in receipt of federal privileges so they 22 can tax those privileges using the Subtitle A income tax! We know, however, that they can't legitimately do this because the 23 result would be unavoidable financial slavery:

24 "Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege [Taxation West Key
25 53]...The Right to receive income or earnings is a right belonging to every person and realization and receipt of 26 income, is therefore, not a privilege that can be taxed." [Taxation West Key 533]-Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland,

28 "The obligation to pay an excise tax is based upon the voluntary action of the person taxed in performing the act,
29 enjoying the privilege, or engaging in the occupation which is the subject of the excise, and the element of 30 absolute and unavoidable demand is lacking."

33 Thank God we live in a free country, because our greedy government certainly has pushed us as far in the direction of 34 socialism as they could since the income tax was introduced in 1913 and as it has been perfected over the last 70 or so years,
35 haven't they? To see this federal corporation metaphor for the U.S. government extended even further, we refer you to section
36 4.7 for a fascinating look at the two faces of our federal government: democratic socialism vs. capitalist republic. This 37 section is well worth your time to read and study.

38 You don't, however, have to believe us that "income" can only be defined by the U.S. Constitution as federal corporate 39 profit. Look in section 3.11.11.1, which talks about the legislative intent of the Sixteenth Amendment. That section has the 40 entire speech of President Taft given before Congress on June 16, 1909 for the purpose of introducing the Sixteenth
41 Amendment for ratification. Here is an excerpt from that speech:

42 I therefore recommend to the Congress that both Houses, by a two-thirds vote, shall propose an amendment to 43 the Constitution conferring the power to levy an income tax upon the National Government without

47 accomplishes the same purpose as a corporation income tax and is free from certain objections urged to the 48 proposed income tax measure.

49 I therefore recommend an amendment to the tariff bill Imposing upon all corporations and joint stock
50 companies for profit, except national banks (otherwise taxed), savings banks, and building and loan associations,

1 an excise tax measured by 2 per cent on the net income of such corporations. This is an excise tax upon the
 2 privilege of doing business as an artificial entity and of freedom from a general partnership liability enjoyed
 3 by those who own the stock. [Emphasis added] I am informed that a 2 per cent tax of this character would bring
 4 into the Treasury of the United States not less than $25,000,000.

5 The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Spreckels Sugar Refining Company against McClain (192 U.S., 6 397), seems clearly to establish the principle that such a tax as this is an excise tax upon privilege and not a
 7 direct tax on property, and is within the federal power without apportionment according to population. The tax
 8 on net income is preferable to one proportionate to a percentage of the gross receipts, because it is a tax upon
 9 success and not failure. It imposes a burden at the source of the income at a time when the corporation is well
 10 able to pay and when collection is easy.

12 “Income has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (36 Stat. 112)
 13 in the 16th Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed.”
 14 [Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., 271 U.S. 170, 174 (1926)]

16 “As repeatedly pointed out by this court, the Corporation Tax Law of 1909, imposed an excise or privilege tax,
 17 and not in any sense, a tax upon property or upon income merely as income. It was enacted in view of the 18 decision of Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & T. Co., 157 U.S. 429, 29 L.Ed. 759, 15 Sup. St. Rep. 673, 158 U.S. 601,
 19 39 L.Ed. 1108, 15 Sup.Ct.Rep. 912, which held the income tax provisions of a previous law to be unconstitutional
 20 because amounting in effect to a direct tax upon property within the meaning of the Constitution, and because
 22 [U.S. v. Whiteridge, 231 U.S. 144, 34 S.Sup.Ct. 24 (1913)]

24 “The conclusion reached in the Pollock case.. recognized the fact that taxation on income was, in its nature, an 25 excise...”
 26 [Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 16-17 (1916)]

28 “We must reject in this case, as we have rejected in cases arising under the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909
 29 (Doyle, Collector, v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 38 Sup.Ct. 467, 62 L.Ed.--), the broad contention
 30 submitted on behalf of the government that all receipts—everything that comes in—are income within the proper
 31 definition of the term ‘gross income,’ and that the entire proceeds of a conversion of capital assets, in whatever
 32 form and under whatever circumstances accomplished, should be treated as gross income. Certainly the term
 33 ‘income’ has no broader meaning in the 1913 act than in that of 1909 (see Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 34 231 U.S. 399, 416, 417 S., 34 Sup.Ct. 136), and for the present purpose we assume there is not difference in its 35 meaning as used in the two acts.”
 36 [Southern Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

38 “... the definition of income approved by the Court is:

39 “The gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined, provided it be understood to include 40 profits gained through sale or conversion of capital assets.”
 41 Eisner, supra.

42 “Income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment and the Revenue Act means, gain ... and in such connection
 43 gain means profit ... proceeding from property severed from capital, however invested or employed and coming 44 in, received or drawn by the taxpayer for his separate use, benefit and disposal”
 45 [Stapler v. U.S., 21 F.Supp. 737, U.S. Dist. Ct. EDPA, (1937)]

46 The Court ruled similarly in Goodrich v. Edwards, 255 U.S. 527 (1921) and in 1969, the Court ruled in Conner v. U.S., 303

48 “Whatever may constitute income, therefore must have the essential feature of gain to the recipient. This was true
 49 when the 16th Amendment became effective, it was true at the time of Eisner v. Macomber, supra, it was true
 50 under sect. 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1938, and it is likewise true under sect. 61(a) of the I.R.S. Code
 51 of 1954. If there is not gain, there is not income .... Congress has taxed INCOME and not compensation.”

52 And here is more evidence that earnings from labor are not “income”:

 54 [Edwards v. Keith, 231 F. 110 (1916)]

1 Even at the state level, we find courts following the lead of the U.S. Supreme Court:

2 "There is a clear distinction between profit and wages or compensation for labor. Compensation for labor cannot 3 be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law."
 4 [Oliver v. Halstead, 196 Va. 992, 86 S.E.2d. 858 (1955)]

5 and:

6 "Reasonable compensation for labor or services rendered is not profit."
 7 [Laureldale Cemetery Assoc. v. Matthews, 345 Pa. 239, 47 A.2d. 277, 280 (1946)]

8 Clearly, then, we have firmly established based on the above cites from the Supreme Court that:

- 9 1. Congress has no authority to redefine the meaning of income. The Constitution is the only thing that can define it.
- 10 2. Any attempt by Congress to redefine the meaning of income in the Internal Revenue Code can safely be disregarded if
- 11 it is inconsistent with the above definitions by the Constitution and the U.S. Supreme Court.
- 12 3. Income taxes authorized by the Sixteenth Amendment starting in 1913 are and always have been indirect excise taxes
- 13 only on state or federal corporations involved in foreign commerce.
- 14 4. The tax is not on income, it is a tax on gain or profit derived from the sale or conversion of federal (not state) corporate
- 15 assets and the amount of tax is computed based on the amount of gain (income).
- 16 5. Because the income tax is an indirect excise tax and all excise taxes are taxes on privileges, the tax must be paid by the
- 17 federal corporation to the entity granting the privilege. A state-chartered corporation would also pay income tax to the
- 18 federal government, but only on profits derived from foreign commerce, which is the only aspect of commerce that the
- 19 federal government is granted with the jurisdiction to regulate and tax under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S.
- 20 Constitution. A federally-chartered corporation would NOT pay income tax to a state unless it physically operates within
- 21 the state.
- 22 6. The U.S. government is classified as a federal corporation. This can be confirmed by examining 28 U.S.C. §3002, we
- 23 find:

24 United States Code
 25 TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
 26 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
 27 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
 28 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

29 Sec. 3002. Definitions
 30 (15) "United States" means -
 31 (A) a Federal corporation;
 32 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
 33 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

- 34 7. Regardless of what any circuit court says about the meaning of income, the U.S. Supreme Court's rulings above
- 35 supersede all circuit courts. This finding agrees with the Internal Revenue Manual:

36 Internal Revenue Manual
 37 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05-14-1999)
 38 Importance of Court Decisions

39 1. "Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may

40 be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

42 becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service

43 must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the

44 Code.

45 3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the

46 Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require

47 the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."

48 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

1 The findings above are entirely consistent with the taxable sources listed as taxable in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f), which are all
2 either income earned by Americans living overseas or income from federally chartered corporate activities. How do we apply
3 what we have just learned? Let's apply it to the Treasury Regulations, the I.R.C. (Internal Revenue Code) and the I.R.M.
4 (Internal Revenue Manual).

5 Since the Rules contained in the Internal Revenue Manual, even if codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, do not
6 have the force and effect of law (U.S. v. Horne, [C.A. Me. 1983] 714 F.2d. 206) and the power to promulgate regulations
7 does not include the power to broaden or narrow the meaning of statutory provisions beyond what Congress intended (Abbot,
8 Procter & Paine v. U.S., [1965] 344 F.2d. 333, 170 Cl.Ct. 408) and regulations cannot do what Congress itself is without 9 power to do; they must conform to the Constitution (C.I.R. v. Van Vorst, [C.C.A. 1932] 59 F.2d. 677).

10 Since the above cases are the undisputable law with respect to what is or is not income, we find the word "income" does not
11 mean all monies that come into the possession of an individual, which is called "gross receipts", but rather profit or gain
12 FROM the money a [federal] corporate "person" (a legal fiction denoting a corporation) takes in, such as interest, stock
13 dividends, profit from an employee's labors. All of these constraints on the definition of "income" result from the 14 apportionment clauses found in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution. None of 15 the income of most individuals falls in the category of "income" defined by the Supreme Court, and therefore such "income"
16 cannot be taxable "gross income" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §61. This means that a natural person's wages, which are
17 compensation for his labor, are not taxable because such a tax would amount to an unconstitutional direct tax on property
18 (labor). With no taxable "income", you are not liable to file a return. These conclusions are confirmed by the Supreme Court,
19 which said on the subject:

20 "Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can
22 [The Antelope, 23 U.S. 66, 10 Wheat 66, 6 L.Ed. 268 (1825)]

23 Now let's look at the history behind this analysis to see if it corroborates our findings. In 1909, Congress enacted the federal
24 corporation excise tax and sent to the states for ratification the proposed income tax amendment. The measure of that excise
25 after a $5,000 deduction, on the privilege of doing business as a corporation, was income from whatever source derived,
26 including rents and interest on real and personal property. When the excise was upheld by the Supreme Court in Flint v.
27 Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911), the court suggested a neat tax avoidance device: just don't operate as a corporation.

28 You know what happened to the federal corporation excise tax? It was repealed after Flint. Do you suppose this was a
29 chance happening or a well-orchestrated plan to force an income tax on Americans? Following Flint, Congress lost no time
30 in plugging this proffered loophole. The Tariff Act of 1913, also known as the Federal Income Tax Law, repealed the 31 corporate excise tax and imposed the individual income tax on corporations instead. This little ploy helped keep the "what's 32 income" controversy pot boiling for decades. Chief Justice White would effectively keep a lid on any "income revelations"
34 which declared the first direct income tax unconstitutional. Chief Justice Taft, the former President who had appointed White
35 as Chief Justice, then took over after White. Taft was even more dedicated to expanding the income tax than White, even 36 though they were both in the same camp. Recall that Taft proposed the Sixteenth Amendment while serving as President and 37 also the one whose Secretary of State Philander(er) Knox fraudulently ratified it.

38 What value or purpose does the 16th Amendment have? The Sixteenth Amendment is a dodge, a subterfuge and it worked.
39 After its ratification, everyone in the country was poised to receive and accept an income tax from the Congress. There was 40 popular support for an income tax on the rich. Everyone knew it was coming and everyone who wasn't rich wanted it.
41 Practically, no one thought they would ever be lucky enough to have to pay an income tax. Even though the amendment
42 conferred no new taxing powers upon Congress according to the Supreme Court in Stanton v. Baltic Mining, Congress and 43 members of the executive branch have systematically been trying to deceive people into thinking that the Amendment created
44 a new type of tax on people, which is a blatant fraud. Write your Congressman or woman and ask them why you have to pay
45 income tax and this is the kind of LIES that they will tell you in their letter. We have a copy of such a response from our 46 Congressperson.

47 Congress had passed a similar income tax during the Civil War. The Civil War taxing acts contained a section that imposed
48 a requirement to keep track of any money earned. What good does it do to fool people into believing that something called 49 "income" is being taxed if no one has any? The IRS is very open about their Civil War history. The IRS admits they sent
50 agents out to make up assessment lists of those who were believed to owe a tax. If a person didn't sign up for the tax right
51 away there was a 50% penalty. What I never expect them to admit is that these agents were outside their area of their

1 territorial jurisdiction and that the Constitution never empowered Congress to collect the equivalent of direct taxes within the
2 borders of states of the union on land that is not part of the federal zone.

3 The income tax they were collecting was one based on the exercise of general police powers which Congress only had in the 4 District of Columbia, federal enclaves inside the states, and the territories. Even in those areas it was a direct tax that had to 5 be apportioned. That problem was resolved by making the tax a "forced" voluntary tax. How such a tax could be fully 6 implemented will be the subject of this entire document.

7 The Sixteenth Amendment gives Congress the power to enact an excise tax, but Congress created an income tax that wasn't
8 an excise. Rather than name an excisable activity Congress created the magic words "taxable income". The Congress then
9 created a voluntary self-assessment taxation system based on "taxable income". Such a taxation system depended completely
10 on the power to exercise the police power. Congress had the police power in the seat of government and the territories. The 11 U.S. Supreme Court would then cite some old cases to seemingly find the new income tax to be constitutional, with the aid
12 of the chief advocate and creator of the Sixteenth Amendment, who was President Taft, who also served in the Supreme Court
13 as chief justice for 9 years after he had his hand-picked Secretary of State, Philander (philanderer?) Knox fraudulently claim
14 in 1913 that the Sixteenth Amendment had been properly ratified by the required  $\frac{3}{4}$  of the states.

15 If you would like to learn more about the definition of "income", we refer you to a very in depth study of the subject in an

17 <http://www.constitutionalincome.com/>

18 Phil provides both in his book and on his website an interesting summary of his research regarding the Constitutional meaning
19 of "income" which he calls "10 Key Facts", which we now repeat here for your benefit as follows:

- 20 • Fact #1: "In examining the history of the debate and ratification of the 16th Amendment, this book will show that 21 there is no evidence upon which the government can rely for their claim that the American People desired to have 22 their wages and salaries taxed. No evidence can be found in the law journals of the time, not in the journals on 23 political economy or economics, not in the Congressional Record nor other Congressional documents, nor in any of 24 the newspapers of record of the time. In other words, the government's position that wages and salaries equals income
25 within the meaning of the 16th Amendment is 'wholly without foundation.'" Phil Hart, Constitutional Income: Do
26 You Have Any? page 10, (Alpine Press, 2001).
- 27 • Fact #2: A tax on wages payable by the wage earner is a Capitation Tax. So says the premier authority on the 28 issue, Adam Smith author of the timeless work Wealth of Nations. See ibid. pp. 141-145.
- 29 • Fact #3: Capitation Taxes are direct taxes and are required by the Constitution to be apportioned among the 50
30 Union states. The 16th Amendment had nothing to do with Capitation Taxes. Ibid. pp. 250 - 253.
- 31 • Fact #4: In the few hours just prior to the Senate's passage of the 16th Amendment the morning of July 5, 1909,
32 the Senate twice by vote rejected two separate proposals to include direct taxes within the authority of the 16th
33 Amendment. Ibid. pages 193-200.
- 34 • Fact #5: In briefs and argument before the Supreme Court in the case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad, 35 both Brushaber and the Government claimed that the 16th Amendment provided for a direct tax exempted from the 36 Constitutional apportionment rule. The High Court called this claim an "erroneous assumption...wholly without 37 foundation." Ibid. pp. 204-210.
- 38 • Fact #6: Just weeks after the Brushaber Case was decided, Mr. Stanton, in the case of Stanton v. Baltic Mining 39 Co. again claimed (35 times) that the 16th Amendment created a new class of constitutional tax, that being a direct
40 tax exempted from the apportionment rule. The High Court said in this case that the 16th Amendment created "no
41 new tax." Ibid. pp. 212-220.

- 1 • Fact #7: In the Stanton and Brushaber Cases, the Supreme Court ruled correctly by excluding direct taxes from 2 the 16th Amendment. The intent of the American People and that of Congress was never to directly tax the American
3 People, but only to tax income severed from accumulated wealth. Ibid. pp. 244 - 270.
- 4 • Fact #8: When the Supreme Court stated in the Eisner, Stanton, and Doyle Cases that "Income may be derived 5 from capital, or labor or from both combined" all these cases dealt with corporations and had nothing to do with the 6 "Are wages income?" question. Ibid. pp. 239-244 and 272-274.
- 7 • Fact #9: The genesis of the 16th Amendment was the income tax plank of the Democrat Party's Presidential 8 Platform of 1908 which clearly reveals the intent of that Amendment:

9 "We favor an income tax as part of our revenue system, and we urge the submission of a constitutional amendment
10 specifically authorizing Congress to levy and collect a tax upon individual and corporate incomes, to the end that 11 wealth may bear its proportional share of the burdens of the federal government." Ibid. p. 48.

- 12 • Fact #10: There is not, and never has been, any delegation of authority from We the People to the government
13 for the collection of an unapportioned direct tax on the wages and salaries of the American People. It has been a 14 maxim of English Law since the Magna Carta of 1215, that the People must consent to all taxation. "We are being 15 taxed without our Consent!" Ibid. p. 278.

16 Here is a table adapted and expanded from page 120 of Phil's book which we believe is entirely accurate. It shows under 17 what circumstances Congress has the Constitutional authority to define the word "income" within the contexts of the Statutes
18 at Large or the U.S. Code:
19

Table 5-53: Where the federal government can define "income"

NOTES:

1. The word "income" as used above is defined in its constitutional sense.
2. "Government employees" as used above include only "public officers" of the United States government.
3. For the purposes of the above table, "nationals" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) who are domiciled in the 50 union states and "non-resident non-persons" if not engaged in a public office and "nonresident aliens" if engaged in a public office.

5.6.6 "Gross Income"

A detailed understanding of the meaning of the term "gross income" is crucial to understanding the income tax enforcement fraud. This section is devoted exclusively to that topic.

According to 26 U.S.C. §63, "taxable income" means "gross income" minus deductions:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter B > PART 1 > Sec. 63.
Sec. 63. - Taxable income defined

(a) In general

Except as provided in subsection (b), for purposes of this subtitle, the term "taxable income" means gross income minus the deductions allowed by this chapter (other than the standard deduction).

To have "taxable income", one must first have "gross income". "Gross income" is then defined as follows:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART II > Subpart A > Sec. 872.
Sec. 872. - Gross income

(a) General rule

In the case of a nonresident alien individual, except where the context clearly indicates otherwise, gross income includes only -

*(1) gross income which is derived from sources within the United States [** the federal zone] and which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States [** federal zone], and*

*(2) gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States [** federal zone].*

26 U.S.C. §61 defines "classes of gross income" but 26 U.S.C. §872 is the only section that actually defines which "individuals" can earn "gross income". Notice that this definition of "gross income" is found in Subpart A of the I.R.C., which is entitled "Nonresident aliens". This is consistent with the definition of "individual" as being either an "alien" or "nonresident alien" as we revealed later in section 5.5.4 and in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). As we said in that section, the 1040 form is intended only for STATUTORY "resident aliens" and for STATUTORY "U.S. citizens". The 1040NR form is intended for “nonresident aliens”. This is consistent with the definition of “withholding agent”, who is responsible for withholding on:

1. “nonresident aliens” (26 U.S.C. §1441).
2. “foreign corporations” (26 U.S.C. §1442).
3. “foreign tax-exempt organizations” (26 U.S.C. §1443).

Another interesting fact is that the only “individuals” who are subject to withholding are “nonresident aliens”, from (26 U.S.C. §1441). If you search the entire Internal Revenue Code, you will not find any definition of “gross income” that applies to any type of “individual” other than a “nonresident alien”. This implies that “U.S. citizens” who do not work for the federal government are incapable of earning “gross income” and confirms that they are not the specific and singular “individual” mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §1 upon whom Subtitle A personal income taxes are “imposed”. Yes, the regulations under 26 U.S.C. §1 at 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 do mention “citizens”, but if there is no definition of “gross income” anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code that connects the earnings of these natural persons to the income tax by calling their earnings “gross income”, then it’s meaningless to even mention them. The reason they are mentioned at all in this regulations is because corporations are legally “citizens”, and the Supreme Court has never defined “income” as meaning anything but corporate profit in the context of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. Furthermore, since the underlying statute that 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 implements doesn’t mention “citizens”, then neither can the regulation, so it’s illegal for the Secretary of the Treasury to even mention “U.S. citizens” in this regulation!:

“When enacting §7206(1) Congress undoubtedly knew that the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, so long as they carry into effect the will of Congress as expressed by the statutes. Such regulations have the force of law. The Secretary, however, does not have the power to make law.” Dixon v. United States, supra.
[United States v. Levy, 533 F.2d. 969 (1976)]

If you look in the Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS) at the link below, you will find that the only persons they say are “U.S. nationals” are those persons domiciled in outlying territories of the United States government. Since we established in chapter 4 that “nationals” are “nonresident aliens” for the purposes of I.R.C., Subtitle A income taxes when engaged in a public office, then from the erroneous perception of the POM, the only people who are “nonresident aliens” in the entire country (United States*) are domiciled in Swains Island and American Samoa!

RS 02001.010 United States Nationals

A. INTRODUCTION

Most of the agreements include one or more provisions that determine a worker's coverage based on his or her nationality.

B. DEFINITION

A U.S. national is a U.S. citizen or a person who, although not a U.S. citizen, owes permanent allegiance to the United States. The only persons who are U.S. nationals but not U.S. citizens are American Samoans and natives of Swains Island.

Anyone born in the 50 states of the Union can technically also be a “national” or “national of the United States****” if they correct (not expatriate) government records describing their citizenship status to correctly reflect exactly what they already are to become a non-privileged person. From the perspective of the above unofficial publication, however, our “silly” servants think that the only place that “non-residents”, and therefore “nonresident aliens” live is in U.S. territories and possessions. We showed in section 4.8 that these “territories” are not covered by the Bill of Rights and therefore may be subjected to direct taxes without apportionment, which is why the only natural persons who receive “gross income” as defined in the I.R.C. are “nonresident aliens” domiciled in territories of the United States who are employed as “public officers” of the United States government. This is confirmed by examining the 1954 code version of 26 U.S.C. §931:

Sec. 931. INCOME FROM SOURCES WITHIN POSSESSIONS OF THE UNITED STATES [provided in part]

(a) General rule.

In the case of individual citizens of the United States, gross income means only gross income from sources within the [federal] United States if the conditions of both paragraph (1) and paragraph (2) are satisfied:

(1) 3-year period. If 80 percent or more of the gross income of such citizen...was derived from sources within a possession of the United States; and

(2) Trade or business[political office]. If 50 percent or more of his gross income was derived from the active conduct of a trade or business within a possession of the United States either on his own account or as an employee or agent of another.

(h) Employees of the United States

For purposes of this section, amounts paid for services performed by a citizen of the United States as an employee of the United States or any agency thereof shall be deemed to be derived from sources within the United States.

Remember that “trade or business” above means the holding of a “public office” as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). In 1986, Congress obfuscated this section to conceal the truth, as revealed in the article below. Keep in mind that older versions of the code, however, remain in effect unless explicitly repealed:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/History/Congress/1986-26USC931Obfus.htm>

There are two types of “gross income”:

1. “Income” of corporations involved in foreign and international commerce, as described in the previous section. This “income” is defined as “corporate profit” by the U.S. supreme Court, as revealed later in section 5.6.5, which is the next section. The “sources” for this type of income are described in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) and include or mean only corporate profit from Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC’s) and Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC’s), as revealed later in section 5.6.10.
2. Earnings of “public officers” of the United States government. These earnings come from the salaries of “public officers” of the United States government, which are called “personal services” (see section 3.12.1.16) and which are “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” (see section 3.12.1.22). “Trade or business” is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv) also says that this type of income must be earned by a “nonresident alien” or else it is not “gross income”. Anyone else who earning monies that are not connected with political office in the United States government, according to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1), it is not subject to Subtitle A income tax. 26 U.S.C. §872(a)(1) says this type of “gross income” can also come from other sources “within” the federal United States government. This type of “gross income” is described and detailed later in section 5.6.10, entitled “The Public Officer Kickback Position”. Recall that the President, Representatives, and Senators must all be “Citizens of the United States” under the Constitution. They are the ONLY people who indeed hold “public office” in the United States government, other than appointees of the president, and these are the people who are identified as “nonresident aliens” in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). This reinforces our definition of “nonresident alien” and provides a nice prelude to the description of the Non-Resident Non-Person Position beginning later in section 5.6.13. For all of these public officers, declaring their earnings from political office as “gross income” is essentially considered an implied obligation of their employment agreement. It is an undocumented requirement to hold political office that all office holders, who are our “leaders” must maintain the fiction of the federal income tax by filing their income tax return every year and making it into a major media event. If they don’t, the Ponzi scheme will collapse and their federal pension will be adversely affected.

The previous section talks about the first type of “gross income”, which is what the Supreme Court calls “corporate profit” and which is earned by corporations. As we stated at the beginning of that section, you must earn “income” as legally defined before you can earn “gross income”, so technically, your compensation as a private person must meet both of the above requirements in order to be “gross income”. Because the Supreme Court has ruled repeatedly that the income tax is and always has been an indirect tax, then it can’t be on natural persons.<sup>175</sup> That is why there can’t be a liability statute in the context of natural persons under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. We’ll now therefore devote the remainder of this section to talking about the second type of “gross income” above, which is that in the context of the specific type of “individual” mentioned in the Internal Revenue Code. This “individual” is a “public officer” of the United States government only. You

1 can confirm this by looking at who levy and distraint may be instituted against in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) for the collection of
2 this tax, which is a “public officer” or instrumentality of the U.S. government:

16 [Underscore added for emphasis]

17 The term “gross income” was first introduced and used in the Revenue Act of 1918. Here is the definition from that Act:

18 Sec. 213. That for the purposes of this title...the term "gross income"-

19 ( a ) Includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service
20 *(including the case of the President of the United States, the judges of the Supreme and inferior courts of 21 the United States, and all other officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States,
22 Alaska, Hawaii, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, the compensation received as

24 or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in 25 such property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any business carried on for
26 gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever....[emphasis added]

27 In the above, the term “personal service” is defined as labor in connection with a “trade or business”, which is then defined
28 as the holding of a public office. See 26 C.F.R. §1.162-7, and pay special attention to the phrase “trade or business”, which 29 means “public office”.

38 The I.R.C. only tells half the story on “gross income” and could easily deceive the average American into believing that the 39 money they make is “gross income”. The place where the fraud of the income tax becomes abundantly obvious is in the 40 implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R.. The Federal Register Act, found in 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15, says in 44 U.S.C.
41 §1505(a) that every document which has “general applicability and legal effect” must be published in the Federal Register.
42 This means that anything which will apply to the public at large must be published in the Federal Register. This includes any 43 law which imposes a penalty or enforcement authority on the public at large.

45 Sec. 1505. - Documents to be published in Federal Register

46 *(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect;
47 Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

48 There shall be published in the Federal Register -

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect.

Laws which impose penalties on the public at large are called “Public Laws” or “general laws”. Laws which impose penalties on specific classes or groups of citizens only and not on everyone are referred to as “special law”.

“special law. One relating to particular persons or things; one made for individual cases or for particular places or districts; one operating upon a selected class, rather than upon the public generally. A private law. A law is “special” when it is different from others of the same general kind or designed for a particular purpose, or limited in range or confined to a prescribed field of action or operation. A “special law” relates to either particular persons, places, or things or to persons, places, or things which, though not particularized, are separated by any method of selection from the whole class to which the law might, but not such legislation, be applied. Utah Farm Bureau Ins. Co. v. Utah Ins. Guaranty Ass’n, Utah, 564 P.2d. 751, 754. A special law applies only to an individual or a number of individuals out of a single class similarly situated and affected, or to a special locality. Board of County Com’rs of Lemhi County v. Swensen, Idaho, 80 Idaho 198, 327 P.2d. 361, 362. See also Private bill; Private law. Compare General law; Public law.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1397-1398]

For instance, laws that only apply to federal “employees” are not required to be published in the Federal Register under the Federal Register Act. Refer to section 4.5.4.17 or the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, where a table is provided of enforcement statutes and their corresponding implementing regulations and show that all enforcement authorities under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A have no implementing regulations. This confirms that the I.R.C. is “special law” that only applies to federal “public officers” and “employees”.

The Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A can therefore best be described as special law which applies only to federal “public officers” and corporations domiciled in or residing in the federal zone or who are receiving federal payments. Our deceitful government has done its best to disguise this fact over the years but the truth still remains in the Internal Revenue Code and 26 C.F.R. for those who want to see it, albeit in obfuscated form.

There are lots of ways to prove this as it pertains to “individuals”. For instance, the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) refers not to “all individuals”, but to “an individual”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof -

(1) Person

The term “person” shall be construed to mean and include [throughout the Internal Revenue Code] an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation.

This means that there is a very specific type of “individual” referred to in the I.R.C. which is further defined elsewhere and it is for us to determine what the characteristics of this “individual” are. This individual, as you will find out later, is a person contracted with or employed with the U.S. and holding “public office”, which is the excise taxable activity one must be engaged in order to earn “gross income”.

Another way to show that the Internal Revenue Code is “special law” is by referring to it as a “Act of Congress”. All Acts of Congress are applicable only inside the federal zone by default.

1 "A canon of construction which teaches that of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is meant to apply
2 only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."
3 [U.S. v. Spelar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222 (1949)]

5 86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories (2003)

6 "§1. Definitions, Nature, and Distinctions

7 "The word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning
8 under the political institutions of the United States, and does not necessarily include all the territorial possessions
9 of the United States, but may include only the portions thereof which are organized and exercise governmental 10 functions under act of congress."

11 "While the term 'territory' is often loosely used, and has even been construed to include municipal subdivisions
12 of a territory, and 'territories of the' United States is sometimes used to refer to the entire domain over which the 13 United States exercises dominion, the word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization, has a
14 distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and the term 'territory'
15 or 'territories' does not necessarily include only a portion or the portions thereof which are organized and
16 exercise government functions under acts of congress. The term 'territories' has been defined to be political 17 subdivisions of the outlying dominion of the United States, and in this sense the term 'territory' is not a description
18 of a definite area of land but of a political unit governing and being governed as such. The question whether a 19 particular subdivision or entity is a territory is not determined by the particular form of government with which 20 it is, more or less temporarily, invested.

21 "Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.'" While the term
22 'territories of the' United States may, under certain circumstances, 23 include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in 24 ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

25 "As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress, and 26 not within the boundaries of any of the several states."

27 [86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories, §1 (2003)]

28 There are very few exceptions to this general rule and we list them all in section 5.6.9 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual,
29 Form #06.008. Here is the definition of the limitation of Congress' criminal jurisdiction, for instance:

30 TITLE 18 > PART III > CHAPTER 301 > Sec. 4001.
31 Sec. 4001. - Limitation on detention; control of prisons

32 (a) No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an Act of 33 Congress.

34 The civil jurisdiction of the District Courts of the United States is the same as above in most cases. The older version of Rule
35 54(c) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure reveals where Acts of Congress apply:

37 Puerto Rico, in a territory or in an insular possession."

38 Therefore, "Acts of Congress" are only applicable inside the federal zone and nowhere else by default. Therefore, in order
39 to be subject to any kind of penalty or collection or enforcement action, you must reside in the federal zone and there must
40 be an implementing regulation found in 26 C.F.R. which authorizes the enforcement action per the Federal Register Act, 44
41 U.S.C. Chapter 15. We devote a great deal of study to the need for implementing regulations in section 3.15 and later in 42 sections 5.4.17 and 5.4.18, so we won't repeat ourself here again.

43 Another way to show that the Internal Revenue Code is special law is to describe it as a type of "police power". Police
44 powers are reserved entirely to the states under the Tenth Amendment. The only jurisdiction the feds have within states
45 comes from the commerce clause of the Constitution found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The power of taxation directly
46 on individuals is a police power. The purpose of "police powers" and the role of our state governments is to protect the public

1 health, safety, and morals of the people within their jurisdiction. To the extent that they allow the federal government to
 2 impose direct taxes on the general population, which amount to involuntary servitude and slavery in violation of the Thirteenth
 3 Amendment, is the extent to which they have abdicated their role to protect their respective citizens. It is precisely this
 4 conflict of interest that results from direct taxes which explains why virtually every country in the world that implements an
 5 income tax follows the following simple model:

6 "Aliens at home, citizens abroad."

7 In the context of the above, the "aliens" are "residents" in the I.R.C. and are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). The 8 "citizens" are "U.S. citizens" born in the District of Columbia or a federal territory and excluding those born in states of the 9 Union. "Abroad" means in a country outside of one of the states of the Union. You can investigate this matter further earlier
 10 in section 4.9.

11 So from many different angles, we have shown that the only "individuals" who earn "gross income" are "public officers" of 12 the United States government and that the income tax that most people falsely "believe" they are obligated to pay only applies
 13 inside the federal zone and abroad. Even within the federal zone, the tax is still entirely voluntary because there is no liability 14 statute.

 16 [Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]*

17 Because the word "tax" excludes all "voluntarily" paid amounts, as we showed earlier in section 5.1.8, then technically it
 18 amounts to fraud to even call it a "tax" in the context of biological people, even if you are a "public officer" of the United
 19 States government. The result of all this analysis is that all amounts you pay the federal government under Internal Revenue
 20 Code, Subtitle A as an income "tax" amount to "donations", and therefore you can fill in any amount on your tax return for 21 "income" and not commit fraud. All you are saying is that this is the amount you "elect" or "volunteer" or "designate" to be
 22 subject to Subtitle A federal income "taxes". You have to qualify and explain what you are doing on your return and its 23 attachments for such a case, but this is a perfectly legal way to submit a tax return as a natural person. All you have to do is 24 explain on an attachment to the return the following, and make sure the return reads "Not valid without the attached statement, 25 ___ pages, with my signature":

- 26 1. You are not a "public officer" or federal "employee".
- 27 2. You are not a "transferee" for government property under 26 U.S.C. §6091.
- 28 3. There are no implementing regulations authorizing any kind of "enforcement" action as it pertains to Subtitle A income 29 taxes, and this includes assessment, collection, record keeping, or penalties.
- 30 4. The IRS is not an enforcement agency but an administrative agency, because it does not fall under the authority of the 31 Undersecretary for Enforcement within the Treasury Department. This is confirmed by the pocket commission of the 32 agent processing your return, who has an administrative rather than enforcement pocket commission.
- 33 5. There is no liability statute so the "tax" is "voluntary". This agrees with the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court in Flora
 34 v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)

35 For further details on using this approach, refer to the following sections:

41 We have taken the time to summarize how to compute "gross income" and "taxable income" based on the statutes and 42 regulations discussed in this section and elsewhere. The results are summarized in the tables below. We have one table for 43 each type of entity:

- 44 1. Natural persons
- 45 2. Corporations

1 For each table below, we have given you the equivalent of a spreadsheet format and showed you how to compute “taxable
2 income”. The items in brackets “[ ]” indicate where to go in the law to learn what goes in that block. For instance, column
3 5, row 2 lists “[26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1)]” as the place to go to find out where “gross income” is defined for “public officers” of
4 the United States government. If you wanted to make a worksheet out of this for your reuse, just remove the bracketed
5 content of each cell under column 5, leaving an empty cell to fill in your amount and do computations. After this table, we
6 will give you an example and show you how to use this table. Note that these examples ONLY apply to Internal Revenue
7 Code, Subtitle A. Other types of taxes, such as excise taxes on imported oil or gasoline, are likely to be very different. The 8 fact that you earn “gross income” or “taxable income” doesn’t necessarily imply that you owe a tax, because as we pointed 9 out earlier in section 5.6.1, you must first be “liable” for the tax in order to be a “taxpayer” who has a legal duty to pay the 10 tax.

1. There is no "gross income" associated with activities occurring without the federal "United States". This is because 26 C.F.R. §1.862-1(b) states that all earnings or profit from without the federal "United States" must use 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) for computing gross income, and this section only deals with sources within the federal "United States". This means, effectively, that no income from sources without the federal "United States" can be classified as "gross income" because it does not originate from within the federal "United States".
2. The earnings of "nonresident aliens" are not classified as "gross income" under 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(i) if they are not associated with a "trade or business" (public office) within the federal "United States". Most people who live in a state of the Union fall into this category, because they are "nationals" and they do not hold public office.
3. According 26 U.S.C. §863(a) "taxable income" = "gross income" – "deductions".

Let's apply the above table to a specific situation. Let's say that you are a Congressman who decides to volunteer to pay income tax. There is not statute making you liable to pay the tax but you decide to volunteer to be a "taxpayer" because you'll never join the good-old boy club and be a Presidential Candidate unless you pretend like you have to pay income tax. Your salary is paid by the federal government, which originates from sources within the federal "United States" and it is $150,000/year. You also have investments in your home state from a business and profit from these amounts to $50,000 for the year and is from sources without the federal "United States". You also had $10,000 in business travel expenses from your job as a Congressman. You name is Strom Thurmond and you also collect Social Security in the amount of $1,500/month for a total of 18,000 per year. Here is the table above filled in with the data from this example.

Next we'll do the same thing for corporations, but this time we won't give you an example because it's very simple. Below is the table that tells you how to compute "gross income" for corporations, formatted the same way as table 5-17 above.

2 NOTES ON ABOVE TABLE:

- 3 1. There is no "gross income" associated with activities occurring without the federal "United States". This is because 26 C.F.R. §1.862-1(b) states that all earnings or 4 profit from without the federal "United States" must use 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) for computing gross income, and this section only deals with sources within the federal
 5 "United States". This means, effectively, that no income from sources without the federal "United States" can be classified as "gross income" because it does not
 6 originate from within the federal "United States".
 7 2. According 26 U.S.C. §863(a) "taxable income" = "gross income" – "deductions".

5.6.7 You Don't Earn "Wages" Under Subtitle C Unless you Volunteer on a W-4

"Every man has a property in his own person. This nobody has any right to but himself. The labor of his body and the work of his hands are properly his."
[John Locke, 1690]

A very hot topic in the tax honesty movement is the concept of the taxability of "wages". Many people argue that "wages" received by natural persons (people) are not taxable. Like all legal issues, we must ensure in making such a statement that we know whether we mean "wages" as legally defined or wages in the more common and general sense because the two are not the same. On this subject of the taxability of the fruit of a man's labor, the Supreme Court has said:

"Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will..."

In common usage, the "fruit of a man's labor" and "wages" are thought to be equivalent. However, the definitions of terms used within the Internal Revenue Code are such that "wages" means something entirely different than common usage. It is strictly true that "wages" are taxable under subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code, but "wages" as defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a) can be taxable only when received by those who volunteer by submitting an IRS Form W-4. We'll explain that later in this section.

Most people dig themselves a deep hole and literally jump into it by never bothering to distinguish between the layman's definition of "wages" and the legal definition, and we must be very careful in all our communications to distinguish which of these two definitions we are referring to. If you haven't figured this out by now, we emphasize repeatedly throughout this book that "presumptions" will get you into a heap of trouble in the legal field and that they are also a sin condemned in the Bible that you ought to avoid.<sup>176</sup> We therefore need to be VERY explicit in defining the terms we use in the legal realm in every context they are used or we will get into BIG trouble because our government opponents will try to use false "presumption" as a weapon against us during litigation. In this book, we keep the legal version of words in quotes and the layman's version without quotes so it is especially clear which of the two definitions we are using. If you try to claim that "wages" aren't taxable on your tax return and refuse to list them, however, your claim will most often be disallowed by the IRS because you argued the wrong point. Why is that? We'll explain.

The term "Wages" is defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401 as follows. Pay particular attention to the words "employee" and "trade or business":

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid -
[. . .]

(4) for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if -

(A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's trade or business; or

(B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter; or

(5) for services by a citizen or resident of the United States for a foreign government or an international organization; or

(6) for such services, performed by a nonresident alien individual, as may be designated by regulations prescribed by the Secretary; or

(7) Repealed. Pub. L. 89-809, title I, Sec. 103(k), Nov. 13, 1966, 80 Stat. 1554)

- (A) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) -
 (i) performed by a citizen of the United States if, at the time of the payment of such remuneration, it is reasonable to believe that such remuneration will be excluded from gross income under section 911; or
 (ii) performed in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by such a citizen if, at the time of the payment of such remuneration, the employer is required by the law of any foreign country or possession of the United States to withhold income tax upon such remuneration; or
 (B) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within a possession of the United States (other than Puerto Rico), if it is reasonable to believe that at least 80 percent of the remuneration to be paid to the employee by such employer during the calendar year will be for such services; or
 (C) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within Puerto Rico, if it is reasonable to believe that during the entire calendar year the employee will be a bona fide resident of Puerto Rico; or
 (D) for services for the United States (or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within a possession of the United States to the extent the United States (or such agency) withholds taxes on such remuneration pursuant to an agreement with such possession; or
 (9) for services performed by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order; or
 [ . . . ]
- (11) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, to the extent paid in any medium other than cash; or
 (12) to, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary -
 (A) from or to a trust described in section 401(a) which is exempt from tax under section 501(a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust; or
 (B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, is a plan described in section 403(a); or
 (C) for a payment described in section 402(h)(1) and (2) if, at the time of such payment, it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be entitled to an exclusion under such section for payment; or
 (D) under an arrangement to which section 408(p) applies; or
 (13) pursuant to any provision of law other than section 5(c) or 6(1) of the Peace Corps Act, for service performed as a volunteer or volunteer leader within the meaning of such Act; or
 (14) in the form of group-term life insurance on the life of an employee; or
 (15) to or on behalf of an employee if (and to the extent that) at the time of the payment of such remuneration it is reasonable to believe that a corresponding deduction is allowable under section 217 (determined without regard to section 274(n)); or (16)
 (A) as tips in any medium other than cash;
 (B) as cash tips to an employee in any calendar month in the course of his employment by an employer unless the amount of such cash tips is $20 or more; [1]
 [ . . . ]

The first thing we notice about the above is that the “employee” cannot earn “wages” if he or she:

1. Is NOT a “public office” in the U.S. government as defined above. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) and 26 U.S.C. §6041.
2. Is working for a “employer” who is not engaged in a “trade or business” and remuneration is received in other than cash. A “trade or business” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office” in the U.S. government and not expanded elsewhere to include anything else. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(11).
3. Is not regularly or permanently employed and is only a “temp”. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(4) above.
4. A duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(9).
5. Receives the payment other than U.S. dollars. For instance, payments in gold bullion are not “wages”. See 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(11)-1(a).

The key to deciphering this lawyer speak above (does anyone trust lawyers?) is to realize the definition of “employee”, as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: "...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof,

1 or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term
 2 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

3 Therefore, we can't be an "employee" unless we work for the U.S. government as a "public officer", and such government
 4 officers cannot earn "wages" under 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) UNLESS they are NOT elected or appointed "public officials".

5 If we work for a private, nonfederal employer outside of the federal zone, we therefore:

- 6 1. Cannot be an "employee" as defined above in the regulations.

7 Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 5.14.10.2 \(09-30-2004\)
 8 Payroll Deduction Agreements

9 2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction

 12 [<http://www.irs.gov/irm/part5/ch14s10.html>]

- 13 2. Cannot be involved in "employment" as defined in the Internal Revenue Code:

15 (c) Although a person may be an employer under this section, services performed in his employ may be of such a

23 (a) In general.

24 Whether services performed after 1954 constitute employment is determined in accordance with the provisions
 25 of section 3121(b).

27 Services performed after 1954 within the United States (see §31.3121(e)-1) by an employee for his employer,
 28 unless specifically excepted by section 3121(b), constitute employment. With respect to services performed within
 29 the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into is immaterial. The citizenship or residence
 30 of the employee or of the employer also is immaterial except to the extent provided in any specific exception from
 31 employment. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the 32 contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs
 33 services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment.

34 "(c) Services performed outside the United States—(1) In general. Except as provided in paragraphs (c)(2) and
 35 (3) of this section, services performed outside the United States [District of Columbia] (see §31.3121(e)-1) do 36 not constitute employment."

- 37 3. Cannot earn "wages" as legally defined.

- 38 4. Cannot have anything reported in the "wages" block on a W-2 and that block must read "0" for "wages, tips, and other 39 compensation".

40 So how do our public dis-servants turn "compensation for labor" into something that fits the legal definition "wages" above
 41 so it can be taxed? Once again, you have to dig deep into the regulations to find the secret:

42 26 C.F.R. Sec. 31.3401\(a\)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

43 (a) IN GENERAL. Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the
 44 regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section
 45 with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References

in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (Section 31.3401(a)-3).

(b) REMUNERATION FOR SERVICES.

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a)(2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See Sections 31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

So the bottom line is, if you fill out a W-4 and request voluntary withholding, even though you don't fit the legal definition of an "employee", then you consent to treat your earnings as "wages" as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) which are subject to tax under the I.R.C., Subtitle C! That's why we also don't recommend filling out W-4 Exempts and instead prefer to use the W-8 form.

IMPORTANT: NEVER, EVER fill out and submit a W-4 to change your withholding with your private employer. It's the WRONG form! The Correct form is the W-8 or W-8BEN form. The following resource is helpful for directions on how to fill out this form:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202

The W-8 or W-8BEN forms have the following advantages that the IRS Form W-4 does not enjoy:

1. You identify yourself as a "nonresident alien" by submitting the form. That means you are "nonresident" to the federal "United States" and therefore are outside of federal jurisdiction. Consequently, the form doesn't need to be sent to the IRS automatically like the Exempt W-4, so you aren't putting yourself on report by submitting it.
2. You do not identify yourself as a federal "employee" when you submit the form.
3. The IRS cannot penalize you for making tax deductions zero with this form. This is because once again, you are outside of their jurisdiction, and the IRS can't affect anything outside of federal jurisdiction.
4. The form is not sent to the IRS when you submit it. It says that right on the form.
5. Unlike the IRS Form W-4 Exempt, the form does not expire every February and have to be resubmitted annually. Instead, it is good for three years.

At law, labor is property. In fact, the Supreme Court in Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884) has identified labor as man's most precious property. Therefore, the exchange of one's labor as a private employee (one who does not work for the federal government as a "public officer") for wages (not "wages" as defined in the I.R.C., but just wages in the conventional sense) or salary (which are also property) is considered by law to be an exchange of properties of equal value in which there is NO gain or profit for the person who performed the labor. Their employer can derive profit, but a natural person cannot profit from wages. Such a property exchange of equal value cannot therefore be taxed because there is no profit or gain. The below statute makes the above assertions very clear:

United States Code
 TITLE 15 - COMMERCE AND TRADE
 CHAPTER 1 - MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE
Sec. 17. Antitrust laws not applicable to labor organizations

"The federal government derives most of its authority to reach into the states based on the so called 'commerce clause', which is found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution. This is the section of the Constitution which empowers Congress to regulate and tax foreign commerce, and if labor and the wages (in a common sense and not in the context of the internal revenue code) or property that result from that labor inside the sovereign 50 Union states cannot be a commodity or article of commerce, then where does the federal government derive its power to tax earnings from labor?"

1 The answer is, they have no power to impose an involuntary or mandatory tax on the earnings of private, non-federal
2 businesses inside the sovereign 50 Union states and never have! Read my lips again, and you can trust these lips, unlike 3 those of lying politicians and the IRS who are on the take:

4 *"The federal government has no lawful authority delegated from the U.S. constitution to impose a
5 mandatory/involuntary tax on earnings outside of the federal United States and in the sovereign 50 Union states.
6 Doing so is clearly illegal, and that is why there is no statute anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code making
7 anyone liable to pay Subtitle A income taxes. As we explain in section 5.9, just about the whole constitution would
8 have to be destroyed in order to make direct taxes on labor legal. So that we aren't misquoted, the term "wages"
9 as used in this quotation is not that defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401, but rather the wages of private, nonfederal 10 employers."*

11 Therefore, one who works in an ordinary occupation for a private, non-federal employer is not a recipient of any "privilege"
12 granted by government and is therefore not involved in an excise taxable activity, because he is merely exercising his 13 constitutionally guaranteed right to work and earn a living. Under Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution, you have a right
14 to contract, and that right extends to exchanging your labor for money, and the government may not interfere with that right
15 to contract by stealing a portion of the monies exchanged because if they did, they would be violating that right. Courts have 16 repeatedly ruled that no tax may be placed upon the exercise of rights. The reasoning of the founders and our courts was 17 sensible. If the exercise of rights could be taxed, government could destroy them by excessive rates of taxation. Only 18 "corporate profit" from importation of goods from outside the country is subject to a mandatory/enforced tax as per the U.S.
19 Constitution, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 and natural people don't earn this kind of "profit". This kind of activity, by the 20 way, is a privileged activity under 26 U.S.C. §7001 for which all corporations involved must be "licensed". It must be 21 licensed because it is simultaneously subject to regulation and taxation by the federal government. The taxes paid under this 22 corporate "license" are used to fund the cost of regulation and may not be used for more than that purpose.

23 When we are thinking about income taxes, we need to think very clearly. The Subtitles A and C income tax is an indirect
24 excise tax. The Internal Revenue Code applies uniformly:

- 25 • Throughout the 50 Union states under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution for Subtitle D taxes (see the 26 Definition of "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. Section 4612)
- 27 • Only within the federal zone and abroad for Subtitles A and C income taxes (see the Definition of "United States" 28 found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)) under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution.

29 Consequently, we have to be very clear in our minds about the following three issues

Table 5-57: Critical questions with answers

| Question                                                                                                            | Answer                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Macomber , 252 U.S. 189 (1920) that Congress nor the Internal Revenue Code itself CANNOT define "income", and it neither even tries to. Only the Constitution can define "income". Income is defined as " corporate profit " from corporations involved in the privilege of conducting foreign commerce. Before you can have "gross income" you must have "income" and it must derive from taxable sources identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f). See sections 5.6.5 and 5.7.6.5 for further details on this subject.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

It took us almost a year to document and fully discover the implications of the above very simple table. Unless we are very clear in our thinking in answering the above questions, we will cloud the application of the tax code, confuse the IRS, and they will disallow our claim! Please therefore keep this table utmost in your mind in all your dealings with the IRS.

Many people also try to argue with the IRS that their wages are not taxable, without clarifying what they mean by "wages" or whether they fit the description of "person" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) or "individual", which isn't defined in the code but is defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c). It is very common for the IRS to disallow claims for refund from people who try to argue that their wages aren't taxable, however, and it's the wrong point to argue with the IRS that will get you in trouble every time! You will get in trouble because your W-2 contains a lie in block 2 saying that you earned "wages" and you never refuted that evidence and clarified that you are not an "employee" and never consented or volunteered to participate in the revenue system. Have you ever wondered why 26 U.S.C. §61 does not list "wages" as a type of taxable income? Instead, they try to confuse the issue with the following statement in that section identified as taxable: "Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;". There is a very good reason why they didn't just come out and say "wages are taxable". This is a result of the following analysis and conclusions:

1. An agreement between a private employer and a private employee is a contract. Neither the states nor the federal government are allowed under the Constitution to interfere with the right to contract, or to directly reduce the compensation received by the private employee by the private employer except by a court order, which is a requirement of the Fifth Amendment. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution:

Article 1, Section 10

No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.

2. The Public Salary Tax Act of 1939 and the devious redefinition of "gross income":<sup>177</sup>

When Congress revised the 1939 Internal Revenue Code came out with the 1954 code, they removed the specific mention of wages as being taxable. Why would Congress REMOVE wages from the list of items of gross income if they wanted it to be taxable? Here is the redefinition:

1.1 26 U.S.C. §22(a) entitled "Gross income(a) General definition" states:

(1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items.

The above changes were based on the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939, which was passed after the 1939 code revision. The Act, which has never been repealed, was extremely significant because it amends and redefines the words "gross income" [not "income"] which is the basis for calculating "taxable income," to include ONLY "compensation for services" (as public servants) earned by officers and employees of a State. As will be later documented, in statutory construction of the word "including" means "only" and cannot be expanded to add other elements not within the exact "meaning of the definition." The meaning here is "government employees" and can't be expanded to also include "private sector employees."

*Public Salary Tax Act of 1939
TITLE I-

"§22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code relating to the definition of 'gross income,' is amended after the words 'compensation for personal service' the following: 'including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.'"

"Wages" and "Compensation for personal services" are ONLY earned by public employees. This is why the Government rightfully argues "Wages are Gross Income.". According to their definition of "wages", they're right, but also according to their definition of "employee", you don't earn "wages"! However, by such definition, compensation for labor in the private sector is not "wages" and is not "compensation for personal services" unless you fill out a voluntary withholding agreement (W-4). Here is the definition of "personal services", and note that "trade or business" in that definition means the holding of a public office:

(b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However, personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

Elected and appointed government employees are considered to be public servants, exercising "official privileges", while employed. According to a Freedom of Information Act response in our possession, the income tax is applicable to those who chose to make themselves liable by entering into contracts with the U.S. Government. Also, such paychecks come from the District of Columbia, giving them compensation "effectively connected to" a federal area (from "within the United States" under 26 U.S.C. §861) under exclusive federal United States** jurisdiction.

3. Labor is property relative to natural persons, as ruled by the U.S. supreme Court in 1883 in the case of Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884). We repeat that ruling here for your benefit:

2 right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner
3 not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so
4 as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS
5 IS HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE 6 MOST SACRED AND INVOLABLE..."

7 This is easy to see, because if labor had no value or wasn't property or something they could acquire, then people 8 wouldn't be willing to pay for it!

- 9 4. Receipt of earnings in connection with personal labor by a human being constitutes an equal exchange of one type of 10 property for another: Labor exchanged for money. Therefore, there is no "profit" as legally defined.
11 5. Since the income tax is a tax on profit, and since receipt of wages by natural persons who don't work for the federal 12 government is an equal exchange of property, there can be no "profit" involved, and therefore no tax on wages as income.
13 However, money received by corporations (involved in foreign commerce) in exchange for labor of their employees is 14 taxable after the cost of producing the labor is deducted to arrive at corporate profit. This conclusion is supported by the 15 following cites:

16                    "Income within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment and the Revenue Act, means 'gain'... and in such 17 connection 'Gain' means profit...proceeding from property, severed from capital, however invested or employed,
18 and coming in, received, or drawn by the taxpayer, for his separate use, benefit and disposal..."
19 [Stapler v. U.S., 21 F.Supp. 737 AT 739]

21                    "There is a clear distinction between 'profit' and 'wages', or a compensation for labor. Compensation for labor
22 (wages) cannot be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law. The word 'profit', as ordinarily used, means 23 the gain made upon any business or investment -- a different thing altogether from the mere compensation for 24 labor."
25 [Oliver v. Halstead, 86 S.E.2nd. 859]

27                    "After further consideration, we adhere to that view and accordingly hold that the Sixteenth Amendment does not 28 authorize or support the tax in question. " (A tax on salary)
29 [Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245]

31                    "The phraseology of form 1040 is somewhat obscure .... But it matters little what it does mean; the statute and 32 the statute alone determines what is income to be taxed. It taxes only income "derived" from many different 33 sources; one does not "derive income" by rendering services and charging for them... IRS cannot enlarge the 34 scope of the statute."
35 [Edwards v. Keith, 231 F. 110, 113]

37                    "The 16th Amendment does not authorize laying of an income tax upon one person for the income derived solely 38 from another." [wages]

- 34 6. A tax on human beings as a percentage of income (not "gross income", but "income") from labor earnings amounts to slavery and violates the 13th Amendment, which outlawed slavery BOTH in states of the Union AND on federal territory. For instance, if your marginal tax rate is 28% and you erroneously treat your wages as income, then you are a slave for the first 28% of the year. There is no other way to look at it. The only thing necessary to make you a complete slave would be for the combined sum of the State and Federal taxes on income to consume 100% of your wages! That will happen someday, we predict, if somewhere along the line people don't wake up and protest the unjust income tax we have now! Even the press agrees with this view of income taxes, because the newspapers frequently talk about "tax freedom day", which is the first day of the year in which the country as a whole quits working for the government and starts making money only for themselves. The implication is that everything before that is "slavery." Every year, tax freedom day gets later, and right now, we spend the first four months of the year as slaves to the government. This happens because the government raises tax rates and will continue to do so because people don't protest. However, a tax on corporate profits derived from wages is perfectly legal, ethical and moral.

46 7. It is not within the power of the government to impose a mandatory tax on the exercise of an occupation of common right, or natural right, or on the receipt and/or realization of the earnings received from the exercise of such a right. The Income Tax is an excise tax. To be legally required to pay an excise tax, a "person" must be involved in the exercise of a taxable privilege*. Most citizens in the course of supporting themselves are exercising no privileges upon which an excise tax could be imposed by law.

7 EXCISES: “Excises are taxes laid upon...licenses to pursue certain [regulated] occupations and upon corporate
 8 privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of privilege...Conceding the power of 9 Congress to tax the business activities of private corporations.. the tax must be measured by some standard...It
 10 is, therefore, well settled by the decisions of this court that when the sovereign authority has exercised the right
 11 to tax a legitimate subject of taxation as an exercise of a franchise or privilege, it is no objection that the measure
 12 of taxation is income...”
 13 [Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107, at pg 154, 165]

14 “The obligation to pay an excise is based upon the voluntary action of the person taxed in performing the act,
 15 enjoying the privilege, or engaging in the occupation which is the subject of the excise, and the element of

19 “The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing. The corporation is 20 an artificial entity which owes its existence and charter power to the State, but the individual's right to live and 21 own property are natural rights for the enjoyment of which an excise cannot be imposed.”

42 We said earlier that the income tax is a tax on corporate profit. How come “employees” of the federal government can have 43 their wages taxed? The reason is because the U.S. government is a federal corporation! That’s right. In 1871, the District
 44 of Columbia became a Municipal Corporation, which also made them a federal corporation. “Employees” of that corporation
 45 then were in receipt of “profit” from the federal corporation! We have an article on our website that explains this conclusion
 46 completely below:

48 Let’s tie together what we have learned about taxability of “wages” with a couple of fictitious examples to make the 49 application of this knowledge crystal clear in your mind:

50 EXAMPLE 1: Kelly Girl (federal) Corporation

51 The Great  IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO)

Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship

Let's say the "person" in question is a federal corporation called "Kelley Girl", which is a "temp agency" that farms out its employees to third parties. In effect, they sell labor for profit. The third parties they sell the labor to are located outside the United States and these parties reimburse them with "wages" for that labor. Because Kelly Girl flies their employees outside the United States to service their clients, they are involved in foreign commerce that comes under federal jurisdiction. Kelly Girl, in turn, deducts the cost of the labor to pay their employees' wages and benefits. The difference between what third parties pay them for the labor and what they pay their employees is corporate profit derived from wages, or "compensation for services" as described in 26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1). That corporate profit is taxable under the Internal Revenue Code.

EXAMPLE 2: You

Now let's say the "person" in question is a natural person and not a corporation. It is you! You sell your labor to third parties and receive "wages" or "compensation for personal services" in return. That money does fit the description of "gross income" defined in 26 U.S.C. section 61(a)(1) but it does not meet the definition of "income" as corporate profit since you are not a corporation (see Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920)). Because the income tax is an excise or privilege tax and you are not an entity in receipt of taxable federal privileges, and because you do not have "income", then you cannot have "gross income". On your tax return, you would fill in "0" for your taxable income on your return and pay NO TAX on that income.

Now isn't that interesting? Can you believe you have been fooled for so long? Why don't they teach this stuff in our public schools? Could it be because the government funds them and they don't want you knowing that you don't have to pay taxes on wages? We think so! That is why we advocate getting your children out of the public schools as quickly as possible and why we advocate school vouchers.

If we try to claim on our tax return that "wages" are not taxable and identify ourselves as a "natural person", as we did, the IRS came back with the following nonsense on their form letter 105C:

"The claim is based on your view that wages and salary don't constitute taxable income. The U.S. Tax Court and other federal courts have rejected this argument repeatedly and have held that wages and salary are taxable income reportable at the full amount received."

Nonsense! Did you notice that:

1. They didn't cite any cases?
2. They didn't cite any laws?
3. They violated their own Internal Revenue Manual, which states that they cannot apply U.S. Tax Court cases or any cases other than the Supreme Court against more than one taxpayer?

"Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position."

Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.

Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers."

[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

So what kind of nonsense is this? This is an abuse of case law and a fraud if we ever saw one, but that is the kind of double-speak you can expect from the deceitful beast and monster we the people have allowed to evolve in the form of the IRS.

What do the state taxing authorities say about the taxability of wages? Here is what the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB) said in their response to a past Affidavit Request for Refund which contained as the last element a claim that wages are not taxable. The letter number was FTB 4619MEO (NEW 8-1999):

1 Compensation received in whatever form, including wages for services, constitutes taxable income
2 [Lonsdale v. Commissioner, 661 F.2d. 71 (5th Cir. 1981) ]

3 We then examined this case using VersusLaw (<http://www.versuslaw.com>). Here is what it said:

4 [12] As nearly as we can tell from their pro se brief, these arguments are two, or possibly three, in number.
5 The first category of contentions may be summarized as that the United States Constitution forbids taxation of
6 compensation received for personal services. This is so, appellants first argue, because the exchange of services
7 for money is a zero-sum transaction, the value of the wages being exactly that of the labor exchanged for them
8 and hence containing no element of profit. This contention is meritless. The Constitution grants Congress
9 power to tax "incomes, from whatever source derived ...." U.S.Const. amend. XVI. Exercising this power,
10 Congress has defined income as including compensation for services. 26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1). Broadly speaking,
11 that definition covers all "accessions to wealth." See Commissioner v. Glenshaw Glass Co., 348 U.S. 426, 431,
12 75 S.Ct. 473, 477, 99 L.Ed. 483 (1955). This definition is clearly within the power to tax "incomes" granted by 13 the sixteenth amendment.

14 [13] Appellants next seem to argue, in reliance on Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 15
15 S.Ct. 673, 39 L.Ed. 759 (1895), and other authority, that, so understood, the income tax is a direct one that must 16 be apportioned among the several states. U.S.Const. art. I, sec. 2. This requirement was eliminated by the 17 sixteenth amendment.

18 [14] Finally, appellants argue that the seventh amendment to the Constitution entitles them to a jury trial in 19 their case. That amendment, however, extends only to "suits at common law ...." This is not such a suit. Mathes
20 v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d. 70 (5th Cir. 1978).

21 [15] Appellants' contentions are stale ones, long settled against them. As such they are frivolous. Bending
22 over backwards, in indulgence of appellants' pro se status, we today forbear the sanctions of Rule 38,
23 Fed.R.App.P. We publish this opinion as notice to future litigants that the continued advancing of these long-24 defunct arguments invites such sanctions, however.

26 If you want more information on Commissioner v. Glenshaw Glass Co. cited above, we refer you to sections 5.7.6.4 and 27 5.7.6.11.7, where we concluded that the case was shortsighted and ignored taxable sources in 26 U.S.C. §861 and 862. Did 28 you notice that they cited the weakest possible case to establish the taxability of wages and did not repeat the foundation of 29 the appellants arguments? The appellant was a pro se litigant (defending himself without the aid of a lawyer) who probably 30 had a weak defense or explanation of the issues. This is a very common approach for the government: If the case is appealed,
31 the appellate court will pick the person with the weakest legal defense and poorest explanation of the issues, and make it into
32 the equivalent of law without even examining all the issues in depth. Then they will cite that case in the future ad infinitum
33 without ever in the future fully examining the foundational issues. In effect, one hasty person who can't afford legal counsel
34 destroys a good argument for the rest of the tax freedom community because of corrupt judges like judges Gee, Garza, and 35 Tate who heard this case. Not only that, but look at all the people who this poor pro se was fighting against:

36 John F. Murray, Acting Asst. Atty. Gen., Richard Farber, Philip I. Brennan, Attys., Tax Div., U.S. Dept. of Justice,
37 Alfred C. Bishop, Jr., Chief, John Menzel, Director, Tax Litigation, I. R. S., Washington, D.C., for respondent-
38 appellee.

39 Do you detect that this was a battle of wits with an unarmed man? Other interesting conclusions in the above Lonsdale cite

42 This is an obvious fraud because the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916) that:

43 "..by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power
44 of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by
45 Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently 46 belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a consideration of the 47 sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a tax on income, but
48 by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed. "

49 This finding has never been overruled, and yet the Lonsdale case above completely ignored it. What kind of Alice in 50 Wonderland fairytale illogic is this? If the Sixteenth Amendment conferred "no new powers of taxation" then how could it
51 eliminate the apportionment requirement as cited above? That is why we say that more crime occurs in federal courtrooms

1 than anywhere else in the country! If you want more proof of this kind of judicial corruption, read section 6.6, where we talk
2 about the “judicial conspiracy to protect the income tax”. It will really open your eyes.

3 5.6.8 Employment Withholding Taxes are Gifts to the U.S. Government!

4 That's right! If you examine a copy of IRS Publication 6209 available on our website, which shows you how to decode your
5 Individual Master File (IMF), you will find out that employment withholding taxes that you pay after you fill out a W-4 with 6 your employer are assigned to Tax Class 5, which is classified as “Estate and Gift Taxes”. Income taxes, on the other hand,
7 are listed as tax class 2. Even more interesting, is that IRS Publication 6209, also called the “ADP/IDRS Manual” on their
8 website, used to indicate what the various Tax Classes were, but when people found out that employment taxes were gifts
9 and got outraged and litigated to get their money back, the IRS conveniently:

- 10 1. Removed the identification of Tax Classes from IRS Publication 6209, thus making it difficult to impossible for the 11 average individual to figure out or prove in court that employment taxes are gifts.
- 12 2. Classified Publication 6209 on every page at the bottom as “For Official Use Only”, which is a code word for “Don't 13 Let This Get In The Hands of Those Taxpayer Bastards or They Will Sue us in Court!”.
- 14 3. Eventually removed the document entirely from their website and classified the entire document as “For Official Use 15 Only” so that it cannot be disclosed to the public.

16 After all the difficulty raised by the embarrassing information exposed in this publication, the IRS subsequently restored the 17 list of tax classes to the beginning of Chapter 4 of the 6209 Document 6209 on about June of 2002. The above types of 18 shenanigans by the IRS are only the tip of the iceberg and provide compelling proof that getting the IRS to tell the WHOLE
19 truth is like trying to get someone into a dentist's office so you can pull their teeth out! Chapter 4 of this manual is available
20 on our website below and the tax class table is listed on pages 4-1 and 4-2:

21 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/6209Manual/toc.htm>

22 The IRS, by the way, used to offer this document on their website but after we started referring to it in this book, they 23 mysteriously removed it on March 17, 2003 to cover evidence of their wrongdoing. Below is a summary of that table, and 24 keep in mind that the Tax Class is the third digit of any Document Locator Number (DLN) that you can request from your 25 Individual Master File (IMF) using the Freedom Of Information Act (FOIA) request:

To help you further in associating tax classes listed above with specific taxes, we have prepared a listing of the Tax Classes and the associated tax and Subtitle of the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) below for your benefit:

If you don't believe this, examine Chapter 2 of IRS Publication 6209 for yourself, which is entitled "Tax Returns and Forms". You can view a current version of the IRS Publication 6209 on our website at:

We have included a summary of the main forms below for your benefit derived directly from that chapter, which is very instructive:

Doesn't this kind of sly treachery and deception make you even a tiny bit mad? If I.R.C., Subtitle A really were mandatory, don't you think that the W-2 would be listed as tax class 2? Instead, the employment taxes you pay are gifts to the government and then, in their guilt, they try to hide this fact from you by obfuscating Publication 6209 and classifying it as "For Official Use Only" so it doesn't get into your hands! It is precisely this kind of treachery and deception that is the reason we like to say:

*"The U.S. Government is so protective of the truth about income taxes that they have to surround it with a bodyguard of lies."
[S. Jackson]*

Incidentally, if you want to get a copy of IRS Publication 6209, it doesn't appear on their Document 7130 which lists all of their forms and publications. You may also not be able to obtain it under the Freedom Of Information Act (FOIA) because they simply do not want you to have it. Consequently, we have posted it on our website below:

5.6.9 The Deficiency Notices the IRS Sends To Individuals are Actually Intended for Businesses!

The IRS Document 6209 describes how to decode both your IRS Individual Master File (IMF) as well as the notices sent out by the IRS. You can obtain an electronic version of this manual from our website at the address below:

Computer generated notices and letters of inquiry are mailed to taxpayers in connection with tax returns for BMF, IMF, and IRAF. Computer paragraph (CP) numbers (3-digit number for BMF AND IRAF, 2-digit number for IMF) are located in the upper left corner of the notices and letters.

By way of explanation, BMF means "Business Master File" and "IMF" means Individual Master File. Businesses should therefore never get any CP notice with a two digit code and Individuals should never get any CP notice with a three digit code, and if this requirement is violated, then this is a strong indication of one of the two likely problems, in descending order of likelihood:

1. Your IMF has been deliberately falsified by the dishonest IRS agent or agents who have been handling your returns in order to create a fraudulent tax liability by making you into a business rather than an individual. The type of business they make you into is usually an excise taxable corporation.
2. There has been an accidental data entry error.

1 When an individual has either not filed a return or has not paid taxes or penalties that the IRS says they owe, they will typically
2 receive a CP deficiency notice from the IRS with a three digit code. For instance, a series of four letters, CP-501 through
3 CP-504 are sent out prior to initiating collection activity against an alleged taxpayer. Notice that the number part of the form
4 letter is a three digit code, which the above citation from the IRS Document 6209 says is for businesses and not individuals.
5 Individuals should never receive such notices because we all know that the income tax is voluntary and cannot apply to
6 individuals since there is no statute creating a liability in all of I.R.C., Subtitle A The only reason it applies to businesses is 7 because the businesses are associated with taxes found in Title 27, which is for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms.
8 The IRS and the BATF share the same computer system and at one time were part of the same agency! BATF taxes are 9 indeed mandatory and can be enforced with penalties and seizures and collection activity. Even worse, the IRS itself, in the 10 Treasury Organization Chart at the below web address from the Department of the Treasury, is clearly shown as NOT being 11 an enforcement agency, since it does not fall under the Under Secretary for Enforcement!

12 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/OrgAndDuties/TreasOrg2.pdf>

13 There are two types of commissions IRS employees can get: Enforcement and Non-enforcement (also called Administrative).
14 The type of commission they get is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission. See the following address for more
15 information about pocket commissions, which takes you to the Internal Revenue Manual Section [1.16.4] 3.7 (also called 16 section 1.16.4.3.7):

18 Only IRS employees who have Enforcement Pocket Commissions can institute enforcement activities, including assessment,
19 collection, liens, levies, and summons. But guess what: none of the IRS employees who institute enforcement actions on 20 individuals have enforcement commissions! They just pretend like they do and hope you won't notice or ask about their 21 Pocket Commissions—it's a big bluff! That explains statements like the following

22 "In a recent conversation with an official at the Internal Revenue Service, I was amazed when he told me that 'If 23 the taxpayers of this country ever discover that the IRS operates on 90% bluff the entire system will collapse'".
24 [Henry Bellmon, Senator (1969)]

25 We have a sample FOIA request in section 2.11.12 of the following, which allows you to find out what kind of commission
26 they have if you want to find out.

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005

27 What typically happens is that when a person sends in their first 1040 tax return assessing themselves with a liability they
28 really don't have and can't have under law, the IRS agent processing the return has to fabricate a liability. Otherwise, he 29 would have to send your return and your money back and politely tell you that you aren't liable for tax. What agent or person 30 from the government would be honest enough to do that?

31 The only way the corrupt IRS agent can fabricate such a liability is to lie to their AIMS computer by telling it that the person
32 indicated on the tax return is a business rather than an individual. Beyond that point and at any time in the future, that person
33 is erroneously presumed by the IRS computers to be a business who is liable to pay tax and file returns. No kidding! The 34 only way you can get the IRS off your back after you erroneously assess yourself with a liability is to point out to them that 35 you are not a business and that you:

- 36 • Want any Business Master File (BMF) records they maintain on you expunged and amended to reflect your correct
37 status as an individual. You will need to provide them with a notarized Affidavit in order to do this.
- 38 • Want them to provide proof that you are a business if they continue to insist that you are. You can refute their

40 Doing the above should hopefully stop the threatening collection and/or deficiency notices for taxes you were never liable

42 5.6.10 Public Officer Kickback Position

1 As near as we can tell, this position was first articulated by Frank Kowalik in his marvelous book entitled IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991, by Universalistic Publishers. This is an excellent
2 book that is copiously and meticulously researched and which we highly recommend. It is the second most important book
3 in our tax library, as a matter of fact, being second only to the book In Their Own Words listed in section 8.2 of this book.
4 You don't hear much about his book in the tax freedom community but we believe it deserves a lot more acclaim than it gets.
5 You can order this book from:

7 <http://amazon.com>

8 Frank builds his research on the content of section 5.4.1 earlier, in which we proved that taxes on labor amount to slavery.
9 We could find no errors in the evidence or logic used in Frank's book and we agree 100% with everything that he says in his 10 book. The book fills in a lot of holes in the research of other authors along with a rare glimpse at a real-life legal battle that 11 he went through to show how the government maliciously prosecuted him for following the Internal Revenue Code and 12 thereby violated his due process rights, his dignity, and committed treason against the Constitution.

13 What Frank Kowalik proves in his IRS Humbug book using his exhaustive legal research is the following, which is a terse
14 summary of his almost 360 page book:

- 15 1. Subtitle A income taxes, insofar as natural persons, is not a "tax" at all, but what he calls a "kickback" program for 16 "public officers" of the United States government only. That is to say it is part of an implied employment agreement
17 they voluntarily consent to when they accept political office. In that sense, it is a voluntary excise tax based on the 18 acceptance of political privileges associated with public office. The tax does not apply to any type of federal employee
19 other than "public officers of the U.S. government. We covered this earlier in sections 3.12.1.4 and 5.2.19.
- 20 2. Those people who have entered into this voluntary employment agreement are described in the Internal Revenue Code
21 as being "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States". In this context, "United States" means the 22 federal government. "trade or business" is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the performance of the functions of a
23 public office". The only people who can be involved in a "trade or business" are those holding public office, and all of 24 these people are mandated by the Constitution to serve in the District of Columbia as congressmen, judges, the President,
25 and his appointed help. He traces the history of 26 U.S.C. §931 and other sections to prove this.
- 26 3. Everyone who does not ALREADY have a labor contract with the federal government is therefore not involved in a 27 "trade or business" under Subtitle A, and therefore is not in receipt of federal excise-taxable "privileges". As such, all
28 of their assets are a "foreign estate" under the Internal Revenue Code as defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)(A):

30 Sec. 7701. - Definitions

31 (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent
32 thereof –

33 (31) Foreign estate or trust

34 (A) Foreign estate

35 The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is 36 not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in 37 gross income under subtitle A.

- 38 4. The very first kickback program began in 1862 as an outgrowth of desperation of Congress to fund the Civil War. He 39 traces the enactments of Congress over more than a hundred years to show that the basic "kickback" approach started by 40 Abraham Lincoln in 1862 has been perfected and expanded over the years to become extremely effective and very 41 deceptive. The main method for expanding this illegal kickback program to apply to other than the "public officers" it
42 was originally intended for has been the obfuscation of Title 26 of the U.S. Code and the willful, criminal, and treasonous 43 participation of the federal judiciary in this scheme to expand federal jurisdiction beyond the clear limits of the 44 Constitution.
- 45 5. Nothing we pay to the federal government is truly a "tax" as defined by the Supreme Court because taxes can only 46 support the government and not the constituents. There are very few real "taxes" under the Internal Revenue Code,
47 because most of the money is used for wealth transfer rather than to support only the government. In the context of 48 Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, the word "tax" really means "kickback", and only applies to federal corporations,

1 trusts, and domestic partnerships, where “domestic” means within the federal government or the “federal zone”. In fact,
2 all of the entities listed under 26 U.S.C. §7701 fit the description of those connected to the federal government. Under
3 the rule of statutory construction known as “ejusdem generis”, all of the entities listed below are of the same class or 4 kind, and are entities in receipt of the federal privileges:

5 5.1. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a): “citizens” and “residents” of the United States

6 5.2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(b): domestic partnerships

7 5.3. 26 U.S.C. §7701(c): domestic corporations

8 5.4. 26 U.S.C. §7701(b): gross income that can be called “domestic income”

9 5.5. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30): United States Person. These are the only entities that need identifying number.

10 6. The Social Security Number identifies a constructive trust. Your labor builds the assets in the trust. The federal 11 government is the trustee. This is consistent with our document below:

[Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Family Guardian Fellowship

12 7. The public officer “kickback” scheme works as follows:

13 7.1. The federal government pays its “public officers” an additional amount above and beyond the pay they are supposed
14 to get. In fact, if you look at the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939 and various other revenue acts enacted over the 15 years upon which Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A were derived, the only natural persons who earn either “wages”
16 or “gross income” as legally defined are these federal employees. See 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a). These federal 17 employees are, in actuality, the only natural persons who can reasonably be classified as “individuals” within 18 Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

19 7.2. The amount above the pay that these federal public officers are supposed to get is classified as “profit” or “income”
20 of the United States government. We covered this earlier in sections 3.12.1.4, 3.12.1.22, and 5.2.19.

21 7.3. This “profit” or “income” is the income of a federal corporation, the United States (see 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)),
22 and the public officers receiving this “profit” or “income” are the “fiduciaries” under 26 U.S.C. §6903 who have
23 been temporarily entrusted with property that actually belongs to the United States government. These custodians
24 of U.S. property are classified as a “transferee” as defined in earlier versions of the code in 26 U.S.C. §6901. The 25 current version of the code no longer contains the definition of “transferee” in section 6901 and has replaced that
26 with “fiduciary” in 26 U.S.C. §6903 since Frank first wrote his book. However, if you submit an affidavit to tax
27 court claiming NOT to be a “transferee” or “fiduciary” of U.S. government property under 26 U.S.C. §6902(b),
28 then you cannot lawfully litigate your case in that court for Subtitle A income taxes.

29 7.4. The “taxpayer” in this scheme is not the public official or appointee who is receiving the monies, but instead is the 30 paymaster or withholding agent who is paying the public officer, and indeed, 26 U.S.C. §1461 is the only section
31 anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code that makes anyone liable for subtitle A income taxes, and that person is the 32 person who is withholding from the pay of these public officers.

33 7.5. The jurisdiction the United States government within this kickback scheme is “in rem” jurisdiction, which means
34 jurisdiction over the property but not the person. The property is the means by which they obtain jurisdiction over 35 the person. This jurisdiction arises under Article IV, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution. We covered this 36 earlier in section 1.5.

37 7.6. If taxes are not paid on the “profit” or “income” by the public officer, then the U.S. government has a legal right to 38 administratively levy the wages of the public officer to recover their monies because of their “in rem” jurisdiction
39 over these monies, which always were the property of the U.S. government, both before and after their receipt by 40 the public officer. This act is perfectly constitutional and does not violate the Fifth Amendment rights of the public
41 officer because he consented to such withholding and to being a fiduciary custodian of these excess monies as an 42 implied part of his employment agreement with the United States government. However, the administrative levy,
43 effected with a Notice of Levy, may only constitutionally be implemented within a federal agency under the Federal 44 Payment Levy Program (FPLP). It may not be instituted against private employers.

45 7.7. The definition of “employee” found in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1
46 confirm that the only “employees” who are subject to Subtitles A or C income taxes are indeed elected or appointed 47 officers of the United States government. In accordance with 4 U.S.C. §72, these officers can only reside in the 48 District of Columbia, which is why the term “United States” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) means the District
49 of Columbia only in the context of Subtitle A income taxes. We covered this earlier in section 5.2.12. It is also 50 covered in section 4.5.4.21 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005.

51 7.8. The IRS’ administrative enforcement, including liens, levies, and assessments, become illegal if they are forced 52 upon private citizens who are not public officers of the United States government, and especially if those private 53 citizens are domiciled outside of the federal zone. In fact, if Subtitle A income taxes are enforced against private 54 citizens, then they become a form of debt slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 18 U.S.C. §1581, and
55 42 U.S.C. §1994.

- 1 7.9. The federal judiciary has become an accessory to this illegal kickback scheme, and he traces the history of at least
2 three different Supreme Court rulings (Brushaber v. Union Pacific RR, 240 U.S. 1 (1916); Miles v. Graham, 268
3 U.S. 501 (1924); O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277 (1939)) to show how this kickback scheme has been
4 expanded with the blessings and willing participation of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court, mainly through the
5 error of omission rather than commission, to be misapplied by the IRS against private citizens who don't work as 6 public officers for the federal government.
- 7 8. Title 26 of the U.S. Code is not positive law because it was never enacted by Congress. Instead it is only prima facie
8 evidence of law. The only real and positive law is found in the Statutes at Large, which are the direct enactments of 9 Congress. The U.S. Codes are simply "codified" versions of the Statutes at Large, modified to make them more general 10 and universal.
- 11 9. The main mechanism for illegally expanding the Public Officer Kickback program has been the obfuscation of the 12 Internal Revenue Code over the years by the Congress in order to confuse and mislead both the public and the IRS who 13 administers the tax code written by Congress. The deliberate and systematic abuse of the word "includes" has been
14 pivotal in effecting this criminal fraud. The obfuscation is easily illustrated and revealed by comparing the Statutes at 15 Large with 26 U.S.C. to show the legislative intent of the various sections of the U.S.C. The most obvious example of 16 this would be to search for all the definitions of "gross income" found in the Statutes at Large and compare them with 17 26 U.S.C. §61 and 26 U.S.C. §861.
- 18 10. Since the first "kickback" scheme started in 1862, there has been a systematic attempt by Congress to expand its 19 jurisdiction by obfuscating the U.S. Codes to make them hide the truth found in the Statutes at Large. He cites several 20 examples where the Office of Legislative Counsel has abused its authority in writing and rewriting Title 26 to hide the 21 truth about the limited applicability of the Subtitle A income tax.
- 22 11. The biggest improvement in this "kickback" scheme came in the Revenue Act of 1918, in which Congress first defined 23 the term "gross income". He shows several sections in the Statutes at Large that specifically define "gross income" to 24 only mean the "wages" of public officers of the United States government. He shows that there has never been any 25 statute in the Statutes at Large where "gross income" was ever defined to also encompass monies earned by private 26 persons who don't work for the federal government as public officers. This is a hot issue worth a very serious and 27 diligent look by the freedom community, folks. In the coming months, we will research this and post the evidence on 28 our website for all to see proving this point. In the meantime, a good place to start is the following link on our website:
29 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/HistoricalActs/HistFedIncTaxActs.htm>
- 30 12. The objectivity of the Federal Judiciary has been compromised because judges are both paid by income taxes and are 31 beholden to IRS extortion because they too participate in this "kickback" scheme. This has created a conflict of interest
32 and a criminal class of judges in violation of 28 U.S.C. §455 and 28 U.S.C. §144. He says the stakes get higher every 33 day for these corrupt judges because by exposing the fraud, they would bring terrible retribution upon their brethren in 34 their own judiciary and in other branches of government. This makes them very reluctant to expose the fraud and leads 35 them to prejudice the litigation of most tax freedom advocates. This also explains why so many cases these days go
36 unpublished: they are part of a massive cover-up of judicial wrongdoing and violation of due process. This also explains
37 why tape recording or video recording of tax trials is prohibited by law: It would increase the risk that these corrupt
38 judges could be prosecuted for their fraud and violation of due process under the Constitution.
- 39 13. Those private Americans who choose to volunteer in this corrupt federal kickback program do not have a "tangible right"
40 to force others to participate. The public is not injured or harmed in any way by the failure of certain individuals to 41 "volunteer" to participate in this tax "scheme". This matter was settled by the Supreme Court in the case of McNally v.
42 United States, 483 U.S. 350 (1987).
- 43 14. The purpose of Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code is to facilitate an action in "replevin" against federal "employees"
44 who are in temporary custody of federal property as "fiduciaries" and "transferees".

45 "Replevin. An action whereby the owner or person entitled to repossession of goods or chattels may recover
46 those goods or chattels from one who has wrongfully distrained or taken or who wrongfully detains such goods
47 or chattels. Jim's Furniture Mart, Inc. v. Harris, 42 Ill.App.3d. 488, 1 Ill.Dec. 175, 176, 356 N.E.2d. 175, 176.
48 Also refers to a provisional remedy that is an incident of a replevin action which allows the plaintiff at any time
49 before judgment to take the disputed property from the defendant and hold the property pendent lite. Other names
50 for replevin include Claim and Delivery, Detinue, Revendication, and Sequestration (q.v.)."
51 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1299]

- 52 15. All funds conveyed to the federal government using tax withholding or a 1040 form are considered "gifts" and come 53 under the provisions of 31 U.S.C. §321(d). All gifts are absolute, irrevocable transfers of property. As such, it doesn't
54 make sense to try to recover them from the government. The more appropriate approach is to recover them in a state
55 court personally from a revenue agent.

16. The IRS Form 1040 tax return is legally considered a “contract of bailment” and is a deed for a “gift” to the federal government. It is also identified as such by Williston's on Contracts, Vol. 9, Section 1040. The first edition of this book was published in 1933, right around the time that income taxes were first introduced, and the section number is strategic. When you fill out a form 1040, you as the bailee are conveying property back to the federal government that always was theirs. The implied contract under which the bailment is made is the employment agreement governing federal “employees”.
17. Under 26 U.S.C. §4000 (1939 tax code), revenue agents are considered “entrepreneurs” and not employees.

Title 26, Internal Revenue Code (1939 Code)
Sec. 4000. Appointment

*The Commissioner may, whenever in his judgment the necessities of the service so require, employ competent agents, who shall be known and designated as internal revenue agents, and, except as provided for in this title, no general or special agent or inspector of the Treasury Department in connection with internal revenue, by whatever designation he may be known, shall be appointed, commissioned, or employed.

- IRS agents are nothing but “informers” and “consultants” who have no enforcement powers. The IRS Commissioner can hire anyone he wants as an IRS agent but they can't be considered employees. Therefore, they are independently and personally liable as “consultants” for everything they do, and that liability cannot be transferred to the U.S. government.
18. Involuntary servitude or peonage, which is debt slavery, is prohibited under the Thirteenth Amendment. It is prohibited to be done by:
- 18.1. Private individuals, as revealed by the Supreme Court in the Clyatt v. U.S., 197 U.S. 207 (1905).
- 18.2. Corporations, as revealed by the Supreme Court in Bailey v. Alabama, 219 U.S. 219 (1911).
19. The Internal Revenue Code doesn't apply to all to most Americans. Therefore, when we are tangling with the IRS, we should never rely on anything from that code because it doesn't apply to us. Only “taxpayers” are supposed to use the IRC and your average American is a “nontaxpayer”.
20. Stay away from the declaring you are a “nonresident alien” because the government is good at using it for slandering people using in front of juries using presumption. Combs in N.C. used the “nonresident alien” approach and was slammed with it.
- 20.1. Citizenship has nothing to do with tax liability.
- 20.2. The important thing is whether you have a labor contract with the federal government. If you do, then you have income “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” which is includable in “gross income”.
- 20.3. Frank Kowalik said he studied the “nonresident alien” position for six months trying to understand it, but he couldn't. He says it is too confusing and prejudices juries. Instead, he mistakenly thinks that anyone who works for the federal government falls into the category of “citizens or residents” of the United States. He wasn't aware of the definition of “nonresident alien” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B), which identifies a “nonresident alien” as someone who is neither a “citizen” nor a “resident” of the United States. He also mistakenly thinks that “nonresident aliens” are also “U.S. persons” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).
- 20.4. Don't debate the Non-Resident Non-Person Position with Frank, because he can't be rational about it and won't discuss the basis of his beliefs using the law. He says “That position won't work in court with juries and that's all I need to know about it to stay away from it.” Then he turns around and contradicts himself by saying that everyone should write “Foreign estate as described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)” on the back of every check they endorse and cash. This section identifies him as a nonresident alien, and yet he disagrees with those who use this position. This aspect of his position is clearly irrational.
21. Frank also says to stay away from the 861 Position because it is too confusing to present to juries. It should not be used as the core of a person's defense. He says “nontaxpayers” shouldn't be citing any part of the I.R.C. in their defense, and we agree.
22. As we investigated his claims, we were appalled that there was no online source for historical Statutes at Large provided by the government for dates after 1873. Only the last few five or so years are available online, and for others you have to go to a Federal Depository library or pay for an expensive online legal research service (such as Lexis-Nexis or Westlaw.com) costing $150/month or more in order to examine older Statutes at Large. We believe that this omission is deliberate because Congress doesn't want their fraud and conspiracy exposed by you reading the REAL code and thereby understanding their very limited jurisdiction. Frank implies but does not explicitly say that the term “includes”

is indeed used as a term of limitation and not enlargement. We will cover this issue later in section 5.10.1. See also the following for the evidence:

23. Frank Kowalik uses his own history of litigation to powerfully illustrate how Subtitle A income “taxes” are indeed “voluntary” for the average American and how the federal judiciary is colluding with the IRS in illegally enforcing what should be a voluntary federal donation program.

The big question arises under the Public Officer Kickback Position of how, precisely, the federal government has made us all at least “appear” as federal “employees” or “public officers”. Understanding how this is done is key to understanding how we become parties obligated to participate in the kickback scheme. The secret is as follows, which was related to us by a dedicated researcher who has been studying this specific subject for over 8 years as follows:

1. The IRS Form W-4 is what identifies you as a federal “employee” in the upper left corner. The term “employee” is defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 as only an elected or appointed officer of the United States government. Therefore, signing this form under penalty of perjury and submitting it provides admissible evidence that we are a federal “employee”.
2. Most federal benefit programs administered within the states and outside of federal jurisdiction can be lawfully and constitutionally administered if offered ONLY to federal “employees”. Such benefit programs may NOT be provided to private citizens, because there is no Constitutional authority for doing so. For instance, 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13) says that all those who are “entitled” to receive federal benefits are considered “federal personnel”.

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(13) the term “Federal personnel” means officers and employees of the Government of the United States, members of the uniformed services (including members of the Reserve Components), individuals entitled to receive immediate or deferred retirement benefits under any retirement program [including Social Security] of the Government of the United States (including survivor benefits).

3. Social Security is described as an “entitlement” and fits the criteria above to make all those who participate into federal “employees” or “federal personnel”. The problem is that by law, Congress is only authorized to offer it those who maintain a domicile in the federal zone, which excludes persons domiciled in states of the Union. The Constitution does not authorize them to offer it to people in the states, so it cannot be an entitlement for anyone domiciled in the states. If you file the 1040NR and maintain your status as a nonresident alien and a “national” but not a “citizen”, then you therefore aren’t legally entitled to receive such a benefit by law. You therefore can’t lawfully be described as “federal personnel” nor have your rights adversely affected without the need for implementing regulations.
4. The First Annual Report of the Social Security Board of 1936 describes the activity upon which the Individual Income Tax is based. Page 20 says:

“Title VII of the Social Security Act imposes an income tax on the employees covered by the old-age benefits sections. . . .”

Therefore, those who participate in Social Security also become the proper subject for the federal income tax under Subtitle A.

5. Social Security is a welfare agreement, Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U.S. 548 (1937). Welfare is a grantor trust agreement. Trust agreements stay valid as long as they are agreed upon by voice (or written act) or action (use). Grantor trusts can be collapsed via revesting title by the grantor, Blackstone’s Commentaries, Volume 1, Chapter 18. The Social Security “totalization agreement” makes you “Federal personnel” pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13), retirement benefits eligibility.
6. When you entered into a grantor trust agreement with the United States (Attorney General), 50 USC Appendix 12, paragraph 4, you exchanged those unalienable Rights for privileges just like Esau exchanged his birth right with Jacob for a bowl of pottage. The U.S. Attorney General is the trustee, 28 U.S.C. §§581 and 582, Assistant United States trustees (a) The Attorney General may appoint one or more assistant United States trustees in any region when the public interest so requires. (b) Each assistant United States trustee is subject to removal by the Attorney General. [As last amended Oct. 27, 1986, Pub.L. 99-554, Title I, § 111(d), 100 Stat. 3091.]

1 The weak point of the above techniques is that Congress may not enact a positive law within the states of the Union because
2 they have no legislative authority there.

3 *"It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S.
4 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal
5 affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."*
6 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

7 Consequently, the feds need our help to circumvent this limitation imposed by the Constitution. The way they did this was:

- 8 1. To write all the benefit program statutes so that they only apply to federal "employees" and to "U.S. persons", which are 9 defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) as citizens or residents born in or residing within exclusive federal jurisdiction in the 10 federal zone.
- 11 2. Then they obfuscated the definition of "United States" on their forms and government publications to deceive us into 12 admitting that we live within exclusive federal jurisdiction in the federal zone and thereby admit that we are statutory 13 "U.S. persons".
- 14 3. To add in the regulations at 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a) that the W-4 is an agreement or contract. This makes you party
15 to the contract and therefore subject to federal jurisdiction no matter where you are. Both you and the federal government
16 have the right to contract and no state or court can interfere with your right to contract or the enforcement of the rights
17 resulting from the contract. This allowed them to exceed the boundaries of the territorial jurisdiction and bring you
18 within the jurisdiction of federal courts under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the contract. It also allowed them to 19 regulate your life without the need to pass implementing regulations, because 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2) says they don't need
20 implementing regulations in the case of either federal contracts or federal employees.

21 This is an obvious fraud in most cases that anyone with a minimal legal education would recognize that the federal government
22 willfully overlooks in order to obtain jurisdiction over you and transform you into a "taxpayer". Once we know how this 23 fraud works, all we have to do is correct our paperwork to remove their jurisdiction, and we document how to do this in the 24 Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

25 We don't like to speculate and we avoid it like the plague throughout this book. However, on this occasion, we would like
26 to delve into some intriguing theorizing that may be useful to illustrate how to address an argument you are likely to hear
27 some misguided employee of the IRS or DOJ make some day. The argument goes something like this:

28 *"If the government is paying you money, even if they are paying you your own money back that you overpaid in 29 taxes, then don't you effectively become an 'employee' of that government? If you are receiving federal public
30 assistance such as Social Security, Welfare, AFDC, or the like, then can't you also be considered an "employee"
31 of the federal government for the same reason? What they expect you to do as an 'employee' is pay your taxes
32 and subject yourself to laws and jurisdiction that you wouldn't otherwise voluntarily subject yourself to, right?
33 Because of this, don't you think that the 'Public Officer Kickback Position' described in this section may apply
34 to all such Americans who are in the 'privileged' position of receiving federal payments?"*

35 We aren't making the above up, because we actually heard someone ask this question, so it's a realistic question! Here is a
36 summary of our response, which you can use as additional ammunition against the government if they try to argue that you
37 are an "employee" as defined in the I.R.C.:

- 38 1. Your position is frivolous.
- 39 2. The only "employees" that Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A income taxes apply to are public officers of the United 40 States government engaged in a "trade or business" as identified in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26), 26
41 U.S.C. §3401(c), and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1.
- 42 3. When the federal government pays you money, in most cases they are paying money back to you that came from you to 43 begin with. Therefore you are the real employer and they are just the "bank", in effect, that is making the payment as 44 your indirect agent and under the authority of law. Remember that the government doesn't "produce" anything. All 45 they do is steal from productive members of society to fund their operations and thereby destroy the lives of the very 46 people they were put into existence to "protect".
- 47 4. Even if you were expecting to draw Social Security checks but had not yet drawn them, you can't be called an "employee"
48 in that instance either because the receipt of the benefits is a privilege and not a right. Not only that, but we also showed 49 earlier in section 4.3.14 that the U.S. Supreme Court in Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619 (1937) and Flemming v. Nestor,
50 363 U.S. 603 (1960) declared that Social Security (and by implication all other government social programs!) are NOT
51 insurance and are NOT a contract. If the receipt of benefits is not contractual or a right of the recipient, then why should

1 the receipt of taxes by the government from your wages in order to pay for such benefits be considered either a right by
2 the government or contractual?

3 5. Even if none of the other arguments above applied, the U.S. government still wouldn't have lawful authority to collect
4 taxes in the states of the Union because:

5 5.1. The federal government has no police powers inside states of the union.

6 5.2. The federal government has no territorial jurisdiction under the Internal Revenue Code or the Title 18 criminal
7 code.

8 5.3. Remember that the Constitution establishes a federal government of limited and enumerated powers and under the 9 Tenth Amendment, all powers not delegated by the Constitution are reserved to the states and the people. The 10 Constitution does not explicitly or even indirectly authorize the federal government to treat you as "public officer"
11 of the U.S. government or the money you make as "income" as constitutionally defined. Therefore, they simply 12 can't do that which they have no delegated authority to do, even if you are willing to volunteer as their accomplice
13 and help them by paying a tax you don't owe.

14 5.4. The federal government has no authority to exercise its power to contract in order to subvert or escape the limitations
15 imposed by the federal Constitution. Therefore, it cannot form private contracts with people in the states to provide 16 social insurance, because this authority is not conferred by the Constitution and it would be usurping authority and 17 sovereignty from the people and the states and thereby violating the Ninth and Tenth Amendments:

18 "State officials [or private citizens, for that matter] thus cannot consent to the enlargement of the powers of 19 Congress beyond those enumerated in the Constitution."
20 [New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 142; 112 S.Ct. 2408; 120 L.Ed.2d. 120 (1992)]

21 Finally, if you would like to look at some of the historical milestones that show the development of the "Federal Employee
22 Kickback" scheme, refer to the following sections in Chapter 6:

- 23 1. Section 6.8.21: 1862: First Tax on "officers" of the U.S. Government
- 24 2. Section 6.12.11: 1915: Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad, 240 U.S. 1
- 25 3. Section 6.8.16: 1918: "Gross income" first defined in the Revenue Act of 1918
- 26 4. Section 6.12.10: 1924: Miles v. Graham, 268 U.S. 501
- 27 5. Section 6.8.15: 1932: Revenue Act of 1932 imposes first excise tax on federal judges and public officers
- 28 6. Section 6.12.9: 1938: O'Malley v. Woodrough, 207 U.S. 277
- 29 7. Section 6.8.9: 1986: Cover-Up of 1986- Obfuscation of IRC Section 931

30 5.6.11 You don't have any taxable sources of income

31 As we pointed out at the beginning of this chapter in sections 5.1.6 through 5.1.8, the federal income tax under Subtitle A is 32 and always has been an indirect excise tax upon privileged activities, according to both the Congress and the U.S. Supreme 33 Court. There has never been a claim otherwise by these two source that we are aware of. The federal district courts appear
34 confused about this issue and have contradicted the Supreme Court (and even themselves) several times, in violation of stare
35 decisis, but their rulings are irrelevant to those not within federal jurisdiction anyway, which includes most Americans. Now
36 if I.R.C., Subtitle A describes an indirect excise upon privileges, then it is a tax on privileged or licensed "activities", and not
37 on "items of income" listed within 26 U.S.C. §§861 or 862. But the government has tried to confuse the issue and divert 38 attention away from this aspect of the income tax by the following means:

- 39 1. Most of the sections within the current IRC deliberately don't even mention "taxable activities" because if people
40 understood this, they wouldn't owe anything. Older versions of the code very clearly described the taxable activities but 41 the current version is totally obfuscated to disguise this fact. Our public dis-servants have had over 80 years to perfect
42 their willful fraud, and it has become harder and harder as they did their dirty work to discover the true nature of the 43 federal income tax as an indirect excise tax.
- 44 2. The IRS has completely removed mention of the "taxable activities" and "subjects of taxation" from all of its 45 publications.
- 46 3. The only remaining mention of excise "taxable activities" we could find is within an obfuscated section of the Treasury
47 regulations found at 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). The IRS and DOJ have recently attacked and persecuted and harassed all
48 those who relied on this list of "taxable activities" in order to determine whether their income is "gross income", in order
49 to divert attention away from the nature of Subtitle A as an indirect excise tax.

As we read through the code to try to discover what is “taxable” and what is includible in “gross income”, we must narrow our search down to include only activities that are privileged and therefore excise taxable. Within I.R.C., Subtitle A, there are only two types of privileged, and therefore excise taxable, activities. These are:

1. “foreign commerce” within states of the Union, which is privileged and licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. Jurisdiction over foreign commerce within the states is bestowed by Constitution Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. This taxable activity is identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1).
2. “trade or business”. Defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) to mean “the functions of a public office” in a government entity under exclusive federal jurisdiction. The “license” is the oath that all office holders must take before they may serve. This is also called “effectively connected income” or simply “ECI”. See the next section for details on this.

It should also be pointed out here that jurisdiction of the federal government within the states, under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution is ONLY granted in the case of excise taxes relating to foreign commerce mentioned under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The federal government has no jurisdiction over any other subject matter of taxation derived from the Constitution, because the Constitution only grants the federal government jurisdiction over affairs EXTERNAL to the states of the Union, including imports and interstate commerce. See section 5.2.3 earlier. If it ain't in the Constitution, then the feds can't do it in the states. Period. The Ninth and Tenth Amendments make that clear. All excise taxes are voluntary, because if you don't want to pay the tax, then you don't “volunteer” to engage in the privileged or licensed commercial activity that is the subject of the tax. If the IRS attempts to collect a tax from you, then the questions you must resolve with them are:

1. What activity is subject to tax? Show them the table in section 5.1.6 and ask them which type of tax they are trying to collect and ask them what is the “subject of” the tax. Neither 26 U.S.C. §61 nor 26 U.S.C. §861 describe or enumerate only “taxable activities” that are proper constitutional “subjects of tax” as shown in the table. Therefore, one must go to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) to see the activities. If they don't want to use that section as the list of activities subject to tax, then ask them where else you can find the taxable activities, because I.R.C. sections 61 and 861 don't list of privileged taxable activities under the Constitution.
2. What admissible evidence do you have that I am engaged in such an activity? Reports of a payment documented on a form 1099 does not reveal any connection to a “taxable activity”. On what basis are you “presuming” that I am engaged in a “taxable activity”? Being a “citizen” isn't a privileged activity, so what privilege is being exercised so that I may know how to avoid this tax? Without the ability to avoid the tax and the activity that is taxed, you are instituting slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and enforcing a Direct tax within states of the Union that is a violation of Constitution Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9. Clause 4.
3. What license or privilege did I apply for and receive from the government in order to justify being subject to this alleged “tax”?

The answer to the above questions in the case of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, which the IRS would give you if they could be honest without hurting the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia that they administer, is the following:

1. It is a “privilege” to live within exclusive/plenary federal jurisdiction. EVERYTHING inside the federal zone is a privilege because the area is not covered by the Bill of Rights and you have absolutely NO rights. The only sovereign inside the federal zone is Congress and the Executive branch, not the people who live there. There is no Constitution within the federal zone between its inhabitants and the national government, because the people don't have sovereignty. It is a dictatorship and oligarchy, not a Republic. You are entitled to nothing and you are living on the king's feudal plantation. Pay up and worship your new king, slave, or we'll plunder ALL your property!
2. All people who file an IRS Form W-4 are “assumed” to live within the District of Columbia and be federal “employees” who are public officers. It says that in the upper left corner of the W-4 and the definition of “employee” in 26 C.F.R. §1.3401(c)-1 confirms who these “employees” are. You signed this form under penalty of perjury so we have court-admissible evidence that you are a privileged public official and a federal “employee”. If you either filed an IRS Form 1040 or claimed itemized deductions on your return, then you also effectively admitted under penalty of perjury that your income is connected with a privileged public office in the U.S. government, which is what a “trade or business” is. Under these circumstances:
  - 2.1. You are in receipt of the “privilege” of deductions on your return and a lower, graduated rate of tax.
  - 2.2. We don't need implementing regulations to enforce against you, because you consented to be treated as a federal “employee” and 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) says no implementing regulations are required.

2.3. The federal government has jurisdiction over you no matter where you are, because you consented to be treated as one of its "employees". Governments have always had full jurisdiction over their own employees, even outside of their borders and territory.

3. If you have a federal ID number such as an SSN or TIN, then you are registered as being in receipt of a federal excise taxable privilege. That privilege is participation in the welfare program called Social Security. It is a privilege to not have to take responsibility for your own financial security when you get older, and you will pay DEARLY for that privilege. We are going to rape and pillage 50% of your income for that privilege. Even though the Social Security tax is only 7.5%, we do the collection and enforcement for the Social Security program and we are going to abuse the information we have about you as a way to plunder even more "loot" from your estate using our dastardly automated paper terrorism program called IDRS. Since the acceptance of an SSN creates a presumption that you are a statutory "U.S. person" and you never rebutted that presumption, then we're going to treat you like a federal resident (alien) whose living on the federal plantation who has no rights. Bend over and get used to being screwed, and don't expect us to give you any help with leaving the federal plantation or taking off those chains. We are going to make you and your property captive and make you a slave of your own apathy and ignorance.

"The hand of the diligent will rule, but the lazy man will be put to forced labor [slavery!]." [Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]

4. Since you put an SSN on a tax return, you consented to use that number as a "substitute" TIN. There is no law requiring "nonresident aliens" who do not live or work in the District of Columbia and who are not engaged in a "trade or business"/public office to use an SSN in place of a TIN. 26 U.S.C. §6109(d) says that the SSN "shall" be used, but this statute doesn't apply to anything but public officers of the United States government working in the District of Columbia. When you as a "nonresident alien" and "nontaxpayer" not subject to federal jurisdiction provided that number, you consented to do that which no law requires you to do. You colluded with use to exceed the bounds of the Constitution, and so we are partners in crime. Therefore, you consented to be treated as an alien, since the IRS can only issue TINs to aliens under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3), no matter what your real status is. You are on the same footing as people from other countries domiciled in the federal zone as far as tax purposes go. Such a person is referred to as a "resident" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). Since you didn't attach a form 2555 to the 1040 form that you mistakenly filed, then you agreed to be treated as an alien. "U.S. citizens" living abroad are also aliens in the context of treaties with foreign countries. Either way then, whether you file a 1040 as an alien or a 1040 plus a 2555 as a statutory "U.S. citizen" abroad, you are still treated by us as an "alien" with NO RIGHTS.

Now let's examine the IRS' own publications to see if we can confirm the above conclusions. IRS Publication 519 entitled Tax Guide for Aliens describes the tax status of "aliens" and "nonresident aliens". The year 2000 booklet available at:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSPub519.pdf>

has a very useful table describing taxable sources on page 11 entitled "Summary of Source Rules for Income of Nonresident Aliens". This table applies not only to "aliens" and "nonresident aliens", but also to "U.S. citizens" as well. The reason is because "U.S. citizens" living "abroad" in a foreign country come under the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code by virtue of the fact that they are treated as "aliens" under the provisions of an income tax treaty with a foreign country. Ordinarily, we don't trust any IRS publications because the IRS says in Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 that you can't rely on them. However, we believe based on our own thorough research of the I.R.C. that the table is accurate. We therefore repeat it below for your benefit and to aid the discussion. Please be astutely aware of the definitions of important "words of art" used in the table below as you read such as the following:

- "United States" is defined earlier in section 5.2.12 to mean only the District of Columbia under the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.
- "foreign" is defined earlier in section 5.2.14 to mean outside the "United States" (federal zone). It is not defined in the I.R.C. because the government doesn't want you to know what it means.
- "wages" are defined earlier in section 5.6.7 as earnings from labor of a federal "employee" who has consented or volunteered to become a "taxpayer" under the provisions of 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3, by submitting a form W-4 authorizing withholding. Without submitting this form or submitting it under duress makes him a "nontaxpayer" who does not earn "wages". Since the term "employee" is defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 as a person holding public office, then "wages" are connected to the taxable activity called a "trade or business".

4. “personal services” is defined earlier in section 3.12.1.22 as work in connection with “the functions of a public office” in the United States government, which is called a “trade or business” throughout the I.R.C. This is confirmed by examining 26 C.F.R. §1.162-7(a), 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(i), and 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9(b)(4). See also: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/PersonalServices.htm>.

We have italicized and underlined the above “words of art” in the table below to help you in reading the table. We have also added a new column to the IRS’ table identifying exactly the excise “taxable activity” that must occur for the item of income to be taxable.

| Sale of natural resources                       | Allocation based on fair market value of product at export terminal. For more information, see section 1.863-1(b) of the regulations. | “Trade or business”     |

Exceptions include:

- a) Dividends paid by a U.S. corporation are foreign source if the corporation elects the Puerto Rico economic activity credit or possessions tax credit.
- b) Part of a dividend paid by a foreign corporation is U.S. source if at least 25% of the corporations gross income is effected connected with a U.S. trade or business for the 3 tax years before the year in which the dividends are declared.

Next, we will show you a table that summarizes the above rules and discussion geographically, to show taxable source rules and requirements based on the location where your source of income came from and your citizenship status. Some of the information appearing here comes from section 5.11, where we talk about income taxes within territories and possessions of the United States. We have broken the table down into three groups of rows relating to a particular citizenship status. The four columns on the right relate to the “situs” for imposing the tax, which is the combination of the excise taxable activity occurring within a specific region enumerated in the code. The top three rows of the table describe certain characteristics of each of the five “situs” identified across the top. This table is intended to help you compute your taxable income by adding up all the income from specific excise taxable activities in each of the five distinct types of jurisdictions within our society.

People in states of the Union are NOT "citizens of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401. Instead, they are "nationals" or "state nationals" | A "citizen of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 becomes simply a "national but not a citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) when he leaves the federal zone to live in a possession. | A "citizen of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401 becomes simply a "national but not a citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) when he leaves the federal zone to live in a state of the Union. Taxes collected under Agreement on Coordination of Tax Administration between Secretary of the Treasury and Attorney General of state. Collected ONLY within federal areas and not within rest of state. | A "citizen of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, when living overseas becomes an "alien" under a tax treaty with a foreign country. The "taxable activity" is that of being protected while overseas domiciled in a foreign country. See Cook v. Tait , 265 U.S. 47 (1924). Taxing rates of foreign country are set by treaty, and statutory "U.S. citizen" becomes an "alien" under the provisions of the treaty with foreign country. |

NOTE(S):

1. Territories and possessions typically have their own local income taxes that replace, not supplement, the federal income tax.
2. This table assumes that the "taxpayer" is not involved in a "trade or business" anywhere except in the District of Columbia.
3. The IRS is the tax collection agency exclusively for the District of Columbia. Treasury Order 150-02 reveals that the only remaining Internal Revenue District is in the District of Columbia.
4. Taxes on "foreign commerce" are taxes on imports but not exports coming under Constitution Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The U.S. Constitution prohibits taxes on exports from states of the Union under Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5. These types of taxes are also called "excises, duties, and imposts". Most of these taxes are listed under Subtitle D of the Internal Revenue Code and are licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. An example is the tax on petroleum imported into the 50 states imposed under 26 U.S.C. §4611. Note that the term "United States", in the context of imported petroleum taxes is specifically defined in 26 U.S.C. §4612(a)(4)(A) as "The term 'United States' means the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any possession of the United States, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. "

The most notable conclusion one can draw from the above table is that if you don't live in the District of Columbia and do not elect to connect your earnings to a "trade or business" within the "United States" (D.C.), then you can't earn "gross income". Without "gross income", you do not meet the minimum requirement for filing a return found in 26 U.S.C. §6012. Therefore, you are in effect:

1. A "nontaxpayer" and not a "taxpayer". This means every reference in the I.R.C. or the Internal Revenue Manual which imposes an obligation upon a "taxpayer" doesn't apply to you.
2. Not subject to any of the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.
3. Are not subject to withholding on any payments you receive.
4. If any money was withheld from your pay by either a business or a financial institution, then you are due for a refund of all withholding.
5. Cannot file an IRS Form 1040, because EVERYTHING that goes on that form is treated as "effectively connected with a trade or business". That form is for "aliens", and not "nonresident aliens", as we showed in section 5.5.2 earlier.
6. Cannot lawfully have any CTR's, or Currency Transaction Reports, prepared against you by any financial institution. See 31 C.F.R. §103.30(d)(2), which excludes these reports for persons not engaged in a "trade or business".
7. Cannot have form 8300 filed against you by anyone. See IRS Publication 334: Tax Guide for Small Businesses (2002), p. 12.
8. Cannot have form 1099-MISC filed against you. See IRS Publication 583: Starting a Business and Keeping Records, p. 8.
9. "foreign" with respect to the Internal Revenue Code because you live outside the "United States" and do not have any earnings from within the "United States" that are connected with a "trade or business".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > §7701
§7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the [federal] United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

10. Not liable for most state income taxes, because all of them usually have as a prerequisite that you must have reportable income on a federal return before you can be subject to state income tax.
11. An "individual" who does not earn "gross income" because earned outside the District of Columbia, which is called "sources without the United States" in the I.R.C.:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART 1 > § 864
§864. Definitions and special rules

(c) Effectively connected income, etc.

(4) Income from sources without United States

(A) Except as provided in subparagraphs (B) and (C), no income, gain, or loss from sources without the United States shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

IRS Publication 519 (2000) edition also has an enlightening section on p. 14 entitled "Services Performed for Foreign Employer" which confirms the above conclusions. Here is what it says. Once again, we have boldfaced and underlined the "words of art" to draw special attention to them:

Services Performed for Foreign Employer

If you were paid by a foreign employer, your U.S. source income may be exempt from U.S. tax, but only if you meet one of the situations discussed next.

1 Employees of foreign persons, organizations, or offices. If three conditions exist, income for personal services
 2 performed in the United States as a nonresident alien is not considered to be from U.S. sources and is tax exempt.
 3 If you do not meet all three conditions, your income from personal services performed in the United States is U.S.
 4 source income and is taxed according to the rules in chapter 4.

5 The three conditions are:

6 1) You perform personal services as an employee of or under a contract with a nonresident alien individual,
 7 foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in a trade or business in the United States; or you work
 8 for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country or possession of the United States by a U.S.
 9 corporation, a U.S. partnership, or a U.S. citizen or resident.

10 2) You perform these services while you are a nonresident alien temporarily present in the United States for a 11 period or periods of not more than a total of 90 days during the tax year, and

12 3) Your pay for these services is not more than $3,000.

13 If your pay for these services is more than $3,000, the entire amount is income from a trade or business within
 14 the United States. To find if your pay is more than $3,000, do not include any amounts you get from your employer
 15 for advances or reimbursements of business travel expenses, if you were required to and did account to your 16 employer for those expenses. If the advances or reimbursements are more than your expenses, include the excess 17 in your pay for these services.

18 A day means a calendar day during any part of which you are physically present in the United States.

21 Now, we will take the above deceptive excerpt from Publication 519 and translate it from legalese into common English
 22 using the I.R.C. definitions into something that really reveals the whole truth to make its meaning crystal clear and consistent
 23 with what we have learned throughout the rest of this chapter. We have taken the “words of art” and put their definitions in 24 brackets after the words. As you read the below, replace the item in brackets for the underlined word it precedes. This will 25 blow your mind, folks!:

26 Services Performed for Foreign [outside the District of Columbia] Employer

27 If you were paid by a foreign employer [an employer outside the District of Columbia], your U.S. [District of 28 Columbia] source income may be exempt from U.S. [District of Columbia] tax, but only if you meet one of the 29 situations discussed next.

30 Employees of foreign persons [persons born outside the federal zone], organizations, or offices [in foreign
 31 countries or states of the Union]. If three conditions exist, income [federal payments] for personal services [labor
 32 in connection with a public office] performed in the United States [District of Columbia] as a nonresident alien
 33 is not considered to be from U.S. [District of Columbia] sources and is tax [donation] exempt. If you do not meet
 34 all three conditions, your income from personal services performed in the United States [District of Columbia]
 35 is U.S. [District of Columbia] source income [federal payments] and is taxed [subject to donation] according to 36 the rules in chapter 4.

37 The three conditions are:

38 1) You perform personal services as an employee of or under a contract with a nonresident alien individual,
 39 foreign [outside the District of Columbia] partnership, or foreign [outside the District of Columbia] corporation,
 40 not engaged in a trade or business [public office] in the United States [District of Columbia]; or you work for 41 an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country [including a state of the Union] or possession of 42 the United States by a U.S. [District of Columbia registered] corporation [and excluding state registered
 43 corporations], a U.S. [District of Columbia] partnership, or a U.S. citizen [person born in the District of 44 Columbia or a territory] or resident [alien],

45 2) You perform these services while you are a nonresident alien temporarily present in the United States [District
 46 of Columbia] for a period or periods of not more than a total of 90 days during the tax [donation] year, and

47 3) Your pay for these services is not more than $3,000.

48 If your pay for these services is more than $3,000, the entire amount is income from a trade or business [public
 49 office] within the United States [District of Columbia]. To find if your pay is more than $3,000, do not include
 50 any amounts you get from your employer for advances or reimbursements of business travel expenses, if you were

1 required to and did account to your employer for those expenses. If the advances or reimbursements are more
2 than your expenses, include the excess in your pay for these services.

3 A day means a calendar day during any part of which you are physically present in the United States [District of 4 Columbia].

5 Mind blowing, how deceptive the IRS publications are, isn't it? No wonder the IRS says you can't depend on them in Internal 6 Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8!

7 This approach is pretty simple, huh? The simplicity of this approach, by the way, far exceeds that of the 861 Position advocates
8 described later in section 5.6.21, which is why we don't recommend using the 861 Position during litigation. Those who 9 argue the 861 Position live within and cite the I.R.C., which is irrelevant to the average American because they are 10 "nontaxpayers" not subject to the I.R.C. to begin with. Why? Because most Americans are "nationals" and not "citizens"
11 under federal law and "non-resident non-persons" with no income "effectively connected with a trade or business in the 12 United States" and all of whose sources of income are from outside the federal "United States":

13 Income Subject to Tax

14 Income from sources outside the United States that is not effectively connected with a trade or business in the
15 United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income is not taxable even
16 if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S. citizen after receiving
17 it and before the end of the year.
18 [IRS Publication 519 \(2000\), p. 26]

19 All that citing the I.R.C. does is help the government to demonstrate that you are subject to it and a party to it, and we sincerely
20 believe this is a VERY BIG MISTAKE! We showed earlier in sections 5.4.1 through 5.4.6.4 that the I.R.C. is effectively a
21 private contract and not a positive law, so citing it just proves you are party to the contract and consent to be bound by it. It
22 is precisely this kind of BIG oversight by proponents of the 861 Position such as Larken Rose that will eventually be their
23 downfall. This also explains why, for instance, the ONLY proponents of tax honesty who are still out there to offer you
24 materials and solutions are those who know what a "nontaxpayer" is and who only help "nontaxpayers". This is no accident,
25 folks. All the other tax honesty advocates who don't understand the "nontaxpayer" and "non-resident non-person" issue have 26 had injunctions placed against them and were shut down long ago as easy targets by the federal mafia. If you want your 27 freedom back, you're going to have to get educated and stick with simple, solid, arguments that are supportable with lots of 28 evidence that juries can understand and believe.

29 Instead of citing the code and using the complicated 861 Position, it's much better to stick to the simple issues of jurisdiction
30 and cite only the Supreme Court and the code as your authority and the whole house of cards will fall down simply and easily.
31 Both you and a jury can easily understand this approach without ever looking at the Treasury regulations or talking about
32 "positive law" or other complicated subjects. It's simple and easy to defend and it depends on only a handful of very simple
33 definitions that are not subject to misinterpretation by an informed jury. The only caveat with using this approach is that the 34 IRS will try to use the word "includes" as a way to stretch the meaning of the code to fit their position, and we show how to 35 fight this unscrupulous and dishonest tactic and deception later in chapter 8.

As we explained earlier in section 5.3.2 and the preceding section, one must be engaged in a “trade or business”, which is defined as “the functions of a public office”, within the statutory but not constitutional “United States**”, which is defined as federal territory, in order to earn “gross income”. This is because:

1. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax, as the Supreme Court pointed out repeatedly. See section 5.1.6 earlier for details. The “subject of” all indirect excise taxes are voluntary “taxable activities” that are privileged and in many cases licensed. The tax may only be instituted by the agency or government entity that issues the license or bestows the privilege to the person who volunteers to be the “licensee”, and the tax is only enforceable within the legislative jurisdiction of the taxing entity. The “privileged activity” in this case of the federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is that of holding “public office” in the U.S. Government. A “public office” is therefore the only excise taxable activity that a biological person can involve themselves in that will make them the subject of the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia called the Internal Revenue Code.
2. According to 4 U.S.C. §72, all “public offices” may be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, except as “expressly provided by law”. That is why the “United States” is defined in I.R.C., Subtitle A as federal territory in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). There is also no provision of law which authorizes “public offices” outside the District of Columbia other than 48 U.S.C. §1612, and therefore, the I.R.C., Subtitle A Income tax upon “public offices” can apply nowhere outside the District of Columbia other than the Virgin Islands. This is also consistent with the definition of “U.S. sources” found in 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\), which identifies all earnings originating from the “United States” as “effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business”.
3. “Income” has the meaning it was given in the Constitution, which is “gain and profit” in connection with an excise taxable activity. Congress is forbidden to define the word “income” because the Constitution defines it. This was pointed out by several rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, including Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920); So. Pacific v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330 (1918); Merchant’s Loan & Trust Co. v. Smietanka, 255 U.S. 509 (1921). Where there is no “taxable activity”, there can be no “taxable income”. We covered this earlier in section 5.6.5 if you want more detail.
4. Because all “taxpayers” under I.R.C., Subtitle A are “public officers” who work for a federal corporation called the “United States” (see 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)), then they are acting as an “officer or employee of a federal corporation” and they:
  - 4.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statutes, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b). This is true even though the Constitution prohibits “Bills of Attainder” in Article 1, Section 10, because the penalty isn’t on the natural person, but upon the “office” or “agency” he volunteered to maintain in the process of declaring that he has “taxable income”.
  - 4.2. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2)
  - 4.3. Are the proper subject for the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which identify officers of corporations as the only “persons” within 26 U.S.C. §7343.
5. Earnings not connected with a “trade or business” under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) and 26 U.S.C. §864 and not originating from the statutory “United States**” (federal territory), which is what “United States” is defined as:
  - 5.1. Are identified as part of a “foreign estate” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31). A foreign estate is outside the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code and not includible in gross income either, based on the definition of “foreign estate”, BECAUSE it is not connected with a “trade or business”.
  - 5.2. Are not includable as “gross income” if paid by a nonresident alien. See 26 U.S.C. §864(b)(1)(A). Remember: We showed earlier in sections 5.2.14 and 5.6.13 that states of the union are “foreign countries” with respect to the Internal Revenue Code and all of their inhabitants are “non-resident non-persons”. The subset of these people who also occupy a public office in the national government are “nonresident aliens” rather than “non-resident non-persons”.

This means one must be engaged in a “public office” in the District of Columbia in order to earn “gross income” as a human being. Statutory and not ordinary “gross income” that meets this criteria is described in the code simply as “income effectively connected with a trade or business from sources within the United States”. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\), which says that an estate that is in no way connected with a “trade or business” and whose sources of income are outside the statutory but not constitutional “United States**” (federal territory) may not have its earnings identified as statutory “gross income” and is a “foreign estate”, which means it is not subject in any way to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code:

Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof –

1 (31) Foreign estate or trust

2 (A) Foreign estate

3 The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States [under 26
4 U.S.C. §871(a)] which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States
5 [under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) and 26 U.S.C. §864], is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

6 These critical facts are very carefully concealed by the IRS in their publications to hide the true nature of the income tax and
7 instead to make it appear as an "unapportioned direct tax" upon persons domiciled in states of the Union. If the American
8 people understood on a large scale:

- 9 1. That the I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax was an "excise tax" upon privileged "taxable activities" only.
- 10 2. Exactly what activity was being taxed.
- 11 3. That the IRS has no jurisdiction within states of the Union against anyone who does not sign a private agreement with 12 the government by submitting an IRS Form W-4 or an IRS Form 1040 tax return.

13 . . .then they would exit the tax system en masse by simply avoiding the activity. All excise taxes are "avoidable" by avoiding
14 the taxed activity, and therefore they are completely "voluntary". Therefore, the IRS and our public dis-servants have a vested
15 interest in hiding and concealing the true nature of the income tax as an "excise tax" in order to maintain revenues from the 16 income tax. They sold the truth and your liberty to Satan for 20 pieces of silver. Some things never change, do they?

17 *"For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their greediness,
18 and pierced themselves through with many sorrows."
19 [1 Tim. 6:10, Bible, NKJV]*

20 In this section, we will demonstrate all the evidence we can find that supports these conclusions, and also show you how the 21 IRS, with the implicit approval and collusion of Congress and the Treasury Dept, has tried to do the following within their 22 deceptive publications:

- 23 1. Taken great pains to hide and obfuscate the fact that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax upon
24 licensed, privileged activities. They have done this by burying the sordid truth deep in regulations that they hope people
25 will never read and which have been carefully obfuscated over the years to make them virtually unintelligible for the 26 average American.
- 27 2. Confuse the meaning of the term "trade or business" in their publications so that everyone thinks they meet this criteria.
- 28 3. Create a false and unsupportable presumption that all people and all earnings within states of the Union are connected 29 with a "trade or business in the United States".
- 30 4. Create the illusion and deception that IRC Subtitle A describes a direct, unapportioned tax upon natural persons that 31 cannot be avoided or shifted. Once IRS can establish the false presumption Subtitle A as a direct unapportioned tax,
32 then they:
  - 33 4.1. Can label those who choose not to volunteer as "frivolous" or worst yet, penalize them for filing an accurate return
34 reflecting no "gross income" because not connected to a "trade or business".
  - 35 4.2. Have a way to exploit the false presumption and ignorance of juries to claim that those who avoid paying or filing
36 are lawbreakers, even though they broke no laws and exercised their constitutionally protected choice not to
37 volunteer to connect their earnings to a "trade or business".
  - 38 4.3. Have an excuse to ignore those who complain that private employers are forcing them to sign and submit IRS Form
39 W-4 withholding agreements under duress, or be denied employment. Instead, they have a presumptuous and 40 mistaken excuse to say that it isn't voluntary and that everyone must submit the form, when in fact, the regulations
41 at 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 clearly show otherwise.

42 If you read the IRS' Civil and Criminal Actions website at the address below, you will see that ALL of their propaganda in 43 fact focuses on the above goals, as we predicted:

44 <http://www.irs.gov/compliance/enforcement/article/0,,id=119332,00.html>

45 The IRS warned us it was going to try to deceive us by stating in its own Internal Revenue Manual that you can't rely upon
46 any of its own publications. The federal courts warned us that the IRS was going to do this by telling us that we can't rely

1 upon the phone or oral advice of anyone in the IRS, even if they signed their recommendation under penalty of perjury! Why
2 didn't we listen to any of these warnings? See the surprising truth for yourself:

3 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

4 We must, however, remember what the Supreme Court said about false presumptions:

5 "The power to create [false] presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,"
6 [New York Times v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

7 5.6.12.1 Introduction

8 One must be engaged in a "trade or business", which is defined as "the functions of a public office", within the statutory but
9 not constitutional "United States**", which is defined as federal territory, in order to earn "gross income". The only exception
10 to this is nonresident aliens with income from the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) under 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\) .
11 This is because:

- 12 1. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax, as the Supreme Court pointed out
13 repeatedly. See Sections 5.1.6 and 5.6.12.2 for details. The "subject of" all indirect excise taxes are voluntary "taxable
14 activities" that are privileged and in many cases licensed. The tax may only be instituted by the agency or government
15 entity that issues the license or bestows the privilege to the person who volunteers to be the "licensee" , and the tax is 16 only enforceable within the legislative jurisdiction of the taxing entity. The "privileged activity" in this case of the 17 federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is that of holding "public office" in the U.S. Government.
18 A "public office" is therefore the only excise taxable activity that a biological person can involve themselves in that will
19 make them the subject of the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia called the Internal Revenue Code.
20 2. According to 4 U.S.C. §72, all "public offices" may be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere,
21 except as "expressly provided by law". That is why the "United States" is defined in I.R.C., Subtitle A as federal territory
22 in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). There is also no provision of law which authorizes "public
23 offices" outside the District of Columbia other than 48 U.S.C. §1612, and therefore, the I.R.C., Subtitle A Income tax
24 upon "public offices" can apply nowhere outside the District of Columbia other than the Virgin Islands. This is also
25 consistent with the definition of "U.S. sources" found in 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\) , which identifies all earnings originating 26 from the "United States" as "effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business".
27 3. "Income" has the meaning it was given in the Constitution, which is "gain and profit" in connection with an excise
28 taxable activity. Congress is forbidden to define the word "income" because the Constitution defines it. This was pointed 29 out by several rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, including Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920); So. Pacific v.
30 Lowe, 247 U.S. 330 (1918); Merchant's Loan & Trust Co. v. Smetanka, 255 U.S. 509 (1921). Where there is no "taxable 31 activity", there can be no "taxable income". This is covered in section 5.6.5 if you want more detail.
32 4. Because all "taxpayers" under I.R.C., Subtitle A are "public officers" who work for a federal corporation called the 33 "United States" (see 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\)), then they are acting as an "officer or employee of a federal corporation" 34 and they:
  - 35 4.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statutes, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b). This is true even though the 36 Constitution prohibits "Bills of Attainder" in Article 1, Section 10, because the penalty isn't on the natural person, 37 but upon the "office" or "agency" he volunteered to maintain in the process of declaring that he has "taxable 38 income".
  - 39 4.2. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\)\(1\)
40 and 5 U.S.C. §553\(a\)\(2\)
  - 41 4.3. Are the proper subject for the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which identify officers of 42 corporations as the only "persons" within 26 U.S.C. §7343.
- 43 5. Earnings not connected with a "trade or business":
  - 44 5.1. Are identified as part of a "foreign estate" in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\). A foreign estate is outside the jurisdiction
45 of the Internal Revenue Code and not includible in gross income either, based on the definition of "foreign estate",
46 BECAUSE it is not connected with a "trade or business".
  - 47 5.2. Are not includable as "gross income" if paid by a nonresident alien. See 26 U.S.C. §864\(b\)\(1\)\(A\) . Remember:
48 Sections 5.2.12.1 and 5.6.13 that states of the union are "foreign countries" with respect to the Internal Revenue

Code and all of their inhabitants are "non-resident non-persons". The subset of state inhabitants who are also public officers are also "nonresident alien individuals".

This means one must be engaged in a "public office" in the District of Columbia in order to earn "gross income" as a human being. Statutory and not ordinary "gross income" that meets this criteria is described in the code simply as "income effectively connected with a trade or business from sources within the United States". This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\), which says that an estate that is in no way connected with a "trade or business" and whose sources of income are outside the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal territory) may not have its earnings identified as statutory "gross income" and is a "foreign estate", which means it is not subject in any way to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code:

Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

5.6.12.1.1 Why is the tax upon a "trade or business" instead of ALL earnings?

Why did Congress HAVE to place the tax upon an activity called a "public office" in the United States government? Because:

- The government can only pass civil laws to regulate its own public officers, territory, franchises, and property. The ability to regulate the PRIVATE conduct of the public at large is "repugnant to the constitution", as held by the U.S. Supreme Court. See the following for proof:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- The Thirteenth Amendment outlaws involuntary servitude EVERYWHERE, including on federal territory. It does not and cannot outlaw VOLUNTARY servitude. The only way they can tax your labor without instituting slavery is for you to volunteer for public office franchise in the government. See the following for proof:

How the Government Defrauds You Out of Legitimate Deductions for the Market Value of Your Labor, Form #05.026
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- Congress has no legislative jurisdiction within states of the Union, which are "foreign states" that are sovereign, but they have jurisdiction over anyone that contracts with them wherever they are. Hence, Congress instituted a franchise that functions as a contract that they can enforce anywhere the contractors are found. See the following for proof:

Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.
Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.
The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

5 These critical facts are very carefully concealed by the IRS in their publications to hide the true nature of the income tax and
 6 instead to make it appear as an “unapportioned direct tax” upon persons domiciled in states of the Union. If the American
 7 people understood on a large scale:

- 8 1. That the I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax was an “excise tax” upon privileged "taxable activities" only.
- 9 2. Exactly what activity was being taxed.
- 10 3. That the IRS has no jurisdiction within states of the Union against anyone who does not sign a private agreement with 11 the government by submitting an IRS Form W-4 or an IRS Form 1040 tax return.
- 12 4. That one must be domiciled on federal territory as a statutory “citizen” or “resident” before they can lawfully engage in 13 the activity.
- 14 5. That the law specifically forbids the activity to be exercised outside the District of Columbia per 4 U.S.C. §72 or within 15 a state of the Union.
- 16 6. That it is a CRIME for most Americans to engage in the activity pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §912.

17 . . .then they would exit the tax system en masse by simply avoiding the activity. All excise taxes are “avoidable” by avoiding
 18 the taxed activity, and therefore they are completely “voluntary”. Therefore, the IRS and our public dis-servants have a
 19 vested interest in hiding and concealing the true nature of the income tax as an “excise tax” in order to maintain revenues
 20 unlawfully collected from the income tax. They sold the truth and your liberty to Satan for 20 pieces of silver. Some things 21 never change, do they?

22 “For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their greediness,
 23 and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.”
 24 [1 Tim. 6:10, Bible, NKJV]

25 In this white paper, we will demonstrate all the evidence we can find that supports these conclusions, and also show you how 26 the IRS, with the implicit approval and collusion of Congress and the Treasury Dept, has tried to do the following within 27 their deceptive publications:

- 28 1. Taken great pains to hide and obfuscate the fact that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax upon
 29 licensed, privileged activities. They have done this by burying the sordid truth deep in regulations that they hope people
 30 will never read and which have been carefully obfuscated over the years to make them virtually unintelligible for the
 31 average American.
- 32 2. Confuse the meaning of the term “trade or business” in their publications so that everyone thinks they meet this criteria.
- 33 3. Create a false and unsupported presumption that all people and all earnings within states of the Union are connected 34 with a “trade or business in the United States”.
- 35 4. Create the illusion and deception that IRC Subtitle A describes a direct, unapportioned tax upon natural persons that 36 cannot be avoided or shifted. Once IRS can establish the false presumption Subtitle A as a direct unapportioned tax,
 37 then they:
  - 38 4.1. Can label those who choose not to volunteer as “frivolous” or worst yet, penalize them for filing an accurate return
 39 reflecting no “gross income” because not connected to a “trade or business”.
  - 40 4.2. Have a way to exploit the false presumption and ignorance of juries to claim that those who avoid paying or filing
 41 are lawbreakers, even though they broke no laws and exercised their constitutionally protected choice not to
 42 volunteer to connect their earnings to a “trade or business”.

4.3. Have an excuse to ignore those who complain that private employers are forcing them to sign and submit IRS Form W-4 withholding agreements under duress, or be denied employment. Instead, they have a presumptuous and mistaken excuse to say that it isn't voluntary and that everyone must submit the form, when in fact, the regulations at 26 C.F.R. §31.3402\(p\)-1 clearly show otherwise.

If you read the IRS' Civil and Criminal Actions website at the address below, you will see that ALL of their propaganda in fact focuses on the above goals, as we predicted:

<http://www.irs.gov/compliance/enforcement/article/0,,id=119332,00.html>

The IRS warned us it was going to try to deceive us by stating in its own Internal Revenue Manual that you can't rely upon any of its own publications. The federal courts warned us that the IRS was going to do this by telling us that we can't rely upon the phone or oral advice of anyone in the IRS, even if they signed their recommendation under penalty of perjury! We must, however, remember what the Supreme Court said about false presumptions:

"The power to create [false] presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,"
[New York Times v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

5.6.12.1.2 Historical significance and evolution of the legal term "trade or business"

The term "trade or business" was first used in the case of the License Tax Cases.

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."
[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

The "State" they are referring to above is a CONSTITUTIONAL state ONLY. It is lawful and even constitutional to establish franchises such as a "trade or business" in a STATUTORY "State", meaning a federal territory.

"Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

1 The term "trade or business" has always referred to those WITHIN the United States federal corporation and acting as officers
 2 of said corporation and not private humans protected by the Constitution. Those WITHIN the corporation called "United
 3 States" are "domestic", while those WITHOUT it are "foreign". A "source within the United States" therefore refers to 4 payments from the United States government or its agents or instrumentalities:

5 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5: Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons. (4-1-2004 Edition)

6 A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during
 7 the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the
 8 law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A
 9 domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the
 10 United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the
 11 regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or
 12 business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or
 13 business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a
 14 partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a
 15 partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its
 16 members or by the place in which it was created or organized. The term "nonresident alien," as used in the 17 regulations in this chapter, includes a nonresident alien individual and a nonresident alien fiduciary.

18 The key word is "created". Congress can only tax what it creates, as is proven in the following:

Hierarchy of Sovereignty: The Power to Create is the Power to Tax, Family Guardian Fellowship
<https://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/PowerToCreate.htm>

21 The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

22 The statutory "individual" who is in the performance of "the functions of a public office" is not a private human protected by
 23 the Constitution, and yet is an "individual" whose trade or business was created or organized in the United States or under
 24 the law of the United States or of any State. It is a CRIME for PRIVATE people to act in the capacity of a public office
 25 without a specific election or appointment per 18 U.S.C. §912 and they cannot unilaterally "elect" themselves into said office
 26 by merely filling out a tax form.

27 The history of 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) appeared in the 1939 Internal Revenue Code (1939 IRC), under statute Sec. 48(a)(d)
 28 Definitions; Trade or Business. The Congressional hearings, Calendar No. 591; Senate Report No. 558, at page 29, stated
 29 that,

The above "Gross Income" definition of the public employee or officer is in effect today, as it was never repealed nor amended, the words or terms pertaining to the public employee or officer were omitted from the IRC of 1928 only as "surplusage" as explained in report of the House of Representatives, 70th Congress, 1st Session, Union Calendar No. 3, Report No. 2, at page 12, under the heading, "Technical and Administrative Provisions". Again these individuals were not private individuals. After the Supreme Court decided the case of Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245, 64 L.Ed. 887, 40 S.Ct. 550, 11 A.L.R. 519; in the year 1930 the definition of gross income was amended once again, see as follows:

Internal Revenue Title (IRC 1939)
Chapter 1 - Income Tax - Subchapter B - Part II - Computation of Net Income
 26 U.S.C. Sec. 22. GROSS INCOME.

(a) GENERAL DEFINITION.

"Gross income" includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service, of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, trades, businesses, commerce, or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in such property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities or the transaction of any business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever. In the case of Presidents of the United States and judges of courts of the United States taking office after June 6, 1932, the compensation received as such shall be included in gross income; and all Acts fixing the compensation of such Presidents and judges are hereby amended accordingly."

[Source: Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by topic: "gross income"; <https://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/GrossIncome.htm>]

Later during the same year of 1939, the Public Salary Tax Act was passed, and as such, the definition of Gross Income again changed by adding STATUTORY State officers or employees to the text. By "State" we mean TERRITORIAL states and not Constitutional states of the Union, as defined in 4 U.S.C. §110(d). This definition remains in effect to this date, as the statutory language pertaining to "and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service", has never be repealed nor amended, see as follows:

26 U.S.C. § 22. Gross income

(a) General definition.

"Gross income" includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service (including [meaning] personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing), of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, trades, businesses, commerce, or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in such property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever. In the case of Presidents of the United States and judges of courts of the United States taking office after June 6, 1932, the compensation received as such shall be included in gross income; and all Acts fixing the compensation of such Presidents and judges are hereby amended accordingly. In the case of judges of courts of the United States who took office on or before June 6, 1932, the compensation received as such shall be included in gross income. (As amended April 12, 1939, c. 59, Title I, § 1, 3, 53 Stat. 574, 575).

5.6.12.2 Proof that IRC Subtitle A is an Excise tax on activities in connection with a "trade or business"

The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C is an excise tax or franchise tax upon activities in connection with a statutory franchise called a "public office". All franchises are contracts or agreements that only acquire the force of law with the consent of BOTH the GRANTOR and the GRANTEE.

"It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present.<sup>181</sup> Conversely,

4 Furthermore, the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the national government CANNOT expand its powers within a
 5 constitutional state of the Union by using any kind of contract or compact or agreement:

6 “The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent
 7 domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the court
 8 denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers by treaty
 9 or compact.”

10 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]

 12 “Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
 13 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
 14 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
 15 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the 16 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

17 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
 18 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs
 19 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is
 20 warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to 21 the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of 22 the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given
 23 in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must
 24 impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and
 25 thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.
 26 Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

27 [License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

28 Notice the language in the last quote above:

29 “Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

30 [License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

31 By “authorize” they mean “license”. That’s what the above case was about. And WHAT “license” are they talking about?
 32 In the next section we prove that license is, in fact, the Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number”.

33 And guess what? The ONLY thing they can tax under I.R.C. Subtitles A and C of the Internal Revenue Code is a “trade or 34 business”, which they define as “the functions of a public office”. The implication of the above is that a taxable “trade or 35 business” CANNOT lawfully be offered in a state of the Union. That, in fact, is why the geographical definitions of “State”
 36 and “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) limit themselves to federal territory
 37 not within any state. That is also why there are no internal revenue districts within any state of the Union and 26 U.S.C.
 38 §7601 limits IRS Enforcement to “Internal Revenue Districts”. If this limit on the jurisdiction of the national government is 39 violated, then in effect we have an unconstitutional “INVASION” in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution.
 40 That “invasion” is a commercial invasion intended to “worship” mammon and filthy lucre:

41 United States Constitution
 42 Section 4. Obligations of United States to States

43 The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall 44 protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the

To prove the foregoing, we'll start off with a definition of "trade or business":

26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\)

"The term 'trade or business' includes [is limited to] the performance of the functions of a public office."

The definition of "privilege", which is also called a "public right" and a "franchise" in the legal field is very revealing about what privileges ATTACH to:

privilege \ 'priv-lij, 'pri-və- \ noun

[Middle English, from Anglo-French, from Latin privilegium law for or against a private person, from privus private + leg-, lex law] 12th century: a right or immunity granted as a peculiar benefit, advantage, or favor: prerogative especially: such a right or immunity attached specifically to a position or an office

[Mish, F. C. (2003). Preface. Merriam-Websters collegiate dictionary. (Eleventh ed.). Springfield, MA: Merriam-Webster, Inc.]

privilege verb transitive

-leged; -leging 14th century

1: to grant a privilege to

2: to accord a higher value or superior position to (privilege one mode of discourse over another)

[Mish, F. C. (2003). Preface. Merriam-Websters collegiate dictionary. (Eleventh ed.). Springfield, MA: Merriam-Webster, Inc.]

Notice that "privileges" and therefore "public rights" and "franchises" always attach to an OFFICE. In the government that office is called a "public office". What office is that? It's called a STATUTORY "citizen", "resident", "person", or "taxpayer". The definition of "person" even confirms this!

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 68 > Subchapter B > PART I > §6671
§ 6671. Rules for application of assessable penalties

(b) Person defined

The term "person", as used in this subchapter, includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 75 > Subchapter D > §7343
§7343. Definition of term "person"

The term "person" as used in this chapter includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

We know that the IRS likes to point to the word "includes" in the above definitions of "trade or business" and "person" and state that it is an "expansive" definition that does not exclude the common meaning of the term. We must remember, however, that there is an important principle of statutory construction which states that anything not mentioned in a law, statute, code, or regulation is "excluded by implication", which means that all things not connected to a "public office" are excluded from the definition of "trade or business" by implication:

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, 'a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96

(1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read “as a whole,” post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- “the child up to the head.” Its words, “substantial portion,” indicate the contrary.” [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

“Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.” [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

Therefore, the definition of the term “trade or business”, says what it means and means what it says. The Supreme Court has held many times that words used in a law or statute are to be given their ordinary and plain meaning and are to be restricted to the clear language found in the code itself. If you would like an exhaustive analysis of the meaning of the word “includes” within the Internal Revenue Code, please refer to the free pamphlet available on the internet at:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and conducting a commercial invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution. Furthermore, according the creator of our three branch system of government, there is NO FREEDOM AT ALL and liberty is IMPOSSIBLE when the executive and LEGISLATIVE functions are united under a single person:

“When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals.”

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions.”

The only time in the I.R.C. where the term “trade or business” can mean anything other than what it is defined above to mean is in places where there a regional definition that overrides the general or default definition found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) above. Below is the only example of that within the I.R.C., which is intended to be used only in the context of “self employment”:

26 U.S.C. §1402 Definitions

(c) Trade or business

The term "trade or business", when used with reference to self-employment income or net earnings from self-employment, shall have the same meaning as when used in section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses), except that such term shall not include -

(1) the performance of the functions of a public office, other than the functions of a public office of a State or a political subdivision thereof with respect to fees received in any period in which the functions are performed in a position compensated solely on a fee basis and in which such functions are not covered under an agreement entered into by such State and the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act;

(2) the performance of service by an individual as an employee, other than -

(A) service described in section 3121(b)(14)(B) performed by an individual who has attained the age of 18,

(B) service described in section 3121(b)(16),

(C) service described in section 3121(b)(11), (12), or (15) performed in the United States (as defined in section 3121(e)(2)) by a citizen of the United States, except service which constitutes "employment" under section 3121(y),

(D) service described in paragraph (4) of this subsection,

(E) service performed by an individual as an employee of a State or a political subdivision thereof in a position compensated solely on a fee basis with respect to fees received in any period in which such service is not covered under an agreement entered into by such State and the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act,

(F) service described in section 3121(b) (20), and

(G) service described in section 3121(b)(8)(B);

(3) the performance of service by an individual as an employee or employee representative as defined in section 3231;

(4) the performance of service by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order;

(5) the performance of service by an individual in the exercise of his profession as a Christian Science practitioner; or

(6) the performance of service by an individual during the period for which an exemption under subsection (g) is effective with respect to him. The provisions of paragraph (4) or (5) shall not apply to service (other than service performed by a member of a religious order who has taken a vow of poverty as a member of such order) performed by an individual unless an exemption under subsection (e) is effective with respect to him.

So we look up the definition in 26 U.S.C. §162 and here is what it says:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter B
 Part VI-Itemized deductions for Individuals and Corporations
Sec. 162. - Trade or business expenses

(a) In general

There shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business, including -

(1) a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered;

So in other words, in the context of "self employment" ONLY, the term "trade or business" excludes public offices in the District of Columbia and only includes those of federal territories and possessions, which are called "States" within the I.R.C. This is because the default definition in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) includes ALL public offices everywhere within federal jurisdiction, whereas those public offices in the District of Columbia are specifically not mentioned by the above definition. When the authors of U.S. Code in the Office of Law Revision Counsel of the House of Representatives wants to confuse and mislead the American people, they will write the code in such a way as to use a double-negative, whereby they define what the new definition of "trade or business" excludes, and then don't include public offices in the District of Columbia but include all other types of political offices under federal jurisdiction. Therefore, for self employment context ONLY, "trade or business" has a different meaning than the default definition in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) and has been overridden to exclude public offices in the District of Columbia but include all other types of public offices otherwise within federal jurisdiction.

1 Government franchises and the excise taxes that implement them such as the “trade or business” franchise are commonly
2 called by any of the following names to disguise the nature of the transaction:

- 3 1. “public right”.
- 4 2. “publici juris”.
- 5 3. “privilege”.
- 6 4. “excise taxable privilege”.
- 7 5. “public office”.
- 8 6. “Congressionally created right”.

9 The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that the income tax was an excise tax indirectly when they held the following:

10 “The distinction between public rights and private rights has not been definitively explained in our precedents.<sup>183</sup>
11 Nor is it necessary to do so in the present cases, for it suffices to observe that a matter of public rights must at a
12 minimum arise “between the government and others.” Ex parte Bakelite Corp., supra, at 451, 49 S.Ct., at 413.<sup>184</sup>
13 In contrast, “the liability of one individual to another under the law as defined,” Crowell v. Benson, supra, at 51,
14 52 S.Ct., at 292, is a matter of private rights. Our precedents clearly establish that only controversies in the 15 former category may be removed from Art. III courts and delegated to legislative courts or administrative
16 agencies for their determination. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm’n, 430
17 U.S. 442, 450, n. 7, 97 S.Ct. 1261, 1266, n. 7, 51 L.Ed.2d. 464 (1977); Crowell v. Benson, supra, 285 U.S., at 50-
18 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292. See also Katz, Federal Legislative Courts, 43 Harv.L.Rev. 894, 917-918 (1930).FN24
19 Private-rights disputes, on the other hand, lie at the core of the historically recognized judicial power.”

20 [ . . . ]

21 Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress and other rights,
22 such a distinction underlies in part Crowell's and Raddatz' recognition of a critical difference between rights
23 created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems to us
24 to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers reflected 25 in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is designed to guard against “encroachment or 26 aggrandizement” by Congress at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S.,
27 at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a statutory right [a “privilege” in this case, such as a “trade 28 or business”], it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of 29 proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so before
30 particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right.FN35 Such 31 provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power, but they are also incidental to Congress' power to 32 define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the right being adjudicated
33 is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into functions that have traditionally 34 been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as incidental extensions of Congress' power to 35 define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial
37 [Northern Pipeline Const. Co. v. Marathon Pipe Line Co., 458 U.S. at 83-84, 102 S.Ct. 2858 (1983)]

38 To give you an example of the above phenomenon, the so-called “U.S. Tax Court” is identified in 26 U.S.C. §7441 as an
39 Article I court, and hence NOT an Article III court as described above. It is therefore what the U.S. Supreme Court identified
40 above as a “particularized” tribunal that officiates ONLY over “Congressionally created rights”, which is a euphemism for 41 “privileges” incident to a franchise.

42 TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter C > PART I > § 7441
43 § 7441. Status

“Familiar illustrations of administrative agencies created for the determination of such matters are found in connection with the exercise of the congressional power as to interstate and foreign commerce, taxation, immigration, the public lands, public health, the facilities of the post office, pensions and payments to veterans.” Id., at 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292 (footnote omitted).

<sup>184</sup> Congress cannot “withdraw from [Art. III] judicial cognizance any matter which, from its nature, is the subject of a suit at the common law, or in equity, or admiralty.” Murray's Lessee v. Hoboken Land & Improvement Co., 18 How. 272, 284 (1856) (emphasis added). It is thus clear that the presence of the United States as a proper party to the proceeding is a necessary but not sufficient means of distinguishing “private rights” from “public rights.” And it is also clear that even with respect to matters that arguably fall within the scope of the “public rights” doctrine, the presumption is in favor of Art. III courts. See Glidden Co. v. Zdanok, 370 U.S., at 548-549, and n. 21, 82 S.Ct., at 1471-1472, and n. 21 (opinion of Harlan, J.). See also Currie, The Federal Courts and the American Law Institute, Part 1, 36 U.Chi.L.Rev. 1, 13-14, n. 67 (1968). Moreover, when Congress assigns these matters to administrative agencies, or to legislative courts, it has generally provided, and we have suggested that it may be required to provide, for Art. III judicial review. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm’n, 430 U.S., at 455, n. 13, 97 S.Ct., at 1269, n. 13.

1 There is hereby established, under article I of the Constitution of the United States, a court of record to be
 2 known as the United States Tax Court. The members of the Tax Court shall be the chief judge and the judges of 3 the Tax Court.

4 Only “public rights” exercised by “public officers” may be officiated in the U.S. Tax Court, which is a “legislative franchise
 5 court”.

6 *“franchise court. Hist. A privately held court that (usu.) exists by virtue of a royal grant [privilege], with
 7 jurisdiction over a variety of matters, depending on the grant and whatever powers the court acquires over time.
 8 In 1274, Edward I abolished many of these feudal courts by forcing the nobility to demonstrate by what authority
 9 (quo warranto) they held court. If a lord could not produce a charter reflecting the franchise, the court was 10 abolished. - Also termed courts of the franchise.*

11 *Dispensing justice was profitable. Much revenue could come from the fees and dues, fines and amercements. This
 12 explains the growth of the second class of feudal courts, the Franchise Courts. They too were private courts held
 13 by feudal lords. Sometimes their claim to jurisdiction was based on old pre-Conquest grants ... But many of them
 14 were, in reality, only wrongful usurpations of private jurisdiction by powerful lords. These were put down after 15 the famous Quo Warranto enquiry in the reign of Edward I.” W.J.V. Windeyer, Lectures on Legal History 56-57
 16 (2d ed. 1949).”

18 Below are the legal mechanisms involved as described by the Annotated U.S. Constitution:

19 The Public Rights Distinction

20 *“That is, “public” rights are, strictly speaking, those in which the cause of action inheres in or lies against the 21 Federal Government in its sovereign capacity, the understanding since Murray’s Lessee. However, to 22 accommodate Crowell v. Benson, Atlas Roofing, and similar cases, seemingly private causes of action between
 23 private parties will also be deemed “public” rights, when Congress, acting for a valid legislative purpose
 24 pursuant to its Article I powers, fashions a cause of action that is analogous to a common-law claim and so
 25 closely integrates it into a public regulatory scheme that it becomes a matter appropriate for agency resolution
 26 with limited involvement by the Article III judiciary. (83)”*

27 *[Footnote 83: Granfinanciera, S.A. v. Nordberg, 492 U.S. at 52-54. The Court reiterated that the Government
 28 need not be a party as a prerequisite to a matter being of “public right.” Id. at 54. Concurring, Justice Scalia
 29 argued that public rights historically were and should remain only those matters to which the Federal 30 Government is a party. Id. at 65.]

33 So the U.S. Tax Court is really nothing more than an administrative binding arbitration board for federal statutory 34 “employees” and public officers in resolving disputes INTERNAL to the national government and among federal 35 instrumentalities, officers, bureaus, and agencies. All these entities are identified in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) as the ONLY proper
 36 subject of IRS enforcement activity, which the code calls “distrain”. That, in fact, is why the INTERNAL Revenue Service
 37 begins with the word “INTERNAL”. The “private causes of action” they are referring to are the exercise of “private law”,
 38 which is a fancy term for contract law, where the franchise itself codified in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C is 39 the franchise contract. The U.S. Supreme Court called income taxes a “quasi contract”, in fact.<sup>185</sup>

40 *“Private law. That portion of the law which defines, regulates, enforces, and administers relationships among 41 individuals, associations, and corporations. As used in contradistinction to public law, the term means all that 42 part of the law which is administered between citizen and citizen, or which is concerned with the definition,
 43 regulation, and enforcement of rights in cases where both the person in whom the right inheres and the person
 44 upon whom the obligation is incident are private individuals. See also Private bill; Special law. Compare Public
 45 Law.”
 46 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1196]*

47 Private law such as the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C can only acquire the “force of law” through the consent
 48 of BOTH parties to it. Contracts between private people are an example of private law. This is thoroughly established in:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003, Sections 9.5 through 9.6

Many people misrepresent the facts by claiming that the I.R.C. is not "law". It IS law, but NOT for everyone. If someone shoves a signed contract in front of you and you manifest actions that indicate consent to the provisions of the contract, then it's as good as if you signed it. This kind of consent is called "implied" consent or "tacit procurement". This kind of consent is manifested in several forms, including:

1. Filling out "taxpayer" forms. ALL IRS forms are ONLY for consenting statutory "taxpayers".
  - 1.1. IRS Mission Statement, Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 1.1.1.1 says that they can help ONLY statutory "taxpayers" who consent to the franchise contract. That is the true meaning of the word "Service" in their name. They are helping those who volunteer to "serve" uncle with their "donations". 31 U.S.C. §321(d), in fact, identifies all income taxes as "donations". So whenever you see the word "tax", it REALLY means a donation paid under the authority of the federal public officer kickback program disguised to LOOK like a lawful constitutional tax.
  - 1.2. If you want a nontaxpayer form, you will have to modify theirs to make one or make your own nontaxpayer form. They don't help and even interfere with the rights of "nontaxpayers", which makes us wonder whether they can even really be part of a government. REAL governments provide EQUAL protection to both "taxpayers" and "nontaxpayers", don't discriminate, and are instituted to protect mainly PRIVATE rights, which means constitutional rights of NONTAXPAYERS FIRST, before they can even take on the job of ALSO protecting public rights of public officers. For a huge collection of "nontaxpayer forms", see:

SEDM Forms and Publications Page

2. VOLUNTARILY signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4, which the treasury regulations identify as an "agreement", and hence contract. See 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a) and 26 C.F.R. §34.3402(p)-1. The upper left corner of the form says "EMPLOYEE'S WITHHOLDING ALLOWANCE CERTIFICATE":
  - 2.1. YOU are the one doing the "allowing".
  - 2.2. What you are consenting to is to become a public officer engaged in the "trade or business", "social insurance" and SOCIALISM franchise. You are trading RIGHTS for statutory privileges by signing up.
  - 2.3. The IRS Form W-4 is therefore a request to become a Kelly girl on loan to a formerly private employer and to send kickbacks to the mother corporation and your "parens patriae" that loans out your services as a public officer.
3. Quoting any provision of the I.R.C. and thereby "purposefully availing" yourself of its "benefits" and thereby:
  - 3.1. Waiving sovereign immunity under 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2).
  - 3.2. Changing your status from a statutory "non-resident non-person" to that of a resident alien under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
4. Claiming earned income credits under 26 U.S.C. §32, or "trade or business" deductions under 26 U.S.C. §162.
5. Petitioning U.S. Tax Court. Tax Court Rule 13(a) says that only "taxpayers" who are party to the contract can avail themselves of the "benefits" of this brand of administrative rather than judicial remedy.
6. Using a "Taxpayer Identification Number", which 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) says is only mandatory in the case of those engaged in a "trade or business" and therefore a public office in the U.S. government.

The IRS, judges, and government prosecutors don't want you to know this stuff and carefully hide the nature of the transaction to keep you in the dark. They love what we call "mushrooms", which are organisms that you keep in the dark and feed SHIT to. The SHIT is:

1. Shifting the burden of proof to you for EVERYTHING, so they can just sit there and watch you hang yourself with your own legal ignorance. The moving party always has the burden of proof, but even when THEY assert a liability or do an assessment, the code is written so that YOU have the burden of proving you AREN'T liable (an IMPOSSIBILITY) instead of THEM proving you ARE liable if you wish to dispute it in Tax Court. See 26 U.S.C. §6902(a) and:

Government Burden of Proof, Form #05.025

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Disinformation. This includes EVERYTHING they say, which they are not accountable for the accuracy of. See:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. Deceptive publications that refuse to disclose complete or accurate definitions of key words. See the above memorandum of law.
4. Words of art in their void for vagueness franchise "codes" that are private law.

5. Equivocation of geographical terms such as “United States”, “U.S. citizen”, “U.S. person”, “U.S. resident”, etc. They use this equivocation to confuse the CONTEXT of geographical terms and make state citizens LOOK like territorial citizens domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014, Section 14.1
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. Concealing of the real names of the IRS agents (they don't use their REAL names).
7. False accusations to keep you on the defensive so you never get to discuss THEIR violations of law.
8. Filtering evidence against the government from appearing in litigation to keep the jury from learning what is in this document and thereby unjustly enrich themselves at your expense. This is naked thievery. It is called a “motion in limine” and it is undertaken just before trial to destroy all evidentiary weapons you could possibly use to damage the government's FRAUDULENT case against you.

Your public dis-servants play these games to disguise the consensual nature of what they are doing and let you practically convict and hang yourself. They also do it to protect their “plausible deniability” and absolute irresponsibility towards the public. That lack of responsibility and complete unaccountability and even anonymity is the source of GREAT evil, in fact:

2. Stanford Prison Experiment (OFFSITE LINK) – why power corrupts and motivates government corruption

3. Milgram Experiment (OFFSITE LINK) – study that analyzes environmental factors that cause people to become evil. This study is important for those who want to direct their reforms of government to PREVENT evil.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Milgram\_experiment

They sit back and watch by doing all the above, never once:

1. Admitting that the source of ALL JUST authority of the government comes from your INDIVIDUAL consent, as per the Declaration of Independence. They don't need to because you never learned constitutional law in high school or grammar school.
2. Telling you that your consent is required.
3. Asking you whether you want to BECOME a statutory “taxpayer” and public officer.
4. Making the government satisfy the burden of proving consent on the record WITH EVIDENCE.
5. Notifying you in their publications that they will protect your right to NOT consent. If they won't do this, then nothing is really “voluntary” to begin with!

We call this “hide the presumption and hide the consent” game. The trap is their own omission and the legal ignorance they manufactured in you within the public/government school system that they use to HARVEST your labor and property when you enter the work force. Here is how the Bible describes this trap:

*‘For among My [God's] people are found wicked [covetous public servant] men; They lie in wait as one who sets snares; They set a trap; They catch men. As a cage is full of birds, So their houses are full of deceit. Therefore they have become great and grown rich. They have grown fat, they are sleek; Yes, they surpass the deeds of the wicked; They do not plead the cause, The cause of the fatherless [or the innocent, widows, or the nontaxpayer]; Yet they prosper, And the right of the needy they do not defend. Shall I not punish them for these things?’ says the Lord. ‘Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?’

“An astonishing and horrible thing Has been committed in the land: The prophets prophesy falsely, And the priests [judges in franchise courts that worship government as a pagan deity] rule by their own power; And My people love to have it so. But what will you do in the end?”
[Jer. 5:26-31, Bible, NKJV]

*“For the upright will dwell in [ON] the land,
 And the blameless will remain in it;
But the wicked will be cut off from the earth.
And the unfaithful will be uprooted from it [by KIDNAPPING their legal identity and transporting it to the District of Criminals].”
*[Prov. 2:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

1 You live on a corporate farm and you are government livestock if you let that legal ignorance continue. A cage is reserve for
 2 you on the federal plantation UNLESS and UNTIL you take charge and prosecute these CRIMINALS who never protect you
 3 and ONLY protect their own mafia RICO racket. See:

4 Why do they need your consent? Because the Declaration of Independence says ALL JUST AUTHORITY of any civil
 5 government derives from CONSENT of the governed, and they need that consent in a LOT of ways to govern. Another
 6 reason is that he who consents cannot complain of an injury accomplished during tax enforcement and in some cases entirely
 7 forfeits their right to sue in REAL, Constitutional court instead of fake U.S. Tax Court franchise court.

38 The important thing to remember, however, is that Congress is FORBIDDEN from creating franchises within states of the 39 Union. Why? Because:

- 40 1. The Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, says our constitutional rights are "unalienable".
- 41 2. An "unalienable right" is one that you AREN'T ALLOWED BY LAW to consent to give away in relation to a real, de
 42 jure government! Such a right cannot lawfully be sold, bargained away, or transferred through any commercial
 43 process, INCLUDING A FRANCHISE. Hence, even if we consent, the forfeiture of such rights is unconstitutional, 44 unauthorized, and a violation of the fiduciary duty to the public officer we surrender them to.

45 "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
 46 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

3. The only place you can lawfully give up constitutional rights is where they physically do not exist, which is among those domiciled on AND physically present on federal territory not part of any state of the Union.

"Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights."
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

4. All governments are created exclusively to protect PRIVATE RIGHTS. The way you protect them is to LEAVE THEM ALONE and not burden their exercise in any way. A lawful de jure government cannot and does not protect your rights by making a business out of destroying, regulating, and taxing their exercise, implement the business as a franchise, and hide the nature of what they are doing as a franchise and an excise. This would cause and has caused the money changers to take over the charitable public trust and "civic temple" and make it into a warehouse in violation of the Constitutional trust indenture. This kind of money changing in fact, is the very reason that Jesus flipped tables over in the temple out of anger: Turning the bride of Christ and God's minister for justice into a WHORE. The nuns are now pimped out and the church is open for business for all the statutory "taxpayer" Johns who walk in.

That is why the geographical definitions within the I.R.C. limit themselves to federal territory exclusively and include no part of any state of the Union.

If you want an exhaustive analysis of how franchises such as the I.R.C., Subtitles A through C operate, please see the following:

5.6.12.3 Social Security Numbers (SSNs) and Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) are what the FTC calls a "franchise mark"

The Federal Trade Commission (F.T.C.) has defined a commercial franchise as follows:

"... a commercial business arrangement is a "franchise" if it satisfies three definitional elements. Specifically, the franchisor must:

- (1) promise to provide a trademark or other commercial symbol;*
  - (2) promise to exercise significant control or provide significant assistance in the operation of the business; and*
  - (3) require a minimum payment of at least $500 during the first six months of operations."*
- [FTC Franchise Rule Compliance Guide, May 2008, p. 1;
SOURCE: <http://business.ftc.gov/documents/bus70-franchise-rule-compliance-guide>]

In the context of the above document, the "Social Security Number" or "Taxpayer Identification Number" function essentially as what the FTC calls a "franchise mark". It behaves as what we call a "de facto license" to represent Caesar as a public officer:

"A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark." The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as the "trademark" or "mark" element.

The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its mark."

[FTC Franchise Rule Compliance Guide, May 2008;

SOURCE: <http://business.ftc.gov/documents/bus70-franchise-rule-compliance-guide>]

This same SSN or TIN “franchise mark” is what the Bible calls “the mark of the beast”. It defines “the Beast” as the government or civil rulers:

"And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army."

[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

"He [the government BEAST] causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads,<sup>17</sup> and that no one may buy or sell except one who has the mark or<sup>18</sup> the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

[Rev. 13:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

The “business” that is “operated” or “licensed” by THE BEAST in statutes is called a “trade or business” which is defined as follows:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(a\)\(26\)

"The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

Those engaged in “the trade or business” franchise activity are officers of Caesar and have fired God as their civil protector. By becoming said public officers or officers of Caesar, they have violated the FIRST COMMANDMENT of the Ten Commandments, because they are “serving other gods”, and the pagan god they serve is a man:

"You shall have no other gods [including governments or civil rulers] before Me.

"You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.

By “bowing down” as indicated above, the Bible means that you cannot become UNEQUAL or especially INFERIOR to any government or civil ruler under the civil law. In other words, you cannot surrender your equality and be civilly governed by any government or civil ruler under the Roman system of jus civile, civil law, or civil “statutes”. That is not to say that you are lawless or an “anarchist” by any means, because you are still accountable under criminal law, equity, and the common law in any court. All civil statutory codes make the government superior and you inferior so you can’t consent to a domicile and thereby become subject to it. The word “subjection” in the following means INFERIORITY:

"Protectio trahit subjectionem, subjectio projectionem.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

Below are ways one becomes subject to Caesar’s civil statutory “codes” and civil franchises as a “subject”, and thereby surrenders their equality to engage in government idolatry:

3. Domicile by choice: Choosing domicile within a specific jurisdiction.

4. Domicile by operation of law. Also called domicile of necessity:

4.1. Representing an entity that has a domicile within a specific jurisdiction even though not domiciled oneself in said jurisdiction. For instance, representing a federal corporation as a public officer of said corporation, even though domiciled outside the federal zone. The authority for this type of jurisdiction is, for instance, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).

4.2. Becoming a dependent of someone else, and thereby assuming the same domicile as that of your care giver. For

- 1 instance, being a minor and dependent and having the same civil domicile as your parents. Another example is 2 becoming a government dependent and assuming the domicile of the government paying you the welfare check.
 3 4.3. Being committed to a prison as a prisoner, and thereby assuming the domicile of the government owning or 4 funding the prison.

5 Those who violate the First Commandment by doing any of the above become subject to the civil statutory franchises or 6 codes. They are thereby committing the following form of idolatry because they are nominating a King to be ABOVE them
 7 rather than EQUAL to them under the common law:

8 Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and said to him, "Look, you are 9 old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER 10 them]".

11 *But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." So Samuel prayed to the Lord.
 12 And the Lord said to Samuel, "Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected
 13 Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that
 14 I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods
 15 [Kings, in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore, heed their 16 voice. However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign 17 over them."*

18 *So Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who asked him for a king. And he said, "This will be the 19 behavior of the king who will reign over you: He will take [STEAL] your sons and appoint them for his own
 20 chariots and to be his horsemen, and some will run before his chariots. He will appoint captains over his 21 thousands and captains over his fifties, will set some to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and some to 22 make his weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. He will take [STEAL] your daughters to be 23 perfumers, cooks, and bakers. And he will take [STEAL] the best of your fields, your vineyards, and your olive 24 groves, and give them to his servants. He will take [STEAL] a tenth of your grain and your vintage, and give 25 it to his officers and servants. And he will take [STEAL] your male servants, your female servants, your finest
 26 young men, and your donkeys, and put them to his work [as SLAVES]. He will take [STEAL] a tenth of your 27 sheep. And you will be his servants. And you will cry out in that day because of your king whom you have 28 chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not hear you in that day."*

29 *Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "No, but we will have a king over us,
 30 that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us and go out before us and fight our battles."
 31 [1 Sam. 8:4-20, Bible, NKJV]*

32 In support of this section, the following evidence is provided for use in court which PROVES that those who use SSNs or 33 TINs are considered to be and MUST, by law, be considered to be public officers:

- 34 1. The U.S. Supreme Court has held in the case of the State Action doctrine that those receiving government "benefits"
 35 are to be regarded as state actors, meaning public officers.

36 *"One great object of the Constitution is to permit citizens to structure their private relations as they choose
 37 subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law. [500 U.S. 614, 620]*

38 *To implement these principles, courts must consider from time to time where the governmental sphere [e.g.
 39 "public purpose" and "public office"] ends and the private sphere begins. Although the conduct of private
 40 parties lies beyond the Constitution's scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an activity
 41 to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government and, as a
 42 result, be subject to constitutional constraints. This is the jurisprudence of state action, which explores the
 43 "essential dichotomy" between the private sphere and the public sphere, with all its attendant constitutional
 44 obligations. Moose Lodge, supra, at 172. "*

45 [. . .]

46 *Given that the statutory authorization for the challenges exercised in this case is clear, the remainder of our state
 47 action analysis centers around the second part of the Lugar test, whether a private litigant, in all fairness, must
 48 be deemed a government actor in the use of peremptory challenges. Although we have recognized that this aspect
 49 of the analysis is often a fact-bound inquiry, see Lugar, supra, 457 U.S. at 939, our cases disclose certain
 50 principles of general application. Our precedents establish that, in determining whether a particular action or
 51 course of conduct is governmental in character, it is relevant to examine the following: the extent to which the 52 actor relies on governmental assistance and benefits, see Tulsa Professional Collection Services, Inc. v. Pope,
 53 485 U.S. 478 (1988); Burton v. Wilmington Parking Authority, 365 U.S. 715 (1961); whether the actor is
 54 performing a traditional governmental function, see Terry v. Adams, 345 U.S. 461 (1953); Marsh v. Alabama,
 55 326 U.S. 501 (1946); cf. San Francisco Arts & Athletics, Inc. v. United States Olympic [500 U.S. 614, 622]*

Committee, 483 U.S. 522, 544-545 (1987); and whether the injury caused is aggravated in a unique way by the incidents of governmental authority, see Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1 (1948). Based on our application of these three principles to the circumstances here, we hold that the exercise of peremptory challenges by the defendant in the District Court was pursuant to a course of state action.
[Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Company, 500 U.S. 614 (1991)]

2. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that government identifying numbers may be mandated against those seeking to receive government “benefits”.

Appellees raise a constitutional challenge to two features of the statutory scheme here.<sup>[4]</sup> They object to Congress' requirement that a state AFDC plan “must . . . provide (A) that, as a condition of eligibility under the plan, each applicant for or recipient of aid shall furnish to the State agency his social security account number.” 42 U. S. C. § 602(a)(25) (emphasis added). They also object to Congress' requirement that “such State agency shall utilize such account numbers. . . in the administration of such plan.” Ibid. (emphasis added).<sup>[5]</sup> We analyze each of these contentions, turning to the latter contention first.

Our cases have long recognized a distinction between the freedom of individual belief, which is absolute, and the freedom of individual conduct, which is not absolute. This case implicates only the latter concern. Roy objects to the statutory requirement that state agencies “shall utilize” Social Security numbers not because it places any restriction on what he may believe or what he may do, but because he believes the use of the number may harm his daughter's spirit.

Never to our knowledge has the Court interpreted the First Amendment to require the Government itself to behave in ways that the individual believes will further his or her spiritual development or that of his or her family. The Free Exercise Clause simply cannot be understood to require the Government to conduct its own internal affairs in ways that comport with the religious beliefs of particular citizens. Just as the Government may not insist that appellees engage in [476 U.S. 693, 700] any set form of religious observance, so appellees may not demand that the Government join in their chosen religious practices by refraining from using a number to identify their daughter. “[T]he Free Exercise Clause is written in terms of what the government cannot do to the individual, not in terms of what the individual can extract from the government.” Sherbert v. Verner, 374 U.S. 398, 412 (1963) (Douglas, J., concurring).

As a result, Roy may no more prevail on his religious objection to the Government's use of a Social Security number for his daughter than he could on a sincere religious objection to the size or color of the Government's filing cabinets. The Free Exercise Clause affords an individual protection from certain forms of governmental compulsion; it does not afford an individual a right to dictate the conduct of the Government's internal procedures.
[Bowen v. Roy, 476 U.S. 693 (1986)]

FOOTNOTES:

<sup>[4]</sup> They also raise a statutory argument — that the Government's denial of benefits to them constitutes illegal discrimination on the basis of religion or national origin. See 42 U. S. C. §2000d; 7 U. S.C. §2011. We find these claims to be without merit.

3. The U.S. Supreme Court has also held that no one can RECEIVE government payments without actually WORKING for the government. Any abuse of the taxing power to redistribute wealth is unconstitutional.

To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. ‘A tax,’ says Webster’s Dictionary, ‘is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.’ ‘Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.’ Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa.St. 104 says, very forcibly, ‘I think the common mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are imposed for a public purpose.’ See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St. 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11

[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]

“A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another.”
[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

4. Those eligible to receive government “benefits” are identified in Title 5 of the U.S. Code as “federal personnel”.

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(13) the term “Federal personnel” means officers and employees of the Government of the United States, members of the uniformed services (including members of the Reserve Components), individuals entitled to receive immediate or deferred retirement benefits under any retirement program of the Government of the United States (including survivor benefits).

5. Those not subject to the Internal Revenue Code and a “foreign estate” are described as NOT engaged in a “trade or business”, meaning a public office.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate The term “foreign estate” means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

(B) Foreign trust The term “foreign trust” means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (30).

6. Those who work for the government or receive the “benefit” of any government civil statute are presumed to waive ALL of their constitutional rights and cannot invoke ANY of them in court.

“The principle is invoked that one who accepts the benefit of a statute cannot be heard to question its constitutionality. Great Falls Manufacturing Co. v. Attorney General, 124 U.S. 581, 8 S.Ct. 631, 31 L.Ed. 527; Wall v. Parrot Silver & Copper Co., 244 U.S. 407, 37 S.Ct. 609, 61 L.Ed. 1229; St. Louis, etc., Co., v. George C. Prendergast Const. Co., 260 U.S. 469, 43 S.Ct. 178, 67 L.Ed. 351.

6. The Court will not pass upon the constitutionality of a statute at the instance of one who has availed himself of its benefits.<sup>186</sup> Great Falls Mfg. Co. v. Attorney General, 124 U.S. 581, 8 S.Ct. 631, 31 L.Ed. 527; Wall v. Parrot Silver & Copper Co., 244 U.S. 407, 411, 412, 37 S.Ct. 609, 61 L.Ed. 1229; St. Louis Malleable Casting Co. v. Prendergast Construction Co., 260 U.S. 469, 43 S.Ct. 178, 67 L.Ed. 351.”
[Ashwander v. T.V.A., 297 U.S. 288, 56 S.Ct. 466, 80 L.Ed. 688 (1936)]

“It is not open to question that one who has acquired rights of property necessarily based upon a statute may not attack that statute as unconstitutional, for he cannot both assail it and rely upon it in the same proceeding. *528
[Frost v. Corporation Commission, 278 U.S. 515, 49 S.Ct. 235 (U.S., 1929)]

Based on the preceding overwhelming evidence, the inference and conclusion that Social Security Numbers are regarded and treated as a de facto license to occupy a public office is inescapable. The taxation of the exercise of that office, in fact, is the

1 main object of the entire Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A and C. It is de facto, because those exercising said office do so
2 illegally and unconstitutionally in the vast majority of cases.

3 5.6.12.4 Public v. Private

4 A very important subject is the division of legal authority between PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. On this subject the U.S.
5 Supreme Court held:

6 "A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he
7 administer or execute them."

8 [United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

9 If you can't "execute" them, then you ALSO can't enforce them against ANYONE else. Some people might be tempted to 10 say that we all construe them against the private person daily, but in fact we can't do that WITHOUT being a public officer
11 WITHIN the government. If we do enforce the law as a private person, we are criminally impersonating a public officer in 12 violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. Another U.S. Supreme Court cite also confirms why this must be:

13 "All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
14 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
15 with [private] individuals."

16 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

18 "...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual
19 and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an
20 examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is
21 entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to
22 the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may
23 tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the
24 protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the
25 organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the
26 Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his
27 property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he
28 does not trespass upon their rights.

29 "Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated
30 for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the
31 laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not
32 authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long
33 as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and
34 find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered
35 a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these
36 franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate
37 books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged
38 with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its
39 books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating
40 questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special
41 privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges. "
42 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

43 You MUST therefore be an agent of the government and therefore a PUBLIC officer in order to "make constitutions or laws
44 or administer, execute, or ENFORCE EITHER". Examples of "agents" or "public officers" of the government include all 45 the following:

- 46 1. "person" (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1)).
- 47 2. "individual" (26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)).
- 48 3. "taxpayer" (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)).
- 49 4. "withholding agent" (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16)).

50 "The government thus lays a tax, through the [GOVERNMENT] instrumentality [PUBLIC OFFICE] of the 51 company [a FEDERAL and not STATE corporation], upon the income of a non-resident alien over whom it
52 cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly lay any burden."

53 [United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

1 So how do you "OBEY" a law without "EXECUTING" it? We'll give you a hint: It CAN'T BE DONE!

2 Likewise, if ONLY public officers can "administer, execute, or enforce" the law, then the following additional requirements
3 of the law are unavoidable and also implied:

- 4 1. Congress cannot impose DUTIES against private persons through the civil law. Otherwise the Thirteenth Amendment
5 would be violated and the party executing said duties would be criminally impersonating an agent or officer of the 6 government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
- 7 2. Congress can only impose DUTIES upon public officers through the civil statutory law.
- 8 3. The civil statutory law is law for GOVERNMENT, and not PRIVATE persons. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 9 4. Those who enforce any civil statutory duties against you are PRESUMING that you occupy a public office.
- 10 5. You cannot unilaterally "elect" yourself into a public office in the government by filling out a government form, even 11 if you consent to volunteer.
- 12 6. Even if you ARE a public officer, you can only execute the office in a place EXPRESSLY authorized by Congress per 13 4 U.S.C. §72, which means ONLY the District of Columbia and "not elsewhere".
- 14 7. If you are "construing, administering, or executing" the laws, then you are doing so as a public officer and the Public
15 Records exception to the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) applies. EVERYTHING you
16 produce in the process of "construing, administering, or executing" the laws is instantly admissible and cannot be
17 excluded from the record by any judge. If a judge interferes with the admission of such evidence, he is:
18 7.1. Interfering with the duties of a coordinate branch of the government in violation of the Separation of Powers.
19 7.2. Criminally obstructing justice.

20 5.6.12.4.1 Introduction

21 In order to fully understand and comprehend the nature of franchises, it is essential to thoroughly understand the distinctions
22 between PUBLIC and PRIVATE property. The following subsections will deal with this important subject extensively. In 23 the following subsections, we will establish the following facts:

- 24 1. There are TWO types of property:
25 1.1. Public property. This type of property is protected by the CIVIL law.
26 1.2. Private property. This type of property is protected by the COMMON law.
- 27 2. Specific legal rights attach to EACH of the two types of property. These "rights" in turn, are ALSO property as legally 28 defined.

29 *Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict
30 legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. *Fulton Light, Heat
31 & Power Co. v. State*, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable
32 right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to
33 dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it.
34 That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or
35 subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have
36 to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no
37 way depends on another man's courtesy.*

38 *The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal,
39 tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which 40 goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real 41 and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of 42 one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332
43 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.*

44 [ . . . ]

45 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

- 46 3. Human beings can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO 47 legal "persons": PUBLIC and PRIVATE.
48 3.1. The CIVIL law attaches to the PUBLIC person.

3.2. The COMMON law attaches to the PRIVATE person.

This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons. 4 Co. 118.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

4. That the purpose of the Constitution and the establishment of government itself is to protect EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these [EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE, God-given] rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. -"

[Declaration of Independence, 1776]

The VERY FIRST step in protecting PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is to prevent such property from being converted to PUBLIC property or PUBLIC rights without the consent of the owner. In other words, the VERY FIRST step in protecting PRIVATE rights is to protect you from the GOVERNMENT'S OWN theft. Obviously, if a government becomes corrupted and refuses to protect PRIVATE rights or recognize them, there is absolutely no reason you can or should want to hire them to protect you from ANYONE ELSE.

5. The main method for protecting PRIVATE rights is to impose the following burden of proof and presumption upon any entity or person claiming to be "government":

"All rights and property are PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the control of government or the CIVIL law unless and until the government meets the burden of proving, WITH EVIDENCE, on the record of the proceeding that:

1. A SPECIFIC formerly PRIVATE owner consented IN WRITING to convert said property to PUBLIC property.
2. The owner was domiciled on federal territory NOT protected by the Constitution and therefore had the legal capacity to ALIENATE a Constitutional right or relieve a public servant of the fiduciary obligation to respect and protect the right. Those domiciled in a constitutional but not statutory state and who are "citizens" or "residents" protected by the constitution cannot alienate rights to a real, de jure government.
3. If the government refuses to meet the above burden of proof, it shall be CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be operating in a PRIVATE, corporate capacity on an EQUAL footing with every other private corporation and which is therefore NOT protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity.

6. That the ability to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the constitution and therefore such conduct cannot lawfully become the subject of any civil statutory law.

7. That the terms "person", "persons", "individual", "individuals" as used within the civil statutory law by default imply PUBLIC "persons" and therefore public offices within the government and not PRIVATE human beings. All such offices are creations and franchises of the government and therefore property of the government subject to its exclusive control.

8. That if the government wants to call you a statutory "person" or "individual" under the civil law, then:

8.1. You must volunteer or consent at some point to occupy a public office in the government while situated physically in a place not protected by the USA Constitution and the Bill of Rights....namely, federal territory. In some cases, that public office is also called a "citizen" or "resident".

8.2. If you don't volunteer, they are essentially exercising unconstitutional "eminent domain" over your PRIVATE property. Keep in mind that rights protected by the Constitution are PRIVATE PROPERTY.

9. That there are VERY SPECIFIC and well defined rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC PROPERTY and OFFICES, and that all such rules require your express consent except when a crime is involved.

10. That if a corrupted judge or public servant imposes upon you any civil statutory status, including that of "person" or "individual" without your consent, they are:

10.1. Violating due process of law.

10.2. Imposing involuntary servitude.

10.3. STEALING property from you. We call this "theft by presumption".

10.4. Kidnapping your identity and moving it to federal territory.

10.5. Instituting eminent domain over EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property.

11. That within the common law, the main mechanism for PREVENTING the conversion of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property through government franchises are the following maxims of law. These maxims of law MANDATE that all governments must protect your right NOT to participate in franchises or be held accountable for the consequences of receiving a "benefit" you did not consent to receive and/or regarded as an INJURY rather than a "benefit":

No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto.

Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856,

SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm>]

For an example of how this phenomenon works in the case of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C "trade or business" franchise, see:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

As an example of why an understanding of this subject is EXTREMELY important, consider the following dialog at an IRS audit in which the FIRST question out of the mouth of the agent is ALWAYS "What is YOUR Social Security Number?":

IRS AGENT: What is YOUR Social Security Number?

YOU: 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) says SSNs belong to the government. The only way it could be MY number is if I am appearing here today as a federal employee or officer on official business. If that is the case, no, I am here as a private human being and not a government statutory "employee" in possession or use of "public property" such as a number. Therefore, I don't HAVE a Social Security Number. Furthermore, I am not lawfully eligible and never have been eligible to participate in Social Security and any records you have to the contrary are FALSE and FRAUDULENT and should be DESTROYED.

IRS AGENT: That's ridiculous. Everyone HAS a SSN.

YOU: Well then EVERYONE is a STUPID whore for acting as a federal employee or agent without compensation THEY and not YOU determine. The charge for my services to act as a federal "employee" or officer or trustee in possession of public property such as an SSN is ALL the tax and penalty liability that might result PLUS $1,000 per hour. Will you agree in writing pay the compensation I demand to act essentially as your federal coworker, because if you don't, then it's not MY number?

IRS AGENT: It's YOUR number, not the government's.

YOU: Well why do the regulations at 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) say it belongs to the Social Security Administration instead of me? I am not appearing as a Social Security employee at this meeting and its unreasonable and prejudicial for you to assume that I am. I am also not appearing here as "federal personnel" as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(13\). I don't even qualify for Social Security and never have, and what you are asking me to do by providing an INVALID and knowingly FALSE number is to VIOLATE THE LAW and commit fraud by providing that which I am not legally entitled to and thereby fraudulently procure the benefits of a federal franchise. Is that your intention?

IRS AGENT: Don't play word games with me. It's YOUR number.

YOU: Well good. Then if it's MY number and MY property, then I have EXCLUSIVE control and use over it. That is what the word "property" implies. That means I, and not you, may penalize people for abusing MY property. The penalty for wrongful use or possession of MY property is all the tax and penalty liability that might result from using said number for tax collection plus $1,000 per hour for educating you about your lawful duties because you obviously don't know what they are. If it's MY property, then your job is to protect me from abuses of MY property. If you can penalize me for misusing YOUR procedures and forms, which are YOUR property, then I am EQUALLY entitled to penalize you for misusing MY property. Are you willing to sign an agreement in writing to pay for the ABUSE of what you call MY property, because if you aren't, you are depriving me of exclusive use and control over MY property and depriving me of the equal right to prevent abuses of my property??

IRS AGENT: OK, well it's OUR number. Sorry for deceiving you. Can you give us OUR number that WE assigned to you?

YOU: You DIDN'T assign it to ME as a private person, which is what I am appearing here today as. You can't lawfully issue public property such as an SSN to a private person. That's criminal embezzlement. The only way it could have been assigned to me is if I'm acting as a "public officer" or federal employee at this moment, and I am NOT. I am here as a private person and not a public employee. Therefore, it couldn't have been lawfully issued to me. Keep this up, and I'm going to file a criminal complaint with the U.S. Attorney for embezzlement in violation of 18 U.S.C. §641 and impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. I'm not here as a public officer and you are asking me to act like one without compensation and without legal authority. Where is the compensation that I demand to act as a fiduciary and trustee over your STINKING number, which is public property? I remind you that the very purpose why governments are created is to PROTECT and maintain the separation between "public property" and "private property" in order to preserve my inalienable constitutional rights that you took an oath to support and defend. Why do you continue to insist on co-mingling and confusing them in order to STEAL my labor, property, and money without compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause?

Usually, after the above interchange, the IRS agent will realize he is digging a DEEP hole for himself and will abruptly end that sort of inquiry, and many times will also end his collection efforts.

5.6.12.4.2 What is "Property"?

*Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man's courtesy.*

*The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.*

*Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.*

*Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen's relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.*

*Goodwill is property, Howell v. Bowden, TexCiv. App., 368 S.W.2d. 842, &18; as is an insurance policy and rights incident thereto, including a right to the proceeds, Harris v. Harris, 83 N.M. 441,493 P.2d. 407, 408.*

Criminal code. "Property" means anything of value. including real estate, tangible and intangible personal property, contract rights, choses-in-action and other interests in or claims to wealth, admission or transportation tickets, captured or domestic animals, food and drink, electric or other power. Model Penal Code. Q 223.0. See

1 also Property of another, infra. Dusts. Under definition in Restatement, Second, Trusts, Q 2(c), it denotes interest
2 in things and not the things themselves.
3 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

4 Keep in mind the following critical facts about "property" as legally defined:

- 5 1. The essence of the "property" right, also called "ownership", is the RIGHT TO EXCLUDE others from using or 6 benefitting from the use of the property.

7 "We have repeatedly held that, as to property reserved by its owner for private use, 'the right to exclude [others
8 is] 'one of the most essential sticks in the bundle of rights that are commonly characterized as property.'"
9 Loretto v. Teleprompter Manhattan CATV Corp., 458 U.S. 419, 433 (1982), quoting Kaiser Aetna v. United
11 [Nollan v. California Coastal Comm'n, 483 U.S. 825 (1987)]

12
13 "In this case, we hold that the "right to exclude," so universally held to be a fundamental element of the 14 property right,<sup>[11]</sup> falls within this category of interests that the Government cannot take without 15 compensation."
16 [Kaiser Aetna v. United States, 444 U.S. 164 (1979)]

17
18 FOOTNOTE:

19 [11] See, e. g., United States v. Pueblo of San Ildefonso, 206 Ct.Cl. 649, 669-670, 513 F.2d. 1383, 1394 (1975);
20 United States v. Lutz, 295 F.2d. 736, 740 (CA5 1961). As stated by Mr. Justice Brandeis, "[a]n essential element
22 Associated Press, 248 U.S. 215, 250 (1918) (dissenting opinion).

- 23 2. It's NOT your property if you can't exclude the GOVERNMENT from using, benefitting from the use, or taxing the 24 specific property.
25 3. All constitutional rights and statutory privileges are property.
26 4. Anything that conveys a right or privilege is property.
27 5. Contracts convey rights or privileges and are therefore property.
28 6. All franchises are contracts between the grantor and the grantee and therefore property.

29 5.6.12.4.3 "Public" v. "Private" property ownership

30 Next, we would like to compare the two types of property: Public v. Private. There are two types of ownership of "property":
31 Absolute and Qualified. The following definition describes and compares these two types of ownership:

32 Ownership. Collection of rights to use and enjoy property, including right to transmit it to others. Trustees of 33 Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 92 N.H. 473, 33 A.2d. 665, 673. The complete dominion, title, or proprietary
34 right in a thing or claim. The entirety of the powers of use and disposal allowed by law.

35 The right of one or more persons to possess and use a thing to the exclusion of others. The right by which a thing
36 belongs to someone in particular, to the exclusion of all other persons. The exclusive right of possession, 37 enjoyment, and disposal; involving as an essential attribute the right to control, handle, and dispose.

38 Ownership of property is either absolute or qualified. The ownership of property is absolute when a single
39 person has the absolute dominion over it, and may use it or dispose of it according to his pleasure, subject only
40 to general laws. The ownership is qualified when it is shared with one or more persons, when the time of 41 enjoyment is deferred or limited, or when the use is restricted. Calif. Civil Code, §§678-680.

42 There may be ownership of all inanimate things which are capable of appropriation or of manual delivery; of all
43 domestic animals; of all obligations; of such products of labor or skill as the composition of an author, the 44 goodwill of a business, trademarks and signs, and of rights created or granted by statute. Calif. Civil Code, §655.

45 In connection with burglary, "ownership" means any possession which is rightful as against the burglar.

46 See also Equitable ownership; Exclusive ownership; Hold; Incident of ownership; Interest; Interval ownership;
47 Ostensible ownership; Owner; Possession; Title.

Participation in franchises causes PRIVATE property to transmute into PUBLIC property. Below is a table comparing these two great classes of property and the legal aspects of their status.

5.6.12.4.4 The purpose and foundation of de jure government: Protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights

The main purpose for which all governments are established is the protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights and property. This purpose is the foundation of all the just authority of any government as held by the Declaration of Independence:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."
[Declaration of Independence, 1776]

The fiduciary duty that a public officer who works for the government has is founded upon the requirement to protect PRIVATE property.

*"As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer."<sup>188</sup>
Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under*

every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts.<sup>189</sup> That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves.<sup>190</sup> and owes a fiduciary duty to the public.<sup>191</sup> It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.<sup>192</sup> Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.<sup>193</sup> “ [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

The VERY FIRST step that any lawful de jure government must take in protecting PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights is to protect it from being converted to PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT property. After all: If the people you hire to protect you won't even do the job of protecting you from THEM, why should you hire them to protect you from ANYONE ELSE?

The U.S. Supreme Court has also affirmed that the protection of PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is “the foundation of the government” when it held the following. The case below was a challenge to the constitutionality of the first national income tax, and the U.S. government rightfully lost that challenge:

“Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress, where is the course of usurpation to end?”

The present assault upon capital [THEFT! and WEALTH TRANSFER by unconstitutional CONVERSION of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property] is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing intensity and bitterness.”
[Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895), hearing the case against the first income tax passed by Congress that included people in states of the Union. They declared that first income tax UNCONSTITUTIONAL, by the way]

In the above landmark case, the lawyer for the petitioner, Mr. Choate, even referred to the income tax as COMMUNISM, and he was obviously right! Why? Because communism like socialism operates upon the following political premises:

1. All property is PUBLIC property and there IS no PRIVATE property.
2. The government owns and/or controls all property and said property is LOANED to the people.
3. The government and/or the collective has rights superior to those of the individual. There is and can be NO equality or equal protection under the law without the right of PRIVATE property. In that sense, the government or the “state” is a pagan idol with “supernatural powers” because human beings are “natural” and they are inferior to the collective.
4. Control is synonymous with ownership. If the government CONTROLS the property but the citizen “owns” it, then:
  - 4.1. The REAL owner is the government.
  - 4.2. The ownership of the property is QUALIFIED rather than ABSOLUTE.
  - 4.3. The person holding the property is a mere CUSTODIAN over GOVERNMENT property and has EQUITABLE rather than LEGAL ownership. Hence, their name in combination with the Social Security Number constitutes a PUBLIC office synonymous with the government itself.
5. Everyone in temporary use of said property is an officer and agent of the state. A “public officer”, after all, is someone who is in charge of the PROPERTY of the public. It is otherwise a crime to use public property for a PRIVATE use or benefit. That crime is called theft or conversion:

14 Look at some of the planks of the Communist Manifesto, Karl Marx and confirm the above for yourself:

- 15           1. Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.
 16           2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

20 The legal definition of “property” confirms that one who OWNS a thing has the EXCLUSIVE right to use and dispose of and 21 CONTROL the use of his or her or its property and ALL the fruits and “benefits” associated with the use of such property .
 22 The implication is that you as the PRIVATE owner have a right to EXCLUDE ALL OTHERS including all governments
 23 from using, benefitting from, or controlling your property. Governments, after all, are simply legal “persons” and the 24 constitution guarantees that ALL “persons” are equal. If your neighbor can't benefit from your property without your consent, 25 then neither can any so-called “government”.

49           [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

50 In a lawful de jure government under our constitution:

- 51           1. All “persons” are absolutely equal under the law. No government can have any more rights than a single human being,
 52 no matter how many people make up that government. If your neighbor can't take your property without your consent,
 53 then neither can the government. The only exception to this requirement of equality is that artificial persons do not 54 have constitutional rights, but only such “privileges” as statutory law grants them. See:

Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. All property is CONCLUSIVELY presumed to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE until the GOVERNMENT meets the burden of proof on the record of the legal proceeding that you EXPRESSLY consented IN WRITING to donate the property or use of the property to the PUBLIC:

“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;' and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”

Budd v. People of State of New York, [143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

3. You have to knowingly and intentionally DONATE your PRIVATE property to a public use and a PUBLIC purpose before the government can lawfully REGULATE its use. In other words, you have to at least SHARE your ownership of otherwise private property with the government and become an EQUITABLE rather than ABSOLUTE owner of the property before they can acquire the right to regulate its use or impose obligations or duties upon its original owner.
4. That donation ordinarily occurs by applying for and/or using a license in connection with the use of SPECIFIC otherwise PRIVATE property.
5. The process of applying for or using a license and thereby converting PRIVATE into PUBLIC cannot be compelled. If it is, the constitutional violation is called “eminent domain” without compensation or STEALING, in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.
6. You have a PUBLIC persona (office) and a PRIVATE persona (human) at all times.
- 6.1. That which you VOLUNTARILY attach a government license number to, such as a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number, becomes PRIVATE property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a PUBLIC franchise. That property, in turn, is effectively OWNED by the government grantor of your public persona and the public office it represents.
- 6.2. If you were compelled to use a government license number, such as an SSN or TIN, then a theft and taking without compensation has occurred, because all property associated with such numbers was unlawfully converted and STOLEN.
7. If the right to contract of the parties conducting any business transaction has any meaning at all, it implies the right to EXCLUDE the government from participation in their relationship.
- 7.1. You can write the contract such that neither party may use or invoke a license number, or complain to a licensing board, about the transaction, and thus the government is CONTRACTED OUT of the otherwise PRIVATE relationship. Consequently, the transaction becomes EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and government may not tax or regulate or arbitrate the relationship in any way under the terms of the license franchise.
- 7.2. Every consumer of your services has a right to do business with those who are unlicensed. This right is a natural consequence of the right to CONTRACT and NOT CONTRACT. The thing they are NOT contracting with is the GOVERNMENT, and the thing they are not contracting FOR is STATUTORY/FRANCHISE “protection”. Therefore, even those who have applied for government license numbers are NOT obligated to use them in connection with any specific transaction and may not have their licenses suspended or revoked for failure or refusal to use them for a specific transaction.
8. If the government invades the commercial relationship between you and those you do business with by forcing either party to use or invoke the license number or pursue remedies or “benefits” under the license, they are:
- 8.1. Interfering with your UNALIENABLE right to contract.
- 8.2. Compelling you to donate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property to a PUBLIC use.
- 8.3. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over your otherwise PRIVATE property.
- 8.4. Compelling you to accept a public “benefit”, where the “protection” afforded by the license is the “benefit”.

The above requirements of the USA Constitution are circumvented with nothing more than the simple PRESUMPTION, usually on the part of the IRS and corrupted judges who want to STEAL from you, that the GOVERNMENT owns it and that you have to prove that they CONSENTED to let you keep the fruits of it. They can't and never have proven that they have such a right, and all such presumptions are a violation of due process of law.

(1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests:

A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 441, 449, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bd. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 U.S. 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process] [Federal Civil Trials and Evidence (2006), Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

In order to unconstitutionally and TREASONOUSLY circumvent the above limitation on their right to presume, corrupt governments and government actors will play "word games" with citizenship and key definitions in the ENCRYPTED "code" in order to KIDNAP your legal identity and place it OUTSIDE the above protections of the constitution by:

1. PRESUMING that you are a public officer and therefore, that everything held in your name is PUBLIC property of the GOVERNMENT and not YOUR PRIVATE PROPERTY. See:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyThiefOrPubOfficer.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Abusing fraudulent information returns to criminally and unlawfully "elect" you into public offices in the government:

DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/04-Tax/CorrErrInfoRtns/CorrErrInfoRtns.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. PRESUMING that because you did not rebut evidence connecting you to a public office, then you CONSENT to occupy the office.
4. PRESUMING that ALL of the four contexts for "United States" are equivalent.
5. PRESUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a "non-resident" under federal civil law and NOT a STATUTORY "national and citizen of the United States** at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. See the document below:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyANational.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6. PRESUMING that "nationality" and "domicile" are equivalent. They are NOT. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7. Using the word "citizenship" in place of "nationality" OR "domicile", and refusing to disclose WHICH of the two they mean in EVERY context.
8. Confusing the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance, asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY PRESUMING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
9. Confusing the words "domicile" and "residence" or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can have only one "domicile" but many "residences" and BOTH require your consent. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10. Adding things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf>
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

11. Refusing to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.
12. Publishing deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define "United States" as and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their publications and it is FRAUD. See:

1 This kind of arbitrary discretion is PROHIBITED by the Constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

2 "When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they
3 are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do
4 not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power."
5 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S. Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071]

6 Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, precisely predicted the above abuses when he astutely said:

7 "It has long been my opinion, and I have never shrunk from its expression,... that the germ of dissolution of our
8 Federal Government is in the constitution of the Federal Judiciary--an irresponsible body (for impeachment is 9 scarcely a scare-crow), working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow,
10 and advancing its noiseless step like a thief over the field of jurisdiction until all shall be usurped from the 11 States and the government be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed."
12 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:331]

13 "Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before them,
14 to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact the corps
15 of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to consolidate 16 all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate."
17 [Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121]

18 "The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working under ground to 19 undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. They are construing our Constitution from a co-ordination
20 of a general and special government to a general and supreme one alone. This will lay all things at their feet,
21 and they are too well versed in English law to forget the maxim, 'boni judicis est ampliari jurisdictionem.'"
22 [Thomas Jefferson to Thomas Ritchie, 1820. ME 15:297]

23 "When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the 24 center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become 25 as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."
26 [Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

27 "What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-building ["trade or business"
28 scam] and office-hunting would be produced by an assumption [PRESUMPTION] of all the State powers into the 29 hands of the General Government!"
30 [Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

31 The key to preventing the unconstitutional abuse of presumption by the corrupted judiciary and IRS to STEAL from people
32 is to completely understand the content of the following memorandum of law and consistently apply it in every interaction
33 with the government:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

34 It ought to be very obvious to the reader that:

- 35 1. The rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property ought to be consistently, completely, clearly, and 36 unambiguously defined by every government officer you come in contact with, and ESPECIALLY in court. These 37 rules ought to be DEMANDED to be declared EVEN BEFORE you enter a plea in a criminal case.
- 38 2. If the government asserts any right over your PRIVATE property, they are PRESUMING they are the LEGAL owner 39 and relegating you to EQUITABLE ownership. This presumption should be forcefully challenged.
- 40 3. If they won't expressly define the rules, or try to cloud the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC 41 property, then they are:
  - 42 3.1. Defeating the very purpose for which they were established as a "government". Hence, they are not a true
43 "government" but a de facto private corporation PRETENDING to be a "government", which is a CRIME under
44 18 U.S.C. §912.
  - 45 3.2. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over private property without the consent of the owner and without 46 compensation.
  - 47 3.3. Trying to STEAL from you.
  - 48 3.4. Violating their fiduciary duty to the public.

5.6.12.4.5 The Ability to Regulate Private Rights and Private Conduct is Repugnant to the Constitution

The following cite establishes that private rights and private property are entirely beyond the control of the government:

*When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty, . . . that is to say, . . . the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has been customary in England from time immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate ferries, common carriers, hackmen, bakers, millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a maximum of charge to be made for services rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day, statutes are to be found in many of the States upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been successfully contended that such legislation came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against interference with private property. With the Fifth Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power upon the city of Washington "to regulate . . . the rates of wharfage at private wharves, . . . the sweeping of chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, . . . and the weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and, in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 9 id. 224, sect. 2. Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876), SOURCE: [http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]*

Notice that they say that the ONLY basis to regulate private rights is to prevent injury of one man to another by the use of said property. They say that this authority is the origin of the "police powers" of the state. What they hide, however, is that these same POLICE POWERS involve the CRIMINAL laws and EXCLUDE the CIVIL laws or even franchises. You can TELL they are trying to hide something because around this subject they invoke the Latin language that is unknown to most Americans to conceal the nature of what they are doing. Whenever anyone invokes Latin in a legal setting, a red flag ought to go up because you KNOW they are trying to hide a KEY fact. Here is the Latin they invoked:

The other phrase to notice in the Munn case above is the use of the word "social compact". A compact is legally defined as a contract.

"Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties, which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties, in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause; Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty." [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

Therefore, one cannot exercise their First Amendment right to legally associate with or contract with a SOCIETY and thereby become a party to the "social compact/contract" without ALSO becoming a STATUTORY "citizen". By statutory citizen, we really mean a domiciliary of a SPECIFIC municipal jurisdiction, and not someone who was born or naturalized in that place. Hence, by STATUTORY citizen we mean a person who:

1. Has voluntarily chosen a civil domicile within a specific municipal jurisdiction and thereby become a "citizen" or "resident" of said jurisdiction. "citizens" or "residents" collectively are called "inhabitants".
2. Has indicated their choice of domicile on government forms in the block called "residence" or "permanent address".
3. CONSENTS to be protected by the regional civil laws of a SPECIFIC municipal government.

A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen, on the other hand, is someone who cannot consent to choose the place of their birth. These people in statutes are called "non-residents". Neither BEING BORN nor being PHYSICALLY PRESENT in a place is an express exercise of one's discretion or an act of CONSENT, and therefore cannot make one a government contractor called a statutory "U.S. citizen". That is why birth or naturalization determines nationality but not their status under the CIVIL

1 laws. All civil jurisdiction is based on “consent of the governed”, as the Declaration of Independence indicates. Those who
2 do NOT consent to the civil laws that implement the social compact of the municipal government they are PHYSICALLY
3 situated within are called “free inhabitants”, “nonresidents”, “transient foreigners”, “non-resident”, or “foreign sovereigns”.
4 These “free inhabitants” are mentioned in the Articles of Confederation, which continue to this day and they are NOT the 5 same and mutually exclusive to a statutory “U.S. citizen”. These “free inhabitants” instead are CIVILLY governed by the 6 common law RATHER than the civil law.

7 Policemen are NOT allowed to involve themselves in CIVIL disputes and may ONLY intervene or arrest anyone when a
8 CRIME has been committed. They CANNOT arrest for an "infraction", which is a word designed to hide the fact that the 9 statute being enforced is a CIVIL or FRANCHISE statute not involving the CRIMINAL "police powers". Hence, civil 10 jurisdiction over PRIVATE rights is NOT authorized among those who HAVE such rights. Only those who know those 11 rights and claim and enforce them, not through attorneys but in their proper person, have such rights. Nor can those PRIVATE 12 rights lawfully be surrendered to a REAL, de jure government, even WITH consent, if they are, in fact UNALIENABLE as 13 the Declaration of Independence indicates.

14 “Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred.”
15 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

16 The only people who can consent to give away a right are those who HAVE no rights because domiciled on federal territory
17 not protected by the Constitution or the Bill of Rights:

18 “Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform
19 to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or 20 conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to 'guarantee to every 21 state in this Union a republican form of government' (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the 22 definition of Webster, 'a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and
23 is exercised by representatives elected by them,' Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the 24 territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan,
25 Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing
26 a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative
27 power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not
28 until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the 29 people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress
30 thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that 31 the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of 32 habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights.”
33 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

34 To apply these concepts, the police enforce the "vehicle code", but most of the vehicle code is a civil franchise that they may 35 NOT enforce without ABUSING the police powers of the state. In recognition of these concepts, the civil provisions of the 36 vehicle code are called "infractions" rather than "crimes". AND, before the civil provisions of the vehicle code may lawfully 37 be enforced against those using the public roadways, one must be a "resident" with a domicile not within the state, but on
38 federal territory where rights don't exist. All civil law attaches to SPECIFIC territory. That is why by applying for a driver's
39 license, most state vehicle codes require that the person must be a "resident" of the state, meaning a person with a domicile
40 within the statutory but not Constitutional "United States", meaning federal territory.

41 So what the vehicle codes in most states do is mix CRIMINAL and CIVIL and even PRIVATE franchise law all into one
42 title of code, call it the "Vehicle code", and make it extremely difficult for even the most law abiding "citizen" to distinguish
43 which provisions are CIVIL/FRANCHISES and which are CRIMINAL, because they want to put the police force to an
44 UNLAWFUL use enforcing CIVIL rather than CRIMINAL law. This has the practical effect of making the "CODE" not
45 only a deception, but void for vagueness on its face, because it fails to give reasonable notice to the public at large, WHICH 46 specific provisions pertain to EACH subset of the population. That in fact, is why they have to call it “the code”, rather than 47 simply “law”: Because the truth is encrypted and hidden in order to unlawfully expand their otherwise extremely limited
48 civil jurisdiction. The two subsets of the population who they want to confuse and mix together in order to undermine your 49 sovereignty are:

- 50 1. Those who consent to the “social compact” by choosing a domicile or residence within a specific municipal 51 jurisdiction. These people are identified by the following statutory terms:
  - 52 1.1. Individuals.
  - 53 1.2. Residents.
  - 54 1.3. Citizens.

- 1 1.4. Inhabitants.
- 2 1.5. PUBLIC officers serving as an instrumentality of the government.
- 3 2. Those who do NOT consent to the "social compact" and who therefore are called:
- 4 2.1. Free inhabitants.
- 5 2.2. Nonresidents.
- 6 2.3. Transient foreigners.
- 7 2.4. Sojourners.
- 8 2.5. EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings beyond the reach of the civil statutes implementing the social
- 9 compact.

10 The way they get around the problem of only being able to enforce the CIVIL provisions of the vehicle code against 11 domiciliaries of the federal zone is to:

- 12 1. ONLY issue driver licenses to "residents" domiciled in the federal zone.
- 13 2. Confuse CONSTITUTIONAL "citizens" with STATUTORY "citizens", to make them appear the same even though 14 they are NOT.
- 15 3. Arrest people for driving WITHOUT a license, even though technically these provisions can only be enforceable
16 against those who are acting as a public officer WHILE driving AND who are STATUTORY but not 17 CONSTITUTIONAL "citizens".

18 The act of "governing" WITHOUT consent therefore implies CRIMINAL governing, not CIVIL governing. To procure
19 CIVIL jurisdiction over a private right requires the CONSENT of the owner of the right. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court
20 states in Munn the following:

21 "When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an 22 individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain."
23 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),
24 SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]

25 Therefore, if one DOES NOT consent to join a "society" as a statutory citizen, he RETAINS those SOVEREIGN rights that 26 would otherwise be lost through the enforcement of the civil law. Here is how the U.S. Supreme Court describes this 27 requirement of law:

28 "Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;'
29 *and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
30 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations:

31 [1] First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must 32 use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and 33 every other public "benefit"];

34 [2] second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and

35 [3] third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."
36 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

37 A PRIVATE right that is unalienable cannot be given away by a citizen, even WITH consent, to a de jure government. Hence,
38 the only people that any government may CIVILLY govern are those without unalienable rights, all of whom MUST therefore 39 be domiciled on federal territory where CONSTITUTIONAL rights do not exist.

40 Notice that when they are talking about "regulating" conduct using CIVIL law, all of a sudden they mention "citizens" instead
41 of ALL PEOPLE. These "citizens" are those with a DOMICILE within federal territory not protected by the Constitution:

42 "Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner
43 in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good."
44 [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),
45 SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]

1 All "citizens" that they can regulate therefore must be WITHIN the government and be acting as public officers. Otherwise,
2 they would continue to be PRIVATE parties beyond the CIVIL control of any government. Hence, in a Republican Form of 3 Government where the People are sovereign:

- 4 1. The only "subjects" under the civil law are public officers in the government.
- 5 2. The government is counted as a STATUTORY "citizen" but not a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen". All
6 CONSTITUTIONAL citizens are human beings and CANNOT be artificial entities. All STATUTORY citizens, on the 7 other hand, are artificial entities and franchises and NOT CONSTITUTIONAL citizens.

8 *"A corporation [the U.S. government, and all those who represent it as public officers, is a federal corporation
9 per 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) ] is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of 10 which it was created, and of that state or country only."

14 persons; a corporate body is not a citizen of the United States.<sup>14</sup>

- 29 3. The only statutory "citizens" are public offices in the government.
- 30 4. By serving in a public office, one becomes the same type of "citizen" as the GOVERNMENT is.

31 These observations are consistent with the very word roots that form the word "republic". The following video says the word
32 originally comes from "res publica", which means a collection of PUBLIC rights shared by the public. You must therefore 33 JOIN "the public" and become a public officer before you can partake of said PUBLIC right.

34 Overview of America, SEDM Liberty University, Section 2.3
35 <http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm>

36 This gives a WHOLE NEW MEANING to Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, in which he refers to American 37 government as:

38 "A government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

39 You gotta volunteer as an uncompensated public officer for the government to CIVILLY govern you. Hence, the only thing
40 they can CIVILLY GOVERN, is the GOVERNMENT! Pretty sneaky, huh? Here is a whole memorandum of law on this 41 subject proving such a conclusion:

42 Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Form...StatLawGovt.pdf>

43 The other important point we wish to emphasize is that those who are EXCLUSIVELY private and therefore beyond the 44 reach of the civil law are:

- 45 1. Free inhabitants.

2. Not a statutory “person” under the civil law or franchise statute in question.
3. Not “individuals” under the CIVIL law if they are human beings. All statutory “individuals”, in fact, are identified as “employees” under 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). This is the ONLY statute that describes HOW one becomes a statutory “individual” that we have been able to find.
4. “foreign”, a “transient foreigner”, and sovereign in respect to government CIVIL but not CRIMINAL jurisdiction.
5. NOT “subject to” but also not necessarily statutorily “exempt” under the civil or franchise statute in question.

For a VERY interesting background on the subject of this section, we recommend reading the following case:

Mugler v. Kansas, 123 U.S. 623 (1887)

5.6.12.4.6 The Right to be left alone

The purpose of the Constitution of the United States of America is to confer the “right to be left alone”, which is the essence of being sovereign:

"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

[Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

The legal definition of “justice” confirms that its purpose is to protect your right to be “left alone”:

PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly's translation), chap. 9.

"Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right."
[Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

The Bible also states the foundation of justice by saying:

"Do not strive with [or try to regulate or control or enslave] a man without cause, if he has done you no harm."
[Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

And finally, Thomas Jefferson agreed with the above by defining “justice” as follows in his First Inaugural Address:

"With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities."

[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

Therefore, the word “injustice” means interference with the equal rights of others absent their consent and which constitutes an injury NOT as any law defines it, but as the PERSON who is injured defines it. Under this conception of “justice”, anything done with your consent cannot be classified as “injustice” or an injury.

Those who are “private persons” fit in the category of people who must be left alone as a matter of law:

1 "There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter
 2 has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual
 3 may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own
 4 way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom,
 5 beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long
 6 antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in
 7 accordance with the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of 8 himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public
 9 so long as he does not trespass upon their rights."
 10 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

 13 Payroll Deduction Agreements

14 2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction
 15 agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements
 16 before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.
 17 [SOURCE: <http://sedm.org/Exhibits/EX05.043.pdf>]

18 The U.S. Supreme Court has also held that the ability to regulate what it calls "private conduct" is repugnant to the 19 constitution. It is the differentiation between PRIVATE rights and PUBLIC rights, in fact, that forms the basis for enforcing 20 your right to be left alone:

21 "The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes
 22 of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States
 23 v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S.
 24 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see,
 25 e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745
 26 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been 27 questioned."
 28 [City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

29 Only by taking on a "public character" or engaging in "public conduct" rather than a "private" character may our actions
 30 become the proper or lawful subject of federal or state legislation or regulation.

31 "One great object of the Constitution is to permit citizens to structure their private relations as they choose
 32 subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law. [500 U.S. 614, 620]

33 To implement these principles, courts must consider from time to time where the governmental sphere [e.g.
 34 "public purpose" and "public office"] ends and the private sphere begins. Although the conduct of private
 35 parties lies beyond the Constitution's scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an activity
 36 to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government and, as a
 37 result, be subject to constitutional constraints. This is the jurisprudence of state action, which explores the
 38 "essential dichotomy" between the private sphere and the public sphere, with all its attendant constitutional
 39 obligations. Moose Lodge, supra, at 172. "

40 [. . .]

41 Given that the statutory authorization for the challenges exercised in this case is clear, the remainder of our state
 42 action analysis centers around the second part of the Lugar test, whether a private litigant, in all fairness, must
 43 be deemed a government actor in the use of peremptory challenges. Although we have recognized that this aspect
 44 of the analysis is often a fact-bound inquiry, see Lugar, supra, 457 U.S. at 939, our cases disclose certain
 45 principles of general application. Our precedents establish that, in determining whether a particular action or
 46 course of conduct is governmental in character, it is relevant to examine the following: the extent to which 47 the actor relies on governmental assistance and benefits, see Tulsa Professional Collection Services, Inc. v. Pope,
 48 485 U.S. 478 (1988); Burton v. Wilmington Parking Authority, 365 U.S. 715 (1961); whether the actor is
 49 performing a traditional governmental function, see Terry v. Adams, 345 U.S. 461 (1953); Marsh v. Alabama,
 50 326 U.S. 501 (1946); cf. San Francisco Arts & Athletics, Inc. v. United States Olympic [500 U.S. 614,
 51 622] Committee, 483 U.S. 522, 544 -545 (1987); and whether the injury caused is aggravated in a unique way
 52 by the incidents of governmental authority, see Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1 (1948). Based on our application
 53 of these three principles to the circumstances here, we hold that the exercise of peremptory challenges by the 54 defendant in the District Court was pursuant to a course of state action.
 55 [Edmonson v. Leesville Concrete Company, 500 U.S. 614 (1991)]

1 The phrase “subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law” refers ONLY to statutes or court decisions that 2 pertain to licensed or privileged activities or franchises, all of which:

- 3 1. Cause the licensee or franchisee to represent a “public office” and work for the government.
- 4 2. Cause the licensee or franchisee to act in a representative capacity as an officer of the government, which is a federal 5 corporation and therefore he or she becomes an “officer or employee of a corporation” acting in a representative capacity.
6 See 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7434, which both define a “person” within the I.R.C. criminal and penalty
7 provisions as an officer or employee of a corporation.
- 8 3. Change the effective domicile of the “office” or “public office” of the licensee or franchisee to federal territory pursuant 9 to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39), and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).

10 IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.

11 (b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

12 Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

13 (1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;

14 (2) for a corporation for the officers or “public officers” of the corporation, by the law under which it was 15 organized; and

16 (3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

17 (A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue or 18 be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or 19 laws; and

20 (B) 28 U.S.C. §§754 and 959\(a\) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or 21 be sued in a United States court.

- 22 4. Creates a “res” or “office” which is the subject of federal legislation and a “person” or “individual” within federal statutes.
23 For instance, the definition of “individual” within 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2) reveals that it is a government employee with a
24 domicile in the statutory “United States”, which is federal territory. Notice that the statute below is in Title 5, which is
25 “Government Organization and Employees”, and that “citizens and residents of the United States” share in common a
26 legal domicile on federal territory. An “individual” is an officer of the government, and not a natural man or woman.
27 The office is the “individual”, and not the man or woman who fills it:

28 TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
29 § 552a. Records maintained on individuals

30 (a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

31 (2) the term “individual” means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent
32 residence;

33 If you don't maintain a domicile on federal territory, which is called the “United States” in the U.S. Code, or you don't work
34 for the government by participating in its franchises, then the government has NO AUTHORITY to even keep records on 35 you under the authority of the Privacy Act and you would be committing perjury under penalty of perjury to call yourself an 36 “individual” on a government form. Why? Because you are the sovereign and the sovereign is not the subject of the law, 37 but the author of the law!

38 “Since in common usage, the term person does not include the sovereign, statutes not employing the phrase are 39 ordinarily construed to exclude it.”
40 [United States v. Cooper Corporation, 312 U.S. 600 (1941)]

41 “There is no such thing as a power of inherent Sovereignty in the government of the United States. In this country
42 sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution
43 entrusted to it: All else is withheld.”
44 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

45 “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;”
46 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

47 “Under our form of government, the legislature is NOT supreme. It is only one of the organs of that ABSOLUTE
48 SOVEREIGNTY which resides in the whole body of the PEOPLE; like other bodies of the government, it can only

1 exercise such powers as have been delegated to it, and when it steps beyond that boundary, its acts.. are utterly
 2 VOID."

3 [Billings v. Hall, 7 CA. 1]

4 "In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired
 5 by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon
 6 compact. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people."
 7 [The Betsy, 3 Dall 6]

8 In summary, the only way the government can control you through civil law is to connect you to public conduct or a "public
 9 office" within the government executed on federal territory. If they are asserting jurisdiction that you believe they don't 10 have, it is probably because:

- 11 1. You misrepresented your domicile as being on federal territory within the "United States" or the "State of ___" by 12 declaring yourself to be either a statutory "U.S. citizen" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a statutory "resident" (alien)
 13 pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). This made you subject to their laws and put you into a privileged state.
- 14 2. You filled out a government application for a franchise, which includes government benefits, professional licenses, 15 driver's licenses, marriage licenses, etc.
- 16 3. Someone else filed a document with the government which connected you to a franchise, even though you never 17 consented to participate in the franchise. For instance, IRS information returns such as W-2, 1042S, 1098, and 1099
 18 presumptively connect you to a "trade or business" in the U.S. government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041. A "trade or 19 business" is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office". The only way to prevent this 20 evidence from creating a liability under the franchise agreement provisions is to rebut it promptly. See:

21 5.6.12.4.7 The PUBLIC You (straw man) vs. the PRIVATE You (human)

22 It is extremely important to know the difference between PRIVATE and PUBLIC "persons", because we all have private and 23 public identities. This division of our identities is recognized in the following maxim of law:

 25 When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate
 26 persons. 4 Co. 118.
 27 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;
 28 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouvierMaxims.htm>]

29 The U.S. Supreme Court also recognizes the division of PUBLIC v. PRIVATE:

30 "A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he 31 administer or execute them."
 32 [United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

33 "All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
 34 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
 35 with [private] individuals."
 36 Osborn v. Bank of U.S., [22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

37
 38 "...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual
 39 and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an
 40 examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is
 41 entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to
 42 the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may
 43 tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the
 44 protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the
 45 organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the
 46 Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his
 47 property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he
 48 does not trespass upon their rights.

1 "Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated
 2 for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the
 3 laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not
 4 authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long
 5 as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and
 6 find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered
 7 a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these
 8 franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate
 9 books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged
 10 with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its
 11 books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating
 12 questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special
 13 privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges. "
 14 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

15 The next time you are in court as a PRIVATE person, here are some questions for the next jury, judge, or government
 16 prosecutor trying to enforce a civil obligation upon you as a PRESUMED public officer called a "citizen", "resident",
 17 "person", or "taxpayer":

- 18 1. How do you, a PRIVATE human, "OBEY" a law without "EXECUTING" it? We'll give you a hint: It CAN'T BE 19 DONE!
- 20 2. What "public office" or franchise does the government claim to have "created" and therefore have the right to control
 21 in the context of my otherwise exclusively PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights under the Constitution?
- 22 3. Does the national government claim the right to create franchises within a constitutional state in order to tax them?
 23 The Constitution says they CANNOT and that this is an "invasion" within the meaning of Article 4, Section 4 of the 24 Constitution:

25 "Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
 26 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
 27 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
 28 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the
 29 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

30 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
 31 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs
 32 exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State
 33 is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly
 34 granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive
 35 power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It
 36 is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports,
 37 and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus 38 limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing 39 subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.
 40 [License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

- 41 4. Isn't a judge compelling you to violate your religious beliefs by compelling you to serve in a public office or accept the 42 DUTIES of the office? Isn't this a violation of the First Commandment NOT to serve "other gods", which can and 43 does mean civil rulers or governments?

44 But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us." So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And
 45 the Lord said to Samuel, "Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me
 46 [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I
 47 brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods [Kings,
 48 in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore, heed their voice.
 49 However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign over
 50 them."
 51 [1 Sam. 8:6-9, Bible, NKJV]

- 52 5. How can one UNILATERALLY ELECT themselves into public office by filling out a government form? The form 53 isn't even signed by anyone in the government, such as a tax form or social security application, and therefore couldn't 54 POSSIBLE be a valid contract anyway? Isn't this a FRAUD upon the United States and criminal bribery, using illegal
 55 "withholdings" to bribe someone to TREAT you as a public officer? See 18 U.S.C. §211.
- 56 6. How can a judge enforce civil statutory law that only applies to public officers without requiring proof on the record
 57 that you are CONSENSUALLY and LAWFULLY engaged in a public office? In other words, that you waived 58 sovereign immunity by entering into a contract with the government.

"It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one man, by his own act [CONSENT], renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man, who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial authorities of the State and the general government. Anything which can prevent a Federal Officer from the punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt, as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction of the King's Bench universal in all personal actions."

7. Isn't this involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment to serve in a public office if you DON'T consent and they won't let you TALK about the ABSENCE of your consent?
8. Isn't it a violation of due process of law to PRESUME that you are public officer WITHOUT EVIDENCE on the record from an unbiased witness who has no financial interest in the outcome?

"A presumption is an assumption of fact that the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts found or otherwise established in the action. A presumption is not evidence."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1185]

"If any question of fact or liability be conclusively be presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not due process of law. [ . . . ] the presumption of innocence under which guilt must be proven by legally obtained evidence and the verdict must be supported by the evidence presented; rights at the earliest stage of the criminal process; and the guarantee that an individual will not be tried more than once for the same offence (double jeopardy).

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500]

"A presumption is neither evidence nor a substitute for evidence."<sup>194</sup>
[American Jurisprudence 2d, Evidence, §181 (1999)]

9. If the judge won't enforce the requirement that the government as moving party has the burden of proving WITH EVIDENCE that you were LAWFULLY "appointed or elected" to a public office, aren't you therefore PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and therefore beyond the reach of the civil statutory law?
10. Isn't the judge criminally obstructing justice to interfere with requiring evidence on the record that you lawfully occupy a public office? See 18 U.S.C. §1503, whereby the judge is criminally "influencing" the PUBLIC you.
11. Isn't an unsupported presumption that prejudices a PRIVATE right a violation of the Constitution and doesn't the rights that UNCONSTITUTIONAL presumption prejudicially conveys to the government constitute a taking of rights without just compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?
12. How can the judge permit federal civil jurisdiction within a state, a legislatively but not constitutionally foreign jurisdiction, be permitted absent proof under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) that the party was representing a public office in the government and therefore, that the civil statutory laws of the District of Columbia/federal zone apply rather than the state in question? See the Rules of Decision Act, 28 U.S.C. §1652.
13. Even if we ARE lawfully serving in a public office, don't we have the right to:
  - 13.1. Be off duty?
  - 13.2. Choose WHEN we want to be off duty?
  - 13.3. Choose WHAT financial transactions we want to connect to the office?
  - 13.4. Be protected in NOT volunteering to connect a specific activity to the public office? Governments LIE by calling something "voluntary" and yet refuse to protect those who do NOT consent to "volunteer", don't they?

<sup>194</sup> Levasseur v. Field (Me), 332 A.2d. 765; Hinds v. John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co., 155 Me 349, 155 A.2d. 721, 85 A.L.R.2d. 703 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Poitras v. R. E. Glidden Body Shop, Inc. (Me) 430 A.2d. 1113); Connizzo v. General American Life Ins. Co. (Mo App), 520 S.W.2d. 661.

1 13.5. Not be coerced to sign up for OTHER, unrelated public offices when we sign up for a single office? For instance,
2 do we have a right not become a FEDERAL officer when we sign up for a STATE "driver license" and "public
3 office" that ALSO requires us to have a Social Security Number to get the license, and therefore to ALSO 4 become a FEDERAL officer at the same time.

5 If the answer to all the above is NO, then there ARE no PRIVATE rights or PRIVATE property and there IS no
6 "government" because governments only protect PRIVATE rights and private property!

7 We'd love to hear a jury, judge, or prosecutor address this subject before they haul him away in a straight jacket to the nuthouse
8 because of a completely irrational and maybe even criminal answer.

9 The next time you end up in front of a judge or government attorney enforcing a civil statute against you, you might want to 10 insist on proof in the record during the process of challenging jurisdiction as a defendant or respondent:

- 11 1. WHICH of the two "persons" they are addressing or enforcing against.
- 12 2. How the two statuses, PUBLIC v. PRIVATE, became connected.
- 13 3. What specific act of EXPRESS consent connected the two. PRESUMPTION alone on the part of government can't. A 14 presumption that the two became connected WITHOUT consent is an unconstitutional eminent domain in violation of 15 the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause.

17 We can handle private and public affairs from the private, but we cannot handle private affairs from the public. The latter is 18 one of the biggest mistakes many people make when trying to handle their commercial and lawful (private) or legal (public)
19 affairs. Those who use PUBLIC property for PRIVATE gain in fact are STEALING and such stealing has always been a 20 crime.

21 In law, all rights attach to LAND, and all privileges attach to one's STATUS under voluntary civil franchises. An example
22 of privileged statuses include "taxpayer" (under the tax code), "person", "individual", "driver" (under the vehicle code),
23 "spouse" (under the family code). Rights are PRIVATE, PRIVILEGES are PUBLIC.

24 In our society, the PRIVATE "straw man" was created by the application for the birth certificate. It is a legal person under 25 contract law and under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.), with capacity to sue or be sued under the common law. It
26 is PRIVATE PROPERTY of the human being described in the birth certificate.

27 The PUBLIC officer "straw man" (e.g. statutory "taxpayer") was created by the Application for the Social Security Card,
28 SSA Form SS-5. It is a privileged STATUS under an unconstitutional national franchise of the de facto government. It is 29 PROPERTY of the national government. The PUBLIC "straw man" is thoroughly described in:

Proof that There Is a "Straw Man", Form #05.042
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

30 The PRIVATE "John Doe" is a statutory "non-resident alien non-individual" not engaged in the "trade or business"/PUBLIC
31 OFFICER franchise in relation to the PUBLIC. He exists in the republic and is a free inhabitant under the Articles of 32 Confederation. He has inalienable rights and unlimited liabilities. Those unlimited liabilities are described in

The Unlimited Liability Universe
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/Articles/UnlimitedLiabilityUniverse.htm>

33 The PUBLIC "JOHN DOE" is a public office in the government corporation and statutory "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401,
34 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c). He exists in the privileged socialist democracy. He has "benefits", franchises,
35 obligations, immunities, and limited liability.

36 In the PRIVATE, money is an ASSET and always in the form of something that has intrinsic value, i.e. gold or silver. Payment
37 for anything is in the form of commercial set off.

38 In the PUBLIC, money is a LIABILITY or debt and normally takes the form of a promissory note, i.e. an Federal Reserve
39 Note (FRN), a check, bond or note. Payment is in the form of discharge in the future.

1 The PRIVATE realm is the basis for all contract and commerce under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.). The PUBLIC
2 realm was created by the bankruptcy of the PRIVATE entity. Generally, creditors can operate from the PRIVATE. PUBLIC
3 entities are all debtors (or slaves). The exercise of the right to contract by the PRIVATE straw man makes human beings into 4 SURETY for the PUBLIC straw man.

5 Your judicious exercise of your right to contract and the requirement for consent that protects it is the main thing that keeps
6 the PUBLIC separate from the PRIVATE. See:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7 Be careful how you use your right to contract! It is the most DANGEROUS right you have because it can destroy ALL
8 of your PRIVATE rights by converting them to PUBLIC rights and offices.

9 "These general rules are well settled:

10 (1) That the United States, when it creates rights in individuals against itself [a "public right", which is a
11 euphemism for a "franchise" to help the court disguise the nature of the transaction], is under no obligation
12 to provide a remedy through the courts. United States ex rel. Dunlap v. Black, 128 U.S. 40, 9 Sup.Ct. 12, 32
13 L.Ed. 354; Ex parte Atocha, 17 Wall. 439, 21 L.Ed. 696; Gordon v. United States, 7 Wall. 188, 195, 19 L.Ed. 35;
14 De Groot v. United States, 5 Wall. 419, 431, 433, 18 L.Ed. 700; Comegys v. Vasse, 1 Pet. 193, 212, 7 L.Ed. 108.

15 (2) That where a statute creates a right and provides a special remedy, that remedy is exclusive. Wilder
16 Manufacturing Co. v. Corn Products Co., 236 U.S. 165, 174, 175, 35 Sup.Ct. 398, 59 L.Ed. 520, Ann. Cas. 1916A,
17 118; Arnson v. Murphy, 109 U.S. 238, 3 Sup.Ct. 184, 27 L.Ed. 920; Barnet v. National Bank, 98 U.S. 555, 558,
18 25 L.Ed. 212; Farmers' & Mechanics' National Bank v. Dearing, 91 U.S. 29, 35, 23 L.Ed. 196. Still the fact that 19 the right and the remedy are thus intertwined might not, if the provision stood alone, require us to hold that the 20 remedy expressly given excludes a right of review by the Court of Claims, where the decision of the special
21 tribunal involved no disputed question of fact and the denial of compensation was rested wholly upon the

27 All PUBLIC franchises are contracts or agreements and therefore participating in them is an act of contracting.

28 "It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and
29 that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present.<sup>195</sup> Conversely,
30 a franchise granted without consideration is not a contract binding upon the state, franchisee, or pseudo-
31 franchisee.<sup>196</sup> "
32 [36 American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §6: As a Contract (1999)]

33 Franchises include Social Security, income taxation ("trade or business"/public office franchise), unemployment insurance, 34 driver licensing ("driver" franchise), and marriage licensing ("spouse" franchise).

35 "You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan
36 government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by
37 becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me
38 [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a
39 snare to you."

Governments become corrupt by:

1. Refusing to recognize the PRIVATE.
2. Undermining or interfering with the invocation of the common law in courts of justice.
3. Allowing false information returns to be abused to convert the PRIVATE into the PUBLIC without the consent of the owner.
4. Destroying or undermining remedies for the protection of PRIVATE rights.
5. Replacing CONSTITUTIONAL courts with LEGISLATIVE FRANCHISE courts.
6. Making judges into statutory franchisees such as "taxpayers", through which they are compelled to have a conflict of interest that ultimately destroys or undermines all private rights. This is a crime and a civil offense in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455.
7. Offering or enforcing government franchises to people not domiciled on federal territory. This breaks down the separation of powers and enforces franchise law extraterritorially.
8. Abusing "words of art" to blur or confuse the separation between the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE. (deception)
9. Removing the domicile prerequisite for participation in government franchises through policy and not law, thus converting them into essentially PRIVATE business ventures that operate entirely through the right to contract.
10. Abusing sovereign immunity to protect PRIVATE government business ventures, thus destroying competition and implementing a state-sponsored monopoly.
11. Refusing to criminally prosecute those who compel participation in government franchises.
12. Turning citizenship into a statutory franchise, and thus causing people who claim citizen status to unwittingly become PUBLIC officers.
13. Allowing presumption to be used as a substitute for evidence in any proceeding to enforce government franchises against an otherwise PRIVATE party. This violates due process of law, unfairly advantages the government, and imputes to the government supernatural powers as an object of religious worship.

Therefore, it is important to learn how to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and a CREDITOR in all of our affairs. Freedom is possible in the PRIVATE; it is not even a valid fantasy in the realm of the PUBLIC.

Below is a summary:

1 5.6.12.4.8 All PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT law attaches to government territory, all PRIVATE law attaches to
 2 your right to contract

3 A very important consideration to understand is that:

- 4 1. All EXCLUSIVELY PUBLIC LAW attaches to the government's own territory. By "PUBLIC", we mean law that 5 runs the government and ONLY the government.
 6 2. All EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE law attaches to one of the following:
 7 2.1. The exercise of your right to contract with others.
 8 2.2. The property you own and lend out to others based on specific conditions.

9 Item 2.2 needs further attention. Here is how that mechanism works:

10 "How, then, are purely equitable obligations created? For the most part, either by the acts of third persons or by 11 *equity alone. But how can one person impose an obligation upon another? By giving property to the latter on 12 the terms of his assuming an obligation in respect to it. At law there are only two means by which the object of 13 the donor could be at all accomplished, consistently with the entire ownership of the property passing to the
 14 donee, namely: first, by imposing a real obligation upon the property; secondly, by subjecting the title of the 15 donee to a condition subsequent. The first of these the law does not permit; the second is entirely inadequate.*
 16 Equity, however, can secure most of the objects of the doner, and yet avoid the mischiefs of real obligations by 17 imposing upon the donee (and upon all persons to whom the property shall afterwards come without value or 18 with notice) a personal obligation with respect to the property; and accordingly this is what equity does. It is in 19 this way that all trusts are created, and all equitable charges made (i.e., equitable hypothecations or liens created)
 20 by testators in their wills. In this way, also, most trusts are created by acts inter vivos, except in those cases in

 23 an obligation in respect to that property. Moreover, the owner of property can create an obligation in respect
 24 to it in only two ways: first, by incurring the obligation himself, in which case he commonly also incurs a legal

28 Next, we must describe exactly what we mean by "territory", and the three types of "territory" identified by the U.S. Supreme 29 Court in relation to the term "United States". Below is how the united States Supreme Court addressed the question of the 30 meaning of the term "United States" (see Black's Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324
 31 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that the term United States has three uses:

32 "The term 'United States' may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign
 33 occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the 34 territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states
 35 which are united by and under the Constitution."

36 [Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)]

37 We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.

Here Congress has exclusive legislative jurisdiction. In this sense, the term "United States" is a singular noun. You are a person residing in the District of Columbia, one of its Territories or Federal areas (enclaves). This is the definition used in most "Acts of Congress" and federal statutes. We identify this version of "United States" with two asterisks after its name: "United States" throughout this article. This definition is also synonymous with the "United States" corporation found in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). |

The way our present system functions, all PUBLIC rights are attached to federal territory. They cannot lawfully attach to EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property because the right to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights is repugnant to the constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lastly, when the government enters the realm of commerce and private business activity, it operates in equity and is treated as EQUAL in every respect to everyone else. ONLY in this capacity can it enact law that does NOT attach to its own territory and to those DOMICILED on its territory:

See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) ("The United States does business on business terms") (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) ("When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent") (citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) ("The United States, when they contract with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf"); Cooke v. United States, 91 U.S. 389, 398 (1875) (explaining that when the United States "comes down from its position of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals there").

See Jones, 1 Cl.Ct. at 85 ("Wherever the public and private acts of the government seem to commingle, a citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place, and then the question be determined whether the action will lie against the supposed defendant"); O'Neill v. United States, 231 Ct.Cl. 823, 826 (1982) (sovereign acts doctrine applies where, "[w]ere [the] contracts exclusively between private parties, the party hurt by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing action"). The dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz drew its reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize the need to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party. [United States v. Winstar Corp., 518 U.S. 839 (1996)].

If a government wants to reach outside its territory and create PRIVATE law for those who have not consented to its jurisdiction by choosing a domicile on its territory, the ONLY method it has for doing this is to exercise its right to contract.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

1 Locus contractus regit actum.

3 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

5 The most important method by which governments exercise their PRIVATE right to contract and disassociate with the 6 territorial limitation upon their lawmaking powers is through the use or abuse of franchises, which are contracts.

7 *As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon
8 valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit,<sup>197</sup> and thus a franchise
9 partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is 10 subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be 11 granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in 12 exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But 13 when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental 14 control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.<sup>198</sup>*

16 5.6.12.4.9 Taxation of "Public" v. "Private" property

17 *"All systems either of preference or of restraint, therefore, being thus completely taken away, the obvious and 18 simple system of natural liberty establishes itself of its own accord. Every man, as long as he does not violate the 19 laws of justice, is left perfectly free to pursue his own interest his own way, and to bring both his industry and 20 capital into competition with those of any other man or order of men. The sovereign is completely discharged
21 from a duty, in the attempting to perform which he must always be exposed to innumerable delusions, and for the 22 proper performance of which no human wisdom or knowledge could ever be sufficient: the duty of superintending 23 the industry of private people."*

24 Adam Smith, [An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations (1776)]

25 The U.S. Supreme Court has held many times that the ONLY purpose for lawful, constitutional taxation is to collect revenues
26 to support ONLY the machinery and operations of the government and its "employees". This purpose, it calls a "public use"
27 or "public purpose":

28 *"The power to tax is, therefore, the strongest, the most pervading of all powers of government, reaching directly
29 or indirectly to all classes of the people. It was said by Chief Justice Marshall, in the case of McCulloch v.
30 Md., 4 Wheat. 431, that the power to tax is the power to destroy. A striking instance of the truth of the proposition
31 is seen in the fact that the existing tax of ten per cent, imposed by the United States on the circulation of all other
32 banks than the National Banks, drove out of existence every *state bank of circulation within a year or two after 33 its passage. This power can be readily employed against one class of individuals and in favor of another, so as 34 to ruin the one class and give unlimited wealth and prosperity to the other, if there is no implied limitation of the 35 uses for which the power may be exercised.*

36 *To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow
37 it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery
38 because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under 39 legislative forms.*

40 *Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or
41 property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges imposed
42 by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.*

43 *Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John's Church, 13 Pa.St. 104 says, very forcibly, 'I think the common
44 mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the
45 government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are
46 imposed for a public purpose.' See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St. 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11

"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."

[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

"Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., this is a term of classification to distinguish the objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage, are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax, police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. "Public purpose" that will justify expenditure of public money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time is directly related function of government. Pack v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 503, 387 S.W.2d. 789, 794.

The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow; the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote such public purpose or public business."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1231, Emphasis added]

A related word defined in Black's Law Dictionary is "public use":

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, "public use" is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a "public advantage" or "public benefit" accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A "public use" for which land may be taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences, changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn. 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1232]

Black's Law Dictionary also defines the word "tax" as follows:

"Tax: A charge by the government on the income of an individual, corporation, or trust, as well as the value of an estate or gift. The objective in assessing the tax is to generate revenue to be used for the needs of the public.

A pecuniary [relating to money] burden laid upon individuals or property to support the government, and is a payment exacted by legislative authority. In re Mytinger, D.C.Tex. 31 F.Supp. 977,978,979. Essential characteristics of a tax are that it is NOT A VOLUNTARY PAYMENT OR DONATION, BUT AN ENFORCED CONTRIBUTION, EXACTED PURSUANT TO LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY. Michigan Employment Sec. Commission v. Patt, 4

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1457]

1 So in order to be legitimately called a “tax” or “taxation”, the money we pay to the government must fit all of the following
2 criteria:

- 3 1. The money must be used ONLY for the support of government. It cannot go to a private person, or even to those who 4 THINK they are private but aren't.
- 5 2. The subject of the tax must be “liable”, and responsible to pay for the support of government under the force of law.
- 6 3. The money must go toward a “public purpose” rather than a “private purpose”.
- 7 4. The monies paid cannot be described as wealth transfer between two people or classes of PRIVATE people within 8 society.
- 9 5. The monies paid cannot aid one group of private individuals in society at the expense of another group, because this 10 violates the concept of equal protection of law for all citizens found in Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1.

11 If the monies demanded by government do not fit all of the above requirements, then they are being used for a “private”
12 purpose and cannot be called “taxes” or “taxation”, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. Actions by the government to 13 enforce the payment of any monies that do not meet all the above requirements can therefore only be described as:

- 14 1. Theft and robbery by the government in the guise of “taxation”
- 15 2. Government by decree rather than by law
- 16 3. Tyranny
- 17 4. Socialism
- 18 5. Mob rule and a tyranny by the “have-nots” against the “haves”
- 19 6. 18 U.S.C. §241: Conspiracy against rights. The IRS shares tax return information with states of the union, so that both 20 of them can conspire to deprive you of your property.
- 21 7. 18 U.S.C. §242: Deprivation of rights under the color of law. The Fifth Amendment says that people in states of the 22 Union cannot be deprived of their property without due process of law or a court hearing. Yet, the IRS tries to make it
23 appear like they have the authority to just STEAL these people's property for a fabricated tax debt that they aren't even 24 legally liable for.
- 25 8. 18 U.S.C. §247: Damage to religious property; obstruction of persons in the free exercise of religious beliefs
- 26 9. 18 U.S.C. §872: Extortion by officers or employees of the United States.
- 27 10. 18 U.S.C. §876: Mailing threatening communications. This includes all the threatening notices regarding levies, liens, 28 and idiotic IRS letters that refuse to justify why government thinks we are “liable”.
- 29 11. 18 U.S.C. §880: Receiving the proceeds of extortion. Any money collected from Americans through illegal enforcement
30 actions and for which the contributors are not "liable" under the law is extorted money, and the IRS is in receipt of the 31 proceeds of illegal extortion.
- 32 12. 18 U.S.C. §1581: Peonage, obstructing enforcement. IRS is obstructing the proper administration of the Internal 33 Revenue Code and the Constitution, which require that they respect those who choose NOT to volunteer to participate
34 in the federal donation program identified under subtitle A of the I.R.C.
- 35 13. 18 U.S.C. §1583: Enticement into slavery. IRS tries to enlist “nontaxpayers” to rejoin the ranks of other peons who pay 36 taxes they aren't demonstrably liable for, which amount to slavery.
- 37 14. 18 U.S.C. §1589: Forced labor. Being forced to expend one's personal time responding to frivolous IRS notices and 38 pay taxes on my labor that I am not liable for.

39 The U.S. Supreme Court has further characterized all efforts to abuse the tax system in order to accomplish “wealth transfer”
40 as “political heresy” that is a denial of republican principles that form the foundation of our Constitution, when it issued the 41 following strong words of rebuke. Incidentally, the case below also forms the backbone of reasons why the Internal Revenue
42 Code can never be anything more than private law that only applies to those who volunteer into it:

43 “The Legislature may enjoin, permit, forbid, and punish; they may declare new crimes; and establish rules of 44 conduct for all its citizens in future cases; they may command what is right, and prohibit what is wrong; but they
45 [the government] cannot change innocence [a “nontaxpayer”] into guilt [a “taxpayer”]; or punish innocence
46 as a crime [criminally prosecute a “nontaxpayer” for violation of the tax laws]; or violate the right of an 47 antecedent lawful private contract; or the right of private property. To maintain that our Federal, or State,
48 Legislature possesses such powers [of THEFT and FRAUD], if they had not been expressly restrained; would,
49 **389 in my opinion, be a political heresy, altogether inadmissible in our free republican governments.”*
50 [Calder v. Bull, 3 U.S. 386 (1798)]

51 We also cannot assume or suppose that our government has the authority to make “gifts” of monies collected through its 52 taxation powers, and especially not when paid to private individuals or foreign countries because:

3. The Constitution DOES NOT authorize the government to “gift” money to anyone within states of the Union or in foreign countries, and therefore, this is not a Constitutional use of public funds, nor does unauthorized expenditure of such funds produce a tangible public benefit, but rather an injury, by forcing those who do not approve of the gift to subsidize it and yet not derive any personal benefit whatsoever for it.
4. The Supreme Court identifies such abuse of taxing powers as “robbery in the name of taxation” above.

Based on the foregoing analysis, we are then forced to divide the monies collected by the government through its taxing powers into only two distinct classes. We also emphasize that every tax collected and every expenditure originating from the tax paid MUST fit into one of the two categories below:

Table 5-66: Two methods for taxation

| 11 | Tax system based on                                                                | Private property VOLUNTARILY donated to a public use by its exclusive owner                                                                    | All property owned by the state, which is FALSELY PRESUMED TO BE EVERYTHING. Tax becomes a means of “renting” what amounts to state property to private individuals for temporary use. |

The U.S. Supreme Court also helped to clarify how to distinguish the two above categories when it said:

“It is undoubtedly the duty of the legislature which imposes or authorizes municipalities to impose a tax to see that it is not to be used for purposes of private interest instead of a public use, and the courts can only be justified in interposing when a violation of this principle is clear and the [87 U.S. 665] reason for interference cogent. And in deciding whether, in the given case, the object for which the taxes are assessed falls upon the one side or the other of this line, they must be governed mainly by the course and usage of the government, the objects for which taxes have been customarily and by long course of legislation levied, what objects or purposes have been considered necessary to the support and for the proper use of the government, whether state or municipal. Whatever lawfully pertains to this and is sanctioned by time and the acquiescence of the people may well be held to belong to the public use, and proper for the maintenance of good government, though this may not be the only criterion of rightful taxation.”

1 [\[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 \(1874\)\]](#)

2 If we give our government the benefit of the doubt by “assuming” or “presuming” that it is operating lawfully and consistent
3 with the model on the left above, then we have no choice but to conclude that everyone who lawfully receives any kind of
4 federal payment MUST be either a federal “employee” or “federal contractor” on official duty, and that the compensation
5 received must be directly connected to the performance of a sovereign or Constitutionally authorized function of government.
6 Any other conclusion or characterization of a lawful tax other than this is irrational, inconsistent with the rulings of the U.S.
7 Supreme Court on this subject, and an attempt to deceive the public about the role of limited Constitutional government based
8 on Republican principles. This means that you cannot participate in any of the following federal social insurance programs
9 WITHOUT being a federal “employee”, and if you refuse to identify yourself as a federal employee, then you are admitting 10 that your government is a thief and a robber that is abusing its taxing powers:

- 11 5. Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code. I.R.C. (26 U.S.C.) sections 1, 32, and 162 all confer privileged financial 12 benefits to the participant which constitute federal “employment” compensation.
13 6. Social Security.
14 7. Unemployment compensation.
15 8. Medicare.

16 An examination of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(13\), in fact, identifies all those who participate in the above programs
17 as “federal personnel”, which means federal “employees”. To wit:

18 TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
19 § 552a. Records maintained on individuals

20 (a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

21 (13) the term “Federal personnel” means officers and employees of the Government of the United States,
22 members of the uniformed services (including members of the Reserve Components), individuals entitled to 23 receive immediate or deferred retirement benefits under any retirement program of the Government of the 24 United States (including survivor benefits).

25 The “individual” they are talking about above is further defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a\(a\)\(2\) as follows:

26 TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
27 § 552a. Records maintained on individuals

28 (a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

29 (2) the term “individual” means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent
30 residence;

31 The “citizen of the United States” they are talking about above is based on the statutory rather than constitutional definition of the 32 “United States”, which means it refers to the federal zone and excludes states of the Union. Also, note that both of the two
33 preceding definitions are found within Title 5 of the U.S. Code, which is entitled “Government Organization and Employees”.
34 Therefore, it refers ONLY to government “employees” and excludes private employees. There is no definition of the term
35 “individual” anywhere in Title 26 (I.R.C.) of the U.S. Code or any other title that refers to private natural persons, because 36 Congress cannot legislate for them. Notice the use of the phrase “private business” in the U.S. Supreme Court ruling below:

37 *“The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private
38 business in his own way [unregulated by the government]. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty
39 to the State or to his neighbor to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may
40 tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the
41 protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the
42 organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the
43 Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property
44 from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public [including so-called 45 “taxes” under Subtitle A of the I.R.C.] so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”
46 [Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

47 The purpose of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights instead is to REMOVE authority of the Congress to legislate for private 48 persons and thereby protect their sovereignty and dignity. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the following:

1 "The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They
 2 recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a
 3 part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect
 4 Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the
 5 Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized
 6 men."

 8 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

QUESTIONS FOR DOUBTERS: If you aren't a federal statutory "employee" as a person participating in Social Security and the Internal Revenue Code, then why are all of the Social Security Regulations located in Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations under parts 400-499, entitled "Employee Benefits"? See for yourself:

<https://law.justia.com/cfr/title20.html>

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 Employee:

"...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

26 U.S.C. §3401(c) Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

TITLE 5 > PART III > Subpart A > CHAPTER 21 > § 2105
§2105. Employee

(a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is—

(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity—

- (A) the President;
- (B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
- (C) a member of a uniformed service;
- (D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
- (E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
- (F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709 (c) of title 32;

(2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
 (3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

Keeping in mind the following rules of statutory construction and interpretation, please show us SOMEWHERE in the statutes defining "employee" that EXPRESSLY includes PRIVATE human beings working as PRIVATE workers protected by the constitution and not subject to federal law:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, 'a definition which declares what a term 'means' . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary."
[Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

1 Another very important point to make here is that the purpose of nearly all federal law is to regulate "public conduct" rather
2 than "private conduct". Congress must write laws to regulate and control every aspect of the behavior of its employees so
3 that they do not adversely affect the rights of private individuals like you, who they exist exclusively to serve and protect.
4 Most federal statutes, in fact, are exclusively for use by those working in government and simply do not apply to private
5 citizens in the conduct of their private lives. This fact is exhaustively proven with evidence in:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

6 Federal law cannot apply to the private public at large because the Thirteenth Amendment says that involuntary servitude has
7 been abolished. If involuntary servitude is abolished, then they can't use, or in this case "abuse" the authority of law to impose
8 ANY kind of duty against anyone in the private public except possibly the responsibility to avoid hurting their neighbor and 9 thereby depriving him of the equal rights he enjoys.

10 For the commandments, "You shall not commit adultery," "You shall not murder," "You shall not steal," "You
11 shall not bear false witness," "You shall not covet," and if there is any other commandment, are all summed up
12 in this saying, namely, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

13 Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of [the ONLY requirement of] the law [which 14 is to avoid hurting your neighbor and thereby love him].
15 [Romans 13:9-10, Bible, NKJV]
16

17 "Do not strive with a man without cause, if he has done you no harm."
18 [Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

19 Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, summed up this singular duty of government to LEAVE PEOPLE
20 ALONE and only interfere or impose a "duty" using the authority of law when and only when they are hurting each other in 21 order to protect them and prevent the harm when he said.

22 "With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing
23 *more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall 24 leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from 25 the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the 26 circle of our felicities."
27 [Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

28 The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed this view, when it ruled:

29 "The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes
30 *of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States

32 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see,
33 e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745

37 What the U.S. Supreme Court is saying above is that the government has no authority to tell you how to run your private life.
38 This is contrary to the whole idea of the Internal Revenue Code, whose main purpose is to monitor and control every aspect of those who are subject to it. In fact, it has become the chief means for Congress to implement what we call “social engineering”. Just by the deductions they offer, people are incentivized into all kinds of crazy behaviors in pursuit of reductions in a liability that they in fact do not even have. Therefore, the only reasonable thing to conclude is that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A which would “appear” to regulate the private conduct of all human beings in states of the Union, in fact:

1. Only applies to “public employees”, “public offices”, and federal instrumentalities in the official conduct of their duties on behalf of the municipal corporation located in the District of Columbia, which 4 U.S.C. §72 makes the “seat of government”.
2. Does not CREATE any new public offices or instrumentalities within the national government, but only regulates the exercise of EXISTING public offices lawfully created through Title 5 of the U.S. Code. The IRS abuses its forms to unlawfully CREATE public offices within the federal government. In payroll terminology, this is called “creating fictitious employees”, and it is not only quite common, but highly illegal and can get private workers FIRED on the spot if discovered.
3. Regulates PUBLIC and not PRIVATE conduct and therefore does not pertain to private human beings.
4. Constitutes a franchise and a “benefit” within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. §552a. Tax “refunds” and “deductions”, in fact, are the “benefit”, and 26 U.S.C. §162 says that all those who take deductions MUST, in fact, be engaged in a public office within the government, which is called a “trade or business”:

TITLE 5 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(12) the term “Federal benefit program” means any program administered or funded by the Federal Government, or by any agent or State on behalf of the Federal Government, providing cash or in-kind assistance in the form of payments, grants, loans, or loan guarantees to individuals; . . .

5. Has the job of concealing all the above facts in thousands of pages and hundreds of thousands of words so that the average American is not aware of it. That is why they call it the “code” instead of simply “law”: Because it is private law you have to volunteer for and an “encryption” and concealment device for the truth. Now we know why former Treasury Secretary Paul O’Neil called the Internal Revenue Code “9500 pages of gibberish” before he quit his job in disgust and went on a campaign to criticize government.

The I.R.C. therefore essentially amounts to a part of the job responsibility and the “employment contract” of EXISTING “public employees”, “public officers”, and federal instrumentalities. This was also confirmed by the House of Representatives, who said that only those who take an oath of “public office” are subject to the requirements of the personal income tax. See:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/PublicOrPrivate-Tax-Return.pdf>

The total lack of authority of the government to regulate or tax private conduct explains why, for instance:

1. The vehicle code in your state cannot be enforced on PRIVATE property. It only applies on PUBLIC roads owned by the government
2. The family court in your state cannot regulate the exercise of unlicensed and therefore PRIVATE CONTRACT marriage. Marriage licenses are a franchise that make those applying into public officers. Family court is a franchise court and the equivalent of binding arbitration that only applies to fellow statutory government “employees”.
3. City conduct ordinances such as those prohibiting drinking by underage minors only apply to institutions who are licensed, and therefore PUBLIC institutions acting as public officers of the government.

Within the Internal Revenue Code, those legal “persons” who work for the government are identified as engaging in a “public office”. A “public office” within the Internal Revenue Code is called a “trade or business”, which is defined below. We emphasize that engaging in a privileged “trade or business” is the main excise taxable activity that in fact and in deed is what REALLY makes a person a “taxpayer” subject to the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(a\)\(26\)

"The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

Below is the definition of "public office":

Public office

"Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are:

- (1) Authority conferred by law,
- (2) Fixed tenure of office, and
- (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
- (4) Key element of such test is that "officer is carrying out a sovereign function'.
- (5) Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are:
  - (a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
  - (b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
  - (c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
  - (d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
  - (e) Position must have some permanency."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1230]

Those who are fulfilling the "functions of a public office" are under a legal, fiduciary duty as "trustees" of the "public trust", while working as "volunteers" for the "charitable trust" called the "United States Government Corporation", which we affectionately call "U.S. Inc.":

"As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer.<sup>199</sup> Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts.<sup>200</sup> That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves,<sup>201</sup> and owes a fiduciary duty to the public.<sup>202</sup> It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.<sup>203</sup> Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.<sup>204</sup>"

[63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

"U.S. Inc." is a federal corporation, as defined below:

"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes 'all persons,' ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politique or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals. 2 Inst. 46-7. 'No man shall be taken,' 'no man shall be disseised,' without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution."

TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
 PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
 CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
 SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
 Sec. 3002. Definitions

(15) "United States" means -
 (A) a Federal corporation;
 (B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
 (C) an instrumentality of the United States.

Those who are acting as “public officers” for “U.S. Inc.” have essentially donated their formerly private property to a “public use”. In effect, they have joined the SOCIALIST collective and become partakers of money STOLEN from people, most of whom, do not wish to participate and who would quit if offered an informed choice to do so.

*“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
Do not consent [do not abuse your power of choice]
 If they say, “Come with us,
 Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent "nontaxpayers"];
 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
 Cast in your lot among us,
 Let us all have one purse [share the stolen LOOT]"--*

My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don't let the government FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a "taxpayer"/government whore or a "U.S. citizen"].
*Keep your foot from their path;
 For their feet run to evil,
 And they make haste to shed blood.
 Surely, in vain the net is spread
 In the sight of any bird;
But they lie in wait for their own blood.
They lurk secretly for their own lives.
*So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits];
 It takes away the life of its owners.”*
 [Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]*

Below is what the U.S. Supreme Court says about those who have donated their private property to a “public use”. The ability to volunteer your private property for “public use”, by the way, also implies the ability to UNVOLUNTEER at any time, which is the part no government employee we have ever found is willing to talk about. I wonder why....DUHHHH!:

*“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that USE; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.
 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

Any legal person, whether it be a natural person, a corporation, or a trust, may become a “public office” if it volunteers to do so. A subset of those engaging in such a “public office” are federal “employees”, but the term “public office” or “trade or business” encompass much more than just government “employees”. In law, when a legal “person” volunteers to accept the legal duties of a “public office”, it therefore becomes a “trustee”, an agent, and fiduciary (as defined in 26 U.S.C. §6903) acting on behalf of the federal government by the operation of private contract law. It becomes essentially a “franchisee” of the federal government carrying out the provisions of the franchise agreement, which is found in:

1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, in the case of the federal income tax.

2. The Social Security Act, which is found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code.

If you would like to learn more about how this “trade or business” scam works, consult the authoritative article below:

The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

If you would like to know more about the extreme dangers of participating in all government franchises and why you destroy ALL your Constitutional rights and protections by doing so, see:

1. Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. SEDM Liberty University, Section 4:
<http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm>

The IRS Form 1042-S Instructions confirm that all those who use Social Security Numbers are engaged in the “trade or business” franchise:

Box 14, Recipient's U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain and enter a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

- Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.

[IRS Form 1042-S Instructions, p. 14]

Engaging in a “trade or business” therefore implies a “public officer”, which makes the person using the number into a “public officer” who has donated his formerly private time and services to a “public use” and agreed to give the public the right to control and regulate that use through the operation of the franchise agreement, which is the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and the Social Security Act found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code. The Social Security Number is therefore the equivalent of a “license number” to act as a “public officer” for the federal government, who is a fiduciary or trustee subject to the plenary legislative jurisdiction of the federal government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\), 26 U.S.C. §7408\(c\), and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 17\(b\), regardless of where he might be found geographically, including within a state of the Union. The franchise agreement governs “choice of law” and where it’s terms may be litigated, which is the District of Columbia, based on the agreement itself.

Now let’s apply what we have learned to your employment situation. God said you cannot work for two companies at once. You can only serve one company, and that company is the federal government if you are receiving federal benefits:

*“No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”
 [Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]*

Everything you make while working for your slave master, the federal government, is their property over which you are a fiduciary and “public officer”.

“THE” + “IRS” = “THEIRS”

A federal “public officer” has no rights in relation to their master, the federal government:

“The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O'Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v.

 2 Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired
 3 for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan
 4 political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public
 5 Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm'n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973);
 6 Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616 -617 (1973)."
 7 Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, [497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

8 Your existence and your earnings as a federal "public officer" and "trustee" and "fiduciary" are entirely subject to the whim
 9 and pleasure of corrupted lawyers and politicians, and you must beg and grovel if you expect to retain anything:

10 "In the general course of human nature, A POWER OVER A MAN'S SUBSISTENCE AMOUNTS TO A POWER 11 OVER HIS WILL."
 12 [Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper No. 79]

13 You will need an "exemption" from your new slave master specifically spelled out in law to justify anything you want to 14 keep while working on the federal plantation. The 1040 return is a profit and loss statement for a federal business corporation
 15 called the "United States". You are in partnership with your slave master and they decide what scraps they want to throw to 16 you in your legal "cage" AFTER they figure out whatever is left in financing their favorite pork barrel project and paying off
 17 interest on an ever-expanding and endless national debt. Do you really want to reward this type of irresponsibility and surety?

18 The W-4 therefore essentially amounts to a federal employment application. It is your badge of dishonor and a tacit admission
 19 that you can't or won't trust God and yourself to provide for yourself. Instead, you need a corrupted "protector" to steal
 20 money from your neighbor or counterfeit (print) it to help you pay your bills and run your life. Furthermore, if your private
 21 employer forced you to fill out the W-4 against your will or instituted any duress to get you to fill it out, such as threatening 22 to fire or not hire you unless you fill it out, then he/she is:

- 23 1. Acting as an employment recruiter for the federal government.
- 24 2. Recruiting you into federal slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, and 42 U.S.C. §1994.
- 25 3. Involved in a conspiracy to commit grand theft by stealing money from you to pay for services and protection you don't 26 want and don't need.
- 27 4. Involved in racketeering and extortion in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1951.
- 28 5. Involved in money laundering for the federal government, by sending in money stolen from you to them, in violation of
 29 18 U.S.C. §1956.

30 The higher ups at the IRS probably know the above, and they certainly aren't going to tell private employers or their 31 underlings the truth, because they aren't going to look a gift horse in the mouth and don't want to surrender their defense of 32 "plausible deniability". They will NEVER tell a thief who is stealing for them that they are stealing, especially if they don't 33 have to assume liability for the consequences of the theft. No one who practices this kind of slavery, deceit, and evil can 34 rightly claim that they are loving their neighbor and once they know they are involved in such deceit, they have a duty to 35 correct it or become an "accessory after the fact" in violation of 18 U.S.C. §3. This form of deceit is also the sin most hated
 36 by God in the Bible. Below is a famous Bible commentary on Prov. 11:1:

37 "As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so
 38 righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he 39 expect that his devotion should be accepted; for, 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce.
 40 A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in 41 dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those 42 abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront
 43 to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men
 44 [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money
 45 to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit,
 46 Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are 47 defrauded by their brethren. 2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more
 48 necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a
 49 just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein
 50 followers of him. A balance cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater 51 abomination to God."
 52 [Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

53 The Bible also says that those who participate in this kind of "commerce" with the government are practicing harlotry and 54 idolatry. The Bible book of Revelations describes a woman called "Babylon the Great Harlot".

1                   “And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten
 2 horns. The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls,
 3 having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication. And on her forehead a
 4 name was written:

5                   MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE 6 EARTH.

7                   I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw
 8 her, I marveled with great amazement.”
 9 [Rev. 17:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

10 This despicable harlot is described below as the “woman who sits on many waters”.

11                   “Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot [Babylon the Great Harlot] who sits on many waters,
 12 with whom the kings of the earth [politicians and rulers] committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth
 13 were made drunk [indulged] with the wine of her fornication.”
 14 [Rev. 17:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

15 These waters are simply symbolic of a democracy controlled by mobs of atheistic people who are fornicating with the Beast
 16 and who have made it their false, man-made god and idol:

17                   “The waters which you saw, where the harlot sits, are peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues.”
 18 [Rev. 17:15, Bible, NKJV]

19 The Beast is then defined in Rev. 19:19 as “the kings of the earth”, which today would be our political rulers:

20                   “And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who 21 sat on the horse and against His army.”
 22 [Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

23 Babylon the Great Harlot is “fornicating” with the government by engaging in commerce with it. Black’s Law Dictionary
 24 defines “commerce” as “intercourse”:

25                   “Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or
 26 inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the 27 instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it 28 is carried on...”
 29 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

30 If you want your rights back people, you can’t pursue government employment in the context of your private job. If you do,
 31 the Bible, not us, says you are a harlot and that you are CONDEMNED to hell!

32                   And I heard another voice from heaven saying, “Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest
 33 you receive of her plagues. For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities. Render 34 to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she has mixed,
 35 mix double for her. In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her
 36 torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, ‘I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.’
 37 Therefore her plagues will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned
 38 with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her.
 39 [Rev. 18:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

40 In summary, it ought to be very clear from reading this section then, that:

- 41 1. It is an abuse of the government’s taxing power, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, to pay public monies to private
- 42 persons or to use the government’s taxing power to transfer wealth between groups of private individuals.
- 43 2. Because of these straight jacket constraints of the use of “public funds” by the government, the government can only
- 44 lawfully make payments or pay “benefits” to persons who have contracted with them to render specific services that are
- 45 authorized by the Constitution to be rendered.
- 46 3. The government had to create an intermediary called the “straw man” that is a public office or agent within the
- 47 government and therefore part of the government that they could pay the “benefit” to in order to circumvent the
- 48 restrictions upon the government from abusing its powers to transfer wealth between private individuals.

4. The straw man is a “public office” within the U.S. government. It is a creation of Congress and an agent and fiduciary of the government subject to the statutory control of Congress. It is therefore a public entity and not a private entity which the government can therefore lawfully pay public funds to without abusing its taxing powers.
5. Those who sign up for government contracts, benefits, franchises, or employment agree to become surety for the straw man or public office and agree to act in a representative capacity on behalf of a federal corporation in the context of all the duties of the office pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
6. Because the straw man is a public office, you can't be compelled to occupy the office. You and not the government set the compensation or amount of money you are willing to work for in order to consensually occupy the office. If you don't think the compensation is adequate, you have the right to refuse to occupy the office by refusing to connect your assets to the office using the de facto license number for the office called the Taxpayer Identification Number.

5.6.12.4.10 “Political (PUBLIC) law” v. “civil (PRIVATE) law”

Within our republican government, the founding fathers recognized three classes of law:

1. Criminal law. Protects both PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights.
2. Civil law. Protects exclusively PRIVATE rights.
3. Political law. Protects exclusively PUBLIC rights of public officers and offices within the government.

The above three types of law were identified in the following document upon which the founding fathers wrote the constitution and based the design of our republican form of government:

The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758
 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol.htm>

Montesquieu defines “political law” and “political liberty” as follows:

1. A general Idea.

I make a distinction between the laws that establish political liberty, as it relates to the constitution, and those by which it is established, as it relates to the citizen. The former shall be the subject of this book; the latter I shall examine in the next.

[The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XI, Section I;
 SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol\_11.htm#001]

The Constitution in turn is a POLITICAL document which represents law EXCLUSIVELY for public officers within the government. It does not obligate or abrogate any PRIVATE right. It defines what the courts call “public rights”, meaning rights possessed and owned exclusively by the government ONLY.

“And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law—the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand their import is not rationally possible. ‘We the People of the United States,’ it says, ‘do ordain and establish this Constitution.’ Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided explicitly—‘This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.’ (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat- [298 U.S. 238, 297] ute whenever the two conflict. In the discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great weight, Adkins v. Children’s Hospital, 261 U.S. 525, 544, 43 S.Ct. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the court’s opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry. Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 550 S., 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947. “
 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

1 The vast majority of laws passed by Congress are what Montesquieu calls “political law” that is intended exclusively for the
2 government and not the private citizen. The authority for implementing such political law is Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2
3 of the United States Constitution. To wit:

4 United States Constitution
5 Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2

6 *The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the
7 Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed*
8 as to Prejudice any Claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

9 The only areas where POLITICAL law and CIVIL law overlap is in the exercise of the political rights to vote and serve on 10 jury duty. Why? Because jurists are regarded as public officers in 18 U.S.C. §201(a)(1):

11 TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 11 > § 201
12 § 201. Bribery of public officials and witnesses

13 (a) For the purpose of this section—

14 (1) the term “public official” means Member of Congress, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, either before or 15 after such official has qualified, or an officer or employee or person acting for or on behalf of the United States,
16 or any department, agency or branch of Government thereof, including the District of Columbia, in any official
17 function, under or by authority of any such department, agency, or branch of Government, or a juror;

18 However, it has also repeatedly been held by the courts that poll taxes are unconstitutional. Hence, voters technically are 19 NOT to be regarded as public officers or franchisees for any purpose OTHER than their role as a voter. Recall that all
20 statutory “Taxpayers” are public offices in the government.

21 Tax laws, for instance, are “political law” exclusively for the government or public officer and not the private citizen. Why?
22 Because:

- 23 1. The U.S. Supreme Court identified taxes as a “political matter”. “Political law”, “political questions”, and “political 24 matters” cannot be heard by true constitutional courts and may ONLY be heard in legislative franchise courts officiated
25 by the Executive and not Judicial branch:

26 “Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit
27 or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth
28 *Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally
29 reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously
30 includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of*
31 property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration
32 being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”

33 [Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

- 34 2. The U.S. Tax Court:

35 2.1. Is an Article I Court in the EXECUTIVE and not JUDICIAL branch, and hence, can only officiate over matters
36 INTERNAL to the government. See 26 U.S.C. §7441.

37 2.2. Is a POLITICAL court in the POLITICAL branch of the government. Namely, the Executive branch.

38 2.3. Is limited to the District of Columbia because all public offices are limited to be exercised there per 4 U.S.C. §72.
39 It travels all over the country, but this is done ILLEGALLY and in violation of the separation of powers.

- 40 3. The activity subject to excise taxation is limited exclusively to “public offices” in the government, which is what a “trade 41 or business” is statutorily defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

42 26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(a\)\(26\)

43 “The term ‘trade or business’ includes the performance of the functions of a public office.”

44 In Book XXVI, Section 15 of the Spirit of Laws, Montesquieu says that POLITICAL laws should not be allowed to regulate 45 CIVIL conduct, meaning that POLITICAL laws limited exclusively to the government should not be enforced upon the 46 PRIVATE citizen or made to “appear” as though they are “civil law” that applies to everyone:

1 The Spirit of Laws, Book XXVI, Section 15

2 15. That we should not regulate by the Principles of political Law those Things which depend on the Principles
3 of civil Law.

4 As men have given up their natural independence to live under political laws, they have given up the natural
5 community of goods to live under civil laws.

6 By the first, they acquired [PUBLIC] liberty; by the second, [PRIVATE] property. We should not decide by the 7 laws of [PUBLIC] liberty, which, as we have already said, is only the government of the community, what
8 ought to be decided by the laws concerning [PRIVATE] property. It is a paralogism to say that the good of the 9 individual should give way to that of the public; this can never take place, except when the government of the 10 community, or, in other words, the liberty of the subject is concerned; this does not affect such cases as relate
11 to private property, because the public good consists in every one's having his property, which was given him
12 by the civil laws, invariably preserved.

13 Cicero maintains that the Agrarian laws were unjust; because the community was established with no other view
14 than that every one might be able to preserve his property.

15 Let us, therefore, lay down a certain maxim, that whenever the public good happens to be the matter in question,
16 it is not for the advantage of the public to deprive an individual of his property, or even to retrench the least
17 part of it by a law, or a political regulation. In this case we should follow the rigour of the civil law, which is 18 the Palladium of [PRIVATE] property.

19 Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of political 20 law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every individual as 21 the whole community.

22 If the political magistrate would erect a public edifice, or make a new road, he must indemnify those who are 23 injured by it; the public is in this respect like an individual who treats with an individual. It is fully enough that 24 it can oblige a citizen to sell his inheritance, and that it can strip him of this great privilege which he holds from 25 the civil law, the not being forced to alienate his possessions.

26 After the nations which subverted the Roman empire had abused their very conquests, the spirit of liberty called
27 them back to that of equity. They exercised the most barbarous laws with moderation: and if any one should doubt
28 the truth of this, he need only read Beaumanoir's admirable work on jurisprudence, written in the twelfth century.

29 They mended the highways in his time as we do at present. He says, that when a highway could not be repaired,
30 they made a new one as near the old as possible; but indemnified the proprietors at the expense of those who 31 reaped any advantage from the road.<sup>43</sup> They determined at that time by the civil law; in our days, we determine 32 by the law of politics.

33 [The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XXVI, Section 15;

35 What Montesquieu is implying is what we have been saying all along, and he said it in 1758, which was even before the 36 Declaration of Independence was written:

- 37 1. The purpose of establishing government is exclusively to protect PRIVATE rights.
- 38 2. PRIVATE rights are protected by the CIVIL law. The civil law, in turn is based in EQUITY rather than PRIVILEGE:

39 “Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of 40 political law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every 41 individual as the whole community.”

- 42 3. PUBLIC or government rights are protected by the PUBLIC or POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law and NOT the 43 CIVIL law.
- 44 4. The first and most important role of government is to prevent the POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law from being 45 used or especially ABUSED as an excuse to confiscate or jeopardize PRIVATE property.

46 Unfortunately, it is precisely the above type of corruption that Montesquieu describes that is the foundation of the present de
47 facto government, tax system, and money system. ALL of them treat every human being as a PUBLIC officer against their 48 consent, and impose what he calls the “rigors of the political law” upon them, in what amounts to unconstitutional eminent

1 domain and a THEFT and CONFISCATION of otherwise PRIVATE property by enforcing PUBLIC law against PRIVATE 2 people.

3 5.6.12.4.11 Lawful methods for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property

4 Next, we must carefully consider all the rules by which EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property is lawfully converted into
5 PUBLIC property subject to government control or civil regulation. These rules are important, because the status of a
6 particular type of property as either PRIVATE or PUBLIC determines whether either COMMON LAW or STATUTORY
7 LAW apply respectively.

8 In general, only by either accepting physical property from the government or voluntarily applying for and claiming a status
9 or right under a government franchise can one procure a PUBLIC status and be subject to STATUTORY civil law. If one
10 wishes to be governed ONLY by the common law, then they must make their status very clear in every interaction with the 11 government and on EVERY government form they fill out so as to avoid connecting them to any statutory franchise.

12 Below is a detailed list of the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property:

- 13 1. The purpose for establishing governments is mainly to protect private property. The Declaration of Independence affirms 14 this:

15 "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
16 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure
17 these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,
18 -"

19 [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

- 20 2. Government protects private rights by keeping "public [government] property" and "private property" separate and never 21 allowing them to be joined together. This is the heart of the separation of powers doctrine: separation of what is private 22 from what is public with the goal of protecting mainly what is private. See:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 23 3. All property BEGINS as private property. The only way to lawfully change it to public property is through the exercise
24 of your unalienable constitutional right to contract. All franchises qualify as a type of contract, and therefore, franchises
25 are one of many methods to lawfully convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property. The exercise of the right to 26 contract, in turn, is an act of consent that eliminates any possibility of a legal remedy of the donor against the donee:

27 "Voluntati non fit injuria.

28 He who consents cannot receive an injury. 2 Bouv. Inst. n. 2279, 2327; 4 T. R. 657; Shelf. on mar. & Div. 449.

29 Consensus tollit errorem.

31 Melius est omnia mala pati quam malo consentire.

32 It is better to suffer every wrong or ill, than to consent to it. 3 Co. Inst. 23.

34 One cannot complain of having been deceived when he knew the fact and gave his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 145."

35 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

36 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouvierMaxims.htm>]

- 37 4. In law, all rights are "property".

38 Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal
39 sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat &
40 *Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable
41 right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to*
42 dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it.
43 That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or
44 subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have
45 to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no
46 way depends on another man's courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen's relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 1095]

By protecting your constitutional rights, the government is protecting your PRIVATE property. Your rights are private property because they came from God, not from the government. Only what the government creates can become public property. An example is corporations, which are a public franchise that makes officers of the corporation into public officers.

5. The process of taxation is the process of converting "private property" into a "public use" and a "public purpose". Below are definitions of these terms for your enlightenment.

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, "public use" is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a "public advantage" or "public benefit" accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A "public use" for which land may be taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences, changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn. 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1232]

"Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., this is a term of classification to distinguish the objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage, are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax, police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. "Public purpose" that will justify expenditure of public money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time is directly related function of government. Pack v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 503, 387 S.W.2d. 789, 794.

The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow; the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote such public purpose or public business."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1231, Emphasis added]

- 1 6. The federal government has no power of eminent domain within states of the Union. This means that they cannot 2 lawfully convert private property to a public use or a public purpose within the exclusive jurisdiction of states of the 3 Union:

4 “The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent
5 domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the court
6 denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers by treaty
7 or compact.”

8 [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]

- 9 7. The Fifth Amendment prohibits converting private property to a public use or a public purpose without just compensation
10 if the owner does not consent, and this prohibition applies to the Federal government as well as states of the Union. It
11 was made applicable to states of the Union by the Fourteenth Amendment in 1868.

12 Fifth Amendment - Rights of Persons

13 No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or 14 indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual
15 service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in 16 jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be
17 deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public
18 use, without just compensation.

19 [United States Constitution, Fifth Amendment]

20 If the conversion of private property to public property is done without the express consent of the party affected by the 21 conversion and without compensation, then the following violations have occurred:

- 22 7.1. Violation of the Fifth Amendment “takings clause” above.
23 7.2. “Conversion” in violation of 18 U.S.C. §654.
24 7.3. Theft.

- 25 8. Because taxation involves converting private property to a public use, public purpose, and public office, then it involves 26 eminent domain if the owner of the property did not expressly consent to the taking:

27 Eminent domain. The power to take private property for public use by the state, municipalities, and private 28 persons or corporations authorized to exercise functions of public character. Housing Authority of Cherokee
29 National of Oklahoma v. Langley, Okl., 555 P.2d. 1025, 1028. Fifth Amendment, U.S. Constitution.

30 In the United States, the power of eminent domain is founded in both the federal (Fifth Amend.) and state
31 *constitutions. However, the Constitution limits the power to taking for a public purpose and prohibits the 32 exercise of the power of eminent domain without just compensation to the owners of the property which is 33 taken. The process of exercising the power of eminent domain is commonly referred to as “condemnation”
34 or, “expropriation”.

35 The right of eminent domain is the right of the state, through its regular organization, to reassert, either
36 temporarily or permanently, its dominion over any portion of the soil of the state on account of public exigency
37 and for the public good. Thus, in time of war or insurrection, the proper authorities may possess and hold any 38 part of the territory of the state for the common safety; and in time of peace the legislature may authorize the 39 appropriation of the same to public purposes, such as the opening of roads, construction of defenses, or providing 40 channels for trade or travel. Eminent domain is the highest and most exact idea of property remaining in the 41 government, or in the aggregate body of the people in their sovereign capacity. It gives a right to resume the 42 possession of the property in the manner directed by the constitution and the laws of the state, whenever the public
43 interest requires it.

44 See also Adequate compensation; Condemnation; Constructive taking; Damages; Expropriation; Fair market
45 value; Just compensation; Larger parcel; Public use; Take.

46 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 470]

- 47 9. The Fifth Amendment requires that any taking of private property without the consent of the owner must involve 48 compensation. The Constitution must be consistent with itself. The taxation clauses found in Article 1, Section 8,
49 Clauses 1 and 3 cannot conflict with the Fifth Amendment. The Fifth Amendment contains no exception to the 50 requirement for just compensation upon conversion of private property to a public use, even in the case of taxation. This 51 is why all taxes must be indirect excise taxes against people who provide their consent by applying for a license to engage

1 in the taxed activity: The application for the license constitutes constructive consent to donate the fruits of the activity
2 to a public use, public purpose, and public office.
3 10. There is only ONE condition in which the conversion of private property to public property does NOT require 4 compensation, which is when the owner donates the private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office.
5 To wit:

6 *"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;'
7 and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
8 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it
9 to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL
10 SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives
11 to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take 12 it upon payment of due compensation."

Table 5-67: Rules for converting private property to a public use or a public office

| 1 | The owner of property justly acquired enjoys full and exclusive use and control over the property. This right includes the right to exclude government uses or ownership of said property.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Yes                                               |
| 2 | He may not use the property to injure the equal rights of his neighbor. For instance, when you murder someone, the government can take your liberty and labor from you by putting you in jail or your life from you by instituting the death penalty against you. Both your life and your labor are "property". Therefore, the basis for the "taking" was violation of the equal rights of a fellow sovereign "neighbor". | No                                                |
| 3 | He cannot be compelled or required to use it to "benefit" his neighbor. That means he cannot be compelled to donate the property to any franchise that would "benefit" his neighbor such as Social Security, Medicare, etc.                                                                                                                                                                                               | Yes                                               |
| 4 | If he donates it to a public use, he gives the public the right to control that use.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Yes                                               |
| 5 | Whenever the public needs require, the public may take it without his consent upon payment of due compensation. E.g. "eminent domain".                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | No                                                |

11. The following two methods are the ONLY methods involving consent of the owner that may be LAWFULLY employed to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property. Anything else is unlawful and THEFT:

11.1. DIRECT CONVERSION: Owner donates the property by conveying title or possession to the government.<sup>205</sup>

11.2. INDIRECT CONVERSION: Owner assumes a PUBLIC status as a PUBLIC officer in the HOLDING of title to the property.<sup>206</sup> All such statuses and the rights that attach to it are creations and property of the government, the use of which is a privilege. The status and all PUBLIC RIGHTS that attach to it conveys a "benefit" for which the status user must pay an excise tax. The tax acts as a rental or use fee for the status, which is government property.

12. You and ONLY you can authorize your private property to be donated to a public use, public purpose, and public office. No third party can lawfully convert or donate your private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office without your knowledge and express consent. If they do, they are guilty of theft and conversion, and especially if they are acting in a quasi-governmental capacity as a "withholding agent" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16).

12.1. A withholding agent cannot file an information return connecting your earnings to a "trade or business" without you actually occupying a "public office" in the government BEFORE you filled out any tax form.

12.2. A withholding agent cannot file IRS Form W-2 against your earnings if you didn't voluntarily sign an IRS Form W-4 contract and thereby consent to donate your private property to a public office in the U.S. government and therefore a "public use".

12.3. That donation process is accomplished by your own voluntary self-assessment and ONLY by that method. Before such a self-assessment, you are a "nontaxpayer" and a private person. After the assessment, you become a "taxpayer" and a public officer in the government engaged in the "trade or business" franchise.

12.4. In order to have an income tax liability, you must complete, sign, and "file" an income tax return and thereby assess yourself:

*"Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not distraint."
[Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]*

By assessing yourself, you implicitly give your consent to allow the public the right to control that use of the formerly PRIVATE property donated to a public use.

<sup>205</sup> An example of direct conversion would be the process of "registering" a vehicle with the Department of Motor Vehicles in your state. The act of registration constitutes consent by original ABSOLUTE owner to change the ownership of the property from ABSOLUTE to QUALIFIED and to convey legal title to the state and qualified title to himself.

1 A THEFT of property has occurred on behalf of the government if it attempts to do any of the following:

- 2 1. Circumvents any of the above rules.
- 3 2. Blurs, confuses, or obfuscates the distinction between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property.
- 4 3. Refuses to identify EXACTLY which of the mechanisms identified in item 10 above was employed in EACH specific
- 5 case where it:
- 6 3.1. Asserts a right to regulate the use of private property.
- 7 3.2. Asserts a right to convert the character of property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC.
- 8 3.3. Asserts a right to TAX what you THOUGHT was PRIVATE property.

9 The next time someone from the government asserts a tax obligation, you might want to ask them the following very insightful

10 questions based on the content of this section:

- 11 1. Please describe at EXACTLY what point in the taxation process my earnings were LAWFULLY converted from
- 12 EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE to PUBLIC and thereby became SUBJECT to civil statutory law and government
- 13 jurisdiction. Check one or more. If none are checked, it shall CONCLUSIVELY be PRESUMED that no tax is owed:
- 14 1.1. ___ There is no private property. EVERYTHING belongs to us and we just "RENT" it to you through taxes.
- 15 Hence, we are NOT a "government" because there is not private property to protect. Everything is PUBLIC
- 16 property by default.
- 17 1.2. ___ When I was born?
- 18 1.3. ___ When I became a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen?
- 19 1.4. ___ When I changed my domicile to a CONSTITUTIONAL and not STATUTORY "State".
- 20 1.5. ___ When I indicated "U.S. citizen" or "U.S. resident" on a government form, and the agent accepting it
- 21 FALSELY PRESUMED that meant I was a STATUTORY "national and citizen of the United States" per 8
- 22 U.S.C. §1401 rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen of the United States".
- 23 1.6. ___ When I disclosed and used a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number to my otherwise
- 24 PRIVATE employer?
- 25 1.7. ___ When I submitted my withholding documents, such as IRS Forms W-4 or W-8?
- 26 1.8. ___ When the information return was filed against my otherwise PRIVATE earnings that connected my
- 27 otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 28 1.9. ___ When I FAILED to rebut the false information return connecting my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a
- 29 PUBLIC office in the national government?
- 30 1.10. ___ When I filed a "taxpayer" form, such as IRS Forms 1040 or 1040NR?
- 31 1.11. ___ When the IRS or state did an assessment under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §6020(b).
- 32 1.12. ___ When I failed to rebut a collection notice from the IRS?
- 33 1.13. ___ When the IRS levied monies from my EXCLUSIVELY private account, which must be held by a PUBLIC
- 34 OFFICER per 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) before it can lawfully be levied?
- 35 1.14. ___ When the government decided they wanted to STEAL my money and simply TOOK it, and were protected
- 36 from the THEFT by a complicit Department of Justice, who split the proceeds with them?
- 37 1.15. ___ When I demonstrated legal ignorance of the law to the government sufficient to overlook or not recognize
- 38 that it is impossible to convert PRIVATE to PUBLIC without my consent, as the Declaration of Independence
- 39 requires.
- 40 2. How can the conversion from PRIVATE to PUBLIC occur without my consent and without violating the Fifth
- 41 Amendment Takings Clause?
- 42 3. If you won't answer the previous questions, how the HELL am I supposed to receive constitutionally mandated
- 43 "reasonable notice" of the following:
- 44 3.1. EXACTLY what property I exclusively own and therefore what property is NOT subject to government taxation
- 45 or regulation?
- 46 3.2. EXACTLY what conduct is expected of me by the law?
- 47 4. EXACTLY where in your publications is the first question answered and why should I believe it if even you refuse to
- 48 take responsibility for the accuracy of said publications?
- 49 5. EXACTLY where in the statutes and regulations is the first question answered?
- 50 6. How can you refuse to answer the above questions if your own mission statement says you are required to help people
- 51 obey the law and comply with the law?

52 5.6.12.4.12 Unlawful methods abused by government to convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property

There are a LOT more ways to UNLAWFULLY convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property than there are ways to do it lawfully. This section will address the most prevalent methods abused by state actors so that you will immediately recognize them when you are victimized by them. For the purposes of this section CONTROL and OWNERSHIP are synonymous. Hence, if the TITLE of the property remains in your name but there is any aspect of control over the USE of said property that does not demonstrably injure others, then the property ceases to be absolutely owned and therefore is owned by the government.

Based on the previous section, there is ONLY one condition in which PRIVATE property can be converted to PUBLIC property without the consent of the owner, which is when it is used to INJURE the rights of others. Any other type of conversion is THEFT. The U.S. Supreme Court describes that process of illegally CONVERTING property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC as follows. Notice that they only reference the “citizen” as being the object of regulation, which implies that those who are “nonresidents”, “transient foreigners”, and “state nationals” are beyond the control of those governments in whose territory they have not chosen a civil domicile:

“The doctrine that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas — is the rule by which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation essential to secure this common and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases where property may be destroyed to arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the pressure of an immediate and overwhelming necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over the property of the citizen [NOT EVERYONE, but only those consent to become citizens by choosing a domicile] does not extend beyond such limits.”
[Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

Below is a list of the more prevalent means abused by corrupt and covetous governments to illegally convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC PROPERTY without the express consent of the owner. Many of these techniques are unrecognizable to the average American and therefore surreptitious, which is why they continue to be abused so regularly and chronically by public dis-servants:

1. Deceptively label statutory PRIVILEGES as RIGHTS.
2. Confuse STATUTORY citizenship with CONSTITUTIONAL citizenship.
3. Refuse to admit that the court you are litigating in is a FRANCHISE court that has no jurisdiction over non-franchisees or people who do not consent to the franchise.
4. Abuse the words “includes” and “including” to add anything they want to the definition of “person” or “individual” within the franchise. All such “persons” are public officers and not private human beings. See:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
5. Refuse to impose the burden of proof upon the government to show that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property BEFORE they can claim jurisdiction over it.
6. Silently PRESUME that the property in question is PUBLIC property connected with the “trade or business” (public office per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) franchise and force you to prove that it ISN'T by CHALLENGING false information returns filed against it, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1098, 1099, and K-1. See:
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
7. Presume that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical words are the same. They are NOT, and in fact are mutually exclusive.
8. Presume that because you submitted an application for a franchise, that you:
  - 8.1. CONSENTED to the franchise and were not under duress.
  - 8.2. Were requesting a “benefit” and therefore agreed to the obligations associated with the “benefit”.

CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
PART 2. CONTRACTS
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT
Section 1589

1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

- 8.3. Agree to accept the obligations associated with the status described on the application, such as “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”.

If you want to prevent the above, reserve all your rights on the application, indicate duress, and define all terms on the form as NOT connected with any government or statutory law.

9. PRESUME that the OWNER has a civil statutory status that he or she did not consent to, such as:
  - 9.1. "spouse" under the family code of your state, which is a franchise.
  - 9.2. "driver" under the vehicle code of your state, which is a franchise.
  - 9.3. "taxpayer" under the tax code of your state, which is a franchise.
10. PRESUME that physical PROPERTY that is situated on federal territory to which the general and exclusive jurisdiction of the national government applies, even though it is not. This is primarily done by playing word games with geographical "words of art" such as "State" and "United States".
11. Refuse to satisfy the burden of proving that the owner of the property expressly consented in a manner that he/she prescribed to change the status of either himself or the property over which they claim a public interest.
12. Judges will interfere with attempts to introduce evidence in the proceeding that challenges any of the above presumptions.
13. Unlawfully compel the use of Social Security Numbers or Taxpayer Identification Numbers in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8) in connection with specific property as a precondition of rendering a usually essential service. It will be illegally compelled because:
  - 13.1. The party against whom it was compelled was not a statutory "Taxpayer" or "person" or "individual" or to whom a duty to furnish said number lawfully applies.
  - 13.2. The property was not located on territory subject to the territorial jurisdiction of that national government.
14. Use one franchise as a way to recruit franchisees under OTHER franchises that are completely unrelated. For instance, they will enact a vehicle code statute that allows for confiscation of REGISTERED vehicles only that are being operated by UNLICENSED drivers. That way, everyone who wants to protect their vehicle also indirectly has to ALSO become a statutory "driver" using the public road ways for commercial activity and thus subject to regulation by the state, even though they in fact ARE NOT intending to do so.
15. Issue a license and then refuse to recognize the authority and ability in court of those possessing said license to act in an EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE capacity. For instance:
  - 15.1. They may have a contractor's license but they are NOT allowed to operate as OTHER than a licensed contractor...OR are NOT allowed to operate in an exclusively PRIVATE capacity.
  - 15.2. They may have a vehicle registration but are NOT allowed to remove it or NOT use it during times when they are NOT using the public roadways for hire, which is most of the time. In other words, the vehicle is the equivalent to "off duty" at some times. They allow police officers, who are PUBLIC officers, to be off duty, but not anyone who DOESN'T work for the government.
16. Issue or demand GOVERNMENT ID and then presume that the applicant is a statutory "resident" for ALL purposes, rather than JUST the specific reason the ID was issued. Since a "resident" is a public officer, in effect they are PRESUMING that you are a public officer 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and that you HAVE to assume this capacity without pay or "benefit" and without the ability to quit. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002, Section 13.4
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

What all of the above government abuses have in common is that they do one or more of the following:

1. Involve PRESUMPTIONS which violate due process of law and are therefore UNCONSTITUTIONAL. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. Refuse to RECOGNIZE the existence of PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights.
3. Violate the very purpose of establishing government to begin with, which is to PROTECT PRIVATE property by LEAVING IT ALONE and not regulating or benefitting from its use or abuse until AFTER it has been used to injure the equal rights of anyone OTHER than the original owner.
4. Violate the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.
5. Needlessly interfere with the ownership or control of otherwise PRIVATE property.
6. Often act upon property BEFORE it is used to institute an injury, instead of AFTER. Whenever the law acts to PREVENT future harm rather than CORRECT past harm, it requires the consent of the owner. The common law itself only provides remedies for PAST harm and cannot act on future conduct, except in the case of injunctions where PAST harm is already demonstrated.
7. Institute involuntary servitude against the owner in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.
8. Represent an eminent domain over PRIVATE property in violation of the state constitution in most states.
9. Violate the takings clauses of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

10. Violate the maxim of law that the government has a duty to protect your right to NOT receive a "benefit" and NOT pay for "benefits" that you don't want or don't need.

No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

It ought to be obvious to the reader that the basis for Socialism is public ownership of ALL property.

"socialism n (1839) 1: any of various economic and political theories advocating collective or governmental ownership and administration of the means of production and distribution of goods 2 a: a system of society or group living in which there is no private property b: a system or condition of society in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the state 3: a stage of society in Marxist theory transitional between capitalism and communism and distinguished by unequal distribution of goods and pay according to work done." [Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 1118]

Any system of law that recognizes no absolute and inviolable constitutional boundary between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property, or which regards ALL property as being subject to government taxation and/or regulation is a socialist or collectivist system. That socialist system is exhaustively described in the following:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Below is how the U.S. Supreme Court characterizes efforts to violate the rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property listed above and thereby STEAL PRIVATE property. The text below the following line up to the end of the section comes from the case indicated:

Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)

The question presented, therefore, is one of the greatest importance, — whether it is within the competency of a State to fix the compensation which an individual may receive for the use of his own property in his private business, and for his services in connection with it.

139*139 The validity of the legislation was, among other grounds, assailed in the State court as being in conflict with that provision of the State Constitution which declares that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, and with that provision of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution which imposes a similar restriction upon the action of the State. The State court held, in substance, that the constitutional provision was not violated so long as the owner was not deprived of the title and possession of his property; and that it did not deny to the legislature the power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the use and enjoyment of the property, referring, in support of the position, to instances of its action in prescribing the interest on money, in establishing and regulating public ferries and public mills, and fixing the compensation in the shape of tolls, and in delegating power to municipal bodies to regulate the charges of hackmen and draymen, and the weight and price of bread. In this court the legislation was also assailed on the same ground, our jurisdiction arising upon the clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, ordaining that no State shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. But it would seem from its opinion that the court holds that property loses something of its private character when employed in such a way as to be generally useful. The doctrine declared is that property "becomes clothed with a public interest when used in a manner to make it of public consequence, and affect the community at large;" and from such clothing the right of the legislature is deduced to control the use of the property, and to determine the compensation which the owner may receive for it. When Sir Matthew Hale, and the sages of the law in his day, spoke of property as affected by a public interest, and ceasing from that cause to be juris privati solely, that is,

1 ceasing to be held merely in private right, they referred to property dedicated by the owner to public uses, or to
 2 property the use of which was granted by the government, or in connection with which special privileges were
 3 conferred. Unless the property was thus dedicated, or some right bestowed by the government was held with the
 4 property, either by specific grant or by prescription of so long a time as 140*140 to imply a grant originally, the
 5 property was not affected by any public interest so as to be taken out of the category of property held in private right.

6 But it is not in any such sense that the terms "clothing property with a public interest" are used in this case. From the nature
 7 of the business under consideration — the storage of grain — which, in any sense in which the words can be used, is a private
 8 business, in which the public are interested only as they are interested in the storage of other products of the soil, or in articles
 9 of manufacture, it is clear that the court intended to declare that, whenever one devotes his property to a business which is
 10 useful to the public, — "affects the community at large," — the legislature can regulate the compensation which the owner
 11 may receive for its use, and for his own services in connection with it. "When, therefore," says the court, "one devotes his 12 property to a use in which the public has an interest, he, in effect, grants to the public an interest in that use, and must submit
 13 to be controlled by the public for the common good, to the extent of the interest he has thus created. He may withdraw his 14 grant by discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The building used by the 15 defendants was for the storage of grain: in such storage, says the court, the public has an interest; therefore the defendants,
 16 by devoting the building to that storage, have granted the public an interest in that use, and must submit to have their 17 compensation regulated by the legislature.

18 If this be sound law, if there be no protection, either in the principles upon which our republican government is
 19 founded, or in the prohibitions of the Constitution against such invasion of private rights, all property and all business
 20 in the State are held at the mercy of a majority of its legislature. The public has no greater interest in the use of buildings
 21 for the storage of grain than it has in the use of buildings for the residences of families, nor, indeed, anything like so great an
 22 interest; and, according to the doctrine announced, the legislature may fix the rent of all tenements used for residences, without
 23 reference to the cost of their erection. If the owner does not like the rates prescribed, he may cease renting his houses. He has 24 granted to the public, says the court, an interest in the use of the 141*141 buildings, and "he may withdraw his grant by 25 discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The public is interested in the 26 manufacture of cotton, woollen, and silken fabrics, in the construction of machinery, in the printing and publication of books
 27 and periodicals, and in the making of utensils of every variety, useful and ornamental; indeed, there is hardly an enterprise
 28 or business engaging the attention and labor of any considerable portion of the community, in which the public has
 29 not an interest in the sense in which that term is used by the court in its opinion; and the doctrine which allows the
 30 legislature to interfere with and regulate the charges which the owners of property thus employed shall make for its 31 use, that is, the rates at which all these different kinds of business shall be carried on, has never before been asserted,
 32 so far as I am aware, by any judicial tribunal in the United States.

33 The doctrine of the State court, that no one is deprived of his property, within the meaning of the constitutional
 34 inhibition, so long as he retains its title and possession, and the doctrine of this court, that, whenever one's property
 35 is used in such a manner as to affect the community at large, it becomes by that fact clothed with a public interest,
 36 and ceases to be juris privati only, appear to me to destroy, for all useful purposes, the efficacy of the constitutional
 37 guaranty. All that is beneficial in property arises from its use, and the fruits of that use; and whatever deprives a
 38 person of them deprives him of all that is desirable or valuable in the title and possession. If the constitutional guaranty
 39 extends no further than to prevent a deprivation of title and possession, and allows a deprivation of use, and the fruits
 40 of that use, it does not merit the encomiums it has received. Unless I have misread the history of the provision now
 41 incorporated into all our State constitutions, and by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments into our Federal Constitution, and 42 have misunderstood the interpretation it has received, it is not thus limited in its scope, and thus impotent for good. It has a
 43 much more extended operation than either court, State, or Federal has given to it. The provision, it is to be observed,
 44 places property under the same protection as life and liberty. Except by due process of law, no State can 142*142
 45 deprive any person of either. The provision has been supposed to secure to every individual the essential conditions
 46 for the pursuit of happiness; and for that reason has not been heretofore, and should never be, construed in any 47 narrow or restricted sense.

48 No State "shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law," says the Fourteenth Amendment
 49 to the Constitution. By the term "life," as here used, something more is meant than mere animal existence. The inhibition
 50 against its deprivation extends to all those limbs and faculties by which life is enjoyed. The provision equally prohibits the 51 mutilation of the body by the amputation of an arm or leg, or the putting out of an eye, or the destruction of any other organ
 52 of the body through which the soul communicates with the outer world. The deprivation not only of life, but of whatever God
 53 has given to everyone with life, for its growth and enjoyment, is prohibited by the provision in question, if its efficacy be not 54 frittered away by judicial decision.

1 By the term "liberty," as used in the provision, something more is meant than mere freedom from physical restraint or the
 2 bounds of a prison. It means freedom to go where one may choose, and to act in such manner, not inconsistent with the equal
 3 rights of others, as his judgment may dictate for the promotion of his happiness; that is, to pursue such callings and avocations
 4 as may be most suitable to develop his capacities, and give to them their highest enjoyment.

5 The same liberal construction which is required for the protection of life and liberty, in all particulars in which life
 6 and liberty are of any value, should be applied to the protection of private property. If the legislature of a State, under
 7 pretence of providing for the public good, or for any other reason, can determine, against the consent of the owner,
 8 the uses to which private property shall be devoted, or the prices which the owner shall receive for its uses, it can
 9 deprive him of the property as completely as by a special act for its confiscation or destruction. If, for instance, the 10 owner is prohibited from using his building for the purposes for which it was designed, it is of little consequence that
 11 he is permitted to retain the 143*143 title and possession; or, if he is compelled to take as compensation for its use less
 12 than the expenses to which he is subjected by its ownership, he is, for all practical purposes, deprived of the property,
 13 as effectually as if the legislature had ordered his forcible dispossession. If it be admitted that the legislature has any 14 control over the compensation, the extent of that compensation becomes a mere matter of legislative discretion. The 15 amount fixed will operate as a partial destruction of the value of the property, if it fall below the amount which the
 16 owner would obtain by contract, and, practically, as a complete destruction, if it be less than the cost of retaining its 17 possession. There is, indeed, no protection of any value under the constitutional provision, which does not extend to 18 the use and income of the property, as well as to its title and possession.

19 This court has heretofore held in many instances that a constitutional provision intended for the protection of rights of private 20 property should be liberally construed. It has so held in the numerous cases where it has been called upon to give effect to 21 the provision prohibiting the States from legislation impairing the obligation of contracts; the provision being construed to 22 secure from direct attack not only the contract itself, but all the essential incidents which give it value and enable its owner
 23 to enforce it. Thus, in Bronson v. Kinzie, reported in the 1st of Howard, it was held that an act of the legislature of Illinois,
 24 giving to a mortgagor twelve months within which to redeem his mortgaged property from a judicial sale, and prohibiting its
 25 sale for less than two-thirds of its appraised value, was void as applied to mortgages executed prior to its passage. It was 26 contended, in support of the act, that it affected only the remedy of the mortgagee, and did not impair the contract; but the 27 court replied that there was no substantial difference between a retrospective law declaring a particular contract to be
 28 abrogated and void, and one which took away all remedy to enforce it, or encumbered the remedy with conditions that 29 rendered it useless or impracticable to pursue it. And, referring to the constitutional provision, the court said, speaking through 30 Mr. Chief Justice Taney, that

31 "it would be unjust to the memory of the distinguished men who framed it, to suppose that it was designed to 32 *protect a mere barren and 144*144 abstract right, without any practical operation upon the business of life. It*
 33 was undoubtedly adopted as a part of the Constitution for a great and useful purpose. It was to maintain the 34 integrity of contracts, and to secure their faithful execution throughout this Union, by placing them under the 35 protection of the Constitution of the United States. And it would but Ill. become this court, under any 36 circumstances, to depart from the plain meaning of the words used, and to sanction a distinction between the 37 right and the remedy, which would render this provision illusive and nugatory, mere words of form, affording no
 38 protection and producing no practical result."

39 And in Pumpelly v. Green Bay Company, 13 Wall. 177, the language of the court is equally emphatic. That case arose in 40 Wisconsin, the constitution of which declares, like the constitutions of nearly all the States, that private property shall not be 41 taken for public use without just compensation; and this court held that the flooding of one's land by a dam constructed across
 42 a river under a law of the State was a taking within the prohibition, and required compensation to be made to the owner of 43 the land thus flooded. The court, speaking through Mr. Justice Miller, said: —

44 "It would be a very curious and unsatisfactory result, if, in construing a provision of constitutional law, always 45 understood to have been adopted for protection and security to the rights of the individual as against the 46 government, and which has received the commendation of jurists, statesmen, and commentators, as placing the
 47 just principles of the common law on that subject beyond the power of ordinary legislation to change or control
 48 them, it shall be held that, if the government refrains from the absolute conversion of real property to the uses of
 49 the public, it can destroy its value entirely, can inflict irreparable and permanent injury to any extent, can, in
 50 effect, subject it to total destruction without making any compensation, because, in the narrowest sense of the
 51 word, it is not taken for the public use. Such a construction would pervert the constitutional provision into a
 52 restriction on the rights of the citizen, as those rights stood at the common law, instead of the government, and 53 make it an authority for invasion of private right under the pretext of the public good, which had no warrant
 54 in the laws or practices of our ancestors."

1 The views expressed in these citations, applied to this case, would render the constitutional provision invoked by the
2 defendants effectual to protect them in the uses, income, and revenues of their property, as well as in its title and
3 possession. The construction actually given by the State court and by this court makes the provision, in the language
4 of Taney, a protection to "a mere barren and abstract right, without any practical operation upon the business of
5 life," and renders it "illusive and nugatory, mere words of form, affording no protection and producing no practical
6 result."

7 The power of the State over the property of the citizen under the constitutional guaranty is well defined. The State may take
8 his property for public uses, upon just compensation being made therefor. It may take a portion of his property by way of 9 taxation for the support of the government. It may control the use and possession of his property, so far as may be necessary
10 for the protection of the rights of others, and to secure to them the equal use and enjoyment of their property. The doctrine
11 that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas — is the rule by
12 which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation essential to secure this common
13 and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases where property may be destroyed to 14 arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the pressure of an immediate and overwhelming
15 necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over the property of the citizen does not extend beyond 16 such limits.

17 It is true that the legislation which secures to all protection in their rights, and the equal use and enjoyment of their property,
18 embraces an almost infinite variety of subjects. Whatever affects the peace, good order, morals, and health of the community,
19 comes within its scope; and every one must use and enjoy his property subject to the restrictions which such legislation
20 imposes. What is termed the police power of the State, which, from the language often used respecting it, one would suppose 21 to be an undefined and irresponsible element in government, can only interfere with the conduct of individuals in their
22 intercourse with each other, and in the use of their property, so far 146*146 as may be required to secure these objects. The
23 compensation which the owners of property, not having any special rights or privileges from the government in
24 connection with it, may demand for its use, or for their own services in union with it, forms no element of consideration
25 in prescribing regulations for that purpose. If one construct a building in a city, the State, or the municipality exercising a
26 delegated power from the State, may require its walls to be of sufficient thickness for the uses intended; it may forbid the 27 employment of inflammable materials in its construction, so as not to endanger the safety of his neighbors; if designed as a
28 theatre, church, or public hall, it may prescribe ample means of egress, so as to afford facility for escape in case of accident;
29 it may forbid the storage in it of powder, nitro-glycerine, or other explosive material; it may require its occupants daily to
30 remove decayed vegetable and animal matter, which would otherwise accumulate and engender disease; it may exclude from
31 it all occupations and business calculated to disturb the neighborhood or infect the air. Indeed, there is no end of regulations
32 with respect to the use of property which may not be legitimately prescribed, having for their object the peace, good order,
33 safety, and health of the community, thus securing to all the equal enjoyment of their property; but in establishing these
34 regulations it is evident that compensation to the owner for the use of his property, or for his services in union with it, is not
35 a matter of any importance: whether it be one sum or another does not affect the regulation, either in respect to its utility or
36 mode of enforcement. One may go, in like manner, through the whole round of regulations authorized by legislation, State
37 or municipal, under what is termed the police power, and in no instance will he find that the compensation of the owner for 38 the use of his property has any influence in establishing them. It is only where some right or privilege is conferred by the 39 government or municipality upon the owner, which he can use in connection with his property, or by means of which 40 the use of his property is rendered more valuable to him, or he thereby enjoys an advantage over others, that the 41 compensation to be received by him becomes a legitimate matter of regulation. Submission to the regulation of 42 compensation in such cases is an implied condition 147*147 of the grant, and the State, in exercising its power of 43 prescribing the compensation, only determines the conditions upon which its concession shall be enjoyed. When the 44 privilege ends, the power of regulation ceases.

45 Jurists and writers on public law find authority for the exercise of this police power of the State and the numerous regulations
46 which it prescribes in the doctrine already stated, that everyone must use and enjoy his property consistently with the rights
47 of others, and the equal use and enjoyment by them of their property. "The police power of the State," says the Supreme 48 Court of Vermont, "extends to the protection of the lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection
49 of all property in the State. According to the maxim, sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas, which, being of universal application,
50 it must, of course, be within the range of legislative action to define the mode and manner in which every one may so use his
51 own as not to injure others." Thorpe v. Rutland & Burlington Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 149. "We think it a settled principle
52 growing out of the nature of well-ordered civil society," says the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, "that every holder of 53 property, however absolute and unqualified may be his title, holds it under the implied liability that his use of it shall not be
54 injurious to the equal enjoyment of others having an equal right to the enjoyment of their property, nor injurious to the rights

1 of the community." Commonwealth v. Alger, 7 Cush. 84. In his Commentaries, after speaking of the protection afforded by
2 the Constitution to private property, Chancellor Kent says: —

3 "But though property be thus protected, it is still to be understood that the law-giver has the right to prescribe
4 the mode and manner of using it, so far as may be necessary to prevent the abuse of the right, to the injury or
5 annoyance of others, or of the public. The government may, by general regulations, interdict such uses of property
6 as would create nuisances and become dangerous to the lives, or health, or peace, or comfort of the citizens.
7 Unwholesome trades, slaughter-houses, operations offensive to the senses, the deposit of powder, the application
8 of steam-power to propel cars, the building with combustible materials, and the burial of the dead, may all be
9 *interdicted by law, in the-midst of dense masses of population, 148*148 on the general and rational principle*
10 that every person ought so to use his property as not to injure his neighbors, and that private interests must be
11 made subservient to the general interests of the community. 2 Kent, 340.

12 The Italics in these citations are mine. The citations show what I have already stated to be the case, that the regulations which 13 the State, in the exercise of its police power, authorizes with respect to the use of property are entirely independent of any 14 question of compensation for such use, or for the services of the owner in connection with it.

15 There is nothing in the character of the business of the defendants as warehousemen which called for the interference
16 complained of in this case. Their buildings are not nuisances; their occupation of receiving and storing grain infringes upon 17 no rights of others, disturbs no neighborhood, infects not the air, and in no respect prevents others from using and enjoying
18 their property as to them may seem best. The legislation in question is nothing less than a bold assertion of absolute
19 power by the State to control at its discretion the property and business of the citizen, and fix the compensation he 20 shall receive. The will of the legislature is made the condition upon which the owner shall receive the fruits of his 21 property and the just reward of his labor, industry, and enterprise. "That government," says Story, "can scarcely be
22 deemed to be free where the rights of property are left solely dependent upon the will of a legislative body without any
23 restraint. The fundamental maxims of a free government seem to require that the rights of personal liberty and private 24 property should be held sacred." Wilkeson v. Leland, 2 Pet. 657. The decision of the court in this case gives 25 unrestrained license to legislative will.

26 The several instances mentioned by counsel in the argument and by the court in its opinion, in which legislation has fixed the 27 compensation which parties may receive for the use of their property and services, do not militate against the views I have
28 expressed of the power of the State over the property of the citizen. They were mostly cases of public ferries, bridges, and 29 turnpikes, of wharfingers, hackmen, and draymen, and of interest on money. In all these cases, except that of interest on 30 money, which I shall presently notice there was some special 149*149 privilege granted by the State or municipality; and no
31 one, I suppose, has ever contended that the State had not a right to prescribe the conditions upon which such privilege should 32 be enjoyed. The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own
33 property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being stated or 34 implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement. The recipient of 35 the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited the privilege conferred, its
36 acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for it. The privilege which the hackman
37 and drayman have to the use of stands on the public streets, not allowed to the ordinary coachman or laborer with teams,
38 constitutes a sufficient warrant for the regulation of their fares. In the case of the warehousemen of Chicago, no right or 39 privilege is conferred by the government upon them; and hence no assent of theirs can be alleged to justify any interference
40 with their charges for the use of their property.

41 The quotations from the writings of Sir Matthew Hale, so far from supporting the positions of the court, do not recognize the 42 interference of the government, even to the extent which I have admitted to be legitimate. They state merely that the franchise
43 of a public ferry belongs to the king, and cannot be used by the subject except by license from him, or prescription time out
44 of mind; and that when the subject has a public wharf by license from the king, or from having dedicated his private wharf
45 to the public, as in the case of a street opened by him through his own land, he must allow the use of the wharf for reasonable
46 and moderate charges. Thus, in the first quotation which is taken from his treatise De Jure Maris, Hale says that the king has

47 "a right of franchise or privilege, that no man may set up a common ferry for all passengers without a prescription
48 time out of mind or a charter from the king. He may make a ferry for his own use or the use of his family, but not
49 for the common use of all the king's subjects passing that way; because it doth in consequent tend to a common
50 *charge, and is become a thing of public interest and use, and every man for his passage 150*150 pays a toll,*
51 which is a common charge, and every ferry ought to be under a public regulation, viz., that it give attendance at 52 due times, keep a boat in due order, and take but reasonable toll; for if he fail in these he is finable."

1 Of course, one who obtains a license from the king to establish a public ferry, at which "every man for his passage pays a
2 toll," must take it on condition that he charge only reasonable toll, and, indeed, subject to such regulations as the king may 3 prescribe.

4 In the second quotation, which is taken from his treatise De Portibus Maris, Hale says: —

5 "A man, for his own private advantage, may, in a port or town, set up a wharf or crane, and may take what rates
6 he and his customers can agree for crannage, wharfage, housellage, pesage; for he doth no more than is lawful
7 for any man to do, viz., makes the most of his own. If the king or subject have a public wharf, unto which all
8 persons that come to that port must come and unlade or lade their goods as for the purpose, because they are the
9 wharves only licensed by the king, or because there is no other wharf in that port, as it may fall out where a port
10 is newly erected, in that case there cannot be taken arbitrary and excessive duties for crannage, wharfage, pesage,
11 &c.; neither can they be enhanced to an immoderate rate, but the duties must be reasonable and moderate, though
12 settled by the king's license or charter. For now the wharf and crane and other conveniences are affected with a
13 public interest, and they cease to be juris privati only; as if a man set out a street in new building on his own land,
14 it is now no longer bare private interest, but is affected by the public interest."

15 The purport of which is, that if one have a public wharf, by license from the government or his own dedication, he must exact
16 only reasonable compensation for its use. By its dedication to public use, a wharf is as much brought under the common-law
17 rule of subjection to reasonable charges as it would be if originally established or licensed by the crown. All property
18 dedicated to public use by an individual owner, as in the case of land for a park or street, falls at once, by force of the 19 dedication, under the law governing property appropriated by the government for similar purposes.

20 I do not doubt the justice of the encomiums passed upon Sir 151*151 Matthew Hale as a learned jurist of his day; but I am
21 unable to perceive the pertinency of his observations upon public ferries and public wharves, found in his treatises on "The 22 Rights of the Sea" and on "The Ports of the Sea," to the questions presented by the warehousing law of Illinois, undertaking
23 to regulate the compensation received by the owners of private property, when that property is used for private purposes.

24 The principal authority cited in support of the ruling of the court is that of Alnutt v. Inglis, decided by the King's Bench, and
25 reported in 12 East. But that case, so far from sustaining the ruling, establishes, in my judgment, the doctrine that everyone
26 has a right to charge for his property, or for its use, whatever he pleases, unless he enjoys in connection with it some right or
27 privilege from the government not accorded to others; and even then it only decides what is above stated in the quotations
28 from Sir Matthew Hale, that he must submit, so long as he retains the right or privilege, to reasonable rates. In that case, the 29 London Dock Company, under certain acts of Parliament, possessed the exclusive right of receiving imported goods into 30 their warehouses before the duties were paid; and the question was whether the company was bound to receive them for a
31 reasonable reward, or whether it could arbitrarily fix its compensation. In deciding the case, the Chief Justice, Lord
32 Ellenborough, said: —

33 "There is no doubt that the general principle is favored, both in law and justice, that every man may fix what
34 price he pleases upon his own property, or the use of it; but if, for a particular purpose, the public have a right
35 to resort to his premises and make use of them, and he have a monopoly in them for that purpose, if he will take
36 the benefit of that monopoly, he must, as an equivalent, perform the duty attached to it on reasonable terms."

37 And, coming to the conclusion that the company's warehouses were invested with "the monopoly of a public privilege," he 38 held that by law the company must confine itself to take reasonable rates; and added, that if the crown should thereafter think
39 it advisable to extend the privilege more generally to other persons and places, so that the public would not be restrained from
40 exercising a choice of warehouses for the purpose, the company might be enfranchised from the restriction which 152*152
41 attached to a monopoly; but, so long as its warehouses were the only places which could be resorted to for that purpose, the 42 company was bound to let the trade have the use of them for a reasonable hire and reward. The other judges of the court
43 placed their concurrence in the decision upon the ground that the company possessed a legal monopoly of the business, having 44 the only warehouses where goods imported could be lawfully received without previous payment of the duties. From this 45 case it appears that it is only where some privilege in the bestowal of the government is enjoyed in connection with the 46 property, that it is affected with a public interest in any proper sense of the terms. It is the public privilege conferred with the 47 use of the property which creates the public interest in it.

48 In the case decided by the Supreme Court of Alabama, where a power granted to the city of Mobile to license bakers, and to
49 regulate the weight and price of bread, was sustained so far as regulating the weight of the bread was concerned, no question
50 was made as to the right to regulate the price. 3 Ala. 137. There is no doubt of the competency of the State to prescribe the 51 weight of a loaf of bread, as it may declare what weight shall constitute a pound or a ton. But I deny the power of any 52 legislature under our government to fix the price which one shall receive for his property of any kind. If the power can be exercised as to one article, it may as to all articles, and the prices of everything, from a calico gown to a city mansion, may be the subject of legislative direction.

Other instances of a similar character may, no doubt, be cited of attempted legislative interference with the rights of property. The act of Congress of 1820, mentioned by the court, is one of them. There Congress undertook to confer upon the city of Washington power to regulate the rates of wharfage at private wharves, and the fees for sweeping chimneys. Until some authoritative adjudication is had upon these and similar provisions, I must adhere, notwithstanding the legislation, to my opinion, that those who own property have the right to fix the compensation at which they will allow its use, and that those who control services have a right to fix the compensation at which they will be rendered. The chimney-sweeps may, I think, safely claim all the compensation which 153*153 they can obtain by bargain for their work. In the absence of any contract for property or services, the law allows only a reasonable price or compensation; but what is a reasonable price in any case will depend upon a variety of considerations, and is not a matter for legislative determination.

The practice of regulating by legislation the interest receivable for the use of money, when considered with reference to its origin, is only the assertion of a right of the government to control the extent to which a privilege granted by it may be exercised and enjoyed. By the ancient common law it was unlawful to take any money for the use of money; all who did so were called usurers, a term of great reproach, and were exposed to the censure of the church; and if, after the death of a person, it was discovered that he had been a usurer whilst living, his chattels were forfeited to the king, and his lands escheated to the lord of the fee. No action could be maintained on any promise to pay for the use of money, because of the unlawfulness of the contract. Whilst the common law thus condemned all usury, Parliament interfered, and made it lawful to take a limited amount of interest. It was not upon the theory that the legislature could arbitrarily fix the compensation which one could receive for the use of property, which, by the general law, was the subject of hire for compensation, that Parliament acted, but in order to confer a privilege which the common law denied. The reasons which led to this legislation originally have long since ceased to exist; and if the legislation is still persisted in, it is because a long acquiescence in the exercise of a power, especially when it was rightfully assumed in the first instance, is generally received as sufficient evidence of its continued lawfulness. 10 Bac. Abr. 264.]***

There were also recognized in England, by the ancient common law, certain privileges as belonging to the lord of the manor, which grew out of the state of the country, the condition of the people, and the relation existing between him and 154*154 his tenants under the feudal system. Among these was the right of the lord to compel all the tenants within his manor to grind their corn at his mill. No one, therefore, could set up a mill except by his license, or by the license of the crown, unless he claimed the right by prescription, which presupposed a grant from the lord or crown, and, of course, with such license went the right to regulate the tolls to be received. Woolrych on the Law of Waters, c. 6, of Mills. Hence originated the doctrine which at one time obtained generally in this country, that there could be no mill to grind corn for the public, without a grant or license from the public authorities. It is still, I believe, asserted in some States. This doctrine being recognized, all the rest followed. The right to control the toll accompanied the right to control the establishment of the mill.

It requires no comment to point out the radical differences between the cases of public mills and interest on money, and that of the warehouses in Chicago. No prerogative or privilege of the crown to establish warehouses was ever asserted at the common law. The business of a warehouseman was, at common law, a private business and is so in its nature. It has no special privileges connected with it, nor did the law ever extend to it any greater protection than it extended to all other private business. No reason can be assigned to justify legislation interfering with the legitimate profits of that business, that would not equally justify an intermeddling with the business of every man in the community, so soon, at least, as his business became generally useful.

5.6.12.4.13 The public office is a "fiction of law"

The fictitious public office and "trade or business" to which all the government's enforcement rights attach is called a "fiction of law" by some judges. Here is the definition:

"Fiction of law. An assumption or supposition of law that something which is or may be false is true, or that a state of facts exists which has never really taken place. An assumption [PRESUMPTION], for purposes of justice, of a fact that does not or may not exist. A rule of law which assumes as true, and will not allow to be disproved, something which is false, but not impossible. Ryan v. Motor Credit Co., 30 N.J.Eq. 531, 23 A.2d. 607, 621. These assumptions are of an innocent or even beneficial character, and are made for the advancement of the ends of justice. They secure this end chiefly by the extension of procedure from cases to which it is applicable to other cases to which it is not strictly applicable, the ground of inapplicability being some difference of an immaterial character. See also Legal fiction."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 623]

The key elements of all fictions of law from the above are:

1. A PRESUMPTION of the existence or truth of an otherwise nonexistent thing.
2. The presumptions are of an INNOCENT or BENEFICIAL character.
3. The presumptions are made for the advancement of the ends of justice.
4. All of the above goals are satisfied against BOTH parties to the dispute, not just the government. Otherwise the constitutional requirement for equal protection and equal treatment has been transgressed.

The fictitious public office that forms the heart of the modern SCAM income tax clearly does not satisfy the elements for being a "fiction of law" because:

1. All presumptions that violate due process of law or result in an injury to EITHER party affected by the presumption are unconstitutional. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. The presumption does not benefit BOTH parties to a dispute that involves it. It ONLY benefits the government at the expense of innocent nontaxpayers and EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE parties.
3. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office does NOT advance justice for BOTH parties who to any dispute involving it. The legal definition of justice is the RIGHT TO BE LEFT ALONE. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office ensures that those who do not want to volunteer for the office but who are the subject of FALSE information returns are NEVER left alone and are continually harassed illegally by the IRS. Here is the legal definition of "justice" so you can see for yourself:

"PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly's translation), chap. 9.

Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others [INCLUDING us], and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right."

[Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

Therefore it is clearly a CRUEL FRAUD for any judge to justify his PRESUMPTION of the existence of the BOGUS public office that is the subject of the excise tax by calling it a "fiction of law".

If you want to see an example of WHY this fiction of law was created as a way to usurp jurisdiction, read the following U.S. Supreme Court cite:

"It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one man, by his own act, renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man, who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial authorities of the State and the general government. Anything which can prevent a Federal Officer from the punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt, as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction of the King's Bench universal in all personal actions."

[United States v. Worrall, 2 U.S. 384 (1798)]

SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=3339893669697439168/

The reason for the controversy in the above case was that the bribe occurred on state land by a nonresident domiciled in the state, and therefore that federal law did not apply. In the above case, the court admitted that a "fiction" was resorted to usurp jurisdiction because no legal authority could be found. The fact that the defendant was in custody created the jurisdiction. It

1 didn't exist before they KIDNAPPED him. Notice also that they mention an implied "compact" or contract related to the
 2 office being exercised, and that THAT compact was the source of their jurisdiction over the officer who was bribed. This is
 3 the SAME contract to which all those who engage in a statutory "trade or business" are party to.

4 5.6.12.5 Introduction to the Law of Agency<sup>207</sup>

5 A very important subject to learn is the law of agency. This law is intimately related to franchises because:

- 6 1. All franchises are contracts or agreements.
- 7 2. Contracts produce agency.
- 8 3. Agency, in turn, is how:
  - 9 3.1. PRIVATE property is converted to PUBLIC property.
  - 10 3.2. Public rights are associated with otherwise private individuals.
- 11 4. Civil statuses such as "taxpayer", "person", "spouse", "driver" are the method of representing the existence of the 12 agency created by contracts and franchises.

13 In the following subsections, we will summarize the law of agency so that you can see how franchises implement it and 14 thereby adversely impact and take away your PRIVATE rights by converting them to PUBLIC rights, often without your 15 knowledge. Exploitation of the ignorance of the average American about this subject is the main method that governments
 16 use to unwittingly recruit more taxpayers, surety for government debt, and public officers called "citizens" and "residents".

17 If you would like to study the law of agency from a legal perspective, please read the following exhaustive free treatise at 18 Archive.org, which we used in preparing the subsections which follow:

 1902

19 5.6.12.5.1 Agency generally

20 Entire legal treatises hundreds of pages in length have been written about the laws of agency. To save you the trouble of 21 reading them, we summarize the basics below:

- 22 1. The great bulk of trade and commerce in the world is carried on through the instrumentality of agents; that is to say,
 23 persons acting under authority delegated to them by others, and not in their own right or on their own account.
- 24 2. Parties: There are two parties involved in agency:
  - 25 2.1. The principal, who is the person delegating the authority or consent.
  - 26 2.2. The agent, who is the person receiving the authority.
- 27 3. Who is a principal: A person of sound independent mind who delegates authority to the agent. He is legally 28 responsible or liable for the acts of the agent, so long as the agent is doing a lawful act authorized by the principal in 29 his/her sui juris capacity.
- 30 4. Who is an agent: An agent-- sometimes called servant, representative, delegate, proxy, attorney-- is a person who 31 undertakes, by some subsequent ratification of the principal, to transact some business or manage some affair for the 32 latter, and to render an account of it. He is a substitute for a person, employed to manage the affairs of another. He is a
 33 person duly authorized to act on behalf of another, or one whose unauthorized act has been duly ratified. There are 34 various classes of agents, each of which is known or recognized by some distinctive appellation or name; as factor, 35 broker, employee, representative, etc.
- 36 5. What is agency: A legal relation, founded upon the express or implied contract of the parties, or created by law, by 37 virtue of which one party—the agent—is employed or authorized to represent and act for the other—the principal—in 38 business dealings with third persons.
- 39 6. Agency is usually acquired by contract. Contracts are not enforceable without consideration. Therefore, to prove that 40 the agency was lawfully created, the principal has the burden of proving that the Agent received "consideration" or 41 "benefit" not as the PRINCIPAL defines it, but as the AGENT defines it. We cover this in:

The Government "Benefits" Scam, Form #05.040

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7. Fundamental Principles of Agency: The fundamental principles of the law agency are:
  - 7.1. Whatever a person does through another, he does through himself.
  - 7.2. He who does not act through the medium of another is, in law, considered as having done it himself.
  - 7.3. Those who act through agents must have the legal capacity to do so. That is:
    - 7.3.1. Lunatics, infants, and idiots cannot delegate authority to someone to manage affairs that they themselves are incapable of managing personally.
    - 7.3.2. Those who delegate authority must be of legal age.
    - 7.3.3. The act to be delegated must be lawful. You cannot enforce a contract that delegates authority to commit a crime.
  - 7.4. The principal is usually liable for the acts of his agent. He is not liable in all cases for the torts of his agent or employee, but only for those acts committed in the course of the agency or employment; while the agent himself is, in such cases, for reasons of public policy, also liable for the same. Broom Legal Maxims 843.
  - 7.5. Those who receive the "benefits" of agency have a reciprocal duty to suffer the obligations also associated with it.
8. Each specific form of agency we voluntarily and explicitly accept has a specific civil status associated with it in the civil statutory law. Such statuses include:
  - 8.1. "Taxpayer" under the tax code.
  - 8.2. "Driver" under the vehicle code.
  - 8.3. "Spouse" under the family code.
9. Certain types of agency and the obligations attached to the agency may not be enforceable in court between the parties. These include:
  - 9.1. Agency to commit a crime. This is called a conspiracy.
  - 9.2. An alienation by the principle of an INALIENABLE right. This includes any surrender of constitutional rights by a state citizen protected by the Constitution to any government, even with consent.

5.6.12.5.2 Agency within the Bible

God is a spiritual being who most people have never seen in physical form. As such, to influence the affairs of this physical Earth, He must act through His agents. Those agents are called believers, Christians, "god's family", etc. in the case of Christianity. The law of agency governs His acts and the consequences of those acts as He influences the affairs of this Earth. This chapter will therefore summarize the law of agency so that it can be applied to the Bible, which we will regard in this document as a delegation order that circumscribes the exercise of God's agency on Earth by believers.

It is very important to study and know the law of agency, because the Bible itself is in fact a delegation of authority from God to believers. That delegation of authority occurred when God created the Earth in the book of Genesis and commanded Adam and Eve to have dominion over the Earth:

Then God said, "Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth." So God created man in His own image; in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them. Then God blessed them, and God said to them, "Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and subdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over every living thing that moves on the earth."

[Gen. 1:26-28, Bible, NKJV]

Now some facts as we understand them about agency in the Bible:

1. God describes himself as Law itself:

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God. All things were made through Him, and without Him nothing was made that was made. In Him was life, and the life was the light of men. And the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it.

[John 1:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

2. Those who sin are what Jesus called "lawless". Matt. 7:23. The word "sin" in Latin means "without". The thing that people who sin are "without" is the authority of God and His laws.
3. The "Kingdom of Heaven" is defined in scripture as "God's will displayed on Earth". See:

"Kingdom of Heaven" Defined in Scripture, Exhibit #01.014

4. Christians are "subjects" in the "Kingdom of Heaven". Psalm 47:7. A "subject" is an agent and franchise of a specific "king".
5. The Kingdom of Heaven is a private corporation and franchise created and granted by God and not Caesar. As such, those who are members of it owe nothing to Caesar to receive the "benefits" of participation in it. The creator of a thing is always the owner. See:

Hierarchy of Sovereignty: The Power to Create is the Power to Tax, Family Guardian Fellowship

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/PowerToCreate.htm>

6. Those who are acting as agents of God are referred to as being "in Him". By that we mean they are legally rather than physically WITHIN the corporation of the Kingdom of Heaven as agents and officers of God in Heaven.

"My mother and My brothers are these who hear the word of God and do it."

[\[Luke 8:21, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"He who has [understands and learns] My commandments [laws in the Bible (OFFSITE LINK)] and keeps them, it is he who loves Me. And he who loves Me will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him."

[\[John 14:21, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"And we have known and believed the love that God has for us. God is love, and he who abides in love [obedience to God's Laws] abides in [and is a FIDUCIARY of] God, and God in him."

[\[1 John 4:16, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

"Now by this we know that we know Him [God], if we keep His commandments. He who says, "I know Him," and does not keep His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But whoever keeps His word, truly the love of God is perfected in him. By this we know that we are in Him [His fiduciaries]. He who says he abides in Him [as a fiduciary] ought himself also to walk just as He [Jesus] walked."

[\[1 John 2:3-6, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

7. Those who accept God and become believers take on a new identity, which in effect is that of an agent and servant of God:

Character of the New Man

Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through Him.

[\[Colossians 3:12-17, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

The "one body" spoken of above is the private corporation called the "Kingdom of Heaven" to put it in legal terms. When it says "Let the word of Christ dwell in you", he means to follow your delegation order, which is God's word. When it says "do all in the name of the Lord Jesus", they mean that you are acting as an AGENT of the Lord Jesus 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If God gets the credit or the "benefit", then He is the REAL actor and responsible party under the law of agency.

8. While acting as "agents" or "servants" of God in strict conformance with God's delegation of authority order in the Bible, the party liable for the consequences of those acts is the Master or Principal of the agency under the law of agency, which means God and not the person doing the act.
9. The phrase "free exercise of religion" found in the First Amendment refers to our right and ability to be faithful agents of God, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
  - 9.1. Any attempt to interfere with the exercise of that agency is an interference of your right to contract.
  - 9.2. Any attempt to command agents of God to violate their delegation order is a violation of the First Amendment. This includes commanding believers to do what God forbids or forbidding them to do what God commands.
10. The law of agency allows that one can fulfill multiple agencies simultaneously. You can be a father, brother, son, employer, employee, taxpayer, citizen (even of multiple countries) all simultaneously, but in different contexts and in relation to different people or "persons". HOWEVER, the Bible forbids Christians from simultaneously being

1 “subjects” under His law and “subjects” under the civil laws of Caesar. The reason is clear. It creates criminal conflict
2 of interest and conflicting allegiances:

3 *“No one can serve two masters [two Kings or rulers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the 4 other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”
5 [Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]*

6 11. The First Commandment of the Ten Commandments states that we shall not “serve other gods”, meaning idols. To 7 “serve” another god literally means to act as the AGENT of that false god or idol. When you execute the will of 8 another, and especially an EVIL other, you are an agent of that other. Its unavoidable.

9 12. All agency begins with an act of consent, contract, or agreement.

10 12.1. Agency cannot lawfully be created WITHOUT consent.

11 12.2. Since God forbids us from becoming agents of false gods or idols and thereby “serving” them in violation of the 12 First Commandment, He therefore also forbids us from legally allowing or creating that agency by consenting or 13 exercising our right to contract.

14 “My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,

15 Do not consent [do not abuse your power of choice]

16 If they say, “Come with us,

17 Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent “nontaxpayers”];

18 Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;

19 Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,

20 And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:

21 We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];

22 Cast in your lot among us,

23 Let us all have one purse [the GOVERNMENT socialist purse, and share the stolen LOOT]”--

24 My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don't let the government

25 FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a “taxpayer”/government whore or a

30 Surely, in vain the net is spread

31 In the sight of any bird;

32 But they lie in wait for their own blood.

37 “You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan

39 becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against
40 Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely
41 be a snare to you.”

42 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

43 “Awake, awake, O Zion, clothe yourself with strength. Put on your garments of splendor, O Jerusalem, the holy

48 [Isaiah 52:1-3, Bible, NKJV]

50 “I [God] brought you up from Egypt [slavery] and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and 51 I said, ‘I will never break My covenant with you. And you shall make no covenant [contract or franchise or 52 agreement of ANY kind] with the inhabitants of this [corrupt pagan] land; you shall tear down their

54 “Therefore I also said, ‘I will not drive them out before you; but they will become as thorns [terrorists and 55 persecutors] in your side and their gods will be a snare [slavery!] to you.’”

56 So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up 57 their voices and wept.

58 [Judges 2:1-4, Bible, NKJV]

1                   'For among My [God's] people are found wicked [covetous public servant] men; They lie in wait as one who sets
 2 snare; They set a trap; They catch men. As a cage is full of birds, So their houses are full of deceit. Therefore
 3 they have become great and grown rich. They have grown fat, they are sleek; Yes, they surpass the deeds of the 4 wicked; They do not plead the cause, The cause of the fatherless [or the innocent, widows, or the nontaxpayer];
 5 Yet they prosper, And the right of the needy they do not defend. Shall I not punish them for these things?' says the 6 Lord. 'Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?'

7                   "An astonishing and horrible thing Has been committed in the land: The prophets prophesy falsely, And the
 8 priests [judges in franchise courts that worship government as a pagan deity] rule by their own power; And My 9 people love to have it so. But what will you do in the end?"
 10 [Jer. 5:26-31, Bible, NKJV]

11 13. We all sin, and when we do so, we are agents of Satan:

12 13.1. We are agents of Satan ONLY within the context of that specific sin, and not ALL contexts. Below is a 13 commentary on Luke 4:7 which demonstrates this:

14                   Wilt worship before me (προσκυνησῃς ἐνώπιον ἐμοῦ [proskunēsēis enōpion emou]). Matt. 4:9 has it more bluntly
 15 "worship me." That is what it really comes to, though in Luke the matter is more delicately put. It is a condition
 16 of the third class (ἐάν [ean] and the subjunctive). Luke has it "thou therefore if" (σὺ οὖν εἰάν [su oun ean]), in a
 17 very emphatic and subtle way. It is the ingressive aorist (προσκυνησῃς [proskunēsēis]), just bow the knee once
 18 up here in my presence. The temptation was for Jesus to admit Satan's authority by this act of prostration (fall
 19 down and worship), a recognition of authority rather than of personal merit. It shall all be thine (ἐστὶ σου πάντα
 20 *[estai sou pása]). Satan offers to turn over all the keys of world power to Jesus. It was a tremendous grand-
 21 stand play, but Jesus saw at once that in that case he would be the agent of Satan in the rule of the world by
 22 bargain and graft instead of the Son of God by nature and world ruler by conquest over Satan. The heart of* 23 Satan's program is here laid bare. Jesus here rejected the Jewish idea of the Messiah as an earthly ruler merely.
 24 "He rejects Satan as an ally, and thereby has him as an implacable enemy" (Plummer.)
 25 [Robertson, A. T. (1933). Word Pictures in the New Testament (Lk 4:7). Nashville, TN: Broadman Press]

26 13.2. Those who sin and therefore act as "agents of Satan" are separated or removed from the protection of God and 27 His Law. In effect, they have abandoned their office under His delegation order as Christians and are "off duty"
 28 acting in a private capacity rather than as an agent. They are serving or "worshipping" the ego of self rather than 29 a greater being above them.

30 14. When we do good, we are agents of God fulfilling our delegation of authority order in the Bible. That is why the Bible
 31 says to do all for the glory of God RATHER than self.

32 15. Since we all sin and we all do good, then we serve both God and Satan at different times. In that sense, we are serving 33 God and Mammon at the same time, but in different contexts and in relation to different audiences. For instance:

34 15.1. When we serve government, we violate the First Commandment by "serving other gods" if that government has 35 any rights above our own or above that of any ordinary man. That's idolatry.

36 15.2. We are also sinning and therefore acting as agents of Satan if the government forces us to do things God forbids
 37 or NOT do things that He commands.

38 In other words, we are exceeding our delegation order and therefore are acting in a PRIVATE capacity and therefore 39 outside the protection of God's law and delegation order. This is EXACTLY the same mechanism that government
 40 uses to protect its own agents, and it's a cheap imitation of how God does the same thing.

41 If you would like an exhaustive treatise proving that the Bible is in fact a delegation of authority order from God to Christians,

43 5.6.12.5.3      Agency within government

44 The law of agency dictates the entire organization of government and the legal system it implements and enforces. For 45 instance:

- 46 1. The source of sovereignty is the People as individuals.
- 47 2. The People as individuals get together and act as a collective to agree on a Constitution. The will of the majority is 48 what delegates that authority.
- 49 3. The Constitution then delegates a portion of the sovereign powers of individual humans to public servants using the 50 Constitution.

4. The people then elect “representatives” in the Legislative Branch, who are their agents, to implement the declared intent of the Constitution.
5. The representatives of the people in the Legislative Branch then vote to enact civil statutory codes that implement the Constitution among those who are employed by the government as public servants.

[Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

“The reason why States are “bodies politic and corporate” is simple: just as a corporation is an entity that can act only through its agents. [If] the State is a political corporate body, can act only through agents, and can command only by laws.” Poindexter v. Greenhow, supra, 114 U.S., at 288, 5 S.Ct. at 912-913. See also Black’s Law Dictionary 159 (5th ed. 1979) (“[B]ody politic or corporate”: “A social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good”). As a “body politic and corporate,” a State falls squarely within the Dictionary Act’s definition of a “person.”

[Will v. Michigan Dept. of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 109 S.Ct. 2304 (U.S.Mich.,1989)]

6. The civil statutory codes function in effect as a contract or compact that can and does impose duties only upon agents of the government called “citizens” and “residents”.
  - 6.1. Those who did not consent to BECOME agents of the government called “citizens” or “residents” are non-resident non-persons. They are protected by the Constitution and the common law, rather than the statutory civil law.
  - 6.2. Disputes between “citizens” or “residents” on the one hand, and non-resident non-persons on the other, must be governed by the common law, because otherwise a taking of property without just compensation has occurred in which the rights enforced by the civil law are the property STOLEN by those enforcing it against non-residents.
7. The Executive Branch then executes the statutes, which in effect are their “delegation order”.
  - 7.1. The first step in “executing” the statutes is to write interpretive regulations specifying how the statutes will be implemented.
  - 7.2. The interpretive regulations are then published in the Federal Register to give the public the constitutionally required “reasonable notice” of the obligations they create upon the public, if any.
  - 7.3. When the Executive Branch acts WITHIN the confines of their delegation order, they are agents of the state and are protected by official, judicial, and sovereign immunity.
  - 7.4. When the Executive Branch exceeds their delegation order in the statutes, they are deemed by the courts to be acting in a private capacity and therefore must surrender official, judicial, and sovereign immunity and come down to the level of an ordinary human who has committed a trespass.
8. The Judicial Branch then fulfills the role of arbitrating disputes:
  - 8.1. Under the civils statutory codes, we have disputes between:
    - 8.1.1. The Legislative and Executive Branch.
    - 8.1.2. The government and private humans.
    - 8.1.3. Two humans when they have injured each other.
  - 8.2. Under the constitution and the common law we have disputes between two EQUAL parties which have no duty to each other OTHER than that of “justice” itself, which is legally defined as the right to be left alone.

Some basic principles underlie the above chain of delegation of authority:

1. The People as individuals cannot delegate an authority to THE COLLECTIVE that they do not individually and personally have.

Nemo plus juris ad alienum transferre potest, quam ipse habet. One cannot transfer to another a right which he has not. Dig. 50, 17, 54; 10 Pet. 161, 175.

Nemo potest facere per alium quod per se non potest. No one can do that by another which he cannot do by himself.

Qui per alium facit per seipsum facere videtur. He who does anything through another, is considered as doing it himself. Co. Litt. 258.

1 Quicquid acquiritur servo, acquiritur domino. Whatever is acquired by the servant, is acquired for the master.
2 15 Bin. Ab. 327.

3 Quod per me non possum, nec per alium. What I cannot do in person, I cannot do by proxy [the Constitution]. 4
4 Co. 24.

5 What a man cannot transfer, he cannot bind by articles [the Constitution].

6 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE:
7 <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

- 8 2. The People as a collective cannot delegate an authority to a government through a Constitution that the people 9 individually and personally do not also have.
10 3. Those receiving an authority delegated through the Constitution have a fiduciary duty to the public they serve:

11 "As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be
12 exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. 208
13 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level
14 of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under
15 every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain
16 from a discharge of their trusts. 209 That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political
17 entity on whose behalf he or she serves. 210 and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. 211 It has been said that
18 the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. 212
19 Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public
20 confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy. 213 "
21 [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

- 22 4. The agent or public servant cannot be greater than or have more rights or powers than his master in the eyes of the law.
23 In other words, public servants and people they serve must be EQUAL in the eyes of the law at all times:

24 Remember the word that I [Jesus] said to you, "A [public] servant is not greater than his master." If they 25 persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also.
26 [John 15:20, Bible, NKJV]

- 27 5. The act of delegating specific authority from a private human with unalienable rights cannot cause a surrender of the 28 authority from whom it is delegated, because according to the Declaration of Independence, rights created by God and 29 bestowed upon human beings are UNALIENABLE, which means that you are legally incapable of surrendering them 30 entirely.

31 *"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator
32 with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure
33 these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,

5.6.12.5.4 Illegal uses of agency or compelled agency

1. Certain types of agency and the obligations attached to the agency may not be enforceable in court between the parties. Any attempt to enforce therefore constitutes a TORT and even in many cases a CRIME. These include:
  - 1.1. Agency to commit a crime. This is called a conspiracy.
  - 1.2. An alienation by the principle of an INALIENABLE right. This includes any surrender of constitutional rights by a state citizen protected by the Constitution to any government, even with consent.
2. Illegal uses of agency include:
  - 2.1. Duress: Duress occurs when someone is compelled to accept the duties of a specific civil status through threats, unlawful government enforcement, threats of unlawful enforcement, violence, or coercion of some kind. Examples include:
    - 2.1.1. Offering or enforcing franchises outside the exclusive territorial jurisdiction of a specific government. This is private business activity.
    - 2.1.2. Offering or enforcing franchises among those who are not eligible because their rights are Unalienable and therefore cannot lawfully be given away as per the Declaration of Independence.
    - 2.1.3. Tax collection notices sent to non-residents who are not statutory "taxpayers".
    - 2.1.4. Compelling people to fill out government applications signed under penalty of perjury that misrepresent their status. This is criminal witness tampering.
    - 2.1.5. Not providing a status block on every government form to offer "Other" or "Nonresident" or "Not subject but not statutorily exempt".
    - 2.1.6. Threatening to withhold private employment or commercial relations unless people declare a civil status in relation to government that they do not want. This is extortion.<sup>214</sup>
  - 2.2. Identity theft occurs when someone is associated with a civil status, usually on a government form or application, that they do not consent to have or which they cannot lawfully have. See:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
3. Duress: It is an important principle of law that when a party is under coercion or duress, the real actor is the SOURCE of the duress, and not the person forced to do the act. This principle also applies to those under the compulsion of a civil statute, as indicated by the U.S. Supreme Court in the State Action Doctrine:

For petitioner to recover under the substantive count of her complaint, she must show a deprivation of a right guaranteed to her by the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Since the 'action inhibited by the first section of the Fourteenth Amendment is only such action as may fairly be said to be that of the States,' Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1, 13, 68 S.Ct. 836, 842, 92 L.Ed. 1161 (1948), we must decide, for purposes of this case, the following 'state action' issue: Is there sufficient state action to prove a violation of petitioner's Fourteenth Amendment rights if she shows that Kress refused her service because of a state-enforced custom compelling segregation of the races in Hattiesburg restaurants?

In analyzing this problem, it is useful to state two polar propositions, each of which is easily identified and resolved. On the one hand, the Fourteenth Amendment plainly prohibits a State itself from discriminating because of race. On the other hand, § 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment does not forbid a private party, not acting against a backdrop of state compulsion or involvement, to discriminate on the basis of race in his personal affairs as an expression of his own personal predilections. As was said in Shelley v. Kraemer, supra, § 1 of '(t)hat Amendment erects no shield against merely private conduct, however discriminatory or wrongful.' 334 U.S., at 13, 68 S.Ct., at 842.

At what point between these two extremes a State's involvement in the refusal becomes sufficient to make the private refusal to serve a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, is far from clear under our case law. If a State had a law requiring a private person to refuse service because of race, it is clear beyond dispute that the law would violate the Fourteenth Amendment and could be declared invalid and enjoined from enforcement. Nor can a State enforce such a law requiring discrimination through either convictions of proprietors who refuse to discriminate, or trespass prosecutions of patrons who, after being denied service pursuant to such a law, refuse to honor a request to leave the premises.<sup>40</sup>

The question most relevant for this case, however, is a slightly different one. It is whether the decision of an owner of a restaurant to discriminate on the basis of race under the compulsion of state law offends the Fourteenth Amendment. Although this Court has not explicitly decided the Fourteenth Amendment state action issue implicit in this question, underlying the Court's decisions in the sit-in cases is the notion that a State is responsible for the discriminatory act of a private party when the State, by its law, has compelled the act.

the Court said in Peterson v. City of Greenville, 373 U.S. 244, 248, 83 S.Ct. 1119, 1121 (1963): 'When the State has commanded a particular result, it has saved to itself the power to determine that result and thereby 'to a significant extent' has 'become involved' in it.' Moreover, there is much support in lower court opinions for the conclusion that discriminatory acts by private parties done under the compulsion of state law offend the Fourteenth Amendment. In Baldwin v. Morgan, supra, the Fifth Circuit held that '(t)he very act of posting and maintaining separate (waiting room) facilities when done by the (railroad) Terminal as commanded by these state orders is action by the state.' The Court then went on to say: 'As we have pointed out above the State may not use race or color as the basis for distinction. It may not do so by direct action or through the medium of others who are under State compulsion to do so.' Id., 287 F.2d at 755—756 (emphasis added). We think the same principle governs here.

For state action purposes it makes no difference of course whether the racially discriminatory act by the private party is compelled by a statutory provision or by a custom having the force of law—in either case it is the State that has commanded the result by its law. Without deciding whether less substantial involvement of a State might satisfy the state action requirement of the Fourteenth Amendment, we conclude that petitioner would show an abridgement of her equal protection right, if she proves that Kress refused her service because of a state-enforced custom of segregating the races in public restaurants.

5.6.12.6 Synonyms for “trade or business”

Another important concept we need to be very aware of is that there are also synonyms for "trade or business" used within the Internal Revenue Code.

5.6.12.6.1.1 “wages”

The term "wages" is synonymous with a "trade or business". Below is the proof from 26 U.S.C. §3401, where it says that earnings not in the course of an employer's "trade or business" are exempted from "wages".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle C > CHAPTER 24 > § 3401
§ 3401. Definitions

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term “wages” means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid—

[. . .]

(4) for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if—

(A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's trade or business; or

(B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter; or

(11) for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, to the extent paid in any medium other than cash; or

The above is also completely consistent with the IRS Form W-2 itself, which is an information return that 26 U.S.C. §6041 says may ONLY be filed to document earnings in excess of $600 in the course of a "trade or business".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 61 > Subchapter A > PART III > Subpart B > § 6041
§ 6041. Information at source

(a) Payments of $600 or more

All persons engaged in a trade or business and making payment in the course of such trade or business to another person, of rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or

1 other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044
 2 (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is
 3 required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045), of $600 or more in any taxable year,
 4 or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having
 5 information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter
 6 provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form
 7 and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains,
 8 profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment.

9 So if you aren't engaged in a "trade or business", then your private employer cannot lawfully or truthfully report "wages" on 10 an IRS Form W-2 in connection with you. If they do, they are in criminal violation of 26 U.S.C. §7207, which provides for 11 a $10,000 fine and imprisonment for up to one year for filing a false information return such as a W-2.

12 Those who do not serve in a "public office" therefore can only earn "wages" if they sign an agreement and stipulate to call
 13 their PRIVATE earnings wages. In the absence of such an agreement, it is false and fraudulent and a criminal offense to 14 report any amount other than ZERO on an IRS Form W-2 in connection with a person who is not engaged in a "trade or 15 business". These conclusions are confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1:

16 Title 26: Internal Revenue

17 PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE

18 Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source

19 Sec. 31.3402\(p\)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

20 (a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for
 21 the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made
 22 after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts
 23 which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such
 24 amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under
 25 section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder.
 26 See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld
 27 from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

28 (b) Form and duration of agreement

29 (2) An agreement under section 3402 (p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually
 30 agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of
 31 such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other. Unless the employer and employee agree to an
 32 earlier termination date, the notice shall be effective with respect to the first payment of an amount in respect of
 33 which the agreement is in effect which is made on or after the first "status determination date" (January 1, May 34 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year) that occurs at least 30 days after the date on which the notice is furnished.
 35 If the employee executes a new Form W-4, the request upon which an agreement under section 3402 (p) is based
 36 shall be attached to, and constitute a part of, such new Form W-4.

38 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements

39 (a) In general. Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the
 40 regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section
 41 with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References
 42 in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section
 43 (§31.3401(a)-3).

44 (b) Remuneration for services. (1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts
 45 referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee
 46 for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For 47 example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home
 48 (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a) (2) and (3), respectively)
 49 are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p).
 50 See §§31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

51 If you do not give your private employer an IRS Form W-4 or if it is signed under duress and indicates so, it is a criminal
 52 offense to report anything other than ZERO on any IRS Form W-2 that is sent to the IRS. Even if the IRS orders the private
 53 employer to withhold at single zero, he can STILL only withhold on "wages", which are ZERO for a person who never signed
 54 or submitted an IRS Form W-4. 100% of ZERO is still ZERO. Furthermore, nothing signed under any threat of duress, such

1 as a threat to either fire you or not hire you for refusing to sign and submit an IRS Form W-4 can be described as a "voluntary
2 agreement" pursuant to any of the above regulations and anyone who concludes otherwise is engaged in a criminal conspiracy
3 against your rights. This is ESPECIALLY true if they are acting under the "color of law" as a voluntary officer of the 4 government, such as an "employer"..

5 "An agreement [consent] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not
6 exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the
7 agreement as the state of mind induced.<sup>215</sup> Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract
8 or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract
9 or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced,<sup>216</sup> and it is susceptible of ratification. Like
10 other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it.<sup>217</sup> However, duress in the 11 form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing so,
12 is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void.<sup>218</sup>"
13 [American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, §21 (1999)]

14 Yet another confirmation of the conclusions of this section is found in the Individual Master File (IMF) that the IRS uses to 15 maintain a record of your tax liability. The amount of "taxable income" is called NOT "income", but "wages" at the end of 16 the report! Quite telling. See for yourself:

17 5.6.12.6.2 "personal services"

18 The term "personal services" in nearly all cases where it is used in the code means "work performed by an individual in 19 connection with a trade or business". Here is an example:

20 26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

21 (b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

22 Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However,
23 personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor
24 as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

25 The only place in the code where "personal services" is mentioned outside the context of a "trade or business" is the case
26 where earnings from it are NOT taxable:

27 26 U.S.C. §861 Income from Sources Within the United States

28 (a)(3) "...Compensation for labor or personal services performed in the United States shall not be deemed to be 29 income from sources within the United States if-

30 (C) the compensation for labor or services performed as an employee of or under contract with--

31 (i) a nonresident alien..not engaged in a trade or business in the United States..."

32 Therefore, whenever you see the term "personal services", it means "work performed by an individual in connection with a
33 'trade or business'" unless specifically defined otherwise. This will become very important when we are talking about 34 earnings of "U.S. citizens" who are abroad.

5.6.12.6.3 "United States"

The term "sources within the United States" is also a synonym for "trade or business" under the I.R.C. in most cases. Under 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\), all earnings from originating within the statutory "United States**", which is defined as federal territory that is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional State of the Union in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) is also treated as "effectively connected with a trade or business".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > § 864
§864. Definitions and special rules

(c) Effectively connected income, etc.

(3) Other income from sources within United States

All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

Therefore, whenever you see the phrase "sources within the United States" associated with any earnings, then indirectly, it is being associated with a "trade or business". This is the case for 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\), which identifies income of "nonresident aliens" only from within the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) that is not connected to a "trade or business". 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\) says that this income is ALSO connected with a trade or business if it was derived from sources within the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal territory). 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(2\) identifies all sources of income not associated with a "trade or business" and they include ONLY:

1. 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\)\(1\): Income of nonresident aliens other than capital gains derived from patents, copyrights, sale of original issue discounts, gains described in I.R.C. 631\(b\) or (c), interest, dividends, rents, salaries, premiums, annuities from sources within the statutory "United States" (federal territory).
2. 26 U.S.C. §871\(h\): Earnings of nonresident aliens from portfolio debt instruments
3. 26 U.S.C. §881\(a\): Earnings of foreign corporations from patents, copyrights, gains, and interest not connected with a trade or business.

26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) define the statutory "United States**" in a "geographical sense" only as being federal territories and possessions.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701. [Internal Revenue Code]
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(9) United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

(10) State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES
Sec. 110. Same; definitions

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

However, I.R.C. Section 864 above does not directly state or imply a "geographical sense", so it may have some other undefined meaning. We allege that the ONLY way that working for a living can be an excise taxable privilege or "trade or business" is where the Constitution itself, in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 requires all "public offices" ("trades or businesses"), to be exercised, which is the District of Columbia:

*United States Constitution
Article I: Legislative Department
Section 8: Powers of Congress
Clause 17: Seat of Government*

*Congress shall have power * * * To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of Government of the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings.*

Since accepting a public office in the federal government is a voluntary act, then the tax is voluntary. If you don't want to pay it, you don't accept or run for the office. In furtherance of the above, 4 U.S.C. §72 requires all "public offices" that are the subject of the tax upon a "trade or business" to be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere, except as "expressly provided by law":

TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
§ 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

Therefore, all persons engaged in public offices MUST serve ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, and there is no enactment of Congress authorizing them to serve in any state of the Union. Therefore, the term "United States" as used throughout Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A:

1. Does not imply a "geographical sense", because that phrase is never used in combination with the term "United States" anywhere we could find. Instead, this definition is a red herring.
2. Does not imply any state of the Union or any part of any state of the Union.

[Federal Enforcement Authority Within States of the Union, Form #05.032
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm](http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm)
3. Implies the United States government or "national government" and not the "federal government" of the states of the Union. See Federalist Paper #39 for details.
4. Applies only to persons domiciled on federal territory called the "United States" and subject to the exclusive or general or plenary jurisdiction of Congress. 26 U.S.C. §911\(d\)\(3\) requires that a person cannot have a "tax home" unless their "abode", meaning "domicile" is within the "United States". The tax is applied against the "tax home" of the "individual", which individual is a "public officer" within the United States government. States of the Union are not "territory" as that word is correctly understood within American legal jurisprudence.

Consequently, "sources within the United States*****" really refers to payments to or from the U.S. government, all of which are enumerated and described and listed in 26 U.S.C. §871 in the context of "nonresident aliens". I.R.C., Subtitle A is therefore a "kickback program" for federal instrumentalities, domiciliaries, franchises, and employees, and the "profit and loss" statement for these instrumentalities is IRS Form 1040. The tax is on the "profit" of these instrumentalities, which the I.R.S. calls "income". 26 U.S.C. §643\(b\) confirms that "income" means the earnings of a trust or estate connected with a public office and NOT all earnings. That "trust" is the "public trust". Government is a "public trust" per Executive Order 12731 and 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(a). If you never received a payment from the government or accepted a payment on behalf of the government while acting in a representative capacity as a "public officer", then we allege that you cannot be a "taxpayer" or have a tax liability pursuant to I.R.C., Subtitle A This is also consistent with the holding of the U.S. Supreme Court on this subject:

"Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. I, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. 'The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'" Downes v. Bidwell, [182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

The conclusions of this section are also consistent with 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\) and 26 U.S.C. §7408\(d\), which both effectively kidnap a "taxpayers" identity and move it to the District of Columbia for the purposes of I.R.C., Subtitle A. The "citizen" and "resident" they are talking about in these statutes are statutory and not constitutional "citizens" and "residents" which rely on the statutory term "United States", which means a person domiciled on federal territory and NOT domiciled within any state of the Union. Why would they need such a provision and why would they try to fool you into declaring yourself to be a "U.S. citizen" using their deceptive forms if they REALLY had jurisdiction within states of the Union? More about this later.

5.6.12.6.4 Statutory "citizen of the United States**" or "U.S.** citizen"

You may wonder as we have how it is that Congress can make it a crime to falsely claim to be a statutory "U.S. citizen" in 18 U.S.C. §911.

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 43 > § 911
§ 911. Citizen of the United States

Whoever falsely and willfully represents himself to be a citizen of the United States[**] shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

The reason is that you cannot tax or regulate something until abusing it becomes harmful. A "license", after all, is legally defined as permission from the state to do that which is otherwise illegal or harmful or both. And of course, you can only tax or regulate things that are harmful and licensed. Hence, they had to:

1. Create yet another franchise.
2. Attach a "status" to the franchise called "citizen of the United States**", where "United States" implies the GOVERNMENT and not any geographical place.
3. Criminalize the abuse of the "status" and the rights that attach to the status.
4. Make adopting the status entirely discretionary on the part of those participating. Hence, invoking the "status" and the "benefits" and "privileges" associated with the status constitutes constructive consent to abide by all the statutes that regulate the status.

PART 2. CONTRACTS
TITLE 1. NATURE OF A CONTRACT
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT

[SOURCE:
<http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/cgi-bin/displaycode?section=civ&group=01001-02000&file=1565-1590>]

5. Impose a tax or fine or "licensing fee" for those adopting or invoking the status. That tax, in fact, is the federal income tax codified in I.R.C., Subtitle A.

1 Every type of franchise works and is implemented exactly the same way, and the statutory "U.S. citizen" or "citizen of the
2 United States**" franchise is no different. This section will prove that being a "citizen of the United States**" under the
3 I.R.C. is, in fact, a franchise, that the franchise began in 1924 by judicial pronouncement, and that because the status is a
4 franchise and all franchises are voluntary, you don't have to participate, accept the "benefits", or pay for the costs of the 5 franchise if you don't consent.

6 As you will eventually learn, one becomes a "citizen" in a common law or constitutional sense by being born or naturalized
7 in a country and exercising their First Amendment right of political association by voluntarily choosing a national and a
8 municipal domicile in that country. How can Congress criminalize the exercise of the First Amendment right to politically
9 associate with a "state" and thereby become a citizen? After all, the courts have routinely held that Congress cannot 10 criminalize the exercise of a right protected by the Constitution.

11 "It is an unconstitutional deprivation of due process for the government to penalize a person merely because he
12 has exercised a protected statutory or constitutional right. United States v. Goodwin, 457 U.S. 368, 372, 102
13 S.Ct. 2485, 2488, 73 L.Ed.2d. 74 (1982)."
14 [People of Territory of Guam v. Fegurgur, 800 F.2d. 1470 (9th Cir. 1986)]

15 Even the U.S. Code recognizes the protected First Amendment right to not associate during the passport application process.
16 Being a statutory and not constitutional "citizen" is an example of type of membership, because domicile is civil membership
17 in a territorial community usually called a county, and you cannot be a "citizen" without a domicile:

18 TITLE 22 > CHAPTER 38 > § 2721
19 § 2721. Impermissible basis for denial of passports

20 A passport may not be denied issuance, revoked, restricted, or otherwise limited because of any speech, activity,
21 belief, affiliation, or membership, within or outside the United States, which, if held or conducted within the 22 United States, would be protected by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

23 The answer to how Congress can criminalize the exercise of a First Amendment protected right of political association that
24 is the foundation of becoming a "citizen" therefore lies in the fact that the statutory "U.S.** citizen" mentioned in 18 U.S.C.
25 §911 is not a constitutional citizen protected by the Constitution, but rather is:

- 26 1. Not a human being or a private person but a statutory creation of Congress. The ability to regulate private conduct,
27 according to the U.S. Supreme Court, is repugnant to the U.S. Constitution and therefore Congress can ONLY regulate 28 public conduct and the public offices and franchises that it creates.
29

30 "The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes

52 of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals 53 there").

See Jones, 1 Cl.Ct. at 85 ("Wherever the public and private acts of the government seem to commingle, a citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place, and then the question be determined whether the action will lie against the supposed defendant"); O'Neill v. United States, 231 Ct.Cl. 823, 826 (1982) (sovereign acts doctrine applies where, "[w]ere [the] contracts exclusively between private parties, the party hurt by such governing action could not claim compensation from the other party for the governing action"). The dissent ignores these statements (including the statement from Jones, from which case Horowitz drew its reasoning literally verbatim), when it says, post at 931, that the sovereign acts cases do not emphasize the need to treat the government-as-contractor the same as a private party. [United States v. Winstar Corp., 518 U.S. 839 (1996)]

3. Property of the U.S. government. All franchises and statuses incurred under franchises are property of the government grantor. The government has always had the right to criminalize abuses of its property.
4. A public office in the government like all other franchise statuses.
5. An officer of a corporation, which is "U.S. Inc." and is described in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). All federal corporations are "citizens", and therefore a statutory "U.S. citizen" is really just the corporation that you are representing as a public officer.

"A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only."
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

Ordinarily, and especially in the case of states of the Union, domicile within that state by the state "citizen" is the determining factor as to whether an income tax is owed to the state by that citizen:

"domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

"Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."
Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

We also establish the connection between domicile and tax liability in the following article.

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that the statutory "citizen of the United States**" mentioned in the Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C. §911 and at 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) is not associated with either domicile OR with constitutional citizenship (nationality) of the human being who is the "taxpayer" in the following case. The party they mentioned, Cook, was domiciled within Mexico at the time, which meant he was NOT a statutory "citizen of the United States**" under the Internal Revenue Code but rather a "non-resident non-person". However, because he CLAIMED to be a statutory "citizen of the United States**" and the Supreme Court colluded with that FRAUD, they treated him as one ANYWAY.

We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once in United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered at its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was pointed out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no ground for constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of powers which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty.'

1 “The contention was rejected that a citizen's property without the limits of the United States derives no benefit
 2 from the United States. The contention, it was said, came from the confusion of thought in 'mistaking the scope
 3 and extent of the sovereign power of the United States as a nation and its relations to its citizens and their relation
 4 to it.' And that power in its scope and extent, it was decided, is based on the presumption that government
 5 by its very nature benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and that opposition to it holds on to
 6 citizenship while it 'belittles and destroys its advantages and blessings by denying the possession by government
 7 of an essential power required to make citizenship completely beneficial.' In other words, the principle was 8 declared that the government, by its very nature, benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and
 9 therefore has the power to make the benefit complete. Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to
 10 tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the
 11 United States, nor was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out
 12 of the United States, but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him
 13 as citizen. The consequence of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the 14 property from which his income is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the
 15 government having power to impose the tax.”
 16 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

17 So the key thing to note about the above is that the tax liability attaches to the STATUS of BEING a statutory but not 18 constitutional “citizen of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code, and NOT to domicile of the party, based on 19 the above case.

20 “Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the
 21 situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made
 22 dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as
 23 citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is
 24 that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may
 25 have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax.”
 26 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

27 There are only two ways to reach a nonresident party through the civil law: Domicile and contract.<sup>219</sup> That status of being a
 28 statutory “U.S. citizen” under the Internal Revenue Code, in turn, can only be a franchise contract that establishes a “public 29 office” in the U.S. government, which is the property of the U.S. Government that the creator of the franchise can regulate or 30 tax ANYWHERE under the franchise “protection” contract. All rights that attach to STATUS are, in fact, franchises, and
 31 the Cook case is no exception. This, in fact, is why falsely claiming to be a “U.S. citizen” is a crime under 18 U.S.C. §911,
 32 because the status is “property” of the national government and abuse of said property or the public rights and “benefits” that
 33 attach to it is a crime. The use of the “Taxpayer Identification Number” then becomes a de facto “license” to exercise the 34 privilege. You can't license something unless it is ILLEGAL to perform without a license, so they had to make it illegal to 35 claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” before they could license it and tax it.

36 How can they tax someone without a domicile in the “United States” and with no earnings from the United States in the case
 37 of Cook, you might ask? Well, the REAL “taxpayer” is a public office in the U.S. government. That office REPRESENTS 38 the United States federal corporation. All corporations are “citizens” of the place of their incorporation, and therefore under 39 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), the effective domicile of the “taxpayer” is the District of Columbia.<sup>220</sup> All taxes are 40 a civil liability that are implemented with civil law. The only way they could have reached extraterritorially with civil law
 41 to tax Cook without him having a domicile or residence anywhere in the statutory “United States**” was through a private 42 law franchise contract in which he was a public officer. It is a maxim of law that debt and contract know no place, meaning 43 that they can be enforced anywhere.

45 Locus contractus regit actum.

48 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviereMaxims.htm>]

49 The feds have jurisdiction over their own public officers wherever they are but the EFFECTIVE civil domicile of all such
 50 offices and officers is the District of Columbia pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). Hence, the ONLY thing

<sup>219</sup> See section 5.2.4: The Two Sources of Federal Civil Jurisdiction: “Domicile” and “Contract”; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

<sup>220</sup> "A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only." [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

1 such a statutory “citizen of the United States**” could be within the I.R.C. is a statutory creation of Congress that is actually
 2 a public office which is domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States*” in order for the ruling in Cook to
 3 be constitutional or even lawful. AND, according to the Cook case, having that status is a discretionary choice that has
 4 NOTHING to do with your circumstances, because Cook was NOT a statutory “citizen of the United States**” as someone
 5 not domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States**”. Instead, he was a “non-resident non-person” because
 6 of his foreign domicile and the fact that he was not engaged in a public office in the national government. The court allowed
 7 him to accept the voluntary “benefit” of the statutory status and hence, it had nothing to do with his circumstances, but rather
 8 his CHOICE to nominate a “protector” and join a civil statutory franchise. Simply INVOKING the status of being a statutory
 9 “citizen of the United States**” on a government form is the only magic word needed to give one’s consent to become a
 10 “taxpayer” in that case. It is what the court called a “benefit”, and all “benefits” are voluntary and the product of a franchise
 11 contract. It was a quasi-contract as all taxes are, because the consent was implied rather than explicit, and it manifested itself
 12 by using property of the government, which in this case was the STATUS he claimed.

28 You might reasonably ask of the Cook case, as we have, the following question:

29 “HOW did the government create the public office that they could tax and which Cook apparently occupied as a 30 franchisee?”

31 Well, apparently the “citizen of the United States**” status he claimed is a franchise and an office in the U.S. government
 32 that carries with it the “public right” to make certain demands upon those who claim this status. Hence, it represents a
 33 “property interest” in the services of the United States federal corporation. In law, all rights are property, anything that 34 conveys rights is property, contracts convey rights and are therefore property, and all franchises are contracts and therefore 35 property. A “public officer” is legally defined as someone in charge of the property of the public, and the property Cook was 36 in possession of was the public rights that attach to the status of being a statutory “citizen of the United States**”.

37 “Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either

50 For Cook, the statutory status of being a “citizen of the United States**” was the “res” that “identified” him within the 51 jurisdiction of the federal courts, and hence made him a “res-ident” or “resident” subject to the tax with standing to sue in a
 52 territorial franchise court, which is what all U.S. District Courts are. In effect, he waived sovereign immunity and became a 53 statutory “resident alien” by invoking the services of the federal courts, and as such, he had to pay for their services by paying

1 the tax. Otherwise, he would have no standing to sue in the first place because he would be a “stateless person” and they
2 would have had to dismiss his case.

3 If you would like a much more thorough discussion of all of the nuances of the Cook case, we strongly recommend the 4 following:

Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.018, Section 4.4

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5 Here is another HUGE clue about what they think a “U.S. citizen” really is in federal statutes. Look at the definition below,
6 and then consider that you CAN'T own a human being as property. That's called slavery:

7 TITLE 46 > Subtitle V > Part A > CHAPTER 505 > § 50501
8 § 50501. Entities deemed citizens of the United States

9 (a) In General.—

10 *In this subtitle, a corporation, partnership, or association is deemed to be a citizen of the United States only if
11 the controlling interest is owned by citizens of the United States. However, if the corporation, partnership, or* 12 association is operating a vessel in the coastwise trade, at least 75 percent of the interest must be owned by 13 citizens of the United States.

14 Now look at what the U.S. Supreme Court said about “ownership” of human beings. You can't “own” a human being as 15 chattel. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits that. Therefore, the statutory “U.S. citizen” they are talking about above is an 16 instrumentality and public office within the United States. They can only tax, regulate, and legislate for PUBLIC objects and 17 public offices of the United States under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2. The ability to regulate PRIVATE conduct of human 18 beings has repeatedly been held by the U.S. Supreme Court to be “repugnant to the constitution” and beyond the jurisdiction
19 of Congress.

20 “It [the contract] is, in substance and effect, a contract for servitude, with no limitation but that of time; leaving
21 the master to determine what the service should be, and the place where and the person to whom it should be
22 rendered. Such a contract, it is scarcely necessary to say, is against the policy of our institutions and laws. If
23 such a sale of service could be lawfully made for five years, it might, from the same reasons, for ten, and so
24 for the term of one's life. The door would thus be opened for a species of servitude inconsistent with the first
25 and fundamental article of our declaration of rights, which, proprio vigore, not only abolished every vestige of
26 slavery then existing in the commonwealth, but rendered every form of it thereafter legally impossible. That 27 article has always been regarded, not simply as the declaration of an abstract principle, but as having the active
28 force and conclusive authority of law. ‘Observing that one who voluntarily subjected himself to the laws of the 29 state must find in them the rule of restraint as well as the rule of action, the court proceeded: ‘Under this
30 contract the plaintiff had no claim for the labor of the servant for the term of five years, or for any term
31 whatever. She was under no legal obligation to remain in his service. There was no time during which her
32 service was due to the plaintiff, and during which she was kept from such service by the acts of the defendants.’

33 [ . . . ]

34 Under the contract of service it was at the volition of the master to entail service upon these appellants for an
35 indefinite period. So far as the record discloses, it was an accident that the vessel came back to San Francisco
36 *when it did. By the shipping articles, the appellants could not quit the vessel until it returned to a port of the *296*
37 United States, and such return depended absolutely upon the will of the master. He had only to land at foreign 38 ports, and keep the vessel away from the United States, in order to prevent the appellants from leaving his 39 service.

40 [ . . . ]

41 The supreme law of the land now declares that involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, of 42 which the party shall have been duly convicted, shall not exist any where within the United States.
43 [Robertson v. Baldwin, 165 U.S. 275, 17 S.Ct. 326 (U.S. 1897)]

44 Federal courts also frequently use the phrase “privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States”. Below is an 45 example:

"The privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States do not necessarily include all the rights protected by the first eight amendments to the Federal Constitution against the powers of the Federal Government."

The trial of a person accused as a criminal by a jury of only eight persons instead of twelve, and his subsequent imprisonment after conviction do not abridge his privileges and immunities under the Constitution as a citizen of the United States and do not deprive him of his liberty without due process of law."
[Maxwell v. Dow, 176 U.S. 581 (1900)]

Note that the "citizen of the United States**" described above is a statutory rather than constitutional citizen, which is why the court admits that the rights of such a person are inferior to those possessed by a "citizen" within the meaning of the United States Constitution. A constitutional but not statutory citizen is, in fact, NOT "privileged" in any way and none of the rights guaranteed by the Constitution can truthfully be called "privileges" without violating the law. It is a tort and a violation of due process, in fact, to convert rights protected by the Constitution and the common law into "privileges" or franchises or "public rights" under statutory law without at least your consent, which anyone in their right mind should NEVER give.

*"It has long been established that a State may not impose a penalty upon those who exercise a right guaranteed by the Constitution." Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of California, 271 U.S. 583. "Constitutional rights would be of little value if they could be indirectly denied," Smith v. Allwright, 321 U.S. 649, 644, or manipulated out of existence [by converting them into statutory "privileges"/franchises], Gomillion v. Lightfoot, 364 U.S. 339, 345."
[Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S. 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965)]*

It is furthermore proven in the following memorandum of law that civil statutory civil law pertains almost exclusively to government officers and employers and cannot and does not pertain to human beings or private persons not engaged in federal franchises/privileges:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Consequently, if a court refers to "privileges and immunities" in relation to you, chances are they are presuming, usually FALSELY, that you are a statutory "U.S. citizen" and NOT a constitutional citizen. If you want to prevent them from making such false presumptions, we recommend attaching the following forms at least to your initial complaint and/or response in any action in court:

5.6.12.7 I.R.C. requirements for the exercise of a "trade or business"

Next, we must search the code for the uses of the term "trade or business" to define how it applies by using the context. Below is a summary of our findings:

1. For "individuals", who are ALL "aliens" under the I.R.C., only income "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States" is considered "gross income" or originating from the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" and earned by a nonresident alien under 26 U.S.C. §871(a). Statutory "U.S.** citizens" can only be taxable when they are living abroad, in which case they become "aliens" under the provisions of a treaty with a foreign country. ONLY in that condition are they the proper subject of the Internal Revenue Code:

*NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES
DETERMINATION OF TAX LIABILITY
Tax on Individuals*

(a)(2)(ii) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, the tax imposed by section 1(d) [married individuals filing separately], as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by a married alien individual who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year or by a foreign estate or trust. For such years the tax imposed by section 1(c) [unmarried individuals], as amended by such Act, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by an unmarried alien individual (other than a surviving spouse) who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year. See paragraph (b)(2) of section 1.871-8." [26 C.F.R. §1.1-1]

2. Those who are “self employed” do not earn “gross income” unless it is connected to a “trade or business”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 2 > §1402
§1402: Definitions

(a) Net earnings from self-employment

The term "net earnings from self-employment" means the gross income derived by an individual from any trade or business carried on by such individual, less the deductions allowed by this subtitle which are attributable to such trade or business, plus his distributive share (whether or not distributed) of income or loss described in section 702(a)(8) from any trade or business carried on by a partnership of which he is a member; ...

3. The only indirect excise taxable activity connected with a biological person and which is subject to Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv) as “income effectively connected with a trade or business” of a “nonresident alien”. Therefore, the only earnings of a “nonresident alien” that can be included in “gross income” are those “effectively connected with a trade or business” (e.g. performance of a public office domiciled in the District of Columbia):

Title 26: Internal Revenue

§1.861-8 Computation of taxable income from sources within the United States and from other sources and activities.

(f) Miscellaneous matters.

(1) Operative sections.

The operative sections of the Code which require the determination of taxable income of the taxpayer from specific sources or activities and which give rise to statutory groupings to which this section is applicable include the sections described below.

(iv) Effectively connected taxable income.

Nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in trade or business within the United States, under sections 871(b)(1) and 882(a)(1), on taxable income [federal payments] which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the [federal] United States. Such taxable income is determined in most instances by initially determining, under section 864(c), the amount of gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States. Pursuant to sections 873 and 882(c), this section is applicable for purposes of determining the deductions from such gross income (other than the deduction for interest expense allowed to foreign corporations (see section 1.882-5)) which are to be taken into account in determining taxable income. See example (21) of paragraph (g) of this section.

4. Statutory but not constitutional “U.S. Citizens” abroad whose earnings are subject to tax include only those with income “effectively connected with a trade or business”. By statutory “U.S. Citizen” (8 U.S.C. §1401), we mean those born anywhere in the country and domiciled on federal territory within the District of Columbia or the territories of the United States, as discussed in chapter 4 starting in section 4.11 and NOT within any state of the Union:

§ 911. Citizens or residents of the United States living abroad

1 (a) Exclusion from gross income

2 At the election of a qualified individual (made separately with respect to paragraphs (1) and (2)), there shall be
3 excluded from the gross income of such individual, and exempt from taxation under this subtitle, for any taxable
4 year -

- 5 (1) the foreign earned income of such individual, and 6 (2) the housing cost amount of such individual. (d) Definitions and special rules

7 (b) Foreign earned income

8 (1) Definition

9 For purposes of this section -

10 (A) In general

11 The term "foreign earned income" with respect to any individual means the amount received by such 12 individual from sources within a foreign country or countries which constitute earned income attributable
13 to services performed by such individual during the period described in subparagraph (A) or

14 (B) of subsection (d)(1), whichever is applicable. (B) Certain amounts not included in foreign earned income

15 The foreign earned income for an individual shall not include amounts -

16 (i) received as a pension or annuity,

17 (ii) paid by the United States or an agency thereof to an employee of the United States or an agency
18 thereof,

19 (iii) included in gross income by reason of section 402(b) (relating to taxability of beneficiary of 20 nonexempt trust) or section 403(c) (relating to taxability of beneficiary under a nonqualified annuity), 21 or

22 (iv) received after the close of the taxable year following the taxable year in which the services to 23 which the amounts are attributable are performed.

24 [ . . . ]

25 (d) Definitions and special rules

26 For purposes of this section -

27 [ . . . ]

28 (2) Earned income

29 (A) In general

30 The term "earned income" means wages, salaries, or professional fees, and other amounts received as 31 compensation for personal services actually rendered, but does not include that part of the compensation derived
32 by the taxpayer for personal services rendered by him to a corporation which represents a distribution of earnings
33 or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered.

34 (B) Taxpayer engaged in trade or business

35 In the case of a taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both personal services and capital are material
36 income-producing factors, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, a reasonable allowance as 37 compensation for the personal services rendered by the taxpayer, not in excess of 30 percent of his share of the 38 net profits of such trade or business, shall be considered as earned income.

39 The key "word of art" above is the term "personal services" which 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9 says means "work performed by 40 an individual in connection with a trade or business". Therefore, "U.S. citizens" abroad who are not involved in a "trade
41 or business" do not earn "taxable income" because they are not engaged in an excise taxable activity. Notice also that
42 the term "abroad" is never defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code AND that the 50 states of the Union are NOT

1 “domestic” as domestic is used in the Code. They instead are “foreign” for the purposes of legislative jurisdiction, as
 2 we emphasize throughout this chapter. Also notice that there is no mention anywhere within the entire I.R.C. of the status
 3 of taxability of earnings of statutory “U.S. citizens” situated outside the statutory “United States**” (federal territory)
 4 within the code but NOT abroad. That is because they ARE NOT subject to the Internal Revenue Code, and can't even 5 volunteer to be subject to a prima facie statute that they are not even within the territorial jurisdiction of.

- 6 5. Earnings from labor rendered by a “nonresident alien”, even if within the “United States” (federal zone), to a foreign 7 corporation or foreign partnership that is not involved in a “trade or business in the United States” (public office) is not
 8 includible as “gross income”. Ditto for earnings from a “foreign country”, which includes states of the Union, as we 9 pointed out earlier in section 5.2.14. Here is the proof:

10 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART 1 > §864
 11 §864. Definitions and special rules

12 (b) Trade or business within the United States

13 For purposes of this part, part II, and chapter 3, the term “trade or business within the United States” includes 14 the performance of personal services within the United States at any time within the taxable year, but does not
 15 include—

16 (1) Performance of personal services for foreign employer

17 The performance of personal services—

18 (A) for a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade
 19 or business within the United States, or

20 (B) for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States
 21 by an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States or by a domestic partnership or a domestic 22 corporation,

- 23 6. Whether a legal “person” is considered “resident” or “nonresident” has nothing to do with where it was organized,
 24 incorporated or where it has a physical presence. Instead, it is determined by whether the organization is engaged in a
 25 “trade or business”. Therefore, if you aren't engaged in a “trade or business”, even if you are domiciled on federal 26 territory within the statutory but not constitutional “United States**”, then you are a “nonresident”. Here is the proof:

27 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

28 A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during 29 the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the
 30 law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A
 31 domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the
 32 United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the
 33 regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade
 34 or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or
 35 business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and
 36 a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether 37 a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of 38 its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

39 [Amended by T.D. 8813, Federal Register: February 2, 1999 (Volume 64, Number 21), Page 4967-4975]

40 If you examine the above list, there are only four statuses or conditions throughout the I.R.C. that don't specifically mention
 41 that they must be connected to a “trade or business” in order to qualify as “gross income”, which are:

- 42 1. “Married individuals” under 26 U.S.C. §1(a). Not mentioned in item 1 above.
 43 2. “Heads of household” under 26 U.S.C. §1(b). Not mentioned in item 1 above.
 45 4. Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC) involved in foreign commerce.

46 We know that the first two are ALSO involved in a “trade or business” because in the only place they are mentioned in the 47 I.R.C., which is 26 U.S.C. §1(a) and 1(b), a graduated rate of tax appears there. There is no way to elect a flat 30% tax rate
 48 as a “Married individual” or “Head of household” without declaring oneself as a “nonresident alien” and coming under the

1 provisions of 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\) INSTEAD of these two provisions. Furthermore, the requirement for “equal protection of
2 the laws”, found in Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment and in 42 U.S.C. §1981\(a\), mandates that “Heads of Household”
3 and “Married individuals” shall be subjected to the same burdens, taxes, and penalties as “Married individuals filing
4 separately” or “Unmarried individuals” or they would be discriminated against. Therefore, they too must be engaged in a
5 “trade or business” in order to earn “taxable income” as well. We also know that the graduated rate of tax cannot be
6 implemented in states of the Union, because they are not “uniform”, meaning that everyone doesn't pay the same percentage,
7 as required by the U.S. Constitution, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1, which says:

8 U.S. Constitution
9 Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3

10 The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and
11 *provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises
12 shall be uniform [same percentage] throughout the United States [and upon all “persons”];

13 The reason all excise taxes within states of the Union must be uniform throughout the states and have the same percentage
14 on all persons is that if they weren't, then the federal government would be depriving sovereign American Nationals in the 15 states of "equal protection of the laws". However, the Constitutional requirement for "equal protection" does not apply within 16 areas under exclusive federal jurisdiction, such as the District of Columbia, under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17, and under 17 Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution. There have been at least two state supreme Court rulings consistent with 18 this conclusion, which declared that graduated rate income taxes are unconstitutional within states of the Union. See Culliton
19 v. Chase, 25 P.2d. 81 (1933) and Jensen v. Henneford, 53 P.2d. 607 (1936). You will learn later in this section that those 20 who elect for a graduated rate of tax are “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” under 26 U.S.C.
21 §871\(b\).

22 We'll now provide a table summarizing our findings to show the excise taxable activity for each type of entity to make the 23 results of this survey of the I.R.C. crystal clear. Note that all the taxable activities must occur within exclusive federal 24 jurisdiction under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution, or else they become “extortion under the color of law”.
25 The federal government cannot collect or assess taxes in areas where it has no legislative jurisdiction. If you aren't listed in 26 the table below, then you are a “nontaxpayer”:

5.6.12.8 What kind of tax is it?: Direct or Indirect, Constitutional or Unconstitutional?

We already proved in section 5.1.2 that the I.R.C., Subtitles A and C income tax is an excise or franchise tax upon public offices within the national but not state government. The next important questions we must answer are the following, which we frequently hear from our readers:

1. Is it DIRECT or INDIRECT as described in the U.S. Constitution?
2. Is it a CONSTITUTIONAL or UNCONSTITUTIONAL tax?

Of I.R.C., Subtitle A income taxes, the U.S. Supreme Court has said:

*"...the requirement to pay [excise] taxes involves the exercise of privilege."
Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., [220 U.S. 107 (1911)]*

"We are of opinion, however, that the confusion is not inherent, but rather arises from the conclusion that the 16th Amendment provides for a hitherto unknown power of taxation; that is, a power to levy an income tax which, although direct, should not be subject to the regulation of apportionment applicable to all other direct taxes. And the far-reaching effect of this erroneous assumption will be made clear by generalizing the many contentions advanced in argument to support it..."

*"[Taxation of "income" is] in its nature an excise entitled to be enforced as such unless and until it was concluded that to enforce it would amount to accomplishing the result which the requirement as to apportionment of direct taxation was adopted to prevent, in which case the duty would arise to disregard form and consider substance alone, and hence subject the tax to the regulation as to apportionment which otherwise as an excise would not apply to it" (That is, if the "income" tax ever comes to be administered as something other than an excise, or on something unsuited to an excise, the rule of apportionment must be applied.)
Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co., [240 U.S. 1 (1916)]*

Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., [240 U.S. 103 (1916)]*

*"The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects..."
Peck v. Lowe, [247 U.S. 165 (1918)]*

*"We must reject... ..the broad contention submitted in behalf of the government that all receipts-- everything that comes in-- are income..."
So. Pacific v. Lowe, [247 U.S. 330 (1918)]*

Therefore, I.R.C., Subtitle A describes an excise tax upon "privileges". If it ain't a privilege, then they can't tax it. Neither can the government lawfully tax the exercise of a right, such as the right to work and support yourself, unless that right is exercised coincident with a "privilege" of federal employment, agency, or benefits.

*"PRIVILEGE: A particular benefit or advantage enjoyed by a person, company, or class beyond the common advantages of others citizens. An exceptional or extraordinary power of exemption. A particular right, advantage, exemption, power, franchise, or immunity held by a person or class, not generally possessed by others."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1197]*

*"It has been well said that 'the property which every man has in his own labor, as it is the original foundation of all other property, so it is the most sacred and inviolable. The patrimony of the poor man lies in the strength and dexterity of his own hands, and to hinder his employing this strength and dexterity in what manner he thinks proper, without injury to his neighbor, is a plain violation of this most sacred property'."
Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., [111 U.S. 746 (1884)]*

1                    "Included in the right of personal liberty and the right of private property- partaking of the nature of each- is the
2 right to make contracts for the acquisition of property. Chief among such contracts is that of personal
3 employment, by which labor and other services are exchanged for money or other forms of property"
4 Coppage v. Kansas, [236 U.S. 1 (1915)]

5                    *"Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can
6 rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will..."*
7 The Antelope, [23 U.S. 66; 10 Wheat 66; 6 L.Ed. 268 (1825)]

8 Now that we have thoroughly analyzed why Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A describes an "excise" tax on a taxable activity
9 called a "trade or business", we are now ready to address how this tax functions. We have prepared a table to clarify these 10 mechanisms:

Table 5-69: What makes IRC Subtitle A an Excise Tax

When you file a W-4, you signed an "agreement"/contract (see 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3). This agreement made you into a recipient, "transferee", and "fiduciary" over payments to the federal government under 26 U.S.C. §6901. It also constituted an agreement under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 to include all of your earnings from the employer receiving the W-4 on a tax "return" as "gross income". Your private employer is no longer paying you directly and you effectively become a "subcontractor" to the U.S. government, who is your intermediary and real "employer". Instead, your private employer is paying a "straw man" or artificial entity called a federal "employee" acting on behalf of the government as a "transferee" and "fiduciary". The all caps name on the W-4 and the SSN associated with the all caps name is the "res" or artificial entity that describes the federal subcontractor that you are representing. The SSN or TIN and the all caps "straw man" name on the pay stub that your private employer gives you is evidence that the payment is a payment to the federal government which is federal property because this number can only be used for keeping track of federal payments and "receipts". The money your private employer pays you are "earnings" of a U.S. government subcontractor. Recall that "income", within the meaning of the Constitution is "corporate profit". The U.S. government is described as a "federal corporation" in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). The "profit" of this federal corporation is the "tax" deducted from the payment and "returned" to the corporation using a tax "return". The SSN is a vehicle the government uses to keep track of federal payments and federal subcontractors called "employees" who are managing these payments and returning "taxes", which are "corporate profit" payments, to their rightful owner.</li> <li>Filing a form 1040 rather than the correct 1040NR. The IRS Published Products catalog says this form can only be filed by "citizens or residents of the United States", all of whom are domiciled ONLY in the statutory "United States" (federal territory) (see 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d)). Under 26 U.S.C. §864(e)(3), all earnings within the statutory "United States" (federal territory) are "effectively connected with a trade or business", so you must be engaged in a "trade or business", so you must be engaged in a "trade or business" whether you realize it or not if you file form 1040 instead of the proper form 1040NR.</li> </ol> |

| 6 | Why tax is an excise tax                                  | The tax is on an activity that can be avoided and therefore is not direct. If you don't want to pay the tax, then don't exercise any of the "privileges" associated with a "trade or business" listed in item 2 above.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

A picture is worth a thousand words. Below is a diagram showing the condition of those who are employed by private employers and who have consented to participate in the federal tax system by completing an IRS Form W-4. This diagram shows graphically the relationships described in the table above.

3 NOTES ON ABOVE DIAGRAM:

- 1 6. The I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax is NOT implemented through public law or positive law, but primarily through private
 2 law. Private law always supersedes enacted positive law because no court or government can interfere with your right
 3 to contract. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution for the proof. The IRS Form W-4 is a contract or agreement,
 4 and the United States has jurisdiction over its own property and employees under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2, wherever
 5 they may reside, including in places where it has no legislative jurisdiction. The IRS Form W-4 you signed is a private
 6 contract that makes you into a federal employee, and neither the state nor the federal government may interfere with the 7 private right to contract. 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 identifies the W-4 as an “agreement”, which is a contract. It doesn't 8 say that on the form, because your covetous government doesn't want you to know you are signing a contract by 9 submitting an IRS Form W-4.
- 10 7. The “tax” is not paid by you, but by your “straw man”, who is a federal “public officer” engaged in a “trade or business”
 11 as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). His workplace is the “District of Columbia” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 12 26 U.S.C. §7408(d). That “public officer” you have volunteered to represent is working as a federal “employee” who is 13 part of the United States government, which is defined as a federal corporation in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). In that sense,
 14 the “tax” is indirect, because you don't pay it, but your straw man, who is a “public officer”, pays it to your “employer”,
 15 the federal government, which is a federal corporation.
- 16 8. Because you are presumed by the IRS to be a federal “employee” and you work for an unspecified and unidentified 17 federal corporation, then you are acting as an “officer or employee of a federal corporation” and you:
 18 8.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statutes, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b).
 19 8.2. Are the proper subject of the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code found in 26 U.S.C. §7343.
 20 8.3. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1)
 21 and 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2)
- 22 9. The “activity” of performing a “trade or business” is only “taxable” when executed on federal territory, which is what 23 the statutory “United States**” is defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). See 26 U.S.C.
 24 §864 and this section for evidence.
- 25 10. Those who file form 1040 instead of the proper form 1040NR provide evidence under penalty of perjury that they are 26 “U.S. persons” (see 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(30\) ) who are domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States**”
 27 (federal territory). The IRS Published Products Catalog, Document 7130 (2003) says the form can only be used for 28 “citizens or residents” of the “United States”, which is defined as federal territory in the I.R.C.

29 The words you use to describe this tax can get you into trouble in court and attract insincere and covetous judges and
 30 prosecutors to call you frivolous and try to penalize you to evade addressing the issues raised in this memorandum. We 31 would now like to clarify the following important facts about the nature of the I.R.C., Subtitles A and C income tax to ensure 32 that our readers stay out of harm's way:

- 33 1. Is NOT an Article 1, Section 8 tax. The states are not expressly included within the definition of “United States” found 34 in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and therefore are purposefully excluded per the rules of 35 statutory construction.

 59 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

2. It is only applicable to those consensually and contractually engaging in business WITH the U.S. Inc. as public officers.
3. Extends ONLY where the GOVERNMENT extends.

"It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States."
 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

Sources WITHIN the government, in fact, are defined in the at 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) as "sources within the United States".

4. It functions as what we call a "public officer kickback program" disguised to LOOK like a lawful national tax. That perspective is thoroughly explained in:
  - 4.1. IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991.
  - 4.2. Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.6.10
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>
5. It is neither CONSTITUTIONAL nor UNCONSTITUTIONAL, but rather EXTRA-CONSTITUTIONAL. It is an EXTRA-constitutional tax because the Constitution doesn't protect what happens by consent to PUBLIC officers within the government. All those serving in public offices do so by consent and it is a maxim of law that you cannot complain of an injury for things you consent to.
6. While it is NOT a constitutional but an EXTRA-constitutional tax, if tax terms such as "direct, indirect, excise" used within the constitution WERE used to describe it, then it would have to be described as follows:
  - 6.1. It is a direct, unapportioned tax on INCOME as property. All direct taxes are on property. Note also that the ONLY place it can be administered as a "DIRECT TAX" is the District of Columbia, which is why the terms "United States" and "State" are both defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) as the District of Columbia and no part of any state of the Union. This is also why the ONLY remaining "internal revenue district" within which the I.R.S. can lawfully enforce pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7601 is the District of Columbia.

"Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it it's just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'"
 [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

- 6.2. It is a DIRECT TAX because it involves both real estate and personal property or the "benefits" of such property. This definition of "direct" derives from Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1894).
- 6.3. It is a direct tax upon PROPERTY owned BY THE GOVERNMENT because in POSSESSION of the government at the time of payment.
- 6.4. The earnings of public offices are property of the government, because the OFFICE is owned by the government and was created by the government. The creator of a thing is always the owner.
- 6.5. The "income" subject to the tax is payments FROM the government.
- 6.6. It is an excise on the SOURCE of income.
- 6.7. The SOURCE is the specific place the activity was accomplished, which is ALWAYS the government or a "U.S. source". A "U.S. source" means an activity WITHIN the government. Hence "INTERNAL revenue code". See:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/source.htm>

Source of Earned Income

The source of your earned income is the place where you perform the services for which you received the income. Foreign earned income is income you receive for performing personal services in a foreign country. Where or how you are paid has no effect on the source of the income. For example, income you receive for work done in France is income from a foreign source even if the income is paid directly to your bank account in the United States and your employer is located in New York City.

If you receive a specific amount for work done in the United States, you must report that amount as U.S. source income. If you cannot determine how much is for work done in the United States, or for work done partly in the United States and partly in a foreign country, determine the amount of U.S. source income using the method that most correctly shows the proper source of your income.

*In most cases you can make this determination on a time basis. U.S. source income is the amount that results from multiplying your total pay (including allowances, re-imbursments other than for foreign moves, and noncash fringe benefits) by a fraction. The numerator (top number) is the number of days you worked within the United States. The denominator is the total number of days of work for which you were paid.
[IRS Publication 54 (2000), p. 4]*

6.8. It is INDIRECT in the sense that all indirect taxes are excise taxes upon activities that can be avoided by avoiding the activity. However, it becomes DIRECT, a THEFT, and slavery/involuntary servitude if the government:

6.8.1. Refuses to recognize or protect your right to NOT volunteer and not become a public officer.

6.8.2. Refuses to acknowledge the nature of the activity being taxed, or PRESUMES that it is NOT a public office.

6.8.3. Refuses to correct false information returns against those NOT engaging in the activity, and thereby through omission causes EVERYONE who is the subject of such false reports to essentially be elected into a public office through a criminally false and fraudulent information return.

6.8.4. Enforces it outside of the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress or against those who are not public officers and officers of a corporation as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).

6.9. The reason that direct and indirect can BOTH describe it, is that the constitution doesn't apply in the only place the activity can lawfully be exercised (per 4 U.S.C. §72), which is federal territory. It doesn't fit the constitution because it doesn't apply to the PRIVATE people who are the only proper subject of the constitution.

7. Civil choice of law rules found in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 and 28 U.S.C. §1652 dictate that the LOCAL state law governs the activity by default and that foreign law (under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 44.1) only becomes applicable if the party is acting as an officer of a foreign corporation. Hence, only by being lawfully engaged in a public office within the U.S. Government, which is a federal corporation and legislatively foreign corporation in respect to constitutional states of the Union, can the municipal laws of the District of Columbia be made applicable to the activity. Otherwise, there is no federal jurisdiction over the activity subject to tax.

"A foreign corporation is one that derives its existence solely from the laws of another state, government, or country, and the term is used indiscriminately, sometimes in statutes, to designate either a corporation created by or under the laws of another state or a corporation created by or under the laws of a foreign country."

*"A federal corporation operating within a state is considered a domestic corporation rather than a foreign corporation. The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state."
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §883 (2003)]*

8. It is PRIVATE law and SPECIAL law, rather than PUBLIC law, that only applies to specific persons and things CONSENSUALLY engaged in activities on federal territory as AGENTS of the government ONLY. That is why the entire Title 26 of the U.S. Code is identified as NOT being "positive law" in 1 U.S.C. §204: Because it doesn't acquire the "force of law" or become legal evidence of an obligation until AFTER you consent to it. It is a maxim of law that anything done to you with your consent cannot form the basis for an injury or a remedy in a court of law. On the OTHER hand, if everyone fills out IRS Form W-4's and ACTS like a government statutory "employee", then for all intents and purposes it applies to EVERYONE and at least LOOKS like it is public law, even though it isn't.

9. Because it is PRIVATE and SPECIAL LAW, it is what the United States Supreme Court called "class legislation" in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1894). The specific "class" to which it applies is that SUBSET of all "citizens" who are lawfully serving in an elected or appointed public office.

10. The activities SUBJECT to the tax must also occur on federal territory in order to be the lawful subject of any congressional civil enactment.

10.1. All civil law is prima facie territorial.

10.2. The separation of powers doctrine, 40 U.S.C. §3112, 28 U.S.C. §1652, and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 all forbid the enforcement of federal civil law outside the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress or within a constitutional state of the Union.

10.3. If territory is divorced from the activity and the tax is enforced outside of federal territory, then the activity subject to tax becomes an act of private contract governed by the local CIVIL laws of the jurisdiction in which the activity occurred. And because it is private business activity, then there is a waiver of sovereign immunity AND it must be heard in a LOCAL state court having jurisdiction over the domicile of the public officer and NOT in a federal court. These facts are plainly stated in 40 U.S.C. §3112.

"It is, we think, a sound principle, that when a government becomes a partner in any trading company, it divests itself, so far as concerns the transactions of that company, of its sovereign character, and takes that of a private citizen. Instead of communicating to the company its privileges and its prerogatives, it descends to a level with those with whom it associates itself, and takes the character which belongs to its associates, and to the business which is to be transacted. Thus, many states of this Union' who have an interest in banks are not suable even in their own courts; yet they never exempt the corporation from being sued."

[Bank of the U.S., The v. The Planters' Bank of Georgia, 22 U.S. 904, 9 Wheat 904, 6 L.Ed. 244 (1824)]

11. If it is enforced or offered in a constitutional state, then:

11.1. An "invasion" has occurred under Article 4, Section 4. By "enforced", we mean that the ACTIVITY subject to the tax occurs within a constitutional state of the Union. Hence, "INTERNAL" in the phrase "INTERNAL Revenue Service", meaning INTERNAL to the government and INTERNAL to federal territory.

11.2. The franchise is being illegally enforced:

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.

Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.

License Tax Cases, [72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

We would therefore strongly suggest that in describing this tax in court pleadings or to juries and in front of malicious judges, you:

1. Never describe it as either direct or indirect. It's irrelevant and could truthfully be described as either. The U.S. Supreme Court, for instance, calls it a "direct unapportioned tax" applicable only to the District of Columbia, while the Congressional Research Service calls it an INDIRECT tax. They are BOTH right! This is a red herring.
2. NOT argue about whether the Internal Revenue Code is constitutional or unconstitutional. It is entirely constitutional. What is unconstitutional is how it is wilfully and maliciously MISREPRESENTED and illegally enforced by both the Department of Justice and the Internal Revenue Service. 18 U.S.C. §912.
3. Demand written proof of your consent to occupy or be held accountable for the duties associated with the illegally created public office that is the subject of the tax.
4. Pay SPECIAL focus on the CONTEXT for terms: STATUTORY v. CONSTITUTIONAL. These two contexts are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping for the purpose of the income tax. They will attempt many different "fallacies by equivocation" in order to mislead the jury and undermine your defense. We talk about this at length in:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. Instead focus on:

- 1 5.1. The activity that is the subject of the tax and how you, as a private nonresident in a legislatively foreign state can
- 2 lawfully engage in the activity.
- 3 5.2. How the choice of law rules documented herein do not permit the enforcement of the tax under federal law, and
- 4 therefore, that there is no jurisdiction to enforce or collect the tax.
- 5 5.3. WHERE the activity may be lawfully exercised and that you are NOT located in that place, which is the District
- 6 of Columbia and no part of any state of the Union.
- 7 5.4. The fact that it is a crime to impersonate a public office, even with your consent.
- 8 5.5. The fact that compelled withholding causes the crime of bribery to solicit you to be treated illegally as a public
- 9 officer. 18 U.S.C. §211.

10 5.6.12.9 Who's "trade or business": The PAYER, the PAYEE, or BOTH?

11 Every transaction must involve the de facto government \(Form #05.043\) and therefore public rights and franchises in order
 12 to qualify as an excise taxable event. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, as we all well know, is a
 13 franchise/excise tax. The only context in which the statutory definition of "United States" makes any sense at all is in fact
 14 to treat it as an excise/franchise tax. The "United States" in the I.R.C. then becomes the franchisor in a virtual and not a 15 physical or geographical sense. The ability to regulate, tax, or burden private conduct is beyond the reach of the Constitution, 16 and therefore the activity must involve publici juris and public rights to be taxable.

17 "The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes

25 Every transaction involving the government has two parties: The payer and the payee. That is why the tax is upon both "trade
 26 or business" earnings and "U.S. source" earnings: The payer is always a public officer in the government and the recipient is 27 either a "resident alien individual" or a "nonresident alien individual" receiving payments from this "U.S. source" if the 28 transaction is taxable to EITHER party. This is made clear by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which says that the transaction is not
 29 "gross income" and is "foreign" and beyond the jurisdiction of the I.R.C. if it does not involve one of these two aspects,
 30 meaning if it does not involve a public officer payer OR an "individual" recipient:

33 (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent

 38 is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

39 (B) Foreign trust The term "foreign trust" means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of

41 Whenever a taxable payment occurs, an information return is filed usually by the payer, who in law must always be treated
 42 as a public officer in the government, meaning a "source within the United States" (government, not geographical USA). 26
 43 U.S.C. §6041(a) says that the information return can only be filed in connection with a "trade or business", meaning that at 44 least one end of the transaction must involve a public officer in the government.

 46 § 6041. Information at source

47 (a) Payments of $600 or more

48 All persons engaged in a trade or business and making payment in the course of such trade or business to
 49 another person, of rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or
 50 other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044
 51 (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045, of $600 or more in any taxable year, or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains, profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment.

Our job is to figure out WHICH end of the transaction is a public officer, because that is the only one subject to the code and therefore a "taxpayer". The PAYOR can be a public officer and therefore a "taxpayer" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) while the PAYEE can be a nonresident and a "nontaxpayer". It makes no sense to report a transaction or withhold, in fact, if the PAYEE is not a "taxpayer".

26 U.S.C. §6041 gives us a clue to the puzzle: it says the PAYER must file the information return and is engaged in a "trade or business", but it doesn't say that the PAYEE ALSO is involved in a "trade or business" as a public officer. Therefore, as a bare minimum every transaction involves a PAYER who is a public officer and therefore a "taxpayer" engaged in a "trade or business". We still don't yet know how the PAYEE would be treated in such a transaction, but as a bare minimum, we know that it is in receipt of "U.S. source" income from a public office within the "United States" government. Some clues, though:

1. Congress only has jurisdiction over PUBLIC activity. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is "repugnant to the Constitution". The constitution exists, in fact, to keep private conduct beyond the reach of the government. Consequently, BOTH parties to the transaction must be acting in a public capacity as public officers and therefore "taxpayers".
2. If the PAYER was a public office and a "taxpayer" but the PAYEE was not, then the I.R.C. would be injuring private parties and interfering with the right to contract of both parties by imposing duties above and beyond the contract between them. The Constitution was created to protect your right to contract, and therefore they can't tax or withhold within such a transaction. Frank Kowalik in his wonderful book IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991 analyzes this aspect of all such payments and agrees with us on this point.
3. 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) uses the phrase "another person" to refer to the payee. so the PAYEE obviously must also be a "taxpayer" and a "person" subject to the code in order for the reporting to occur. Furthermore, if the recipient were NOT such a "person", they would have no liability and therefore would also not be subject to withholding. Withholding is only required for "taxpayers".

An example of payment that would not be taxable or reportable is one made to a non-resident non-person. This would be the case with those in the military who file non-resident non-person withholding paperwork such as the IRS Form W-8BEN, who modify block 3 of the form to indicate that they are "non-resident non-persons", and who are enlisted rather than commissioned officers. When the transaction involves only one "taxpayer", the code does NOT create a liability to report against the withholding agent because the recipient is not a "person" (or "another person" as referred to in 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) and 26 U.S.C. §1461) as a nonresident. 26 U.S.C. §6041A(d)(1) and 26 U.S.C. §6049(d)(1) both establish that BOTH the PAYEE AND THE PAYOR must be STATUTORY "persons" and therefore public officers in order for a payment to be reportable as "gross income" on an information return (e.g. W-2, 1099, etc):

(d) Definitions and special rules

For purposes of this section—

(1) Person

The term “person” includes any governmental unit and any agency or instrumentality thereof and any international organization and any agency or instrumentality thereof.

Note that:

1. As we frequently emphasize throughout our writings, Title 26 is called the “INTERNAL Revenue Code”, which means INTERNAL to the U.S. government, not INTERNAL to the CONSTITUTIONAL or even the GEOGRAPHICAL “United States”.
2. NOWHERE is the STATUTORY term “person” as used in the above two statutes defined to include anything OTHER than a GOVERNMENT or a PRIVILEGED FEDERAL CORPORATION. The “international organization” they are talking about above is, in fact a federal corporation involved in foreign commerce. That is how 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(18) defines an “international organization”.

26 U.S. Code § 7701 - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(18) International organization

The term “international organization” means a public international organization entitled to enjoy privileges [FRANCHISES], exemptions, and immunities as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunities Act (22 U.S.C. 288–288f).

3. The definition of “person” above is the ONLY type of “person” to which information return reporting applies, because the definition SUPERSEDES that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) for the purposes of reporting only and this section.
  - 3.1. 26 U.S.C. §6041A(d)(1) and 26 U.S.C. §6049(d)(1) above do NOT say, for instance, “in ADDITION to the definition of person found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1)”, but rather REPLACE THAT definition for the purposes of reporting.
  - 3.2. 26 U.S.C. §6041A(d) says “(d) Applications to governmental units” but this heading does not betray ANY meaning according to 26 U.S.C. §7806(b) or Railroad Trainmen v. B. & O.R. Co., 331 U.S. 519 (1947). That heading or subsection also does NOT indicate an ADDITION to the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1), and therefore does not imply such an addition.
4. When a definition is provided, it SUPERSEDES the common meaning and by implication EXCLUDES both the common meaning or ALL OTHER meanings provided elsewhere in the code:

“Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"; Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term 'means' . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary."
[Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

The code is civil law that is not enforceable against nonresidents per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). All civil law attaches to the choice of domicile of the parties and cannot operate beyond the territory of the law making power unless:

1. A contract or franchise extends its reach beyond the territory of the sovereign. That franchise or contract, if it is a GOVERNMENT contract, however, CANNOT operate within a state of the Union protected by the Constitution because the rights of those domiciled there are "unalienable", which means that they can't be sold, transferred, or bargained away through any commercial process. Franchises such as a "trade or business" are commercial processes and contracts.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,
[Declaration of Independence]

"Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

2. It operates on a domiciliary temporarily abroad but not within a state of the Union under 26 U.S.C. §911.

26 U.S.C. §1461 makes the PAYER liable to deduct and withhold payment to another "person" but a nonresident cannot be a "person" within the meaning of this civil provision because all civil law attaches to one's choice of domicile:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 3 > Subchapter B > § 1461

Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate power. 'All legislation is prima facie territorial.' Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch. Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park. Crim. Rep. 590, 596. Words having universal scope, such as 'every contract in restraint of trade,' 'every person who shall monopolize,' etc., will be taken, as a matter of course, to mean only everyone subject to such legislation, not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to catch. In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but need not be discussed.
[American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213 U.S. 347 at 357-358]

1 The phrase "general or legitimate power" imply "general and exclusive jurisdiction", not subject matter jurisdiction. The feds
2 only have general jurisdiction within federal territory. In a state, they have limited and subject matter jurisdiction ONLY and
3 NOT general jurisdiction. That is not to say that they don't have jurisdiction over ALL PEOPLE within a state. They always
4 have jurisdiction over those domiciled on federal territory, regardless of where they are situated, including in a state, but they
5 don't have such jurisdiction within a state of those domiciled outside of federal territory and who therefore are not statutory
6 "U.S. citizens", "U.S. residents", and "U.S. persons". The following article emphasizes this point, but is FLAT OUT WRONG
7 in concluding that District Courts in the States of the Union are Article III courts. They have NEVER been given this power.
8 The only thing they can or do is officiate over are Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 franchises such as income taxes, Social 9 Security, etc. and crimes committed on federal territory where they enjoy general jurisdiction. The What Happened to 10 Justice?, Form #06.012 proves this with thousands of pages of evidence.

11 Conflicts in a Nutshell
12 §22 Federal Subject Matter Jurisdiction

13 Because of our federal system, in which more than 50 sovereigns function within the framework of a national 14 sovereign, the federal court structure is unique in that its principal trial court, the U.S. District Court, is a court
15 of limited rather than general jurisdiction. The state is left to supply the "general" court. The federal constitution
16 permits Congress to confer on federal courts of its creation only such jurisdiction as is outlined in section 2 of 17 Article III. Hence the source of these federal limitations is the constitution itself.

18 Even within the federal system, however, one can find courts of general jurisdiction. Areas within the jurisdiction
19 of the United States that lack their own sovereignty, and thus a court system of their own, must depend on the 20 federal legislature for a complete court system: the District of Columbia and the few remaining territories of the 21 United States are in this category. For them, Congress has the power (from Article I of the constitution for the 22 District and from Article IV of the constitution for the territories) to create courts of general jurisdiction. But
23 Congress has no such power with respect to the states, for which reason all of the federal courts sitting within 24 the states, including the district courts, must trace their powers to those within the limits of Article III and are 25 hence courts of "limited" jurisdiction.

26 This is one reason why issues of subject matter jurisdiction arise more frequently in the federal system than in 27 state courts. Another is that for a variety of reasons, federal jurisdiction is often preferred by a plaintiff who has 28 a choice of forums. Taken together, this means that more cases near the subject matter jurisdiction borderline 29 appear in the federal than in the state courts.

30 One of the major sources of federal subject matter jurisdiction is the diversity of citizenship of the parties. It
31 authorizes federal suit even though the dispute involves no issues of federal law. The statute that authorizes this
32 jurisdiction, however (28 U.S.C.A. 1332), requires that there be more than $75,000 in controversy. A plaintiff
33 near that figure and who wants federal jurisdiction will try for it, while a defendant who prefers that the state
34 courts hear the case may try to get it dismissed from federal court on the ground that it can't support a judgment
35 for more than $75,000.

36 A major source of federal jurisdiction is that the case "arises under" federal law, the phrase the constitution itself
37 uses (Article III, §2). Unless it so arises, there is no subject matter jurisdiction under this caption, and whether it
38 does or does not is often the subject of a dispute between the parties to a federal action.

39 For these and other reasons, the study of "subject matter" jurisdiction is a more extensive one in federal than in 40 state practice. Indeed, a law school course on federal courts is likely to be devoted in the main to subject matter
41 jurisdiction, with a correspondingly similar time allotment left for mere procedure, rather the reverse of what

45 So there are two criteria: The PAYER and the PAYEE must BOTH be "persons" and therefore "taxpayers" within the I.R.C.,
46 which is civil law that attaches to their mutual domiciles, in order for either reporting or withholding to lawfully occur. If
47 only the PAYER is a "person" but the payee is NOT, then the transaction is not "gross income" TO THE PAYEE. The term
48 "person" is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) to include "individuals", but "individual" in turn does not include statutory or 49 constitutional "citizens" per 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). The only time "individual" includes STATUTORY "U.S.** citizens"
50 is when they are abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d). Therefore, both the PAYER and the PAYEE MUST be aliens and not 51 citizens engaged in privileged activities if they are not abroad. See:

[Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic: Individual
http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/individual.htm](http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/individual.htm)

1 All of these games with "words of art" relating to Effectively Connected Income (ECI) are designed to disguise and confuse
 2 WHICH end of the transaction is a "taxpayer": the PAYER, the PAYEE, or BOTH. Statutes such as 26 U.S.C. §881(a), for 3 instance, refer to the "recipient", meaning the PAYEE:

4 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART II > Subpart B > § 881
 5 § 881. Tax on income of foreign corporations not connected with United States business

 10 premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, and other fixed or determinable annual or 11 periodical gains, profits, and income,

 15 accruing while such obligation was held by the foreign corporation (to the extent such discount was not 16 theretofore taken into account under subparagraph (B)), and

17 (B) a payment on an original issue discount obligation, an amount equal to the original issue discount accruing 18 while such obligation was held by the foreign corporation (except that such original issue discount shall be 19 taken into account under this subparagraph only to the extent such discount was not theretofore taken into 20 account under this subparagraph and only to the extent that the tax thereon does not exceed the payment less 21 the tax imposed by paragraph (1) thereon), and

22 (4) gains from the sale or exchange after October 4, 1966, of patents, copyrights, secret processes and
 23 formulas, good will, trademarks, trade brands, franchises, and other like property, or of any interest in any 24 such property, to the extent such gains are from payments which are contingent on the productivity, use, or 25 disposition of the property or interest sold or exchanged,

26 but only to the extent the amount so received is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or 27 business within the United States.

28 An amount can only be "received" by a PAYEE.

- 29
- 30 1. We already know the PAYER is a public officer and a "taxpayer" and therefore a "person" under the I.R.C. because 26
  - 31 U.S.C. §6041(a) admitted he/she/it had to be engaged in a "trade or business" in order to report the transaction.
  - 32 2. 26 U.S.C. §1461 also said that the PAYER is only liable if BOTH ends of the transaction are "persons" and therefore
  - 33 "taxpayers". A "nonresident" would NOT be subject to the code and therefore NOT a "person", "individual", or
  - 34 "taxpayer". See:

35 Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002

36 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 37 3. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) also says that when NEITHER the PAYER nor the PAYEE are engaged in public office
- 38 ("trade or business") and the payment does not originate from "sources within the United States", meaning the de facto
- 39 government, then the transaction isn't taxable.

40 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) at first glance might appear to confuse this explanation, but in fact it doesn't. It implies that "sources within the United States" and "trade or business" are synonymous when in fact they aren't the same for BOTH parties to the transaction:

41 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > § 864
 42 § 864. Definitions and special rules

43 (c) Effectively connected income, etc.

44 (3) Other income from sources within United States

All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

There is no contradiction because the PAYER is ALWAYS a public officer and therefore a "U.S. source" and a "taxpayer" on one side of the coin while the PAYEE can be a nonresident and yet also not a "taxpayer", "individual", or "person" on the other side of the same coin. Everyone serving in a public office within the U.S. government is, by definition, a "source within the United States" if they are making a payment to someone else in their official capacity. Once again: EVERY TRANSACTION has two ends, and it depends which end you are looking at. You need to be VERY clear from the language which end it is and what you are looking for, because the language will try to confuse the ends to make it look like EVERYONE is a "taxpayer", "individual", and therefore "person". Clues to which end of the transaction they are talking about:

1. PAYER: Words used would be "paid", "making payment".
2. PAYEE: Words used would be "received", "amount received".

Another fact is also important that people like Pete Hendrickson chronically overlook. Yes, an information return always involves a "trade or business" because 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) says so. However, does it ALSO imply or require or impute that the PAYEE is engaged in a "trade or business"? A worthy exercise would be to go through all the instruction forms for information returns and the IRS publications to see what they say about WHICH ends of the transaction must be engaged in a "trade or business". We did a cursory look and they almost always talk to the FILER of the information return and use the phrase "YOUR trade or business", as though they are implying that the PAYER is the ONLY one engaged in the public office.

How then, does the PAYEE become involved in a "trade or business" if the information return doesn't imply it? Below are the MAIN techniques":

1. Taking deductions under 26 U.S.C. §162, all of which require those taking them to be engaged in a "trade or business". See section 5.6.12.11.1 later
2. Using a RESIDENT tax form, the 1040. The "United States" that a person is a "resident" (alien) in relation to is the GOVERNMENT, and not the geographical USA. The "United States" one is a "resident" of is the government, and the "person" who is the resident is the public office within the government, and not the human being filling the office. See section 5.6.12.11.5 later
3. Using government de facto license numbers such as SSNs and TINs. 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) says that these numbers are only required by those engaged in a "trade or business" and who are "U.S. persons", meaning people domiciled on federal territory that is no part of any state of the Union. See section 5.6.12.11.4 later and also the following:

About SSNs and TINs on Government Forms and Correspondence, Form #04.104
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

To summarize the findings of this section:

1. The language within the I.R.C. surrounding the use of the word "trade or business" is very deliberately and cunningly trying to confuse you about which end of the transaction is the public officer and therefore the "taxpayer" because they want you to assume EVERYONE is a "taxpayer", "person", and "individual". If they were more honest, they would have referred directly to the words "PAYER" and "PAYEE".
2. Every transaction has TWO parties, a PAYER, and a PAYEE.
  - 2.1. The PAYER is always a public officer and a "taxpayer", and therefore a "person" and "U.S. person" (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30)) subject to federal law. A "public office" making payments to a nonresident, for instance, is a "U.S. source" and the PAYER is a "trade or business" but the payee is NOT. Some PAYERS unlawfully compel the nonresident to "elect" themselves into public office by compelling them to procure and use an identifying number before they will make the payment. This is a criminal violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8) and 18 U.S.C. §912 and causes perjury on the Forms SS-5, W-7, and W-9 in the case of a nonresident domiciled in a state of the union who does not ALREADY occupy a public office BEFORE they made application for the number.
  - 2.2. The PAYEE most often is, in reality, a nonresident who is neither a "person", "individual", nor "taxpayer" but who wrongfully thinks they are because of the deliberate and calculated confusion in the code you point out.
3. Everything the PAYEE receives from the PAYER is, by definition, "U.S. source income" because the "U.S." means the government, and not the geographical sense. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) is a red herring, because it uses the phrase "geographical sense", but nowhere is the "geographical sense" of the word ever expressly invoked throughout the entire 9500 page Internal Revenue Code.

3.1. The payment is ECI IN RELATION TO THE PAYER while also being. . .

3.2. "U.S. source" and NOT ECI in relation to a PAYEE who is NOT engaged in a "trade or business" or who is nonresident.

3.3. It is only taxable, reportable, or subject to withholding if BOTH the PAYER and the PAYEE are "persons", "U.S. persons", and "taxpayers" domiciled on federal territory. It isn't taxable if either end of the transaction is a nonresident and therefore not a "person", "individual", or "taxpayer". Domicile is the origin of the liability for tax. That is why there are so many statutes mentioned in the Non-Resident Non-Person Position booklet that say that nonresidents don't earn reportable income. This is made clear below:

5.6.12.10 Public office generally

5.6.12.10.1 Legal requirements for holding a "public office"?

The subject of exactly what constitutes a "public office" within the meaning described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) is not defined in any IRS publication we could find. The reason is quite clear: the "trade or business" scam is the Achilles heel of the IRS fraud and both the IRS and the Courts are loath to even talk about it because there is nothing they can defend themselves with other than unsubstantiated presumption created by the abuse of the word "includes" and certain key "words of art". In the face of such overwhelming evidence of their own illegal and criminal mis-enforcement of the tax codes, silence or omission in either admitting it or prosecuting it can only be characterized as FRAUD on a massive scale, in fact:

"Silence can only be equated with fraud where there is a legal or moral duty to speak or where an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading."
 [U.S. v. Prudden, 424 F.2d. 1021 (5th Cir. 1970)]

"Silence can be equated with fraud where there is a legal or moral duty to speak, or where an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading. . . We cannot condone this shocking behavior by the IRS. Our revenue system is based on the good faith of the taxpayer and the taxpayers should be able to expect the same from the government in its enforcement and collection activities."
 [U.S. v. Tweel, 550 F.2d. 297, 299 (5th Cir. 1977)]

"Silence is a species of conduct, and constitutes an implied representation of the existence of the state of facts in question, and the estoppel is accordingly a species of estoppel by misrepresentation. When silence is of such a character and under such circumstances that it would become a fraud upon the other party to permit the party who has kept silent to deny what his silence has induced the other to believe and act upon, it will operate as an estoppel."
 [Carmine v. Bowen, 64 A. 932 (1906)]

The "duty" the courts are talking about above is the fiduciary duty of all those serving in public offices in the government, and that fiduciary duty was created by the oath of office they took before they entered the office. Therefore, those who want to know how they could lawfully be classified as a "public office" will have to answer that question completely on their own, which is what we will attempt to do in this section.

"Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 79 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56, 58. An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Goff, C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 403, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v. State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Curtin v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v. City of Elkhart, 75 Ind.App. 493, 129 N.E. 878. State ex rel. Colorado River Commission v. Frohmiller, 46 Ariz. 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient authority, but for such time as denotes duration and continuance, with independent power to control the property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the service to be compensated by a

1 stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position so created is a public office.
 2 State v. Brennan, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593."
 3 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1235]

4 Black's Law Dictionary Sixth Edition further clarifies the meaning of a "public office" below:

5 "Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are:

6 (1) Authority conferred by law,

7 (2) Fixed tenure of office, and

8 (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.

9
 10 Key element of such test is that "officer is carrying out a sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino, 168 Conn.
 11 563, 362 A.2d. 871, 875. Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are:

12 Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.

13 Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,

14 Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.

15 Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and

16 Position must have some permanency."

17 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1230]

18 American Jurisprudence Legal Encyclopedia further clarifies what a "public office" is as follows:

19 "As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be
 20 exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. <sup>221</sup>

21 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level
 22 of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under
 23 every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain
 24 from a discharge of their trusts. <sup>222</sup> That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political

25 entity on whose behalf he or she serves. <sup>223</sup> and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. <sup>224</sup> It has been said that
 26 the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. <sup>225</sup>

27 Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public

delegated and possessed may be a portion belonging sometimes to one of the three great departments and sometimes to another; still it is a legal power which may be rightfully exercised, and in its effects it will bind the rights of others and be subject to revision and correction only according to the standing laws of the state. An employment merely has none of these distinguishing features. A public agent acts only on behalf of his principal, the public, whose sanction is generally considered as necessary to give the acts performed the authority and power of a public act or law. And if the act be such as not to require subsequent sanction, still it is only a species of service performed under the public authority and for the public good, but not in the exercise of any standing laws which are considered as roles of action and guardians of rights."<sup>228</sup>

In particular cases, other distinctions will appear which are not general."<sup>229</sup>

Based on the foregoing, one cannot be a "public officer" if:

1. There is not a statute or constitutional authority that specifically creates the office. All "public offices" can only be created through legislative authority.
2. Their duties are not specifically and exactly enumerated in some Act of Congress.
3. They have a boss or immediate supervisor. All duties must be performed INDEPENDENTLY.
4. They have anyone but the law and the courts to immediately supervise their activities.
5. They are serving as a "public officer" in a location NOT specifically authorized by the law. The law must create the office and specify exactly where it is to be exercised. 4 U.S.C. §72 says ALL public offices of the federal and national government MUST be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, except as expressly provided by law.
6. Their position does not carry with it some kind of fiduciary duty to the "public" which in turn is documented in and enforced by enacted law itself.
7. The beneficiary of their fiduciary duty is other than the "public". Public service is a public trust, and the beneficiary of the trust is the public at large and not any one specific individual or group of individuals. See 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(b) and Executive Order 12731.

All public officers must take an oath. The oath, in fact, is what creates the fiduciary duty that attaches to the office. This is confirmed by the definition of "public official" in Black's Law Dictionary:

"Public official. A person who, upon being issued a commission, taking required oath, enters upon, for a fixed tenure, a position called an office where he or she exercises in his or her own right some of the attributes of sovereign he or she serves for benefit of public. Macy v. Heverin, 44 Md.App. 358, 408 A.2d. 1067, 1069. The holder of a public office though not all persons in public employment are public officials, because public official's position requires the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, whether great or small. Town of Arlington v. Bds. of Conciliation and Arbitration, Mass., 352 N.E.2d. 914.

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1230]

The oath for United States federal and state officials was prescribed in the very first enactment of Congress on March 4, 1789 as follows:

Statutes at Large, March 4, 1789
1 Stat. 23-24

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and [Home of] Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the oath or affirmation required by the sixth article of the Constitution of the United States, shall be administered in the form following, to wit: "I, A, B. do solemnly swear or affirm (as the case may be) that I will support the Constitution of the United States." The said oath or affirmation shall be administered within three days after the passing of this act, by any one member of the Senate, to the President of the Senate, and by him to all the members and to the secretary; and by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to all the members who have not taken a similar oath, by virtue of a particular resolution of the said House, and to the clerk: and in case of the absence of any member from the service of either House, at the time prescribed for taking the said oath or affirmation, the same shall be administered to such member, when he shall appear to take his seat.

SEC. 2. And he it further enacted, That at the first session of Congress after every general election of Representatives aforesaid, the oath or affirmation aforesaid, shall be administered by any one member of the House of Representatives to the Speaker; and by him to all the members present, and to the clerk, previous to entering on any other business; and to the members who shall afterwards appear, previous to taking their seats. The President of the Senate for the time being, shall also administer the said oath or affirmation to each Senator who shall hereafter be elected, previous to his taking his seat: and in any future case of a President of the Senate, who shall not have taken the said oath or affirmation, the same shall be administered to him by any one of the members of the Senate.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted. That the members of the several State legislatures, at the next sessions of the said legislatures, respectively, and all executive and judicial officers of the several States, who have been heretofore chosen or appointed, or who shall be chosen or appointed before the first day of August next, and who shall then be in office, shall, within one month thereafter, take the same oath or affirmation, except where they shall have taken it before; which may be administered by any person authorized by the law of the State, in which such office shall be holden, to administer oaths. And the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers of the several States, who shall be chosen or appointed after the said first day of August, shall, before they proceed to execute the duties of their respective offices, take the foregoing oath or affirmation, which shall be administered by the person or persons, who by the law of the State shall be authorized to administer the oath of office; and the person or persons so administering the oath hereby required to be taken, shall cause a record or certificate thereof to be made, in the same manner, as, by the law of the State, he or they shall be directed to record or certify the oath of office.

SEC. 4. And he it further enacted, That all officers appointed, or hereafter to be appointed under the authority of the United States, shall, before they act in their respective offices, take the same oath or affirmation, which shall be administered by the person or persons who shall be authorized by law to administer to such officers their respective oaths of office; and such officers shall incur the same penalties in case of failure, as shall be imposed by law in case of failure in taking their respective oaths of office.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the secretary of the Senate, and the clerk of the House of Representatives for the time being, shall, at the time of taking the oath or affirmation aforesaid, each take an oath or affirmation in the words following, to wit: "I, A. B. secretary of the Senate, or clerk of the House of Representatives (as the case may be) of the United States of America, do solemnly swear or affirm, that I will truly and faithfully discharge the duties of my said office, to the best of my knowledge and abilities."

1. Federal Officers:
  - 1.1. The President of the United States.
  - 1.2. Members of the House of Representatives.
  - 1.3. Members of the Senate.
  - 1.4. All appointed by the President of the United States.
  - 1.5. The secretary of the Senate.
  - 1.6. The clerk of the House of Representatives.
  - 1.7. All district, circuit, and supreme court justices.
2. State Officers:
  - 2.1. The governor of the state.
  - 2.2. Members of the House of Representatives.
  - 2.3. Members of the Senate.
  - 2.4. All district, circuit, and supreme court justices of the state.

At the federal level, all those engaged in the above "public offices" are statutorily identified in 5 U.S.C. §2105. Consistent with this section, what most people would regard as ordinary common law employees are not included in the definition. Note the phrase "an officer AND an individual":

TITLE 5 > PART III > Subpart A > CHAPTER 21 > § 2105
§ 2105. Employee

(a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is—

(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity—

- 1 (A) the President;
 2 (B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
 3 (C) a member of a uniformed service;
 4 (D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
 5 (E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
 6 (F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709 (c) of title 32;

- 7 (2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
 8 (3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the
 9 performance of the duties of his position.

10 Within the military, only commissioned officers are “public officers”. Enlisted or NCOs (Non-Commissioned Officers) are 11 not.

12 Those holding Federal or State public office, county or municipal office, under the Legislative, Executive or Judicial branch,
 13 including Court Officials, Judges, Prosecutors, Law Enforcement Department employees, Officers of the Court, and etc.,
 14 before entering into these public offices, are required by the U.S. Constitution and statutory law to comply with 5 U.S.C.
 15 §3331, “Oath of office.” State Officials are also required to meet this same obligation, according to State Constitutions and 16 State statutory law.

17 All oaths of office come under 22 C.F.R., Foreign Relations, Sections §§92.12 - 92.30, and all who hold public office come 18 under 8 U.S.C. §1481 “Loss of nationality by native-born or naturalized citizen; voluntary action; burden of proof;
 19 presumptions.”

20 Under Title 22 U.S.C., Foreign Relations and Intercourse, Section §611, a Public Official is considered a foreign agent. In 21 order to hold public office, the candidate must file a true and complete registration statement with the State Attorney General
 22 as a foreign principle.

23 The Oath of Office requires the public officials in his/her foreign state capacity to uphold the constitutional form of 24 government or face consequences, according to 10 U.S.C. §333, “Interference with State and Federal law”

25 The President, by using the militia or the armed forces, or both, or by any other means, shall take such measures
 26 as he considers necessary to suppress, in a State, any insurrection, domestic violence, unlawful combination, or

 30 by law, and the constituted authorities of that State are unable, fail, or refuse to protect that right, privilege, or 31 immunity, or to give that protection; or

32 (2) opposes or obstructs the execution of the laws of the United States or impedes the course of justice under 33 those laws.

34 In any situation covered by clause (1), the State shall be considered to have denied the equal protection of the 35 laws secured by the Constitution.

36 Willful refusal action while serving in official capacity violates 18 U.S.C. §1918, “Disloyalty and asserting the right to strike
 37 against the Government”

38 Whoever violates the provision of 7311 of title 5 that an individual may not accept or hold a position in the 39 Government of the United States or the government of the District of Columbia if he—

40 (1) advocates the overthrow of our constitutional form of government;

41 (2) is a member of an organization that he knows advocates the overthrow of our constitutional form of 42 government;

43 shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than one year and a day, or both.

44 AND violates 18 U.S.C. §1346:

45 TITLE 18 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 63 § 1346. Definition of “scheme or artifice to defraud

1 " For the purposes of this chapter, the term "scheme or artifice to defraud" includes a scheme or artifice to
2 deprive another of the intangible right of honest services.

3 The "public offices" described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) within the definition of "trade or business" are ONLY public offices
4 located in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere. To wit:

5 TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
6 § 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

7 All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere,
8 except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

10 The only provision of any act of Congress that we have been able to find which authorizes "public offices" outside the District
11 of Columbia as expressly required by law above, is 48 U.S.C. §1612, which authorizes enforcement of the Internal Revenue
12 Code within the U.S. Virgin Islands. To wit:

13 TITLE 48 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER V > § 1612
14 § 1612. Jurisdiction of District Court

15 (a) Jurisdiction

16 The District Court of the Virgin Islands shall have the jurisdiction of a District Court of the United States,
17 including, but not limited to, the diversity jurisdiction provided for in section 1332 of title 28 and that of a
18 bankruptcy court of the United States. The District Court of the Virgin Islands shall have exclusive jurisdiction
19 over all criminal and civil proceedings in the Virgin Islands with respect to the income tax laws applicable to 20 the Virgin Islands, regardless of the degree of the offense or of the amount involved, except the ancillary laws
21 relating to the income tax enacted by the legislature of the Virgin Islands. Any act or failure to act with respect
22 to the income tax laws applicable to the Virgin Islands which would constitute a criminal offense described in 23 chapter 75 of subtitle F of title 26 shall constitute an offense against the government of the Virgin Islands and
24 may be prosecuted in the name of the government of the Virgin Islands by the appropriate officers thereof in the 25 District Court of the Virgin Islands without the request or the consent of the United States attorney for the Virgin
26 Islands, notwithstanding the provisions of section 1617 of this title.

27 There is NO PROVISION OF LAW which would similarly extend public offices or jurisdiction to enforce any provision of 28 the Internal Revenue Code to any place within the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union, because Congress enjoys
29 NO LEGISLATIVE JURISDICTION THERE.

30 "It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S.
31 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal
32 affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation."
33 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

34 "The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions
35 concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court
36 has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their
37 political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation
38 upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."
39 [Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

40 By law then, no "public office" may therefore be exercised OUTSIDE the District of Columbia except as "expressly provided 41 by law", including privileged or licensed activities such as a "trade or business". This was also confirmed by the U.S.
42 Supreme Court in the License Tax Cases, when they said:

43 "Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and
44 with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to
45 trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive
46 power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the
47 granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

48 But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this
49 commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively
50 to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted
51 by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the
52 legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the

State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.

Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Since I.R.C., Subtitle A is a franchise or excise tax on “public offices”, which is called a “trade or business”, then the tax can only apply to those domiciled within the statutory but not constitutional “United States**” (federal territory), wherever they are physically located to include states of the Union, but only if they are serving under oath in their official capacity as “public officers”.

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”

Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

Another important point needs to be emphasized, which is that those working for the federal government, while on official duty, are representing a federal corporation called the “United States”, which is domiciled in the District of Columbia.

(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

Government employees, including “public officers”, while on official duty representing the federal corporation called the “United States”, maintain the character of the entity they represent and therefore have a legal domicile in the statutory but not constitutional “United States**” (federal territory) within the context of their official duties. The Internal Revenue Code also reflects this fact in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d):

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701

16 Kidnapping and transporting the legal identity of a person domiciled outside the District of Columbia in a foreign state, which 17 includes states of the Union, is illegal pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §1201. Therefore, the only people who can be legally and 18 involuntarily “kidnapped” by the courts based on the above two provisions of statutory law are those who individually consent
19 through private contract to act as “public officers” in the execution of their official duties. The fiduciary duty of these “public
20 officers” is further defined in the I.R.C. as follows, and it is only by an oath of “public office” that this fiduciary duty can 21 lawfully be created:

33 of which the violation occurs.

34 We remind our readers that there is no liability statute within I.R.C., Subtitle A that would create the duty documented above,
35 and therefore the ONLY way it can be created is by the oath of office of the “public officers” who are the subject of the tax
36 in question. This was thoroughly described in the following article:

There's No Statute Making Anyone Liable to Pay IRC Subtitle A Income Taxes, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/NoStatuteLiable.htm>

37 The existence of fiduciary duty of “public officers” is therefore the ONLY lawful method by which anyone can be prosecuted
38 for an “omission”, which is a thing they didn't do that the law required them to do. It is otherwise illegal and unlawful to 39 prosecute anyone under either common law or statutory law for a FAILURE to do something, such as a FAILURE TO FILE
40 a tax return pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7203. Below is an example of where the government gets its authority to prosecute
41 “taxpayers” for failure to file a tax return, in fact:

1 "I: DUTY TO ACCOUNT FOR PUBLIC FUNDS

2 § 909. In general. -It is the duty of the public officer, like any other agent or trustee, although not declared by
 3 express statute, to faithfully account for and pay over to the proper authorities all moneys which may come
 4 into his hands upon the public account, and the performance of this duty may be enforced by proper actions
 5 against the officer himself, or against those who have become sureties for the faithful discharge of his duties."

8 In addition to the above, every attorney admitted to practice law in any state or federal court is described as an "officer of the 9 court", and therefore ALSO is a "public officer":

10 Attorney at law. An advocate, counsel, or official agent employed in preparing, managing, and trying cases in

28 Executive Order 12731 and 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(a) furthermore both indicate that "public service is a public trust":

29 Executive Order 12731
 30 "Part 1 -- PRINCIPLES OF ETHICAL CONDUCT

31 "Section 101. Principles of Ethical Conduct. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the 32 integrity of the Federal Government, each Federal employee shall respect and adhere to the fundamental 33 principles of ethical service as implemented in regulations promulgated under sections 201 and 301 of this order:

34 "(a) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws, and 35 ethical principles above private gain.

36
 37 TITLE 5--ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL
 38 CHAPTER XVI--OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT ETHICS
 39 PART 2635--STANDARDS OF ETHICAL CONDUCT FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE EXECUTIVE
 40 BRANCH--Table of Contents
 41 Subpart A--General Provisions
 42 Sec. 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

43 (a) Public service is a public trust. Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and 44 its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that 45 every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall 46 respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing 47 standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.

48 The above provisions of law imply that everyone who works for the government is a "trustee" of "We the People", who are 49 the sovereigns they serve in the public. In law, EVERY "trustee" is a "fiduciary" of the Beneficiary of the trust within which 50 he serves:

51 "TRUSTEE. The person appointed, or required by law, to execute a trust; one in whom an estate, interest, or
 52 power is vested, under an express or implied agreement [e.g. PRIVATE LAW or CONTRACT] to administer
 53 or exercise it for the benefit or to the use of another called the cestui que trust. Pioneer Mining Co. v. Ty berg,
 54 C. C.A. Alaska, 215 F. 501, 506, L.R.A.1915B, 442; Kaehn v. St. Paul Co-op. Ass'n, 156 Minn. 113, 194 N.W. 112;
 55 Catlett v. Hawthorne, 157 Va. 372, 161 S.E. 47, 48. Person who holds title to res and administers it for others'
 56 benefit. Reinecke v. Smith, Ill., 53 S.Ct. 570, 289 U.S. 172, 77 L.Ed. 1109. In a strict sense, a "trustee" is one

'who holds the legal title to property for the benefit of another, while, in a broad sense, the term is sometimes applied to anyone standing in a fiduciary or confidential relation to another, such as agent, attorney, bailee, etc. State ex rel. Lee v. Sartorius, 344 Mo. 912, 130 S.W.2d. 547, 549, 550. "Trustee" is also used in a wide and perhaps inaccurate sense, to denote that a person has the duty of carrying out a transaction, in which he and another person are interested, in such manner as will be most for the benefit of the latter, and not in such a way that he himself might be tempted, for the sake of his personal advantage, to neglect the interests of the other. In this sense, directors of companies are said to be "trustees for the shareholders." Sweet. [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1684]

The fact that public service is a "public trust" was also confirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, when it said:

"Whatever these Constitutions and laws validly determine to be property, it is the duty of the Federal Government, through the domain of jurisdiction merely Federal, to recognize to be property.

"And this principle follows from the structure of the respective Governments, State and Federal, and their reciprocal relations. They are different agents and trustees of the people of the several States, appointed with different powers and with distinct purposes, but whose acts, within the scope of their respective jurisdictions, are mutually obligatory."
[Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393 (1856)]

An example of someone who is NOT a "public officer" is a federal worker on duty and who is not required to take an oath. These people may think of themselves as employees in an ordinary and not statutory sense and even be called employees by their supervisor or employer, but in fact NOT be the statutory "employee" defined in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). Remember that 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) defines a STATUTORY "employee" as "an officer and an individual" and you don't become an "officer" in a statutory sense unless and until you take a Constitutional oath. Almost invariably, such workers also have some kind of immediate supervisor who manages and oversees and evaluates his activities pursuant to the position description drafted for the position he fills. He may be a "trustee" and he may have a "fiduciary duty" to the public as a "public servant", but he isn't an "officer" or "public officer" unless and until he takes an oath of office prescribed by law. A federal worker, however, can become a "public office" by virtue of any one or more of the following purposes that we are aware of so far:

1. Be elected to political office.
2. Being appointed to political office by the President or the governor of a state of the Union.

A "public office" is not limited to a human being. It can also extend to an entire entity such as a corporation. An example of an entity that is a "public office" in its entirety is a federally chartered bank, such as the original Bank of the United States described in Osborn v. United States, in which the U.S. Supreme Court identified the original and first Bank of the United States, a federally chartered bank corporation created by Congress, as a "public office":

All the powers of the government must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with individuals. Can any public office be created, or does one exist, the performance of which may, with propriety, be assigned to this association [or trust], when incorporated? If such office exist, or can be created, then the company may be incorporated, that they may be appointed to execute such office. Is there any portion of the public business performed by individuals upon contracts, that this association could be employed to perform, with greater advantage and more safety to the public, than an individual contractor? If there be an employment of this nature, then may this company be incorporated to undertake it.

There is an employment of this nature. Nothing can be more essential to the fiscal concerns of the nation, than an agent of undoubted integrity and established credit, with whom the public moneys can, at all times, be safely deposited. Nothing can be of more importance to a government, than that there should be some capitalist in the country, who possesses the means of making advances of money to the government upon any exigency, and who is under a legal obligation to make such advances. For these purposes the association would be an agent peculiarly suitable and appropriate. [ . . . ]

The mere creation of a corporation, does not confer political power or political character. So this Court decided in Dartmouth College v. Woodward, already referred to. If I may be allowed to paraphrase the language of the Chief Justice, I would say, a bank incorporated, is no more a State instrument, than a natural person performing the same business would be. If, then, a natural person, engaged in the trade of banking, should contract with the government to receive the public money upon deposit, to transmit it from place to place, without charging for commission or difference of exchange, and to perform, when called upon, the duties of commissioner of loans, would not thereby become a public officer, how is it that this artificial being, created by law for the purpose of being employed by the government for the same purposes, should become a part of the civil government of the country? Is it because its existence, its capacities, its powers, are given by law? because the government has given it power to take and hold property in a particular form, and to employ that property for particular purposes, and in the disposition of it to use a particular name? because the government has sold it a privilege [22 U.S. 738,

1 774] for a large sum of money, and has bargained with it to do certain things; is it, therefore, a part of the very
2 government with which the contract is made?

3 If the Bank be constituted a public office, by the connexion between it and the government, it cannot be the
4 mere legal franchise in which the office is vested; the individual stockholders must be the officers. Their
5 character is not merged in the charter. This is the strong point of the Mayor and Commonalty v. Wood, upon
6 which this Court ground their decision in the Bank v. Deveaux, and from which they say, that cause could not be
7 distinguished. Thus, aliens may become public officers, and public duties are confided to those who owe no
8 allegiance to the government, and who are even beyond its territorial limits.

9 With the privileges and perquisites of office, all individuals holding offices, ought to be subject to the 10 disabilities of office. But if the Bank be a public office, and the individual stockholders public officers, this
11 principle does not have a fair and just operation. The disabilities of office do not attach to the stockholders; for 12 we find them every where holding public offices, even in the national Legislature, from which, if they be public
13 officers, they are excluded by the constitution in express terms.

14 If the Bank be a public institution of such character as to be justly assimilated to the mint and the post office,
15 then its charter may be amended, altered, or even abolished, at the discretion of the National Legislature. All
16 public offices are created [22 U.S. 738, 775] purely for public purposes, and may, at any time, be modified in 17 such manner as the public interest may require. Public corporations partake of the same character. So it is 18 distinctly adjudged in Dartmouth College v. Woodward. In this point, each Judge who delivered an opinion
19 concurred. By one of the Judges it is said, that 'public corporations are generally esteemed such as exist for 20 public political purposes only, such as towns, cities, parishes and counties; and in many respects they are so,
21 although they involve some private interests; but, strictly speaking, public corporations are such only as are
22 founded by the government for public purposes, where the whole interest belongs also to the government. If,
23 therefore, the foundation be private, though under the charter of the government, the corporation is private,
24 however extensive the uses may be to which it is devoted, either by the bounty of the founder, or the nature and
25 objects of the institution. For instance, a bank, created by the government for its own uses, whose stock is 26 exclusively owned by the government, is, in the strictest sense, a public corporation. So, a hospital created and
27 endowed by the government for general charity. But a bank, whose stock is owned by private persons, is a
28 private corporation, although it is erected by the government, and its objects and operations partake of a public
29 nature. The same doctrine may be affirmed of insurance, canal, bridge, and turnpike companies. In all these 30 cases, the uses may, in a certain sense, be called public, but the corporations are private; as much [22 U.S. 738,
31 776] so, indeed, as if the franchises were vested in a single person.[. . .]

32 In what sense is it an instrument of the government? and in what character is it employed as such? Do the 33 government employ the faculty, the legal franchise, or do they employ the individuals upon whom it is conferred?
34 and what is the nature of that employment? does it resemble the post office, or the mint, or the custom house, or 35 the process of the federal Courts?

36 The post office is established by the general government. It is a public institution. The persons who perform its 37 duties are public officers. No individual has, or can acquire, any property in it. For all the services performed, a 38 compensation is paid out of the national treasury; and all the money received upon account of its operations, is 39 public property. Surely there is no similitude between this institution, and an association who trade upon their 40 own capital, for their own profit, and who have paid the government a million and a half of dollars for a legal 41 character and name, in which to conduct their trade.

42 Again: the business conducted through the agency of the post office, is not in its nature a private business. It is
43 of a public character, and the [22 U.S. 738, 786] charge of it is expressly conferred upon Congress by the 44 constitution. The business is created by law, and is annihilated when the law is repealed. But the trade of banking
45 is strictly a private concern. It exists and can be carried on without the aid of the national Legislature. Nay, it is 46 only under very special circumstances, that the national Legislature can so far interfere with it, as to facilitate its 47 operations.

48 The post office executes the various duties assigned to it, by means of subordinate agents. The mails are opened
49 and closed by persons invested with the character of public officers. But they are transported by individuals
50 employed for that purpose, in their individual character, which employment is created by and founded in contract.
51 To such contractors no official character is attached. These contractors supply horses, carriages, and whatever
52 else is necessary for the transportation of the mails, upon their own account. The whole is engaged in the public
53 service. The contractor, his horses, his carriage, his driver, are all in public employ. But this does not change
54 their character. All that was private property before the contract was made, and before they were engaged in 55 public employ, remain private property still. The horses and the carriages are liable to be taxed as other property,
56 for every purpose for which property of the same character is taxed in the place where they are employed. The 57 reason is plain: the contractor is employing his own means to promote his own private profit, and the tax collected
58 is from the individual, though assessed upon the [22 U.S. 738, 787] means he uses to perform the public service.
59 To tax the transportation of the mails, as such, would be taxing the operations of the government, which could 60 not be allowed. But to tax the means by which this transportation is effected, so far as those means are private 61 property, is allowable; because it abstracts nothing from the government; and because, the fact that an individual 62 employs his private means in the service of the government, attaches to them no immunity whatever."

1 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

2 The record of the House of Representatives after the enactment of the first income tax during the Civil War in 1862, confirmed
3 that the income tax was upon a "public office" and that even IRS agents, who are not "public officers" and who are not
4 required to take an oath, are therefore exempt from the requirements of the revenue acts in place at the time. Read the amazing
5 truth for yourself:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/PublicOrPrivate-Tax-Return.pdf>

6 Below is an excerpt from that report proving our point. The Secretary of the Treasury at the time is comparing the federal
7 tax liabilities of postal clerks to those of internal revenue clerks. At that time, the IRS was called the Bureau of Internal
8 Revenue. The office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue was established in 1862 as an emergency measure to fund the 9 Civil War, which ended shortly thereafter, but the illegal enforcement of the revenue laws continued and expanded into the 10 states over succeeding years:

13 Salary Tax Upon Clerks to Postmasters

14 Letter form the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to A resolution of the House of the 12th of February, 15 relative to salary tax upon clerks to postmasters, with the regulations of the department

16 Postmasters' clerks are appointed by postmasters, and take the oaths of office prescribed in the 2d section of 17 the act of July 2, 1862, and in the 2d section of the act of March 3, 1863.

18 Their salaries are not fixed in amount bylaw, but from time to time the Post master General fixes the amount,
19 allotted to each postmaster for clerk hire, under the authority conferred upon him by tile ninth section of the act
20 of June 5, 1836, and then the postmaster, as an agent for and in behalf of the United States, determines the salary
21 to be paid to each of his clerks. These salaries are paid by the postmasters, acting as disbursing agents, from
22 United States moneys advanced to them for this purpose, either directly from the Post Office Department in 23 pursuance of appropriations made by law, or from the accruing revenues of their offices, under the instructions
24 of the Postmaster General. The receipt of such clerks constitute vouchers in the accounts of the postmasters
25 acting as disbursing agents in the settlements made with them by the Sixth Auditor. In the foregoing transactions
26 the postmaster acts not as a principal, but as an agent of the United States, and the clerks are not in his private 27 employment, but in the public employment of the United States. Such being the facts, these clerks are subjected 28 to and required to account for and pay the salary tax, imposed by the one hundred and twenty-third section of 29 the internal revenue act of June 30, 1864, as amended by the ninth section of the internal revenue act of July 13,
30 1866, upon payments for services to persons in the civil employment or service of the United States.

31 Copies of the regulations under which such salary taxes are withheld and paid into the treasury to the credit of 32 *internal revenue collection account are herewith transmitted, marked A, b, and C. Clerks to assessors of internal 33 revenue [IRS agents] are appointed by the assessors. Neither law nor regulations require them to take an oath
34 of office, because, as the law at present stands, they are not in the public service of the United States, through* 35 the agency of the assessor, but are in the private service of the assessor, as a principal, who employs them.

36 The salaries of such clerks are neither fixed in amount by law, nor are they regulated by any officer of the Treasury
37 Department over the clerk hire of assessors is to prescribe a necessary and reasonable amount which shall not 38 be exceeded in reimbursing the assessors for this item of their expenses.

39 No money is advanced by the United States for the payment of such salaries, nor do the assessors perform the 40 duties of disbursing agents of the United States in paying their clerks. The entire amount allowed is paid directly
41 to the assessor, and he is not accountable to the United States for its payment to his clerks, for the reason that he
42 has paid them in advance, out of his own funds, and this is a reimbursement to him of such amount as the
43 *department decides to be reasonable. No salary tax is therefore collected, or required by the Treasury
44 Department to be accounted for, or paid, on account of payments to the assessors' clerks, as the United States
45 pays no such clerks nor has them in its employ or service, and they do not come within the provisions of existing 46 laws imposing such a tax.

47 Perhaps no better illustration of the difference between the status of postmasters' clerks and that of assessors'
48 clerks can be given than the following: A postmaster became a defaulter, without paying his clerks.; his successor
49 received from the Postmaster General a new remittance for paying them; and if at any time, the clerks in a post
50 office do not receive their salaries, by reason of the death, resignation or removal of a postmaster, the new
51 appointee is authorized by the regulations of the Post Office Department to pay them out of the proceeds of the

1 office; and should there be no funds in his hands belonging to the department, a draft is issued to place money in 2 his hands for that purpose.

3 If an assessor had not paid his clerks, they would have no legal claim upon the treasury for their salaries. A
4 discrimination is made between postmasters' clerks and assessor's clerks to the extent and for the reasons
5 hereinbefore set forth.

6 I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

7 H. McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury
8 [House of Representatives, Ex. Doc. 99, 1867, pp. 1-2]

9 Notice based on the above that revenue officers don't take an oath, so they don't have to pay the tax, while postal clerks take 10 an oath, so they do. Therefore, the oath that creates the "public office" is the method by which the government manufactures
11 "public officers", "taxpayers", and "sponsors" for its wasteful use or abuse of public monies. If you would like a whole
12 BOOK full of reasons why the only "taxpayers" under the I.R.C., Subtitle A are "public officers", please see the following
13 exhaustive analysis:

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

14 5.6.12.10.2 De Facto Public Officers

15 Based on the previous section, we are now thoroughly familiar with all the legal requirements for:

- 16 1. How public offices are lawfully created.
- 17 2. The only places where they can lawfully be exercised.
- 18 3. The duties that attach to the public office.
- 19 4. The type of agency exercised by the public officer.
- 20 5. The relationship between the public office and the public officer.

21 What we didn't cover in the previous section is what are all the legal consequences when someone performs the duties of a
22 public office without satisfying all the legal requirements for lawfully occupying the office? In law, such a person is called 23 a "de facto officer" and books have been written about the subject of the "de facto officer doctrine". Below is what the U.S.
24 Supreme Court held on the subject of "de facto officers":

25 "None of the cases cited militates against the doctrine that, for the existence of a de facto officer, there must be
26 an office de jure, although there may be loose expressions in some of the opinions, not called for by the facts,
27 seemingly against this view. Where no office legally exists, the pretended officer is merely a usurper, to whose 28 acts no validity can be attached; and such, in our judgment, was the position of the commissioners of Shelby
29 county, who undertook to act as the county court, which could be constitutionally held only by justices of the 30 peace. Their right to discharge the duties of justices of the peace was never recognized by the justices, but from 31 the outset was resisted by legal proceedings, which terminated in an adjudication that they were usurpers, clothed
32 with no authority or official function. "
33 [Norton v. Shelby Co State of Tennessee, 118 U.S. 425, 6 S.Ct. 1121, 30 L.Ed. 178 (1886)]

34 As we have already established, all statutory "taxpayers" are public officers in the U.S. and not state government. This is 35 exhaustively proven with evidence in:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

36 A person who fulfills the DUTIES of a statutory "taxpayer" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) without lawfully occupying a 37 public office in the U.S. government BEFORE becoming a "taxpayer" would be a good example of a de facto public officer.
38 Those who exercise the duties of a public officer without meeting all the requirements, from a legal perspective, are in fact
39 committing the crime of impersonating a public officer.

40 TITLE 18 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 43 > § 912
41 § 912. Officer or employee of the United States

Whoever falsely assumes or pretends to be an officer or employee acting under the authority of the United States or any department, agency or officer thereof, and acts as such, or in such pretended character demands or obtains any money, paper, document, or thing of value, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

What are some examples where a person would be impersonating a public officer unlawfully? Here are a few:

1. You elect or appoint yourself into public office by filling out a tax form without occupying said office BEFORE being a statutory "taxpayer".
2. You serve in the office in a geographic place NOT expressly authorized by law. For instance, 4 U.S.C. §72 requires that ALL federal public offices MUST be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and NOT ELSEWHERE, unless expressly authorized by law.
3. A third party unilaterally ELECTS you into a public office by submitting an information return linking you to such a BOGUS office under the alleged but not actual authority of 26 U.S.C. §6041(a).
4. You occupy the public office without either expressly consenting to it IN WRITING or without even knowing you occupy such an office.

If a so-called "GOVERNMENT" is established in which:

1. The only kind of "citizens" or "residents" allowed are STATUTORY citizens and residents. CONSTITUTIONAL citizens or residents are either not recognized or allowed as a matter of policy and not law. . . .OR
2. All "citizens" and "residents" are compelled under duress to accept the duties of a public office or ANY kind of duties imposed by the government upon them. Remember, the Thirteenth Amendment forbids "involuntary servitude", so if the government imposes any kind of duty or requires you to surrender private property of any kind by law, then they can only do so through the medium of a public office. . . .OR
3. Everyone is compelled to obey government statutory law. Remember, nearly all laws passed by government can and do regulate ONLY the government and not private people. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

. . .then you end up not only with a LOT of public officers, but a de facto GOVERNMENT as well. That government is thoroughly described in:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Even at the state level, it is a crime in every state of the Union to pretend to be a public officer of the state government who does not satisfy ALL of the legal requirements for occupying the public office. Below is an itemized list by jurisdiction of constitutional and statutory requirements that are violated by those who either impersonate a state public officer OR who serve simultaneously serve in BOTH a FEDERAL public office and a STATE public office AT THE SAME TIME. That's right: When you either impersonate a state public officer OR serve in BOTH a FEDERAL public office and STATE public office AT THE SAME TIME, then you are committing a crime and have a financial conflict of interest and conflict of allegiance that can and should disqualify you from exercising or accepting the duties of the office:

5 5.6.12.10.3      How do ordinary government workers not holding “public office” become “taxpayers”?

6 A question we are asked frequently is whether ordinary government workers not otherwise engaged in a “public office” are 7 “taxpayers” and how they become “taxpayers”.

8 Chapter XVIII: Public Agents and Officers
 9 § 488. Definitions and classifications.-

10 Public agents are those persons who are chosen to perform the duties of the public,-that is, the government or 11 municipality. They may be divided into two principal classes; namely, employes and officers. It is true the term
 12 "employe," in a sense, applies also to officers, for it may be said that every officer is an employe; but, on the other
 13 hand, a public employe is not necessarily a public officer; thus, a mere janitor of county or state buildings, a
 14 county physician, and other employes who do not take an official oath nor file an official bond, are not officers

1 but employes.<sup>230</sup> An employe of the government usually owes his position to some officer whose duty it is to
 2 make the employment, and it is based entirely upon contract.<sup>231</sup> On the other hand, an officer owes his selection
 3 to a source fixed by the constitution or statute<sup>232</sup>, and not by contract.<sup>233</sup> Moreover, the term "public office"
 4 embraces the idea of tenure and duration, while a mere public employment may involve only transient or
 5 incidental duties.<sup>234</sup> An office is an entity which may continue even after the death or withdrawal of the 6 incumbent.<sup>235</sup> A public office involves the delegation to the incumbent of a portion of the sovereign power of the 7 state, either to make, administer, or execute the laws; and it signifies that the incumbent is to exercise some
 8 functions of that nature, and take the fees and emoluments belonging to the position.<sup>236</sup> On the other hand, there
 9 may be and are many employments by the national, state, city or town government which do not constitute the 10 employe a public officer. "The work of the commonwealth," said the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts,
 11 "and of the cities and towns must be done by agents or servants, and much of it is of the nature of an employment.
 12 It is sometimes difficult to make the distinction between a public office and an employment, yet the title of 'public
 13 officer' is one well known to the law, and it is often necessary to determine what constitutes a public office. Every 14 copying-clerk or janitor of a building is not necessarily a public officer."<sup>237</sup> A mere employe may, of course, be 15 engaged by the appointing power for a definite time, or to accomplish a definite purpose, and in that sense his 16 position may involve the nature of duration also; while, on the other hand, his employment may be altogether for 17 an indefinite period, and he be subject to removal at any time. An employe under contract may be discharged
 18 without cause, unless the statute or constitution directs otherwise, but a public officer cannot generally be
 19 removed without cause, although the power of removal is inherent in the appointing power: the reason being that 20 the power of removal is generally restricted by constitutional or statutory provisions.<sup>238</sup> The English notion that
 21 an office is hereditary does not obtain in this country, though it is true that the rights and privileges of an officer
 22 are the rights and privileges of the incumbent; in this country both the power of appointment and that of removal
 23 inhere in the people and are subject to their control by constitutions and statutes.<sup>239</sup> An office not being the 24 creature of a contract, but simply a delegation of a portion of the sovereign power, it follows, according to the 25 weight of authority, that the incumbent has no right of property in the office.<sup>240</sup>
 26 [A Treatise on the Law of Agency in Contract and Tort, George L. Rienhard, The Bowen-Merrill Company, 1902,
 27 pp. 538-539]

28 The answer is they aren't. The reason is that the above treatise explains that the office CANNOT be a product of contract.
 29 They may file a false and fraudulent IRS Form W-4 AGREEMENT and therefore CONTRACT to be TREATED as if they 30 are public officers, but it constitutes the crime of impersonating a public officer per 18 U.S.C. §912 to do so. The remainder 31 of this section will explain why this is.

32 The previous section discussed the differences between a "public office" and "public employment" and clearly proved that 33 they are NOT equivalent. Consequently, ordinary government workers or civil service employees are NOT "public officers"
 34 nor are they therefore engaged in the "trade or business" franchise and contract by default.

35 So how did sneaky Congress get around the road block that "public offices" and "public employments" are NOT equivalent
 36 in law? Here is how they did it:

37 1. They defined all STATUTORY "employees" as "officers" in 5 U.S.C. §2105.

 39 § 2105. Employee

40 (a) For the purpose of this title, "employee", except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically
 41 modified, means an officer and an individual who is—

(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity—

(A) the President;

(B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;

(C) a member of a uniformed service;

(D) an individual who is an employee under this section;

(E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or

(F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709 (c) of title 32;

(2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and

(3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

2. They PRESUMED that since this “OFFICER” works for the public, he is a statutory “PUBLIC OFFICER”, even though this is not strictly true. One can be an AGENT or OFFICER of the government WITHOUT also being a PUBLIC OFFICER.

3. They falsely told both the public and all government workers that:

3.1. “employee” in the ORDINARY sense and “employee” in the STATUTORY sense were equivalent.

3.2. Everyone in the public who works for a living is an “employee” subject to federal law. In fact, only PUBLIC OFFICERS are subject to federal law.

3.3. “employee” under the Internal Revenue Code Section 3401 and “employee” under 5 U.S.C. §2105 are equivalent. In fact, “employee” under the I.R.C. includes only public officers or officials, but not “employees” under 5 U.S.C. §2105.

The above deception is called a “fallacy by equivocation”. It appeals to the legal ignorance of the public to STEAL from them. It does so by confusing contexts for key “words of art”. In this case, the ORDINARY context was deliberately confused with the STATUTORY context in order to STEAL PRIVATE property from people the government was supposed to be protecting from such theft.

Earnings not connected to the “trade or business” and public office franchise are described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) in the case of “nonresident aliens”. The following article proves that nonresident aliens not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise cannot earn “wages” unless they consent to do so by signing a contract called IRS Form W-4:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 6.5

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

I.R.C., Subtitle A is a franchise tax on public offices, which the I.R.C. calls a “trade or business”. “Public office” and “public employment” are NOT equivalent in law. Even for government workers, they don't earn “wages” as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401 unless they are ALREADY public officers in the government BEFORE they sign the IRS Form W-4. This is because:

1. If a government worker not engaged in a public office refuses to sign the IRS Form W-4 and is not otherwise engaged in a “public office”, then they can't lawfully become the subject of W-2 information returns and if they are filed with nonzero “wages”, they are FALSE in violation of 26 U.S.C. §7207 and 26 U.S.C. §7434.
2. It is “wages” which appear on IRS Form W-2 in block 1. This form connects the term “wages” to the “trade or business” franchise pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041(a).
3. 26 U.S.C. §871(a)(1) mentions “wages” as being taxable when not connected to the “trade or business” franchise and one can only earn “wages” if they consent under the IRS Form W-4 contract/agreement.

TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE

CHAPTER I--INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

PART 31_EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE--Table of Contents

Subpart E_Collection of Income Tax at Source

26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements

(a) In general.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term “wages” includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (§31.3401(a)-3).

1 (b) Remuneration for services.

2 (1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this
 3 section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without
 4 regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services
 5 performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically 6 excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a) (2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to 7 which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See §§31.3401(c)-1 and 8 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

- 9 4. It is "wages" and NOT "all earnings", "income", or even "gross income" that appear in the IRS Individual Master File
 10 (IMF) as being taxable.
 11 5. The income tax is upon "wages" but not even "public officers" earn "wages".

12 TITLE 26 > Subtitle C > CHAPTER 24 > § 3401
 13 § 3401. Definitions

14 (a) Wages

15 For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public
 16 official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration
 17 (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration
 18 paid—

- 19 6. It is "wages" which are the subject of I.R.C., Subtitle C withholding and constitute I.R.C., Subtitle A "gross income"
 20 because "wages" is the code word for earnings of those who elect to become "public officers" and thereby donate their 21 private property earnings to a "public office", a "public use", and a "public purpose" and thereby subject them to taxation
 22 by signing the IRS Form W-4 "public officer" job application and contract.
 23 7. It is "wages" that 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(p)-1 says become "gross income" and therefore "trade or business" income ONLY
 24 AFTER one signs the IRS Form W-4.

25 TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
 26 CHAPTER I--INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
 27 PART 31 EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE--Table of Contents
 28 Subpart E Collection of Income Tax at Source
 29 §31.3402\(p\)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

30 (a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for
 31 the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made
 32 after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts
 33 which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such
 34 amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under 35 section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder.
 36 See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld
 37 from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

- 38 8. It is for claiming that "wages" are not taxable that many tax protesters are properly sanctioned. See:

Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004, Section 9.2
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

39 The IRS Form W-4 is being used to connect private earnings to "wages" as legally defined and the "trade or business"/"public 40 office" franchise by all of the following mechanisms:

- 41 1. As a federal "election" form where you can elect yourself into public office within the government. You are the only 42 voter in this "election". Now do you know why the IRS calls it an "election" whenever you consent to something in the 43 I.R.C. They aren't lying!
 44 2. As a permission form authorizing the filing of information returns connecting otherwise private persons to a public office
 45 and a "trade or business" pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041(a). If the IRS Form W-2 is filed against a person who did NOT
 46 make such an election, then election fraud is occurring and the employer is committing the crime of impersonating a
 47 public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. Any withholdings against a person who did not submit the IRS Form W-4
 48 is a bribe to procure a public office in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §211.
 49 <https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/18/211>

3. To CREATE public offices in the U.S. government unlawfully rather than tax those already in existence.
4. As a way to create a franchise that turns private labor into public property by donating it to a public use and a public office.

"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."
 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892) ]

5. As a way to make private workers into a Kelly Girls and contractors for the government engaged in a "public office".
6. As a way to make you party to the franchise agreement codified in I.R.C., Subtitles A and C.
7. The SSN or TIN on the IRS Form W-4 is being used as a de facto "license" to act as a "public officer" in the U.S. government called a "taxpayer". The IRS Form 1042-S Instructions say the SSN is only required for those engaged in a "trade or business", which means a public office. The tax is on the office, not on the private person. The office is the "res" that is the subject of the tax and the use of the number is prima facie evidence of the existence of the "res". All tax proceedings are "in rem" against the office, which is the only real "citizen", "resident", and "taxpayer". The human being filling the office is not the "taxpayer", but he is surety for the "taxpayer". They don't call the SSN or TIN a "license number" even though it is for all intents and purposes, because they don't want to admit that they have no authority to license ANYTHING within a state of the Union:

"But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize [e.g. LICENSE] a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."
 [License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Please show us a case where the License Tax cases was overruled? It's still in force. The feds can't license ANYTHING within a state, including "public offices" and the "trade or business" franchise that is being ILLEGALLY enforced within states of the Union at this time. To admit otherwise is to sanction a destruction of the separation of powers between the states and the federal government. There is NO PLACE within the I.R.C. that authorizes the CREATION of public offices using any tax form, and yet that is what the IRS is unlawfully using IRS Forms W-2, W-4, and 1040 for. 4 U.S.C. §72 says there MUST be a statute that authorizes the creation and exercise of such offices within a state in order for such public offices to be valid. Essentially what is happening is that the forms constitute an election to make you into a "resident agent" for an office that exists in the District of Columbia.

The existence of 26 U.S.C. §871(a) is a deception, because 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says the property of those not engaged in the "trade or business" franchise is a foreign estate not subject to the I.R.C. One's earnings are part of that "foreign estate".

26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(6) excludes earnings of "nonresident aliens" from statutory "wages", if regulations exist. Government workers who aren't public officers therefore have the same protections as ordinary private industry workers who are nonresident aliens not engaged in the "trade or business" franchise. The only way a nonresident alien not otherwise engaged in the "trade or business" franchise can become subject is to sign the IRS Form W-4 contract to:

1. Become engaged in the franchise and be eligible for "benefits" under the franchise agreement.
2. Waive sovereign immunity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605.
3. Make an election to become a "resident alien".

Where within 26 U.S.C. §3401 is the term "wages" treated any differently for government workers who AREN'T "public officers"? It AIN'T, friend.

Remember: Information returns are the only way the IRS could find out about the earnings of a government employee, and these returns can ONLY be filed against those engaged in the "trade or business" franchise or who elect to be using the IRS

1 Form W-4 agreement/contract. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a), 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1. How would the IRS find out about
 2 871(a) income that is NOT connected with the “trade or business”? There is no information return that is NOT connected to
 3 a “trade or business” and it is a CRIME for a person not ALREADY engaged in a public office in the government BEFORE
 4 they signed the IRS Form W-4 to impersonate a public officer or engage in the activities of a public office. 18 U.S.C. §912.

5 The income tax is upon the COINCIDENCE of DOMICILE within the jurisdiction AND being engaged in the “trade or 6 business” franchise. The VOLUNTARY use of an identifying number connects you to BOTH of these prerequisites:

- 7 1. SSNs and TINs can only be issued to “U.S. persons”. 26 U.S.C. §6109(g), 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g), and 20 C.F.R.
 8 §422.103(d).
- 9 2. The number is only MANDATORY for persons engaged in franchises. See IRS form 1042-s instructions AND section 10 10 of the following:

About SSNs and TINs on Government Forms and Correspondence, Form #05.012
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

11 You can STILL be a government worker as a “non-resident non-person” not engaged in a “trade or business”, not have a
 12 domicile on federal territory, and therefore STILL be a “foreigner” who is free and sovereign. The domicile and the protection
 13 it pays for is where the government's authority comes from to collect the tax in the first place. It is a CIVIL liability and you
 14 aren't subject to their CIVIL statutory law without a domicile on federal territory, unless you contract with them to procure
 15 an identity or “res”, and thereby become a “res-ident”. When you contract with them, you create a “public office” in the 16 government and become surety for the office you created using your signature. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), 26
 17 U.S.C. §7408(d), and 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) then changes the choice of law to the District of Columbia for all functions of 18 the “public office” because now you are acting in a representative capacity on behalf of the federal corporation as such public
 19 officer.

20 On the subject of contracting with the government, the Bible forbids Christians from nominating a King or Protector above
 21 them, or from contracting with the pagan government:

22 “Do not walk in the [civil] statutes of your fathers [the heathens, by selecting a domicile or “residence” in their
 23 jurisdiction], nor observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols. I am the LORD your God: Walk
 24 in My statutes, keep My judgments, and do them; hallow My Sabbaths, and they will be a sign between Me and 25 you, that you may know that I am the LORD your God.”
 26 [Ezekial 20:10-20, Bible, NKJV]

27 “You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan
 28 government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by
 29 becoming a “resident” in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For 30 if you serve their gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”
 31 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

32 “Therefore, my brethren, you also have become dead to the law [man's law] through the body of Christ [by
 33 shifting your legal domicile to the God's Kingdom], that you may be married to another—to Him who was raised
 34 from the dead, that we should bear fruit [as agents, fiduciaries, and trustees] to God. For when we were in the
 35 flesh, the sinful passions which were aroused by the law were at work in our members to bear fruit to death. But
 36 now we have been delivered from the law, having died to what we were held by, so that we should serve in the
 37 newness of the Spirit [and newness of the law, God's law] and not in the oldness of the letter.”
 38 [Rom. 7:4-6, Bible, NKJV]

42 “Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend

 51 [Philippians 1:27, Bible, NLT]

The government can't lawfully force you to choose a domicile in their jurisdiction or to nominate a protector or become a "resident" if you are a "national" who was born in this country. They can force an alien born in another country to become a privileged "resident", but they can't force a "national" who is born here to become a "resident", because they can't lawfully compel a "citizen" under the constitution to suffer any of the disabilities of alienage without engaging in involuntary servitude and violation of constitutional rights. This is also confirmed by the definition of "residence" at 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2, which only includes aliens and not "nonresident aliens" or even "non-resident non-persons". If they did force you to choose a domicile or residence and thereby become a "taxpayer", it would be a violation of the First Amendment prohibition against compelled association and the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against involuntary servitude. It has always been lawful to refuse protection and refuse to be a domiciliary called a statutory "U.S. citizen", "U.S. person", or statutory "U.S. resident", and to refuse to contract with them or accept any "benefits" that might give rise to a "quasi-contractual" obligation to pay for "social insurance". See:

1. Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002

As Frank Kowalik points out in his wonderful book, IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, the income tax is a public officer kickback program disguised to "look" like a legitimate income tax. It's smoke and mirrors. To make it look like an income tax, they had to throw the "domicile" stuff into it, but the public officer status is still the foundation. That is why 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says everything in the code is "foreign" that is not connected to the public office ("trade or business") franchise. To be "foreign" means it is outside the jurisdiction of the franchise agreement because not consensually connected to it.

5.6.12.11 Methods for Connecting You to the Franchise

The following subsections describe the main methods by which entities and persons are connected to the "trade or business" franchise agreement codified in I.R.C., Subtitle A.

5.6.12.11.1 IRS Form W-4 Agreements or Contracts: Illegal for PRIVATE people

Before you can file a W-4 form, you must be an "employee". Most people who file this form are NOT:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(c\)-1 Employee:

"...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a [federal and not state] corporation."

The above statutory "employee" is the same statutory "employee" defined in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) as an officer of the national and not state government. The "corporation" they are talking about above is FEDERAL corporation and not a STATE corporation.

"A foreign corporation is one that derives its existence solely from the laws of another state, government, or country, and the term is used indiscriminately, sometimes in statutes, to designate either a corporation created by or under the laws of another state or a corporation created by or under the laws of a foreign country."

"A federal corporation operating within a state is considered a domestic corporation rather than a foreign corporation. The United States government is a foreign corporation with respect to a state." [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §883 (2003)]

26 U.S.C. §3402(p)(1)(A) only authorizes people receiving payments from the national government to enter into a W-4 agreement, not private people.

(p)VOLUNTARY WITHHOLDING AGREEMENTS

(I) CERTAIN FEDERAL PAYMENTS

(A) In general

If, at the time a specified Federal payment is made to any person, a request by such person is in effect that such payment be subject to withholding under this chapter, then for purposes of this chapter and so much of subtitle F as relates to this chapter, such payment shall be treated as if it were a payment of wages by an employer to an employee.

The “person” above, is a STATUTORY “nonresident alien” at home under 26 U.S.C. §871 and a STATUTORY “U.S.** citizen” or STATUTORY “U.S.** resident” (alien) abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911. By “home” we mean federal territory, such as a territory, possession, or federal enclave. See:

Why the Federal Income Tax is Limited to Federal Territory, Possessions, Enclaves, Offices, and Other Property, Form #04.404

<https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The person above party submitting the W-4 Form is also ONLY receiving a “specified Federal Payment”, meaning a payment from the national government to one of their officers or contractors. This is NOT a payment of a PRIVATE company to a PRIVATE human!

26 U.S. Code § 3402. Income tax collected at source

(p) VOLUNTARY WITHHOLDING AGREEMENTS

(1) CERTAIN FEDERAL PAYMENTS

(C) Specified Federal payments For purposes of this paragraph, the term “specified Federal payment” means—

(i) any payment of a social security benefit (as defined in section 86(d)),

(ii) any payment referred to in the second sentence of section 451(d)<sup>1</sup> which is treated as insurance proceeds,

(iii) any amount which is includible in gross income under section 77(a), and

(iv) any other payment made pursuant to Federal law which is specified by the Secretary for purposes of this paragraph.

If you are not a federal officer or statutory “employee” or if you are not receiving payments from the national government, then you aren’t even ELIGIBLE to submit a W-4 form! If you submit this form, you indirectly are creating prima facie evidence that is FALSE that you are a federal statutory “employee”. BAD IDEA! This is why we tell our members that they should NEVER submit IRS Form W-4 to anyone they work with or for.

The IRS Form W-4 also identifies itself as an agreement, not on the form, but in the regulations that implement it.

Title 26: Internal Revenue

PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE

Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source

Sec. 31.3402(p)-1. Voluntary withholding agreements.

An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

1 (b) Form and duration of agreement

2 (2) An agreement under section 3402 (p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually
 3 agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of
 4 such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other. Unless the employer and employee agree to an
 5 earlier termination date, the notice shall be effective with respect to the first payment of an amount in respect of
 6 which the agreement is in effect which is made on or after the first "status determination date" (January 1, May
 7 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year) that occurs at least 30 days after the date on which the notice is furnished.
 8 If the employee executes a new Form W-4, the request upon which an agreement under section 3402 (p) is based
 9 shall be attached to, and constitute a part of, such new Form W-4.

29 The laws of the United States make it a crime to use an IRS Form W-4 to in effect "elect" yourself into the public office that 30 is the subject of the I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax:

- 31 1. 18 U.S.C. §912: Impersonating a public officer. Assuming the rights or obligations of a public officer such as a
 32 "taxpayer".
 33 2. 18 U.S.C. §1512: Tampering with a witness. Workers are criminally threatened by ignorant payroll clerks to sign the 34 IRS Form W-4 under penalty of perjury that is knowingly false and fraudulent and criminal.
 35 3. 18 U.S.C. §210: Offer to procure appointive public office. The withholdings paid in under the IRS Form W-4 are the 36 BRIBE to procure and to be treated illegally "as if" one is a public officer engaged in the trade or business franchise.

37 If the person submitting the form is NOT a public officer but a private human, then by signing and submitting the form, they
 38 are identifying themselves as THE statutory "employee" identified in the upper left corner of the form AND legally defined
 39 in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) as a public officer and indirectly, electing themselves into office AND bribing the person receiving the 40 form to TREAT them AS IF they are public officers. Earlier versions of the IRS Internal Revenue Manual recognized the 41 difference between a PRIVATE worker and a PUBLIC statutory "employee" with the following language in order to 42 PREVENT the commission of the above crimes by uninformed withholding agents:

43 Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 5.14.10.2 \(09-30-2004\)
 44 Payroll Deduction Agreements

45 2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction
 46 agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements
 47 before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.

48 [\[http://www.irs.gov/irm/part5/ch14s10.html\]](http://www.irs.gov/irm/part5/ch14s10.html)

2 technically it is still true and absolutely necessary in order to prevent the crimes indicated above.

3 Absent public notice in IRS publications and the IRM above, ignorant private companies hiring those who are NOT statutory
4 public “employees” frequently coerce their workers to commit the above crimes. The IRS Form W-4 is frequently and
5 illegally abused by private employers to recruit otherwise PRIVATE people into appointive public office. The following
6 treatise on public officers says that all attempts to procure such appointments are immoral and illegal:

7 § 28. Services in procuring Appointment to Office.

8 Contracts [such as IRS W-4's] to procure the appointment of a person to public office fall within the same
9 principles. These offices are trusts, held solely for the public good, and should be conferred from considerations
10 of the ability, integrity, fidelity and fitness for the position of the appointee. No other considerations can properly
11 be regarded by the appointing power. Whatever introduces other elements to control this power must necessarily 12 lower the character of the appointments to the great detriment of the public good. Agreements for compensation
13 to procure these appointments tend directly and necessarily to introduce such elements. The law, therefore, from 14 this tendency alone, adjudges these agreements inconsistent with sound morals and public policy.<sup>241</sup>

15 [A Treatise on the Law of Agency, Floyd R. Mechem, 1889, p. 20]

16 5.6.12.11.2 Reductions in Liability: Graduated Rate of Tax, Deductions, and Earned Income Credits

17 All attempts to reduce one's assumed tax liability require the person filing the tax return to be engaged in the “trade or 18 business” excise taxable franchise. This includes:

- 19 1. Applying the graduated rate of tax found in 26 U.S.C. §1. Without the graduated rate of tax, the flat 30% tax applies to 20 “nonresident alien individuals” found in 26 U.S.C. §871(a). The Section 1 rate usually starts lower than 30%.
- 21 2. Applying for earned income credits in 26 U.S.C. §32.
- 22 3. Taking “trade or business” deductions found in 26 U.S.C. §162:

23 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter B
24 Part VI-Itemized deductions for Individuals and Corporations
25 Sec. 162. - Trade or business expenses

26 (a) In general

27 There shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable
28 year in carrying on any trade or business, including –

29 (1) a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered;

30 Why must you be engaged in a “trade or business” in order to reduce your liability as a “taxpayer”? Because this is a
31 commercial “benefit” and only those who work for the government can receive any commercial benefit from the government.
32 Otherwise, the government is abusing its taxing power to transfer wealth among private individuals:

33 To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow
34 it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery
35 because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under
36 legislative forms.

37 Nor is it taxation. ‘A tax,’ says Webster’s Dictionary, ‘is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or
38 property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.’ ‘Taxes are burdens or charges imposed
39 by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.’ Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

40 Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa.St., 104 says, very forcibly, ‘I think the common
41 mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the
42 government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are
43 imposed for a public purpose. See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St., 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11

6                   You can claim deductions to figure your effectively connected taxable income. You generally cannot claim
 7                   deductions related to income that is not connected with your U.S. business activities. Except for personal

11                   5.6.12.11.3      Information Returns

12 Information returns include but are not limited to IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, 1099, and 8300. Receipt of “trade or 13 business” earnings is the basis for nearly all Information Returns processed by the IRS, which are reports documenting 14 financial payments made to government entities or officers. The requirement to file these reports is found at 26 U.S.C. §6041.
 15 The “person” they are referring to in the article is none other than a “public officer” in the government:

16                   TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 61 > Subchapter A > PART III > Subpart B > § 6041
 17                   § 6041. Information at source

 21                   other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044
 22                   (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is
 23                   required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045), of $600 or more in any taxable year,
 24                   or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having
 25                   information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter
 26                   provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form
 27                   and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains,
 28                   profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment.

29 In most cases, these reports are not only false, but fraudulent. The IRS structures the ILLEGAL handling of these reports in 30 order to encourage the filing of false reports so as to maximize their revenues from unlawful activities. That section also 31 appears on our website below:

32                   The Information Return Scam, Family Guardian Fellowship
 33                   <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/InformationReturnScam.htm>

34 This “trade or business” scam is found in other titles of the U.S. Code as well. For instance, in Title 31, which is the Money
 35 and Finance title, we did a search for the word “trade or business” and were very surprised by what we found there. You
 36 may know that when you try to withdraw $10,000 or more from a bank account, banks will insist on preparing what is called a
 37 “Currency Transaction Report”, or “CTR” documenting the withdrawal. This report is sent to the United States Treasury 38 and inputted into the FINCEN computers at the Treasury. The report is used to catch money launderers and tax evaders who are handling large amounts of cash. Well, the only circumstance under which this report can lawfully be prepared is when the subject is engaged in a “trade or business”! Here is the section:

39                   31 C.F.R. 103.30\(d\)\(2\) General

40                   (d) Exceptions to the reporting requirements of 31 U.S.C. 5331:

 42                   $10,000 by a person other than in the course of the person's trade or business is not reportable under 31 U.S.C.
 43                   5331.

44 The “trade or business” they are talking about is exactly the same one that appears in the Internal Revenue Code, folks!

1 Title 31: Money and Finance: Treasury
2 PART 103—FINANCIAL RECORDKEEPING AND REPORTING OF CURRENCY AND FOREIGN
3 TRANSACTIONS
4 Subpart B—Reports Required To Be Made
5 § 103.30 Reports relating to currency in excess of \$10,000 received in a trade or business.

6 (c) Meaning of terms. The following definitions apply for purposes of this section--

7 (11) Trade or business. The term trade or business has the same meaning as under section 162 of title 26, United 8 States Code.

9 Quite a scam, huh? The following memorandum of law describes this scam in detail:

The Money Laundering Enforcement SCAM, Form #05.044
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10 The "trade or business" scam in Title 31 in the context of CTR's explains why financial institutions can demand federal ID
11 numbers from depositors, why the federal government needs to be able to track these deposits, and many other considerations.
12 Banks and financial institutions are simply volunteering to help the federal government keep track of its "employees" and 13 "subcontractors". The Slave Surveillance Numbers (SSN) is the license number used to track federal subcontractors and is 14 used by the federal government to track their "corporate" assets. If you think Microsoft as a corporation is too big for its 15 britches, then what about the mother corporation for all other corporations, the United States government? All of the assets
16 owned by a person engaged in a "trade or business" become "effectively connected" with the U.S. government by virtue of 17 the fact that if a federal employee fails to deduct and withhold the proper "kickback" for which they are liable under 26 U.S.C.
18 §1461, then their assets must be tracked so the kickback can be recovered through administrative process without the need to 19 litigate. Being "effectively connected" means they are administratively attachable without the need for litigation by using an 20 automated "Notice of Levy" form that isn't even signed. If you are going to engage in "commerce" or business with the 21 government, then you have to help them make it "efficient", right? Doesn't that come with the territory: Never look a gift
22 horse in the mouth? Well, "Uncle" is your new "gift horse", your Master, and you are the slave. The assets of a federal 23 subcontractor only cease to be administratively attachable at the point when the subcontractor fulfills their fiduciary duty as
24 a "transferee" under 26 U.S.C. §§6901 and 6903 and deducts the correct amount of "tax", or "kickback" to send to their new
25 "employer", the federal government. In effect, they are "Kelly Girls" for the federal government who handle their own payroll
26 and send payments back to the mother corporation. The compensation they receive for doing their own payroll comes in the 27 form of a reduced tax liability, procured by taking itemized deductions, earned income credit, and applying a graduated rate
28 of tax. Those not engaged in a "trade or business" are not allowed to avail themselves of any such "privileges". If you don't 29 want to continue to be treated inhumanely like a "taxpayer", then quit acting like one, quit sucking on the government tit, and 30 quit asking for "Uncle" to take care of you by volunteering to engage in privileged activities in order to procure special
31 incentives and favors you don't need anyway.

32 The "trade or business" requirement also extends to nearly all other types of payment reporting within the I.R.C. Here are 33 just a few examples:

34 1. IRS Publication 334 entitled Tax Guide for Small Businesses, Year 2002, p. 12 says:

35 Form 8300. You must file form 8300, Report of Cash Payments Over $10,000 Received in a Trade or Business,
36 if you receive more than $10,000 in cash in one transaction, or two or more related business transactions. Cash
37 includes U.S. and foreign coin and currency. It also includes certain monetary instruments such as cashier's and 38 traveler's checks and money orders. Cash does not include a check drawn on an individual's personal account

Trade or business reporting only. Report on Form 1099-MISC only when payments are made in the course of your trade or business. Personal payments are not reportable. You are engaged in a trade or business if you operate for gain or profit. However, nonprofit organizations are considered to be engaged in a trade or business and are subject to these reporting requirements. Nonprofit organizations subject to these reporting requirements include trusts of qualified pension or profit-sharing plans of employers, certain organizations exempt from tax under section 501(c) or (d), and farmers' cooperatives that are exempt from tax under section 521. Payments by federal, state, or local government agencies are also reportable."

4. Treasury Regulation 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(11\)-1\(a\) says that those who are not engaged in a "trade or business" can earn no reportable income on a W-2:

Title 26: Internal Revenue

PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE

Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source

§ 31.3401\(a\)\(11\)-1 Remuneration other than in cash for service not in the course of employer's trade or business.

(a) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, or other goods or commodities, for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business does not constitute wages. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for other types of services does not come within this exception from wages. For provisions relating to cash remuneration for service not in the course of employer's trade or business, see §31.3401(a)(4)-1.

5. Treasury Regulation 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1\(b\) says that remuneration earned outside the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) is exempted from wages and not subject to withholding.

§ 31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1 Remuneration for services of nonresident alien individuals.

(b) Remuneration for services performed outside the United States.

Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien individual (other than a resident of Puerto Rico) for services performed outside the United States is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

How does the IRS trap "nontaxpayers" who are "non-resident non-persons" or "nonresident aliens" who refuse to get identifying numbers or fill out an IRS Form W-4? IRS Publication 515 shows how they do it, which is entitled Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities. That publication capitalizes on the confusion of private employers about the meaning of "United States" and "trade or business" by saying the following:

Income Not Effectively Connected

This section discusses the specific types of income that are subject to NRA withholding. The income codes contained in this section correspond to the income codes used on Form 1042-S (discussed later), and in most cases on Tables 1 and 2 found at the end of this publication.

You must withhold tax at the statutory rates shown in Chart C unless a reduced rate of exemption under a tax treaty applies. For U.S. source gross income that is not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business, the rate is usually 30%. Generally, you must withhold the tax at the time you pay the income to the foreign person. See "When to withhold under Withholding Agent, earlier.

[IRS Publication 515: Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities (2002), p. 14]

Three "words of art" are used above that we must pay particular attention to:

1. "U.S. source": Originating from within the "United States" federal corporation or federal territory.

- 1 2. “gross income“: Payment qualifies as “gross income” within the meaning of 26 U.S.C. §61. The only payment not
 2 connected with a “trade or business” that are explicitly identified in the code as “gross income” is Social Security
 3 payments, under 26 U.S.C. §861\(a\)\(8\).
 4 3. “U.S. trade or business“: the functions of a public office in the District of Columbia. “U.S.” =federal territory in 26
 5 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

6 So what they are really saying is that if you are a “nonresident alien” not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise who is
 7 receiving payments from the U.S. government in the form of Social Security, then these payments are subject to withholding
 8 of 30%, but ONLY if the party doing the withholding has explicitly been designated as a “withholding agent” by the Secretary
 9 as required under 26 U.S.C. §3501. We also know that private employers are NOT required to act as withholding agents, by 10 the admission of the IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.):

11 Internal Revenue Manual 5.14.10.2 \(09-30-2004\)
 12 Payroll Deduction Agreements

13 2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction
 14 [withholding] agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process
 15 executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.

17 5.6.12.11.4 Government Identifying Numbers: SSN and TIN

18 Whenever you put a government issued identifying number on any document, you are implicitly establishing that you are 19 engaged in the “trade or business” franchise. This fact is easily discerned by examining the following:

- 20 1. 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) indicates that in the case of a foreign person, identifying numbers are only required if that 21 person is engaged in a “trade or business” or if they made an election to be a “U.S. person”, meaning public officer in 22 the government.

44 (ii) A foreign person that has a U.S. office or place of business or a U.S. fiscal or paying agent at any time
 45 during the taxable year;

46 (iii) A nonresident alien treated as a resident under section 6013(g) or (h);

(iv) A foreign person that makes a return of tax (including income, estate, and gift tax returns), an amended return, or a refund claim under this title but excluding information returns, statements, or documents;

(v) A foreign person that makes an election under Sec. 301.7701-3(c);

(vi) A foreign person that furnishes a withholding certificate described in Sec. 1.1441-1(e)(2) or (3) of this chapter or Sec. 1.1441-5(c)(2)(iv) or (3)(iii) of this chapter to the extent required under Sec. 1.1441-1(e)(4)(vii) of this chapter;

(vii) A foreign person whose taxpayer identifying number is required to be furnished on any return, statement, or other document as required by the income tax regulations under section 897 or 1445. This paragraph (b)(2)(vii) applies as of November 3, 2003; and

(viii) A foreign person that furnishes a withholding certificate described in Sec. 1.1446-1(c)(2) or (3) of this chapter or whose taxpayer identification number is required to be furnished on any return, statement, or other document as required by the income tax regulations under section 1446. This paragraph (b)(2)(viii) shall apply to partnership taxable years beginning after May 18, 2005, or such earlier time as the regulations under Sec. 1.1446-1 through 1.1446-5 of this chapter apply by reason of an election under Sec. 1.1446-7 of this chapter.

1.1. The "U.S. person" they are describing in above is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) and it means a person in the "U.S." defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), which means a government public officer. Everything that public officer makes that originates from the government is "trade or business" earnings. This is also confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), which says that everything originating from the "U.S." described is "trade or business" earnings.

1.2. Notice also that the "foreign person" described above is only required to provide the number if they are engaged in the "trade or business" franchise or if they made an election under 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident alien. Such an election would be ILLEGAL for those who are nationals but not aliens, such as those domiciled in a state of the Union. Only foreign nationals can make such an election.

2. IRS Form 1042-S Instructions (2006), p. 14. What all of the circumstances below have in common is that they involve a "benefit" that is usually financial or tangible to the recipient, and therefore require a franchisee license number called a Taxpayer Identification Number:

Box 14, Recipient's U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

- Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
Note. For these recipients, exemption code 01 should be entered in box 6.
- Any foreign person claiming a reduced rate of, or exemption from, tax under a tax treaty between a foreign country and the United States, unless the income is an unexpected payment (as described in Regulations section 1.1441-6(g)) or consists of dividends and interest from stocks and debt obligations that are actively traded; dividends from any redeemable security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (mutual fund); dividends, interest, or royalties from units of beneficial interest in a unit investment trust that are (or were, upon issuance) publicly offered and are registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933; and amounts paid with respect to loans of any of the above securities.
- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from tax under section 871(f) for certain annuities received under qualified plans.
- A foreign organization claiming an exemption from tax solely because of its status as a tax-exempt organization under section 501(c ) or as a private foundation.
- Any QI.
- Any WP or WT.
- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from withholding on compensation for independent personal services [services connected with a "trade or business"].
- Any foreign grantor trust with five or fewer grantors.
- Any branch of a foreign bank or foreign insurance company that is treated as a U.S. person.

If a foreign person provides a TIN on a Form W-8, but is not required to do so, the withholding agent must include the TIN on Form 1042-S.

3. IRS Form 1040NR Instruction Booklet (2007), p. 9. You can't avail yourself of the "benefits" of the franchise without providing your franchisee license number.

1 Line 7c, Column (2)

2 You must enter each dependent's identifying number (SSN, ITIN, or adoption taxpayer identification number
3 (ATIN)). If you do not enter the correct identifying number, at the time we process your return we may disallow
4 the exemption claimed (such as the child tax credit) based on the dependent.

5 5.6.12.11.5 Domicile, residence, and Resident Tax Returns such as IRS Form 1040

6 The requirement to pay an income tax originates from the coincidence of one's domicile along with the excise taxable
7 activities they engage in within the place of domicile:

8 "domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and 9 principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith,
10 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's
11 home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place
12 to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one
13 residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual 14 residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise
15 the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."
16 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

17 The above requirement of domicile is then found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a) and is hidden within the words "citizen" and 18 "resident":

19 TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
20 CHAPTER I--INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
21 PART 1_INCOME TAXES--Table of Contents
22 Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

23 (a) General rule.

24 (1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident
25 of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien
26 individual. For optional tax in the case of taxpayers with adjusted gross income of less than $10,000 (less than 27 $5,000 for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1970) see section 3. The tax imposed is upon taxable income
28 (determined by subtracting the allowable deductions from gross income). The tax is determined in accordance 29 with the table contained in section 1. See subparagraph (2) of this paragraph for reference guides to the 30 appropriate table for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1964, and before January 1, 1965, taxable
31 years beginning after December 31, 1964, and before January 1, 1971, and taxable years beginning after 32 December 31, 1970. In certain cases credits are allowed against the amount of the tax. See part IV (section 31
33 and following), subchapter A, chapter 1 of the Code. In general, the tax is payable upon the basis of returns
34 rendered by persons liable therefor (subchapter A (sections 6001 and following), chapter 61 of the Code) or at 35 the source of the income by withholding. For the computation of tax in the case of a joint return of a husband and 36 wife, or a return of a surviving spouse, for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1971, see section 2. The 37 computation of tax in such a case for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, is determined in 38 accordance with the table contained in section 1(a) as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1969. For other rates
39 of tax on individuals, see section 5(a). For the imposition of an additional tax for the calendar years 1968, 1969, 40 and 1970, see section 51(a).

41 What "citizens" and "residents" have in common is a legal domicile in the "United States". Collectively, persons with a legal 42 domicile within a jurisdiction are called "inhabitants" and "U.S. persons":

NOTES:

- “United States” is defined as federal territory within 26 U.S.C. §§7701\(a\)\(9\) and \(a\)\(10\), 7701\(a\)\(39\), and 7408\(d\), and 4 U.S.C. §110\(d\). It does not include any portion of a Constitutional state of the Union.
- The “District of Columbia” is defined as a federal corporation but not a physical place, a “body politic”, or a de jure “government” within the District of Columbia Act of 1871, 16 Stat. 419, 426, Sec. 34. See: Corporatization and Privatization of the Government, Form #05.024; <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.
- “nationals” of the United States of America who are domiciled outside of federal jurisdiction, either in a state of the Union or a foreign country, are “nationals” but not “citizens” under federal law. They are by default “non-resident non-persons”. They also qualify as “nonresident aliens” under 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(B\) if and only if they are engaged in a public office. See sections 4.12.3 of the Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302 for details.

- 1 4. Temporary domicile in the middle column on the right must meet the requirements of the "Presence test" documented in 2 IRS publications.
 3 5. "FEDERAL ZONE"=District of Columbia and territories of the United States in the above table
 4 6. The term "individual" as used on the IRS Form 1040 means an "alien" engaged in a "trade or business". All "taxpayers"
 5 are "aliens" engaged in a "trade or business". This is confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3), 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii),
 6 and 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2). Statutory "U.S. citizens" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 are not "individuals" unless temporarily
 7 abroad pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911 and subject to an income tax treaty with a foreign country. In that capacity, statutory 8 "U.S. citizens" interface to the I.R.C. as "aliens" rather than "U.S. citizens" through the tax treaty.

9 The term "United States" is then defined as federal territory in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and
 10 nowhere expressly extended to include states of the Union. This is the same "United States" within which EVERYTHING
 11 is presumed to be "trade or business" earnings, which implies that what they are really referring to is the "United States"
 12 federal corporation or government, and not the geographical United States:

13 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART 1 > § 864
 14 §864. Definitions and special rules

15 (c) Effectively connected income, etc.
 16 (3) Other income from sources within United States

17 All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which 18 paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within
 19 the United States.

20 A person who therefore is a "citizen" or "resident" within the I.R.C. and who therefore has a legal domicile in the "United 21 States" is equivalent to either the government or a public officer representing the government. This is established in the 22 memorandum of law below:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

23 Therefore, whenever you file a "resident" tax form, such as form 1040, then you are indirectly admitting a legal domicile
 24 within the "United States" and all of your earnings are therefore presumed to be connected with the "trade or business"
 25 franchise pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3).

 31 [IRS Published Products Catalog, Year 2003, p. F-15;
 32 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSDoc7130.pdf>]

33 This is also confirmed by the IRS Form 1040 itself, because everything on the form is subject to "trade or business" deductions
 34 under 26 U.S.C. §162. Those not engaged in the "trade or business" franchise cannot lawfully take such deductions.
 35 Everything listed in the deduction against which a deduction is taken therefore effectively becomes "private property donated 36 to a public use to procure the benefits of the trade or business franchise". The deductions are the "benefit" or "privilege" of 37 participating in the franchise and act essentially as employment compensation associated with the "public office".

38 The only way you can avoid participating in the "trade or business" franchise is to file a nonresident tax return, such as IRS
 39 Form 1040NR. Of this form, IRS Publication 519 says the following:

40 Income

41 All income for your period of residence and all income that is effectively connected with a trade or business in
 42 the United States for your period of nonresidence, after allowable deductions, is added and taxed at the rates that
 43 apply to U.S. citizens and residents. Income that is not connected with a trade or business in the United States
 44 for your period of nonresidence is subject to the flat 30% rate or lower treaty rate. You cannot take any 45 deductions against this income.

[IRS Publication 519 (2005), p. 30]

In fact, it is participation in the franchise that effectively makes you a "resident" under the I.R.C. Whether a "person" is a "resident" or "nonresident" has NOTHING to do with the nationality or residence, but with whether it is engaged in a "trade or business":

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

 [SOURCE: 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 year 2005 and prior]

The legal mechanism for becoming a "resident" by engaging in a commercial franchise with the government originates from the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2), which makes the person into a "resident" when they consensually engage in "commerce" within the exclusive jurisdiction of the sovereign within its own territory:

TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
§ 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

(a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any case—

(2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

Once you engage in commerce within the jurisdiction of the sovereign and consent to the franchise agreement:

1. You are deemed "resident" and "present" within the jurisdiction of the sovereign.

*In International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945), the Supreme Court held that a court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with due process only if he or she has "certain minimum contacts" with the relevant forum "such that the maintenance of the suit does not offend 'traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.'" Id. at 316 (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457, 463 (1940)). Unless a defendant's contacts with a forum are so substantial, continuous, and systematic that the defendant can be deemed to be "present" in that forum for all purposes, a forum may exercise only "specific" jurisdiction - that is, jurisdiction based on the relationship between the defendant's forum contacts and the plaintiff's claim.

In this circuit, we analyze specific jurisdiction according to a three-prong test:

- (1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;
- (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities; and
- (3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

Schwarzenegger v. Fred Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d. 797, 802 (9th Cir. 2004) (quoting Lake v. Lake, 817 F.2d. 1416, 1421 (9th Cir. 1987)). The first prong is determinative in this case. We have sometimes referred to it, in shorthand fashion, as the "purposeful availment" prong. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d. at 802. Despite its label, this prong includes both purposeful availment and purposeful direction. It may be satisfied by purposeful availment of the privilege of doing business in the forum; by purposeful direction of activities at the forum; or by some combination thereof.

5.6.12.12 Government propaganda and deception about the scam

5.6.12.12.1 Wilful government deception in connection with a “trade or business”

It's pretty obvious that your public servants don't want you to know about this “trade or business” scam, because then the gravy train of plunder and their welfare check would have to stop and they would have to get a REAL job. What steps have they taken to obfuscate the truth about this very important issue? Here is a brief summary of their dishonest techniques:

1. They made it “appear” in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) that income not connected with a “trade or business” from within the “United States” was subject to mandatory 30% tax. However:
  - 1.1. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7\(d\)\(2\)\(ii\) says that the nonresident alien must be present in the United States for 183 days out of the year or more in order to be subject to the taxes on sale or exchange of capital assets, in which case he isn't a nonresident alien anymore by the "presence test". Quite a scam, huh?
  - 1.2. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7\(b\)\(1\) says that the following types of income from within the District of Columbia are taxable to “nonresident alien individuals” not engaged in a "trade or business": "interest, dividends, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, and emoluments, but other items of fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, or income are also subject to the tax, as, for instance, royalties, including royalties for the use of patents, copyrights, secret processes and formulas, and other like property". The Classification Act of 1923, 42 Stat. 1988, then defines all these types of income as being from the federal government only. See our article on this fraud: The Classification Act of 1923, section 6.5.16 later.
2. They never explicitly state the simple truth anywhere in any IRS publication that we could find that if you aren't involved in a “trade or business” within the “United States” as a “person” who has a domicile there (such as a statutory "U.S. citizen" or "resident alien"), then you don't earn “gross income” and are a “nontaxpayer” not subject to the I.R.C. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(a\)\(2\)\(ii\), and 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8\(f\)\(1\)\(iv\) are the only places that make this fact very clear, but it isn't simply and explicitly explained anywhere else in the code or regulations, and these sections are something that could easily be overlooked by the average American.
3. They did not directly state the excise taxable activities subject to tax in a single, simple list anywhere within the Internal Revenue Code. Instead, they left that statement to be made by the Secretary of the Treasury, which he did in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). This section of regulations is one that few people read or refer to, and therefore they have kept the truth out of plain view of most tax professionals.
4. Those who have read and understand 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) and who raise it in litigation have been persecuted and slandered by the IRS and corrupted federal judges and falsely called “frivolous” without justifying why it is frivolous. However, they are the frivolous ones because no federal judge that we know of has ever or would ever deal in their ruling directly with the issue of the “excise taxable activities” identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) because they would have to admit that:
  - 4.1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax.
  - 4.2. People and property within states of the Union are not the proper subject of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.
  - 4.3. The only “taxable activities” under the I.R.C. are either public offices in the United States government or “foreign commerce” of federally registered corporations.

4.4. Natural persons can only be involved in a “taxable activity” if they hold a public office in the United States government or a federal territory or possession, or are acting in the capacity as an officer of a federally chartered corporation that is involved in foreign commerce licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. Remember: The way an activity becomes excise taxable is the issuance of a “license”. Requesting a “license” or accepting a government “privilege” is the essence of how a person volunteers to pay an excise tax.

Now, let's look at some of the devious ways that the IRS creates false presumptions to deceive people domiciled in the states of the Union into admitting under penalty of perjury on the wrong tax return, the 1040, that they are involved in a “trade or business” and that they are subject to exclusive federal jurisdiction, even though we know that neither is true. We refer you to IRS Publication 519 (2000) version, which says starting on p. 17:

The 30% Tax

Tax at a 30% (or lower treaty) rate applies to certain items of income or gains from U.S. sources but only if the items are not effectively connected with your U.S. trade or business.

Fixed or Determinable Income

The 30% (or lower treaty) rate applies to the gross amount of U.S. source fixed or determinable annual or periodic gains, profits, or income

Social Security Benefits

*A nonresident alien must include 85% of any U.S. social security benefit (and the social security equivalent part of a tier 1 railroad retirement benefit) in U.S. source fixed or determinable annual or periodic income. This income is exempt under some tax treaties. See Table 1 in Publication 901, U.S. Tax Treaties, for a list of tax treaties that exempt U.S. social security benefits from U.S. tax.
[IRS Publication 519: U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens (2000), p. 17]*

Well, first of all, the above statement is misleading, because they never defined the word “income” and the Supreme Court said in Eisner v. Macomber that the Congress can't define it and that ONLY the Constitution can define it, so they can't write any law authorizing the IRS to define it either! So what “income” are they talking about here? The only thing the Supreme Court has ever defined “income” to mean was profit from a corporation involved in foreign commerce, as we pointed out earlier in section 5.6.5. Why didn't they mention this? Because they don't want you to know!

Secondly, the only thing that it can be talking about is earnings not connected with a “trade or business” described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a), which is the only place the 30% tax rate appears. Those earnings can only relate to payments originating from “sources within the United States****” earned by “nonresident alien individuals”, because that is what 26 U.S.C. §871 says. What are the items of income” that is subject to this 30% tax? These “items of income” are listed in 26 U.S.C. §§862(a) and 863(a). Most of these “items of income” are then elsewhere excluded, as we showed earlier in this section. We showed, for instance that:

1. Those who are “non-resident non-persons” and not “nonresident aliens” or “nonresident alien individuals” are nowhere mentioned as having any liability at all. This includes those domiciled in states of the Union who are not “aliens” and therefore not “individuals”. The liability to file a tax return described in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(b) only applies to “nonresident alien individuals”, not “non-resident non-persons”. For further details, see the following:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)(A) says that earnings not connected with a “trade or business” and not originating from the “United States” are a “foreign estate” not includible in “gross income”. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) defines this “United States” to mean the District of Columbia or federal statutory “State” (4 U.S.C. §110(d)) but not a state of the Union. Such an estate, including the earnings of people who are part of such an estate, would be “not subject” to the tax but at the same time not “exempt”.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term “foreign estate” means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

3. 26 U.S.C. §864(b)(1)(A) excludes earnings of “nonresident alien individuals” who are working for nonresident aliens, even though 26 U.S.C. §862(a)(3) would appear to create the false impression that such earnings are includible in “gross income”.
4. Self-employment income is not counted as “gross income” under 26 U.S.C. §1402 if it does not involve a “trade or business”.
5. Under 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv), only income “effectively connected with a trade or business” is includible in gross income for biological people.

So what is left after one excludes the earnings indicated in the above requirements because the party being taxed is a “national” and a “non-resident non-person” who is not a “nonresident alien”, “nonresident alien individual”, or an alien and all of whose earnings are not “effectively connected with a trade or business” and originate outside the statutory “United States***” (federal territory)? CORPORATE PROFIT OF A FEDERAL AND NOT STATE CORPORATION INVOLVED IN FOREIGN COMMERCE! That’s what we already showed the Supreme Court said constituted “income” within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment:

“Income [corporate profit from foreign commerce, in the context of taxes upon states of the Union] has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (36 Stat. 112) in the 16th Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed.”
Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., [271 U.S. 170 174, (1926)]

“The grant of the power to lay and collect taxes [on foreign commerce within the states ONLY] is, like the power to regulate commerce, made in general terms, and has never been understood to interfere with the exercise of the same power by the State; and hence has been drawn an argument which has been applied to the question under consideration. But the two grants are not, it is conceived, similar in their terms or their nature. Although many of the powers formerly [22 U.S. 1, 199] exercised by the States, are transferred to the government of the Union, yet the State governments remain, and constitute a most important part of our system. The power of taxation is indispensable to their existence, and is a power which, in its own nature, is capable of residing in, and being exercised by, different authorities at the same time. We are accustomed to see it placed, for different purposes, in different hands. Taxation is the simple operation of taking small portions from a perpetually accumulating mass, susceptible of almost infinite division; and a power in one to take what is necessary for certain purposes, is not, in its nature, incompatible with a power in another to take what is necessary for other purposes. Congress is authorized to lay and collect taxes [on foreign commerce ONLY within the states], and to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States. This does not interfere with the power of the States to tax [internally] for the support of their own governments; nor is the exercise of that power by the States [to tax INTERNALLY], an exercise of any portion of the power that is granted to the United States [to tax EXTERNALLY]. In imposing taxes for State purposes, they are not doing what Congress is empowered to do. Congress is not empowered to tax for those purposes which are within the exclusive province of the States. When, then, each government exercises the power of taxation, neither is exercising the power of the other.

But, when a State proceeds to regulate commerce with foreign nations, or among the several States, it is exercising the very power that is granted to Congress, [22 U.S. 1, 200] and is doing the very thing which Congress is authorized to do. There is no analogy, then, between the power of taxation and the power of regulating commerce.

[Gibbons v. Ogden, 22 U.S. 1 (1824)]

26 C.F.R. §1.861-8\(f\)\(1\) lists all these taxable activities involving foreign commerce, and they all come under treaties or are connected with what is called a Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC) or a Foreign Sales Corporation (FSC): These weasels are slippery, aren't they? What they are trying to do is make an exclusively municipal excise tax that only applies to federal territory “look” like it applies to everyone in the country by encrypting and hiding the truth using “words of art”. They contradict themselves in their own publication, because elsewhere, they admit that those who have income from

1 outside the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal territory) that is not connected with "trade or business"
2 don't earn "gross income":

3 Income Subject to Tax

4 Income from sources outside the United States that is not effectively connected with a trade or business in the
5 United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income is not taxable even
6 if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S. citizen after receiving
7 it and before the end of the year.
8 [IRS Publication 519 (2000), p. 26
9 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSPub519.pdf>

10 The above claim within IRS Publication 519 originates from 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which we cited at the beginning of this
11 article. What they are saying is that only earnings from within the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) and which 12 are not connected with a "trade or business" are subject to the 30% tax rate, and that the income must be earned by 13 "nonresident alien individuals" who are aliens and not "nationals", because citizens can't be taxed at home and aliens and
14 nonresident aliens are excluded. The only thing left is foreign "persons", such as foreign corporations. If they simply
15 commute daily to work there, they are "nonresident aliens" and therefore don't earn "gross income". Anything not connected
16 with a "trade or business" that is earned outside of the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) is therefore not includible
17 as "gross income" at all. Anything earned inside the statutory "United States**" (federal territory) in connection with a
18 public office is includible in "gross income" at the graduated, instead of 30% rate. Even then, one must consent voluntarily
19 to be a "taxpayer" because there is no statute making anyone liable in either the D.C. Code or the I.R.C. That process is done
20 by submitting a form and assessing oneself with a liability even though there is none. Once they "volunteer" by filling out
21 and submitting the WRONG form, the 1040 form, and become "subject to" the I.R.C., they become virtual inhabitants of the 22 District of Columbia under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d):

24 Sec. 7701. – Definitions

25 (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent
26 thereof—

27 (39) Persons residing outside [the federal] United States

28 If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial 29 district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any 30 provision of this title relating to -

31 (A) jurisdiction of courts, or
32 (B) enforcement of summons.

34 TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter A > § 7408
35 §7408. Action to enjoin promoters of abusive tax shelters, etc.

36 (d) Citizens and residents outside the United States If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside
37 in, and does not have his principal place of business in, any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident 38 shall be treated for purposes of this section as residing in the District of Columbia.

39 If they REALLY had jurisdiction in a state of the Union to tax, do you think they would need provisions like those above?
40 Note also that what statutory "citizens and residents" have in common is a legal "domicile" in the statutory but not 41 constitutional "United States**" (federal territory) pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3) . When a human domiciled in a state of 42 the Union who is rightfully a "non-resident non-person" fills out and sends in a 1040 form, rather than the correct 1040NR
43 form, they are assumed to be a "citizen or resident of the United States" and an "individual", meaning a "resident alien"
44 pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). The "United States" in the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A means federal territory that is 45 not part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional state of the Union. It is redefined in other titles to include the 50
46 states, but in Subtitle A, it's definition is limited to that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).
47 Therefore, they are claiming that they are domiciled on federal territory within the statutory but not constitutional "United 48 States**". Did you know that by submitting an IRS Form 1040, you were making a "voluntary election" to be treated as a
49 domiciliary of the federal zone? They didn't tell you THAT in the IRS publications, now did they? Why not? Because they
50 want to manufacture your legal ignorance in the public schools and then use their incomplete and deceptive publications to

1 “harvest” the fruits of your ignorance. The Soviets called these people “Useful Idiots”. A fool and his money are soon parted.
 2 The public schools are the fool factory and the 1040 is the indenture that makes you into their willing, voluntary indentured
 3 slave. Below is what the IRS Published Products Catalog (2003) says about the purpose of the form 1040:

4 1040A 11327A Each
 5 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

6 Annual income tax return filed by citizens and residents of the United States. There are separate instructions
 7 available for this item. The catalog number for the instructions is 12088U.

11 Under I.R.C. §7701(a)(39) above, they then become the equivalent of “virtual inhabitants” of the District of Columbia. If we
 12 then look in the District of Columbia Code, we find that there isn't a liability statute in that code either so the IRS still requires
 13 our consent to call us a “taxpayer” no matter which way you look at it. This is covered in much more detail in the Tax Fraud
 14 Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, Chapter 3, section 3.5.3 if you want to investigate further. We also know that kidnapping
 15 is highly illegal under 18 U.S.C. §1201, and that making us into a “virtual inhabitant” of anything is the equivalent of 16 kidnapping if done without our consent. Therefore, indirectly we must conclude that anyone who does not have a domicile
 17 on federal territory in the statutory but not constitutional “United States**” must volunteer or consent to be a “taxpayer”
 18 before their “res” or legal identity can be transported to the federal zone. That process of volunteering is done using the IRS
 19 Form 1040 and is done under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §6013\(g\) for those who file as “nonresident aliens”.

20 It gets worse, folks. Let's look at some of the deceit in IRS Publication 519 that tries to convince people falsely that they are 21 involved in a “trade or business”, or tricks them into admitting they are in the process of pursuing the “privilege” of having 22 additional deductions. Below is what they say about how you can increase your deductions by claiming you are engaged in 23 a “trade or business”, from p. 23 of the Year 2000 edition of IRS Publication 519:

24 Itemized Deductions

25 *Nonresident aliens can claim some of the same itemized deductions that resident aliens can claim. However,
 26 nonresident aliens can claim itemized deductions only if they have income effectively connected with their U.S.
 27 trade or business.

28 Nonresident Aliens

29 You can deduct certain itemized deductions if you receive income effectively connected with your U.S. trade or 30 business. These deductions include state and local income taxes, charitable contributions to U.S. organizations,
 31 casualty and theft losses, and miscellaneous deductions. Use Schedule A of Form 1040NR to claim itemized
 32 deductions.

33 If you are filing Form 1040NR-EZ, you can only claim a deduction for state or local income taxes. If you are 34 claiming any other deduction, you must file Form 1040NR.
 35 [IRS Publication 519 (2000), p. 23]

36 Why do they do the above? Well, those who know they have no effectively connected income and therefore have a zero tax
 37 liability don't need deductions because they don't owe anything! The only reason to pursue a deduction is because one has 38 “gross income”, and few Americans we have ever met domiciled in the states even have “gross income”.

39 Later on, in this same IRS Publication 519, we see that the IRS tries to create a false “presumption” in their favor by trying 40 to convince people they are usually involved in a “trade or business”. Notice that they never explicitly define what it means
 41 from the I.R.C, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. As a matter of fact, if they 42 DID explain this definition in their publication, boy would they ever have a LOT of explaining to do on their phone support
 43 line, so they conveniently leave it out. They don't mention its real definition because that would render everything listed
 44 below as basically irrelevant and moot. The reader would simply throw Pub 519 in the trash at that point and conclude he is 45 a “nontaxpayer”, so they instead tip toe around the definition and give examples without relating them to the legal definition
 46 in the I.R.C. Below is the IRS Publication 519 (2000) definition of “trade or Business in the United States” from pp. 15-16:

47 Trade or Business in the United States

1 Generally, you must be engaged in a trade or business during the tax year to be able to treat income received in
2 that year as effectively connected with that trade or business. Whether you are engaged in a trade or business in 3 the United States depends on the nature of your activities. The discussions that follow will help you determine
4 whether you are engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

5 Personal Services

6 If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax year, you
7 usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

8 TIP: Certain compensation paid to a nonresident alien by a foreign employer is not included in gross income.
9 For more information, see Services Performed for Foreign Employer in chapter 3.

10 Other Trade or Business Activities

11 Other examples of being engaged in a trade or business in the United States follow.

12 Students and trainees. You are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States if you are 13 temporarily present in the United States as a nonimmigrant under a "F," "J," "M," or "Q" visa. A nonresident
14 alien temporarily present in the United States under a "J" visa includes a nonresident alien individual admitted
15 to the United States as an exchange visitor under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961.
16 The taxable part of any scholarship or fellowship grant that is U.S. source income is treated as effectively
17 connected with a trade or business in the United States.

18 Business operations. If you own and operate a business in the United States selling services, products, or 19 merchandise, you are, with certain exceptions [not mentioned], engaged in a trade or business in the United 20 States.

21 Partnerships. If you are a member of a partnership that at any time during the tax year is engaged in a trade or 22 business in the United States, you are considered to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

23 Beneficiary of an estate or trust. If you are the beneficiary of an estate or trust that is engaged in a trade or 24 business in the United States, you are treated as being engaged in the same trade or business.

25 Trading in stocks, securities, and commodities.

26 If your only U.S. business activity is trading in stocks, securities, or commodities (including hedging transactions)
27 through a U.S. resident [alien] broker or other agent, you are not engaged in a trade or business in the United 28 States.

29 For transactions in stocks or securities, this applies to any nonresident alien, including a dealer or broker in 30 stocks and securities.

31 For transactions in commodities, this applies to commodities that are usually traded on an organized commodity
32 exchange and to transactions that are usually carried out at such an exchange.

33 U.S. office or other fixed place of business at any time during the tax year through which, or by the direction of 34 which, you carry out your transactions in stocks, securities, or commodities.

35 Trading for a nonresident alien's own account. You are not engaged in a trade or business in the United States
36 if trading for your own account in stocks, securities, or commodities is your only U.S. business activity.

37 This applies even if the trading takes place while you are present in the United States or is done by your employee
38 or your broker or other agent.

39 This does not apply to trading for your own account if you are a dealer in stocks, securities, or commodities. This 40 does not necessarily mean, however, that as a dealer you are considered to be engaged in a trade or business in 41 the United States. Determine that based on the facts and circumstances in each case or under the rules given 42 above in Trading in stocks, securities, and commodities.

43 Effectively Connected Income

44 If you are engaged in a U.S. trade or business, all income, gain, or loss for the tax year that you get from sources
45 within the United

1 States (other than certain investment income) is treated as effectively connected income. This applies whether or
 2 not there is any connection between the income and the trade or business being carried on in the United States
 3 during the tax year.

4 Two tests, described under Investment Income, determine whether certain items of investment income (such as 5 interest, dividends, and royalties) are treated as effectively connected with that business.

6 In limited circumstances, some kinds of foreign source income may be treated as effectively connected with a
 7 trade or business in the United States. For a discussion of these rules, see Foreign Income, later.
 8 [IRS Publication 519 (2000), pp. 15-16]

9 The first thing you notice is the statement: "Whether you are engaged in a trade or business in the United States depends on 10 the nature of your activities". That statement is a tacit admission that the income tax is in fact an indirect excise tax on 11 activities. They also said:

12 "If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax year, you
 13 usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States."

14 Well, let's look at the definition of "personal services" used above to see what these weasels are up to:

15 26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

16 (b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

17 Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However,
 18 personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor
 19 as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

20 Notice that they used the word "means" instead of "includes" in the above definition and DID NOT confine the definition by 21 stating "for the purposes of this section" or "for the purposes of this chapter". Instead, they provided an unambiguous
 22 universal definition of "personal services" which applies throughout the ENTIRE Internal Revenue Code and they indicated
 23 effectively that you aren't performing "personal services" UNLESS you are engaged in a "trade or business". So what they 24 are doing when they say "If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax
 25 year, you usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States." is effectively making a circular
 26 statement that confirms itself. This is called a "tautology", which is a word that is defined using itself. It's only purpose
 27 is self-serving deception. Can you see how insidious this deception and double-speak is? It's all designed to take attention
 28 away from the nature of the taxed activity so that people will think the tax is on the money instead of the activity, isn't it? If 29 they admitted that the income tax was an indirect excise tax on activities, they would dig a DEEP hole for themselves that 30 would start an avalanche of people leaving the tax rolls. That is why they never come out and say EXACTLY what a "trade
 31 or business" is or how their explanation relates to the definition of a "trade or business" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26), ,
 32 which describes it as a "public office". Since when do people holding "public office" have time to do any of the above things
 33 in addition to fulfilling their office? Furthermore, under federal law, it is a conflict of interest to maintain any private business
 34 activities outside the workplace that might jeopardize one's objectivity. But then later on p. 26 of the same publication, under 35 "Dual Status Tax Year", they finally admit the truth:

36 Income Subject to Tax

37 Income from sources outside the United States [federal territory] that is not effectively connected with a trade
 38 or business in the United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income
 39 is not taxable even if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S.
 40 citizen after receiving it and before the end of the year.
 41 [IRS Publication 519 (2000), p. 26]

42 An excellent way to confirm the conclusions of this section is to read the publications of the Joint Committee on Taxation.
 43 We would like to quote from JCT document 85-199 entitled "Explanation of Proposed Income Tax Treaty Between The 44 United States and the United Kingdom". You can get this publication at:

45 <http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/JointComteeOnTax/85199-US-GB-TreatyExplan.pdf>

1 Now the excerpt, from pp. 4-5 is VERY revealing. We boldface and underline the important portions to bring attention to
 2 them. We have also added bracketed material to amplify exactly what they mean based on discussion earlier in this chapter
 3 and based on the definitions of terms found in the Internal Revenue Code:

4 A. U.S. Tax Rules

5 *The United States taxes U.S. citizens [people born anywhere in the country but domiciled on federal territory in 6 the District of Columbia or territories but excluding those domiciled in constitutional states of the Union],
 7 residents [who are all "aliens"], and corporations [registered ONLY in the District of Columbia and 8 EXCLUDING state-only corporations] on their worldwide income [connected with a "trade or business"],
 9 whether derived in the United States [federal territory] or abroad [outside the states of the Union]. The United 10 States generally taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations on all their income that is 11 effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States (sometimes referred to as 12 "effectively connected income"). The United States also taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign 13 corporations on certain U.S.-source income that is not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business.*

14 *Income of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation that is effectively connected with the conduct of
 15 a trade or business in the United States generally is subject to U.S. tax in the same manner and at the same rates
 16 as income of a U.S. person. Deductions are allowed to the extent that they are related to effectively connected
 17 income. A foreign corporation also is subject to a flat 30-percent branch profits tax on its "dividend equivalent 18 amount," which is a measure of the effectively connected earnings and profits of the corporation that are removed
 19 in any year from the conduct of its U.S. trade or business. In addition, a foreign corporation is subject to a flat
 20 30-percent branch-level excess interest tax on the excess of the amount of interest that is deducted by the foreign
 21 corporation in computing its effectively connected income over the amount of interest that is paid by its U.S. trade
 22 or business. U.S.-source fixed or determinable annual or periodical income of a nonresident alien individual or 23 foreign corporation (including, for example, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, salaries, and annuities) that is 24 not effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business is subject to U.S. tax at a rate of 30 percent
 25 of the gross amount paid. Certain insurance premiums earned by a nonresident alien individual or foreign 26 corporation are subject to U.S. tax at a rate of 1 or 4 percent of the premiums. These taxes generally are collected 27 by means of withholding.*

28 *Specific statutory exemptions from the 30-percent withholding tax are provided. For example, certain original
 29 issue discount and certain interest on deposits with banks or savings institutions are exempt from the 30-percent
 30 withholding tax. An exemption also is provided for certain interest paid on portfolio debt obligations. In addition,
 31 income of a foreign government or international organization from investments in U.S. securities is exempt from 32 U.S. tax.*

33 *U.S.-source capital gains of a nonresident alien individual or a foreign corporation that are not effectively
 34 connected with a U.S. trade or business generally are exempt from U.S. tax, with two exceptions: (1) gains
 35 realized by a nonresident alien individual who is present in the United States [federal territory] for at least 183

37 *Rules are provided for the determination of the source of income. For example, interest and dividends paid by a 38 U.S. citizen or resident or by a U.S. corporation generally are considered U.S.-source income. Conversely,
 39 dividends and interest paid by a foreign corporation generally are treated as foreign-source income. Special rules
 40 apply to treat as foreign-source income (in whole or in part) interest paid by certain U.S. corporations with 41 foreign businesses and to treat as U.S.-source income (in whole or in part) dividends paid by certain foreign 42 corporations with U.S. businesses. Rents and royalties paid for the use of property in the United States are

44 They basically admitted everything we just got through saying throughout the preceding discussion, folks! They are very 45 cleverly hiding the taxable activity by referring to it as a "trade or business", which is a "word of art", and not defining which 46 "U.S." they are talking about or the fact that it only includes the District of Columbia. They also admitted the circumstances
 47 under which the 30% tax in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) applies. Recall that this section identified a 30% tax on nonresident alien
 48 income from sources inside the District of Columbia which is not connected with a "trade or business"/public office. Well,
 49 they just explained that the tax is only paid by foreign corporations as an indirect tax upon income derived from a "trade or 50 business". Therefore, ALL income that is taxable under the I.R.C., Subtitle A derives exclusively from a "trade or business"
 51 and a "public office" in one way or another.

52 The first sentence of the above also tries to deceive the reader by saying that "U.S. citizens", "residents", and "corporations"
 53 are taxed on their "worldwide income" WITHOUT mentioning the requirement for being engaged in a "trade or 54 business". We know based on our earlier analysis, however, that under I.R.C., Subtitle A, all natural persons who are 55 "taxpayers" under the code, whether married, unmarried, heads of Household, etc. MUST be engaged in a "trade or business"
 56 in order to earn "taxable income". The taxable activity for international corporations is "foreign commerce" rather than the 57 "trade or business" under other subtitles of the code, and the above tries to lump all of them together and thereby create an absolutely false presumption in the mind of the reader. Therefore, such a claim can ONLY apply to artificial entities engaged in foreign commerce under Subtitle D of the I.R.C. The only thing we didn't cover earlier was the difference in treatment between corporations and natural persons. In that scenario, under I.R.C., Subtitle D, these corporations are taxed on their worldwide income that derives from imports, which counts as "foreign commerce" under the constitution. These conclusions are supported by the Supreme Court, which said:

"The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."
[Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."

5.6.12.12.2 Proving the government deception yourself

Another way to confirm the conclusions of this section is to look at older versions of the U.S. Code or Statutes at Large that show the definition of "gross income". Politicians of old were much more honest and direct than the weasels and thieves and traitors we have in office today, so their laws told the truth plainly. It wasn't until the socialists began to take over starting in 1913 and peaking with Franklin Roosevelt in 1930's that the I.R.C. really started to show signs of willful deceit. Below are two very old definitions of "gross income" that show the truth plainly to prove our point. These versions did not use the "trade or business" trick so they had to state the truth plainly:

- 26 U.S.C. §954 \(1928 code\):
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Authorities/FedLaw/26USCA954-1928-GrossIncome.pdf>
- 26 U.S.C. §22 \(1935 code\):
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Authorities/FedLaw/26USCA22-1935-GrossIncome.pdf>

5.6.12.12.3 False IRS presumptions that must be rebutted

How can we know if the IRS "thinks" or "presumes" we are involved in a "trade or business"? Here is how within the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A:

1. Only people who are engaged in a "trade or business" are subject to the graduated rate of tax of tax. See 26 U.S.C. §871\(b\).
2. All income from within federal territory, which is the "United States" under the I.R.C. section 7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d), must be treated as "effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States", according to 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\). That's right: it is a "privilege" under 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\) to simply "live" and earn "income" on federal territory. Here is what it says:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > § 864
§864. Definitions and special rules

(c) Effectively connected income, etc.

(3) Other income from sources within United States

All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

3. Only people who are engaged in a "trade or business" can claim deductions on their "return". Otherwise, they can't. See 26 U.S.C. §162 for proof.
4. Only people who are engaged in a "trade or business" can owe a tax and therefore be the target of a Substitute For Return (SFR), which is an assessment that in most cases is illegally executed by the IRS.
5. Only "Citizens" or "residents" who file a 1040 and put a nonzero amount for income can be connected to a "trade or business" within the United States".
6. Only "Nonresident aliens" who file a 1040NR form and put a nonzero amount for "trade or business" income can be connected to a "trade or business" within the United States".
7. Only people who complete, voluntarily sign, and submit a W-4 and thereby identify themselves as federal "employees" can be connected to a "trade or business". 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 identifies all federal "employees" as "public officers". All "public officers" are by definition engaged in a "trade or business".
8. Those who receive Social Security Benefits. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(8) says that Social Security benefits received must be included in "gross income" from "sources within the United States". Indirectly, they must also be saying that such earnings are to be treated as "effectively connected with a trade or business", because 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says that if these earnings were not connected with a "trade or business", then they cannot be reported as "gross income" and are part of a "foreign estate" not subject to the code. 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\)\(3\), on the other hand, associates Social Security benefits received by "nonresident aliens" with OTHER than a "trade or business" and also makes them reportable and taxable as "gross income".

Those who avail themselves of any of the above government "privileges" are presumed to be "taxpayers" in the context of the activities above as far as the IRS is concerned. This doesn't mean they are "taxpayers" for ALL their earnings, but only for those in which the above activities are undertaken. It's a "privilege" to have deductions and pay a usually lower graduated rate of tax on earnings that are otherwise "taxable". In effect, the government is exploiting people's ignorance and greed in the pursuit of exemptions or tax reductions they don't need in order to transform "nontaxpayers" into "taxpayers". Here is how one Congressman described this kind of very devious exploitation:

"Objections to its [the income tax] renewal are long, loud, and general throughout the country. Those who pay are the exception, those who do not pay are millions; the whole moral force of the law is a dead letter. The honest man makes a true return; the dishonest hides and covers all he can to avoid this obnoxious tax. It has no moral force. This tax is unequal, perjury-provoking and crime encouraging, because it is a war with the right of a person to keep private and regulate his business affairs and financial matters. Deception, fraud, and falsehood mark its progress everywhere in the process of collection. It creates curiosity, jealousy, and prejudice among the people. It makes the tax-gatherer a spy...The people demand that it shall not be renewed, but left to die a natural death and pass away into the future as pass away all the evils growing out of the Civil War."

Those "taxpayers" in receipt of taxable privileges or "nontaxpayers" who are too stupid to know that they don't need to become a "taxpayer" in order to receive a "privilege" they don't need should definitely pay for the "privilege" they are taking advantage of. Therefore, if you are a "non-resident non-person" not engaged in a "trade or business" and any one of the above conditions applies to you, then the IRS is ASSUMING, usually wrongfully, that you are engaged in a "trade or business" or have income under 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\) originating from the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal territory) that is not connected with a "trade or business". The great irony of this whole fraudulent federal "scheme" is that those who were otherwise "nontaxpayers" and never had any "gross income" to begin with, in effect were fooled by deceptive IRS publications and phone advice into:

1. Falsely believing that their income was "taxable" and that they were "taxpayers".
2. Falsely believing that because they were "taxpayers" with "taxable income", then they needed deductions to reduce their liability.

3. Volunteering to make themselves into “taxpayers” to procure federal “privileges” called “deductions” that they never needed to begin with, but which the IRS was too dishonest to remind them that they didn’t need. Once they took these deductions, they became “taxpayers” even if they weren’t before.

The Bible describes this GREAT deception and fraud as follows:

*For thus says the LORD:
"You have sold yourselves for nothing,
And you shall be redeemed without money."
[Isaiah 52:3, Bible, NKJV]*

We call the above “government instituted slavery using privileges” or simply “privilege-induced slavery” earlier in section 4.3.12. Those with liberal arts degrees in business from prestigious but amoral or immoral universities might euphemistically refer to this devious brand of exploitation simply as “clever marketing”, but in the end, it amounts to deceit in commerce, which the Bible says is the gravest of sins which God hates most of all sins:

"As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for,

*1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren.

2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him.

A [false] balance, [whether it be in the federal courtroom or at the IRS or in the marketplace,] cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God."
[Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

5.6.12.12.4 Why the IRS and the Courts WON'T Talk About what a “trade or business” or “Public office” is and Collude to Cover Up the Scam

*"The 'Truth' about income taxes is so precious to the U.S. government that it must be surrounded by a bodyguard of lies."
[Family Guardian Fellowship]*

The government perpetuates the “trade or business” FRAUD and scam by the following means:

1. Refusing to discuss the meaning of a “trade or business” in their publications or their phone support.
2. Refusing to discuss the meaning of a “public office” in their publications or their phone support.
3. Calling those who raise the issues documented here as “frivolous” or “preposterous” without citing any relevant legal authority justifying such a conclusion that is consistent with the following pamphlet:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4. Trying to cover up their fraud using the word “includes” scam documented below:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

There are many very good reasons why they try to deflect attention away from the scam. Some of the reasons are as follows:

1. The IRS would have to admit that they aren't part of the government and are a private corporation, which in fact they are. Remember: A “public officer” is someone who has no supervisor other than the law and the courts and who exercises a sovereign functions of the government INDEPENDENTLY of oversight other than the law and the courts:

1 "Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are:

2 (1) Authority conferred by law,

3 (2) Fixed tenure of office, and

4 (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.

5
6 Key element of such test is that "officer is carrying out a sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino, 168 Conn. 563, 362 A.2d. 871, 875. Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are:

7 Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.

8 Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,

9 Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.

10 Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and

11 Position must have some permanency."

12 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1230]

14 If the IRS was an administrative part of the government and ESPECIALLY if it were in the Executive Branch as they
15 want to deceive you into believing, then they couldn't have any enforcement authority at all without admitting that the 16 people they are enforcing against in fact ARE NOT "public officers" as legally defined because they are being supervised
17 by other than ONLY the courts and the law alone. These considerations explain why:

18 1.1. No statute authorizes or ever has authorized the creation of the IRS. See:

19 Letter from Congressman Pat Danner, Sept. 12, 1996

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Evidence/Jurisdiction/IRSnotGov.pdf>

19 1.2. Historical Treasury Organization Charts do not show the IRS as being in the Dept. of the Treasury. See:

20 SEDM Exhibit #05.010

<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

20 1.3. Title 31 of the U.S. Code does not list the Internal Revenue Service as being within the Dept. of the Treasury, even 21 though their letterhead FRAUDULENTLY says they are. See:

22 SEDM Exhibit #08.001

<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

22 1.4. The Dept. of Justice has admitted under oath during legal discovery that the IRS is not an agency of the Federal 23 Government. See:

24 SEDM Exhibit #08.004

<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

25 2. All "public officers" have a fiduciary duty to the people they serve, which means they have a fiduciary duty to YOU to 26 act in YOUR best interest as a human being protected by the Constitution. If you can prove your oppressors are 27 "taxpayers" and therefore "public officers", then their omissions that injure you would become actionable and a tort in

- 4 3. Any officer of the state government, including a state judge, who is also a federal "taxpayer" would have to admit that
 5 he is violating the Constitution of his state by simultaneously being a "public officer" in the federal government and a
 6 public officer in the state government at the same time. Most state constitutions and/or state statutes forbid public officers
 7 within the state government from also being public officers in the federal government. This is done to prevent a violation
 8 of the separation of powers doctrine between the state and federal governments as well as to prevent conflicts of interest
 9 and allegiance by public servants. Why, then, do state courts have federal Employer Identification Numbers (EINs)?
 10 Shouldn't they be exempt from such requirement to preserve the separation of powers? Here is an example within the 11 California Constitution:

12 CALIFORNIA CONSTITUTION
 13 ARTICLE 7 PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

14 SEC. 7. A person holding a lucrative office under the United States or other power may not hold a civil office
 15 of profit [within the state government]. A local officer or postmaster whose compensation does not exceed 500
 16 dollars per year or an officer in the militia or a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United 17 States except where on active federal duty for more than 30 days in any year is not a holder of a lucrative office, 18 nor is the holding of a civil office of profit affected by this military service.

- 21 4. "Taxpayer" attorneys representing clients in state court would have to recuse themselves from the practice of law for 22 violating the state constitutional prohibition against serving simultaneously in both a public office in the federal
 23 government and a public office in the state government. All attorneys are officers of the court they are licensed to 24 practice in. If that court is a state court, they are public officers of the state government and therefore cannot also serve 25 as public officers of the federal government called "taxpayers":

26 Attorneys at Law

28 An attorney is more than a mere agent or servant of his or her client; within the attorney's sphere, he or she is as
 29 independent as a judge, has duties and obligations to the court as well as to his or her client, and has powers
 30 entirely different from and superior to those of an ordinary agent.<sup>248</sup> In a limited sense an attorney is a public
 31 officer.<sup>249</sup> although an attorney is not generally considered a "public officer," "civil officer," or the like, as used
 32 in statutory or constitutional provisions.<sup>250</sup> The attorney occupies what may be termed a "quasi-judicial 33 office"<sup>251</sup> and is, in fact, an officer of the court.<sup>252</sup>

5. You as a “taxpayer” and a “public officer” could assert sovereign immunity against other agencies of the government on the basis that it violates the separation of powers doctrine for any agency of the federal government to interfere with the activities of any other agency or office. Taxation is a “legislative” and not a judicial function.<sup>253</sup> This situation is precisely the reason, for instance, why:

5.1. The Anti-Injunction Act, 26 U.S.C. §7421, prohibits courts from interfering with the LAWFUL assessment or collection of income taxes from “public officers” in the Legislative Branch who consent.

5.2. The Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201\(a\) prohibits courts from making declaratory judgments in the case of federal “taxes”. This prohibition also precludes the courts from identifying anyone as a “taxpayer” who says under penalty of perjury that they aren't.

6. It is ILLEGAL for an “alien” to be a “public officer” and you aren't an alien if you were born in this country. The I.R.C., Subtitle A tax is an excise tax upon a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. All “taxpayers” in the I.R.C. are aliens engaged in a public office if not abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d) and it is ILLEGAL for aliens to hold public office! See 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) for proof that all “individuals” and “taxpayers” are aliens engaged in a “trade or business”/public office.

4. Lack of Citizenship

§74. Aliens can not hold Office. - - It is a general principle that an alien can not hold a public office. In all independent popular governments, as is said by Chief Justice Dixon of Wisconsin, “it is an acknowledged principle, which lies at the very foundation, and the enforcement of which needs neither the aid of statutory nor constitutional enactments or restrictions, that the government is instituted by the citizens for their liberty and protection, and that it is to be administered, and its powers and functions exercised only by them and through their agency.”

In accordance with this principle it is held that an alien can not hold the office of sheriff.<sup>254</sup>

7. Courts would have to admit your evidence just as readily as that of any other government officer or employee involved in the action, or else they would be guilty of denying you equal protection of the law and all the “benefits” of the very office that they MUST impute to you in order to treat you as a “taxpayer”. This would make them look hypocritical and juries would throw the book at the government for doing this. The Federal Rules of Evidence permit those engaged in a “public office” to receive preferential treatment in getting their evidence admitted in federal court, including evidence without signature and without foundational testimony. The government doesn't want to confer this advantage upon pro per litigants or those opposing the government tax scam. Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) permits a “public records” exception to the Hearsay Rule, which means that any tax record, any evidence you gathered in the course of complying with your alleged “duties” as a “public officer” would not be excludible by the judges of federal district courts, which would severely undermine the government's civil or criminal tax case against you. The IRS and DOJ win in federal court primarily by getting federal judges to unlawfully exclude evidence of persons who are litigating against them in order to prejudice the case in favor of the government. Below is what the appropriate section of the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803 says on this subject, noting that “activities of the office or agency”, such as a “public office” fall within the protections of this rule:

Rule 803. Hearsay Exceptions; Availability of Declarant Immaterial

The following are not excluded by the hearsay rule, even though the declarant is available as a witness:

(8) Public records and reports. Records, reports, statements, or data compilations, in any form, of public offices or agencies, setting forth (A) the activities of the office or agency, or (B) matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report, excluding, however, in criminal cases matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel, or (C) in civil actions and proceedings and against the Government in criminal cases, factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness.

8. Financial institutions could no longer file Currency Transaction Reports on human beings who are “taxpayers” using IRS Form 8300 or Treasury Forms 103 and 104 . This is because 31 U.S.C. §5313(d)(1)(C) specifically exempts “Any entity established under the laws of the United States, any State, or any political subdivision of any State, or under an interstate compact between 2 or more States, which exercises governmental authority on behalf of the United States or any such State or political subdivision.”. Statutory “taxpayers” are in fact such entities.

31 U.S. Code § 5313 - Reports on domestic coins and currency transactions

(d)Mandatory Exemptions From Reporting Requirements.—

(1)In general.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall exempt, pursuant to section 5318(a)(6), a depository institution from the reporting requirements of subsection (a) with respect to transactions between the depository institution and the following categories of entities:

(A)Another depository institution.

(B)A department or agency of the United States, any State, or any political subdivision of any State.

(C)Any entity established under the laws of the United States, any State, or any political subdivision of any State, or under an interstate compact between 2 or more States, which exercises governmental authority on behalf of the United States or any such State or political subdivision.

(D)Any business or category of business the reports on which have little or no value for law enforcement purposes.

Statutory “taxpayers” are public officers and the “agency” or instrumentality they operate WITHIN is the Internal Revenue Service, which is under the Supervision and Control of the Treasury Department in the Executive Branch. In effect, the only thing that CTR reporting can then apply to are foreigners not protected by the Constitution and therefore who do not have the privacy protections of the Fourth Amendment. Even for those entities engaged in a “nonfinancial trade or business” identified in 31 U.S.C. §5331, those transactions occurring outside of the STATUTORY “United States”, meaning with people OUTSIDE of the U.S. government, are not reportable:

31 U.S. Code § 5331 - Reports relating to coins and currency received in nonfinancial trade or business

(c)Exceptions.—

(1)Amounts received by financial institutions.—

Subsection (a) shall not apply to amounts received in a transaction reported under section 5313 and regulations prescribed under such section.

(2)Transactions occurring outside the united states.—

Except to the extent provided in regulations prescribed by the Secretary, subsection (a) shall not apply to any transaction if the entire transaction occurs outside the United States.

They don't say WHICH of the two main “United States” they mean in the above, meaning the United States corporation in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) or the geographical United States in the District of Columbia at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), 4 U.S.C. §110(d), 31 U.S.C. §103, 31 U.S.C. §5112(t)(1)(C), and the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 64 Stat. 873, Section 3(a)(3), but both are essentially synonymous, because of what the Supreme Court said was taxable in Downes v. Bidwell below. Note the language “It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends” because it is in fact an excise tax UPON the government and its officers, and not private humans protected by the Constitution.

1                   “Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original
2 record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a
3 direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could
4 act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature
5 for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might
6 be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could
7 not legislate for the District under art. I, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and
8 excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the 9 United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without
10 limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it
11 extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States.

21 9. Once the government truthfully admits that the income tax is an “excise tax” upon “public offices” within the United 22 States government, those facing IRS enforcement actions would naturally introduce some very compromising questions
23 that would put the IRS into a very tight spot that they could never get out of:

24 9.1. How can you force me to act as a “public officer” without my consent? Where is the evidence that I consented to 25 act in this capacity?

26 9.2. Where is the constitutionally required oath of office for me to act as a “public officer”? This requirement is 27 described earlier in section 5.6.12.10.

28 9.3. Where is the act of Congress that authorizes the specific “public office” that you allege that I am engaged in as 29 required by 4 U.S.C. §72?

30 9.4. Where is the compensation to act as a “public officer”, because I don’t work for free and the Thirteenth Amendment
31 prohibits involuntary servitude?

32 9.5. What if I don’t think the compensation to act as a “public office” offered by I.R.C. Sections 1, 32, and 162 is 33 adequate? How can I quit this form of federal agency and/or employment? Show me the forms to do this 34 permanently.

35 9.6. How can people who submit false information returns that connect me to a “public office” have any lawful authority
36 at all to donate or convert my private labor and property to a “public use” and a “public office” without my express
37 written consent? If disinterested third parties can do that, it never was my property to begin with, now was it?

38 “That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First,
39 that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's
40 benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third,
41 that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”
42 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

43 9.7. Shouldn’t my word as a “public officer” be taken over that of the private third parties who submit the false
44 information returns that connect me to the alleged “office” to begin with, based on the Hearsay Exceptions Rule,
45 Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8)? Why are you not granting to an alleged fellow “public officer” such as yourself
46 this privilege or benefit of the office?

47 9.8. Are information returns filed against those not lawfully engaged in public offices being used as “federal election
48 forms” to in effect “vote” people into public office, and is this a lawful use for such a form? Does withholding 49 connected with these information returns then become bribery to procure an appointed or elected public office in 50 the case of a person who was not otherwise lawfully engaged in such an office, in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C.
51 §201?

52 On the subject of the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) above, below is what the Federal Civil Trials
53 and Evidence, Rutter Group says on the Public Records exception to the Hearsay Rule:

54 7. [8:2780] Public Records and Reports (FRE 803(8)): The following are not inadmissible under the hearsay
55 rule:

1 “Records, reports, statements, or data compilations, in any form, of public offices or agencies, setting forth:
 2 “(A) the activities of the office or agency, or
 3 “(B) matters observed pursuant to duty to report, excluding, however, in criminal cases matters observed by 4 police officers and other law enforcement personnel, or
 5 “(C) in civil actions and proceedings and against the Government in criminal cases, factual findings resulting 6 “from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law,
 7 “unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness.” [FRE 803(8)
 8 (emphasis added)]

9 a. [8:2781] Compare—business records exception: The public records exception is much easier to invoke than 10 the Rule 803(6) business records exception: the public records exception does not require the testimony of a 11 custodian and often requires no foundation witness because the self-authentication provisions of FRE 902 will 12 suffice (see ¶8:2905ff).

13 b. [8:2782] Rationale: This hearsay exception is justified both by considerations of trustworthiness and 14 necessity: Trustworthiness rests on the assumption that public officials perform their duties properly; necessity,
 15 on the assumption that they are unlikely to remember details independently of the record. [See Rule 803(8), Adv.
 16 Comm.Notes; Coleman v. Home Depot, Inc. (3rd Cir. 2002) 306 F.3d. 1333, 1341; Espinoza v. INS (9th Cir. 1995)
 17 45 F.3d. 308, 310].

18 The special provision for self-authentication of public records (FRE 902, see ¶8:2907 ff. ) also eliminates the 19 disruptive effect of bringing public officials to court. [Williams v. Tri-County Growers, Inc. (3rd Cir. 1984) 747 20 F.2d. 121, 133 (disapproved on another ground in Martin v. Cooper Elec. Supply Co. (3rd Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d.
 21 896, 908, fn. 11)].

22 c. [8:2783] Any form of record: The hearsay exception covers “[r]ecords, reports, statements or data
 23 compilations, in any form. . .” [FRE 803(8) (emphasis added)]

24 d. [8:2784] Any government: The Rule applies to the records or reports of any “public office or agency” (FRE 25 803(*8)). No distinction is made between federal and nonfederal offices and agencies.

26 Thus, records of state or local government agencies may be admissible under this exception; likewise as to records
 27 of foreign governments. [See Hill v. Marshall (6th Cir. 1992) 962 F.2d. 1209, 1212—report by committee of state
 28 legislature; Matter of Oil Spill by Amoco Cadiz Off Coast of France on March 16, 1978 (7th Cir. 1992) 954 F.2d.
 29 1279, 1308—records of French Commune]

30 e. [8:2785] Types of records admissible: Rule 803(8) creates a hearsay exception for three separate categories
 31 of public record:

- 32 • Records of a public agency’s own activities (FRE 803(8)(A), see ¶8:2786 ff.;
- 33 • Records of matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law (FRE 803(8)(B)); see ¶8:2810 ff.; and
- 34 • Factual findings based on authorized investigative reports (FRE 803(8)(C) ); See ¶8:2835 ff.).

37 5.6.12.13 Defenses

38 5.6.12.13.1 How nonresidents in states of the Union are deceived and coerced to enlist in the scam

39 What about those who are smart enough to avoid the “trade or business” scam by properly declaring their status as:

- 40 1. “non-resident non-persons”
- 41 2. No income “effectively connected with a trade or business”
- 42 3. No sources of income inside the “United States” (federal government as a legal person)?

43 How does the IRS trap them? The IRS tricks them into volunteering into their jurisdiction using the IRS Form W-4. The 44 regulations say that those who submit an IRS Form W-4:

- 45 1. MUST include all earnings listed on the W-2 as “gross income” on their tax return under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1.
- 46 2. Are consenting to be bound by a private legal “contract” between you and the government under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-
 47 1. It doesn’t say that on the form, but the regulations tell the truth plainly. The form itself simply identifies itself as an
 48 “Employee Withholding Allowance Certificate” and nowhere uses the word “agreement” or “contract”. The reason it
 49 doesn’t is because the government doesn’t want you to know that you are signing a binding contract or that you have the 50 choice NOT to sign or consent to it. This is obviously entrapment and does not constitute informed consent, but fraud.

1 Here is the regulation that proves this:

2 Title 26
3 CHAPTER I
4 SUBCHAPTER C
5 PART 31
6 Subpart E
7 Sec. 31.3402\(p\)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

8 (a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for 9 the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of Sec. 31.3401(a)-3, 10 made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to 11 amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to 12 all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement
13 under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations
14 thereunder. (b) Form and duration of agreement. (1)(i) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this 15 subparagraph, an employee who desires to enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) shall furnish his 16 employer with Form W-4 (withholding exemption certificate) executed in accordance with the provisions of 17 section 3402(f) and the regulations thereunder. The furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute a request for 18 withholding.

19 Remember, however, that no law or court or government has the power to interfere with your right to contract. Here is what 20 the U.S. Supreme Court says on this subject:

21 "Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to
22 impair contracts [either the Constitution or the Holy Bible], by direct action to that end, does not exist with the 23 general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its 24 preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was 25 justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the 26 time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was 27 engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of 28 compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the 29 purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty,
30 upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the 31 just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that
32 shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud
33 previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the 34 prohibition upon the States [in Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of 35 contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition
36 is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and 37 the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear 'that those who framed and those who adopted the 38 Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that 39 the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with 40 legislation [for judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency.' 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are 41 found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court."
42 [Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 \(1878\)]

44
45 "A state can no more impair the obligation of a contract by her organic law [constitution] than by legislative 46 enactment; for her constitution is a law within the meaning of the contract clause of the national constitution.
47 Railroad Co. v. [115 U.S. 650, 673] McClure, 10 Wall. 511; Ohio Life Ins. & T. Co. v. Debolt, 16 How. 429;
48 Sedg. St. & Const. Law, 637 And the obligation of her contracts is as fully protected by that instrument against 49 impairment by legislation as are contracts between individuals exclusively. State v. Wilson, 7 Cranch, 164;
50 Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. 514; Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. 1; Woodruff v. Trapnall, 10 How. 190;
51 Wolff v. New Orleans, 103 U.S. 358."
[New Orleans Gas Company v. Louisiana Light Company, 115 U.S. 650 \(1885\)]

52 Neither states of the Union nor the federal government can therefore use their jurisdiction to protect you if you abuse your 53 power to contract by signing a W-4 that gives away all your rights or sovereignty. Under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of 54 the Constitution, the federal government has jurisdiction over its own employees and property wherever they may be found,
55 including in places where it otherwise has no legislative jurisdiction. Consequently, it has exclusive jurisdiction over all
56 those who sign a W-4 wherever they may be found. The jurisdiction is "in rem" over all such "property".

57 In law, all rights are property. Anything that conveys rights is also property. Contracts convey rights and therefore are 58 property. All franchises are contracts and therefore also are "property". A "trade or business"/"public office" is a franchise
59 and therefore is also "property" within the meaning of Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. These

1 facts are the ONLY reason why the United States District Courts, which were established pursuant to Article 4, Section 3,
2 Clause 2 of the United States Constitution are even able to hear income tax cases: because they relate to federal franchises.

3 Sneaky, huh? That is why we repeatedly say DO NOT file form W-4's to stop withholding with your private employer:
4 because you are signing a contract to elect yourself into a public office ILLEGALLY. God also warned us not to submit the 5 W-4 agreement or contract when He said:

6 "You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan
7 government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by
8 becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me
9 [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a
10 snare to you."
11 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

12 Instead of submitting the form W-4, use ONLY the modified form W-8BEN, or you are asking for BIG trouble and walking
13 right into their trap, folks! Below is a link that will show you how to fill out the W-8BEN properly, if you choose to use it.

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

14 Additional information beyond that above about how to handle tax withholding paperwork is also available in the following
15 free book:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

16 A human domiciled in a state of the Union who has identified him or herself properly with their private employer as a "non-
17 resident non-person" by filing the amended W-8BEN as we suggest, and who has had his earnings involuntarily withheld by 18 his private employer is put into the unfortunate position of having to file a return to get the wrongfully withheld earnings
19 back. Usually, they will incorrectly file the wrong form, the 1040, instead of the proper form 1040NR, and thereby make 20 themselves effectively into a "resident alien". This gives the IRS jurisdiction over them because they are then treated as 21 maintaining a domicile in the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal territory). The IRS will then drag
22 their feet refunding the wrongfully withhold earnings, forcing the NRA to take deductions and apply a graduated rate to
23 reduce the withholding, which effectively forces them into perjuring themselves on a tax form just to get back the earnings
24 that always were theirs to begin with.

25 5.6.12.13.2 How to prevent being involuntarily or fraudulently connected to the "trade or business" franchise

26 Based on all the foregoing, if you are a "non-resident non-person" or even a "nonresident alien" not engaged the "trade or 27 business"/public office franchise under 26 U.S.C. §871\(b\) with no income from the U.S. Government or federal territory
28 under 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\), then you aren't even mentioned in the I.R.C. as a subject for any Internal Revenue tax and your 29 estate is a "foreign estate" pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(31\). Section 4.11 proves that nearly all Americans living in states
30 of the Union are "non-resident non-persons", and so the above provision must apply to you, folks. Therefore, you are a "non-31 resident non-person" with no "sources of income" connected with a public office in the District of Columbia. If you want to 32 prevent being involuntarily connected with the "trade or business" franchise, then you:

33 12. Must refuse to sign IRS Form W-4 and instead use one of the following two forms:

34 12.1. Amended version of IRS Form W-8BEN. See:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

35 12.2. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

36 13. Must claim that you are not engaged in an excise taxable activity under the I.R.C., Subtitle A.

37 14. Must claim that you don't earn any "gross income".

38 15. Must claim that you have no taxable "sources of income" identified in 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(4\)\(A\).

39 16. Must claim that you are a "nontaxpayer" not subject to the I.R.C. All portions within the I.R.C., IRS publications, and 40 the Internal Revenue Manual that refer to "taxpayers" don't refer to you and can safely be disregarded and disobeyed.
41

17. Must claim that you are not subject to withholding on any payments you receive if you earn no statutory "income" from federal territory in the statutory "United States**" or are not engaged in a "trade or business".
18. If any money was withheld from your pay by either a business or a financial institution, then you are due for a refund of all withholding and can lawfully ask for it back using the following form WITHOUT becoming a "taxpayer":

Federal Nonresident Nonstatutory Claim for Return of Funds Unlawfully Paid to the Government, Form #15.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

19. Cannot lawfully file an IRS Form 1040, because EVERYTHING that goes on that form is treated as "effectively connected with a trade or business". All entries on the form are subject to deductions and exemptions under 26 U.S.C. §162, which means EVERYTHING on the form is "trade or business" income. If you sign and submit this form, you are committing perjury under penalty of perjury. This is confirmed by examining 26 U.S.C. §871\(b\)\(1\), which says that all taxes imposed in I.R.C. Section 1 are connected with a "trade or business", and IRS Form 1040 is intended for those subject to this tax. The 1040 form is also for "aliens", and not "nonresident aliens", as was shown in section 5.5.3 of the Great IRS Hoax.
20. Cannot lawfully have Currency Transaction Reports (CTR's), IRS Form 8300 filed against you by financial institutions, such as IRS Form 8300. If anyone mistakenly attempts to file these fraudulent reports against you, then use the remedy below. See IRS Publication 334: Tax Guide for Small Businesses (2002), p. 12 above:

Demand for Verified Evidence of "Trade or Business" Activity: Currency Transaction Report (CTR),

Form #04.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

21. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1042-S to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a "trade or business". If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:

Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1042's, Form #04.003

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

22. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1098 to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a "trade or business". If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:

Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1098's, Form #04.004

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

23. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1099 to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a "trade or business". See IRS Publication 583: Starting a Business and Keeping Records, p. 8 above. If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:

Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1099's, Form #04.005

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

24. Cannot lawfully allow having any earnings reported on a W-2. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(11\)-1\(a\) says that those not engaged in a "trade or business" cannot earn reportable "wages". If wages are incorrectly reported by an ignorant private employer, you can and should correct them using the IRS Form 4852, as shown in the article at:

Correcting Erroneous IRS Form W-2's, Form #04.006

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Keep all of the above fresh in your mind at all times as you decide how you are going to file in order to get all your ILLEGALLY STOLEN, I mean "withheld", money back from an ignorant employer or financial institution who refuses to read and obey the "code" (not "law", but "code"). Also keep in mind that most of this section is entirely "academic masturbation", as tax attorney Donald MacPherson colorfully calls it, because the Internal Revenue Code isn't law for "nontaxpayers" anyway and can't become law unless and until it is enacted into positive law. Therefore, the only people it pertains to are those who volunteer, and all these people are directly associated with the government as a federal "instrumentality" in some way.

5.6.12.13.3 Administrative Remedies to Prevent Identity Theft on Government Forms

We have prepared an entire short presentation showing you all the "traps" on government forms and how to avoid them:

Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

All of the so-called "traps" described in the above presentation center around the following abuses and FRAUDS:

1. The perjury statement at the end of the form betrays where they PRESUME you geographically are. 28 U.S.C. 1746 identifies TWO possible jurisdictions, and if they don't use the one in 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), they are PRESUMING, usually falsely, that you are located on federal territory and come under territorial law.

28 U.S. Code § 1746 - Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury

Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:

(1) If executed without the United States [federal territory or the government]: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).

(2) If executed within the United States [federal territory or the government], its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).

(Signature)".

2. Telling you when you submit the form that the terms on the form have their ordinary, PRIVATE, non-statutory meaning but after they RECEIVE the form, INTERPRETING all terms in their PUBLIC and STATUTORY context. This is bait and switch, deception, and FRAUD.
3. Confusing the CONSTITUTIONAL context with the STATUTORY context for geographical words of art such as "United States" and "State".
4. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL "Citizens" or "citizens of the United States" in the Fourteenth Amendment with STATUTORY "U.S. citizen", or "nationals and citizens of the United states at birth" under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
5. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL "persons" or "people" with STATUTORY "persons" or "individuals". CONSTITUTIONAL "persons" are all MEN OR WOMEN AND NOT ARTIFICIAL entities or offices, while civil STATUTORY persons are all PUBLIC offices and fictions of law created by Congress.
6. Connecting you with a civil status found in civil statutory law, which is a public office. The form itself does this:
  - 6.1. In the "status" block. It either doesn't offer a STATUTORY "non-resident non-person" status in the form or they don't offer ANY form for STATUTORY "non-resident non-persons".
  - 6.2. The Title of the form. The upper left corner of the 1040 identifies the applicant as a "U.S. individual", meaning a public office domiciled on federal territory.
  - 6.3. Underneath the signature, which usually identifies the civil status of the applicant, such as "taxpayer".

5. Avoid filling out any and every government form.
6. If FORCED to fill out a government form, ALWAYS attach a MANDATORY attachment that defines all geographical, citizenship, and status terms the form with precise definitions and betray whether the meaning is STATUTORY or CONSTITUTION. It CANNOT be both. If you think it is both, you are practicing a logical fallacy called "equivocation". State on the form you are attaching to that the form is "Not valid, false, and fraudulent if not accompanied by the following attachment: _____". The attachments on our site are good for this.
7. Tell the recipient that if they don't rebut the definitions you provide within a specified time limit, then they agree and are estopped from later challenging it.
8. Specify that none of the terms on the form submitted have the meaning found in any state or federal statutory code. Instead they imply only the common meaning.

There are many forms on our site you can attach to standard forms provided by the IRS, state revenue agencies, financial institutions, and employers that satisfy the above to ensure that your correct status is reflected in their records. Below are the most important ones.

6. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
7. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
8. USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
9. Voter Registration Attachment, Form #06.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
10. Affidavit of Domicile: Probate, Form #04.223
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The language after the line below is language derived from Form #04.223 above. The language included is very instructive and helpful to our readers in identifying HOW the identity theft happens. We strongly suggest reusing this language in the administrative record of any entity who claims you are a statutory "taxpayer", "person", or "individual" under the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code.

AFFIDAVIT REGARDING ESTATE OF DECEDENT: _____

I certify that the following facts are true under penalty of perjury under the criminal perjury laws of the state I am in but NOT under any OTHER of the civil statutory codes. I am not under any other civil codes as a civil non-resident non-person. The content of this form defines all geographical, citizenship, and domicile terms used on any and all forms to which this estate settlement relates for all parties concerned.

1. Civil status and domicile of decedent: Decedent at the time of his death was:
  - 1.1. A CONSTITUTIONAL "Citizen" or "citizen of the United States" as defined in the Fourteenth Amendment.
  - 1.2. NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" or "national and citizen of the United States at birth" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c), or 26 U.S.C. §3121(e). 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) identifies an 8 U.S.C. §1401 "U.S. citizen" as the ONLY type of "citizen" subject to the Internal Revenue Code. All such "U.S. citizens" are territorial citizens born within and domiciled within federal territory and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL "State".
  - 1.3. Domiciled in the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States" and CONSTITUTIONAL State at the time of his death.

... the Supreme Court in the Insular Cases<sup>255</sup> provides authoritative guidance on the territorial scope of the term "the United States" in the Fourteenth Amendment. The Insular Cases were a series of Supreme Court decisions that addressed challenges to duties on goods transported from Puerto Rico to the continental United States. Puerto Rico, like the Philippines, had been recently ceded to the United States. The Court considered the territorial scope of the term "the United States" in the Constitution and held that this term as used in the uniformity clause of the Constitution was territorially limited to the states of the Union. U.S. Const. art. I, § 8 ("[A]ll Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States." (emphasis added)); see Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 251, 21 S.Ct. 770, 773, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901) ("It can nowhere be inferred that the territories were considered a part of the United States. The Constitution was created by the people of the United States, as a union of States, to be governed solely by representatives of the States; ... In short, the Constitution deals with States, their people, and their representatives."); Rabang, 35 F.3d at 1452. Puerto Rico was merely a territory "appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clauses of the Constitution." Downes, 182 U.S. at 287, 21 S.Ct. at 787.

*The Court's conclusion in Downes was derived in part by analyzing the territorial scope of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude "within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction." U.S. Const. amend. XIII, § 1 (emphasis added). The Fourteenth Amendment states that persons "born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside." U.S. Const. amend XIV, § 1 (emphasis added). The disjunctive "or" in the Thirteenth Amendment demonstrates that "there may be places within the jurisdiction of the United States that are not] part of the Union" to which the Thirteenth Amendment would apply. Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773. Citizenship under the Fourteenth Amendment, however, "is not extended to persons born in any place 'subject to [the United States'] jurisdiction,' " but is limited to persons born or naturalized in the states of the Union. Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773 (emphasis added); see also id. at 263, 21 S.Ct. at 777 ("I]n dealing with foreign sovereignties,*

United States*, 182 U.S. 243, 21 S.Ct. 827, 45 L.Ed. 1086 (1901); and Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 21 S.Ct. 770, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901).

the term 'United States' has a broader meaning than when used in the Constitution, and includes all territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal government, wherever located.<sup>256</sup>
 [Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998)]

- 1.4. NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY "United States" or "State" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.
- 1.5. NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. person" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), because it relies on the definition of "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes.
- 1.6. An "individual" in an ordinary or CONSTITUTIONAL sense. By this we mean he was a PRIVATE man or woman protected by the CONSTITUTION and the COMMON LAW and NOT subject to the jurisdiction of the STATUTORY civil law.
- 1.7. NOT an "individual" in a STATUTORY sense or as used in any revenue code. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) indicates that the ONLY types of "individuals" found anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code are both "foreign persons" and "aliens" or "nonresident aliens". Therefore the decedent could not possibly be an "individual" as that term is used in the Internal Revenue Code.

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701(b)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S. tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701(b)-1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

2. Warning NOT to confuse STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical or citizenship terms:
  - 2.1. Recipient of this form is cautioned NOT to PRESUME that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts of geographical, citizenship, or domicile terms are equivalent. They are NOT and are mutually exclusive.
  - 2.2. One CANNOT lawfully have a domicile in two different places that are legislatively "foreign" and a "foreign estate" in relation to each other. This is what George Orwell called DOUBLETHINK and the result is CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT.
  - 2.3. The U.S. Supreme Court held in Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 814 (1971) that an 8 U.S.C. §1401 STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" is NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen of the United States" under the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998) earlier. Therefore, it is my firm understanding that the decedent:
    - 2.3.1. Was NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY "United States" or "State" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government.
    - 2.3.2. Was NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, which is the ONLY type of "citizen" mentioned anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code. These are territorial citizens domiciled on federal territory, and the decedent was NOT so domiciled.
3. "Intention" of the Decedent:

The transaction to which this submission relates requires the affiant to provide legal evidence of the “domicile” of the decedent for the purposes of settling the estate. This requires that he/she make a “legal determination” about someone who he/she had a blood relationship with. “Domicile” is a legal term which includes both PHYSICAL presence in a place COMBINED with consent AND intent to dwell there permanently.

“domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges.”
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

3.1. Two types of domicile are involved in the estate of the decedent:

3.1.1. The domicile of the PRIVATE PHYSICAL MAN OR WOMAN under the common law and the constitution.

3.1.2. The domicile of any PUBLIC OFFICES he/she fills as part of any civil statutory franchises, such as the revenue codes, family codes, traffic codes, etc. These “offices” are represented by the civil statutory “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc.

3.2. Legal publications recognize the TWO components of a MAN OR WOMAN, meaning the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE components as follows:

“A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them.”
[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

“All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.”
[Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

3.3. Man or woman can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO legal “persons”: PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

3.3.1. The CIVIL STATUTORY law attaches to the PUBLIC person. It can do so ONLY by EXPRESS CONSENT, because the Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, declares that all JUST powers derive from the CONSENT of the party. The implication is that anything NOT expressly and in writing consented to is UNJUST and a tort.

3.3.2. The COMMON law and the Constitution attach to and protect the PRIVATE person. This is the person most people think of when they refer to someone as a “person”. They are not referring to the PUBLIC civil statutory “person”.

This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons. 4 Co. 118.
[Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;
SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouvierMaxims.htm>]

3.4. The affiant would be remiss and malfeasant NOT to:

3.4.1. Distinguish between the PRIVATE man or woman and the PUBLIC office that are both represented by the decedent.

3.4.2. Condone or allow the recipient of the form to PRESUME that they are both equivalent. They are simply NOT.

3.4.3. Require all those enforcing PUBLIC rights associated with a PUBLIC office in the government (such as “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, etc.) to satisfy the burden of proving that the decedent lawfully CONSENTED to the office by making an application, taking an oath, and serving where the office (also called a statutory “trade or business” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) was EXPRESSLY authorized to be executed.

3.5. Regarding the “intent” of the decedent, affiant is certain that the decedent had NO DESIRE to occupy, accept the benefits of, or accept the obligations of any offices he/she was compelled to fill, and therefore:

3.5.1. These offices DO NOT lawfully exist . . .and

3.5.2. It would be UNJUST to enforce the obligations of said offices WITHOUT written evidence of consent being presented by those doing the enforcing.

3.5.3. It would be criminal THEFT and IDENTITY THEFT to presume that the decedent did hold any such PUBLIC offices or to enforce the obligations of such offices upon the decedent. These offices include any and all civil statuses he might have under the Internal Revenue Code (e.g. “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual”) or the state revenue codes. Detailed documentation on the nature of this identity theft is included in:

[Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/GovernmentIdentityTheft.pdf](http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/GovernmentIdentityTheft.pdf)

4. Location of decedent, estate, and property of the estate:

4.1. All property of the estate is WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States" and the CONSTITUTIONAL State of domicile of the decedent.

4.2. All property is WITHOUT the STATUTORY "United States" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

4.3. The CONSTITUTIONAL and the STATUTORY "United States" and "State" are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping.

5. The estate and all affiants are a STATUTORY "foreign estate" per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) because:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701. [Internal Revenue Code]
Sec. 7701. – Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31)Foreign estate or trust

(A)Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

(B)Foreign trust

The term "foreign trust" means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (30).

5.1. WITHOUT the STATUTORY "United States".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701. [Internal Revenue Code]
Sec. 7701. – Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(9) United States

The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States and the District of Columbia.

(a)(10) State

The term "State" shall be construed to include the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

TITLE 4 - FLAG AND SEAL, SEAT OF GOVERNMENT, AND THE STATES
CHAPTER 4 - THE STATES
Sec. 110. Same; definitions

(d) The term "State" includes any Territory or possession of the United States.

5.2. WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States", meaning states of the CONSTITUTIONAL union of states.

5.3. NOT WITHIN the STATUTORY "State" or STATUTORY "United States" under the state revenue codes. It may be within these things in OTHER titles of the state codes, because other titles use different definitions for "State" and "United States".

REVENUE AND TAXATION CODE – RTC
DIVISION 2. OTHER TAXES [6001 - 60709] ( Heading of Division 2 amended by Stats. 1968, Ch. 279. )
PART 10. PERSONAL INCOME TAX [17001 - 18181] ( Part 10 added by Stats. 1943, Ch. 659. )
CHAPTER 1. General Provisions and Definitions [17001 - 17039.2] ( Chapter 1 repealed and added by Stats. 1955, Ch. 939. )

17017 "United States," when used in a geographical sense, includes the states, the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.
(Amended by Stats. 1961, Ch. 537.)

17018. "State" includes the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.
(Amended by Stats. 1961, Ch. 537.)

- 5.4. Not connected with a STATUTORY "trade or business" within the STATUTORY "United States" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Decedent was NOT engaged in a public office within the national but not state government.

26 U.S.C. §7701

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(26) trade or business

"The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office."

NOTE: The U.S. Supreme Court held in the License Tax Cases that Congress CANNOT establish the above "trade or business" in a state in order to tax it.

"Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."
[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Keep in mind that the "license" they are talking about is the constructive license represented by the Social Security Number and Taxpayer Identification Number, which are only required for those ENGAGING in a STATUTORY "trade or business" per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1. The number therefore behaves as the equivalent of what the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) calls a "franchise mark".

"A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark." The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as the "trademark" or "mark" element.

The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its mark.

Decedent, if he or she used any government issued identifying number, did so under compulsion, in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8), and he/she hereby defines such use as NOT creating any presumption that he was engaged in any franchise or office, but rather evidence of unlawful duress against a non-resident non-person.

6. The above definitions of geographical and citizenship terms are NOT definitions as legally defined if they do not include all things or classes of things which are EXPRESSLY included. Furthermore, the rules of statutory construction require that anything and everything that is NOT EXPRESSLY INCLUDED in the above definitions is PURPOSEFULLY EXCLUDED:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

NOTE: Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and conducting a commercial invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution.

"When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals."

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."

It is FRAUD to presume that the use of the word "includes" in any definition gives unlimited license to anyone to add whatever they want to a statutory definition. This is covered in:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf>

7. The recipient of this form is NOT AUTHORIZED to add anything to the above definitions or PRESUME anything is included that does not EXPRESSLY APPEAR in said definitions of the STATUTORY "United States" or "State". Even the U.S. Supreme Court admits that it CANNOT lawfully do that.

"It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term. Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. 379, 392, and n. 10 (1979). Congress' use of the term "propaganda" in this statute, as indeed in other legislation, has no pejorative connotation. As judges, it is our duty to [481 U.S. 485] construe legislation as it is written, not as it might be read by a layman, or as it might be understood by someone who has not even read it."

[Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484 (1987)]

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term 'means' . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary." [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

8. How NOT to respond to this submission: In responding to this submission, please DO NOT:
- 8.1. Tell the affiant what to put or NOT to put in his/her paperwork. That would be practicing law on affiant's behalf, which I do not consent to.
  - 8.2. Try to censor this addition or submission. That would be criminal subornation of perjury. This affidavit and the attached paperwork are signed under penalty of perjury and therefore constitute "testimony of a witness". Any attempt to influence that witness or restrict his or her testimony is criminal subornation of perjury.
  - 8.3. Threaten to withhold service or in some way punish the affiant for submitting or insisting on including this mandatory affidavit. All such efforts constitute criminal witness tampering.
9. Invitation and time limit to rebut by recipient of this form: If the recipient disagrees about the civil status, domicile, or location of the estate of the decedent, you are required to provide court admissible evidence proving EXACTLY where the term "U.S. citizen", "United States", and "State" as you used it in your communication includes CONSTITUTIONAL states of the Union or CONSTITUTIONAL "citizens" under the Fourteenth Amendment before the transaction that is related to this submission is completed. If you do not rebut the definitions appearing in this affidavit with court admissible evidence, then:
- 9.1. You constructively consent and stipulate to the definitions provided here both between us and between you and other parties who might be involved in this transaction.
  - 9.2. You are equitably estopped and subject to laches in all future proceedings from contradicting the definitions herein provided.
10. Franchise agreement protecting commercial uses or abuses of this submission or any attachments: Any attempt to do any of the following shall constitute constructive irrevocable consent to the following franchise agreement by those accepting this submission or any of the attached forms or those third parties who use such information as legal evidence in any legal proceeding:
- Sovereignty Franchise and Agreement, Form #06.027; <http://sedm.org/Forms/06-AvoidingFranch/SovereigntyFranchise.pdf>
- 10.1. Commercially or financially benefit anyone OTHER than the affiant and his/her immediate blood relatives.
  - 10.2. PRESUME any thing or class of thing is included in the STATUTORY definitions of "State", "United States", "U.S. citizen", or "national and citizen of the United States at birth" in 8 U.S.C. §1401.

10.3. Enforce any portion of the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code against this FOREIGN estate. This includes any type of withholding, reporting, or compliance to these revenue codes using any information about or provided by the affiant or anyone associated with this transaction. Any attempt to do otherwise shall be treated as a criminal offense.

11. Violations of this affidavit and agreement: Any attempt to enforce any civil status of the decedent or affiant against the affiant is a criminal offense described in the following:

5.6.12.14 Rebutted Arguments Against this Memorandum

5.6.12.14.1 Argument is "frivolous"

ARGUMENT:

The argument is "frivolous".

REBUTTAL:

Stating that our arguments are "frivolous" without justifying such a determination with:

1. Legally admissible evidence signed under penalty of perjury or verified with an oath (as required by 26 U.S.C. §6065).
2. Deriving the evidence ONLY from the civil domicile of the accused party as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). This means state law and NOT federal law.

. . . amounts to little more than accusing us of being "heretics" because we refuse to participate in the state-sponsored civil religion being run out of churches called "courts". Similar arguments apply to any other pejorative adjective label the courts might attempt to use that do not deal directly and completely with ALL the facts and arguments made herein on any given subject, such as:

1. "Ridiculous".
2. "Preposterous".
3. "Soundly rejected".
4. "Malicious".
5. "Irresponsible".
6. "Makes him/her a leech because he/she refuses to pay their 'fair share'".
7. "Manifestly erroneous".

All such adjectives do is prove that the judge is not acting in a judicial capacity as a neutral finder of facts and who reveals only facts, but who rather is:

1. Acting in a political rather than judicial capacity as a member of the Executive rather than Judicial branch. Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 of the United States Constitution empower Congress and ONLY Congress to lay AND collect taxes. By undermining and interfering with attempts to stop unlawful collection enforcement, the judge is:
  - 1.1. Acting as a tax collector in the Executive Branch. Congress CANNOT lawfully delegate any function, including the tax collection function, to any other branch of the government, including the Judicial Branch.
  - 1.2. Violating the separation of powers doctrine by exercising Executive Branch functions.

" . . . a power definitely assigned by the Constitution to one department can neither be surrendered nor delegated by that department, nor vested by statute in another department or agency. Compare Springer v. Philippine Islands, 277 U.S. 189, 201, 202, 48 S.Ct. 480, 72 L.Ed. 845."
[Williams v. U.S., 289 U.S. 553, 53 S.Ct. 751 (1933)]

1                   "It may be stated then, as a general rule inherent in the American constitutional system, that, unless otherwise
 2 expressly provided or incidental to the powers conferred, the Legislature cannot exercise either executive or
 3 judicial power; the executive cannot exercise either legislative or [277 U.S. 189, 202] judicial power; the 4 judiciary cannot exercise either executive or legislative power. The existence in the various Constitutions of
 5 occasional provisions expressly giving to one of the departments powers which by their nature otherwise would
 6 fall within the general scope of the authority of another department emphasizes, rather than casts doubt upon,
 7 the generally inviolate character of this basic rule."

8                   [Springer v. Government of the Philippines, 277 U.S. 189 (1928)]

- 9           1.3. Acting as a federal employment recruiter by illegally compelling private parties protected by the Constitution to 10 become "public officers" within the government without compensation and often without their consent or even 11 knowledge.
 12           1.4. Engaging in conversion in violation of 18 U.S.C. §654, whereby he is converting private property to a public use,
 13 a public purpose, and a public office without the consent of the owner and in violation of the Fifth Amendment
 14 takings clause.

15                   "Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;'
 16 *and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
 17 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it
 18 to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL

Table 5-72: Rules for converting private property to a public use or a public office

| 1 | The owner of property justly acquired enjoys full and exclusive use and control over the property. This right includes the right to exclude government uses or ownership of said property.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Yes                                               |
| 2 | He may not use the property to injure the equal rights of his neighbor. For instance, when you murder someone, the government can take your liberty and labor from you by putting you in jail or your life from you by instituting the death penalty against you. Both your life and your labor are "property". Therefore, the basis for the "taking" was violation of the equal rights of a fellow sovereign "neighbor". | No                                                |
| 3 | He cannot be compelled or required to use it to "benefit" his neighbor. That means he cannot be compelled to donate the property to any franchise that would "benefit" his neighbor such as Social Security, Medicare, etc.                                                                                                                                                                                               | Yes                                               |
| 4 | If he donates it to a public use, he gives the public the right to control that use.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Yes                                               |
| 5 | Whenever the public needs require, the public may take it without his consent upon payment of due compensation. E.g. "eminent domain".                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | No                                                |

2. Entertaining "political questions" in violation of the separation of powers doctrine.
3. Abusing legal process to terrorize, discredit, and enslave the litigant in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589(3).

TITLE 18 > PART 1 > CHAPTER 77 > § 1589
§ 1589. Forced labor

Whoever knowingly provides or obtains the labor or [litigation] services of a person—

(1) by threats of serious harm to, or physical restraint against, that person or another person;

(2) by means of any scheme, plan, or pattern intended to cause the person to believe that, if the person did not perform such labor or services, that person or another person would suffer serious harm or physical restraint; or

shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than 20 years, or both. If death results from the violation of this section, or if the violation includes kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse or the attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, the defendant shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for any term of years or life, or both.

4. Obstructing justice due to people under the court's care and protection.
5. Not dealing directly with the issues at hand because doing so would jeopardize the CRIMINAL flow of plunder into his checking account.

Thank you for telling us that our arguments are truthful, accurate, and consistent with prevailing law and that we are right.

1. The courts have consistently held that you can't rely on anything the IRS says. See: <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>
2. The IRS website says you can't rely on anything they print, including any publication or form. See Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8:

*"IRS Publications, issued by the National Office, explain the law in plain language for taxpayers and their advisors... While a good source of general information, publications should not be cited to sustain a position."
 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8 (05-14-1999)]*

3. The entire Internal Revenue Code is identified in 1 U.S.C. §204 as nothing more than simply a statutory “presumption”. “prima facie evidence” means presumption. Presumptions are NOT evidence, nor may they lawfully be used as a SUBSTITUTE for evidence in a court of law:

(1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests:

A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 441, 449, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bd. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 US 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process] [Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

“If any question of fact or liability be conclusively presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not due process of law.”

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500]

This court has never treated a presumption as any form of evidence. See, e.g., A.C. Aukerman Co. v. R.L. Chaides Constr. Co., 960 F.2d. 1020, 1037 (Fed.Cir.1992) (“[A] presumption is not evidence.”); see also Del Vecchio v. Bowers, 296 U.S. 280, 286, 56 S.Ct. 190, 193, 80 L.Ed. 229 (1935) (“[A presumption] cannot acquire the attribute of evidence in the claimant's favor.”); New York Life Ins. Co. v. Gamer, 303 U.S. 161, 171, 58 S.Ct. 500, 503, 82 L.Ed. 726 (1938) (“[A] presumption is not evidence and may not be given weight as evidence.”). Although a decision of this court, Jensen v. Brown, 19 F.3d. 1413, 1415 (Fed.Cir.1994), dealing with presumptions in VA law is cited for the contrary proposition, the Jensen court did not so decide. [Routen v. West, 142 F.3d. 1434 C.A.Fed.,1998]

4. The Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C. §6065 requires everything prepared under the authority of the code to be signed under penalty of perjury. Nothing coming from the IRS ever is, and therefore it is UNTRUSTWORTHY.
5. The Bible forbids Christians to presume anything and by implication, to treat presumptions as a basis for any kind of belief or inference.

“But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings reproach on the LORD, and he shall be cut off from among his people.”
[Numbers 15:30, Bible, NKJV]

For more information on what DOES constitute a reasonable belief about one's tax liabilities, see:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Even if the government tried to define what the word “frivolous” means, we aren't allowed by their own statements and publications to trust their definition. Consequently, we are compelled to provide a definition for every word we hear from the government in order to avoid the Christian sin of presumption, and our definition is that the word “frivolous” means truthful, accurate, and consistent with prevailing law. Our definition is required to appear in all of the following forms of communication with the government as a mandatory part of the SEDM Member Agreement, Form #01.001:

1. All pleadings filed in federal court. See Section

Federal Pleading/Motion/Petition Attachment, Litigation Tool #01.002
<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>

2. All discovery in court:

Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
<http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm>

3. All tax forms filed with the IRS. See Section 4 of the following:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The very purpose of law is to give reasonable notice to all parties concerned the conduct expected of them. Simply calling something “frivolous” without defining why it is defective using civil law deriving ONLY from the domicile of the accused party per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b):

- 1 1. Fails to give reasonable notice of the conduct expected and therefore falls short of the purpose of law and causes a 2 violation of due process of law. See:

Requirement for Reasonable Notice, Form #05.022
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 3 2. Unconstitutionally involves the courts in political matters. The abuse of the word by courts by refusing to identify 4 reasons simply amounts to little more than a political statement and labels the speaker as a “heretic” who refuses to join
5 the state-sponsored religion of socialism described below:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 6 3. Proves that if a federal court makes this assertion, that it is not a true Article III constitutional court, but a franchise court
7 established under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. They are administering the “trade or 8 business” franchise and do not fulfill the main purpose for the establishment of government, which is the protection of 9 private rights. Instead, they have made a lucrative PRIVATE business out of DESTROYING your PRIVATE rights,
10 and protecting and expanding federal property by converting private property into public property by illegally abusing
11 presumption and word games. This is exhaustively proven with thousands of pages of evidence in the following 12 document:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

13 5.6.12.14.2 “trade or business” includes lots of activities other than simply a public office

14 ARGUMENT:

15 “Trade or business” includes lots of activities OTHER than simply a “public office”. Look at U.S. v. American Bar
16 Endowment, 477 U.S. 105, 106 S.Ct. 2426 (1986).

17 In the Tax Reform Act of 1969, Pub.L. 91-172, 83 Stat. 487, Congress defined a “trade or business” as “any 18 activity which is carried on for the production of income from the sale of goods or the performance of services,”
19 § 513(c). The Secretary of the Treasury has provided further clarification of that definition in Treas.Reg. § 1.513-
20 1(b) (1985), which provides: “in general, any activity of [an exempt] organization which is carried on for the 21 production of income and which otherwise possesses the characteristics required to constitute ‘trade or business’
22 within the meaning of section 162” is a trade or business for purposes of 26 U.S.C. §§ 511-513.FNI

23 FNI. Section 162 permits a taxpayer to deduct “all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during 24 the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business.” Undoubtedly due to the desirability of tax deductions, §
25 162 has spawned a rich and voluminous jurisprudence. The standard test for the existence of a trade or business
26 for purposes of § 162 is whether the activity “was entered into with the dominant hope and intent of realizing a
27 profit.” Brannen v. Commissioner, 722 F.2d. 695, 704 \(CA11 1984\) (citation omitted). Thus several Courts of 28 Appeals have adopted the “profit motive” test to determine whether an activity constitutes a trade or business for 29 purposes of the unrelated business income tax. See Professional Insurance Agents of Michigan v. Commissioner,
30 726 F.2d. 1097 (CA6 1984); Carolinus Farm & Power Equipment Dealers v. United States, 699 F.2d. 167 \(CA4
31 1983); Louisiana Credit Union League v. United States, 693 F.2d. 525 \(CA5 1982\).

32 \*2430 ABE's insurance program falls within the literal language of these definitions. ABE's activity is both “the* 33 *sale of goods” and “the performance of services,” and possesses the *111 general characteristics of a trade or* 34 business. Certainly the assembling of a group of better-than-average insurance risks, negotiating on their behalf
35 with insurance companies, and administering a group policy are activities that can be-and are-provided by 36 private commercial entities in order to make a profit. ABE itself earns considerable income from its program.
37 Nevertheless, the Claims Court and Court of Appeals concluded that ABE does not carry out its insurance
38 program in order to make a profit. The Claims Court relied on the former Court of Claims holding, in Disabled
39 American Veterans v. United States, 650 F.2d. 1178, 1187 (1981), that an activity is a trade or business only 40 if “operated in a competitive, commercial manner.” See 4 Cl.Ct., at 409. Because ABE does not operate its
41 insurance program in a competitive, commercial manner, the Claims Court decided, that program is not a 42 trade or business. The Court of Appeals adopted this reasoning. 761 F.2d. at 1577.

44 REBUTTAL:

45 There is no limit to the NUMBER of activities or actions that a lawfully serving “public officer” can execute ON BEHALF
46 of the government as an AGENT or INSTRUMENTALITY of the government, and the actions described above are certainly

1 included. HOWEVER, none of those actions can or do fall within the purview of a statutory "trade or business" (26 U.S.C.
2 §7701(a)(26)) or are subject to the government jurisdiction unless and until:

- 3 1. The actions are executed by a public officer lawfully elected or appointed into public office.
- 4 2. There is evidence on the record of a lawful appointment or election of the officer INTO office.
- 5 3. The public officer EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to lawfully occupy said office. Third party false information returns 6 cannot unilaterally "elect" anyone to a public office.
- 7 4. There is proof of the record that the public officer is serving in the only place they are EXPRESSLY authorized by 8 statute to serve per 4 U.S.C. §72.
- 9 5. There is evidence on the record of the proceeding that the owner of the property subject to tax CONSENTED to 10 convert his otherwise PRIVATE property into a public use, public purpose, and/or public office BEFORE it can be 11 taxed or regulated by the government. Otherwise, it is CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be private property not 12 subject to government since it was not used to injure anyone with.

13 *"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, -life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;'
14 and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a
15 man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it
16 to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL
17 SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives
18 to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take 19 it upon payment of due compensation."*

20 [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

- 21 6. There is evidence on the record that the rules of statutory construction have been EXPRESSLY waived in the case of 22 the definition of "trade or business" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

23 *"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's
24 ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition
25 of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a
26 rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western
27 Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96
28 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152,
29 and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S.
30 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney
31 General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary."
32 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]*

33 *"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
34 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
35 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or
36 things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
37 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
38 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."*

39 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

40 The American Bar Endowment consented to be a public officer and therefore "taxpayer" by invoking the Internal Revenue
41 Code, Subtitles A through C franchise and availing themselves of its "benefits", or by being a federal and not state corporation
42 and creation and instrumentality of the national government.

43 To simply PRESUME that otherwise PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights are connected with a PUBLIC OFFICE
44 without the consent of the owner and without just compensation is an unconstitutional taking in violation of the Fifth 45 Amendment.

46 5.6.12.15 Other important implications of the scam

47 Now that we completely understand how Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A works as an excise tax upon a voluntary and 48 avoidable taxable activity called a "trade or business" within the statutory but not constitutional "United States**" (federal 49 territory), this explains the reason why proponents of the 861 Position described in section 5.7.5 later have been so vehemently
50 hated and attacked by the government and the IRS. What they are doing, in most cases without even realizing it, is using the 51 regulation at 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8\(f\)\(1\) to draw attention to the fact that the federal income tax is in fact an excise tax, and that
52 the "taxable activities" are all enumerated individually in this regulation and nowhere else in either the I.R.C. or the Treasury

1 Regulations. This regulation also happens to be the only regulation that describes exactly how to apply earnings from each
 2 enumerated excise "taxable activity" to the process of computing one's tax liability. Is it any surprise that the government
 3 doesn't want evidence like this in the hands of people? This interferes with their "voluntary compliance" efforts and exposes
 4 their willful and malicious fraud for what it is, and this is why they don't like it. This observation is the reason why most of
 5 the helpful examples contained within this regulation have been systematically removed over the years: to prevent people
 6 from correctly concluding that they aren't engaged in foreign commerce or public office and therefore don't owe the 7 government any money.

8 Unfortunately, proponents of the 861 Position such as Larken Rose and those before him such as Thurston Bell fail to fully 9 comprehend how they fit into this carefully crafted legal deception, fail to understand the nature of federal jurisdiction, and
 10 fail to fully understand that a "code" which only applies to those who volunteer to become engaged in a "trade or business"
 11 doesn't apply to them if they choose not to volunteer. They have spent so much time looking at the trees that they forgot
 12 about the forest and are being maliciously persecuted by the IRS mainly because of this monumental oversight. They don't 13 understand that the I.R.C. was not enacted into positive law and in fact constitutes essentially a voluntary contract. This is 14 not intended as a personal criticism by any means, but simply a realistic observation intended to help keep you out of trouble.
 15 Those who choose not to "sign" or consent to the contract by submitting the W-4 or filing a 1040 form with a nonzero
 16 "income" can have no legal liabilities under the code and cannot be described as "taxpayers" who are subject to it. Larken
 17 Rose thinks the "code" is "law" or "public law" for everyone, but in fact it is "private law" that is only "law" for "taxpayers",
 18 all of whom have consented to it in one way or another at some point in time. See the following free memorandum of law
 19 which proves this point:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

20 5.6.12.16 Conclusions and summary

21 This section summarizes everything we learned in this article and also ties this information in with everything else found on 22 this website:

- 23 1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A describes an excise tax upon a privileged activity called a "trade or business". All 24 excise taxes involve franchises of one form or another and all franchises make those who participate into officers, agents,
 25 and instrumentalities of the government that granted the franchise. See:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 26 2. A "trade or business" is statutorily defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) as "the functions of a public office". A "public 27 office" consists of employment or agency of the federal government in carrying out the sovereign and lawfully authorized 28 functions of the government.
- 29 3. Those engaged in a "trade or business" are acting in a representative capacity as "public officers", and as such, take on 30 the legal character of the U.S. government, who they represent in accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
 31 17\(b\). All corporations are "citizens" under the laws they were created. The U.S. government is statutorily defined as a
 32 "federal corporation" in 28 U.S.C. §3002\(15\)\(A\). Therefore, those engaged in a "trade or business", while on official 33 duty, become statutory "U.S. citizens", regardless of what they started out as.
- 34 4. 4 U.S.C. §72 requires that all public offices shall be exercised in the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere except as 35 expressly provided by law.

36 TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
 37 § 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

38 All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere,
 39 except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

- 40 5. All income taxes are based on domicile. Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954). Therefore, Internal 41 Revenue Code, Subtitle A may only lawfully be imposed or enforced against persons domiciled in the District of 42 Columbia. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/DomicileBasisForTaxation.htm>

6. Since Congress has not created and cannot lawfully create “public offices” within any state of the Union, then it cannot impose or enforce Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A there.

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee. But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

7. All federal identifying numbers, such as SSN's, TINs, and EINs, are government property. 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d). As such, anything you connect them with, including your labor, becomes “private property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a federal franchise” and connects said property to a “trade or business”. If you don't want to connect your labor or your property to a “public use” and a “public office”, then you must rescind and remove all federal identifying numbers from it in accordance with:

7.1. Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7.2. Following the withholding procedures in the following book:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

8. No one can lawfully connect your private property, such as your labor or financial assets, to a “public office” or a “public use” without your consent. The very nature of the word “property” implies exclusive use and control, which implies the right to exclude control over it by anyone but you. Therefore, any third party who files a false information return that connects your earnings or your labor to a “public office” or a “public use” without your explicit consent is violating the following laws and others not mentioned:

8.1. 26 U.S.C. §7434: Civil damages for fraudulent filing of information returns

8.2. 26 U.S.C. §7206: Fraud and false statements

8.3. 26 U.S.C. §7207: Fraudulent returns, statements, or other documents

8.4. 18 U.S.C. §912: Impersonating a public officer.

8.6. 18 U.S.C. §654: Officer or employee of the United States converting property of another.

9. Everything that goes on an IRS Form 1040 represents government revenue in connection with a “trade or business” because:

9.1. The IRS Form 1040 is for the tax imposed in 26 U.S.C. §1.

9.2. Everything on the IRS Form 1040 is subject to deductions authorized under 26 U.S.C. §162 and the only income subject to such deductions, according to 26 U.S.C. §162 is “trade or business” income.

9.3. 26 U.S.C. §871(b)(2) says that all taxes imposed in section 1 are connected with a “trade or business”.

10. Those not engaged in a “trade or business” cannot truthfully file an IRS Form 1040. The only proper form for them to file is the IRS Form 1040NR, because this is the only form that includes a block for earnings not connected with a “trade or business”.

11. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041, all information returns, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, 1099, K-1, etc have the effect of connecting the revenue in question to a taxable activity and creating a "prima facie presumption" that the target of the information return is engaged in a "trade or business". Those who are not engaged in a "trade or business" need to rebut this false information return by filing corrected information returns so that they are not incorrectly compelled to associate with federal employment, agency, and contracts in violation of the First Amendment prohibition of compelled association.

12. A "public office" can only be created through the operation of private/special/contract law and your voluntary consent. If you don't consent to act as a public officer and do all the following, then you can't earn "gross income". The process of refusing to consent to engage in contacts and "public office" with the government is effected by:

1 12.1. Not taking any deductions or credits on a tax return. Only those engaged in a "trade or business" may take
 2 deductions and credits, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §§1, 32, and 162.

3 12.2. Not signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4 to your private employer. Since the W-4 causes a W-2 to be filed
 4 and the W-2 is an information return, only those engaged in a "trade or business" can fill out and sign the W-
 5 4. Private employers cannot lawfully compel signing or submitting of a W-4 for a person who is not engaged in a 6 "trade or business" and if they do, they are engaged in theft and extortion. See:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Family
 Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FedStateWHOptions/FedStateWHOptions.pdf>

7 12.3. Challenging and rebutting all false information returns that connect you to a "trade or business". See:

20 12.4. Challenging and rebutting all false Currency Transaction Reports that connect you to a "trade or business". See:

Demand for Verified Evidence of "Trade or Business" Activity: Currency Transaction Report (CTR), Form
 #04.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

21 12.5. Opening your financial accounts as a "non-resident non-person" instead of a "U.S. Person", and do so without a 22 Social Security Number or TIN. See:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202, Section 8

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

23 12.6. Terminating Social Security participation. The Social Security Act of 1935, Title 8, section 801 says that you agree
 24 to participate in payroll withholding for the income tax if you also participate in Social Security. See the following 25 for the process of doing this:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Family Guardian Fellowship

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Emancipation/SSTrustIndenture.pdf>

26 12.7. Properly declaring your citizenship status on government forms as a constitutional citizen but not a statutory 27 citizen. This will ensure that your domicile is not presumed to be in the "United States" federal government. See:

28 12.7.1. Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006

29 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

30 12.7.2. Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form
 31 #10.001

32 <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

33 13. Even people who are domiciled in the District of Columbia, unless they work or have contracts with the national 34 government and thereby are engaged in a "public office", do not earn "gross income" under I.R.C., Subtitle A. The only 35 exception to this is found in 26 U.S.C. §871\(a\).

36 14. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §864\(c\)\(3\), all earnings from within the "United States", which means "sources within the United 37 States" are presumed to be connected with a "trade or business". Consequently, the term "United States" within the 38 Internal Revenue Code, Section 7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) really implies employment, agency, or contracts within the United 39 States national government, and does not mean or imply a geographical area.

40 15. The use of a Taxpayer Identification Number creates a prima facie presumption that the person using it is engaged in a
 41 "trade or business". You can't use a TIN unless you are engaged in a "trade or business".

42 16. Pursuant to 31 C.F.R. §103.30\(d\)\(2\), Currency Transaction Reports (CTRs), such as IRS Form 8300, Treasury form
 43 8300, may only be filled out against persons engaged in a "trade or business". It is unlawful to fill out these forms against 44 persons who are not engaged in a "trade or business". If you are not engaged in a "trade or business" and someone tries
 45 to incorrectly fill out this form against you, present the following form:

Demand for Verified Evidence of "Trade or Business" Activity: Information Return, Form #04.007

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

17. Nonresident aliens not engaged in a "trade or business" as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(i) cannot earn:
- 17.1. "Self-employment income", in accordance with 26 U.S.C. §1402.
- 17.2. "personal services" income, in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9 and 26 U.S.C. §861\(a\)\(3\)\(C\)\(i\). Note that "compensation for personal services" is the only type of labor taxable under 26 U.S.C. §61\(a\)\(1\).
- 17.3. "wages" in connection with any work performed outside the "United States" (government), in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(6\)-1
- 17.4. "gross income" in connection with all compensation not paid in cash, in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)\(11\)-1. In other words, if you are paid in goods and not cash, such paying in gold or silver, you can't earn "gross income" even if you are engaged in a "trade or business".
18. The IRS wants to deceive you into thinking that I.R.C., Subtitle A describes a direct, unapportioned tax instead of an indirect excise tax upon avoidable privileges connected with a "public office". They willfully perpetuate this illusion in order to keep you from searching for ways to avoid the activity and the taxes associated with the privileged activity. That is why:
- 18.1. None of their publications precisely define what a "trade or business" is. The one that comes closest is Publication 54, but even it doesn't do the subject justice.
- 18.2. When you ask them about what a "trade or business" is, they won't tell you.
- 18.3. When you show them the definition of "trade or business" from 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\), they will try to argue that the word doesn't mean what it says there and that the use of the word "includes" causes the word to mean not what the law says, but whatever they WANT it to mean. This is NOT how law works, folks! See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

19. The federal courts are helping the IRS in the above cover-up. We have been unable to locate a single court case that discusses the information contained in this article. The federal courts are making cases that bring it up "unpublished" so that slaves living on the federal plantation will not be able to remove their chains and go free. They are "accessories after the fact" to Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization crimes against humanity, in violation of Title 18, Part 1, Chapter 5 and 18 U.S.C. §3. See: <http://nonpublication.com>. In this regard, the courts have become "predators" rather than "protectors".
20. Most IRS Forms illegally create false presumptions about your status that compel you to associate with the "trade or business" activity and become a "taxpayer". See the following article about this SCAM:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

IRS very deliberately DOES NOT provide any forms or instructions that help "nontaxpayers" protect their status or prevent becoming the target of unlawful enforcement actions. The best way to avoid these false presumptions is to do the following, in descending order of preference:

- 20.1. Use standard IRS Forms and attach the following form to the IRS Form according to the instructions included with the form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 20.2. Use AMENDED IRS Forms found on the following page.

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSFormsPubs.htm>

- 20.3. Modify existing IRS Forms yourself either electronically or using a pen before you sign it, according to the instruction in the link above, section 1.

21. Anyone who presumes or assumes you are a "taxpayer" under I.R.C., Subtitle A absent authenticated, court-admissible evidence is:
- 21.1. Assuming you work for the government as an agent, officer, contractor, or employee engaged in a "public office".

5.6.12.17 Further study

Understanding the "trade or business" scam fits together all the pieces of the puzzle scattered throughout this chapter and explains them in such a cohesive way that it is impossible to argue with. It is far more than simply a "theory", but a fact you can verify yourself by reading the IRS Publications, the code, the Constitution, and the Treasury Regulations. All of them agree with the content of this section. If you would like to learn more about the "trade of business" scam, a whole very interesting and well-researched book has been written on this subject that we highly recommend. It's a short book being only 232 pages, so it is sure to keep your attention:

5.6.13 The Non-Resident Non-Person Position

The following subsections merely introduce the main approach towards taxation and jurisdiction taken by members of this ministry. If you would like a full, comprehensive treatment, we refer you to the following excellent memorandum on how to implement and defend this position in detail:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5.6.13.1 Introduction<sup>257</sup>

The following subsections describe the foundation of the approach towards sovereignty, jurisdiction, and taxation which is taken by Members of this ministry called the Non-Resident Non-Person Position.

The concepts we will teach in the document do apply to other CIVIL contexts, such as franchises and driver's licensing. When used in those contexts, one must instead refer to themselves simply as a "non-resident non-person" and legislatively foreign but not a statutory or constitutional "alien" in relation to the government because not an officer or public officer within the government. All instances of "alien" we have found refer to foreign nationals, not those born or naturalized in either the United States of America (states of the Union) or federal territory.

5.6.13.1.1 Definition

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position describes the approach towards political and legal relations between a specific government and those who:

1. Consent to no civil domicile within that government.
2. Consent to no government franchises and therefore do not waive their sovereignty or sovereign immunity.
  - 2.1. All those who participate in such franchises are treated as agents or officers of the government. They are sometimes called "public officers".
  - 2.2. The First Commandment of the Ten Commandments forbids Christians from "serving" other gods. This prohibition also includes serving a government as a public officer IF AND ONLY IF it has superior or supernatural rights in relation to any and every human being. Such a superior relationship is called "idolatry" in religious jargon and it is the worst sin in the Bible.
3. Insist on perfect equality under the law between the PEOPLE and the government tasked with protecting them.
4. Insist that any attempt by a government to impose any kind of civil duty or obligation or penalty against them under the authority of the civil statutory (franchise) codes is slavery and a tort.
  - 4.1. The ONLY type of government force or enforcement that is just or righteous is that which restores the damage that they have done to another equal sovereign AFTER said injury has been proven to exist with evidence.
  - 4.2. Law can only operate justly when it is constrained to providing remedies for demonstrated injuries AFTER they occur. It cannot operate in a PREVENTIVE mode BEFORE the injury occurs because there is no injury. In other words, those who seek to prevent future conduct rather than remedy past conduct lack "standing" in a court of common law, and therefore, legislation cannot establish such standing without at least the consent of those it might affect, because it requires a surrender of constitutional rights without compensation and therefore is a violation of due process.

5. Insist on the protections of ONLY the Bill of Rights and the common law and NOT the civil statutory franchise codes.
6. Insist on perfect separation between what is PUBLIC and what is PRIVATE. Control or ownership of PRIVATE property should not be allowed to be shared with any government. This means that:
  - 6.1. The government cannot lawfully acquire control over exclusively private property.
  - 6.2. All property is PRESUMED to be PRIVATE until the government satisfies the burden of proving WITH EVIDENCE that the owner CONSENSUALLY, VOLUNTARILY, and IN WRITING consented to convert the property to a public use, public purpose, or public office.
  - 6.3. All PUBLIC uses of otherwise PRIVATE property should be allowed to be unilaterally converted back to exclusively PRIVATE without the consent of the government. Otherwise, governments will simply refuse their consent and make the original owners into perpetual slaves.
7. Insist that anything not expressly appearing in the civil statutory definitions of terms is PURPOSEFULLY excluded and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the government per the rules of statutory construction. This requirement is the FOUNDATION of limited government of delegated powers itself described in the Ninth and Tenth Amendments:

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, 'a definition which declares what a term 'means' . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary." [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

8. Insist on the right to be left alone by government, which is the legal definition of "justice" itself:

Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right. [Readings on the History and System of Common Law, Second Edition, 1925, Roscoe Pound, p. 2]

9. Insist that any attempt to offer or enforce civil franchises within a constitutional state of the Union is a tort and an invasion within the meaning of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States constitution. Franchises can only be offered on federal territory or a constitutional violation, an injustice, and a commercial invasion has occurred.
10. Insist on the separation of powers between the states and federal government that is the foundation of the United States Constitution and the foundation of the protection of our PRIVATE rights and liberties.

*"We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S. Const., Art. I, § 8. As James Madison wrote, "[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v. Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid. [U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]*

The term “Non-Resident Non-Person Position” is a term we developed. We have not seen it mentioned anywhere else, but we wanted to give it a name so that people can refer to it. The position does NOT advocate that people should have any civil status under the statutory codes of any government and therefore does not advocate that people be either “nonresident aliens” or “nonresident alien individuals”.

5.6.13.1.2 Domicile or residence and not nationality is the basis for civil statutory jurisdiction and tax liability, and nonresidents have no domicile and therefore are not subject

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position is easier and simpler to defend in court than most other arguments about civil jurisdiction and taxation. It revolves around the following simple concepts:

1. Civil statutory jurisdiction and tax liability originate from one’s choice of legal domicile and the obligation to pay for “protection” that attaches to that domicile:

“domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges.”
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”
[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

2. Domicile is not just where you PHYSICALLY LIVE, but where you WANT TO LIVE and where you CONSENT TO LIVE AND BE CIVILLY PROTECTED. No one can dictate what you consent to and therefore no one can lawfully choose your domicile and therefore the place where you are a STATUTORY “taxpayer” EXCEPT you. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. In America, there are TWO separate and distinct jurisdictions one may have a domicile within, and only one of the two is subject to federal income taxation:
  - 3.1. Federal territory. Called the “United States” in federal statutes.
  - 3.2. States of the Union. Legislatively foreign states not subject to federal jurisdiction.

“It is clear that Congress, as a legislative body, exercise two species of legislative power: the one, limited as to its objects, but extending all over the Union: the other, an absolute, exclusive legislative power over the District of Columbia. The preliminary inquiry in the case now before the Court, is, by virtue of which of these authorities was the law in question passed?”
[Cohens v. Virginia, 19 U.S. 264, 6 Wheat. 265, 5 L.Ed. 257 (1821)]

4. Whether one is “foreign” or “alien” from a legislative perspective is determined by their civil DOMICILE, and NOT their NATIONALITY. One can be a national of the country United States*** by being born in a state of the Union, and yet be the following relative to the jurisdiction of the national government if domiciled outside of federal territory:
  - 4.1. A statutory “non-resident non-person” if not engaged in a public office.
  - 4.2. A statutory “nonresident alien” (per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B)) if engaged in a public office. In this case, the OFFICE is the legal “person” that has a domicile on federal territory while the OFFICER filling said office has legislatively foreign domicile.
5. Those who are neither domiciled on federal territory nor representing an entity domiciled there are not subject to federal statutory civil law or income taxation as confirmed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). These people are called any of the following in relation to the federal/national government:
  - 5.1. Statutory “non-resident non-persons”
  - 5.2. “nonresidents”.

- 1 5.3. "transient foreigners".
 2 5.4. "sojourners".
 3 5.5. "stateless" in relation to national jurisdiction.
 4 6. The U.S. Supreme Court has, in fact, held that those WITHOUT a domicile within a jurisdiction and who are therefore
 5 nonresidents and who become the target of tax enforcement by a legislatively "foreign" jurisdiction that they are not
 6 domiciled within are the victims of EXTORTION, and possibly even crime:

7 "The power of taxation, indispensable to the existence of every civilized government, is exercised upon the
 8 assumption of an equivalent rendered to the taxpayer in the protection of his person and property, in adding
 9 to the value of such property, or in the creation and maintenance of public conveniences in which he shares --
 10 such, for instance, as roads, bridges, sidewalks, pavements, and schools for the education of his children. If the 11 taxing power be in no position to render these services, or otherwise to benefit the person or property taxed,
 12 and such property be wholly within the taxing power of another state, to which it may be said to owe an
 13 allegiance, and to which it looks for protection, the taxation of such property within the domicile of the owner
 14 partakes rather of the nature of an extortion than a tax, and has been repeatedly held by this Court to be 15 beyond the power of the legislature, and a taking of property without due process of law. Railroad Company v.
 16 Jackson, 7 Wall. 262; State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300; Tappan v. Merchants' National Bank,
 17 19 Wall. 490, 499; Delaware &c. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 198 U.S. 341, 358. In Chicago &c. R. Co. v. Chicago,
 18 166 U.S. 226, it was held, after full consideration, that the taking of private property [199 U.S. 203] without 19 compensation was a denial of due process within the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Davidson v. New 20 Orleans, 96 U.S. 97, 102; Missouri Pacific Railway v. Nebraska, 164 U.S. 403, 417; Mt. Hope Cemetery v.
 21 Boston, 158 Mass. 509, 519."

22 [Union Refrigerator Transit Company v. Kentucky, 199 U.S. 194 (1905)]

- 23 7. The term "United States" as used both in the IRS Publications and the Internal Revenue Code:
 24 7.1. Is used in TWO contexts:
 25 7.1.1. The GOVERNMENT corporation; OR
 26 7.1.2. Geographical sense, meaning federal territories and possessions and EXCLUDING states of the Union.
 27 7.2. Is geographically defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and \(a\)\(10\) and 4 U.S.C. §110\(d\) to mean federal territory that 28 is no part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional state of the Union. We call this area the "federal United 29 States" or the "federal zone" throughout this book.
 30 7.3. Is typically NOT used in its geographic sense when referring to "sources within the United States", but rather in 31 the GOVERNMENT sense, where "United States" means the government corporation rather than a geographic 32 place. In that sense, the geographical definitions 26 U.S.C. §7701 are a red herring to distract attention away from 33 the REAL meaning of the term.
 34 Consequently, the term "internal" as used within the phrase "INTERNAL revenue code" or "INTERNAL revenue
 35 service" refers to THE U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLIC CORPORATION and does not and cannot include sources
 36 internal to any state of the Union or government of any state of the Union.
 37 8. States of the Union are legislatively but not constitutionally "foreign" and "alien" with respect to federal legislative 38 jurisdiction for the vast majority of subject matters, including income taxation. Federal jurisdiction within states of the 39 Union is limited to the following, meaning that for every other subject matter, people domiciled in states of the Union
 40 are legislatively "foreign" and "alien":
 41 8.1. Postal fraud. See Article 1, Section 8, Clause 7 of the U.S. Constitution..
 42 8.2. Counterfeiting under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 6 of the U.S. Constitution.
 43 8.3. Treason under Article 4, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
 44 8.4. Interstate commercial crimes under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
 45 8.5. Jurisdiction over CONSTITUTIONAL aliens everywhere within the Union, to include states of the Union, for the 46 purposes of immigration ONLY. See Chae Chan Ping v. U.S., 130 U.S. 581 \(1889\), Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408
 47 U.S. 753 \(1972\). This source of jurisdiction is the reason that all "taxpayers" are aliens and not "citizens". See 26
 48 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(c\)\(3\).
 49 8.6. Slavery, involuntary servitude, or peonage under the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, 18 U.S.C. §1581.
 50 and 18 U.S.C. §1589\(3\).

51 "Other authorities to the same effect might be cited. It is not open to doubt that Congress may enforce the 52 Thirteenth Amendment by direct legislation, punishing the holding of a person in slavery or in involuntary
 53 servitude except as a punishment for a crime. In the exercise of that power Congress has enacted these

[Clyatt v. U.S., 197 U.S. 207 (1905)]

9. The Internal Revenue Code describes actually two separate excise taxes for two mutually exclusive legislative jurisdictions:
- 9.1. A municipal tax upon public offices domiciled on federal territory (the statutory but not constitutional “United States”) under Subtitles A, B, and C per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17.
  - 9.2. An income tax upon foreign commerce within states of the Union under Subtitle D.
10. Anyone who is neither a statutory “U.S. citizen” (domiciled in the District of Columbia or a U.S. territory and born in any state of the Union or federal territory) pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a resident (alien) domiciled in the federal zone pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) is a “nonresident alien” under the I.R.C.
11. Those who are “nonresident aliens” are “nonresident” and therefore not within the civil legislative jurisdiction of almost all federal statutory law and are “nontaxpayers” under the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A in most cases. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §871, the only thing they have to pay income taxes on are earnings from “within the U.S. government”. The term “sources within the United States” as used throughout the I.R.C. really means WITHINT THE U.S. GOVERNMENT, and not the geographical United States mentioned in the United States constitution. These “sources within the United States” include:
- 11.1. Social security benefits.
  - 11.2. Distributions from Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs) registered within the District of Columbia.
  - 11.3. Earnings from investments and real property on federal territory.
12. Important facts about “nonresidents”:
- 12.1. Those born within and domiciled within a state of the Union are:
    - 12.1.1. “nationals” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).
    - 12.1.2. Not statutory “U.S. citizens” or “citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or any provision of the Internal Revenue Code.
    - 12.1.3. “non-resident non-persons” because not domiciled on federal territory and not legally connected to the national government.
    - 12.1.4. Not statutory “individuals”, “persons”, or “nonresident alien individuals” unless they are filling a public office in the national government.<sup>258</sup>
  - 12.2. Statutory “nonresident aliens” are a NOT a subset of statutory “aliens”, but an entirely separate class.
  - 12.3. Only by exercising your right to contract with a foreign jurisdiction can you acquire a civil status under the laws of that jurisdiction. When one exercise this right to contract, the office or agency they acquire under the contract becomes “domestic” and they become surety for the office or “person” they are representing under said contract. An example of such agency is a public office in the national government created by a lawful election or appointment. That agency is the ONLY lawful subject of any and all I.R.C. Subtitles A and C income taxation.

“Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'”

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

13. All “taxpayers” within the I.R.C. Subtitles A and C are STATUTORY “aliens” lawfully engaged in a “trade or business”, meaning a “public office” in the U.S. government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) .
- 13.1. The term “individual” does not include statutory “citizens” or “nationals” pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
- 13.2. Statutory “U.S. citizens” can be statutory “taxpayers” only in the case where they are abroad pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3) and avail themselves of the “benefits” of a tax treaty with the foreign country they are in. In that capacity, they interface to the foreign country as an “alien” and therefore a “taxpayer” and an “individual”. That is why both “citizens” and “residents” are grouped together under 26 U.S.C. §911: Because they are both aliens when abroad in relation to the country they are in.
- 13.3. It is unlawful for CONSTITUTIONAL aliens to engage in public offices in the government. Therefore, it is technically an impossibility for a constitutional alien to be a statutory “taxpayer”. This is an unavoidable consequence of the fact that the income tax is a public officer kickback program disguised to look like a legitimate income tax to fool everyone.

4. Lack of Citizenship

§74. Aliens cannot hold Office. - - It is a general principle that an alien can not hold a public office. In all independent popular governments, as is said by Chief Justice Dixon of Wisconsin, “it is an acknowledged principle, which lies at the very foundation, and the enforcement of which needs neither the aid of statutory nor constitutional enactments or restrictions, that the government is instituted by the citizens for their liberty and protection, and that it is to be administered, and its powers and functions exercised only by them and through their agency.”

In accordance with this principle it is held that an alien can not hold the office of sheriff.<sup>[2]</sup>

14. Those who file “resident” tax forms such as IRS Form 1040 and who are domiciled within a constitutional but not statutory state of the Union are:
- 14.1. Indirectly making a voluntary “election” to be treated as a “resident” (alien) by the national government effectively domiciled on federal territory because representing an office so domiciled.
- 14.2. Indirectly and unilaterally “electing” themselves into a public office in the U.S. government in criminal violation of the following, because all statutory “taxpayers” are public offices in the U.S. government:
- 14.2.1. 18 U.S.C. §912.
- 14.2.2. 18 U.S.C. §210.
- 14.2.3. 18 U.S.C. §211.
- 14.3. Availing themselves of the “benefits and protections” of the laws of the United States. The courts call this process “purposeful availment”.
- 14.4. Engaging in the equivalent of “contracting” under a franchise agreement. In law, all franchises are contracts.
- 14.5. Waiving sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) , and agreeing to be treated as a “resident”.
- 14.6. Changing their status from “foreign” to “domestic” in relation to federal legislative jurisdiction.
- 14.7. Violating the I.R.C. Subtitle A franchise agreement/contract if they are not human beings married to statutory “U.S. citizens”. The only provision within the I.R.C. that expressly authorizes nonresidents to “elect” to be treated as “residents” is 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B) and 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h).

5.6.13.1.3 What the Non-Resident Non-Person Position is NOT

“For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men— as free, yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God. Honor all people. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king.”
 [1 Peter 2:13-17, Bible, NKJV]

Note that we DO NOT advocate any of the following flawed arguments or cognitive dissonance surrounding the term “non-resident non-person”. Don’t try to sabotage this pamphlet by making any of the following arguments without at LEAST providing court admissible evidence proving that any of the following are TRUE before you spout off your foolish mouth with idiotic, malicious, and unconstitutional presumptions founded upon your own legal ignorance:

1. That there is anything wrong, illegal, or criminal about the sovereignty possessed by those who advocate the Non-Resident Non-Person Position. See:

Policy Document: Rebutted False Arguments About Sovereignty, Form #08.018
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. That those who advocate the position in this memorandum are lawless or anarchists. They are still subject to the common law and criminal but not penal laws. Sovereignty only affects civil obligations, not criminal obligations. Furthermore, the present government claims sovereignty and also claims that its powers are delegated by the people. You can't delegate what you don't personally have, so the people must be sovereign as well. The U.S. Supreme Court agrees with us on this subject. The following presentation proves that we are NOT anarchists under all law and expresses disapproval of those who take such a position:

Policy Document: Problems with Atheistic Anarchism, Form #08.020
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. That those who advocate the position in this memorandum are elitists who are better than everyone else. The foundation of the common law is equality of rights of all under the law. Privileges and franchises such as the income tax destroy equality and replace it with inequality and privilege. We favor equality of treatment and rights (not privileges, but rights) as we prove in the following:

Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4. That there is no such thing as a statutory "non-person". All law is prima facie territorial. People present in China and domiciled there would, for instance, be civil "non-persons" because domicile IN THE UNITED STATES RATHER THAN CHINA is how they would acquire the civil status of "person" to begin with. The states of the Union are on equal footing from a civil statutory perspective to foreign countries in relation to jurisdiction of the national government and therefore the people in them, just like those in China, are "non-persons" under civil statutory law. We prove this in the following memorandum:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. That the PLACE one is "non-resident" to is the same both in the CONSTITUTION and the STATUTES of Congress. They are not. "United States" in the Constitution is mutually exclusive to and non-overlapping to the geographical term "United States" when used in ordinary acts of the national legislature. The specific place they are "non-resident" to is the federal zone and federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any CONSTITUTIONAL state of the Union.
6. That a "non-resident" is non-resident to BOTH the Constitution and the Bill of Rights AND "non-resident" to the civil statutory codes.
- 6.1. There are TWO contexts for every legal term: CONSTITUTIONAL and STATUTORY. Both of these contexts are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping geographically.
- 6.2. In fact, one can be a CONSTITUTIONAL "Person" or "people" WITHOUT also being a statutory "person" or "individual".
- 6.3. Domicile and residence are IRRELEVANT when one speaks of the protections of the CONSTITUTION. The Bill of Rights protects EVERYONE on land within constitutional states of the Union, not just "residents" or those who consent to become statutory "citizens" or "residents" in states of the Union. These protections, however, DO NOT constrain the government when dealing with those who are abroad, because they are not on said land. That is why it is called "the law of the land" in the Constitution.

*"It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it."
 [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]*

7. That those who are "non-residents" under the laws of the national government are "non-residents" under state law as well. They are not, and this is a product of the separation of powers doctrine. See:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5.6.13.1.4 Biblical Basis for the Non-Resident Non-Person Position (NRNPP)

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position has extensive biblical foundations and qualifies as a "religious practice". The Bible identifies "non-residents" as "strangers", "pilgrims", or "foreigners". Most major figures in the Bible who were in fact

1 following God's holy calling and acting out of obedience to His commands were asked by God to abandon a comfortable and
2 complacent life to enter a foreign country and be strangers and foreigners there. These include:

- 3 1. Believers. In Eph. 2:19-22, Paul emphasizes that when we profess faith in God, we transition from being "foreign" to 4 "domestic" in relation to Him and the Kingdom of Heaven. This implies that everyone who does NOT believe in God
5 or obey his Commandments REMAINS a "foreigner", "stranger", and/or "alien":

6 *"Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members
7 of the household of God, having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself*
8 being the chief cornerstone, in whom the whole building, being fitted together, grows into a holy temple in the 9 Lord, in whom you also are being built together for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit."
10 [Eph. 2:19-22, Bible, NKJV]

- 11 2. Abraham. Hebrews 11:9. Abraham was called by God to pursue His promise by leaving a comfortable and rich life in 12 Ur (now Iraq) and enter

13 "By faith he dwelt in the land of promise as in a foreign country, dwelling in tents with Isaac and Jacob, the 14 heirs with him of the same promise;"
15 [Hebrews 11:9, Bible, NKJV]

- 16 3. Jesus.

- 17 3.1. Matt. 8:16-22. When one of Christ's followers offered to become a disciple and follow Jesus, he was warned that 18 the cost of discipleship was that he would "have no place to lay his head", meaning that he would have no
19 domicile or home anywhere and therefore would be a "foreigner", "stranger", or "stateless person" everywhere
20 with no political or legal bonds to any ruler or government. This, in fact, was the only way to ensure that the 21 disciples could in fact speak truthfully and objectively and fearlessly to everyone about God: If they had nothing 22 to lose.

23 The Cost of Discipleship

24 And when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave a command to depart to the other side. Then a certain
25 scribe came and said to Him, "Teacher, I will follow You wherever You go."

26 And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to 27 lay His head."

28 Then another of His disciples said to Him, "Lord, let me first go and bury my father."

29 But Jesus said to him, "Follow Me, and let the dead bury their own dead."
30 [Matt. 8:16-22, Bible, NKJV]

- 31 3.2. Matt. 10:34-39. Christ said he came to bring division between believers and unbelievers, even within families.
32 Those who are divided against each other are "foreign" or "alien" in relation to each other. To "take up the cross"
33 is to become alien and foreign to all other causes, to profess exclusive allegiance to God even to the point of 34 considering love and allegiance to family members subordinate and even unnecessary.

35 Christ Brings Division

36 "Do not think that I came to bring peace on earth. I did not come to bring peace but a sword. For I have come 37 to 'set a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-
38 law'; and 'a man's enemies will be those of his own household.' He who loves father or mother more than Me is 39 not worthy of Me. And he who loves son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he who does not
40 take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life
41 for My sake will find it.
42 [Matt. 10:34-39, Bible, NKJV]

- 44 3.3. Mark 3:35. Jesus said that the only members of His family are those who DO His commandments and not just 45 talk about them. Hence, all those who aren't Christians and who don't regard the Bible as a law book 46 automatically become "foreigners" and "aliens".

1                   "For whoever does the will of God is My brother and My sister and mother."
 2                   Jesus, in [Mark 3:35, NKJV]

- 3 4. Moses. When God called Moses to rescue the Israelites from bondage to Pharaoh, He led them to a foreign land where 4 they were and remained strangers and nomads to wander in the desert 40 years before not they but their progeny would
 5 eventually find a home. He proclaimed that their exile was a punishment for their disobedience and rebellion, and that
 6 they wouldn't have a home or a new land they could call a domicile until all the old guard socialists died off and the 7 next generation was taught obedience to God's laws.

8                   Death Sentence on the Rebels

9                   *And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, "How long shall I bear with this evil congregation who
 10                   complain against Me? I have heard the complaints which the children of Israel make against Me. Say to them,
 11                   'As I live,' says the LORD, 'just as you have spoken in My hearing, so I will do to you: The carcasses of you
 12                   who have complained against Me shall fall in this wilderness, all of you who were numbered, according to 13                   your entire number, from twenty years old and above. Except for Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the 14                   son of Nun, you shall by no means enter the land which I swore I would make you dwell in. But your little ones,
 15                   whom you said would be victims, I will bring in, and they shall know the land which you have despised. But 16                   as for you, your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness. And your sons shall be shepherds in the wilderness forty 17                   years, and bear the brunt of your infidelity, until your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness. According 18                   to the number of the days in which you spied out the land, forty days, for each day you shall bear your guilt
 19                   one year, namely forty years, and you shall know My rejection. I the LORD have spoken this. I will surely do
 20                   so to all this evil congregation who are gathered together against Me. In this wilderness they shall be consumed, 21                   and there they shall die.'"*

22                   Now the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, who returned and made all the congregation complain against 23                   him by bringing a bad report of the land, those very men who brought the evil report about the land, died by the 24                   plague before the LORD. But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh remained alive, of the men
 25                   who went to spy out the land.
 26                   [Numbers 14:26-38, Bible, NKJV]

- 27 5. The Israelites who built the wall in the book of Nehemiah. When they felt convicted because of their sin in marrying 28 foreigners and foreign wives, they repented, built their own city, and formed their own foreign government because the 29 one ruling where they were was not obedient to God's laws. Separating oneself from foreigners means, literally 30 becoming a "foreigner", "stranger", or "transient foreigner" from a legal perspective.

31                   *"Then those of Israelite lineage separated themselves from all foreigners; and they stood and confessed their 32                   sins and the iniquities of their fathers."<sup>3</sup> And they stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of 33                   the LORD their God for one-fourth of the day; and for another fourth they confessed and worshiped the LORD
 34                   their God.
 35                   *[Nehemiah 9:2-3, Bible, NKJV]

- 36 6. The Prophets. This includes Daniel, Ezekial, Elijah, etc. All of them were scorned and without honor in their own 37 households and therefore "alien" and "foreign" in relation to their own relatives:

38                   "So they were offended at Him.
 39                   But Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house."
 40                   [Matt. 13:57, Bible, NKJV]

- 41 7. King David.

42 7.1. 1 Sam. 9-19. After King Saul was elected as Israel's first King in violation of God's desires and wishes, the 43 Israelites offended God by electing a King who did not obey the Lord. David did not agree with Saul's actions
 44 and made Saul look bad and made Saul jealous of him. Eventually, David had to flee from the king, hide in caves
 45 to avoid the pagan King Saul's wrath. David therefore became a "foreigner" and a "stranger" in relation to the 46 pagan government of his time so that he could avoid offending God and be obedient to God. 1 Sam. 19.

47 7.2. Psalm 69:8-9. David in the Psalm revealed his basis for fleeing Saul by saying the following:

48                   I have become a stranger to my brothers,
 49                   And an alien to my mother's children;
 50                   Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up,
 51                   And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me.
 52                   [Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

1 The Bible also commands followers and Christians to remain separate and sanctified in relation to the sinful governments
2 and entanglements of the world. From a legal perspective, that means we must become “foreigners”, “strangers”, “transient
3 foreigners”, and statutory “non-resident non-persons”. Here are just a few examples, and there are many more where these 4 came from:

5 "Come out from among them [the unbelievers and government idolaters]

6 And be separate, says the Lord.

7 Do not touch what is unclean.

8 And I will receive you.

9 I will be a Father to you,

10 And you shall be my sons and daughters,

11 Says the Lord Almighty."

12 [2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

13
14 "Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, 15 and to keep oneself unspotted [foreign] from the world [the obligations and concerns of the world]."

16 [James 1:27, Bible, NKJV]

17
18 "You shall have no other gods [including political rulers, governments, or Earthly laws] before Me [or My 19 commandments]."

20 [Exodus 20:3, Bible, NKJV]

21
22 "Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel [the priest in a Theocracy] at Ramah, and
23 said to him, 'Look, you [the priest within a theocracy] are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now
24 make us a king [or political ruler] to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER them]'.

25 "But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, 'Give us a king [or political ruler] to judge us.' So Samuel
26 prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, 'Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for 27 they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done
28 since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—with which they have forsaken Me [God as 29 their ONLY King, Lawgiver, and Judge] and served other gods—so they are doing to you also [government or 30 political rulers becoming the object of idolatry]."

31 [1 Sam. 8:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

32
33 "Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers [the heathens], nor observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves
34 with their [pagan government] idols. I am the LORD your God: Walk in My statutes, keep My judgments, and do
35 them; hallow My Sabbaths, and they will be a sign between Me and you, that you may know that I am the LORD
36 your God."

37 [Ezekial 20:10-20, Bible, NKJV]

38
39 "Therefore, my brethren, you also have become dead to the law [man's law] through the body of Christ [by
40 shifting your legal domicile to the God's Kingdom], that you may be married to another—to Him who was raised
41 from the dead, that we should bear fruit [as agents, fiduciaries, and trustees] to God. For when we were in the
42 flesh, the sinful passions which were aroused by the law were at work in our members to bear fruit to death. But
43 now we have been delivered from the law, having died to what we were held by, so that we should serve in the
44 newness of the Spirit [and newness of the law, God's law] and not in the oldness of the letter."

45 [Rom. 7:4-6, Bible, NKJV]

46 Those who are believers and who are obedient to God's calling are kings and priests and princes of the only sovereign, who 47 is God and are therefore exempt from Caesar's taxes.

48 "You [Jesus] are worthy to take the scroll,

49 And to open its seals;

50 For You were slain,

51 And have redeemed us to God by Your blood

52 Out of every tribe and tongue and people and nation,

1 And have made us kings and priests to our God;
 2 And we shall reign on the earth."
 3 [Rev. 5:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

4
 5 And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, "What do you think, Simon? From whom
 6 do the kings [governments] of the earth [lawfully] take customs or taxes, from their sons [citizens and subjects]
 7 or from strangers [statutory "aliens", which are synonymous with "residents" in the tax code, and exclude
 8 "citizens"]?"

9 Peter said to Him, "From strangers statutory "aliens"/"residents" ONLY. See [26 C.F.R. §1.1-1\(a\)\(2\)\(ii\) and
 10 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1\(c\)\(3\)]."

11 Jesus said to him, "Then the sons [of the King, Constitutional but not statutory "citizens" of the Republic, who 12 are all sovereign "nationals" and "non-resident non-persons"] are free [sovereign over their own person and 13 labor, e.g. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY]."
 14 [Matt. 17:24-27, Bible, NKJV]

15 Christians are PROHIBITED by the Bible to contract away their sovereignty to a pagan secular government, or to indirectly
 16 become Caesar's rather than God's property in the process.

17 "You [believers] shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their
 18 pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs
 19 by becoming a "resident" or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against 20 Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods under [contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely
 21 be a snare to you."
 22 [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

23 "You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and remember that governments are made up 24 exclusively of men]."
 25 [1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

26 "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the 27 yoke of bondage [to the government or the income tax or the IRS or federal statutes that are not "positive
 28 law" and do not have jurisdiction over us]."
 29 [Galatians 5:1, Bible, NKJV]

30 Those believers who decide to violate the above Biblical requirements to be separate and not fornicate with, contract with, or 31 do business with the corrupted government or civil rulers become "aliens" in relation to God and the Kingdom of Heaven:

32 "Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend
 33 ["citizen", "resident", "taxpayer", "inhabitant", or "subject" under a king or political ruler] of the world [or 34 any man-made kingdom other than God's Kingdom] makes himself an enemy of God."
 35 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

36
 37 "This I say, therefore, and testify in the Lord, that you should no longer walk as the rest of the Gentiles
 38 [unbelievers] walk, in the futility of their mind, having their understanding darkened, being alienated from the 39 life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart; who, being past 40 feeling, have given themselves over to lewdness, to work all uncleanness with greediness."
 41 [Eph. 4:17-19, Bible, NKJV]

42 God treats your BODY as His property and His Church. A "temple" is a church, and neither the temple nor the fruit of the 43 temple can be taxed or regulated by any government in a truly free society. Any attempt to do so is the crime of damaging 44 religious property at 18 U.S.C. §247, in fact:

45 "Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? If anyone defiles the 46 temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are."
 47 [1 Cor. 3:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

48 "A state-created orthodoxy [imposed through illegal enforcement or even involuntary enforcement of the revenue
 49 "codes" against religious institutions and "temples"] puts at grave risk that freedom of belief and conscience
 50 which are the sole assurance that religious faith is real, not imposed."

1 Lee v. Weisman, [505 U.S. 577 (1992)]

2 Based on the content of this section:

- 3 1. The NRA Position is a religious practice within the meaning of the Bible and the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B.
- 4 2. The First Amendment prohibits interference with religious practices of those protected by the Constitution.
- 5 3. Those who are nonresidents in relation to the federal United States but who are physically present on land protected by the Constitution cannot be compelled to declare or accept the obligations of any status other than that of a nonresident.
- 6 4. Any attempt to enforce any other status, obligation, or "public right" against nonresident aliens who have no authority to contract with the Beast and therefore to participate in government franchises constitutes:
  - 7 4.1. Conspiracy against rights in violation of 18 U.S.C. §241.
  - 8 4.2. Peonage and involuntary servitude to pay off government debts in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 42 U.S.C. §1994, and 18 U.S.C. §1581.
  - 9 4.3. Destruction of PRIVATE religious property. 18 U.S.C. §247.
  - 10 4.4. Interference in the affairs of a temple and a church. The Bible identifies our body as God's temple. John 2:21, 1 Cor. 6:19.
  - 11 4.5. A breach of the Holy Bible trust indenture, which makes all Christians into God's fiduciaries, trustees, and agents 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Governments are created to protect your right to contract and interfering with this trust contract undermines the purpose of their creation. See:

14 5.6.13.1.5 Application to your circumstances

15 Americans domiciled in nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states are non-resident non-persons with respect to the Internal Revenue Code and the [federal] "United States". By "Americans", we mean people born anywhere in the American Union in either a state of the Union or federal territory or people from foreign countries who are naturalized to become Americans. These Americans have no "U.S." (government) source income unless they work for the U.S. government or are engaged in a "public office" or have investments within federal territory called the "United States". Whether you are a "nonresident" is determined by your place of domicile, not your place of birth. One becomes a "resident" under the I.R.C. by having a domicile on federal territory that is no part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you disagree and think that "United States" includes places other than federal territory, then please explain why 26 C.F.R. §1.932-1(a)(1) says the following, which contradicts such a conclusion. Why would people who live in a "U.S. possession" be treated as nonresident aliens instead of residents, if they lived in the "United States"? Why would this section even be necessary because if you were right, they would be "residents" instead of "nonresident aliens"?:

[Code of Federal Regulations]
[Title 26, Volume 10]
[Revised as of April 1, 2004]
From the U.S. Government Printing Office via GPO Access
[CITE: 26CFR1.932-1]

Status of citizens of U.S. possessions

"(a)(1) A citizen of a possession of the United States (except Puerto Rico and, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1972, Guam), who is not otherwise a citizen or resident of the United States, including only the States and the District of Columbia, is treated for the purpose of the taxes imposed by Subtitle A of the Code (relating to income taxes) as if he were a nonresident alien individual."

Also explain why after the above was posted on the Family Guardian Website in 2005, this regulation mysteriously disappeared from the Government Printing Office website and was replaced with a temporary regulation that didn't tell the truth so plainly. The current version of the above regulation does not contain this language because the government wants to hide the truth from you about your true status.

1 The author of the Law of Nations upon which the writing of the Constitution was based, Vattel, admitted that those who are
 2 deprived of a right to earn a living have a right not to participate in and therefore not be statutory “citizens” or “residents” of 3 any society that deprives them of the ability to earn a living and feed their own face:

4 Law of Nations, Book 1: Of Nations Considered In Themselves
 5 § 202. Their right when they are abandoned.

6 The state is obliged to defend and preserve all its members (§ 17); and the prince owes the same assistance to his
 7 *subjects. If, therefore, the state or the prince refuses or neglects to succour a body of people who are exposed
 8 to imminent danger, the latter, being thus abandoned, become perfectly free to provide for their own safety and
 9 preservation in whatever manner they find most convenient, without paying the least regard to those who, by
 10 abandoning them, have been the first to fail in their duty. The country of Zug, being attacked by the Swiss in 11 1352, sent for succour to the duke of Austria, its sovereign; but that prince, being engaged in discourse concerning
 12 his hawks, at the time when the deputies appeared before him, would scarcely condescend to hear them. Thus
 13 abandoned, the people of Zug entered into the Helvetic confederacy.<sup>1</sup> The city of Zurich had been in the same
 14 situation the year before. Being attacked by a band of rebellious citizens who were supported by the neighbouring
 15 nobility, and the house of Austria, it made application to the head of the empire: but Charles IV., who was then
 16 emperor, declared to its deputies that he could not defend it; — upon which Zurich secured its safety by an 17 alliance with the Swiss.<sup>2</sup> The same reason has authorized the Swiss, in general, to separate themselves entirely
 18 from the empire, which never protected them in any emergency; they had not owned its authority for a long time
 19 before their independence was acknowledged by the emperor and the whole Germanic body, at the treaty of 20 Westphalia.

 22 § 223. Cases in which a citizen has a right to quit his country.

23 There are cases in which a citizen has an absolute right to renounce his country, and abandon it entirely — a
 24 right founded on reasons derived from the very nature of the social compact. 1. If the citizen cannot procure
 25 subsistence in his own country, it is undoubtedly lawful for him to seek it elsewhere. For, political or civil 26 society being entered into only with a view of facilitating to each of its members the means of supporting 27 himself, and of living in happiness and safety, it would be absurd to pretend that a member, whom it cannot 28 furnish with such things as are most necessary, has not a right to leave it.

29 2. If the body of the society, or he who represents it, absolutely fail to discharge their obligations [under the 30 law] towards a citizen, the latter may withdraw himself. For, if one of the contracting parties does not observe
 31 his engagements, the other is no longer bound to fulfil his; as the contract is reciprocal between the society and 32 its members. It is on the same principle, also, that the society may expel a member who violates its laws.

33 3. If the major part of the nation, or the sovereign who represents it, attempt to enact laws relative to matters in
 34 which the social compact cannot oblige every citizen to submission, those who are averse to these laws have a
 35 right to quit the society, and go settle elsewhere. For instance, if the sovereign, or the greater part of the nation,
 36 will allow but one religion in the state, those who believe and profess another religion have a right to withdraw,
 37 and take with them their families and effects. For, they cannot be supposed to have subjected themselves to the 38 authority of men, in affairs of conscience;<sup>3</sup> and if the society suffers and is weakened by their departure, the blame
 39 must be imputed to the intolerant party; for it is they who fail in their observance of the social compact — it
 40 is they who violate it, and force the others to a separation. We have elsewhere touched upon some other instances
 41 of this third case, — that of a popular state wishing to have a sovereign (§ 33), and that of an independent nation
 42 taking the resolution to submit to a foreign power (§ 195).

46 Hence, it is indisputable that if you are either the object of criminal or illegal activity by the government and if you are 47 deprived under any circumstance of the right to earn a living and support yourself, you have an absolute right to:

- 48 1. Abandon your country or municipal domicile either physically or legally or both.
- 49 2. Expatriate yourself from the country which you are a member and thereby abandon your “nationality”.
- 50 3. Change your domicile to be outside that country and thereby become a “nonresident”, “non-citizen” who is not 51 protected by its civil laws and not a “person” or “individual” under said laws.

52 The Declaration of Independence states the same thing above, and actually calls it a “right” which you cannot be denied:

53 “Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient 54 causes; and, accordingly, all experience [has] shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are 55 sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce [the people] under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security."

[Thomas Jefferson: Declaration of Independence, 1776. ME 1:29, Papers 1:429]

5.6.13.2 "Non-resident non-persons" Described<sup>259</sup>

The following subsections will deal with the legal constraints surrounding the civil status of "non-resident non-person". The purpose of establishing government is solely to provide "protection". Those who wish to be protected by a specific government under the civil law must expressly consent to be protected by choosing a domicile within the civil jurisdiction of that specific government.

1. Those who have made such a choice and thereby become "customers" of the protection afforded by government are called by any of the following names under the civil laws of the jurisdiction they have nominated to protect them:
  - 1.1. "citizens", if they were born somewhere within the country which the jurisdiction is a part.
  - 1.2. "residents" (aliens) if they were born within the country in which the jurisdiction is a part
  - 1.3. "inhabitants", which encompasses both "citizens", and "residents" but excludes foreigners
  - 1.4. "persons".
  - 1.5. "individuals".
2. Those who have not become "customers" or "protected persons" of a specific government are called by any of the following names within the civil laws of the jurisdiction they have refused to nominate as their protector and may NOT be called by any of the names in item 1 above:
  - 2.1. "nonresidents"
  - 2.2. "transient foreigners"
  - 2.3. "stateless persons"
  - 2.4. "in transitu"
  - 2.5. "transient"
  - 2.6. "sojourner"

In law, the process of choosing a domicile within the jurisdiction of a specific government is called "animus manendi". That choice makes you a consenting party to the "civil contract", "social compact", and "private law" that attaches to and therefore protects all "inhabitants" and things physically situated on or within that specific territory, venue, and jurisdiction. In a sense then, your consent to a specific jurisdiction by your choice of domicile within that jurisdiction is what creates the "person", "individual", "citizen", "resident", or "inhabitant" which is the only proper subject of the civil laws passed by that government. In other words, choosing a domicile within a specific jurisdiction causes an implied waiver of sovereign immunity, because the courts admit that the term "person" does not refer to the "sovereign":

"Since in common usage, the term person does not include the sovereign, statutes not employing the phrase are ordinarily construed to exclude it."

[United States v. Cooper Corporation, 312 U.S. 600 (1941)]

"Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;"

[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

"There is no such thing as a power of inherent Sovereignty in the government of the United States. In this country sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it: All else is withheld."

[Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

A "non-resident non-person" is simply someone who:

1. Has not waived sovereign immunity. This is the SAME "sovereign immunity" delegated by We the People to the government itself, and you can't delegate what you don't have.
2. Is equal in dignity, immunity, and sovereignty to any and every government.
3. Has not chosen a civil statutory domicile within the government they are a non-resident in respect to. They thereby refuse to be civilly governed by the civil statutory law.
4. Is but are still protected civilly by the common law and the Constitution.

5. Is still protected by the criminal laws.
6. Is unenfranchised, and therefore legislatively “foreign” rather than “domestic” for civil purposes.

Even President Obama has admitted that Christians are “foreigners” in society, and that is what a “non-resident non-person” is from a CIVIL LEGISLATIVE perspective.

5.6.13.2.1 Civil status of “non-resident non-persons”

We don't mean to imply that those who are non-resident non-persons are, in fact, CONSTITUTIONAL “aliens” in relation to the federal government at all. Instead, they are:

1. Statutory status under federal law:

- 1.1. “nationals” or “state nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).
- 1.2. Not statutory “nationals and citizens of the United States** at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
- 1.3. NOT “nationals but not citizens of the United States** at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1408 if not born in a federal possession.
- 1.4. If they were born in a federal possession, they are:
  - 1.4.1. “national, but not a citizen, of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1452 if they are domiciled in a federal possession.
  - 1.4.2. “national of the United States***” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B).
- 1.5. Statutory “non-resident non-persons” relative to the legislative/statutory jurisdiction of the national and not federal government under Titles 4, 5, 26, 42, and 50 of the United States Code, but only if legally or physically present on federal territory. Statutory “non-resident non-person” status is a result of the separation of powers between the state and federal governments. One is “legally present” if they are either consensually conducting commerce within the United States Government, have the statutory status of “citizen” or “resident, or are filling a public office within said government.

2. Constitutional status:

- 2.1. “citizens of the United States***” per the Fourteenth Amendment AT BIRTH and non-residents AFTER birth.
- 2.2. Not “aliens” in either a statutory or constitutional context.

3. Biblical status:

- 3.1. “strangers”
- 3.2. “foreigners”

Why do you want to ensure your status in government records correctly reflects your civil status as a “non-resident non-person”? Below are some very good reasons:

1. Nonresidents ONLY become a statutory “person” or “individual” by either engaging in a public office or having a contract with the United States Government. This is reflected in the following:
  - 1.1. The statutory definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. The “partnership” they are referring to is a contract between the “United States” as a legal person and an otherwise PRIVATE human being. That contract creates PUBLIC AGENCY of the otherwise PRIVATE human being.
  - 1.2. The following U.S. Supreme Court ruling:

“All the powers of the government [ including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.”
[Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

2. Non-resident non-persons do not have to have or use a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) to open a financial account if they are not engaged in a “trade or business”, meaning a public office in the U.S. government.
3. “Non-resident non-persons” are not required to participate in Social Security withholding.
4. “Non-resident non-persons” are expressly exempted from the Healthcare Bill and just about every other federal law. See the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, H.R. 3590, Section 9022(a).
5. Non-resident non-persons do not have to pay tax on their worldwide earnings like statutory “U.S. persons”, “U.S. citizens”, and “U.S. residents” do.

6. Federal District Courts cannot entertain anything other than a common law or constitutional tort action in the case of a Non-resident non-person. NRAs are not present within or domiciled within any United States judicial district and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of federal courts.
7. Nonresident aliens pay a flat 30% tax on their earnings originating ONLY from the United States government under I.R.C. Section 871 rather than a graduated rate of tax under I.R.C. Section 1.
8. The IRS cannot lawfully file liens against Non-resident non-persons, because they are not within an Internal Revenue District and all liens must be filed in the district they are domiciled within. The Federal Lien Registration Act requires that the lien must be filed in the domicile of the "taxpayer", which is ALWAYS in the District of Columbia, because all statutory "taxpayers" are public offices that have a domicile in the District of Columbia.
9. Federal courts cannot lawfully kidnap the identity of Non-resident non-persons and move it to the District of Columbia like they can with statutory "U.S. persons", "U.S. citizens", and "U.S. residents" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).
10. Non-resident non-persons are protected from the jurisdiction of federal district courts by the Minimum Contacts Doctrine, U.S. Supreme Court and the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Part 4, Chapter 97. They instead have to go either to the U.S. Supreme Court or the Court of International Trade if they are prosecuted or wish to prosecute the national government.
11. Non-resident non-persons do not need to use the IRS Forms W-4 or W-4 Exempt.
12. There are no withholding forms that a non-resident non-person can use. The closest would be the IRS Form W-8BEN, but even that form would not apply because they are not public officers and therefore "individuals" or "persons" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. There is therefore no status they could check in Block 3 of the form that would be accurate because the only option they give is "individual".
13. Non-resident non-persons are not eligible for any kind of state license or franchise, such as a driver's license.

For additional reasons and more details on some of the above reasons, see section 5.6.13.3.4.5 later.

All franchises relate to and regulate only public office within the government. "Domestic" is a synonym for government, in fact. Everyone outside the government in that context is "alien" or "foreign". Those who don't volunteer for a public office by signing up for a franchise therefore are "alien" and "foreign" in relation to the government granting the franchise. Those who start out as nonresident and alien and subsequently sign up for a franchise become "resident aliens" in relation to the government grantor of the franchise. That is why we refer to "citizens", "residents", "individuals", and "resident aliens" simply as government contractors and public officers within a de facto government. Declaring oneself to be "resident" is equivalent to identifying oneself as a government contractor and public officer. If you would like to learn more about this fascinating concept, please read:

5.6.13.2.2 "non-resident non-persons" are civilly dead, but are still protected by the Constitution and common law

We define the term "civilly dead" as a human being who has no domicile within the civil statutory jurisdiction of a specific government, but who is still protected by the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, and the common law. In effect, they are immune from the civil statutory jurisdiction of the government with whom they are "civilly dead".

Because the civil statutory law is a civil protection franchise, we describe such people as "unenfranchised" rather than "disenfranchised". Being "disenfranchised" occurs without the consent of the party because of a felony conviction, whereas being "unenfranchised" occurs by a withdrawal of consent to be a civil statutory "person".

The "straw man" or fictional statutory "person" to whom franchises rights attach is the thing that is "dead" in the phrase "civilly dead". In other words, there are no "fictions of law" applicable to those who are "civilly dead".

"Fiction of law. An assumption or supposition of law that something which is or may be false is true, or that a state of facts exists which has never really taken place. An assumption [PRESUMPTION], for purposes of justice, of a fact that does not or may not exist. A rule of law which assumes as true, and will not allow to be disproved, something which is false, but not impossible. Ryan v. Motor Credit Co., 30 N.J.Eq. 531, 23 A.2d. 607, 621. These assumptions are of an innocent or even beneficial character, and are made for the advancement of the ends of justice. They secure this end chiefly by the extension of procedure from cases to which it is applicable to other cases to which it is not strictly applicable, the ground of inapplicability being some difference of an immaterial character. See also Legal fiction."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 623]

Franchise rights are what we call “public rights” throughout our writings. Those human beings who have no “public rights” possess only “private rights” created and OWNED by God. These PRIVATE rights, in turn are protected by the Constitution and the common law and exist even among those who have no civil statutory “status”. PRIVATE rights attach to the LAND you stand on and not your “civil status”, and are inalienable, meaning that they CANNOT lawfully be given away, even WITH your consent.

“Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred.”
[Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1693]

Terms related to “civil death” include the following:

1. “Civil law”

“Civil death (Latin: civiliter mortuus)<sup>[1]</sup> is the loss of all or almost all civil rights by a person due to a conviction for a felony or due to an act by the government of a country that results in the loss of civil rights. It is usually inflicted on persons convicted of crimes against the state or adults determined by a court to be legally incompetent because of mental disability.<sup>[2]</sup>

In medieval Europe, felons lost all civil rights upon their conviction. This civil death often led to actual death, since anyone could kill and injure a felon with impunity.<sup>[3]</sup> Under the Holy Roman Empire, a person declared civilly dead was referred to as vogelfrei, ‘free as a bird’, and could even be killed since they were completely outside the law.<sup>[4]</sup>

Historically outlawry, that is, declaring a person as an outlaw, was a common form of civil death.<sup>[4]</sup>

In the US, the disenfranchisement of felons<sup>[5]</sup> has been called a form of civil death, as has being subjected to collateral consequences in general.<sup>[6]</sup>

SOURCE: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mortmain>]

5. “Outlaw”

Civil

There was also civil outlawry. Civil outlawry did not carry capital punishment with it, and it was imposed on defendants who fled or evaded justice when sued for civil actions like debts or torts. The punishments for civil outlawry were nevertheless harsh, including confiscation of chattels (movable property) left behind by the outlaw.<sup>[11]</sup>

In the civil context, outlawry became obsolescent in civil procedure by reforms that no longer required summoned defendants to appear and plead. Still, the possibility of being declared an outlaw for derelictions of civil duty continued to exist in English law until 1879 and in Scots law until the late 1940s. Since then, failure to find the defendant and serve process is usually interpreted in favour of the defendant, and harsh penalties for mere nonappearance (merely presumed flight to escape justice) no longer apply.

 [Wikipedia: Outlaw, downloaded 10/28/2015;

6. Felony disenfranchisement. Those convicted of felonies are considered “civilly dead”.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Felony\_disenfranchisement

An example of how “civil death” is created through either policy or law can be found on the California Franchise Tax Board Website. Tax Exempt Entities that fail to pay their taxes or fail to file annually with the Secretary of State are referred to as “FTB OR SOS SUSPENDED”, which simply means that their contracts and status cannot be defended in any court of law:

“Contract voidability

Contract voidability is defined as when a suspended or forfeited business entity loses the right to enforce its legal contracts. If a business enters into a contract while suspended or forfeited and then revives its active legal status, the business cannot enforce that contract unless it gets relief from contract voidability (RCV).

For more information regarding RCV, see “Why would I need relief from contract voidability \(RCV\)?”
 [Suspended Exempt Entities, California FTB, Downloaded 10/29/2015;
 SOURCE: https://www.ftb.ca.gov/businesses/Exempt\_organizations/Suspended.shtml]

The “suspension” they are talking about above is unilateral and involuntary suspension of all rights of the entity described by the GOVERNMENT. Clearly, the above type of suspension is a direct interference with the right and power to contract, and governments are CREATED to protect and enforce your right to contract. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution. Hence, the above entity must not be protected by the Constitution and therefore, must be on federal territory not within the limits of a constitutional state. Otherwise, “civil death” for nonpayment of taxes would be unconstitutional because it “impairs private contracts”. The “law” that is used to defend the contracts in this case would have to be statute law rather than contract law, which is voluntary and avoidable. If the above suspension also impaired the right to defend contracts under the COMMON LAW rather than statute law for a PRIVATE, non-corporate or non-public entity, then it would clearly be unconstitutional.

If the government can implement “civil death” as a way to enforce public policy or tax enforcement, then certainly we can and should be able to do it as well against them. This is a requirement of equal protection and equal treatment that is the foundation of the United States Constitution.

In most cases, courts will simply refer to “non-resident non-persons” as “nonresidents”. An entire book below has been written about legal remedies available to “nonresidents”.

5.6.13.2.3 Simplified summary of taxation as a franchise/excise tax

“The essence of genius is simplicity.”
 [Albert Einstein]

A simple but accurate way to view the Non-Resident Non-Person Position is as follows:

1. One can only have a “status” under the civil statutory laws of a specific jurisdiction by having a domicile within that jurisdiction as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) . See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Those without a domicile on federal territory have no civil status under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C, and therefore are incapable of acquiring any of the following statutory statuses under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C except possibly through their express consent:
  - 2.1. “individual”.
  - 2.2. “person”.
  - 2.3. “alien”.

1 2.4. "nonresident alien".

2 2.5. "taxpayer".

3 For further details on this subject, see:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4 3. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate, tax, or burden PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is 5 repugnant to the Constitution. Therefore, all of the above "statuses" are:

6 3.1. Public property.

7 3.2. Public offices.

8 3.3. Publici juris.

9 3.4. Instrumentalities of the government and not private, non-consenting human beings.

10 3.5. Property of the national government under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution.

11 For proof of the above, see:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

12 4. The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C is a franchise and excise tax. That franchise is called a statutory 13 "trade or business", which is legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office".

14 4.1. All franchises are legally defined as contracts or agreements that acquire the "force of law" only by consent of 15 BOTH parties to the contract or agreement. Those who have not manifested consent to the compact or contract
 16 are "non-residents" and "non-persons" not subject to its provisions.

17 4.2. Still protected by the Constitution while at the same time NOT protected by any act of Congress.

18 5. Within the I.R.C. franchise agreement, the statutory "taxpayer" is the PUBLIC OFFICE and NOT the PRIVATE 19 human being or artificial entity CONSENSUALLY FILLING said office. CONSENSUALLY applying for identifying 20 numbers (TIN/SSN) AND CONSENSUALLY USING them in connection with specific otherwise PRIVATE activities 21 is the method of:

22 5.1. Consenting to receive the "benefits" of a government franchise.

23 5.2. Waiving sovereign immunity.

24 5.3. Connecting a PRIVATE PERSON to a specific PUBLIC OFFICE.

25 5.4. Donating otherwise PRIVATE property to a public use, public purpose, and public office in the national and not 26 state government.

27 5.5. Exercising your right to contract, because all franchises are contracts or agreements.

28 The partnership between the otherwise PRIVATE human being and the PUBLIC OFFICE which is established by the 29 above method is THE ONLY "partnership" meant in the legal definition of "person" found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and
 30 26 U.S.C. §7343.

31 6. Only earnings of otherwise PRIVATE parties VOLUNTARILY connected with the franchise and thereby "donated to 32 a public use" are called "income" and "gross income" and are reportable and taxable.<sup>260</sup> Earnings must be "reportable"
 33 before they can be taxable, and 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) says that only earnings connected with the "trade or business"
 34 franchise are reportable. Earnings are "trade or business" earnings either DIRECTLY or INDIRECTLY, but both 35 classes are reportable using information returns such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099:

36 6.1. Directly connected: Earnings connected with a "trade or business" under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) .

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter J > PART 1 > Subpart A > § 643
§ 643. Definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D

(b) Income

For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term "income", when not preceded by the words "taxable", "distributable net", "undistributed net", or "gross", means the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law. Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law shall not be considered income.

Do you see a natural being mentioned above? Only trusts and executors for dead people, both of whom are transferees or fiduciaries for "taxpayers", meaning the government, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6901 and 26 U.S.C. §6903 respectively. These transferees and fiduciaries are all "public officers" of the government. The office is the "straw man" and you are surety for the office if you fill out tax forms connecting your name to the office or allow others to do so and don't rebut them.

6.2. Indirectly connected: Earnings originating from the statutory “United States”, meaning the GOVERNMENT and not a geographic place as described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) . These earnings are called “effectively connected income” and also qualify as “trade or business” earnings as described in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3).

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART 1 > § 864
§ 864. Definitions and special rules

(c) Effectively connected income, etc.

(3) Other income from sources within United States

All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

7. The franchise agreement has two classes of participants, all of whom are public officers and are collectively called statutory “persons” or “individuals”:

7.1. Full Time Participants: Called statutory “U.S. persons” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) , all of whom are instrumentalities and offices within the government and who represent a federal corporation as public officers all the time and in every context. Includes “residents” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B) and “U.S. citizens” mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §911. A resident is an “alien” representing the United States government full time as a public officer. The “United States” is a corporation per 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) , and those representing said corporation as public officers are “persons” per 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. Note that statutory “U.S. citizens” (per 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) ) are NOT statutory “residents” unless they are abroad and come under a tax treaty with a foreign country per 26 U.S.C. §911.

7.2. Part Time Participants: Participants called “Nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS”. These parties only exercise agency of a public office through certain specific transactions and situations. Only earnings connected with identifying numbers and reported on IRS Information Returns, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099 are taxable. Use of the identifying number is prima facie evidence of participation in the activity per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) . Every place in the I.R.C. where obligations are associated with nonresident aliens is always associated with statutory but not common law “individuals”. Hence, those who are NOT statutory “individuals” or statutory “persons” are NOT SUBJECT but also not statutorily “EXEMPT”. An “exempt” person is someone who is a “person” or “individual” but who has a statutory exclusion for certain purposes. Those NOT SUBJECT are neither “persons” nor “individuals”.

8. Those not subject at all to the “trade or business” franchise are called:

8.1. Non-resident NON-persons or NON-individuals.

8.2. Transient foreigners.

8.3. Transients.

8.4. Foreigners.

8.5. Strangers (in the Holy Bible).

8.6. PRIVATE human beings or PRIVATE persons.

An example of a human who is NOT SUBJECT but also not statutorily “EXEMPT” is a human domiciled in a foreign country or state of the Union who is not lawfully engaged in a public office in the U.S. government AND who has no earnings from the U.S. government that could be treated as indirectly connected or “effectively connected” with the “trade or business” franchise within the U.S. government.

9. Why are EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings and artificial entities not subject but also not statutorily “EXEMPT” from the I.R.C. Subtitles A and C franchise? Because:

9.1. The ability to regulate PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the CONSTITUTION, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

“The power to “legislate generally upon” life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the “power to provide modes of redress” against offensive state action, was “repugnant” to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress’ §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”
[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

9.2. A “citizen” is someone who exercises their First Amendment Constitutional right to associate by

VOLUNTARILY consenting to join a political community. That consent is manifested by:

9.2.1. PHYSICALLY taking up a presence there AND

9.2.2. Expressly consenting to become a LEGAL member of that society by choosing a DOMICILE or RESIDENCE there.

The act of choice manifested as described above makes the otherwise EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human being into a consenting party to the social compact and associates them with the statutory status of "citizen" or "resident" under the CIVIL statutory laws of the place they associate with.

9.3. The statutory status of "citizen" or "resident" is associated with certain PUBLIC RIGHTS or PRIVILEGES, that cause the associating party to lose SOME of their otherwise EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE character. This conversion of PRIVATE RIGHTS into PUBLIC RIGHTS is described as follows:

*When one becomes a member of society [by choosing a legal DOMICILE within it], he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private. Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non laedas. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty, . . . that is to say, . . . the power to govern men and things."*

[Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876),

SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6419197193322400931]

9.4. The First Amendment protects your right NOT to associate, even in the case of those who are NOT statutory "citizens" or "residents". Hence, no one can force you to become a "citizen" or "resident" of a specific place within the country of your birth. Only in the case of those born in another country can they force anyone. Those who are in a foreign country other than that of their birth are constitutional aliens, and they can be deported if they don't get naturalized and do not have permission from the government to be there. Those who are STATUTORY aliens but CONSTITUTIONAL citizens CANNOT be deported or lawfully denied the right to work as EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings.

10. Any so-called "government" that refuses to recognize one's constitutional right to remain EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the CIVIL statutory jurisdiction of a specific government is:

10.1. Accomplishing a purpose OPPOSITE that for which governments are established. All governments, according to the Declaration of Independence, are instituted to protect PRIVATE rights. The FIRST step in protecting PRIVATE rights is for the government so established to PREVENT such PRIVATE rights from being converted to PUBLIC rights/franchises WITHOUT the EXPRESS and CONTINUING consent of the owner of the right. A so-called "government" that refuses to satisfy the MAIN purpose of its creation, the ONLY purpose in fact, is not a government but a terrorist mafia and private corporation that implicitly waives official, judicial, and sovereign immunity and consents to suit as a private party.

"The rights of individuals and the justice due to them, are as dear and precious as those of states. Indeed the latter are founded upon the former; and the great end and object of them must be to secure and support the rights of individuals, or else vain is government."

[Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. (2 Dall.) 419, 1 L.Ed. 440 (1793)]

10.2. A de facto government. See:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

10.3. Violating your right to contract. The "social compact" as well as all franchises are contracts. Anyone who forces you to be subject to the civil aspects of either is compelling you to contract and thereby violating your right to contract or NOT contract.

10.4. A "mafia protection racket" and organized crime syndicate, in which illegally enforced franchises imposed against non-consenting parties by corrupt judges are the method of "organizing" the syndicate. A government established mainly to provide "protection" that refuses to protect you from its OWN abuses and criminal acts certainly doesn't deserve to be hired or to have the authority to protect you against ANYONE ELSE. Why? Because the main purpose of the Constitution is to protect the right to be LEFT ALONE, and a government that refuses to leave you alone unless you pay them bribes and go to work for them for free, is NO GOVERNMENT AT ALL, but a haven for financial terrorists:

1 "The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They
 2 recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a
 3 part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect
 4 Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the
 5 Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized
 6 men."

7 Olmstead v. United States, [277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper,
 8 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

9 Consistent with the above, earlier versions of the Treasury Regulations told the truth plainly on this subject. So plainly, in 10 fact, that they had to be repealed and replaced with something that hid the truth because it was too difficult for the IRS to 11 avoid. Notice that they try to deceptively qualify the parties they are talking about to include foreign corporations or 12 partnerships, but in fact, these are the ONLY "persons" within the I.R.C., as revealed by the definition of "person" in 26
 13 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343:

14 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

15 A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during 16 the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the
 17 law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A
 18 domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the
 19 United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the 20 regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade
 21 or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or
 22 business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a
 23 partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a
 24 partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its 25 members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

28 5.6.13.2.4 Who is the "taxpayer" and therefore "nonresident"?

29 Throughout this document, we proceed upon the following proven facts as the basis for discussion:

- 30 1. The statutory "taxpayer" is:
  - 31 1.1. A creation of Congress OWNED by Congress. Congress can only tax or regulate what it creates and it owns 32 whatever it creates.
  - 33 1.2. Not a human being or physical thing.
  - 34 1.3. An artificial entity, juristic person, and legal fiction.
  - 35 1.4. Defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office in the government and NOT a human being. This office is 36 what is called a "straw man". See:

37 Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form
 #05.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 38 1.5. Not a "citizen" or "resident" or "person" within the meaning of the Constitution.

39 "Citizens of the United States within the meaning of this Amendment must be natural and not artificial persons; a corporate body is not a citizen of the United States."<sup>14</sup>

40
 41 <sup>14</sup> Insurance Co. v. New Orleans, 13 Fed.Cas. 67 (C.C.D.La. 1870). Not being citizens of the United States,
 42 corporations accordingly have been declared unable "to claim the protection of that clause of the Fourteenth
 43 Amendment which secures the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States against abridgment or 44 impairment by the law of a State." Orient Ins. Co. v. Daggs, 172 U.S. 557, 561 (1869). This conclusion was in
 45 harmony with the earlier holding in Paul v. Virginia, 75 U.S. (8 Wall.) 168 (1869), to the effect that corporations
 46 were not within the scope of the privileges and immunities clause of state citizenship set out in Article IV, Sec. 2.

2. The statutory “taxpayer” becomes connected to a specific human being through an act of consent by that human being. That consent is culminated in a LAWFUL election or appointment to public office. At the point of consent and subsequent election or appointment, they become a public officer and surety for the acts of the office they consent to represent.
3. You cannot unilaterally “elect” or “appoint” yourself in to public office by filling out any government form.
4. The statutory “taxpayer” public office and the PUBLIC OFFICER can have two separate and completely different domiciles or residences.
5. A nonresident PUBLIC OFFICER can represent a RESIDENT OFFICE and “taxpayer”. If collection notices are mailed to humans, then these humans are presumed to act essentially as a “resident agent” for the public office they represent.
6. A “nonresident alien individual” and statutory “taxpayer” is described in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1)(i).

Title 26: Internal Revenue

PART 1—INCOME TAXES

nonresident alien individuals

§ 1.871-1 Classification and manner of taxing alien individuals.

(b) Classes of nonresident aliens —

(1) In general. For purposes of the income tax, nonresident alien individuals are divided into the following three classes:

(i) Nonresident alien individuals who at no time during the taxable year are engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

(ii) Nonresident alien individuals who at any time during the taxable year are, or are deemed under §1.871-9 to be, engaged in a trade or business in the United States, and

(iii) Nonresident alien individuals who are bona fide residents of Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year.

An individual described in subdivision (i) or (ii) of this subparagraph is subject to tax pursuant to the provisions of subpart A (section 871 and following), part II, subchapter N, chapter 1 of the Code, and the regulations thereunder. See §§1.871-7 and 1.871-8. The provisions of subpart A do not apply to individuals described in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph, but such individuals, except as provided in section 933 with respect to Puerto Rican source income, are subject to the tax imposed by section 1 or section 1201(b). See §1.876-1.

7. If a human has not expressly consented to the “taxpayer” status or to represent said “taxpayer” public office, then they are:
  - 7.1. NOT a statutory “taxpayer” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14).
  - 7.2. NOT a statutory “person” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(c), and 26 U.S.C. §§6671(b) and 7343.
  - 7.3. NOT a statutory “individual” per 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
  - 7.4. NOT a statutory “nonresident alien individual” per 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1) .
  - 7.5. Not subject to the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code.
  - 7.6. Not subject to the legislative jurisdiction of Congress if within a Constitutional state of the Union.
  - 7.7. Protected ONLY by the U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the common law, all of which may be enforced WITHOUT supporting legislation because they are “self-executing”.
  - 7.8. Criminally impersonating a public office in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 if they either exercise the functions of a “taxpayer” or have any part of the civil statutory law enforced by the government against them.
8. If a PRIVATE human is compelled to do any of the following, then they are a victim of involuntary servitude, theft, and slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and are criminally impersonating a public office in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
  - 8.1. Compelled to fulfill the duties of a public office, including being compelled to file a tax return.
  - 8.2. Becomes surety for the public office and/or tax collection directed at the office.
  - 8.3. Does not receive compensation that they and not the government determine for fulfilling the duties of the office.
  - 8.4. Is prevented from quitting the office or invalidating evidence that they occupy the office.
  - 8.5. Is compelled to use government PUBLIC property in connection with an otherwise PRIVATE business transaction, such as a Social Security Number, a Taxpayer Identification Number, etc. These numbers function as de facto license numbers to represent a public office. All uses of such property connect PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property and therefore result in a CONVERSION of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property WITHOUT the consent of the owner.

9. If the human abandons the public office, the “taxpayer” fiction is legally dead and must go through probate. That is why when the IRS collects the tax, they call it a “1040 tax” on their collection notices, meaning it is described NOT on IRS FORM 1040, but in SECTION 1040 of the Internal Revenue Code. See:

How the IRS Traps You Into Liability by Making You a Fiduciary for a Dead “Straw Man”, Family Guardian Fellowship

5.6.13.2.5 Divorcing the “state”: Persons with no domicile, who create their own “state”, or a domicile in the Kingdom of Heaven

If we divorce the society where we were born, do not abandon our nationality and allegiance to the state of our birth, but then choose a domicile in a place other than where we physically live and which is outside of any government that might have jurisdiction in the place where we live, then we become “transient foreigners” and “de facto stateless persons” in relation to the government of the place we occupy.

“Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining.”
 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

A “de facto stateless person” is anyone who is not entitled to claim the protection or aid of the government in the place where they live:

Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS)
 RS 02640.040 Stateless Persons

A. DEFINITIONS

[. . .]

DE FACTO—Persons who have left the country of which they were nationals and no longer enjoy its protection and assistance. They are usually political refugees. They are legally citizens of a country because its laws do not permit denaturalization or only permit it with the country’s approval.

[. . .]

2. De Facto Status

Assume an individual is de facto stateless if he/she:

a. says he/she is stateless but cannot establish he/she is de jure stateless; and

b. establishes that:

- he/she has taken up residence [chosen a legal domicile] outside the country of his/her nationality;
- there has been an event which is hostile to him/her, such as a sudden or radical change in the government, in the country of nationality; and

NOTE: In determining whether an event was hostile to the individual, it is sufficient to show the individual had reason to believe it would be hostile to him/her.

- he/she renounces, in a sworn statement, the protection and assistance of the government of the country of which he/she is a national and declares he/she is stateless. The statement must be sworn to before an individual legally authorized to administer oaths and the original statement must be submitted to SSA.

De facto [stateless] status stays in effect only as long as the conditions in b. continue to exist. If, for example, the individual returns [changes their domicile back] to his/her country of nationality, de facto statelessness ends. [SOURCE: Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS), Section RS 02650.040 entitled "Stateless Persons" <https://s044a90.ssa.gov/apps10/poms.nsf/lnx/0302640040/>]

Notice the key attribute of a "de facto stateless person" is that they have abandoned the protection of their government because they believe it is hostile to him or her and is not only not protective, but is even injurious. Below is how the Supreme Court describes such persons:

*The writers upon the law of nations distinguish between a temporary residence in a foreign country for a special purpose and a residence accompanied with an intention to make it a permanent place of abode. The latter is styled by Vattel [in his book The Law of Nations as] "domicile," which he defines to be "a habitation fixed in any place, with an intention of always staying there." Such a person, says this author, becomes a member of the new society at least as a permanent inhabitant, and is a kind of citizen of the inferior order from the native citizens, but is, nevertheless, united and subject to the society, without participating in all its advantages. This right of domicile, he continues, is not established unless the person makes sufficiently known his intention of fixing there, either tacitly or by an express declaration. Vatt. Law Nat. pp. 92, 93. Grotius nowhere uses the word "domicile," but he also distinguishes between those who stay in a foreign country by the necessity of their affairs, or from any other temporary cause, and those who reside there from a permanent cause. The former he denominates "strangers," and the latter, "subjects." The rule is thus laid down by Sir Robert Phillimore:*

There is a class of persons which cannot be, strictly speaking, included in either of these denominations of naturalized or native citizens, namely, the class of those who have ceased to reside [maintain a domicile] in their native country, and have taken up a permanent abode in another. These are domiciled inhabitants. They have not put on a new citizenship through some formal mode enjoined by the law or the new country. They are de facto, though not de jure, citizens of the country of their [new chosen] domicile. [Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U.S. 698 (1893)]

We must remember that in America, the People, and not our public servants, are the Sovereigns. We The People, who are the Sovereigns, choose our associations and govern ourselves through our elected representatives.

"The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens,' are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty. ..." [Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]*

When those representatives cease to have our best interests or protection in mind, then we have not only a moral right, but a duty, according to our Declaration of Independence, 1776, to alter our form of self-government by whatever means necessary to guarantee our future security.

"But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security." [Declaration of Independence]*

The lawful and most peaceful means of altering that form of government is simply to do one of the following:

1. Form our own self-government based on the de jure constitution and change our domicile to it. See: Self Government Federation: Articles of Confederation, Form #13.002
2. Choose an existing government or country that is already available elsewhere on the planet as our protector.
3. Choose a domicile in a place that doesn't have a government. For instance, choose a domicile somewhere you have been in the past that doesn't have a government. For example, if you have legal evidence that you took a cruise, then choose your domicile in the middle of the ocean somewhere where the ship went.

4. Use God's laws as the basis for your own self-government and protection, as suggested in this book.

By doing one of the above, we are “firing” our local servants in government because they are not doing their job of protection adequately, and when we do this, we cease to have any obligation to pay for their services through taxation and they cease to have any obligation to provide any services. If we choose God and His laws as our form of government, then we choose Heaven as our domicile and our place of primary allegiance and protection. We then become:

1. “citizens of Heaven”.
2. “nationals but not citizens” of the country in which we live.
3. Transient foreigners.
4. Ambassadors and ministers of a foreign state called Heaven.

Below is how one early state court described the absolute right to “divorce the state” by choosing a domicile in a place other than where we physically are at the time:

“When a change of government takes place, from a monarchial to a republican government, the old form is dissolved. Those who lived under it, and did not choose to become members of the new, had a right to refuse their allegiance to it, and to retire elsewhere. By being a part of the society subject to the old government, they had not entered into any engagement to become subject to any new form the majority might think proper to adopt. That the majority shall prevail is a rule posterior to the formation of government, and results from it. It is not a rule upon mankind in their natural state. There, every man is independent of all laws, except those prescribed by nature. He is not bound by any institutions formed by his fellowmen without his consent”
[Cruden v. Neale, 2 N.C., 2 S.E. 70 (1796)]

How do we officially and formally notify the “state” that we have made a conscious decision to legally divorce it by moving our domicile outside its jurisdiction? That process is documented in the references below:

1. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Step 3.13: Correct Government Records documenting your citizenship status. Available free at:
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Instructions/3.13ChangeUSCitizenshipStatus.htm>
2. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, Section 4.5.3.13. Same as the above item. Available free at:
<http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Ebooks/SovFormsInstr/SovFormsInstr.htm>
3. By sending in the Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States. See:
Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
4. After accomplishing either of the above items, which are the same, making sure that all future government forms we fill out properly and accurately describe both our domicile and our citizenship status.
5. By making sure that at all times, we use the proper words to describe our status so that we don't create false presumptions that might cause the government to believe we are “residents” with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory):
  - 5.1. Do not describe ourselves with the following words:
    - 5.1.1. “individual” as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
    - 5.1.2. “taxpayer” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14).
    - 5.1.3. “U.S. person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) .
    - 5.1.4. “resident” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
    - 5.1.5. “alien”
  - 5.2. Describe ourselves with the following words and phrases:
    - 5.2.1. “nontaxpayer” not subject to the Internal Revenue Code. See:
      - 5.2.1.1. “Taxpayer” v. “Nontaxpayer”, Which One Are You?:
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm>
      - 5.2.1.2. Your Rights as a “nontaxpayer”, item 5.8
<http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm>
    - 5.2.2. “nonresident alien” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) IF AND ONLY IF you are engaged in a public office. Otherwise you are a “non-resident non-person” or “transient foreigner”.
    - 5.2.3. The type of “nonresident alien” defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1)(i) ONLY IF YOU ARE ENGAGED IN A PUBLIC OFFICE. Otherwise, there is no regulation that describes your status.
    - 5.2.4. “national” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), but not “citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. This person is also described in 8 U.S.C. §1452, but only in the case of those born within U.S. possessions.
    - 5.2.5. Not engaged in a “trade or business” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

- 1 5.2.6. Have not made any “elections” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B), 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h), or 26 C.F.R.
 2 §1.871-1(a).
 3 5.2.7. A “stateless person” who does not satisfy any of the criteria for diversity of citizenship described in 28 U.S.C.
 4 §1332 and who therefore cannot be sued in federal court. See Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S.
 5 826 \(1989\) :

6 “In order to be a citizen of a State within the meaning of the diversity statute, a natural person must both be a
 7 citizen of the United States and be domiciled within the State. See Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 646, 648-649
 8 (1878); Brown v. Keene, 8 Pet. 112, 115 (1834). The problem in this case is that Bettison, although a United
 9 States citizen, has no domicile in any State. He is therefore “stateless” for purposes of § 1332(a)(3). Subsection
 10 1332(a)(2), which confers jurisdiction in the District Court when a citizen of a State sues aliens only, also could 11 not be satisfied because Bettison is a United States citizen. [490 U.S. 829]”
 12 [\[Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 \(1989\)\]](#)

13 We emphasize that it isn't one's citizenship but one's choice of legal “domicile” that makes one sovereign and a
 14 “nontaxpayer”. The way we describe our citizenship status is affected by and a result of our choice of legal “domicile”, but 15 changing one's citizenship status is not the nexus for becoming either a “sovereign” or a “nontaxpayer”.

16 The only legal requirement for changing our domicile is that we must reside on the territory of the sovereign to whom we
 17 claim allegiance, and must intend to make membership in the community established by the sovereign permanent. In this
 18 context, the Bible reminds us that the Earth was created by and owned by our Sovereign, who is God, and that those vain
 19 politicians who claim to “own” or control it are simply “stewards” over what actually belongs to God alone. To wit:

20 The heavens are Yours [God's], the earth also is Yours;
 21 The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
 22 The north and the south, You have created them;
 23 Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
 24 You have a mighty arm;
 25 Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.”
 26 [\[Psalm 89:11-13, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

27
 28 “I have made the earth,
 29 And created man on it.
 30 I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
 31 And all their host I have commanded.”
 32 [\[Isaiah 45:12, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

33
 34 “Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the Lord your God, also the earth with all that is in it.”
 35 [\[Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

36 Some misguided Christians will try to quote Jesus, when He said of taxes the following in relation to “domicile”:

37 “Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.”
 38 [\[Matt. 22:15-22, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

39 However, based on the scriptures above, which identify God as the owner of the Earth and the Heavens, we must ask ourself:

40 “What is left that belongs to Caesar if EVERYTHING belongs to God?”

41 The answer is NOTHING, except that which he STEALS from the Sovereign People and which they don't force him to 42 return. Jesus knew this, but he gave a very indirect answer to keep Himself out of trouble when asked about taxes in the 43 passage above. Therefore, when we elect or consent to change our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven, we are acknowledging
 44 the Truth and the Authority of the Scripture and Holy Law above and the sovereignty of the Lord in the practical affairs of 45 our daily lives. We are acknowledging our stewardship over what ultimately and permanently belongs ONLY to Him, and 46 not to any man. Governments and civilizations come and go, but God's immutable laws are eternal. To NOT do this as a
 47 Christian amounts to mutiny against God. Either we honor the first four commandments of the Ten Commandments by doing
 48 this, or we will be dethroned as His Sovereigns and Stewards on earth.

49 “Because you [Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived] have done this , and have not kept My covenant and
 50 My statutes [violated God's laws], which I have commanded you, I will surely tear the kingdom [and all your 51 sovereignty] away from you and give it to your [public] servant.”

[1 Kings 11:9-13, Bible, NKJV]

By legally and civilly divorcing the “state” in changing our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven or to someplace on earth where there is not man-made government, we must consent to be governed exclusively by God’s laws and express our unflinching allegiance to Him as the source of everything we have and everything that we are. In doing so we:

1. Are following God’s mandate not to serve foreign gods, laws, or civil rulers.

“You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”

[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

2. Escape the constraints of earthly civil statutory law. This type of law is law exclusively for government and public officers, so in a sense we are abandoning civil government, any duties under it, and any privileges, public rights, or “benefits” that it conveys based on our civil “status” under it. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3. Cease to be a statutory “citizen”, “resident”, or “inhabitant”. Instead we become transient foreigners and nonresidents under the civil statutory law.

4. Retain the protections of the Constitution and the common law for our natural rights.

5. Retain the protections of the criminal law. These laws are enforced whether we consent or not.

6. Are not “lawless” or an anarchist in a legal sense, because we are still subject to God’s law, the common law, and the criminal law.

7. Protect and retain our equality, sovereignty, and dignity in relation to every other person under the civil law. The Declaration of Independence calls this our “separate and equal station”.

The above is the nirvana described by the Apostle Paul when he very insightfully said of this process of submission to God the following:

“But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man’s law].”
[Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

The tendency of early Christians to do the above was precisely the reason why the Romans persecuted the Christians when Christianity was in its infancy: It led to anarchy because Christians, like the Israelites, refused to be governed by anything but God’s laws:

“Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, “There is a certain people [the Jews, who today are the equivalent of Christians] scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from all other people’s [because they are God’s laws!], and they do not keep the king’s [unjust] laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it into the king’s treasuries.”

[Esther 3:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

Christians who are doing and following the will of God are “anarchists”. An anarchist is simply anyone who refuses to have an earthly ruler and who instead insists on either self-government or a theocracy in which God, whichever God you believe in, is our only King, Ruler, Lawgiver and Judge:

“For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Lawgiver, The Lord is our King; He will save us.”

1 Christians who are doing the will of God by changing their domicile to Heaven and divorcing the “state” are likely to be
2 persecuted by the government and privileged I.R.C. 501(c)(3) corporate churches just as Jesus was because of their anarchistic
3 tendencies because they render organized government irrelevant and unnecessary:

4 “If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world would
5 *love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates
6 you. Remember the word that I said to you, ‘A servant is not greater than his master.’ If they persecuted Me,
7 they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do**
8 to you for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. If I had not come and spoken to 9 them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. He who hates me hated My father
10 also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they 11 have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is 12 written in their law, ‘They hated Me without a cause.’”
13 [John 15:18-25, Bible, NKJV]

14 Being “chosen out of the world” simply means, in legal terms, that we do not have a domicile here and are “transient 15 foreigners”.

16 Those who do choose God as their sole source of law and civil (not criminal) government:

- 17 1. Become a “foreign government” in respect to the United States government and all other governments.
- 18 2. Are committing themselves to the ultimate First Amendment protected religious practice, which is that of adopting God
- 19 and His sovereign laws as their only form of self-government.
- 20 3. Are taking the ultimate step in personal responsibility, by assuming responsibility for every aspect of their lives by
- 21 divorcing the state and abandoning all government franchises:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 22 4. Effectively become their own self-government and fire the government where they live in the context of all civil matters.
- 23 5. Are protected by the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act \(F.S.I.A.\), 28 U.S.C. Part IV, Chapter 97.
- 24 6. Are protected by the Minimum Contacts Doctrine and therefore exempt from the jurisdiction of federal and state courts
- 25 except as they satisfy the provisions of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act or the “Longarm Statute” passed by the
- 26 state where they temporarily inhabit.
- 27 7. Are internationally protected persons pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §112.
- 28 8. Are on an equal footing with any other nation and may therefore assert sovereign immunity in any proceeding against
- 29 the government. This implies that:
  - 30 8.1. Any attempt to drag you into court by a government must be accompanied by proof that you consented in writing
  - 31 to the jurisdiction of the government attempting to sue you. Such consent becomes the basis for satisfying the
  - 32 criteria within the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act \(F.S.I.A.\), 28 U.S.C. Part IV, Chapter 97.
  - 33 8.2. You may use the same defense as the government in proving a valid contractual obligation, by showing the
  - 34 government the delegation of authority order constraining your delegated authority as God’s “public officer”.
  - 35 Anything another government alleges you consented in writing to must be consistent with the delegation of
  - 36 authority order or else none of the rights accrued to them are defensible in court. In this sense, you are using the
  - 37 same lame excuse they use for getting out of any obligations that you consented to, but were not authorized to
  - 38 engage in by the Holy Bible. This is explained in the document below:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 39 9. Become ministers, ambassadors, “employees”, “public officers”, and officers of a foreign state called Heaven.
- 40 10. May not simultaneously act as “public officers” for any other foreign government, which would represent a conflict of
- 41 interest.

42 “No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other,
43 or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”
44 [Matt 6:24, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

- 45 11. Are expressly exempt from taxation pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §892\(a\)\(1\).

- 1 12. May file IRS Form W-8EXP as a nonresident alien and exempt all of their earnings from federal and state income
2 taxation.
3 13. May use IRS Publication 515 to control their withholding as nonresident aliens if engaged in a public office, or must 4 modify all existing forms if not engaged in a public office.

5 The other very interesting consequences of the above status which makes it especially appealing are the following:

- 6 1. Nowhere in the Internal Revenue Code are any of the following terms defined: “foreign”, “foreign government”,
7 “government”. Therefore, it would be impossible for the IRS to prove that you aren't a “foreign government”.
8 2. The most important goal of the Constitutional Convention, and the reasons for the adoption of the Ninth and Tenth
9 Amendment to the United States Constitution was to preserve as much self-government to the people and the states as 10 possible. Any attempt to compel anyone to become a “subject” or accept more government than they need therefore 11 violates the legislative intent of the United States Constitution.

12 The determination of the Framers Convention and the ratifying conventions to preserve complete and 13 unimpaired state self-government in all matters not committed to the general government is one of the plainest
14 facts which emerges from the history of their deliberations. And adherence to that determination is incumbent
15 equally upon the federal government and the states. State powers can neither be appropriated on the one hand
16 nor abdicated on the other. As this court said in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, 'The preservation of the 17 States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the Constitution
18 as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government. The Constitution, in all its 19 provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States.' Every journey to a forbidden end
20 begins with the first step; and the danger of such a step by the federal government in the direction of taking over 21 the powers of the states is that the end of the journey may find the states so despoiled of their powers, or-what 22 may amount to the same thing-so [298 U.S. 238, 296] relieved of the responsibilities which possession of the 23 powers necessarily enjoins, as to reduce them to little more than geographical subdivisions of the national 24 domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under consideration, it had been thought that any such 25 danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been ratified.

26 And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law-the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom
27 under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and 28 sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial 29 agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The 30 Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand their import is not rationally possible.
31 'We the People of the United States,' it says, 'do ordain and establish this Constitution.' Ordain and establish!
32 These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character
33 of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided
34 explicitly-'This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ...
35 shall be the supreme Law of the Land.' (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus 36 declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is 37 not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal,
38 clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required
39 to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must 40 apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat-[298 U.S. 238, 297] ute whenever the two conflict. In the 41 discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great 42 weight, Adkins v. Children's Hospital, 261 U.S. 525, 544, 43 S.Ct. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the 43 court's opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry.
44 Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 550 S., 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947.
45 [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

- 46 3. If another government attempts to interfere with the affairs of your own foreign self-government, then they:
47 3.1. Are violating your First Amendment right to practice your religion by living under the laws of your God. This tort 48 is cognizable under the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B and constitutes a tort against 49 the foreign invader.
50 3.2. Are hypocrites, because they are depriving others equal right to the same authority that they themselves have. No
51 legitimate government can claim to be operating lawfully which interferes with the equal right of others to self-
52 government.
53 3.3. Are in a sense attempting to outlaw the ultimate form of personal responsibility, which is entirely governing your 54 own life and supporting yourself. The outlawing of personal responsibility and replacing or displacing it with 55 collective responsibility of the “state” can never be in the public interest, especially considering how badly our 56 present government mismanages and bankrupts nearly everything it puts its hands on.

57 5.6.13.2.6 How do “transient foreigners” and “nonresidents” protect themselves in state court?

1 Now that we understand the differences between those who have contracted to be protected, called "citizens", "residents",
 2 and "inhabitants", and those who have not, called "transient foreigners" or "nonresidents", the next issue we must deal with
 3 is to determine how those who are "nonresidents" or "transient foreigners" in relation to a specific state government can
 4 achieve a remedy for the protection of their rights in state court. It will interest the reader to learn that "transient foreigners"
 5 have the same constitutional protections for their rights as citizens or residents. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court said on 6 this subject. Those who are "transient foreigners" are STATUTORY "non-resident non-persons" in respect to the 7 governments identified in the cite below. The "aliens" they are talking about are foreign nationals born in foreign countries.

25 In order to get to the point where we can identify how remedies for constitutional rights violations are achieved, we must first
 26 describe the TWO types of jurisdictions that the state courts exercise, because it is mainly state courts where such rights
 27 violations would be vindicated. We don't have space here to cover all the nuances of this subject, but we will summarize 28 these differences and point you to more information if you want to look into it. There are two types of jurisdictions within 29 each state government:

- 30 1. The de jure republic under the Articles of Confederation called the "Republic of ____". This jurisdiction controls
 31 everything that happens on land protected by the Constitution. It protects EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property using 32 ONLY the common law and NOT civil law.
- 33 2. The federal corporation under the United States Constitution called the "State of ____". This jurisdiction handles 34 everything that deals with government agency, office, employment, "benefits", "public rights", and territory and it's 35 legislation is limited to those domiciled on federal territory or contracting with either the state or federal governments.
 36 Collectively, the subject of legislation aimed at this jurisdiction is the "public domain" or what the courts call "publici 37 juris".

Corporatization and Privatization of the Government, Form #05.024

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

39 In the above document, a table is provided comparing the two types of jurisdictions which we repeat here, extracted from 40 section 14.7. Understanding this table is important in determining how we achieve a remedy in a state court for an injury to 41 our constitutional PRIVATE rights.

| 24 | Civil jurisdiction originates from                                                                                                                       | Voluntary choice of domicile on the territory of the sovereign AND your consent. This means you must be a "citizen" or a "resident" BEFORE this type of law can be enforced against you.                                        | Your right to contract by signing up for government franchises/"benefits". Domicile/residence is a prerequisite but is often ILLEGALLY ignored as a matter of policy rather than law. |

1 When we say that we are a "transient foreigner" or "nonresident" within a court pleading or within this document, we must
2 be careful to define WHICH of the TWO jurisdictions above that status relates to in order to avoid ambiguity and avoid being
3 called "frivolous" by the courts. Within this document and elsewhere, the term "transient foreigner" or "nonresident" relates
4 to the jurisdiction in the right column above but NOT to the column on the left. You can be a "nonresident" of the Corporate
5 state on the right and yet at the same time ALSO be a "citizen" or "resident" of the Republic/De Jure State on the left above.
6 This distinction is critical. If you are at all confused by this distinction, we strongly suggest reading the Corporatization and
7 Privatization of the Government, Form #05.024 document referenced above so that the distinctions are clear.

8 The Corporate state on the right above enacts statutes that can and do only relate to those who are public entities (called 9 "publici juris") that are government instrumentalities, employees, officers, and franchisees of the government called
10 "corporations", all of whom are consensually associated with the government by virtue of exercising their right to contract
11 with the government. Technically speaking, all such statutes are franchises implemented using the civil law. This is explained
12 further in the following:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

13 The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is repugnant to the Constitution. Consequently,
14 the government cannot enact statutes or law of any kind that would regulate the conduct of private parties. Therefore, nearly 15 all civil statutes passed by any state or municipal government, and especially those relating to licensed activities, can and do
16 only relate to public and not private parties that are all officers of the government and not human beings. This is exhaustively
17 analyzed and proven in the following:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

18 We will now spend the rest of this section applying these concepts to how one might pursue a remedy for an injury to so-
19 called "right" within a state court by invoking the jurisdiction of the Republic/De Jure state on the left and avoiding the 20 jurisdiction of the Corporate state on the right.

21 Civil law attaches to one's voluntary choice of domicile/residence. Criminal law does not. De jure criminal law depends only 22 on physical presence on the territory of the sovereign and the commission of an injurious act against a fellow sovereign on
23 that territory. Laws like the vehicle code do have criminal provisions, but they are not de jure criminal law, but rather civil 24 law that attaches to the domicile/residence of the party within a franchise agreement, which is the "driver license" and all the 25 rights it confers to the government to regulate your actions as a "driver" domiciled in the Corporate state.

26 Within the forms and publications on this website there are two possible statuses that one may declare as a sovereign:

- 27 1. You are a transient foreigner and a citizen of ONLY the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. "My state" in this context means 28 the Holy Bible.
- 29 2. You are a state national with a domicile in the Republic/De Jure state but not the Corporate state. "My state" in this 30 context means the de jure state and excludes just about everything passed by the corporate state government, including
31 all franchises such as marriage licenses, income taxes, etc. Franchises cannot lawfully be implemented in the De Jure
32 State but can only occur in the Corporate State. The reason why franchises cannot lawfully be implemented in the De
33 Jure State is because rights are "unalienable" in the De Jure State, which means you aren't allowed to contract them
34 away to a real, de jure government.

35 Both of the above statuses have in common that those who declare themselves to be either cannot invoke the statutory law of 36 the Corporate State, but must invoke only the common law and the Constitution in their defense. There is tons of reference
37 material on the common law in the following:

Sovereignty and Freedom: Section 7, Self Government, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Freedom/Freedom.htm>

38 The following book even has sample pleadings for the main common law actions:

Handbook of Common Law Pleading, Second Edition, Benjamin Shipman, 1895
<http://books.google.com/books?id=7gk-AAAAIAAJ&printsec=titlepage>

1 Transient foreigners may not have a domicile or be subject to the civil laws in relation only to the place they have that status,
 2 but they don't need the civil laws to be protected. The Constitution attaches to the land, and not the status of the persons
 3 on that land.

4 "It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure,
 5 and not the status of the people who live in it."
 6 [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

7 The Constitution and the common law are the only thing one needs to protect oneself as a PRIVATE and not PUBLIC entity.
 8 That is why we place so much emphasis on the common law on this website. Englishman John Harris explains why in the 9 following wonderful video:

It's an Illusion, John Harris
<http://www.rinf.tv/video/john-harris-its-illusion>

10 Those who are believers AND transient foreigners but not "citizens", "residents" or "inhabitants" of either the Republic/De
 11 Jure State or the Corporate State DO in fact STILL have a state, which is the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth. That state has 12 all the elements necessary to be legitimate: territory, people, and laws. The territory is the Earth, which the Bible says
 13 belongs to the Lord and not Caesar. It has people, which are your fellow believers. The laws are itemized in the Holy Bible
 14 and enumerated below:

Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

15 In conclusion, those who are "transient foreigners" or "Nonresidents" in relation to the Corporate state can use the state court 16 for protection, but they must:

- 17 1. Be careful to define which of the two possible jurisdictions they are operating within using the documents referenced in 18 this section.
- 19 2. Avoid federal court. All federal circuit and district courts are Article IV territorial courts in the executive and not 20 judicial branch of the government that may only officiate over franchises. They are not Article III constitutional courts
 21 that may deal with rights protected by the constitution. This is exhaustively proven with thousands of pages of 22 evidence in:

What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
<http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Ebooks/WhatHappJustice/WhatHappJustice.htm>

- 23 3. Properly declare their status consistent with this document in their complaint. See the following forms as an example 24 how to do this:

- 25 3.1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

- 31 4. Respond to discovery relating to their status and standing with the following:

Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 32 5. Invoke the common law and not statutory law to be protected.
- 33 6. Be careful to educate the judge and the jury to prevent common injurious presumptions that would undermine their 34 status. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 35 7. Follow the rules of pleading and practice for the common law.
- 36 8. Ensure that those who sit on the jury have the same status as them by ensuring that those who are statutory "U.S.
 37 citizens" or franchise participants are excluded as having a financial conflict of interest.

5.6.13.2.7 Serving civil legal process on nonresidents is the crime of “simulating legal process”

Some freedom lovers try to form their own private courts or grand juries to try or indict offenses against their rights by actors within the de facto government. Such private courts are sometimes called:

1. Common law courts.
2. Ecclesiastical courts in the case of churches.
3. Franchise courts for the regulation of specific activities such as “driving”. This would include family courts, traffic courts, and social security administrative courts.

Those who convene such courts must be careful how they describe their activities to those outside the group, or the participants could be indicted for simulating legal process. Legal process served by these groups can be called by a number of different names, such as the following:

1. Non-statutory abatement.
2. Private Administrative Process (PAP).

Below is a definition of “simulating legal process”:

“A person commits the offense of simulating legal process if he or she “recklessly causes to be delivered to another any document that simulates a summons, complaint, judgment, or other court process with the intent to . . . cause another to submit to the putative authority of the document; or take any action or refrain from taking any action in response to the document, in compliance with the document, or on the basis of the document.”
[Texas Penal Code Annotated, § 32.48(a)(2)]

Therefore, those forming common law courts or ecclesiastical courts may not use the words “complaint”, “judgment”, “summons” when issuing documents to parties OUTSIDE the group of people who expressly consented to their jurisdiction. In other words, those who are not in the group or who are not “citizens” within whatever community they have formed, may not receive documents that are connected with any existing state or municipal court or which could be confused with such courts.

Below is one ruling by a Texas court relating to a “simulating legal process” charge against an ecclesiastical court:

Free Exercise of Religion

Government action may burden the free exercise of religion, in violation of the First Amendment,261[10] in two quite different ways: by interfering with a believer's ability to observe the commands or practices of his faith and by encroaching on the ability of a church to manage its internal affairs. Westbrook v. Penley, 231 S.W.3d. 389, 395 (Tex. 2007). In appellant's pro se motions, he refers to the “exercise of one's faith.” More specifically, he raised the issue of ecclesiastical abstention in the trial court and cites to cases concerning this doctrine on appeal. His arguments are directed at the trial court's jurisdiction over this matter, not the constitutionality of section 32.48. So, it appears the judiciary's exercise of jurisdiction over the matter, rather than the Legislature's enactment of section 32.48, is the target of his challenge. We, then, will address that aspect of the constitutional issue he now presents on appeal; we will determine whether the trial court's exercise of jurisdiction violated appellant's right to free exercise of religion by encroaching on the ability of his church to manage its internal affairs.

The Constitution forbids the government from interfering with the right of hierarchical religious bodies to establish their own internal rules and regulations and to create tribunals for adjudicating disputes over religious matters. See Serbian E. Orthodox Diocese v. Milivojevich, 426 U.S. 696, 708–09, 724–25, 96 S.Ct. 2372, 49 L.Ed.2d. 151 (1976). Based on this constitutionally-mandated abstention, secular courts may not intrude into the church's governance of “religious” or “ecclesiastical” matters, such as theological controversy, church discipline, ecclesiastical government, or the conformity of members to standards of morality. See In re Godwin, 293 S.W.3d. 742, 748 (Tex.App.—San Antonio 2009, orig. proceeding).

The record shows that Coleman, to whom the “Abatement” was delivered, was not a member of appellant's church. That being so, the church's position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter. We overrule appellant's final issue.

3 Therefore, if you form a common law or ecclesiastical court you should be careful to:

- 4 1. Draft a good membership or citizenship agreement.
- 5 2. Require all members to sign the membership or citizenship agreement.
- 6 3. Keep careful records that are safe from tampering.
- 7 4. NOT serve "legal process" of any kind against those who are NOT consenting members or citizens.

8 We take the same position in protecting OUR members from secular courts as the secular courts take toward private courts.
9 The First Amendment requires that you have a right to either NOT associate or to associate with any group you choose
10 INCLUDING, but not limited to the "state" having general jurisdiction where you live. That means you have a RIGHT to 11 NOT be:

- 12 1. A "citizen" or "resident" in the area where you physically are.
- 13 2. A "driver" under the vehicle code.
- 14 3. A "spouse" under the family code.
- 15 4. A "taxpayer" under the tax code.

16 The dividing line between who are "members" and who are NOT members is who has a domicile in that specific jurisdiction.
17 The subject of domicile is extensively covered in this document.

18 We allege that secular franchise courts such as tax court, traffic court, family court, social security administrative court, and
19 even civil court in your area are equally culpable for the SAME crime of "simulating legal process" if they serve legal process
20 upon anyone who is NOT a "member" of their "state" and who has notified them of that fact. As such, any at least CIVIL
21 process served upon them by secular courts of the de facto government is ALSO a criminal simulation of legal process
22 because instituted against non-consenting parties who are non-residents and "non-members", just as in the above case.
23 Membership has to be consensual.

24 The record shows that Coleman, to whom the "Abatement" was delivered, was not a member of appellant's
25 church. That being so, the church's position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which 26 *the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because
27 the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical*
28 abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter.
29 We overrule appellant's final issue.
30 [Michael Runningwolf v. State of Texas, 317 S.W.3d. 829 (2010);
31 SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=13768262149764043927]

32 We also argue that just like the above ruling, the secular government in fact and in deed is ALSO a church, as described in 33 the following exhaustive proof of that fact:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

34 In support of the above, Black's Law Dictionary defines "franchise courts" such as traffic court and family court as PRIVATE 35 courts:

36 "franchise court. Hist. A privately held court that (usu.) exists by virtue of a royal grant [privilege], with
37 jurisdiction over a variety of matters, depending on the grant and whatever powers the court acquires over time.
38 In 1274, Edward I abolished many of these feudal courts by forcing the nobility to demonstrate by what authority
39 (quo warranto) they held court. If a lord could not produce a charter reflecting the franchise, the court was
40 abolished. - Also termed courts of the franchise.

41 Dispensing justice was profitable. Much revenue could come from the fees and dues, fines and amercements. This
42 explains the growth of the second class of feudal courts, the Franchise Courts. They too were private courts held
43 by feudal lords. Sometimes their claim to jurisdiction was based on old pre-Conquest grants ... But many of them
44 were, in reality, only wrongful usurpations of private jurisdiction by powerful lords. These were put down after 45 the famous Quo Warranto enquiry in the reign of Edward I." W.J.V. Windeyer, Lectures on Legal History 56-57
46 (2d ed. 1949)."
47 [Black's Law Dictionary, Seventh Edition, p. 668]

1 As a BARE minimum, we think that if you get summoned into any franchise court for violations of the franchise, such as tax
2 court, traffic court, and family court, then the government as moving party who summoned you should at LEAST have the
3 burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED in writing to become a "member" of the group that created the court,
4 such as "taxpayer", "driver", "spouse", etc. and that if they CANNOT satisfy that burden of proof, then:

- 5 1. All charges should be dismissed.
- 6 2. The franchise judge and government prosecutor should BOTH be indicted and civilly sued for simulating legal process
7 under the common law and not statutory civil law.

8 5.6.13.2.8 Expatriation unnecessary (AND HARMFUL!) in the case of state nationals in order to be a "non- 9 resident non-person"

10 A number of freedom advocates endorse or promote expatriation in order to allegedly regain their sovereignty. We think 11 expatriation to restore sovereignty is a BAD idea that actually accomplishes the OPPOSITE effect. We don't recommend 12 expatriation because:

- 13 1. You can only do it at a Department of State facility abroad and not in states of the Union.
- 14 2. If you do it, you have no right to return to the United States THE COUNTRY and can arbitrarily be denied access to 15 see relatives and friends.
- 16 3. If you don't have citizenship in ANOTHER country BEFORE you expatriate, you will be "stateless" and without civil 17 status, rights, or privileges in ANY COUNTRY. The ultimate form of homelessness!
- 18 4. You won't be eligible for a USA passport AFTER you do it.
- 19 5. You will need to take on an even more prejudicial status in order to return to the USA and stay there. That status is 20 "permanent resident", and they are privileged and NOT free.

21 "Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the 22 country. Being bound to the society by reason of their [intention of] dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so
23 long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights
24 of citizenship. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are 25 those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged 26 character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their 27 status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children."
28 [The Law of Nations, p. 87, E. De Vattel, Volume Three, 1758, Carnegie Institution of Washington

29 BAD IDEA!

30 The non-resident non-person position documented in the memorandum of law does not require expatriation in the case of 31 those born within and located in a constitutional state of the Union. As we will point out repeatedly, DOMICILE on federal 32 territory is the method of acquiring a civil status under the laws of the national Congress. Those domiciled in a state of the 33 Union do not have such a domicile and therefore, cannot be anything but statutory "non-resident non-persons". We cover
34 this subject extensively in our memorandum on domicile:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

35 Note that changing your domicile from federal territory to a constitutional state of the Union:

- 36 1. Is NOT an act of "expatriation" as legally defined.
- 37 2. Does NOT change your "nationality".
- 38 3. Is an act of political and legal DISASSOCIATION protected by the First Amendment.
- 39 4. If interfered with, accomplishes the equivalent of eminent domain and an unconstitutional taking of property without 40 the consent of the owner in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.

41 To introduce the subject, below is the statutory definition of "expatriation":

42 TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER III > Part III > § 1481

43 § 1481. Loss of nationality by native-born or naturalized citizen; voluntary action; burden of proof; presumptions

(a) A person who is a national of the United States[*] whether by birth or naturalization, shall lose his nationality by voluntarily performing any of the following acts with the intention of relinquishing United States nationality—

You can't abandon your "nationality" unless you had it in the first place. If the Department of State will allow you to expatriate as a state national, then you must be a "national" or a "state national" to begin with! They don't like talking about this, but you can be a "national" in an ordinary or constitutional sense WITHOUT being a "citizen" in the statutory sense under the laws of Congress.

Those who are born in a constitutional state of the Union and present in a constitutional state are what we call "state nationals". Below is at STATUTORY definition of "national":

8 U.S.C. §1101: Definitions

(a)(21) The term "national" means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

Note based on the above definition of "national":

1. Since there are THREE geographical definitions of "United States" according to the U.S. Supreme Court, then there are THREE types of "nationals" and "citizens" within each geography. Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945).
2. The term "state" above can mean a state of the Union or it can mean a confederation of states called the "United States****" or "United States OF AMERICA" in the case of what we call a "state national". Either of these two groups would be "non-resident non-persons" as described in this memorandum of law.
3. You can be a "national of the United States*** OF AMERICA" or "national of the United States****" without being a statutory "national" under any act of Congress.

The reason "state" is in lower case in the above statutory definition is because it refers in most cases to a legislatively foreign state, and all states of the Union are foreign with respect to the federal government for the purposes of legislative (but not CONSTITUTIONAL) jurisdiction for nearly all subject matters. All upper case "States" in federal law refer to territories or possessions owned by the federal government under 4 U.S.C. §110(d):

*"Foreign States: Nations outside of the United States** ... Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term 'foreign nations', ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense."*
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

Sneaky, huh? You'll never hear especially a federal lawyer agree with you on this because it destroys their jurisdiction to impose an income tax on you, but it's true!

WARNING: We are NOT suggesting that you SHOULD expatriate, but using the process to illustrate that it is completely consistent with our research. In order to move oneself outside of federal legislative jurisdiction, a human being born in a state of the Union and outside the federal United States** (a "national" of the USA) would want to ONLY move his domicile outside of the federal zone (assuming that they were domiciled in the federal zone to begin with) AND NOT expatriate his nationality. Likewise, a "National and citizen of the United states** at birth" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 would also want to move their domicile outside of the federal zone.

The nuances of citizenship are beyond the scope of this already too long document. If you would like to study the subject further, we recommend the following:

5.6.13.3 Criminal Identity Theft: How “Non-resident Non-Person Nontaxpayers” are deceived or compelled into becoming “Taxpayers” or “Residents” of federal territory<sup>262</sup>

5.6.13.3.1 Introduction

In order to reach nonresident parties or enforce civil law against them, any government must satisfy the criteria documented in the following:

1. Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605, in the case of the federal government.
2. The Longarm Statutes of a specific state, in the case of state governments. These statutes may be found in: SEDM Jurisdictions Database Online, Litigation Tool #09.004
<http://sedm.org/GIS/JurisdictionDB.aspx>
3. The Minimum Contacts Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court. See International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945).
4. Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003, Section 8.3
FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Consent.pdf>

The only way the above criteria can be satisfied is by one of the following means:

1. Describing themselves as a statutory “individual”, “person”, “resident”, or “taxpayer” on a government form. Such forms are usually required by the business associates of people doing business with the nonresident, such as tax withholding documents.
2. Having a usually false information return filed against them connecting them to “trade or business” franchise earnings.

The following subsections will show how the above two criteria are satisfied in order that the federal or state governments can reach nonresident parties such as nonresident aliens. Most of the methods documents involve some kind of fraud or crime, and you must understand these mechanisms before you can successfully prevent and prosecute them as injuries in a court of law.

All of the techniques documented in this section effect the crime of identity theft. If you want an extremely detailed coverage of all the ways the corrupt government accomplishes identity theft in order to compel you into a commercial or contractual relationship with them, see:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046

5.6.13.3.2 Rigging Government Forms

5.6.13.3.2.1 Rigging forms generally go kidnap your legal identity and transport it to the “District of Criminals”

The government’s main tool for compelling you to surrender your non-resident non-person status is through rigging their forms. Below are general resources for identifying how they rig their maliciously deceptive forms and how to prevent being victimized by it:

1. Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. SEDM Forms Page, Section 1.6: Avoiding Government Franchises-Forms you can attach to various types of government forms to prevent becoming enfranchised
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
3. Your Rights as a “Nontaxpayer”, IRS Publication 1a, Form #08.008- demonstrates how the term “taxpayers” is habitually and maliciously misused so as to appear to apply to EVERYONE, when in fact it only applies to public officers or agents of the government

5.6.13.3.2.2 Jurat/Perjury statement on IRS Forms

Signing a perjury statement not only constitutes the taking of an oath, but also constitutes the conveying of consent to be held accountable for the accuracy and truthfulness of what appears on the form. It therefore constitutes an act of contracting that conveys consent and rights to the government to hold you accountable for the accuracy of what is on the form. Governments are created to protect your right to contract and the Constitution forbids them from interfering with or impairing the exercise of that inalienable right. Governments are created to ensure that every occasion you give consent or contract is not coerced.

"Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to impair contracts, by direct action to that end, does not exist with the general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the prohibition upon the States [in Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear that those who framed and those who adopted the Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with legislation [or judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency." 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court."

[Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878)]

The presence of coercion, penalties, or duress of any kind in the process of giving consent renders the contract unenforceable and void.

"An agreement [consensual contract] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the agreement as the state of mind induced. <sup>263</sup> Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced, <sup>264</sup> and it is susceptible of ratification. Like other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it. <sup>265</sup> However, duress in the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void. <sup>266</sup>"

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, §21 (1999)]

Any instance where you are required to give consent cannot be coerced or subject to penalty and must therefore be voluntary. Any penalty or threat of penalty in specifying the terms under which you provide your consent is an interference or impairment with your right to contract. This sort of unlawful interference with your right to contract happens all the time when the IRS illegally penalizes people for specifying the terms under which they consent to be held accountable on a tax form.

<sup>264</sup> Barnette v. Wells Fargo Nevada Nat'l Bank, 270 U.S. 438, 70 L.Ed. 669, 46 S.Ct. 326 (holding that acts induced by duress which operate solely on the mind, and fall short of actual physical compulsion, are not void at law, but are voidable only, at the election of him whose acts were induced by it); Fiske v. Gershman, 30 Misc.2d. 442, 215 N.Y.S.2d. 144; Glenney v. Crane (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)), 352 S.W.2d. 773, writ ref n r e (May 16, 1962); Carroll v. Fetty, 121 W.Va. 215, 2 S.E.2d. 521, cert den 308 U.S. 571, 84 L.Ed. 479, 60 S.Ct. 85.

<sup>266</sup> Restatement 2d, Contracts § 174, stating that if conduct that appears to be a manifestation of assent by a party who does not intend to engage in that conduct is physically compelled by duress, the conduct is not effective as a manifestation of assent.

TITLE 28 > PART V > CHAPTER 115 > § 1746
§1746. Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury

Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:

(1) If executed without the United States: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date). (Signature)".

(2) If executed within the United States, its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: "I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date). (Signature)".

The term "United States" as used above means the territories and possessions of the United States and the District of Columbia and excludes states of the Union mentioned in the Constitution. Below is the perjury statement found on the IRS Form 1040 and 1040NR:

"Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct, and complete. Declaration of preparer (other than taxpayer) is based on all information of which preparer has any knowledge."
 [IRS Forms 1040 and 1040NR jurat/perjury statement]

Notice, based on the above perjury statement, that:

1. You are a "taxpayer". Notice it uses the words "(other than taxpayer)". The implication is that you can't use any standard IRS Form WITHOUT being a "nontaxpayer". As a consequence, signing any standard IRS Form makes you a "taxpayer" and a "resident alien". See:

Who are "Taxpayers" and Who Needs a "Taxpayer Identification Number"?, Form #05.013

2. The perjury statement indicated in 28 U.S.C. §1746\(2\) is assumed and established, which means that you are creating a presumption that you maintain a domicile on federal territory.

Those who want to avoid committing perjury under penalty of perjury by correcting the IRS form to reflect the fact that they are not a "taxpayer" and are not within the "United States" face an even bigger hurdle. If they try to modify the perjury statement to conform with 28 U.S.C. §1746\(1\), frequently the IRS or government entity receiving the form will try to penalize them for modifying the form. The penalty is usually $500 for modifying the jurat. This leaves them with the unpleasant prospect of choosing the lesser of the following two evils:

1. Committing perjury under penalty of perjury by misrepresenting themselves as a resident of the federal zone and destroying their sovereignty immunity in the process pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1603\(b\).
2. Changing the jurat statement, being the object of a $500 penalty, and then risking having them reject the form.

How do we work around the above perjury statement at the end of most IRS Forms in order to avoid either becoming a "resident" of the federal "United States" or a presumed "taxpayer"? Below are a few examples of how to do this:

1. You can write a statement above the signature stating "signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT and all enclosures" and then on the attachment, redefine the ENTIRE perjury statement:

"IRS frequently and illegally penalizes parties not subject to their jurisdiction such as 'nontaxpayers' who attempt to physically modify language on their forms. They may only lawfully administer penalties to public officers and not private persons, because the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is 'repugnant to the constitution'. I, as a private human and not statutory 'person' and a 'nontaxpayer' not subject to IRS penalties, am forced to create this attachment because I would be committing perjury if I signed the form as it is without making the perjury statement consistent with my circumstances as indicated in 28 U.S.C. §1746. Therefore, regardless of what the perjury statement says on your form, here is what I define the words in your perjury statement paragraph to mean:

1 "Under penalties of perjury from without the 'United States' pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I declare that I
 2 have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and
 3 belief, they are true, correct, and complete. I declare that I am a 'nontaxpayer' not subject to the Internal
 4 Revenue Code, not domiciled in the 'United States', and not participating in a 'trade or business' and that it is a
 5 Constitutional tort to enforce the I.R.C. against me. I also declare that any attempt to use the content of this form
 6 to enforce any provision of the I.R.C. against me shall render everything on this form as religious and political
 7 statements and beliefs rather than facts which are not admissible as evidence pursuant to Fed.Rul.Ev. 610.

8 If you attempt to penalize me, you will be penalizing a person for refusing to commit perjury and will become an 9 accessory to a conspiracy to commit perjury."

- 10 2. You can write a statement above the signature stating "signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT 11 and all enclosures" and then attach the following form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 12 3. You can make your own form or tax return and use whatever you want on the form. They can only penalize persons
 13 who use THEIR forms. If you make your own form, you can penalize THEM for misusing YOUR forms or the 14 information on those forms. This is the approach taken by the following form. Pay particular attention to section 1 of 15 the form:

Federal Nonresident Nonstatutory Claim for Return of Funds Unlawfully Paid to the Government-Long, Form
 #15.001
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

16 5.6.13.3.2.3 Not offering an option on the W-8BEN form to accurately describe the status of state nationals who 17 are "nonresidents" but not "individuals"

18 "The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be
 19 confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate
 20 power. 'All legislation is prima facie territorial.' Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch.Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27

 23 to mean only everyone subject to such legislation [e.g. "individuals" with a domicile on federal territory who 24 are therefore subject to the civil laws of Congress], not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to catch.

 29 discussed."

30 [American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213 U.S. 347 at 357-358]

31 The term "individual" is provided in Block 3 of the Standard IRS Form W-8BEN. Like the "beneficial owner" scam above, 32 it too has a malicious intent/aspect:

- 33 1. Like the term "beneficial owner", it is associated with statutory creations of Congress engaged in federal privileges,
 34 "public rights", and "public offices." The only way you can be subject to the code is to engage in a franchise. Those 35 who are not privileged cannot refer to themselves as anything described in any government statute, which is reserved
 36 only for government officers, agencies, and instrumentalities and not private persons. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 37 2. The term "individual" appears in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1\(b\), where "nonresident alien individuals" are made liable to file
 38 tax returns. However, those who are NOT STATUTORY "individuals" are neither "nonresident aliens" nor "persons"
 39 under the Internal Revenue Code and are nowhere mentioned as having any duty to do anything. We call these people
 40 "non-resident non-persons". You can be an "individual" in an ORDINARY sense WITHOUT being a STATUTORY
 41 "individual" because all STATUTORY individuals are public officers or agents of the government as we prove in Form
 42 #05.037. Consequently, YOU DON'T WANT TO DESCRIBE YOURSELF AS AN "INDIVIDUAL" BECAUSE
 43 THEN THEY CAN PROSECUTE YOU FOR FAILURE TO FILE A RETURN! Some ways you can create a 44 usually false presumption that you are an "individual" include:

45 2.1. Filing IRS Form 1040, which says "U.S. INDIVIDUAL Income Tax Return" in the upper left corner.

46 2.2. Applying for a "INDIVIDUAL Taxpayer Identification Number" (ITIN) using IRS Forms W-7 or W-9. Only
 47 "aliens" can lawfully apply for such a number pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(d\)\(3\). If you were born in a state
 48 of the Union or on federal territory, you AREN'T an "alien". See:

Why It is Illegal for Me to Request or Use a "Taxpayer Identification Number", Form #04.205
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2.3. Filling out the IRS Form W-8BEN and checking the box for "individual" in block 3.
 2.4. Filling out any other government form and identifying yourself as an "Individual". If they don't have "Union state Citizen" or "transient foreigner" as an option, then ADD IT and CHECK IT!

Our Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201, prevents the presumption from being created that you are an "individual" with any form you submit, even using standard IRS forms, by redefining the word "individual" so that it doesn't refer to the same word as used in any federal law, but instead refers ONLY to the common and NOT the legal definition. This, in effect, prevents what the courts call "compelled association". That is why our Member Agreement, Form #01.001 specifies that you MUST attach the Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201 to any standard tax form you are compelled to submit: To protect you from being prosecuted for tax crimes under the I.R.C. by preventing you from being connected to any federal franchise or obligation.

3. The term "individual", like that of "beneficial owner", is nowhere defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code and it is EXTREMELY dangerous to describe yourself as anything that isn't defined statutorily, because you just invite people to make prejudicial presumptions about your status. The term "individual" is only defined in the treasury regulations. The definition in the regulations is found at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i):

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701(b)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S. tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701(b)-1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

Do you see statutory "U.S. citizens" (which are defined under 8 U.S.C. §1401) mentioned above under the definition of "individual" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)? They aren't there, which means the only way they can become "taxpayers" is to visit a foreign country and become an "alien" under the terms of a tax treaty with a foreign country under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §911. When they do this, they attach IRS Form 2555 to the IRS Form 1040 that they file. Remember: The 1040 form is for "U.S. persons", which includes statutory "U.S. citizens" and "residents", both of whom have a domicile on federal territory, which is what the term "United States" is defines as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

In fact, the only place that the term "individual" is statutorily defined that we have found is in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2), which means:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES
PART 1 > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(2) the term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

The above statute is the Privacy Act, which regulates IRS use and protection of your tax information. Notice that:

1. "nonresident aliens" don't appear there and therefore are implicitly excluded. This is a result of a legal maxim called "Expressio unius est exclusio alterius".
2. The "individual" they are referring to must meet the definitions found in BOTH 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) because the Privacy Act is also the authority for protecting tax records, which means he or she or it can ONLY be a "resident", meaning an alien with a domicile on federal territory called the "United States**". Therefore, those who claim to be "individuals" indirectly are making a usually invisible election to be treated as a "resident", which is an alien with a domicile in "United States**" federal territory. Nonresident aliens are nowhere mentioned in the Privacy Act.
3. The code section is under Title 5 of the U.S. Code, which is called "GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES". They are treating you as part of the government, even though you aren't. The reason is that unless you have a domicile on federal territory (which is what "United States" is defined as under I.R.C. Subtitle A in 26 U.S.C. §§7701\(a\)\(9\) and \(a\)\(10\) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d)) or have income connected with a "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(26\) as "the functions of a public office", you can't be a "taxpayer" without at least volunteering by submitting an IRS form W-4, which effectively amounts to an "election" to become a "public officer" and a "Kelly Girl" on loan to your private employer from Uncle Sam.

What the IRS Form W-8BEN is doing is fooling you into admitting that you are an "individual" as defined above, which means that you just made an election or choice to become a "resident alien" instead of a "nonresident alien". They don't have any lawful authority to maintain records on "nonresident aliens" under the Privacy Act, so you have to become a "resident" by filling out one of their forms and lying about your status by calling yourself a statutory "individual" and therefore public officer. This effectively conveys your consent and permission to become and be treated as a public officer in the national government, even if you are not aware you are doing so. We call this devious process "invisible consent". Instead, what you really are is a "transient foreigner"

"Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1498]

Our Amended IRS Form W-8BEN solves this problem by adding an additional option indicating "Union State Citizen" under Block 3 of the form and by putting the phrase "(public officer)" after the word "individual". As an alternative, you could make your own Substitute form as authorized by IRS Form W-8 Instructions for Requester of Forms W-8BEN, W-8ECI, W-8EXp, and W-8IMF, Catalog 26698G and add an option for Block 3 called "transient foreigner". Either way, you have deprived the IRS of the ability to keep records about you because you do not fit the definition of "individual", as required by the Privacy Act above. If you don't want to be subject to the code, you can't be submitting government paperwork and signing it under penalty of perjury that indicates that you fit the description of anyone or anything that they have jurisdiction over.

For more information about how they have to make you into a "resident" (alien) and an "individual" and a "public officer" within the government to tax you, see the following informative resources:

5.6.13.3.2.4 Excluding "Not subject" from Government Forms and offering only "Exempt"

Another devious technique frequently used on government forms to trick “nonresident aliens” into making an unwitting election to become “resident aliens” is:

1. Omit the “not subject” option.
2. Present the “exempt” option as the only method for avoiding the liability described.
3. Do one of the following:
  - 3.1. Statutorily define the term “exempt” to exclude persons who are “not subject”.
  - 3.2. PRESUME that the word “exempt” excludes persons who are “not subject” and hope you don’t challenge the presumption.

This form of abuse exploits the common false presumption among most Americans, which is the following:

1. That the ONLY options available are STATUTORY. The CONSTITUTION does not provide a way to make one’s earnings CONSTITUTIONALLY exempt but not STATUTORILY exempt.
2. Government form presents ALL of the lawful options available to avoid the liability described. In fact, government is famous for limiting options in order to advantage or benefit them. In fact, they only present the STATUTORY options, but deliberately omit CONSTITUTIONAL options and argue that there are not CONSTITUTIONAL options.

In effect, they are constraining your options to compel you to select the lesser of evils and remove the ability to avoid all evil. This devious technique is also called an “adhesion contract”. In summary, they are violating the First Amendment by instituting compelled association in which you are coerced to engage in commercial activity with them and become subject to their pagan laws.

On the subject of “exempt”, the U.S. Supreme Court has held the following:

*In imposing a tax, says Mr. Chief Justice Marshall, the legislature acts upon its constituents. "All subjects," he adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition *334 may almost be pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.
[United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]*

From the above, we can see that:

1. The civil laws enacted by the legislature act ONLY upon “constituents” and “subjects”. They DO NOT act upon “all people”, but only on “constituents” and “subjects”.
2. You have to VOLUNTEER to become a “constituent” or “subject”. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
3. “Constituents” and “subjects” include STATUTORY “citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) and exclude CONSTITUTIONAL citizens, who are “non-residents” under federal statutory law. If you are not a STATUTORY citizen, which the court calls a “SUBJECT” or “constituent”, then you can’t be taxed. The court refers to those who can’t be taxed as “aliens”, and they can only mean STATUTORY aliens, not CONSTITUTIONAL aliens.
4. Federal tax liability is a CIVIL liability, and therefore, those who are not STATUTORY citizens domiciled on federal territory cannot have such a CIVIL liability.
5. Like most other legal “words of art”, there are TWO contexts in which the word “exempt” can be used:
  - 5.1. Statutory law. This includes people who are “subjects” or “constituents”, but who otherwise are granted a privilege or exemption by virtue of their circumstances. An example would be the “exempt individual” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(5).
  - 5.2. Common law. This implies people who never consented to be and therefore are NOT “subjects” or “constituents”. Those who are NOT “subjects”, are “not subject”.

1.1.1.1 Earnings “not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution”

The present treasury regulations RECOGNIZE that earnings can be “not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution” WITHOUT being “exempt” under the Internal Revenue Code. Earlier versions the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulations refer to this type of exemption as “fundamental law. Earnings “Not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution” are recognized in 26 C.F.R. §1.312-6:

The Great  IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO)

1 Title 21
2 Part 1-Income Taxes
3 § 1.312-6 Earnings and profits.

4 (b) Among the items entering into the computation of corporate earnings and profits for a particular period
5 are all income exempted by statute, income not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution, as 6 well as all items includible in gross income under section 61 or corresponding provisions of prior revenue acts.
7 Gains and losses within the purview of section 1002 or corresponding provisions of prior revenue acts are 8 brought into the earnings and profits at the time and to the extent such gains and losses are recognized under 9 that section. Interest on State bonds and certain other obligations, although not taxable when received by a 10 corporation, is taxable to the same extent as other dividends when distributed to shareholders in the form of 11 dividends.

12 This omission is designed to make you believe that the ONLY way to avoid a tax liability is to find a STATUTORY 13 “exemption” or to be a statutory “exempt individual” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(5). This is clearly a ruse designed to 14 DECEIVE and ENSLAVE YOU.

15 The early U.S. Supreme Court recognized CONSTITUTIONAL but not statutory exemptions when it held:

16 "All subjects," he adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which 17 it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition *334 may almost 18 be pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

19 There are limitations upon the powers of all governments, without any express designation of them in their
20 organic law; limitations which inhere in their very nature and structure, and this is one of them, — that no
21 rightful authority can be exercised by them over alien subjects, or citizens resident abroad or over their property
22 there situated. This doctrine may be said to be axiomatic. . ."

23 [United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

24 The Internal Revenue Code very deliberately does NOT define what is “not taxable by the Federal Government under the 25 Constitution”. If they did, they probably would lose MOST of their income tax revenues! The U.S. Supreme Court calls
26 the Constitution “fundamental law” in Marbury v. Madison.

27 "Certainly all those who have framed written constitutions contemplate them as forming the fundamental and
28 paramount law of the nation, and, consequently, the theory of every such government must be, that an act of the 29 legislature, repugnant to the constitution, is void."
30 [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803)]

31 The Founding Fathers in the Federalist Papers also recognized the U.S.A. Constitution as fundamental law:

32 "No legislative act [including a statutory presumption] contrary to the Constitution can be valid. To deny this 33 would be to affirm that the deputy (agent) is greater than his principal; that the servant is above the master;
34 that the representatives of the people are superior to the people; that men, acting by virtue of powers may do
35 not only what their powers do not authorize, but what they forbid...[text omitted] It is not otherwise to be 36 supposed that the Constitution could intend to enable the representatives of the people to substitute their will 37 to that of their constituents. It is far more rational to suppose, that the courts were designed to be an intermediate
38 body between the people and the legislature, in order, among other things, to keep the latter within the limits
39 assigned to their authority. The interpretation of the laws is the proper and peculiar province of the courts. A
40 Constitution is, in fact, and must be regarded by judges, as fundamental law. If there should happen to be an 41 irreconcilable variance between the two, the Constitution is to be preferred to the statute."
42 [Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper # 78]

43 Earlier versions of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulations recognized in the statutes themselves exemptions
44 under “fundamental law”:

45 Treasury Regulations of (1939)

46 “Sec. 29.21-1. Meaning of net income. The tax imposed by chapter 1 is upon income. Neither income
47 exempted by statute or fundamental law... enter into the computation of net income as defined by section 21.”

48 _____
49 Internal Revenue Code (1939)

1                   “Sec 22(b). No other items are exempt from gross income except

- 2                   (1) those items of income which are, under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government:
 3                   (2) those items of income which are exempt from tax on income under the provisions of any Act of Congress still
 4                   in effect; and (3) the income exempted under the provisions of section 116.”

5 Not surprisingly, the IRS also does NOT provide a line or box on any tax form we have seen to deduct “income exempt by 6 fundamental law”. They do this in order to create the false PRESUMPTION that everything you earn is taxable. The U.S.
 7 Supreme Court, however, recognized that not EVERYTHING you earn is “income” or falls into the category of “gross
 8 income”.

9                   “We must reject in this case, as we have rejected in cases arising under the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 10                   1909 (Doyle, Collector, v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 38 Sup.Ct. 467, 62 L.Ed.--), the broad
 11                   contention submitted on behalf of the government that all receipts—everything that comes in—are income
 12                   within the proper definition of the term ‘gross income,’ and that the entire proceeds of a conversion of capital
 13                   assets, in whatever form and under whatever circumstances accomplished, should be treated as gross income.
 14                   Certainly the term “income” has no broader meaning in the 1913 act than in that of 1909 (see Stratton’s 15                   Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 416, 417 S., 34 Sup.Ct. 136), and for the present purpose we assume 16                   there is not difference in its meaning as used in the two acts.”
 17                   [Southern Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

18 What the U.S. Supreme Court is recognizing indirectly above is that the income tax is an excise tax on the “trade or business”
 19 (public office) activity, and that only earnings connected to that activity constitute “income” or “gross income”. Such 20 earnings, in turn, are the only earnings reportable on an information return under 26 U.S.C. §6041(a). The statutory definition
 21 of “income” itself in the I.R.C. also recognizes that not everything one makes is “income”:

22                   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter J > PART I > Subpart A > § 643
 23                   § 643. Definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D

24                   (b) Income

25                   For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term “income”, when not preceded by the words
 26                   “taxable”, “distributable net”, “undistributed net”, or “gross”, means the amount of income of the estate or
 27                   trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law.
 28                   Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting
 29                   in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable
 30                   local law shall not be considered income.

31 The “trust” they are talking about above is the PUBLIC trust, meaning the national government. PRIVATE trusts are not
 32 engaged in the “trade or business” excise taxable activity because the ability to regulate or tax PRIVATE activity or PRIVATE 33 rights is repugnant to the constitution. The “estate” they are talking about is that of a deceased public officer and not private 34 human being.

35                   1.1.1.2 Avoiding deception on government tax forms

36 There are two ways that one can use to describe oneself on government forms:

- 37 1. “Exempt”. This is a person who is otherwise subject to the provision of law administering the form because they are an 38 “individual” or “person” and yet who is expressly made exempt by a particular provision of the statutes forming the 39 franchise agreement. This option appears on most government forms.
 40 2. “Not subject”. This would be equivalent to a nonresident “nontaxpayer” who is not a “person” or franchisee within the 41 meaning of the statute in question. You almost never see this option on government forms.

42 There is a world of difference between these two statuses and we MUST understand the difference before we can know
 43 whether or how to fill out a specific government form describing our status. In this section we will show you how to choose
 44 the correct status above and all the affects that this status has on how we fill out government forms.

45 We will begin our explanation with an illustration. If you are domiciled in California, you would describe yourself as 46 “subject” to the laws in California. However, in relation to the laws of every other civil jurisdiction outside of California, 47 you would describe yourself as:

1. "Not subject" to the civil laws of that place unless you are physically visiting that place.
2. Not ANYTHING described in the civil law that the government has jurisdiction over or may impose a "duty" upon, such as a "person", "individual", "taxpayer", etc.
3. Not a "foreign person" because not a "person" under the civil law.
4. "foreign".
5. A "nonresident".
6. A "transient foreigner".

A human being who is domiciled in California, for instance, would not be subject to the civil laws of China unless he was either visiting China or engaged in commerce within the legislative jurisdiction of China with people who were domiciled there and therefore protected by the civil laws there. He would not describe himself as being "exempt" from the laws of China, because one cannot be "exempt" without FIRST also being "subject" by having a domicile or residence within that foreign jurisdiction. Another way of stating this is that he would not be a "person" under the civil laws of China and would be "foreign" unless and until he either physically moved there or changed his domicile or residence to that place and thereby became a "protected person" subject to the civil jurisdiction of the Chinese government.

All income taxation within the United States of America takes the form of an excise tax upon an "activity" implemented by the civil law. In the case of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, that activity is called a "trade or business". This fact exhaustively proven in the following amazing article:

The "Trade or Business" Scam, Form #05.001

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

A "trade or business" is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as follows:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(26) "The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions [activities] of a public office."

Those who therefore lawfully engage in a public office in the U.S. government BEFORE they sign or submit any tax form are then described as a "franchisee" called a "taxpayer" under the terms of the excise tax or franchise agreement codified in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. Those who are not "public officers" also cannot lawfully "elect" themselves into "public office" by signing or submitting a tax form either, because this would constitute impersonating an officer or employee of the government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which describes all those who are nonresident within the "United States" (federal territory not within any state of the Union) and not engaged in the "trade or business"/"public office" activity as being a "foreign estate", which simply means "not subject", to the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A franchise or excise tax:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

The entity or "person" described above would NOT be "exempt", but rather simply "not subject". The reason is that the term "exempt" has a specific legal definition that does not include the situation above. Notice that the term "exempt" is used along

1 with the word "individual", meaning that you must be a "person" and an "individual" BEFORE you can call yourself
2 "exempt":

3 TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
4 Sec. 7701 - Definitions

5 (b)(5) Exempt individual defined

6 For purposes of this subsection -

7 (A) In general

8 An individual is an exempt individual for any day if, for such day, such individual is -

9 (i) a foreign government-related individual,

10 (ii) a teacher or trainee,

11 (iii) a student, or

12 (iv) a professional athlete who is temporarily in the United States to compete in a charitable sports event
13 described in section 274(l)(1)(B).

14 (B) Foreign government-related individual

15 The term "foreign government-related individual" means any individual temporarily present in the United States 16 by reason of -

17 (i) diplomatic status, or a visa which the Secretary (after consultation with the Secretary of State) determines 18 represents full-time diplomatic or consular status for purposes of this subsection,

19 (ii) being a full-time employee of an international organization, or 20 (iii) being a member of the immediate family of an individual described in clause (i) or (ii).

21 (C) Teacher or trainee

22 The term "teacher or trainee" means any individual -

23 (i) who is temporarily present in the United States under subparagraph (J) or (Q) of section 101(15) of the 24 Immigration and Nationality Act (other than as a student), and 25 (ii) who substantially complies with the requirements for being so present.

26 (D) Student

27 The term "student" means any individual -

28 (i) who is temporarily present in the United States -

29 (I) under subparagraph (F) or (M) of section 101(15) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, or

30 (II) as a student under subparagraph (J) or (Q) of such section 101(15), and (ii) who substantially complies with 31 the requirements for being so present.

32 (E) Special rules for teachers, trainees, and students

33 (i) Limitation on teachers and trainees

34 An individual shall not be treated as an exempt individual by reason of clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) for the 35 current year if, for any 2 calendar years during the preceding 6 calendar years, such person was an exempt
36 person under clause (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A). In the case of an individual all of whose compensation is described in section 872(b)(3), the preceding sentence shall be applied by substituting "4 calendar years" for "2 calendar years".

(ii) Limitation on students

For any calendar year after the 5th calendar year for which an individual was an exempt individual under clause (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A), such individual shall not be treated as an exempt individual by reason of clause (iii) of subparagraph (A), unless such individual establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that such individual does not intend to permanently reside in the United States and that such individual meets the requirements of subparagraph (D)(ii).

The Internal Revenue Code itself does not and cannot regulate the conduct of those who are not "taxpayers".

"Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, and elected officials of the Federal Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Citizens/American Nationals not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law."
[Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

Consequently, all tax forms you (a human being) fill out PRESUPPOSE that the applicant filling it out is a franchisee called a "taxpayer" who occupies a public office within the U.S. government and who is therefore a statutory "person", "individual", "employee", and public officer under 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). Since the Internal Revenue Code is civil law, it also must presuppose that all "persons" or "individuals" described within it are domiciled on federal territory that is no part of a state of the Union. This is confirmed by the definition of "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d), which is defined as federal territory and not part of any state of the Union. If you do not lawfully occupy such a public office, it would therefore constitute fraud and impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 to even fill such a form out. If a company hands a "nontaxpayer" a tax form to fill out, the only proper response is ALL of the following, and any other response will result in the commission of a crime:

1. To not complete or sign any provision of the form.
2. To line out the entire form.
3. To write above the line "Not Applicable".
4. To NOT select the "exempt" option within the form or select any status at all on the form. If you aren't subject to the Internal Revenue Code because you don't have a domicile on federal territory and don't engage in taxable activities, then you can't be described as a "person", "individual", "taxpayer", or anything else who might be subject to the I.R.C.

"The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate power. 'All legislation is prima facie territorial.' Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch.Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park.Crim.Rep. 590, 596. Words having universal scope, such as 'every contract in restraint of trade,' 'every person who shall monopolize,' etc., will be taken, as a matter of course, to mean only everyone subject to such legislation, not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to catch. In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but need not be discussed."

5. To either not return the form to the person who asked for it or to return it with the modifications above.
6. If you return the form to the person who asked for it, to clarify on the form why you are not "exempt", but rather "not subject".
7. To attach the following form to the tax form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Another alternative to all the above would be to simply add a "Not subject by fundamental law" option or to select "Exempt" and then redefine the word to add the "not subject by fundamental law" option to the definition. Then you could attach the Tax Form Attachment mentioned above, which also redefines words on the government form to immunize yourself from government jurisdiction.

If we had an honorable government that loved the people under its care and protection more than it loved deceiving you out of and stealing your money, then they would indicate at the top of the form in big bold letters EXACTLY what laws are being enforced and who the intended audience is so that those who are not required to fill it out would not do so. However, if they did that, hardly anyone would ever pay taxes again. Of this SCAM, the Bible and a famous bible commentary says the following:

"Getting treasures by a lying tongue [or by deliberate omission intended to deceive] is the fleeting fantasy of those who seek death."

[Prov. 21:6, Bible, NKJV]

"As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for, 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren. 2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him. A balance cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God."

[Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

In the case of income tax forms, for instance, the warning described above would say the following:

1. This form is only intended for those who satisfy all the following conditions:

1.1. "taxpayer" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14):

"Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, and elected officials of the Federal Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Citizens/American Nationals not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law. With them[non-taxpayers] Congress does not assume to deal and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of federal revenue laws."
[Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

1.2. Lawfully engaged in a "public office" in the U.S. government, which is called a "trade or business" in the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

1.3. Exercising the public office ONLY within the District of Columbia as required by 4 U.S.C. §72, which is within the only remaining internal revenue district, as confirmed by Treasury Order 150-02.

4. If you do not satisfy all the requirements indicated above, then you DO NOT need to fill out this form, nor can you claim the status of "exempt".

5. This form is ONLY for use by "taxpayers". If you are a "nontaxpayer", then we don't have a form you can use to document your status. This is because our mission statement only allows us to help "taxpayers". It is self-defeating to help "nontaxpayers" because it only undermines our revenue and importance. We are a business and we only focus our energies on things that make money for us, such as deceiving "nontaxpayers" into thinking they are "taxpayers". That is why we don't put a "nontaxpayer" or "not subject" option on our forms: Because we want to self-servingly and prejudicially presume that EVERYONE is engaged in our franchise and subject to our plunder and control.

We hope that you have learned from this section that:

1. He who makes the rules or the forms always wins the game. The power to create includes the power to define.
2. All government forms are snares or traps designed to trap the innocent and ignorant into servitude to the whims of

1 corrupted politicians and lawyers.

2 *"The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will exalt the law and make it honorable. But this is
 3 a people robbed and plundered! [by the IRS] All of them are snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of greedy
 4 IRS lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are for prey, and no one delivers; for plunder, and 5 no one says, "Restore!"".*

6 Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for
 7 plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS] Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they
 8 would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law, therefore He has poured on him the fury of His
 9 anger and the strength of battle; it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he 10 did not take it to heart."

11 [Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV]a

- 12 3. The snare is the presumptions which they deliberately do not disclose on the forms and which are buried in the "words 13 of art" contained in their void for vagueness codes. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 14 4. The main reason for reading and learning the law is to reveal all the presumptions and deceptive "words of art" that are 15 hidden on government forms so that you can avoid them.

16 "My [God's] people are destroyed [and enslaved] for lack of knowledge [of God's Laws and the lack of education 17 that produces it]."
 18 [Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

19 "And thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws [of both God and man], and shalt shew them the way wherein 20 they must walk, and the work [of obedience to God] that they must do."
 21 [Exodus 18:20, Bible, NKJV]

22 *"This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate in it day and night, that you
 23 may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then*
 24 you will have good success. Have I not commanded you? Be strong and of good courage; do not be afraid, nor 25 be dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."
 26 [Joshua 1:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

- 27 5. Government forms deliberately do not disclose the presumptions that are being made about the proper audience for the 28 form in order to maximize the possibility that they can exploit your legal ignorance to induce you to make a "tithe" to 29 their state-sponsored civil religion and church of socialism. That religion is exhaustively described below:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 30 6. All government forms are designed to encourage you to waive sovereign immunity and engage in commerce with the 31 government. Government does not make forms for those who refuse to do business with them such as "nontaxpayers",
 32 "nonresidents", or "transient foreigners". If you want a form that accurately describes your status as a "nontaxpayer"
 33 and which preserves your sovereignty and sovereign immunity, you will have to design your own. Government is never
 34 going to make it easy to reduce their own revenues, importance, power, or control over you. Everyone in the government
 35 is there because they want the largest possible audience of "customers" for their services. Another way of saying this is 36 that they are going to do everything within their power to rig things so that it is impossible to avoid contracting with or 37 doing business with them. This approach has the effect of compelling you to contract with them in violation of Article
 38 1, Section 10 of the Constitution, which is supposed to protect your right to NOT contract with the government.
- 39 7. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits involuntary servitude. Consequently, the government cannot lawfully impose any 40 duty, including the duty to fill out or submit a government form. Therefore, you should view every opportunity that 41 presents itself to fill out a government form as an act of contracting away your rights.
- 42 8. In the case of government tax forms, the purpose of all government tax forms is to ask the following presumptuous and 43 prejudicial question:

44 "What kind of 'taxpayer' are you?"

45 . . .rather than the question:

46 "Are you a 'taxpayer'?"

The above approach results in what the legal profession refers to as a “leading question”, which is a question contaminated by a prejudicial presumption and therefore inadmissible as evidence. Federal Rule of Evidence 611(c) expressly forbids such leading questions to be used as evidence, which is also why no IRS form can really qualify as evidence that can be used against anyone: It doesn't offer a “nontaxpayer” or a “foreigner” option. An example of such a question is the following:

“Have you always beat your wife?”

The presumption hidden within the above leading question is that you are a “wife beater”. Replace the word “wife beater” with “taxpayer” and you know the main method by which the IRS stays in business.

9. If none of the above traps, or “springs” as the U.S. Supreme Court calls them, work against you, the last line of defense the IRS uses is to FORCE you to admit you are a “taxpayer” by:

9.1. Telling you that you MUST have a “Taxpayer Identification Number”.

9.2. Telling you that BECAUSE you have such a number, you MUST be a “taxpayer”.

9.3. Refusing to talk to you on the phone until you disclose a “Taxpayer Identification Number” to them. We tell them that it is a NONTAXPAYER Identification Number (NIN), and make them promise to treat us as a NONTAXPAYER before it will be disclosed. We also send them an update to the original TIN application making it a NONTAXPAYER number and establishing an anti-franchise franchise that makes THEM liable if they use the number for any commercial purpose that benefits them. See, for instance:

Employer Identification Number (EIN) Application Permanent Amendment Notice, Form #06.022

5.6.13.3.2.5 Illegally and FRAUDULENTLY Filing the WRONG return, the IRS 1040

Only persons with a domicile in the statutory “United States**”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) as federal territory not within any constitutional State of the Union, may lawfully file IRS Form 1040. This is confirmed by IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130, the IRS Published Products Catalog, which says the following:

*1040A 11327A Each
 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return*

Annual income tax return filed by citizens and residents of the United States. There are separate instructions available for this item. The catalog number for the instructions is 12088U.

*W:CAR:MP:FP:F:I Tax Form or Instructions
 [IRS Published Products Catalog, Year 2003, p. F-15]*

The above is also confirmed by the IRS 1040 Instruction Booklet itself, which says at the top of the page describing the filing requirement the following:

Filing Requirements

These rules apply to all U.S. citizens, regardless of where they live, and resident aliens.

*[IRS 1040 Instruction Booklet (2001), p. 15;
 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IncomeTaxRtn/Federal/IRSForm1040Instr.pdf>]*

What the above deceptive publication very conveniently and deliberately doesn't tell you are the following very important facts:

1. The “U.S. citizen” they are referring to above is a statutory “U.S. citizen” defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401.
2. You cannot be either a statutory “U.S. citizen” or a “resident” (alien) unless you have a domicile on federal territory within the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) as the District of Columbia and territories and possessions of the United States and nowhere “expressly extended” to include any other place.
3. Persons born within and domiciled within states of the Union do not have a domicile in the “United States” and therefore cannot lawfully be statutory “U.S. citizens” or “residents” (aliens), but rather are non-residents. They are also “nonresident aliens” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) but only if they are engaged in a public office. If they claim to be a

1 "U.S. citizen" on a federal form, they are committing a crime in violation of 18 U.S.C. §911.

2 4. The only way that the place where you physically live is irrelevant as mentioned above is under Federal Rule of Civil
3 Procedure 17, which says that if you are acting in a representative capacity as a "public officer" within the federal
4 corporation called the "United States", the laws of the place of incorporation of the corporation apply, regardless of
5 where you physically are. THE OFFICE has a domicile in the District of Columbia and while you fill it, your effective
6 domicile is also there, regardless of where you live. ONLY in this condition is the place you live irrelevant. It is
7 furthermore a criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 for a private person not lawfully elected into public office consistent
8 with federal law to serve in a public office or "pretend" to be a public officer engaged in the "trade or business" franchise.

9 The group of persons that includes statutory "U.S. citizens" and "residents" (aliens) who collectively are the only ones who
10 can lawfully file IRS Form 1040 above are called "U.S. persons", and they are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(30\). A
11 nonresident alien is NOT a "U.S. person" and may NOT lawfully elect to be treated as one if he is NOT married to one. The 12 only authority for making an election as a nonresident alien to be treated as a "resident alien" is if he is married to one and 13 wants to file jointly pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6013\(g\) and (h) and 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(4\)\(B\). This option is discussed in the 14 next section.

15 People born with and/or domiciled within states of the Union are statutory "non-resident non-persons", and most of them are 16 ILLEGALLY filing IRS Form 1040 and thereby:

- 17 1. Making an ILLEGAL election to be treated as "resident aliens" when no statute authorizes it.
- 18 2. Impersonating a "U.S. citizen" in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §911.
- 19 3. Impersonating an officer or employee of the federal government in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
- 20 4. Needlessly subjecting themselves to the jurisdiction of federal district courts that would otherwise be "foreign" in relation 21 to them if they had properly described their status as nonresident aliens.

22 The above is a HUGE mistake on their part and a FRAUD on the IRS' part. The IRS looks the other way and permits this,
23 because this is how they ILLEGALLY manufacture nearly all of the "taxpayers" who they illegally terrorize, uhhh, I mean
24 "service". Any refunds paid out to nonresident aliens who filed IRS Form 1040 and who have not made a lawful election as 25 a person married to a "U.S. person" are unauthorized and unlawful, and would be cognizable under the following I.R.C.
26 provisions:

- 27 1. 26 U.S.C. §7405: Action for recovery of erroneous refunds.
- 28 2. 26 U.S.C. §7206: Fraud and false statements
- 29 3. 26 U.S.C. §7207: Fraudulent returns, statements, or other documents.

30 Those who would argue otherwise are asked to produce the statute AND implementing regulation specifically authorizing 31 nonresident aliens who are NOT married to "U.S. persons" to make an election to be treated as "resident aliens". It doesn't 32 exist!

33 5.6.13.3.2.6 Making a lawful election on a government form to become a "resident"

34 The government has a vested interest to maximize the number of "taxpayers". Their authority to impose an income tax has 35 as a prerequisite a "domicile" within the "United States", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C.
36 §110(d) to include only federal territory not within any Constitutional state of the Union and is not expanded elsewhere under 37 Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A to include states of the Union:

38 *"Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit
39 or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth
40 Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally
41 reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously
42 includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of
43 property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration
44 being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."
45 Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]*

46 If you would like to learn more about the relationship of domicile to income taxation, please read the following free article:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

1 As we have repeatedly pointed out throughout this document, people born in and domiciled within states of the Union are
 2 "nationals" or "state nationals" and not statutory "U.S. citizens". They are "Citizens" under the Fourteenth Amendment but
 3 NOT statutory "citizens of the United States" under 8 U.S.C. §1401. The only real "taxpayers" on an IRS Form 1040 are
 4 "aliens" of one kind or another. IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130, in fact, says that the only people
 5 who can use IRS Form 1040 are "citizens and residents of the United States", both of whom have in common a domicile
 6 within the statutory "United States", meaning federal territory. Collectively, "citizens and residents of the United States"
 7 having a domicile on federal territory within the statutory "United States" are called "U.S. persons" and are defined in 26
 8 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(30\). Therefore, the government has a vested interest in making "nonresident aliens" in states of the Union
 9 into "resident aliens". They do this primarily by encouraging nonresident aliens to volunteer to engage in privileged, excise
 10 taxable activities. Under subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code, the only such taxable activity is a "trade or business" or a
 11 public office.

12 In order to learn how the federal government manufactures "taxpayers" out of "nontaxpayers", we therefore should be looking
 13 for ways in which "nonresident aliens" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(B\) and domiciled in the states of the Union are 14 turned into "resident aliens" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\). From a high level view, it would appear simple, because 15 the only way nonresident alien can become a resident is by changing his domicile and declaring that change on government
 16 forms. As our research reveals, this process is a lot more devious and indirect than that. It is so subtle that most people miss
 17 it. Once we found out how it was accomplished and identified it in our publications, they immediately hid the evidence!

18 This ingenious process our corrupted politicians invented to manufacture more "taxpayers" out of people in the states of the 19 Union who started out as nonresident alien "nontaxpayers" is essentially the mechanism by which our public dis-servants
 20 destroy the separation of powers that is at the heart of the United States Constitution and thereby assault and destroy our 21 rights and liberties. That separation of powers is insightfully described in the article below:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Articles/SeparationOfPowersDoctrine.htm>

23 A breakdown of the separation of taxing authority can only occur by the voluntary consent of the people themselves. The 24 states cannot facilitate that breakdown of the separation of powers:

25 "State officials thus cannot consent to the enlargement of the powers of Congress beyond those enumerated in 26 the Constitution."
 27 [New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 142; 112 S.Ct. 2408; 120 L.Ed.2d. 120 (1992)]

28 That consent to allow federal income taxation within states of the Union requires a voluntary personal exercise of our private 29 right to contract. Our right to contract is the most dangerous right we have, because the exercise of that right can destroy
 30 ALL of our other rights, folks! The most dangerous thing about this right is that if we use it unwisely, the government cannot 31 come to our aid. The purpose of the United States Constitution, in fact, is to protect its exercise and it forbids any state, in 32 Article 1, Section 10, to pass any law that would impair the obligation of any contract we sign. The abuse of your right to 33 contract is as dangerous as the abuse of your pecker can be to your marriage, your family, and the lives of generations of 34 people yet unborn!

35 A person domiciled in a state of the Union, who starts out as a "nonresident alien", can become a "resident", a "taxpayer",
 36 and an "individual" under the Internal Revenue Code by making the necessary "elections" in order to be treated as a "resident"
 37 engaged in a "trade or business" instead of a "nonresident alien" not engaged in a "trade or business". That election is made
 38 as follows:

- 39 1. If the "nonresident alien" voluntarily signs and submits Social Security Administration Form SS-5, he becomes a 40 "resident alien". 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says that only "citizens and permanent residents" are eligible to join the program.
 41 "nonresident aliens are NOT eligible, so they must voluntarily consent or "elect" to become a "resident" by private 42 law/agreement in order to join.

 46 §422.104 Who can be assigned a social security number.

(a) Persons eligible for SSN assignment. We can assign you a social security number if you meet the evidence requirements in §422.107 and you are:

(1) A United States citizen; or

(2) An alien lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence or under other authority of law permitting you to work in the United States (§422.105 describes how we determine if a nonimmigrant alien is permitted to work in the United States); or

[<https://law.justia.com/cfr/title20/20-2.0.1.1.12.2.469.3.html>]

Note also that the “nonresident alien” must ALSO become a federal “employee” or “public officer” in order to join, because the above regulation appears in Title 20, which is entitled “Employee benefits”. Congress cannot legislate for private employees, but only its own “public employees” or “public officers”, and those officers must be engaged in a taxable “trade or business” in order to pay for the employment privileges that they are availing themselves of:

“The power to “legislate generally upon” life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the “power to provide modes of redress” against offensive state action, was “repugnant” to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress’ §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”

[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 \(1997\)]

By becoming a “public officer”, you agree to act as a trustee and officer of the “U.S. Inc.” corporation defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A), which has a domicile in the District of Columbia. Therefore, your domicile assumes that of the corporation you represent pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). The exact mechanisms for how the Social Security System transforms a “nonresident alien” into a “resident alien federal employee” are described in detail in the following informative pamphlet:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. Pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a), a “nonresident alien” may submit an IRS Form W-4 to his private employer and thereby elect to call his earnings “wages”, which makes him “effectively connected with a trade or business”. This means, according to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) that he is engaged in a “public office”.

26 C.F.R. §31.3401\(a\)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements

(a) In general.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term “wages” includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (§31.3401(a)-3.

Once you begin earning “wages”, your compensation is documented and reported on a W-2 pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041, which says that only “trade or business” earnings can be reported on a W-2. This means, according to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) that the worker is engaged in a “public office”. 4 U.S.C. §72 says that all public offices exist ONLY in the District of Columbia, and therefore, you consented to be treated as a “resident” of the District of Columbia for the purposes of the income tax, because you are representing a federal corporation in the District of Columbia as a “public officer” and your effective domicile is the domicile of the corporation pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b):

TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72

§ 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

3. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4) and 26 U.S.C. §6013(g), he can decide to file an IRS Form 1040, and thereby become a “resident alien”. IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130 identifies the IRS Form 1040 as being only suitable for use by “citizens and residents of the United States”. The “individual” in the title “U.S. Individual Income Tax Return” means a “resident alien” in that scenario. This is explained in the following sources:

- 3.1. Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.5.3: You're Not a U.S. citizen if you file a 1040 form, You're an alien
- 3.2. Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.5.4 entitled: “You're not the U.S. citizen mentioned at the top of the 1040 form if you are a U.S. citizen domiciled in the federal United States”
4. After making the above elections, if the IRS then writes us some friendly “dear taxpayer” letters, and we respond and don't deny that we are “taxpayers” or provide exculpatory proof that we are not, then we are admitting that:
  - 4.1. We are subject to the IRC.
  - 4.2. We are “taxpayers”.

The bottom line is that if you act like a duck and quack like one, then the IRS is going to think you are one! That deception usually occurs because we deceived the government about our true status by either filling out the wrong form, or filing the right form out incorrectly and in a way that does not represent our true status. This is covered in our article below:

“Taxpayer” v. “Nontaxpayer”: Which one are You?, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm>

Through the elections made by the nonresident alien above, it contractually agreed to become a representative of a legal fiction that is a “resident” or “resident alien” or “permanent resident”, all of which are equivalent and are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(b\)\(1\)\(A\). A “resident” is within the legislative jurisdiction of the of “United States”. A “domicile” or “residence” is what puts them within the legislative jurisdiction of the “United States”. The “nonresident alien” therefore became a “resident alien” not because they have a physical presence there, but because the SS-5 federal employment contract they signed made them into “representatives” and “public officers” for the federal corporation called the “United States”. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\), their effective domicile or residence is that of the federal corporation they represent, which is the “United States”, as indicated in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). That corporation, like all corporations, is a “citizen” of the place of its incorporation, which in this case is the District of Columbia:

“A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.”
 [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

The above mechanisms for DESTROYING the sovereignty of We the People and breaking down the separation of Powers between the state and federal governments are consistent with the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1602 to 1611. 28 U.S.C. §1605\(a\)\(2\) says that a foreign sovereign, such as a “nonresident alien”, surrenders their sovereign immunity by conducting “commerce” within the legislative jurisdiction of the “United States”. A nonresident alien who has accomplished one or more of the above steps meets the criteria for the surrender of sovereign immunity because:

1. He is conducting “commerce” within the legislative jurisdiction of the United States pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) as a public officer or a representative of a Social Security Trust that is a “public officer”.

TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
§ 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

(a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any case—

(2) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

Through the SS-5 federal job or contract application, the nonresident alien contractually agreed to become a federal “employee” or “public officer” engaged in a “trade or business” who is conducting “commerce” with the government. The Social Security Act and the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A are the “employment contract” or “franchise agreement” that they must observe while acting in a representative capacity as a “public officer”. That “franchise agreement” governs choice of law should any of the terms of the contract need to be litigated. 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\) and 26 U.S.C. §7408\(d\) say that all litigation over the terms of the contract must occur in a federal court under the laws of the District of Columbia.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(39) Persons residing outside United States

If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any provision of this title relating to—

(A) jurisdiction of courts, or

(B) enforcement of summons.

Another way of saying this is that you can't become a federal "employee" or contractor unless you agree to obey what your new boss tells you to do, and the only way that boss, the government, can direct your activities is through "law". This is what we call a "roach trap statute", which is a statute whose benefits entice you into a trap that causes you to acquire the equivalent of a new land-lord. Since kidnapping and identity theft are illegal, then they need your consent or permission to kidnap your legal identity or "res" and move it to the District of Columbia so that it can be "identified" there. See 18 U.S.C. §1201. This is how you became a "res"+"ident", or a "resident" of the District of Columbia. Therefore, you must also agree to be subject to federal law as a "resident" before you can become a "public officer", federal benefit recipient, or contractor. Once you become any one of these three types of entities, 44 U.S.C. §1505\(a\) and 5 U.S.C. §553\(a\) say that you also agreed to obey all commands of your new boss, which is Congress, without the need for implementing regulations published in the federal register. The Legislative Branch is the boss, and the Executive Branch works for the Legislative Branch to implement and enforce the will of the sovereign people. In the process of becoming a federal "employee" or "public officer", you also implicitly surrendered ALL of your constitutional rights in the context of your official duties:

"The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O'Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v. Broderick, 392 U.S. 273, 277-278 (1968). With regard to freedom of speech in particular: Private citizens cannot be punished for speech of merely private concern, but government employees can be fired for that reason. Connick v. Myers, 461 U.S. 138, 147 (1983). Private citizens cannot be punished for partisan political activity, but federal and state employees can be dismissed and otherwise punished for that reason. Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 101 (1947); Civil Service Comm'n v. Letter Carriers, 413 U.S. 548, 556 (1973); Broadrick v. Oklahoma, 413 U.S. 601, 616-617 (1973)."

[Rutan v. Republican Party of Illinois, 497 U.S. 62 (1990)]

2. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332\(c\) and (d), the nonresident alien, by making the necessary elections, has lost his sovereign immunity as a "foreign sovereign" because he became a "resident" or "citizen" of that foreign state for the purposes of federal law. This is what 28 U.S.C. §1603\(b\)\(3\) below says:

TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1603
§ 1603. Definitions

For purposes of this chapter—

(a) A "foreign state", except as used in section 1608 of this title, includes a political subdivision of a foreign state or an agency or instrumentality of a foreign state as defined in subsection (b).

(b) An "agency or instrumentality of a foreign state" means any entity—

(1) which is a separate legal person, corporate or otherwise, and

(2) which is an organ of a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, or a majority of whose shares or other ownership interest is owned by a foreign state or political subdivision thereof, and

(3) which is neither a citizen of a State of the United States as defined in section 1332 (c) and (d) of this title, nor created under the laws of any third country.

Only AFTER the above "elections" or consent have been voluntarily procured completely absent any duress can the party become the object of involuntary IRS enforcement, and NOT before.

1 "Waivers of constitutional rights not only must be voluntary but must be knowing, intelligent acts done with
2 sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and likely consequences."
3 [Brady v. U.S., 397 U.S. at 749, 90 S.Ct. 1463 at 1469 (1970)]

5 "The question of a waiver of a federally guaranteed constitutional right is, of course, a federal question controlled
6 by federal law. There is a presumption against the waiver of constitutional rights, see, e.g. Glasser v. United 7 States, 315 U.S. 60, 70-71, 86 L.Ed. 680, 699, 62 S.Ct. 457, and for a waiver to be effective it must be clearly 8 established that there was "an intentional relinquishment or abandonment of a known right or
10 [Brookhart v. Janis, 384 U.S. 1; 86 S.Ct. 1245; 16 L.Ed.2d. 314 (1966)]

11 If no consent was ever explicitly (in writing) or implicitly (by conduct) given or if consent was procured through deceit,
12 fraud, or duress, or was procured without full disclosure and "reasonable notice" ON THE AGREEMENT ITSELF of all
13 rights being surrendered, the contract is voidable at the option of the person subject to the duress but not automatically void:

14 "An agreement [consent] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not
15 exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the
16 agreement as the state of mind induced.<sup>267</sup> Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract
17 or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract
18 or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced,<sup>268</sup> and it is susceptible of ratification. Like
19 other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it.<sup>269</sup> However, duress in 20 the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing
21 so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void.<sup>270</sup> <sup>141</sup>"
22 [American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, §21 (1999)]

23 AFTER a nonresident alien domiciled in a state of the Union has made the elections necessary to be treated as though he is 24 "effectively connected with a trade or business" by voluntarily signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4, the code says he
25 becomes a "resident alien". In fact, we allege that the term "effectively connected" is a code word for "contracted" or 26 "consented" to procure "social insurance" as a federal "employee". The act of engaging in a "trade or business" makes
27 nonresident aliens subject to the code, and under 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(39\) and 26 U.S.C. §7408\(d\), their "effective domicile"
28 shifts to the District of Columbia. Beyond that point, they become parties to federal law and whenever they walk into a
29 federal district court, the courts are obligated to treat them as though they effectively reside in the District of Columbia. The 30 older versions of the Treasury Regulations demonstrate EXACTLY how this election process works to transform 31 "nonresident aliens" into "residents" who are then "taxpayers":

32 26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

33 A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during 34 the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the
35 law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A

45 Shortly after we posted the information contained in this article on our website, the Treasury deleted the above regulation and 46 replaced it on the Government Printing Office website with a temporary regulation that doesn't tell the truth quite so plainly.
47 They don't want you to know how they made you into a "resident". This is their secret weapon, folks.

The trouble and inherent corruption associated with this deceitful manufacturing process is that:

1. The government won't admit on its website or its publications or its phone support that your voluntary consent is necessary as a nonresident alien nontaxpayer in order to become a resident alien taxpayer.
2. The IRS Publications don't contain either legal definitions that would help you understand the full extent of your tax obligation and they won't talk with you about the law on the phone, because then you would instantly realize that they have no authority.
3. The courts refuse to hold the IRS responsible for telling the truth. See:

Federal Courts and the IRS' Own IRM Say IRS is NOT RESPONSIBLE for Its Actions or Its Words or For Following Its Own Written Procedures, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>
4. The IRS won't tell you how to "unvolunteer" or how your consent was procured, because they want everyone to be indentured government slaves in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.
5. The IRS deceives you on their website by omitting key truths contained in this pamphlet from their website and by refusing to address completely in their propaganda literature, such as the following:

Rebutted Version of the IRS "The Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments", Form #08.005
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
6. If you confront them with the truth, they are silent and won't respond, because if they did, their Ponzi scheme would cave in and people would leave the system in droves.
7. Those who expose these truths are often persecuted by the IRS for reminding people that you can unvolunteer.
8. Private companies and financial institutions who file false information returns (e.g. W-2, 1099) that connect you to a "trade or business" (pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041) or who compel you to sign or submit either an SS-5 to get an identifying number or W-4 to procure a job and who threaten to either not hire you or fire you if they don't are engaged in extortion, money laundering, and racketeering for which the government should be prosecuting them. However, the Dept. of Justice looks the other way because they want the plunder to continue flowing into their checking account.

The sin and corruption that keeps our tax system going is therefore mainly a sin of "omission", rather than "commission". Silence by the IRS and failure to act properly or in the best interests of all Americans, in fulfillment of the fiduciary duty that public servants have, by informing Americans of exactly what the law says and requires is what allows the fraud to continue.

Lastly, THE MOST IMPORTANT thing you can have in your administrative record with the government is evidence of duress being instituted against you as described above. An affidavit of duress should be maintained at all times documenting the unlawful and coerced nature of all information returns filed against you, all W-4's, SS-5 forms, etc. that were instituted against you, so that you have legal recourse to recover taxes or penalties unlawfully or illegally collected against you using Form #04.001. Treasury Decision 3445 says that if you pay a tax or have it levied or deducted from your pay, the MOST important thing you can do is establish proof on the record of the company that did it of duress and that it is being collected "under protest", or else you forfeit your right to recover it in court:

The principle that taxes voluntarily paid can not be recovered back is thoroughly established. It has been so declared in the following cases in the Supreme Court: United States v. New York & Cuba Mail Steamship Co. (200 U.S. 488, 493, 494); Chesebrough v. United States (192 U.S. 253); Little v. Bowers (134 U.S. 547, 554); Wright v. Blakeslee (101 U.S. 174, 178); Railroad Co. v. Commissioner (98 U.S. 541, 543); Lamborn v. County Commissioners (97 U.S. 181); Elliott v. Swartwout (10 Pet. 137). And there are numerous like cases in other Federal courts: Procter & Gamble Co. v. United States (281 Fed. 1014); Vaughan v. Riordan (280 Fed. 742, 745); Beer v. Moffatt (192 Fed. 984, affirmed 209 Fed. 779); Newhall v. Jordan (160 Fed. 661); Christie Street Commission Co. v. United States (126 Fed. 991); Kentucky Bank v. Stone (88 Fed. 383); Corkie v. Maxwell (7 Fed. Cas. 3231).

And the rule of the Federal courts is not at all peculiar to them. It is the settled general rule of the State courts as well that no matter what may be the ground of the objection to the tax or assessment if it has been paid voluntarily and without compulsion it can not be recovered back in an action at law, unless there is some constitutional or statutory provision which gives to one so paying such a right notwithstanding the payment was made without compulsion.—Adams v. New Bedford (155 Mass. 317); McCue v. Monroe County (162 N.Y. 235); Taylor v. Philadelphia Board of Health (31 P. St. 73); Williams v. Merritt (152 Mich. 621); Gould v. Hennepin County (76 Minn. 379); Martin v. Kearney County (62 Minn. 538); Gar v. Hurd (92 Ills. 315); Slimmer v. Chickasaw County (140 Iowa. 448); Warren v. San Francisco (150 Calif. 167); State v. Chicago & C. R. Co. (165 No. 597).

And it has been many times held, in the absence of a statute on the subject, that mere payment under protest does not save a payment from being voluntary, in the sense which forbids a recovery back of the tax paid, if it was not made under any duress, compulsion, or threats, or under the pressure of process immediately available for the forcible collection of the tax.--Dexter v. Boston (176 Mass. 247); Flower v. Lance (59 N.Y. 603); Williams v. Merritt (152 Mich. 621); Oakland Cemetery Association v. Ramsey County (98 Minn. 404); Robins v. Latham (134 No. 466); Whitbeck v. Minch (48 Ohio.St. 210); Peebles v. Pittsburgh.(101 Pa. St. 304); Montgomery v. Cowlitz County (14 Wash. 230); Cincinnati & C. R. Co. v. Hamilton County (120 Tenn. 1).

The principle that a tax or an assessment voluntarily paid can not be recovered back is an ancient one in the common law and is of general application. See Cooley on Taxation (vol. 2, 3d ed. p. 1495). That eminent authority also points out that every man is supposed to know the law, and if he voluntarily makes a payment which the law would not compel him to make he can not afterwards assign his ignorance of the law as a reason why the State should furnish him with legal remedies to recover it back. And he adds:

5.6.13.3.3 Compelled Use of Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs)

The use of a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in connection with any financial transaction creates a legal presumption that the party using it is a person with a domicile on federal territory. This is confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g)(1)(i), in which “nonresident aliens” are not listed:

(1) General rule—

(i) Social security number.

A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.

The only legal requirement to use taxpayer identification numbers is found in the following regulation at 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b)(1):

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(b\)

(b) Requirement to furnish one's own number—

(1) U.S. persons.

Every U.S. person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions.

The above regulation only imposes such a requirement upon a “U.S. person”. That “person” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) as an entity with a domicile on federal territory. Note that “citizens” and “residents” and federal corporations and all other entities listed below have in common a domicile in the “United States”, which is federal territory:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(30) United States person

The term “United States person” means -

(A) a [corporate] citizen or resident [alien] of the [federal] United States,

(B) a domestic partnership,

(C) a domestic corporation,

(D) any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of paragraph (31)), and

(E) any trust if -

- 1 (i) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust,
 2 and
 3 (ii) one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

4 If you look on the following:

IRS Form SS-4 Application for an Employer Identification Number (EIN)
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/IRS/IRSSFormSS4.pdf>

5 ... the form allows you to fill it out in such a way that you are NOT an “employer” or a “taxpayer”, but if you don’t do so,
 6 then the implication is that you are in fact a “U.S. person”.

7 Both SSNs and TINs are made equivalent by the following authorities: 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(41), 26 U.S.C. §6109(d), and 26
 8 C.F.R. §301.7701-1. The following statute makes it a crime to compel use of Social Security Numbers, and by implication, 9 Taxpayer Identification Numbers.

10 TITLE 42 - THE PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE
 11 CHAPTER 7 - SOCIAL SECURITY
 12 SUBCHAPTER II - FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS, AND DISABILITY INSURANCE BENEFITS
 13 Sec. 408. Penalties

14 (a) In general

15 Whoever -...

16 (8) discloses, uses, or compels the disclosure of the social security number of any person in violation of the 17 laws of the United States; shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be fined under title 18
 18 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

19 Consequently, the use of a government identifying number is presumed to be voluntary and not compelled, unless you, the 20 person being compelled, state otherwise in correspondence to them and the people you do business with. Therefore, providing 21 such a number in the context of any transaction constitutes consent and a voluntary “election” to be treated as a “U.S. person”
 22 and a person with a domicile on federal territory. If you started out as a nonresident alien, that election is authorized by 26
 23 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h), but ONLY if are an alien and NOT a national or non-citizen national.

24 Those who start out as “non-resident non-persons” and who open a financial account at banks as human beings by default:

- 25 1. Are required to provide a Social Security Number (SSN) or Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) when opening the 26 account.
- 27 2. Open all such accounts as statutory “U.S. persons” with a domicile on federal territory because they provided a 28 government identifying number.

29 Banks in implementing the above policies, are acting as agents of the national government in a quasi-governmental capacity
 30 and also become the equivalent of federal employment recruiters. 31 C.F.R. §202.2 confirms that all banks who participate
 31 in FDIC insurance are agents of the national government. 12 U.S.C. §90 also makes all national banks into agents of the U.S.
 32 Government. It would be more advantageous to open an international bank account to avoid this issue. In their capacity as 33 agents of the national government, you can be sure that banks subject to federal regulation are going to want to recruit more
 34 “employee” and “public officers” engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

35 Even for those people smart enough to know about the IRS form W-8BEN and how to properly fill it out, most banks opening
 36 business accounts even in the case of businesses that are “non-resident non-person” refuse to open such accounts without an 37 Employer Identification Number (EIN) as a matter of policy and not law.

- 38 1. If you ask them what law authorizes such a policy, typically they:
  - 39 1.1. Can't produce the law and are operating on policy rather than law.
  - 40 1.2. May often say that the USA Patriot Act “requires it”, but this act doesn't apply outside of federal territory and there is no such provision contained within it anyway. They are lying.

2. If you attempt to offer them forms that correctly describe your status as a "foreigner", a "non-resident non-person", but not a "foreign person" who therefore has no requirement to supply a number, they may just say that their policy is not to accept such forms and to refuse you an account. Therefore, you have to commit perjury to even get an account with them.
3. If they won't accept your forms correctly describing your status and you modify their forms to correctly reflect your status, they may also tell you that they have a policy not to open an account for you and they may even refuse to explain why.

In practical terms then, the law doesn't require businesses who properly identify themselves as "non-resident non-persons not engaged in a trade or business" to have or use identifying numbers but most are compelled by adhesion contracts of banking monopolies into having one anyway. As a matter of fact, 26 C.F.R. §306.10, Footnote 2, as well as 31 C.F.R. §103.34(a)(3)(x) both expressly exclude "nonresident aliens" who are not engaged in the "trade or business"/"public office" franchise from the requirement to furnish identifying numbers. In that sense, most banks are acting as the equivalent of federal employment recruiters and compelling their customers to commit perjury on their applications by stating indirectly that they are "resident aliens" with a domicile on federal territory who are lawfully engaged in a public office within the U.S. government. This is a huge scam that is the main source of jurisdiction of the IRS over otherwise private companies.

5.6.13.3.4      Deception through "words of art"

5.6.13.3.4.1      Introduction to identity theft using language abuse: abusing "words of art", the rules of statutory construction, and unconstitutional presumptions

*"Old age and treachery will always overcome youth and skill."
[Federal judge]*

Other famous and very frequent tactics of corrupt judges and administrative personnel is to:

1. Abuse the word "includes" as a way to essentially to turn a specific statutory "definitions" into NON-definition that can mean anything they want it to mean. For instance, they will say that "includes" is not used as a term of LIMITATION and that they can "include" anything they want in the definition, such as the definition of "includes" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(c).

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701\(c\) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING.

The terms 'include' and 'including' when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined."

The purpose for providing a statutory definition is to SUPERSEDE the common or ordinary meaning of a word, not ENLARGE it. The only other use for the word "includes" is in an additive sense, but this application is a method of ADDING to EXISTING statutory definitions, not adding the ORDINARY meaning to the STATUTORY meaning. This constructive fraud is the most common method of unlawfully enlarging federal jurisdiction and is exhaustively rebutted in:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 1 2. Abuse the rules of statutory construction to add things or classes of things that do not expressly appear in statutory
 2 definitions of especially geographical “words of art”, such as “State” and “United States”. This violates the following
 3 rules of statutory construction:

4 “When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term’s
 5 ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) (“It is axiomatic that the statutory definition
 6 of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term”); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 (“As a
 7 rule, a definition which declares what a term “means” . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated”); Western
 8 Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96
 9 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152,
 10 and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read “as a whole,” post at 998 [530 U.S.
 11 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney
 12 General’s restriction -- “the child up to the head.” Its words, “substantial portion,” indicate the contrary.”
 13 [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

14 “Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
 15 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
 16 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or
 17 things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
 18 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
 19 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”
 20 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

- 21 3. Make conclusive presumptions about your status that are not substantiated with evidence and which cannot be used as a 22 substitute for evidence without violating due process of law and rendering the final judgment void:

23 This court has never treated a presumption as any form of evidence. See, e.g., A.C. Aukerman Co. v. R.L. Chaides
 24 Constr. Co., 960 F.2d. 1020, 1037 (Fed.Cir.1992) (“[A] presumption is not evidence.”); see also Del Vecchio v.
 25 Bowers, 296 U.S. 280, 286, 56 S.Ct. 190, 193, 80 L.Ed. 229 (1935) (“[A presumption] cannot acquire the attribute
 26 of evidence in the claimant’s favor.”); New York Life Ins. Co. v. Gamer, 303 U.S. 161, 171, 58 S.Ct. 500, 503, 82
 27 L.Ed. 726 (1938) (“[A] presumption is not evidence and may not be given weight as evidence.”). Although a
 28 decision of this court, Jensen v. Brown, 19 F.3d. 1413, 1415 (Fed.Cir.1994), dealing with presumptions in VA
 29 law is cited for the contrary proposition, the Jensen court did not so decide.
 30 [Routen v. West, 142 F.3d. 1434 C.A.Fed.,1998]

31 (1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests: A conclusive presumption may be defeated
 32 where its application would impair a party’s constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases,
 33 conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party’s due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v.
 34 Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 441, 449, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bed. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 U.S. 632, 639-
 35 640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process]
 36 [Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

37 Examples of unconstitutional presumptions that violate due process of law and render a void judgment include:

- 38 3.1. Presume that CONSTITUTIONAL and STATUTORY contexts of geographical terms are equivalent. They are not 39 and in fact are MUTUALLY exclusive.
 40 3.2. Presume that the STATUTORY definition and the COMMON definition are equivalent. For instance, an 41 “employee” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) and 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) is a public officer in the U.S. government and 42 is NOT equivalent to a PRIVATE employee because the ability to regulate PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the 43 Constitution. Governments are instituted to PROTECT private rights and you protect them by not burdening or 44 regulating or punishing their exercise.

45 “The power to “legislate generally upon” life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the “power to provide modes
 46 of redress” against offensive state action, was “repugnant” to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States
 47 v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S.
 48 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see,
 49 e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745
 50 (1966), their treatment of Congress’ §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been
 51 questioned.”
 52 [City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

53 Of course all of the above methods are abused to unlawfully extend federal jurisdiction into legislatively foreign jurisdictions
 54 such as states of the Union, and to unconstitutionally break down the separation of powers between the states and the national

1 government that is the foundation of the constitution. This constitutes a conspiracy against rights protected by the 2 Constitution and is exhaustively described in:

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

3 5.6.13.3.4.2 Deliberately Confusing Statutory “Nonresident Aliens” with “Aliens”

4 A popular technique promoted and encouraged by the IRS is to:

- 5 1. Deliberately confuse “nonresident aliens” with “aliens”. “nonresident aliens” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B)
- 6 are NOT a subset of “aliens” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
- 7 2. Deliberately confuse CONSTITUTIONAL “non-resident aliens” with STATUTORY “nonresident aliens” under the
- 8 I.R.C. They are NOT the same. One can be a CONSTITUTIONAL “non-resident alien” as the U.S. Supreme Court
- 9 calls it while NOT being an “nonresident alien” under the I.R.C. because the two contexts rely on DIFFERENT
- 10 definitions and contexts for the terms.
- 11 3. Falsely tell you or imply that “nonresident aliens” include only those aliens that are not resident within the jurisdiction
- 12 of the United States.
- 13 4. Deceive you into believing that “nonresident aliens” and “nonresident alien individuals” are equivalent. They are not.
- 14 It is a maxim of law that things that are similar are NOT the same:

15 Talis non est eadem, nam nullum simile est idem.

16 What is like is not the same, for nothing similar is the same. 4 Co. 18.

17 [Bouvier's Maxims of Law, 1856;

18 SOURCE: <http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouvierMaxims.htm>]

- 19 5. Refuse to define what a “nonresident alien” is and what is included in the definition within 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B).
- 20 6. Define what it ISN'T, and absolutely refuse to define what it IS.
- 21 7. Refuse to acknowledge that “nationals” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22) are “nonresident
- 22 aliens” if they are engaged in a public office in the national government and “non-resident non-persons” if not engaged
- 23 in a public office.

24 All of the confusion and deception surrounding “nonresident alien” status is introduced and perpetuated mainly in the IRS
25 Publications and the Treasury Regulations. It is not found in the Internal Revenue Code. “Nonresident aliens” and “aliens”
26 are not equivalent in law, and confusing them has the following direct injurious consequences against those who are state
27 nationals:

- 28 1. Prejudicing their ability to claim “nonresident alien” status at financial institutions and employers. This occurs because
- 29 without either a Treasury Regulation or IRS publication they can point to which proves that they are a “nonresident
- 30 alien”, they will not have anything they can show these institutions in order that their status will be recognized when
- 31 they open accounts or pursue employment. This compels them in violation of the law because of the ignorance of bank
- 32 clerks and employers into declaring that they are “U.S. persons” and enumerating themselves just in order to obtain the
- 33 services or employment that they seek.
- 34 2. Unlawfully preventing state nationals from being able to change their domicile if they mistakenly claim to be “residents”
- 35 of the United States. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-5 says that an intention of an “alien” to change his domicile/residence is
- 36 insufficient to change it whereas a similar intention on the part of a state national is sufficient.

37 The above injuries to the rights of state nationals is very important, because we prove in the following document and
38 elsewhere on our website that all humans born within and domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union
39 are state nationals pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), and so this injury is widespread and vast in its consequences:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

40 Let's show some of the IRS deception to disguise the availability of “nonresident alien” status to state nationals so that they
41 don't use it. Below is the definition of “nonresident alien”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(b) Definition of resident alien and nonresident alien

(1) In general

(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

Below are two consistent definitions of “alien”:

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1T Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(ii) Nonresident alien individual.

The term nonresident alien individual means persons described in section 7701(b)(1)(B), alien individuals who are treated as nonresident aliens pursuant to § 301.7701(b)-7 of this chapter for purposes of computing their U.S. tax liability, or an alien individual who is a resident of Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as determined under § 301.7701(b)-1(d) of this chapter. An alien individual who has made an election under section 6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident of the United States is nevertheless treated as a nonresident alien individual for purposes of withholding under chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder.

TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER I > § 1101
§ 1101. Definitions

(a) As used in this chapter—

(3) The term “alien” means any person not a citizen or national of the United States.

Notice based on the above definitions that:

1. They define what “alien” and “nonresident alien” are NOT, but not what they ARE.
2. The definition of “nonresident alien” is NOT equivalent to “alien”. The two overlap, but neither is a subset of the other. Otherwise, why have two definitions?
3. There are three classes of entities that are “nonresident aliens”, which include:
  - 3.1. “Aliens” with no domicile or residence within the STATUTORY “United States**”, meaning federal territory.
  - 3.2. State citizens born within and domiciled within Constitutional states of the Union and defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).
  - 3.3. “non-citizen nationals of the United States**” born in possessions and defined in 8 U.S.C. §1408. These areas

1 include American Samoa and Swains Island.

2 NOTE that Items 3.2 and 3.3 above are not "ALIENS" OF any kind. Under Title 8, you cannot simultaneously be an "alien"
3 in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) and a "national of the United States*" in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22). Item 3.3 above is corroborated by:

- 4 1. The content of IRS Publication 519, Tax Guide for Aliens, which obtusely mentions what it calls "U.S. nationals", which 5 it then defines as persons domiciled in American Samoa and Swains Island who do not elect to become statutory "U.S.
6 citizens".

7 *"A U.S. national is an alien who, although not a U.S. citizen, owes his or her allegiance to the United States. U.S.
8 nationals include American Samoans, and Northern Mariana Islanders who choose to become U.S. nationals
9 instead of U.S. citizens"*
10 [IRS Publication 519, Tax Guide for Aliens (2007), p. 43]

11 The above statement is partially false. A statutory "U.S. national" as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22) is NOT an "alien",
12 because aliens exclude "nationals of the United States*" based on the definition of "alien" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-
13 1(c)(3)(i) and 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3). The "U.S. national" to which they refer also very deliberately is neither mentioned
14 nor defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code or the Treasury Regulations as being "nonresident aliens", even 15 though they in fact are and Pub. 519 admits that they are. The only statutory definition of "U.S. national" is found in 8
16 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B) and 8 U.S.C. §1408. However, the existence of this person is also found on IRS Form 1040NR
17 itself, which mentions it as a status as being a "nonresident alien". By the way, don't let the government fool you by 18 using the above as evidence in a legal proceeding because it ISN'T competent evidence and cannot form the basis for a
19 reasonable belief or willfulness. The IRS itself says you cannot and should not rely on anything in any of their 20 publications. The IRS, in fact, routinely deceives and lies in their publications and their forms and does so with the 21 blessings and even protection of the federal district courts, even though they hypocritically sue the rest of us for "abusive
22 tax shelters" if we offer the public equally misleading information. For details on this subject, see:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 23 2. 26 U.S.C. §877(a), which describes a "nonresident alien" who lost citizenship to avoid taxes and therefore is subject to 24 a special assessment as a punishment for that act of political dis-association. Notice the statute doesn't say a "citizen of 25 the United States" losing citizenship, but a "nonresident alien". The "citizenship" they are referring to is the "nationality"
26 described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and NOT the statutory "U.S. citizen" status found in 8 U.S.C. §1401.

27 TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART II > Subpart A > § 877
28 § 877. Expatriation to avoid tax

29 (a) Treatment of expatriates

30 (1) In general

31 *Every nonresident alien individual to whom this section applies and who, within the 10-year period immediately
32 preceding the close of the taxable year, lost United States citizenship shall be taxable for such taxable year in 33 the manner provided in subsection (b) if the tax imposed pursuant to such subsection (after any reduction in such 34 tax under the last sentence of such subsection) exceeds the tax which, without regard to this section, is imposed 35 pursuant to section 871.*

36 So let's get this straight: 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) both say that you cannot be an "alien" if you
37 are a "national" and yet, the IRS Publications such as IRS Publication 519, Tax Guide for Aliens and the Treasury Regulations
38 frequently identify these same "nationals" as "aliens". Earth calling IRS. Hello? Anybody home? The IRS knows that the 39 key to being sovereign as an American National born in a state of the Union and domiciled there is being a nonresident alien
40 not engaged in a trade or business. So what do they do to prevent people from achieving this status? They surround the 41 status with cognitive dissonance, lies, falsehoods, and mis-directions. Hence one of our favorite sayings:

42 "The truth about the income tax is so precious to the government that it must be surrounded by a bodyguard of 43 lies."
44 [SEDM]

45 Nowhere within the Internal Revenue Code, the Treasury Regulations, or IRS Publication 519, Tax Guide for Aliens will you
46 find a definition of the term "national" which is mentioned in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), and which describes a person born

1 within and domiciled within a state of the Union. However, these persons are treated the same as "U.S. nationals", which
2 means they are "nonresident aliens" and not "aliens". Consequently, unlike aliens, those who are "nationals":

- 3 1. Are not bound by any of the regulations pertaining to "aliens", because they are NOT "aliens" as legally defined..
- 4 2. Do not have to file IRS Form 8840 in order to associate with the "foreign state" they are domiciled within in order to be 5 automatically exempt from Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A taxes.
- 6 3. Are forbidden to file a "Declaration of Intention" to become "U.S. residents" pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-4 and IRS
7 Form 1078.

8 If you are still confused at this point about state nationals and who they are, you may want to go back to section 4.12.8 earlier
9 and examine the tables and diagrams there until the relationships become clear in your mind.

10 Moving on, why does the IRS play this devious sleight of hand? Remember: everything happens for a reason, and here are 11 the reasons:

- 12 1. IRS has a vested interest to maximize the number of "taxpayers" contributing to their scam. Taxation is based on legal 13 domicile.

14 "Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit
15 or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth
16 Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally
17 reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously
18 includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of
19 property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration
20 being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."
21 Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, [347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

22 Therefore, IRS has an interest in compelling persons domiciled in states of the Union into falsely declaring their domicile
23 within the statutory "United States***". The status that implies domicile is "U.S. persons" as defined in 26 U.S.C.
24 §7701(a)(30). "U.S. persons" include either statutory "nationals and citizens of the United States***" as defined in 8
25 U.S.C. §1401 or "resident aliens" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) and both have in common a legal domicile in 26 the "United States".

- 27 2. IRS does not want people born within and domiciled within states of the Union, who are "nationals" but NOT "U.S.
28 nationals" pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) but not STATUTORY "citizens" per 8 U.S.C. §1401 to know that
29 "nationals" are included in the definition of "nonresident alien". This would cause a mass exodus from the tax system 30 and severely limit the number of "taxpayers" that they may collect from.
- 31 3. IRS wants to prevent state nationals from using the nonresident alien status so as to force them, via presumption, into 32 falsely declaring their status to be that of a "U.S. person" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). This will create a false 33 presumption that they maintain a domicile on federal territory and are therefore subject to federal jurisdiction and 34 "taxpayers".
- 35 4. By refusing to define EXACTLY what is included in the definition of "nonresident alien" in both Treasury Regulations
36 and IRS Publications or acknowledging that "nationals" are included in the definition, those opening bank accounts at 37 financial institutions and starting employment will be deprived of evidence which they can affirmatively use to establish
38 their status with these entities, which in effect compels presumption by financial institutions and employers within states
39 of the Union that they are "U.S. persons" who MUST have an identifying number, such as a Social Security Number or 40 a Taxpayer Identification Number. This forces them to participate in a tax system that they can't lawfully participate in 41 without unknowingly making false statements about their legal status by mis-declaring themselves to be "U.S. persons".

42 Below are several examples of this deliberate, malicious IRS confusion between "aliens" and "nonresident aliens" found
43 within the IRS Publications and Treasury Regulations, where "nonresident aliens" are referred to as "aliens" that we have 44 found so far. All of these examples are the result of a false presumption that "nonresident aliens" are a subset of all "aliens",
45 which is NOT the case. We were able to find no such confusion within the I.R.C., but it is rampant within the Treasury
46 Regulations.

- 47 1. IRS Publication 515: Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities. This confusion is found 48 throughout this IRS publication.
- 49 2. IRS Publication 519, Tax Guide for Aliens. This publication should not even be discussion "nonresident aliens", because 50 they aren't a subset of "aliens" unless the word "nonresident alien" is followed with the word "individual".

(d) Agent activity.

(1) Dependent agents.

(i) In general.

In determining whether a nonresident alien individual or a foreign corporation has an office or other fixed place of business, the office or other fixed place of business of an agent who is not an independent agent, as defined in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph, shall be disregarded unless such agent

(a) has the authority to negotiate and conclude contracts in the name of the nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation, and regularly exercises that authority, or

(b) has a stock of merchandise belonging to the nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation from which orders are regularly filed on behalf of such alien individual or foreign corporation.

A person who purchases goods from a nonresident alien individual or a foreign corporation shall not be considered to be an agent for such alien individual or foreign corporation for purposes of this paragraph where such person is carrying on such purchasing activities in the ordinary course of its own business, even though such person is related in some manner to the nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation. For example, a wholly owned domestic subsidiary corporation of a foreign corporation shall not be treated as an agent of the foreign parent corporation merely because the subsidiary corporation purchases goods from the foreign parent corporation and resells them in its own name. However, if the domestic subsidiary corporation regularly negotiates and concludes contracts in the name of its foreign parent corporation or maintains a stock of merchandise from which it regularly fills orders on behalf of the foreign parent corporation, the office or other fixed place of business of the domestic subsidiary corporation shall be treated as the office or other fixed place of business of the foreign parent corporation unless the domestic subsidiary corporation is an independent agent within the meaning of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

Sec. 1.872-2 Exclusions from gross income of nonresident alien individuals.

(b) Compensation paid by foreign employer to participants in certain exchange or training programs.

(1) Exclusion from income.

Compensation paid to a nonresident alien individual for the period that the nonresident alien individual is temporarily present in the United States as a nonimmigrant under subparagraph (F) (relating to the admission of students into the United States) or subparagraph (J) (relating to the admission of teachers, trainees, specialists, etc., into the United States) of section 101(a)(15) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(15)) (F) or (J)) shall be excluded from gross income if the compensation is paid to such alien by his foreign employer. Compensation paid to a nonresident alien individual by the U.S. office of a domestic bank which is acting as paymaster on behalf of a foreign employer constitutes compensation paid by a foreign employer for purposes of this paragraph if the domestic bank is reimbursed by the foreign employer for such payment. A nonresident alien individual who is temporarily present in the United States as a nonimmigrant under such subparagraph (J) includes a nonresident alien individual admitted to the United States as an "exchange visitor" under section 201 of the U.S. Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948 (22 U.S.C. 1446), which section was repealed by section 111 of the Mutual Education and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961 (75 Stat. 538).

8. 26 C.F.R. §509.103(b)(3).

9. 26 C.F.R. §509.108(a)(1)

"Nonresident aliens" are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B). Aliens are defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3). "Resident aliens" are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B). The relationship between these three entities are as follows, in the context of income taxes:

1. "non-resident non-person": Those with no domicile on federal territory and who are born either in a foreign country, a state of the Union, or within the federal zone. Also called a "nonresident", "stateless person", or "transient foreigner". They are exclusively PRIVATE and beyond the reach of the civil statutory law because:

1.1. They are not a "person" or "individual" because not engaged in an elected or appointed office.

1.2. They have not waived sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97.

1.3. They have not "purposefully" or "consensually" availed themselves of commerce within the exclusive or general jurisdiction of the national government within federal territory.

1.4. They waived the "benefit" of any and all licenses or permits in the context of a specific transaction or agreement.

1.5. In the context of a specific business dealing, they have not invoked any statutory status under federal civil law that might connect them with a government franchise, such as "U.S. citizen", "U.S. resident", "person", "individual", "taxpayer", etc.

1.6. If they are demanded to produce an identifying number, they say they don't consent and attach the following form to every application or withholding document:

Why It is Illegal for Me to Request or Use a "Taxpayer Identification Number", Form #04.205

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

2. "Aliens" or "alien individuals": Those born in a foreign country and not within any state of the Union or within any federal territory.

2.1. "Alien" is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) as a person who is neither a citizen nor a national.

2.2. "Alien individual" is defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i).

2.3. An alien is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) as a person who is neither a statutory "U.S.** citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401 nor a "national of the United States**" per 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22).

2.4. An alien with no domicile in the "United States**" is presumed to be a "nonresident alien" pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-4(b).

3. "Residents" or "resident aliens": An "alien" or "alien individual" with a legal domicile on federal territory.

3.1. "Resident aliens" are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).

- 1 3.2. A “resident alien” is an alien as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) who has a legal domicile on federal territory that 2 is no part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union.
- 3 3.3. An “alien” becomes a “resident alien” by filing IRS Form 1078 pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-4(c)(ii) and thereby 4 electing to have a domicile on federal territory.
- 5 4. “Nonresident aliens”: Those with no domicile on federal territory and who are born either in a foreign country, a state
 6 of the Union, or within the federal zone. They serve in a public office in the national but not state government.
- 7 4.1. Defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B).
- 8 4.2. A “nonresident alien” is defined as a person who is neither a statutory “citizen” pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) nor 9 a statutory “resident” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
- 10 4.3. A person who is a “non-citizen national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1452 and 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B) is a “nonresident 11 alien”, but only if they are lawfully engaged in a public office of the national government.
- 12 5. “Nonresident alien individuals”: Those who are aliens and who do not have a domicile on federal territory.
- 13 5.1. Status is indicated in block 3 of the IRS Form W-8BEN under the term “Individual”.
- 14 5.2. Includes only nonresidents not domiciled on federal territory but serving in public offices of the national 15 government. “person” and “individual” are synonymous with said office in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C.
 16 §7343.
- 17 6. Convertibility between “aliens”, “resident aliens”, and “nonresident aliens”, and “nonresident alien individuals”:
- 18 6.1. A “nonresident alien” is not the legal equivalent of an “alien” in law nor is it a subset of “alien”.
- 19 6.2. IRS Form W-8BEN, Block 3 has no block to check for those who are “non-resident non-persons” but not 20 “nonresident aliens” or “nonresident alien individuals”. Thus, the submitter of this form who is a statutory “non-21 resident non-person” but not a “nonresident alien” or “nonresident alien individual” is effectively compelled to 22 make an illegal and fraudulent election to become an alien and an “individual” if they do not add a block for 23 “transient foreigner” or “Union State Citizen” to the form. See section 5.3 of the following:
- About IRS Form W-8BEN*, Form #04.202
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
- 24 6.3. 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h) and 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B) authorize a “nonresident alien” who is married to a 25 statutory “U.S. citizen” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) to make an “election” to become a “resident alien”.
- 26 6.4. It is unlawful for an unmarried “state national” pursuant to either 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) or 8 U.S.C.
 27 §1101(a)(22)(B) to become a “resident alien”. This can only happen by either fraud or mistake.
- 28 6.5. An alien may overcome the presumption that he is a “nonresident alien” and change his status to that of a “resident 29 alien” by filing IRS Form 1078 pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.871-4(c)(ii) while he is in the “United States”.
- 30 6.6. The term “residence” can only lawfully be used to describe the domicile of an “alien”. Nowhere is this term used 31 to describe the domicile of a “state national” or a “nonresident alien”. See 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2.
- 32 6.7. The only way a statutory “alien” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) can become both a “state national” and a “nonresident 33 alien” at the same time is to be naturalized pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1421 and to have a domicile in either a U.S.
 34 possession or a state of the Union.
- 35 7. Sources of confusion on these issues:
- 36 7.1. One can be a “non-resident non-person” without being an “individual” or a “nonresident alien individual” under 37 the Internal Revenue Code. An example would be a human being born within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state
 38 of the Union who is therefore a “state national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) who does not participate in 39 Social Security or use a Taxpayer Identification Number.
- 40 7.2. The term “United States” is defined in the Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10).
- 41 7.3. The term “United States” for the purposes of citizenship is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38).
- 42 7.4. Any “U.S. Person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) who is not found in the “United States” (District of 43 Columbia pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10)) shall be treated as having an effective domicile within 44 the District of Columbia pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).
- 45 7.5. The term “United States” is equivalent for the purposes of statutory “citizens” pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) and 46 “citizens” as used in the Internal Revenue Code. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c).
- 47 7.6. The term “United States” as used in the Constitution of the United States is NOT equivalent to the statutory 48 definition of the term used in:
- 49 7.6.1. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10).
- 50 7.6.2. 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38).
- 51 The “United States” as used in the Constitution means the states of the Union and excludes federal territory, while 52 the term “United States” as used in federal statutory law means federal territory and excludes states of the Union.
- 53 7.7. A constitutional “citizen of the United States” as mentioned in the Fourteenth Amendment is NOT equivalent to a 54 statutory “national and citizen of the United States” as used in 8 U.S.C. §1401. See:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

7.8. In the case of jurisdiction over CONSTITUTIONAL aliens only (meaning foreign NATIONALS), the term "United States" implies all 50 states and the federal zone, and is not restricted only to the federal zone. See:

7.8.1. Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020

7.8.2. Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 \(1972\)

*In accord with ancient principles of the international law of nation-states, the Court in The Chinese Exclusion Case, 130 U.S. 581, 609 (1889), and in Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U.S. 698 (1893), held broadly, as the Government describes it, Brief for Appellants 20, that the power to exclude aliens is "inherent in sovereignty, necessary for maintaining normal international relations and defending the country against foreign encroachments and dangers - a power to be exercised exclusively by the political branches of government . . . ." Since that time, the Court's general reaffirmations of this principle have [408 U.S. 753, 766] been legion. 6 The Court without exception has sustained Congress' "plenary power to make rules for the admission of aliens and to exclude those who possess those characteristics which Congress has forbidden." Boutilier v. Immigration and Naturalization Service, 387 U.S. 118, 123 (1967). "[O]ver no conceivable subject is the legislative power of Congress more complete than it is over" the admission of aliens. Oceanic Navigation Co. v. Stranahan, 214 U.S. 320, 339 (1909). [Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972)]*

7.8.3. Chae Chan Ping v. U.S., 130 U.S. 581 \(1889\)

While under our constitution and form of government the great mass of local matters is controlled by local authorities, the United States, in their relation to foreign countries and their subjects or citizens, are one nation, invested with powers which belong to independent nations, the exercise of which can be invoked for the maintenance of its absolute independence and security throughout its entire territory. The powers to declare war, make treaties, suppress insurrection, repel invasion, regulate foreign commerce, secure republican governments to the states, and admit subjects of other nations to citizenship, are all sovereign powers, restricted in their exercise only by the constitution itself and considerations of public policy and justice which control, more or less, the conduct of all civilized nations. As said by this court in the case of Cohens v. Virginia, 6 Wheat. 264, 413, speaking by the same great chief justice: "That the United States form, for many, and for most important purposes, a single nation, has not yet been denied. In war, we are one people. In making peace, we are one people. In all commercial regulations, we are one and the same people. In many other respects, the American people are one; and the government which is alone capable of controlling and managing their interests in all these respects is the government of the Union. It is their government, and in that character they have no other. America has chosen to [130 U.S. 581, 605] be in many respects, and to many purposes, a nation; and for all these purposes her government is complete; to all these objects, it is competent. The people have declared that in the exercise of all powers given for these objects it is supreme. It can, then, in effecting these objects, legitimately control all individuals or governments within the American territory."

[. . .]

"The power of exclusion of foreigners being an incident of sovereignty belonging to the government of the United States as a part of those sovereign powers delegated by the constitution, the right to its exercise at any time when, in the judgment of the government, the interests of the country require it, cannot be granted away or restrained on behalf of any one. The powers of government are delegated in trust to the United States, and are incapable of transfer to any other parties. They cannot be abandoned or surrendered. Nor can their exercise be hampered, when needed for the public good, by any considerations of private interest. The exercise of these public trusts is not the subject of barter or contract." [Chae Chan Ping v. U.S., 130 U.S. 581 (1889)]

A picture is worth a thousand words. Below is a picture that graphically demonstrates the relationship between citizenship status in Title 8 of the U.S. Code with tax status in Title 26 of the U.S. Code:

NOTES:

1. Domicile is a prerequisite to having any civil status per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17. One therefore cannot be a statutory "alien" under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) without a domicile on federal territory. Without such a domicile, you are a transient foreigner and neither an "alien" nor a "nonresident alien".
2. "United States" is described in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(38), (a)(36) and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f) and includes only federal territory and possessions and excludes all Constitutional Union states. This is a product of the separation of powers doctrine that is the heart of the United States Constitution.
3. A "nonresident alien individual" who has made an election under 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h) to be treated as a "resident alien" is treated as a "nonresident alien" for the purposes of withholding under I.R.C. Subtitle C but retains their status as a "resident alien" under I.R.C. Subtitle A. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) for the definition of "individual", which means "alien".
4. A "non-person" is really just a transient foreigner who is not "purposefully availing themselves" of commerce within the legislative jurisdiction of the United States on federal territory under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97. The real transition from a "NON-person" to an "individual" occurs when one:
  - 4.1. "Purposefully avails himself" of commerce on federal territory and thus waives sovereign immunity. Examples of such purposeful availment are the next three items.
  - 4.2. Lawfully and consensually occupying a public office in the U.S. government and thereby being an "officer and individual" as identified in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). Otherwise, you are PRIVATE and therefore beyond the civil legislative jurisdiction of the national government.
  - 4.3. Voluntarily files an IRS Form 1040 as a citizen or resident abroad and takes the foreign tax deduction under 26 U.S.C. §911. This too is essentially an act of "purposeful availment". Nonresidents are not mentioned in section 911. The upper left corner of the form identifies the filer as a "U.S. individual". You

- 1 cannot be an "U.S. individual" without ALSO being an "individual". All the "trade or business" deductions on the form presume the applicant is a public
2 officer, and therefore the "individual" on the form is REALLY a public officer in the government and would be committing FRAUD if he or she was NOT.
- 3 4.4. VOLUNTARILY fills out an IRS Form W-7 ITIN Application (IRS identifies the applicant as an "individual") AND only uses the assigned number in 4 connection with their compensation as an elected or appointed public officer. Using it in connection with PRIVATE earnings is FRAUD.
- 5 5. What turns a "non-resident NON-person" into a "nonresident alien individual" is meeting one or more of the following two criteria:
- 6 5.1. Residence/domicile in a foreign country under the residence article of an income tax treaty and 26 C.F.R. §301.7701(b)-7(a)(1).
7 5.2. Residence/domicile as an alien in Puerto Rico, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or American Samoa as 8 determined under 26 C.F.R. §301.7701(b)-1(d).
- 9 6. All "taxpayers" are STATUTORY "aliens" or "nonresident aliens". The definition of "individual" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) does NOT include "citizens".
10 The only occasion where a "citizen" can also be an "individual" is when they are abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911 and interface to the I.R.C. under a tax treaty with a
11 foreign country as an alien pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §301.7701(b)-7(a)(1)

35 Statutes creating permanent irrebuttable presumptions have long been disfavored under the Due Process

37 772 (1932), the Court was faced with a constitutional challenge to a federal statute that created a conclusive
38 presumption that gifts made within two years prior to the donor's death were made in contemplation of death,
39 thus requiring payment by his estate of a higher tax. In holding that this irrefutable assumption was so arbitrary
40 and unreasonable as to deprive the taxpayer of his property without due process of law, the Court stated that it
41 had 'held more than once that a statute creating a presumption which operates to deny a fair opportunity to rebut

48 2. Destroy the separation of powers between the state and federal government. The states of the Union and the people
49 domiciled therein are supposed to be foreign, sovereign, and separate from the Federal government in order to protect 50 their constitutional rights:

government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v. Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid. "[U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]

3. Destroy the sovereignty of people born and domiciled within states of the Union who would otherwise be "stateless persons" and "foreign sovereigns" in relation to the federal government.
4. Cause a surrender of sovereign immunity pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605(b)(3) by involuntarily connecting sovereign individuals with commerce with the federal government in the guise of illegally enforced taxation.
5. Cause Christians to have to serve TWO masters, being the state and federal government, by having to pay tribute to TWO sovereigns. This is a violation of the following scriptures.

"No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."

5.6.13.3.4.3 Deliberately confusing CONSTITUTIONAL "non-resident aliens" (foreign nationals) with STATUTORY "nonresident aliens" (foreign nationals AND state nationals)

This section builds on the previous section to show how the confusion between "nonresident alien" and "alien" is exploited by financial institutions to illegally and FRAUDULENTLY make people into "taxpayers" and/or "U.S. persons" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). A frequent tactic employed especially by the I.R.S. and financial institutions is to falsely presume the following:

1. That CONSTITUTIONAL "non-resident aliens" are the same as STATUTORY "nonresident aliens". They are NOT.
  - 1.1. By Constitutional we mean those born or naturalized in a foreign COUNTRY.
  - 1.2. By STATUTORY "nonresident alien" we mean those defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B).
2. That "nonresident aliens" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) are a SUBSET of ALL "aliens" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
3. That because "nonresident aliens" under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) are a subset of "aliens" 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A), then an state citizen not domiciled on federal territory CANNOT possibly be a "nonresident alien" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B).

The above false presumptions are reinforced by the fact that both STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL "aliens" (8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3)) DO IN FACT imply the SAME thing, and that thing is a human being born or naturalized in a foreign country. People therefore try to mistakenly apply the same rules to the term "nonresident alien". These types of false presumptions are extremely damaging to your constitutional rights and the purpose of making them, in fact, is to DESTROY your rights. Most of the time, such presumptions go unnoticed by the average American, which is why they are so frequently employed by covetous and crafty lawyers in the government who want to STEAL from you by deceiving you.

In the legal field CONTEXT is everything. There are two main contexts for legal "terms":

1. Statutory.
2. Constitutional.

These two contexts are completely different and oftentimes mutually exclusive and have a profound effect on the meaning of the citizenship terms used in federal law and more importantly, in the Internal Revenue Code itself. This is especially true with geographic terms such as "citizen", "national", "resident", and "alien", "United States", etc.

Those opening financial accounts are frequently victimized by such DELIBERATELY false presumptions and must be especially sensitive to them. The best place to start in learning about this deception is to read the following memorandum on this website:

Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The best way to deal with this sort of malicious presumptions by ignorant financial institutions is to:

1. Show them the definitions of "State" and "United States" found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and that CONSTITUTIONAL states are NOT listed and therefore purposefully excluded.

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, 'a definition which declares what a term 'means' . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary." [Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

2. Ask them for a definition of "United States" in the Internal Revenue Code that EXPRESSLY includes the GEOGRAPHICAL states of the Union. This will reinforce that the CONSTITUTIONAL "United States****" (states of the Union) is NOT the same as the STATUTORY "United States**" (federal territory).
3. Ask them for proof that there are any Internal Revenue Districts within the state you are in. Absent such proof, the IRS is limited to the only remaining Internal Revenue District in the District of Columbia per 26 U.S.C. §7601.
4. Show them the IRS Form 1040NR, which lists "U.S. nationals" as being "nonresident aliens". Then show that these people identified in 8 U.S.C. §1408 and 8 U.S.C. §1452 are NOT "aliens" as defined in either 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(3) or 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(a)(A). This will prove to them that "aliens" are NOT the ONLY thing included in the term "nonresident alien".
5. Show them the definition of the term "person" found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343 and ask them to prove that you are included in the definition. And if you aren't included, then you are PURPOSEFULLY EXCLUDED and therefore neither an "individual" nor a "person". Explain to them that both of these things are PUBLIC OFFICERS in the government engaged in the "trade or business" franchise (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) as an instrumentality and agent of the national government.
6. Explain that it is a CRIME to impersonate a public officer under 18 U.S.C. §912 and that all "persons" are public officers. Explain that for them to TREAT you as a "person" or "individual" and therefore a public officer is such a crime, and that the only people who can use government numbers (which are government PUBLIC property) are such officers. The reason is that the ability to regulate PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is repugnant to the constitution as held by the U.S. Supreme Court.

One of our members who has studied the citizenship issue carefully and was attempting to document how this deception is perpetrated by financial institutions against those opening financial account crafted a diagram to simply explaining it to bank personnel. This member also approached a retired justice of the none other than the United States Supreme Court and had it reviewed by this justice for accuracy. The result of the review was that the justice indicated that it was entirely correct, but that few people understand or can explain why. Below is the diagram for your edification. The member also asked that their identity be protected, so please don't ask us either who this member is or the name of the supreme court justice, because we are not allowed to tell you.

1 Figure 5-7: Comparison of Nationality with Domicile

HOW FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS DECEIVE AND ENSLAVE THEIR CUSTOMERS:

When you go to the bank and try to claim your true and correct tax status of "nonresident alien", the bank is going to demand a passport. They are confusing NATIONALITY/POLITICAL STATUS with DOMICILE/CIVIL STATUS. The problem is that the "U.S.A." is not an available "selection" in their "drop-down" list of countries. This errant construction of the bank Customer Identification Program (CIP) has the practical effect of forcing Americans into a "United States person" tax status—a status that is 100% subject to governmental mandates. You are not being controlled at the point of a gun- rather, you are being controlled financially through a scheme of legislation designed to introduce precisely this type of misunderstanding. Financial institutions are unknowingly doing the "dirty work" for the government – driving a tax status which mandates participation in Social Security, Medicare, and the new Affordable Health Care Act. These programs are 100% voluntary, thus they are constitutional. The "nonresident alien" tax status is your remedy and protection from certain governmental mandates, but some financial institutions are blocking it.

5.6.13.3.4.4 How “non-resident non-persons” are illegally compelled to become “individuals” and therefore public officers

We already know that a “non-resident non-person” cannot have a civil STATUTORY status under the laws of the jurisdiction to which he/she/it is a “non-resident non-person”. Such civil statuses include “individual”, “person”, “resident”, “taxpayer”, etc. There is one exception to this rule, which is the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1601-1611, in which the non-resident is “purposefully availing themselves” of commerce with a PROTECTED STATUTORY “person” of that jurisdiction, which “person” HAS NOT waived their right to said protection as a result of said commerce. This exception is also called the “Minimum Contacts Doctrine” by the U.S. Supreme Court in International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945).

1. How does a “non-resident non-person” involuntarily become a STATUTORY “individual” or “person” against their consent? The answer is that they CAN'T without violating their constitutional rights and committing identity theft.
2. Can they become a COMMON LAW “person” or “individual” against their consent WITHOUT becoming a STATUTORY “person” or “individual”? The answer is YES.
3. Can the TWO parties to the commerce that gives rise to said jurisdiction literally contract the government out of their relationship by contractually WAIVING the STATUTORY protection of the government and insisting ONLY upon COMMON LAW protection? The answer is YES.

The mechanism by which Item 1 above is accomplished essentially is fraud and duress. The government essentially deceives the “non-resident non-persons” into becoming a “nonresident alien INDIVIDUAL” subject to federal jurisdiction by a combination of word games with definitions and compelled use of identifying numbers. Here is how it works:

1. Define the phrase “nonresident alien” ONLY in the context of “nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B), thus making them synonymous. This definition, by the way, describes what a “nonresident alien” IS NOT, but never describes what it IS. The reason they do this is because they can't define things they have no jurisdiction over!
2. Add the word “individual” to the term “nonresident alien” and to define an “individual” as a person subject to federal jurisdiction and engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.
3. Compel nonresidents to procure an INDIVIDUAL Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN) as a precondition of opening a bank account or conducting a particular business transaction. ITINs are described in IRS Publication 1915 and 26 U.S.C. §6109. This is an act of criminal identity theft, because it converts your identity against your consent to that of a “taxpayer”. It also violates the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.
4. Compel nonresidents to fill out an IRS Form W-9 as a precondition of opening a bank account or conducting a particular business transaction. This is an act of criminal identity theft, because it converts your identity against your consent to that of a “taxpayer”. It also violates the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.

There are two types of “nonresidents”:

1. “Nonresident alien individuals”. These persons are described as subject to federal law and having a requirement to file a tax return found in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(b).
2. “Non-resident non-persons”. These entities are not “individuals” and therefore not “persons” subject to any provision of federal law.

One cannot be an "individual" without also being a "person", pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(c). One can also be a "nonresident" without being a "nonresident alien individual" and this is the only status that is truly sovereign and foreign in respect to federal jurisdiction. The only way you are going to be free and sovereign is to have a status that is not completely defined in the I.R.C., which is private law and a franchise agreement relating only to statutory franchisees called "taxpayers", "persons", or "individuals". If you are not a franchisee called a "taxpayer", "individual", or "person" and are therefore not subject to the franchise agreement, then it cannot describe you or impose any duty upon you.

"Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, and elected officials of the Federal Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Nationals not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law. With them[non-taxpayers] Congress does not assume to deal and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of federal revenue laws."
[Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) defines a "nonresident alien" as an "individual" and as a person who is neither a citizen or a resident. The title of the section, however, indicates "nonresident alien" and not "nonresident alien individual".

26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) Nonresident alien

An individual is a nonresident alien if such individual is neither a citizen of the United States nor a resident of the United States (within the meaning of subparagraph (A)).

They very conveniently don't address those who are not "individuals" because they are "non-resident non-persons" and yet who also meet the criteria of being "neither a citizen nor resident of the United States**". They also don't expressly include in the definition the MANY additional types of entities listed in IRS Form W-8BEN Block 3, such as:

1. Individual.
2. Corporation.
3. Disregarded entity.
4. Partnership.
5. Simple trust.
6. Grantor trust.
7. Complex trust
8. Estate.
9. Government.
10. International organization
11. Central bank of issue
12. Tax-exempt organization.
13. Private foundation.

None of the above entities would be STATUTORY "nonresident aliens" or "persons" or "individuals" or "taxpayers" WITHOUT EITHER:

1. Serving in a public office BEFORE they apply for or use a government issued identification number. They can't lawfully possess or use such property WITHOUT being a public officer.
2. Engaging in commerce as a foreigner with a STATUTORY protected "person".

This "individual" scam is also found on the IRS Form W-8BEN, which only offers "Individual" as an option for those who are human beings and does not offer simply "Transient foreigner", or "Union State Citizen", all of whom would NOT be subject to the I.R.C. We prove this in the following article:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

If you want to avoid labeling yourself as a "individual" who is therefore a "person" subject to the I.R.C. and a "taxpayer", you will need to use an Amended IRS Form W-8BEN or modify the form yourself. The AMENDED version of the form is available in the article above. The two options it adds are "Transient foreigner" and "non-resident non-person" to block 3 of the form.

This section also brings up a bigger issue that relates to domicile. If you are a “nonresident” because you do not have a domicile within a jurisdiction, then you aren’t subject to the civil laws of that jurisdiction unless you engage in commerce with that jurisdiction and therefore surrender sovereign immunity pursuant to the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605.

In International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945), the Supreme Court held that a court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with due process only if he or she has "certain minimum contacts" with the relevant forum "such that the maintenance of the suit does not offend 'traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.' " Id. at 316 (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457, 463 (1940)). Unless a defendant's contacts with a forum are so substantial, continuous, and systematic that the defendant can be deemed to be "present" in that forum for all purposes, a forum may exercise only "specific" jurisdiction - that is, jurisdiction based on the relationship between the defendant's forum contacts and the plaintiff's claim.

In this circuit, we analyze specific jurisdiction according to a three-prong test:

- (1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;
- (2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities; and
- (3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

We have sometimes referred to it, in shorthand fashion, as the "purposeful availment" prong. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d. at 802. Despite its label, this prong includes both purposeful availment and purposeful direction. It may be satisfied by purposeful availment of the privilege of doing business in the forum; by purposeful direction of activities at the forum; or by some combination thereof.*

A “nonresident alien” becomes a “nonresident alien individual” and thereby makes an “election” to be treated as a “person” and therefore an “individual” and a “resident alien” at the point that they engage in commerce with the United States government by participating in the “trade or business” franchise as a public officer in the U.S. government.

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

*A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

Without said participation, they are not an “individual” and retain their sovereign and “foreign” status. Only at that point when they waive sovereign immunity can they be subject to the laws of the sovereignty, a “resident” (alien), and a “person” subject to the civil law of that sovereign. If you refuse to engage in the commerce, which Black’s Law Dictionary defines as “intercourse”, with what the Bible refers to as “the Beast”, which is the government, you retain your sovereignty and sovereign immunity and cannot be described as an “Individual” or a “person” subject to the I.R.C.

“Commerce. . . . Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on. . . .”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

The specific “commerce” and fornication which causes the surrender of sovereign immunity to “the beast” is the “trade or business” franchise, which we also call the “socialism franchise”.

5.6.13.3.4.5 Obfuscation of the word "citizen" by the U.S. Supreme Court to make POLITICAL and CIVIL citizens FRAUDULENTLY appear equivalent<sup>271</sup>

The U.S. Supreme Court has participated in the illegal extension of the federal income tax to EXTRATERRITORIAL jurisdictions both abroad and within states of the Union. In the following subsections, we discuss their devious tactics for implementing this FRAUD.

1.1.1.3 Extraterritorial Tax Jurisdiction of the National Government

We wish to elaborate on the case of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924) as it relates to extraterritorial taxing jurisdiction. That case is important because it is frequently cited as authority by federal courts as the origin of their extraterritorial jurisdiction to tax. Ordinarily, and especially in the case of states of the Union, domicile within that state by the state "citizen" is the determining factor as to whether an income tax is owed to the state by that citizen:

"domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 485]

"Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."
[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

We also establish the connection between domicile and tax liability in the following article.

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

Only in the case of the national government for statutory but not constitutional "U.S. citizens" abroad are factors OTHER than domicile even relevant, as pointed out in Cook v. Tait. What "OTHER" matters might those be? Well, in the case of Cook, the thing taxed is a voluntary franchise, and that status of being a statutory but not constitutional "U.S. citizen" abroad exercising what the courts call "privileges and immunities" of the national (rather than FEDERAL) government is the franchise. Note the language in Cook v. Tait, which attempted to connect the American located and domiciled "abroad" in Mexico with receipt of a government "benefit" and therefore excise taxable "privilege" and franchise/contract.

"We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once in United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered at its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was pointed out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no ground for constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of powers which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty.'"

"The contention was rejected that a citizen's property without the limits of the United States derives no benefit from the United States. The contention, it was said, came from the confusion of thought in 'mistaking the scope and extent of the sovereign power of the United States as a nation and its relations to its citizens and their relation to it.' And that power in its scope and extent, it was decided, is based on the presumption that government by its very nature benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and that opposition to it holds on to citizenship while it 'belittles and destroys its advantages and blessings by denying the possession by government of an essential power required to make citizenship completely beneficial.' In other words, the principle was declared that the government, by its very nature, benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and

1 therefore has the power to make the benefit complete. Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to
 2 tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the
 3 United States, nor was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out
 4 of the United States, but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him
 5 as citizen. The consequence of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the
 6 property from which his income is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the
 7 government having power to impose the tax.”
 8 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

9 So the key thing to note about the above is that the tax liability attaches to the STATUS of BEING or REPRESENTING a
 10 statutory but not constitutional “citizen of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code, and NOT to domicile of the 11 human being, based on the above case.

12 “Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the
 13 situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made
 14 dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as
 15 citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is
 16 that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may
 17 have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax.”
 18 [Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

19 There are only two ways to reach a nonresident party through the civil law: Domicile and contract.<sup>272</sup>

20 “All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be
 21 carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made
 22 with [private] individuals.”
 23 [Osborn v. Bank of U.S., 22 U.S. 738 (1824)]

24 The voluntary choice of electing to be treated as a statutory “U.S. citizen” under the Internal Revenue Code, in turn, can only
 25 be a franchise contract/agreement that implements a “public office” in the U.S. government. The office, in turn, is chattel
 26 property of the U.S. Government that the creator of the franchise can regulate or tax ANYWHERE under the franchise
 27 “protection” contract. All rights that attach to STATUS are, in fact, franchises, and the Cook case is no exception. This, in 28 fact, is why falsely claiming to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” is a crime under 18 U.S.C. §911: Because the franchise status is 29 a creation of and therefore “property” of the national government and abuse of said property or the public rights and “benefits”
 30 that attach to it is a crime.

31 The government can only tax what it creates, and it created the PUBLIC OFFICE but not the OFFICER filling the office.
 32 The “Taxpayer Identification Number” functions as a de facto “license” to exercise the privilege/franchise. A license is 33 permission from the state to do that which is otherwise illegal. You can’t license something unless it is FIRST ILLEGAL to 34 perform WITHOUT a license, so they had to make it illegal to claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” per 18 U.S.C. §911
 35 before they could license it and tax it. Hence:

- 36 1. The statutory “taxpayer” (self-proclaimed statutory “U.S. citizen”) at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office in the
- 37 U.S. Government.
- 38 2. The U.S. government, in turn, is a federal corporation.
- 39 3. All federal corporations are domiciled in the District of Columbia per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
- 40 4. The term “citizen of the United States**” is a synonym for the “taxpayer” status and also a public office in the
- 41 corporation.
- 42 5. All corporations are franchises and all those serving in offices within the corporation are acting in a representative
- 43 capacity as “officers of a corporation” and therefore “persons” as statutorily defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26
- 44 U.S.C. §7343.
- 45 6. The human being is:
  - 46 6.1. Filling the public office of statutory “taxpayer” and statutory self-proclaimed “citizen of the United States**”
  - 47 6.2. Representing the federal corporation as an officers of said corporation.
  - 48 6.3. Representing the office, which is the real statutory “person” defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343
  - 49 because acting as a public officer.
  - 50 6.4. Surety for public office he fills but he/she is NOT the office.
  - 51 6.5. Availing himself of the “benefits” and “protections” and “privileges” of a federal franchise.

<sup>272</sup> See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.2.4: The Two Sources of Federal Civil Jurisdiction: “Domicile” and “Contract”;
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>.

7. Because the human being consented to act as an officer and accept the franchise “benefits” of the public office, he must ALSO accept all the statutory franchise obligations that GO with the office. You can’t take the “goodies” of the office and refuse to also accept the obligations that go with those goodies. Here is how the California Civil Code describes this:

California Civil Code
 DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
 PART 2. CONTRACTS
 TITLE 1. NATURE OF A CONTRACT
 CHAPTER 3. CONSENT

1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

“Cujus est commodum ejus debet esse incommodum.
 He who receives the benefit should also bear the disadvantage.

8. Invoking the franchise status causes a waiver of sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2). This waiver of sovereign immunity is also called “purposeful availment” by the courts, which simply means that you consensually and purposefully directed your activities towards instigating commerce with the Beast (government, Rev. 19:19). Hence by voluntarily calling yourself a statutory “U.S. citizen”, you are fornicating with the Beast and you are among the “seas of people nations and tongues” who are part of Babylon the Great Harlot mentioned in the Bible Book of Revelations. Black’s Law Dictionary, in fact, defines “commerce” as “intercourse”. This makes all those who engage in such commerce with government instead of God into fornicators and harlots.

“Commerce. ...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on...”

[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 269]

9. Domicile is still important even within the Internal Revenue Code. The domicile at issue in the I.R.C., however, is the domicile of the OFFICE and NOT the PERSON FILLING said office. The OFFICE can have a different domicile than the OFFICER. The statutory “taxpayer” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office. The human being filling the office is NOT the “taxpayer”, but a PARTNER with the office and surety for the office. That partnership is mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343.

1.1.1.4 International Terrorism and legislating from the bench by Ex-President Taft and the U.S. Supreme Court in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)

The severe problems with the U.S. Supreme Court’s interpretation in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924) are that:

1. They say that state taxing authority stops at the state’s borders because it collides with adjacent states, and yet they don’t apply the same extraterritorial limitation upon United States taxing jurisdiction, even though it:
  - 1.1. Similarly collides with and interferes with neighboring countries
  - 1.2. Violates the sovereignty and EQUALITY of adjacent nations under the law of nations.
2. Americans domiciled abroad ought to be able to decide when or if they want to be protected by the United States government while abroad and that method ought to be DIRECT and explicit, by expressly asking in writing to be protected and receiving a BILL for the cost of the protection. Instead, based on the outcome in Cook, the Supreme Court made the request for protection and INDIRECT RUSE by associating it with the voluntary choice of calling oneself a statutory “U.S. citizen” under national law. This caused the commission of a crime under current law and additional confusion because:

- 1 2.1. 18 U.S.C. §911 makes it a crime to claim to be a statutory "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
 2 2.2. Under current law, you cannot be a statutory "citizen" without a domicile in a place and you can only have a
 3 domicile in one place at a time. Cook had a domicile in Mexico and therefore was a statutory "resident" or 4 "citizen" of Mexico AND NOWHERE ELSE. You can only be a statutory "citizen" in one place at a time
 5 because you can only have a DOMICILE in one place at a time. Therefore, Cook COULD NOT be a statutory 6 "citizen of the "United States**" at the same time and was LYING to claim that he was.
- 7 3. If an American domiciled abroad doesn't want to be protected and says so in writing, they shouldn't be forced to be 8 protected or to pay for said protection through "taxation".
- 9 4. The U.S. government cannot and should not have the right to FORCE you to both be protected and to pay for such 10 protection, because that is THEFT and SLAVERY, and especially if you regard their protection as an injury or a 11 "protection racket".
- 12 5. YOU and not THEY should have the right to define whether what they offer constitutes "PROTECTION" because 13 YOU are the "customer" for protection services and the customer is ALWAYS right. You can't be sovereign if they 14 can define their mere existence as "protection" or a so-called "benefit", force you to pay for that "protection" or 15 "benefit", and charge whatever they want for said protection. After all, they could injure you and as long as they are the 16 only ones who can define words in a dispute, then they can call it a "benefit" and even charge you for it!

17 "Society in every state is a blessing, but government even in its best state is but a necessary evil; in its worst state
 18 an intolerable one; for when we suffer, or are exposed to the same miseries by a government, which we might 19 expect in a country without government, our calamity is heightened by reflecting that we furnish the means by 20 which we suffer."

21 [Thomas Paine, "Common Sense" Feb 1776]

- 22 6. If the government is going to enforce their right to force you to accept their "protection" and/or franchise "benefits" 23 and pay for them, then by doing so they are:
- 24 6.1. "Purposefully availing themselves" of commerce within your life and your private jurisdiction.
 25 6.2. Conferring upon you the same EQUAL right to tax THEM and regulate THEM that they claim they have the right
 26 to do to you under the concept of equal rights and equal protection.
 27 6.3. Conferring upon you the right to decide how much YOU get to charge THEM for invading your life, stealing
 28 your resources, time, and property, and enslaving you.

29 The above are an unavoidable consequence of the requirements of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C.
 30 Chapter 97. That act applies equally to ALL governments, not just to foreign governments, under the concept of equal
 31 protection. YOU are your own "government" for your own "person", family, and property. According to the U.S.
 32 Supreme Court, ALL the power of the U.S. government is delegated to them from YOU and "We the People".
 33 Therefore, whatever rights they claim you must ALSO have, including the right to enforce YOUR franchises against 34 them without THEIR consent. Hence, the same rules they apply to you HAVE to apply to them or they are nothing but 35 terrorists and extortionists. The U.S. Supreme Court affirmed that when they tax nonresidents without their consent, it
 36 is more akin to crime and extortion than a lawful government function.

37 "The power of taxation, indispensable to the existence of every civilized government, is exercised upon the 38 assumption of an equivalent rendered to the taxpayer in the protection of his person and property, in adding
 39 to the value of such property, or in the creation and maintenance of public conveniences in which he shares --
 40 such, for instance, as roads, bridges, sidewalks, pavements, and schools for the education of his children. If the
 41 taxing power be in no position to render these services, or otherwise to benefit the person or property taxed,
 42 and such property be wholly within the taxing power of another state, to which it may be said to owe an
 43 allegiance, and to which it looks for protection, the taxation of such property within the domicile of the owner
 44 partakes rather of the nature of an extortion than a tax, and has been repeatedly held by this Court to be beyond
 45 the power of the legislature, and a taking of property without due process of law. Railroad Company v. Jackson,
 46 7 Wall. 262; State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300; Tappan v. Merchants' National Bank, 19 Wall. 490,

 48 it was held, after full consideration, that the taking of private property [199 U.S. 203] without compensation was 49 a denial of due process within the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U.S. 97, 102;

 51 [Union Refrigerator Transit Company v. Kentucky, 199 U.S. 194 (1905)]

52 Of course, the U.S. Supreme Court in Cook v. Tait DID NOT address any of the problems or "cognitive dissonance"
 53 deliberately created above by their hypocritical double standard and self-serving word games, and if they had reconciled the 54 problems described, they would have had to expose the FALSE, injurious, and prejudicial presumptions they were making
 55 and the deliberate conflict of law and logic those presumptions created, and thereby reconcile them.

1 As you will eventually learn, most cases in federal court essentially boil down to a criminal conspiracy by the judge and the
2 government prosecutor to "hide their presumptions" and "hide the consent of the governed" in order to advantage the
3 government and conceal or protect their criminal conspiracy to steal from you and enslave you. This game is done by quoting
4 words out of context, confusing the statutory and constitutional contexts, and abusing "words of art" to deceive and presume
5 in a way that "benefits" them RATHER than the people they are supposed to be protecting. Their "presumptions" serve as
6 the equivalent of religious faith, and the false god they worship in their religion is SATAN himself and the money and power
7 he tempts them with. They know that:

- 8 1. They can't govern you civilly without your consent as the Declaration of Independence requires.
- 9 2. The statutory "person", "individual", "citizen", "resident", and "inhabitant" they civilly govern is created by your 10 consent.
- 11 3. When you call them on it and say you aren't a "person", "citizen", "individual", or "resident" under the civil law
12 because you never consented to be governed, and instead are a nonresident, then instead of proving your consent to be 13 governed as the Declaration of Independence requires, the criminals on the bench call you frivolous to cover up their 14 FRAUD and THEFT of your property.

15 Likewise, corrupt governments frequently try to hide the prejudicial and injurious presumptions they are making because 16 having to justify and defend them would expose the cognitive conflicts, irrationality, and deception in their reasoning. They
17 know that all presumptions that prejudice rights protected by the Constitution are a violation of due process of law and render 18 a void judgment so they try to hide them. For instance, in the Cook case, the presumption the Supreme Court made was that
19 the term "citizen of the United States" made by Plaintiff Cook meant a STATUTORY citizen pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401,
20 and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen. However, the only thing the Plaintiff reasonably could have been was a
21 CONSTITUTIONAL and NOT STATUTORY citizen by virtue of being domiciled abroad. It is a fact that you can only have 22 a domicile in one place at a time, that your statutory status as a "citizen" comes from that choice of domicile, and that you
23 can therefore only be a statutory "citizen" of ONE place at a time. The Plaintiff in Cook was a citizen or resident of Mexico
24 and NOT of the statutory "United States*" (federal territory). Hence, he was not a "taxpayer" because not the statutory
25 "citizen of the United States" that they fraudulently acquiesced to allow him to claim that he was. Allowing him to claim
26 that status was FRAUD, but because it padded their pockets they tolerated it and went along with it, and used it to deceive
27 even more people with a vague ruling describing their ruse.

28 If the Supreme Court had exposed all of their presumptions in the Cook case and were honest, they would have held that:

- 29 1. Cook was NOT a statutory "citizen of the United States*" under the federal revenue laws at that time. The Internal 30 Revenue Code was not in existence at that time and wasn't introduced until 1939.
- 31 2. Cook could not truthfully claim to be a statutory "citizen of the United States" if he was domiciled in Mexico as he 32 claimed and as they accepted. He didn't have a domicile on federal territory called the "United States" therefore his 33 claim that he was such a statutory "citizen" was FRAUD that they could not condone, even if it profited them.
34 Compare Newman-Green v. Alfonso Larrain, 490 U.S. 826 \(1989\), in which a foreign domiciled American was 35 declared "stateless" and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the federal courts.
- 36 3. Cook was a nonresident alien and "stateless person" in relation to federal jurisdiction by virtue of his foreign domicile
37 in Mexico. Hence, he was beyond the reach of the federal courts:

38 The tax which is sustained is, in my judgment, a tax upon the income of non-resident aliens and nothing else.

39 [ . . . ]

40 The government thus lays a tax, through the instrumentality of the company [PUBLIC
41 OFFICE/WITHHOLDING AGENT], upon the income of a non-resident alien over whom it cannot justly 42 exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly lay any burden.

43 [ . . . ]

44 The power of the United States to tax is limited to persons, property, and business within their jurisdiction, as 45 much as that of a State is limited to the same subjects within its jurisdiction. State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds,
46 15 Wall. 300."

47 "A personal tax," says the Supreme Court of New Jersey, "is the burden imposed by government on its own
48 citizens for the benefits which that government affords by its protection and its laws, and any government
49 which should attempt to impose such a tax on citizens of other States would justly incur the rebuke of the 50 intelligent sentiment of the civilized world." State v. Ross, 23 N.J.L. 517, 521.

In imposing a tax, says Mr. Chief Justice Marshall, the legislature acts upon its constituents. "All subjects," he adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition *334 may almost be pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

There are limitations upon the powers of all governments, without any express designation of them in their organic law; limitations which inhere in their very nature and structure, and this is one of them, — that no rightful authority can be exercised by them over alien subjects, or citizens resident abroad or over their property there situated.

[United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

4. As a private human being, Cook did not lawfully occupy a public office in the federal government as that term is legally defined. Hence, he could not lawfully be a statutory "individual" or "person". All "persons" and "individuals" within the Internal Revenue Code are public offices and/or instrumentalities of the national and not state government. Hence, Cook was a "non-resident NON-person". The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the constitution. Hence, only activities of public officers and agents may be regulated or taxed without violating the USA Constitution. Any other approach results in slavery and involuntary servitude. See the following for proof that all statutory "taxpayers" are public officers engaged in the "trade or business" and public officer franchise defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26):

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a "Public Officer" for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

5. Since all public offices must be executed in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, and since Cook wasn't in the District of Columbia, then the I.R.C. could not be used to CREATE that public office and the "taxpayer" status that attaches to it in Mexico where he was.

In order to sidestep the SIGNFICANT issues raised by the above considerations, the U.S. Supreme Court:

1. Made their ruling far too ambiguous and short.
2. Refused to address:
  - 2.1. All the implications described above and generated more rather than less confusion.
  - 2.2. The holding in United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882) above.
3. Cited NO statutory authority or legal authority for their decision to create the statutory "citizen of the United States**" franchise that exists INDEPENDENT of the domicile of a domestic national. It was created entirely by judicial fiat and "legislating from the bench". The reason they had to do this is that Congress cannot write law that operates extraterritorially outside the country without the party who is subject to it consenting to it or to a status under it.
4. The entire exercise was based on prejudicial "presumption" that injured the rights and property of Cook, who was the party they allegedly were "protecting".
  - 4.1. The injury to Cook's rights and property came by having to pay a tax based on a civil law statute that did not and could not apply in a foreign country.
  - 4.2. The only rationale given by the U.S. Supreme Court was their unsubstantiated "presumption" that because they were a "government" or part of a government, then their very EXISTENCE as a government was a so-called "benefit", even though they never proved with evidence that there was any "benefit" or protection directly to Cook in that case. In fact, he was INJURED by having to pay the tax, rather than protected, and got NOTHING in return for it.
  - 4.3. They made this presumption in SPITE of the fact that the very same court said that all presumptions that prejudice or injure rights are unconstitutional. The only defense they could rationally have for inflicting such an injury is that the Bill of Rights does NOT protect Americans in foreign countries and only operates within states of the Union. Hence, when not restrained by the Constitution, its' OK to STEAL from anyone without any statutory authority using nothing but judicial fiat:

"The power to create presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional [or territorial] restrictions,"
 [New York Times v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 (1964)]

5. Left everyone speculating and afraid about what it meant, and how someone could owe a tax without a domicile in the statutory "United States**" (federal territory), even though in every other case domicile is the only reason that people owe an income tax.
6. Used the fear and speculation and presumption that uncertainty creates and compels to force people to believe things that are simply not supportable by evidence nor true about tax liability, such as that EVERYONE IN THE WORLD,

1 regardless of where they physically are or where they are domiciled, owe a tax to the place of their birth, if that place
2 of birth is the United States of America.

3 The above factors, when combined, amount to acts of INTERNATIONAL TERRORISM against nonresident parties.
4 Terrorists, after all, engage primarily in kidnapping and extortion. Their self-serving presumptions about your status and
5 their abuse of “words of art”<sup>273</sup> are the means of kidnapping you without your consent or knowledge, and the result of the 6 kidnapping is that they get to treat you as a “virtual resident” of what Mark Twain calls “the District of Criminals” who has
7 to bend over for King Congress on a daily basis as a compelled public officer of the national government. And they have the 8 GALL to call this kind of abuse a “benefit” and charge you for it! If you want to know how these international terrorists
9 describe THEMSELVES, see:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic: Terrorism
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/terrorism.htm>

10 The judicial fiat that created this extraterritorial PLUNDER, ahem, I mean “tax” is completely hypocritical, because the 11 United States, even to this day, is the ONLY major industrialized country that in fact invokes an income tax on “citizens of 12 the United States**” ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD, and thus interferes with the EQUAL taxing powers of other countries
13 and causes Americans to falsely believe that they are subject to DOUBLE taxation of their foreign earnings.

14 What a SCAM these shysters pulled with this ruling. And why did they do it? Because the Federal Reserve printing presses
15 were running full speed starting in 1913, and yet paper money was still redeemable in gold, so they had to have a way to sop
16 up all the excess currency they were printing. And WHO issued this ruling? None other than the person responsible for:

- 17 1. Introducing the Sixteenth Amendment, which was the Income Tax Amendment and getting it fraudulently ratified in 18 1913.
- 19 2. Starting the Federal Reserve in 1913.

20 President William Howard Taft, the only President of the United States to ever serve as a U.S. Supreme Court Justice,
21 assumed the role of Chief Justice in 1921, and this landmark ruling of Cook v. Tait was his method to expand the 22 implementation of that tax to have worldwide scope. It wouldn't surprise us if Cook was an insider government minion
23 commissioned secretly to undertake this critical case. He probably even setup this case to make sure it would come before
24 him and secretly HIRED Cook to bring it all the way up to the Supreme Court on his watch. That's how DEVIOUS these 25 bastards are. Is it any wonder that in 1929, Congress handed Taft a marble palace to conduct his job in? That's right: The 26 current U.S. Supreme Court building and marble palace of the civil religion of socialism was authorized during his tenure as 27 a reward for his monumental exploits as both a President of the United States and a U.S. Supreme Court justice.<sup>274</sup> They 28 didn't finish that palace until 1933, shortly after he died on March 30, 1930. That was his prize for creating a scam of 29 worldwide scope by:

- 30 1. Learning the tax ropes as a collector of internal revenue from 1882-1884. See:

Biography of William Howard Taft, SEDM Exhibit 11.003
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

- 31 2. Being elected President of the United States in 1909.
- 32 3. Introducing the current Sixteenth Amendment in 1909. This was one of his first official acts as President. See:

Congressional Record, June 16, 1909, pp. 3344-3345, SEDM Exhibit #02.001
<http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm>

- 33 4. Getting the Sixteenth Amendment fraudulently ratified in 1913 after he was voted out of office but while he still 34 occupied said office as a lame duck President.
- 35 5. Passing the Federal Reserve Act in 1913 during the Christmas recess when only five congressmen were present to vote.
- 36 6. Being appointed U.S. Supreme Court Justice in 1921.
- 37 7. Giving the new income tax he created a worldwide scope with the Cook v. Tait ruling.
- 38 8. Introducing and passing the Writ of Certiorari Act of 1925, in which Congress consented to allow the U.S. Supreme 39 Court to turn the appeal process into a franchise in which they had the discretion NOT to rule on cases before them and

<sup>274</sup> Maybe we should have used the phrase “heavy duty” instead of “monumental”. After all, President William Howard Taft was literally the fattest person to ever serve as president, weighing in at over 300 pounds. Maybe the phrase “It ain't over till the fat lady sings” should be changed to “It ain't over till the fat man talks.”

1 thereby INTERFERE with the rights of the litigants. The cases they would then refuse to rule on would be those in
2 which income tax laws were unlawfully enforced. Thus, they denied justice to the people who were abused by the 3 unlawful enforcement of the revenue laws and FRAUDS that protect it.

4 It also shouldn't surprise you to learn that Taft was the ONLY president to ALSO serve as a collector of internal revenue.
5 Even as President and later as a Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, he apparently continued in that role. Here is what
6 Wikipedia says on this subject:

21 The bottom line is that any entity that can FORCE you to accept protection you don't want, call it a "benefit" even though
22 you call it an injury and a crime, and force you to pay for it is a protection racket and a mafia, not a government. And such
23 crooks will always resort to smoke and mirrors like that of Taft above to steal from you to subsidize their protection racket.

24 Prior to implementing the Taft international terrorism SCAM, a dissenting opinion of the same U.S. Supreme Court earlier
25 described it for what it is, and the court was naturally completely silent in opposing the objections made, and therefore
26 AGREED to ALL OF THEM under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(b)(6). The issue was withholding of a tax upon English
27 citizens by an American company situated abroad. The English citizens were aliens in relation to both the United States and 28 the corporation doing the withholding, and therefore nonresident aliens. Field basically said that withholding on them was 29 theft and violated the law of nations. You aren't surprised that Taft very conveniently omitted to address the issues raised in 30 this dissenting opinion, are you? He was a THIEF, a LIAR, and a charlatan intent on SUPPRESSING the truth and effectively
31 legislating from the bench INTERNATIONALLY, which is a thing that not even Congress can do. Here is the text of that 32 marvelous dissenting opinion by Justice Field:

1 I am not able to agree with the majority of the court in the decision of this case. The tax which is sustained is, in
 2 my judgment, a tax upon the income of non-resident aliens and nothing else. The 122d section of the act of June
 3 30, 1864, c. 173, as amended by that of July 13, 1866, c. 184, subjects the interest on the bonds of the company
 4 to a tax of five per cent, *331 and authorizes the company to deduct it from the amount payable to the coupon-
 5 holder, whether he be a non-resident alien or a citizen of the United States. The company is thus made the agent
 6 of the government [PUBLIC OFFICER!] for the collection of the tax. It pays nothing itself; the tax is exacted
 7 from the creditor, the party who holds the coupons for interest. No collocation of words can change this fact.
 8 And so it was expressly adjudged with reference to a similar tax in the case of United States v. Railroad Company,
 9 reported in the 17th of Wallace. There a tax, under the same statute, was claimed upon the interest of bonds held
 10 by the city of Baltimore. And it was decided that the tax was upon the bondholder and not upon the corporation
 11 which had issued the bonds; that the corporation was only a convenient means of collecting it; and that no
 12 pecuniary burden was cast upon the corporation. This was the precise question upon which the decision of that 13 case turned.

14 A paragraph from the opinion of the court will show this beyond controversy. "It is not taxation," said the court,
 15 "that government should take from one the profits and gains of another. That is taxation which compels one
 16 to pay for the support of the government from his own gains and of his own property. In the cases we are 17 considering, the corporation parts not with a farthing of its own property. Whatever sum it pays to the 18 government is the property of another. Whether the tax is five per cent on the dividend or interest, or whether 19 it be fifty per cent, the corporation is neither richer nor poorer. Whatever it thus pays to the government, it by 20 law withholds from the creditor. If no tax exists, it pays seven per cent, or whatever be its rate of interest, to its 21 creditor in one unbroken sum. If there be a tax, it pays exactly the same sum to its creditor, less five per cent
 22 thereof, and this five per cent it pays to the government. The receivers may be two, or the receiver may be one,
 23 but the payer pays the same amount in either event. It is no pecuniary burden upon the corporation, and no
 24 taxation of the corporation. The burden falls on the creditor. He is the party taxed. In the case before us, this 25 question controls its decision. If the tax were upon the railroad, there is no defence; it must be paid. But we hold
 26 that the tax imposed by the 122d section is in substance and in law a tax upon the *332 income of the creditor
 27 or stockholder, and not a tax upon the corporation." See also Haight v. Railroad Company, 6 Wall. 15, and 28 Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 id. 262, 269.

29 The bonds, upon the interest of which the tax in this case was laid, are held in Europe, principally in England;
 30 they were negotiated there; the principal and interest are payable there; they are held by aliens there, and the 31 interest on them has always been paid there. The money which paid the interest was, until paid, the property of 32 the company; when it became the property of the bondholders it was outside of the jurisdiction of the United 33 States.

34 Where is the authority for this tax? It was said by counsel on the argument of the case — somewhat facetiously,
 35 I thought at the time — that Congress might impose a tax upon property anywhere in the world, and this court
 36 could not question the validity of the law, though the collection of the tax might be impossible, unless, perchance,
 37 the owner of the property should at some time visit this country or have means in it which could be reached. This
 38 court will, of course, never, in terms, announce or accept any such doctrine as this. And yet it is not perceived 39 wherein the substantial difference lies between that doctrine and the one which asserts a power to tax, in any 40 case, aliens who are beyond the limits of the country. The debts of the company, owing for interest, are not
 41 property of the company, although counsel contended they were, and would thus make the wealth of the country
 42 increase by the augmentation of the debts of its corporations. Debts being obligations of the debtors are the 43 property of the creditors, so far as they have any commercial value, and it is a misuse of terms to call them
 44 anything else; they accompany the creditors wherever the latter go; their situs is with the latter. I have supposed
 45 heretofore that this was common learning, requiring no argument for its support, being, in fact, a self-evident
 46 truth, a recognition of which followed its statement. Nor is this the less so because the interest may be called in 47 the statute a part of the gains and profits of the company. Words cannot change the fact, though they may mislead
 48 and bewilder. The thing remains through all disguises of terms. If the company makes no gains or profits on its 49 business and borrows the money to *333 meet its interest, though it be in the markets abroad, it is still required
 50 under the statute to withhold from it the amount of the taxes. If it pays the interest, though it be with funds which 51 were never in the United States, it must deduct the taxes. The government thus lays a tax, through the 52 instrumentality of the company [PUBLIC OFFICE/WITHHOLDING AGENT], upon the income of a non-
 53 resident alien over whom it cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly lay any burden.

54 The Chief Justice, in his opinion in this case, when affirming the judgment of the District Court, happily condensed
 55 the whole matter into a few words. "The tax," he says, "for which the suit was brought, was the tax upon the owner
 56 of the bond, and not upon the defendant. It was not a tax in the nature of a tax in rem upon the bond itself, but 57 upon the income of the owner of the bond, derived from that particular piece of property. The foreign owner of 58 these bonds was not in any respect subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, neither was this portion of his 59 income. His debtor was, and so was the money of his debtor; but the money of his debtor did not become a part 60 of his income until it was paid to him, and in this case the payment was outside of the United States, in accordance
